Paraphrased by Kenneth Taylor

The Bible in everyday language for everyone

'Dr. Kenneth Taylor has done for the whole Bible what Dr. J. B. Phillips did for the New Testament.'

BILLY GRAHAM says: 'In this book I have read the age-abiding truths of the Scriptures with renewed interest and inspiration, as though coming to me direct from God.'

CLIFF RICHARD says: 'It makes the Bible read like today's newspaper.'

This paraphrase of the complete Bible has been prepared not by a committee, as with other recent translations, but by one man, Dr. Kenneth Taylor. His work has been checked by Biblical scholars whose ability transcends precise translation - they also are able to evaluate accurately thought-by-thought paraphrasing.

From Wm. Tyndale's Prologue to the first printed English New Testament:

I have here translated, brethren and sisters most dear and tenderly beloved in Christ, the New Testament for your spiritual edifying, consolation and solace, exhortynge instantly and besechynge those that are better sene in the tongues than I, and that have higher gifts of grace to interpret the sense of Scripture, and meaning of the Spirit, than I, to consider and ponder my labor, and that with the spirit of meekness. And if they perceive in any places that I have not attained the very sense of the tongue, or meaning of the Scripture, or have not given the right English word, that they put to their hands to amend it, remembering that so is their duty to do. For we have not received the gifts of God for ourselves only, or for to hide them; but for to bestow them unto the honoring of God and Christ and edifying of the congregation, which is the body of Christ.

PREFACE

In this wonderful day of many new translations and revisions we can greet another new one with either dread or joy! Dread that "people will become confused" or joy that some will understand more perfectly what the Bible is talking about. We choose the way of joy! For each new presentation of God's Word will find its circle, large or small, of those to whom it will minister strength and blessing.

This book, though arriving late on the current translation scene, has been under way for many years. It has undergone several major manuscript revisions and has been under the careful scrutiny of a team of Greek and Hebrew experts to check content, and of English critics for style. Their many suggestions have been largely followed, though none of those consulted feels entirely satisfied with the present result. This is therefore a tentative edition. Further suggestions as to both renderings and style will be gladly considered as future printings are called for.

A word should be said here about paraphrases. What are they? To paraphrase is to say something in different words than the author used. It is a restatement of an author's thoughts, using different words than he did. This book is a paraphrase of the Old and New Testaments. Its purpose is to say as exactly as possible what the writers of the Scriptures meant, and to say it simply, expanding where necessary for a clear understanding by the modern reader.

The Bible writers often used idioms and patterns of thought that are hard for us to follow today. Frequently the thought sequence is fast-moving, leaving gaps for the reader to understand and fill in, or the thought jumps ahead or backs up to something said before (as one would do in conversation) without clearly stating the antecedent reference. Sometimes the result for us, with our present-day stress on careful sentence construction and sequential logic, is that we are left far behind.

Then too, the writers often have compressed enormous thoughts into single technical words that are full of meaning, but need expansion and amplification if we are to be sure of understanding what the author meant to include in such words as "justification," "righteousness," "redemption," "baptism for the dead," "elect," and "saints." Such amplification is permitted in a paraphrase but exceeds the responsibilities of a strict translation.

There are dangers in paraphrases, as well as values. For whenever the author's exact words are not translated from the original languages, there is a possibility that the translator, however honest, may be giving the English reader something that the original writer did not mean to say. This is because a paraphrase is guided not only by the translator's skill in simplifying but also by the clarity of his understanding of what the author meant and by his theology. For when the Greek or Hebrew is not clear, then the theology of the translator is his guide, along with his sense of logic, unless perchance the translation is allowed to stand without any clear meaning at all. The theological lodestar in this book has been a rigid evangelical position.

If this paraphrase helps to simplify the deep and often complex thoughts of the Word of God, and if it makes the Bible easier to understand and follow, deepening the Christian lives of its readers and making it easier for them to follow their Lord, then the book has achieved its goal.

GENESIS

<sup>3</sup> Then<sup>b</sup> God said, "Let there be light." And light appeared. <sup>4</sup> And God was pleased with it, and divided the light from the darkness. So he let it shine for awhile, and then there was darkness again. He called the light "daytime," and the darkness "nighttime." Together they formed the first day.<sup>c</sup>

<sup>9,10</sup> Then God said, "Let the water beneath the sky be gathered into oceans so that the dry land will emerge." And so it was. Then God named the dry land "earth," and the water "seas." And God was pleased. <sup>11,12</sup> And he said, "Let the earth burst forth with every sort of grass and seed-bearing plant, and fruit trees with seeds inside the fruit, so that these seeds will produce the kinds of plants and fruits they came from." And so it was, and God was pleased. <sup>13</sup> This all occurred on the third day.<sup>h</sup>

<sup>14,15</sup> Then God said, "Let there be bright lights in the sky to give light to the earth and to identify the day and the night; they shall bring about the seasons on the earth, and mark the days and years." And so it was. <sup>16</sup> For God made two huge lights, the sun and moon, to shine down upon the earth—the larger one, the sun, to preside over the day and the smaller one, the moon, to preside through the night; he also made the stars. <sup>17</sup> And God set them in the sky to light the earth, <sup>18</sup> and to preside over the day and night, and to divide the light from the darkness. And God was pleased. <sup>19</sup> This all happened on the fourth day.<sup>i</sup>

<sup>20</sup> Then God said, "Let the waters teem with fish and other life, and let the skies be filled with birds of every kind." <sup>21,22</sup> So God created great sea creatures, and every sort of fish and every kind of bird. And God looked at them with pleasure.

and blessed them all. "Multiply and stock the oceans," he told them, and to the birds he said, "Let your numbers increase. Fill the earth!"<sup>2</sup> That ended the fifth day.<sup>j</sup>

<sup>24</sup> And God said, "Let the earth bring forth every kind of animal—cattle and reptiles and wildlife of every kind." And so it was. <sup>25</sup> God made all sorts of wild animals and cattle and reptiles. And God was pleased with what he had done.

Like God did God make man;

Man and maid did he make them.

<sup>28</sup> And God blessed them and told them, "Multiply and fill the earth and subdue it; you are masters of the fish and birds and all the animals. <sup>29</sup> And look! I have given you the seed-bearing plants throughout the earth, and all the fruit trees for your food. <sup>30</sup> And I've given all the grass and plants to the animals and birds for their food." <sup>31</sup> Then God looked over all that he had made, and it was excellent in every way. This ended the sixth day.<sup>m</sup>

2 NOW AT LAST the heavens and earth were successfully completed, with all that they contained. <sup>2</sup> So on the seventh day, having finished his task, God ceased from this work he had been doing,<sup>3</sup> and God blessed the seventh day and declared it holy, because it was the day when he ceased this work of creation.

<sup>5</sup> There were no plants or grain sprouting up across the earth at first, for the Lord God hadn't sent any rain; nor was there anyone to farm the soil. <sup>6</sup> (However, water welled up from the ground at certain places and flowed across the land.)

<sup>7</sup> The time came when the Lord God formed a man's body from the dust of the ground<sup>a</sup> and breathed into it the breath of life. And man became a living person.

<sup>8</sup> Then the Lord God planted a garden in Eden, to the east, and placed in the garden the man he had formed. <sup>9</sup> The Lord God planted all sorts of beautiful trees there in the garden, trees producing the choicest of fruit. At the center of the garden he placed the Tree of Life, and also the Tree of Conscience, giving knowledge of Good and Bad. <sup>10</sup> A river from the land of Eden flowed through the garden to water it; afterwards the river divided into four branches. <sup>11,12</sup> One of these was named the Pishon; it winds across the entire length of the land of Havilah,<sup>b</sup> where nuggets of pure gold are found, also beautiful bdlimum and even lapis lazuli. <sup>13</sup> The second branch is called the Gihon, crossing the entire length of the land of Cush. <sup>14</sup> The third branch is the Tigris, which flows to the east of the city of Asher. And the fourth is the Euphrates.

<sup>15</sup> The Lord God placed the man in the Garden of Eden as its gardener, to tend and care for it.

<sup>16,17</sup> But the Lord God gave the man this warning: "You may eat any fruit in the garden except fruit from the Tree of Conscience—for its fruit will open your eyes to make you aware of right and wrong, good and bad. If you eat its fruit, you will be doomed to die."

<sup>18</sup> And the Lord God said, "It isn't good for man to be alone; I will make a companion for him, a helper suited to his needs." <sup>19,20</sup> So the Lord God formed from the soil every kind of animal and bird, and brought them to the man to see what he would call them; and whatever he called them, that was their name. But still there was no proper helper for the man. <sup>21</sup> Then the Lord God caused the man to fall into a deep sleep, and took one of his ribs and closed up the place from which he had removed it, <sup>22</sup> and made the rib into a woman, and brought her to the man.

both naked, neither of them was embarrassed or ashamed.

3 THE SERPENT WAS the craftiest of all the creatures the Lord God had made. So the serpent came to the woman. "Really?" he asked. "None of the fruit in the garden? God says you mustn't eat any of it?"

<sup>2,3</sup> "Of course we may eat it," the woman told him. "It's only the fruit from the tree at the center of the garden that we are not to eat. God says we mustn't eat it or even touch it, or we will die."

<sup>4</sup> "That's a lie!" the serpent hissed. "You'll not die! <sup>5</sup> God knows very well that the instant you eat it you will become like him, for your eyes will be opened—you will be able to distinguish good from evil!"

<sup>6</sup> The woman was convinced. How lovely and fresh looking it was! And it would make her so wise! So she ate some of the fruit and gave some to her husband, and he ate it too. <sup>7</sup> And as they ate it, suddenly they became aware of their nakedness, and were embarrassed. So they strung fig leaves together to cover themselves around the hips.

<sup>8</sup> That evening they heard the sound of the Lord God walking in the garden; and they hid themselves among the trees. <sup>9</sup> The Lord God called to Adam, "Why are you hiding?"<sup>a</sup>

<sup>10</sup> And Adam replied, "I heard you coming and didn't want you to see me naked. So I hid."

"Have you eaten fruit from the tree I warned you about?"

<sup>12</sup> "Yes," Adam admitted, "but it was the woman you gave me who brought me some, and I ate it."

<sup>13</sup> Then the Lord God asked the woman, "How could you do such a thing?"

"The serpent tricked me," she replied.

<sup>14</sup> So the Lord God said to the serpent, "This is your punishment: You are singled out from among all the domestic and wild animals of the whole earth—to be cursed. You shall grovel in the dust as long as you live, crawling along on your belly. <sup>15</sup> From now on you and the woman will be enemies, as will all of your offspring and hers. And I will put the fear of you into the woman, and between your offspring and hers. He shall strike you on your head, while you will strike at his heel."

<sup>16</sup> Then God said to the woman, "You shall bear children in intense pain and suffering; yet even so, you shall welcome your husband's affections, and he shall be your master."

<sup>17</sup> And to Adam, God said, "Because you listened to your wife and ate the fruit when I told you not to, I have placed a curse upon the soil. All your life you will struggle to extract a living from it. <sup>18</sup> It will grow thorns and thistles for you, and you shall eat its grasses. <sup>19</sup> All your life you will sweat to master it, until your dying day. Then you will return to the ground from which you came. For you were made from the ground, and to the ground you will return."

<sup>22</sup> Then the Lord said, "Now that the man has become as we are, knowing good from bad, what if he eats the fruit of the Tree of Life and lives forever?" <sup>23</sup> So the Lord God banished him forever from the Garden of Eden, and sent him out to farm the ground from which he had been taken. <sup>24</sup> Thus God expelled him, and placed mighty angels at the east of the garden of Eden, with a flaming sword to guard the entrance to the Tree of Life.

4 THEN ADAM HAD sexual intercourse with Eve his wife, and she conceived and gave birth to a son, Cain (meaning "I have created"). For, as she said, "With God's help, I have created a man!" <sup>2</sup> Her next child was his brother, Abel.

Abel became a shepherd, while Cain was a farmer. <sup>3</sup> At harvest time Cain brought the Lord a gift of his farm produce, and Abel brought the fatty cuts of meat from his best lambs, and presented them to the Lord. And the Lord accepted Abel's offering, <sup>5</sup> but not Cain's. This made Cain both dejected and very angry, and his face grew dark with fury.

so dark with rage? <sup>7</sup> It can be bright with joy if you will do what you should! But if you refuse to obey, watch out. Sin is waiting to attack you, longing to destroy you. But you can conquer it!"

"How should I know?" Cain retorted. "Am I supposed to keep track of him wherever he goes?"

<sup>10</sup> But the Lord said, "Your brother's blood calls to me from the ground. What have you done?"

<sup>11</sup> You are hereby banished from this ground which you have defiled with your brother's blood. <sup>12</sup> No longer will it yield crops for you, even if you toil on it forever! From now on you will be a fugitive and a tramp upon the earth, wandering from place to place."

<sup>13</sup> Cain replied to the Lord, "My punishment is greater than I can bear. <sup>14</sup> For you have banished me from my farm and from you, and made me a fugitive and a tramp; and everyone who sees me will try to kill me."

<sup>15</sup> The Lord replied, "They won't kill you, for I will give seven times your punishment to anyone who does." Then the Lord put an identifying mark on Cain as a warning not to kill him. <sup>16</sup> So Cain went out from the presence of the Lord and settled in the land of Nod, east

Irad was the father<sup>a</sup> of Mehujael;

Mehujael was the father<sup>a</sup> of Methusael;

Methusael was the father<sup>a</sup> of Lamech;

<sup>23</sup> One day Lamech said to Adah and Zillah, "Listen to me, my wives. I have killed a youth who attacked and wounded me. <sup>24</sup> If anyone who kills Cain will be punished seven times, anyone taking revenge against me for killing that youth should be punished seventy-seven times!"

<sup>25</sup> Later on Eve gave birth to another son and named him Seth (meaning "Granted"); for, as Eve put it, "God has granted me another son for the one Cain killed."

<sup>26</sup> When Seth grew up, he had a son and named him Enosh. It was during his lifetime that men first began to call themselves "the Lord's peo-

<sup>6,7,8</sup> Seth: Seth was 105 years old when his son Enosh was born. Afterwards he lived another 807 years, producing sons and daughters, and died at the age of 912.

<sup>9,10,11</sup> Enosh: Enosh was ninety years old when his son Kenan was born. Afterwards he lived another 815 years, producing sons and daughters, and died at the age of 905.

<sup>12,13,14</sup> Kenan: Kenan was seventy years old when his son Mahalalel was born. Afterwards he lived another 840 years, producing sons and daughters, and died at the age of 910.

when his son Jared was born. Afterwards he lived 830 years, producing sons and daughters, and died at the age of 895.

<sup>18,19,20</sup> Jared: Jared was 162 years old when his son Enoch was born. Afterwards he lived another 800 years, producing sons and daughters, and died at the age of 962.

<sup>21-24</sup> Enoch: Enoch was sixty-five years old when his son Methuselah was born. Afterwards he lived another 300 years in fellowship with God, and produced sons and daughters; then, when he was 365, and in constant touch with God, he disappeared, for God took him!

<sup>25,26,27</sup> Methuselah: Methuselah was 187 years old when his son Lamech was born; afterwards he lived another 782 years, producing sons and daughters, and died at the age of 969.

<sup>28-31</sup> Lamech: Lamech was 182 years old when his son Noah was born. Lamech named him Noah (meaning "Relief") because he said, "He will bring us relief from the hard work of farming this ground which God has cursed." Afterwards La-mech lived 595 years, producing sons and daughters, and died at the age of 777.

6 NOW A POPULATION explosion took place upon the earth. It was at this time that beings from the spirit world<sup>a</sup> looked upon the beautiful earth women and took any they desired to be their wives. <sup>1</sup> Then Jehovah said, "My Spirit must not forever be disgraced in man, wholly evil as he is. I will give him 120 years to mend his ways."

<sup>4</sup> In those days, and even afterwards, when the evil beings from the spirit world were sexually involved with human women, their children became giants, of whom so many legends are told. <sup>3</sup> When the Lord God saw the extent of human wickedness, and that the trend and direction of men's lives were only towards evil, <sup>6</sup> he was sorry he had made them. It broke his heart.

<sup>7</sup> And he said, "I will blot out from the face of the earth all mankind that I created. Yes, and the animals too, and the reptiles and the birds. For I am sorry I made them."

<sup>8</sup> But Noah was a pleasure to the Lord. Here is the story of Noah: <sup>9,10</sup> He was the only truly righteous man living on the earth at that time. He tried always to conduct his affairs according to God's will. And he had three sons—Shem, Ham, and Japheth.

<sup>11</sup> Meanwhile, the crime rate was rising rapidly across the earth, and, as seen by God, the world was rotten to the core.

<sup>12,13</sup> As God observed how bad it was, and saw that all mankind was vicious and depraved, he said to Noah, "I have decided to destroy all mankind; for the earth is filled with crime because of man. Yes, I will destroy mankind from the earth. <sup>14</sup> Make a boat from resinous wood, sealing it with tar; and construct decks and stalls throughout the ship. <sup>15</sup> Make it 450 feet long, 75 feet wide, and 45 feet high. <sup>16</sup> Construct a skylight all the way around the ship, eighteen inches below the roof; and make three decks inside the boat—a bottom, middle, and upper deck—and put a door in the side.

<sup>18</sup> "But I promise to keep you safe in the ship, with your wife and your sons and their wives. <sup>19,20</sup> Bring a pair of every animal—a male and a female—into the boat with you, to keep them alive through the flood. Bring in a pair of each kind of bird and animal and reptile. <sup>21</sup> Store away in the boat all the food that they and you will need." <sup>22</sup> And Noah did everything as God commanded him.

a Literally, "sons of God" used here in the sense of his created, supernatural beings, but no longer godly in character (verse 3). Some commentators believe that the expression "sons of God" refers to the "godly line" of Seth, and "daughters of men" to the men of the line of Cain.

7 FINALLY THE DAY came when the Lord said to Noah, "Go into the boat with all your family, for among all the people of the earth, I consider you alone to be righteous. <sup>2</sup> Bring in the animals, too—a pair of each, except those kinds I have chosen for eating and for sacrifice: take seven pairs of each of them, <sup>3</sup> and seven pairs<sup>a</sup> of every kind of bird. Thus there will be every kind of life reproducing again after the flood has ended. <sup>4</sup> One week from today I will begin forty days and nights of rain; and all the animals and birds and reptiles I have made will die."

<sup>10,11,12</sup> One week later, when Noah was 600 years, two months, and seventeen days old, the rain came down in mighty torrents from the sky, and the subterranean waters burst forth upon the earth for forty days and nights. <sup>13</sup> But Noah had gone into the boat that very day with his wife and his sons, Shem, Ham, and Japheth, and their wives. <sup>14,15</sup> With them in the boat were pairs of every kind of animal—domestic and wild—and reptiles and birds of every sort. <sup>16</sup> Two by two they came, male and female, just as God had commanded. Then the Lord God<sup>b</sup> closed the door and shut them in.

raven that flew back and forth<sup>b</sup> until the earth was dry. <sup>8</sup> Meanwhile he sent out a dove to see if it could find dry ground, <sup>9</sup> but the dove found no place to light, and returned to Noah, for the water was still too high. So Noah held out his hand and drew the dove back into the boat.

<sup>20</sup> Then Noah built an altar and sacrificed on it some of the animals and birds God had designated<sup>d</sup> for that purpose. <sup>21</sup> And Jehovah was pleased with the sacrifice and said to himself, "I will never do it again—I will never again curse the earth, destroying all living things, even though man's bent is always toward evil from his earliest youth, and even though he does such wicked things. <sup>22</sup> As long as the earth remains, there will be spring-time and harvest, cold and heat, winter and summer, day and night."

9 GOD BLESSED NOAH and his sons and told them to have many children and to repopulate the earth.

<sup>2,3</sup> "All wild animals and birds and fish will be afraid of you," God told him; "for I have placed them in your power, and they are yours to use for food, in addition to grain and vegetables. <sup>4</sup> But never eat animals unless their life-blood has been drained off. <sup>5,6</sup> And murder is forbidden. Man-killing animals must die, and any man who murders shall be killed; for to kill a man is to kill one made like God. <sup>7</sup> Yes, have many children and repopulate the earth and subdue it."

<sup>20,21</sup> Noah became a farmer and planted a vineyard, and he made wine. One day as he was drunk and lay naked in his tent, <sup>22</sup> Ham, the father of Canaan, saw his father's nakedness and went outside and told his two brothers. <sup>23</sup> Then Shem and Japheth took a robe and held it over their shoulders and, walking backwards into the tent, let it fall across their father to cover his nakedness as they looked the other way. <sup>24,25</sup> When Noah awoke from his drunken stupor, and learned what had happened and what Ham, his younger son, had done, he cursed Ham's descendants:<sup>c</sup>

"A curse upon the Canaanites," he swore.

"May they be the lowest of slaves

To the descendants of Shem and Japheth."

<sup>26,27</sup> Then he said,

"God bless Shem,

And may Canaan be his slave.<sup>d</sup>

God bless Japheth,
And let him share the prosperity of Shem,

10 THESE ARE THE families of Shem, Ham, and Japheth, who were the three sons of Noah; for sons were born to them after the flood.

Gomer, Magog, Madai, Javan, Tubal,
Meshech, Tiras.

Ashkenaz, Riphath, Togarmah.

Elishah, Tarshish, Kittim, Dodanim.

<sup>4</sup> Their descendants became the maritime nations in various lands, each with a separate language.

Cush, Mizraim,
Put, Canaan.

Seba, Havilah, Sabtah, Raamah, Sabteca.

The sons of Raamah were:
Sheba, Dedan.

blessed of God."<sup>d 10</sup> The heart of his empire included Babel, Erech, Accad, and Calneh in the land of Shinar.<sup>11,12</sup> From there he extended his reign to Assyria. He built Nineveh, Rehoboth-Ir, Calah, and Resen (which is located between Nineveh and Calah), the main city of the empire.

<sup>15-19</sup> Canaan's oldest son was Sidon, and he was also the father of Heth; from Canaan descended these nations:

Jebusites, Amorites, Girgashites,
Hivites, Arkites, Sinites, Arvadites, Zemarites, Hamathites.

Eventually the descendants of Canaan spread from Sidon all the way to Gerar, in the Gaza strip; and to Sodom, Gomorrah, Admah, and Zeboiim, near Lasha.

Uz, Hul, Gether, Mash.

11 AT THAT TIME all mankind spoke a single language.<sup>2</sup> As the population grew and spread eastward, a plain was discovered in the land of Babylon,<sup>a</sup> and was soon thickly populated.<sup>b 3,4</sup> The people who lived there began to talk about building a great city, with a temple-tower reaching to the skies—a proud, eternal monument to themselves.

"This will weld us together," they said, "and keep us from scattering all over the world." So they made great piles of hard-burned brick, and collected bitumen to use as mortar.

<sup>5</sup> But when God came down to see the city and the tower mankind was making, <sup>6</sup> he said, "Look! If they are able to accomplish all this when they have just begun to exploit their linguistic and political unity, just think of what they will do later! Nothing will be unattainable for them!<sup>c</sup> <sup>7</sup> Come, let us go down and give them different languages, so that they won't understand each other's words!"

<sup>8</sup> So, in that way, God scattered them all over the earth; and that ended the building of the city. <sup>9</sup> That is why the city was called Babel (meaning "confusion"), because it was there that Jehovah confused them by giving them many languages, thus widely scattering them across the face of the earth.

<sup>10,11</sup> Shem's line of descendants included Arpachshad, born two years after the flood when Shem was 100 years old; after that he lived another 500 years, and had many sons and daughters.

<sup>12,13</sup> When Arpachshad was thirty-five years old, his son<sup>d</sup> Shelah was born, and after that he lived another 403 years, and had many sons and daughters.

<sup>14,15</sup> Shelah was thirty years old when his son Eber was born, living 403 years after that, and had many sons and daughters.

old when his son Peleg was born. He lived another 430 years afterwards, and had many sons and daughters.

<sup>18,19</sup> Peleg was thirty years old when his son Reu was born. He lived another 209 years afterwards, and had many sons and daughters.

<sup>26</sup> By the time Terah was seventy years old, he had three sons, Abram, Nahor, and Haran. <sup>27</sup> And Haran had a son named Lot. <sup>28</sup> But Haran died young, in the land where he was born (in Ur of the Chaldeans), and was survived by his father.

12 AFTER THE DEATH of Abram's father, God told him, "Leave your own country behind you, and your own people, and go to the land I will guide you to.<sup>2</sup> If you do, I will cause you to become the father of a great nation; I will bless you and make your name famous, and you will be a blessing to many others.<sup>a</sup> I will bless those who bless you and curse those who curse you; and the entire world will be blessed because of you."<sup>b</sup>

and Ai on the east. There he made camp, and made an altar to the Lord and prayed to him.<sup>9</sup> Thus he continued slowly southward to the Negeb, pausing frequently.

<sup>10</sup> There was at that time a terrible famine in the land: and so Abram went on down to Egypt to live.<sup>11,12,13</sup> But as he was approaching the borders of Egypt, he asked Sarai his wife to tell everyone that she was his sister! "You are very beautiful," he told her, "and when the Egyptians see you they will say, 'This is his wife. Let's kill him and then we can have her!' But if you say you are my sister, then the Egyptians will treat me well because of you, and spare my life!"

<sup>17</sup> But the Lord sent a terrible plague upon Pharaoh's household on account of her being there.<sup>18</sup> Then Pharaoh called Abram before him and accused him sharply. "What is this you have done to me?" he demanded. "Why didn't you tell me she was your wife?" <sup>19</sup> Why were you willing to let me marry her, saying she was your sister? Here, take her and be gone!"

13 SO THEY LEFT Egypt and traveled north into the Negeb—Abram with his wife, and Lot, and all that they owned, for Abram was very rich in livestock, silver, and gold. <sup>14</sup> Then they continued northward toward Bethel where he had camped before, between Bethel and Ai—to the place where he had built the altar. And there he again worshiped the Lord.

before Jehovah destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah); the whole section was like the Garden of Eden,<sup>c</sup> or like the beautiful countryside around Zoar in Egypt. <sup>11</sup> So that is what Lot chose—the Jordan valley to the east of them. He went there with his flocks and servants, and thus he and Abram parted company. <sup>12</sup> For Abram stayed in the land of Canaan, while Lot lived among the cities of the plain, settling at a place near the city of Sodom. <sup>13</sup> The men of this area were unusually wicked, and sinned greatly against Jehovah.

14 NOW WAR FILLED the land—Amraphel, king of Shinar, Arioch, king of Ellasar, Ched-or-laomer, king of Elam, and Tidal, king of Goiim

The Rephaim in Ashteroth-karnaim;

The Zuzim in Ham;

The Emim in the plain of Kiriathaim;

The Horites in Mount Seir, as far as El-paran at the edge of the desert.

<sup>7</sup> Then they swung around to Enmishpat (later called Kadesh) and destroyed the Amalekites, and also the Amorites living in Hazazantamar.

<sup>14</sup> When Abram learned that Lot had been captured, he called together the men born into his household, 318 of them in all, and chased after the retiring army as far as Dan. <sup>15</sup> That night he successfully attacked them and pursued the fleeing army to Hobah, north of Damascus, <sup>16</sup> and recovered everything—the loot that had been taken, his relative Lot, and all of Lot's possessions, including the women and other captives.

<sup>17</sup> As Abram returned from his strike against Chedor-laomer and the other kings at the Valley of Shaveh (later called King's Valley), the king of Sodom came out to meet him, <sup>18</sup> and Melchizedek, the king of Salem (Jerusalem), who was a priest of the God of Highest Heaven, brought him bread and wine. <sup>19,20</sup> Then Melchizedek blessed Abram with this blessing:

"The blessing of the supreme God, Creator of heaven and earth, be upon you, Abram; and blessed be God, who has delivered your enemies over to you."

Then Abram gave Melchizedek a tenth of all the spoils.

solemnly promised Jehovah, the supreme God, Creator of heaven and earth,<sup>21</sup> that I will not take so much as a single thread from you, lest you say, 'Abram is rich because of what I gave him'<sup>24</sup> All I'll accept is what these young men of mine have eaten; but give a share of the booty to Aner, Eshcol, and Mamre, my allies."

15 AFTERWARDS JEHOVAH SPOKE to Abram in a vision, and this is what he told him: "Don't be fearful, Abram, for I will defend you. And I will give you great blessings."

<sup>2,3</sup> But Abram replied, "O Lord Jehovah, what good are all your blessings when I have no son? For without a son, some other member of my household<sup>a</sup> will inherit all my wealth."

<sup>4</sup> Then Jehovah told him, "No, no one else will be your heir, for you will have a son to inherit everything you own."

<sup>5</sup> Then God brought Abram outside beneath the nighttime sky and told him, "Look up into the heavens and count the stars if you can. Your descendants will be like that—too many to count!" <sup>6</sup> And Abram believed God; then God considered him righteous on account of his faith.

<sup>8</sup> But Abram replied, "O Lord Jehovah, how can I be sure that you will give it to me?" <sup>9</sup> Then Jehovah told him to take a three-year-old heifer, a three-year-old female goat, a three-year-old ram, a turtle-dove and a young pigeon,<sup>10</sup> and to slay them and to cut them apart down the middle, and to separate the halves, but not to divide the birds.<sup>11</sup> And when the vultures came down upon the carcasses, Abram shoed them away.

Kenites, Kenizzites,

16 BUT SARAI AND Abram had no children. So Sarai took her maid, an Egyptian girl named Hagar, <sup>2,1</sup> and gave her to Abram to be his second wife.

"Since the Lord has given me no children," Sarai said, "you may sleep with my servant girl, and her children shall be mine."

And Abram agreed. (This took place ten years after Abram had first arrived in the land of Canaan.)

<sup>5</sup> Then Sarai said to Abram, "It's all your fault. For now this servant girl of mine despises me, though I myself gave her the privilege of being your wife. May the Lord judge you for doing this to me!"<sup>a</sup>

Hagar: "I am running away from my mistress."

<sup>9-12</sup> The Angel: "Return to your mistress and act as you should, for I will make you into a great nation. Yes, you are pregnant and your baby will be a son, and you are to name him Ishmael ('God hears'), because God has heard your woes. This son of yours will be a wild one—free and untamed as a wild ass! He will be against everyone, and everyone will feel the same towards him. But he will live near the rest of his kin."

17 WHEN ABRAM WAS ninety-nine years old, God appeared to him and told him, "I am the Almighty; obey me and live as you should. <sup>2,3,4</sup> I will prepare a contract between us, guaranteeing to make you into a mighty nation. In fact you shall be the father of not only one nation, but a multitude of nations!" Abram fell face downward in the dust as God talked with him.

<sup>5</sup> "What's more," God told him, "I am changing your name. It is no longer 'Abram' ('Exalted Father'), but 'Abraham' ('Father of Nations')—for that is what you will be. I have declared it. <sup>6</sup> I will give you millions of descendants who will form many nations! Kings shall be among your descendants! <sup>7,8</sup> And I will continue this agreement between us generation after generation, forever, for it shall be between me and your children as well. It is a contract that I shall be your God and the God of your posterity. And I will give all this land of Canaan to you and them, forever. And I will be your God.

<sup>9,10</sup> "Your part of the contract," God told him, "is to obey its terms. You personally and all your posterity have this continual responsibility: that every male among you shall be circumcised; <sup>11</sup> the foreskin of his penis shall be cut off. This will be the proof that you and they accept this covenant. <sup>12</sup> Every male shall be circumcised on the eighth day after birth. This applies to every foreign-born slave as well as to everyone born in your household. This is a permanent part of this contract, and it applies to all your posterity. <sup>13</sup> All must be circumcised. Your bodies will thus be marked as participants in my everlasting covenant. <sup>14</sup> Anyone who refuses these terms shall be cut off from his people; for he has violated my contract."

<sup>15</sup> Then God added, "Regarding Sarai your wife—her name is no longer 'Sarai' but 'Sarah' ('Princess'). <sup>16</sup> And I will bless her and give you a son from her! Yes, I will bless her richly, and make her the mother of nations! Many kings shall be among your posterity."

<sup>17</sup> Then Abraham threw himself down in worship before the Lord, but inside he was laughing in disbelief! <sup>18</sup> "Me, be a father?" he said in amusement. "Me—100 years old? And Sarah, to have a baby at 90?"

<sup>19</sup> "No," God replied, "that isn't what I said. Sarah shall bear you a son; and you are to name him Isaac ('Laughter'), and I will sign my covenant with him forever, and with his descendants. <sup>20</sup> As for Ishmael, all right, I will bless him also, just as you have asked me to. I will cause him to multiply and become a great nation. Twelve princes shall be among his posterity. <sup>21</sup> But my contract is with Isaac, who will be born to you and Sarah next year at about this time."

18 THE LORD APPEARED again to Abraham while he was living in the oak grove at Mamre. This is the way it happened: One hot summer afternoon as he was sitting in the opening of his tent, <sup>2</sup> he suddenly noticed three men coming toward him. He sprang up and ran to meet them and welcomed them.

<sup>3,4</sup> "Sirs," he said, "please don't go any further. Stop awhile and rest here in the shade of this tree while I get water to refresh your feet, <sup>5</sup> and a bite to eat to strengthen you. Do stay awhile before continuing your journey."

"All right," they said, "do as you have said."

"In the tent," Abraham replied.

<sup>10</sup> Then the Lord said, "Next year<sup>b</sup> I will give you and Sarah a son!" (Sarah was listening from the tent door behind him.) <sup>11</sup> Now Abraham and Sarah were both very old, and Sarah was long since past the time when she could have a baby.

<sup>12</sup> So Sarah laughed silently. "A woman my age have a baby?" she scoffed to herself. "And with a husband as old as mine?"

<sup>13</sup> Then God said to Abraham, "Why did Sarah laugh? Why did she say 'Can an old woman like me have a baby?'" <sup>14</sup> Is anything too hard for God? Next year, just as I told you, I will certainly see to it that Sarah has a son."

Abraham shall become a mighty nation, and he will be a source of blessing for all the nations of the earth." <sup>19</sup> And I have picked him out to have godly descendants and a godly household—men who are just and good—so that I can do for him all I have promised."

<sup>20</sup> So the Lord told Abraham, "I have heard that the people of Sodom and Gomorrah are utterly evil, and that everything they do is wicked. <sup>21</sup> I am going down to see whether these reports are true or not. Then I will know." <sup>22,23</sup> So the other two went on toward Sodom, but the Lord remained with Abraham a while. Then Abraham approached him and said, "Will you kill good and bad alike?" <sup>24</sup> Suppose you find fifty godly people there within the city—will you destroy it, and not spare it for their sakes? <sup>25</sup> That wouldn't be right! Surely you wouldn't do such a thing, to kill the godly with the wicked! Why, you would be treating godly and wicked exactly the same! Surely you wouldn't do that! Should not the Judge of all the earth be fair?"

<sup>27</sup> Then Abraham spoke again. "Since I have begun, let me go on and speak further to the Lord, though I am but dust and ashes. <sup>28</sup> Suppose there are only forty-five? Will you destroy the city for lack of five?"

And God said, "I will not destroy it if I find forty-five."

with his request. "Suppose there are only forty?"

And God replied, "I won't destroy it if there are forty."

And God replied, "I won't do it if there are thirty there."

<sup>31</sup> Then Abraham said, "Since I have dared to speak to God, let me continue—Suppose there are only twenty?"

And God said, "Then I won't destroy it for the sake of the twenty."

<sup>32</sup> Finally, Abraham said, "Oh, let not the Lord be angry; I will speak but this once more! Suppose only ten are found?"

And God said, "Then, for the sake of the ten, I won't destroy it."

19 THAT EVENING THE two angels came to the entrance of the city of Sodom, and Lot was sitting there as they arrived. When he saw them he stood up to meet them, and welcomed them.

<sup>2</sup> "Sirs," he said, "come to my home as my guests for the night; you can get up as early as you like and be on your way again."

"Oh, no thanks," they said, "we'll just stretch out here along the street."

<sup>3</sup> But he was very urgent, until at last they went home with him, and he set a great feast before them, complete with freshly baked unleavened bread. After the meal, <sup>4</sup> as they were preparing to retire for the night, the men of the city—yes, Sodomites, young and old from all over the city—surrounded the house <sup>5</sup> and shouted to Lot, "Bring out those men to us so we can rape them."

<sup>6</sup> Lot stepped outside to talk to them, shutting the door behind him. <sup>7</sup> "Please, fellows," he begged, "don't do such a wicked thing. <sup>8</sup> Look—I have two virgin daughters, and I'll surrender them to you to do with as you wish. But leave these men alone, for they are under my protection."

<sup>9</sup> "Stand back," they yelled. "Who do you think you are? We let this fellow settle among us and now he tries to tell us what to do! We'll deal with you far worse than with those other men." And they lunged at Lot and began breaking down the door.

<sup>10</sup> But the two men reached out and pulled Lot in and bolted the door, <sup>11</sup> and temporarily blinded the men of Sodom so that they couldn't find the door.

<sup>12</sup> "What relatives do you have here in the city?" the men asked. "Get them out of this place—sons-in-law, sons, daughters, or anyone else. <sup>13</sup> For we will destroy the city completely. The stench of the place has reached to heaven and God has sent us to destroy it."

<sup>15</sup> At dawn the next morning the angels became urgent. "Hurry," they said to Lot, "take your wife and your two daughters who are here and get out while you can, or you will be caught in the destruction of the city."

<sup>16</sup> When Lot still hesitated, the angels seized his hand and the hands of his wife and two daughters and rushed them to safety, outside the city, for the Lord was merciful.

<sup>17</sup> "Flee for your lives," the angels told him. "And don't look back. Escape to the mountains. Don't stay down here on the plain or you will die."

<sup>18,19,20</sup> "Oh no, sirs, please," Lot begged, "since you've been so kind to me and saved my life, and you've granted me such mercy, let me flee to that little village over there instead of into the mountains, for I fear disaster in the mountain. See, the village is close by and it is just a small one. Please, please, let me go there instead. Don't you see how small it is? And my life will be saved."

up early and hurried out to the place where he had stood before the Lord. <sup>28</sup> He looked out across the plain to Sodom and Gomorrah and saw columns of smoke and fumes, as from a furnace, rising from the cities there. <sup>29</sup> So God heeded Abraham's plea and kept Lot safe, removing him from the maelstrom of death that engulfed the cities.

<sup>30</sup> Afterwards Lot left Zoar, fearful of the people there, and went to live in a cave in the mountains with his two daughters. <sup>31</sup> One day the older girl said to her sister, "There isn't a man anywhere in this entire area that our father would let us marry. And our father will soon be too old for having children. <sup>32</sup> Come, let's fill him with wine and then we will sleep with him, so that our clan will not come to an end." <sup>33</sup> So they got him drunk that night, and the older girl went in and had sexual intercourse with her father; but he was unaware of her lying down or getting up again.

<sup>34</sup> The next morning she said to her younger sister, "I slept with my father last night. Let's fill him with wine again, tonight, and you go in and lie with him, so that our family line will continue." <sup>35</sup> So they got him drunk again that night, and the younger girl went in and lay with him, and, as before, he didn't know that anyone was there. <sup>36</sup> And so it was that both girls became pregnant from their father.

20 NOW ABRAHAM MOVED south to the Negeb, and settled between Kadesh and Shur. One day, when visiting the city of Gerar, <sup>2</sup> he remarked that Sarah was his sister! Then King Abimelech sent for her, and had her brought to him at his palace.

<sup>3</sup> But that night God came to him in a dream and told him, "You are a dead man, for that woman you took is married."

<sup>4</sup> But Abimelech hadn't slept with her yet, so he said, "Lord, will you slay an innocent man?" He told me, 'She is my sister,' and she herself said, 'Yes, he is my brother.' I hadn't the slightest intention of doing anything wrong."

<sup>6</sup> "Yes, I know," the Lord replied. "That is why I held you back from sinning against me; that is why I didn't let you touch her. <sup>7</sup> Now restore her to her husband, and he will pray for you (for he is a prophet) and you shall live. But if you don't return her to him, you are doomed to death along with all your household."

<sup>8</sup> The king was up early the next morning, and hastily called a meeting of all the palace personnel and told them what had happened. And great fear swept through the crowd.

<sup>9,10</sup> Then the king called for Abraham. "What is this you've done to us?" he demanded. "What have I done that deserves treatment like this, to make me and my kingdom guilty of this great sin? Who would suspect that you would do a thing like this to me? Whatever made you think of this vile deed?"

<sup>11,12</sup> "Well," Abraham said, "I figured this to be a godless place. They will want my wife and will kill me to get her,' I thought. And besides, she is my sister—or at least a half sister (we both have the same father)—and I married her. <sup>13</sup> And when God sent me traveling far from my childhood home, I told her, 'Have the kindness to mention, wherever we come, that you are my sister.'"

<sup>14</sup> Then King Abimelech took sheep and oxen and servants—both men and women—and gave them to Abraham, and returned Sarah his wife to him.

<sup>15</sup> "Look my kingdom over, and choose the place where you want to live," the king told him. <sup>16</sup> Then he turned to Sarah. "Look," he said, "I am giving your 'brother' a thousand silver pieces as damages for what I did, to compensate for any embarrassment and to settle any claim against me regarding this matter. Now justice has been done."

21 THEN GOD DID as he had promised, and Sarah became pregnant and gave Abraham a baby son in his old age, at the time God had said; <sup>1</sup> and Abraham named him Isaac (meaning "Laughter!"). <sup>2</sup> Eight days after he was born, Abraham circumcised him, as God required. (Abraham was 100 years old at that time.)

about this shall rejoice with me.
<sup>7</sup> For who would have dreamed that I would ever have a baby? Yet I have given Abraham a child in his old age!"

<sup>12</sup> But God told Abraham, "Don't be upset over the boy or your slave-girl wife; do as Sarah says, for Isaac is the son through whom my promise will be fulfilled. <sup>13</sup> And I will make a nation of the descendants of the slave-girl's son, too, because he also is yours."

what's wrong? Don't be afraid! For God has heard the lad's cries as he is lying there. <sup>18</sup> Go and get the boy and comfort him, for I will make a great nation from his descendants."

<sup>19</sup> Then God opened her eyes and she saw a well; so she refilled the canteen and gave the lad a drink. <sup>20,21</sup> And God blessed the boy and he grew up in the wilderness of Paran, and became an expert archer. And his mother arranged a marriage for him with a girl from Egypt.

<sup>22</sup> About this time King Abimelech, and Phicol, commander of his troops, came to Abraham and said to him, "It is evident that God helps you in everything you do; <sup>23</sup> swear to me by God's name that you won't defraud me or my son or my grandson, but that you will be on friendly terms with my country, as I have been toward you."

"Abraham!" God called.

"Yes, Lord?" he replied.

<sup>2</sup> "Take with you your only son—yes, Isaac whom you love so much—and go to the land of Moriah and sacrifice him there as a burnt offering upon one of the mountains which I'll point out to you!"

<sup>3</sup> The next morning Abraham got up early, chopped wood for a fire upon the altar, saddled his donkey, and took with him his son Isaac and two young men who were his servants, and started off to the place where God had told him to go. <sup>4</sup> On the third day of the journey Abraham saw the place in the distance.

the knife and the flint for striking a fire. So the two of them went on together.

<sup>7</sup> "Father," Isaac asked, "we have the wood and the flint to make the fire, but where is the lamb for the sacrifice?"

<sup>9</sup> When they arrived at the place where God had told Abraham to go, he built an altar and placed the wood in order, ready for the fire, and then tied Isaac and laid him on the altar over the wood. <sup>10</sup> And Abraham took the knife and lifted it up to plunge it into his son, to slay him.

"Yes, Lord!" he answered.

<sup>12</sup> "Lay down the knife; don't hurt the lad in any way," the Angel said, "for I know that God is first in your life—you have not withheld even your beloved son from me."

<sup>13</sup> Then Abraham noticed a ram caught by its horns in a bush. So he took the ram and sacrificed it, instead of his son, as a burnt offering on the altar. <sup>14</sup> Abraham named the place "Jehovah provides"—and it still goes by that name to this day.

<sup>15</sup> Then the Angel of God called again to Abraham from heaven. <sup>16</sup> "I, the Lord, have sworn by myself that because you have obeyed me and have not withheld even your beloved son from me, <sup>17</sup> I will bless you with incredible blessings and multiply your descendants into countless thousands and millions, like the stars above you in the sky, and like the sands along the seashore. These descendants of yours will conquer their enemies,<sup>18</sup> and be a blessing to all the nations of the earth—all because you have obeyed me."

Uz, the oldest,
Buz, the next oldest,
Kemuel (father of Aram), Chesed, Hazo,
Pildash, Jidlaph,
Bethuel (father of Rebekah).

<sup>24</sup> He also had four other children from his concubine, Reumah:

Tebah, Gaham,
Tahash, Maacah.

23 WHEN SARAH WAS 127 years old, she died in Hebron in the land of Canaan; there Abraham mourned and wept for her. <sup>1</sup> Then, standing beside her body, he said to the men of Heth:

<sup>4</sup> "Here I am, a visitor in a foreign land, with no place to bury my wife. Please sell me a piece of ground for this purpose."

<sup>5, 6</sup> "Certainly," the men replied, "for you are an honored prince of God among us; it will be a privilege to have you choose the finest of our sepulchres, so that you can bury her there."

<sup>7</sup> Then Abraham bowed low before them and said, <sup>8</sup> "Since this is your feeling in the matter, be so kind as to ask Ephron, Zohar's son, <sup>9</sup> to sell me the cave of Mach-pelah, down at the end of his field. I will of course pay the full price for it, whatever is publicly agreed upon, and it will become a permanent cemetery for my family."

<sup>10</sup> Ephron was sitting there among the others, and now he spoke up, answering Abraham as the others listened, speaking publicly before all the citizens of the town: <sup>11</sup> "Sir," he said to Abraham, "please listen to me. I will give you the cave and the field without any charge. Here in the presence of my people, I give it to you free. Go and bury your dead."

<sup>12</sup> Abraham bowed again to the men of Heth, <sup>13</sup> and replied to Ephron, as all listened: "No, let me buy it from you. Let me pay the full price of the field, and then I will bury my dead."

<sup>16</sup> So Abraham paid Ephron the price he had suggested—400 pieces of silver, as publicly agreed. <sup>17, 18</sup> This is the land he bought: Ephron's field at Mach-pelah, near Mamre, and the cave at the end of the field, and all the trees in the field. They became his permanent possession, by agreement in the presence of the men of Heth at the city gate. <sup>19, 20</sup> So Abraham buried Sarah there, in the field and cave deeded to him by the men of Heth as a burial plot.

24 ABRAHAM WAS NOW a very old man, and God blessed him in every way. <sup>1</sup> One day Abraham said to his household administrator, who was his oldest servant,

<sup>5</sup> "But suppose I can't find a girl who will come so far from home?" the servant asked. "Then shall I take Isaac there, to live among your relatives?"

<sup>6</sup> "No!" Abraham warned. "Be careful that you don't do that under any circumstance. <sup>7</sup> For the Lord God of heaven told me to leave that land and my people, and promised to give me and my children this land. He will send his angel on ahead of you, and he will see to it that you find a girl from there to be my son's wife. <sup>8</sup> But if you don't succeed, then you are free from this oath; but under no circumstances are you to take my son there."

girls of the village are coming out to draw water. <sup>14</sup> This is my request: When I ask one of them for a drink and she says, 'Yes, certainly, and I will water your camels too!'—let her be the one you have appointed as Isaac's wife. That is how I will know."

<sup>20</sup> So she emptied the jug into the watering trough and ran down to the spring again and kept carrying water to the camels until they had enough. <sup>21</sup> The servant said no more, but watched her carefully to see if she would finish the job,<sup>d</sup> so that he would know whether she was the one. <sup>22</sup> Then at last, when the camels had finished drinking, he produced a quarter-ounce gold earring<sup>e</sup> and two five-ounce golden bracelets for her wrists.

straw and food for the camels, and a guest room."

<sup>16</sup> The man stood there a moment with head bowed, worshipping Jehovah. <sup>17</sup> "Thank you, Lord God of my master Abraham," he prayed; "thank you for being so kind and true to him, and for leading me straight to the family of my master's relatives."

<sup>18</sup> The girl ran home to tell her folks,<sup>f,29,30</sup> and when her brother Laban saw the ring, and the bracelets on his sister's wrists, and heard her story, he rushed out to the spring where the man was still standing beside his camels, and said to him, <sup>31</sup> "Come and stay with us, friend;<sup>g</sup> why stand here outside the city when we have a room all ready for you, and a place prepared for the camels!"

<sup>32</sup> So the man went home with Laban, and Laban gave him straw to bed down the camels, and feed for them, and water for the camel drivers to wash their feet. <sup>33</sup> Then supper was served. But the old man said, "I don't want to eat until I have told you why I am here."

"All right," Laban said, "tell us your errand."

<sup>34</sup> "I am Abraham's servant," he explained. <sup>35</sup> "And Jehovah has overwhelmed my master with blessings so that he is a great man among the people of his land. God has given him flocks of sheep and herds of cattle, and a fortune in silver and gold, and many slaves and camels and donkeys."

ter's wife, was very old, she gave birth to my master's son, and my master has given him everything he owns. <sup>37</sup> And my master made me promise not to let Isaac marry one of the local girls,<sup>h</sup> <sup>38</sup> but to come to his relatives here in this far-off land, to his brother's<sup>i</sup> family, and to bring back a girl from here to marry his son. <sup>39</sup> "But suppose I can't find a girl who will come?" I asked him. <sup>40</sup> "She will," he told me—"for my Lord, in whose presence I have walked, will send his angel with you and make your mission successful. Yes, find a girl from among my relatives, from my brother's family. <sup>41</sup> You are under oath to go and ask. If they won't send anyone, then you are freed from your promise."

<sup>45</sup> "Well, while I was still speaking these words, Rebekah was coming along with her water jug upon her shoulder; and she went down to the spring and drew water and filled the jug. I said to her, 'Please give me a drink.' <sup>46</sup> She quickly lifted the jug down from her shoulder so that I could drink, and told me, 'Certainly, sir, and I will water your camels too!' So she did! <sup>47</sup> Then I asked her, 'Whose family are you from?' And she told me, 'Nahor's. My father is Bethuel, the son of Nahor and his wife Milcah.' So I gave her the ring and the bracelets. <sup>48</sup> Then I bowed my head and worshiped and blessed Jehovah, the God of my master Abraham, because he had led me along just the right path to find a girl from the family<sup>j</sup> of my master's brother. <sup>49</sup> So tell me, yes or no. Will you or won't you be kind to my master and do what is right? When you tell me, then I'll know what my next step should be, whether to move this way or that."

<sup>56</sup> But he pleaded, "Don't hinder my return; the Lord has made my mission successful, and I want to report back to my master."

And she replied, "Yes, I will go."

May you become
The mother of many millions!

May your descendants Overcome all your enemies."

And he replied, "It is my master's son!"<sup>k</sup> So she covered her face with her veil. <sup>66</sup> Then the servant told Isaac the whole story. <sup>67</sup> And Isaac brought Rebekah into his mother's tent, and she became his wife. He loved her very much, and she was a special comfort to him after the loss of his mother.

25 NOW ABRAHAM MARRIED again. Keturah was his new wife, and she bore him several children:

Zimran, Jokshan, Medan, Midian, Ishbak, Shuah.

of Ishmael were scattered across the country from Havilah to Shur (which is a little way to the northeast of the Egyptian border in the direction of Assyria). And they were constantly at war with one another.

"I can't endure this," she exclaimed. So she asked the Lord about it.

<sup>23</sup> And he told her, "The sons in your womb shall become two rival nations. One will be stronger than the other; and the older shall be a servant of the younger!"

<sup>26</sup> Then the other twin was born with his hand on Esau's heel! So they called him Jacob (meaning "Grabber"). Isaac was sixty years old when the twins were born.

Esau, because of the venison he brought home, and Rebekah's favorite was Jacob.

And Esau vowed, thereby selling all his eldest-son rights to his younger brother. <sup>34</sup> Then Jacob gave Esau bread, peas, and stew; so he ate and drank and went on about his business, indifferent to the loss of the rights he had thrown away.<sup>e</sup>

26 NOW A SEVERE famine overshadowed the land, as had happened before, in Abraham's time, and so Isaac moved to the city of Gerar where Abimelech, king of the Philistines, lived.

<sup>2</sup> Jehovah appeared to him there and told him, "Don't go to Egypt. <sup>3</sup> Do as I say and stay here in this land. If you do, I will be with you and bless you, and I will give all this land to you and to your descendants, just as I promised Abraham your father. <sup>4</sup> And I will cause your descendants to become as numerous as the stars! And I will give them all of these lands; and they shall be a blessing to all the nations of the earth. <sup>5</sup> I will do this because Abraham obeyed my commandments and laws."

<sup>6</sup> So Isaac stayed in Gerar. <sup>7</sup> And when the men there asked him about Rebekah, he said, "She is my sister!" For he feared for his life if he told them she was his wife; he was afraid they would kill him to get her, for she was very attractive. <sup>8</sup> But sometime later, King Abimelech, king of the Philistines, looked out of a window and saw Isaac petting with Rebekah.

<sup>9</sup> Abimelech called for Isaac and exclaimed, "She is your wife! Why did you say she is your sister?"

"Because I was afraid I would be murdered," Isaac replied. "I thought someone would kill me to get her from me."

have become too rich and powerful for us."

<sup>20</sup> Then the local shepherds came and claimed it. "This is our land and our well," they said, and argued over it with Isaac's herds-men. So he named the well, "The Well of Argument!"<sup>a</sup> <sup>21</sup> Isaac's men then dug another well, but again there was a fight over it. So he called it, "The Well of Anger."<sup>b</sup> <sup>22</sup> Abandoning that one, he dug again, and the local residents finally left him alone. So he called it, "The Well of Room Enough for Us at Last!"<sup>c</sup> "For now at last," he said, "the Lord has made room for us and we shall thrive."

<sup>23</sup> When he went to Beer-sheba, <sup>24</sup> Jehovah appeared to him on the night of his arrival. "I am the God of Abraham your father," he said. "Fear not, for I am with you and will bless you, and will give you so many descendants that they will become a great nation—because of my promise to Abraham, who obeyed me." <sup>25</sup> Then Isaac built an altar and worshiped Jehovah; and he settled there, and his servants dug a well.

<sup>27</sup> "Why have you come?" Isaac asked them. "This is obviously no friendly visit, since you kicked me out in a most uncivil way."

<sup>28</sup> "Well," they said, "we can plainly see that Jehovah is blessing you. We've decided to ask for a treaty between us. <sup>29</sup> Promise that you will not harm us, just as we have not harmed you, and in fact, have done only good to you and have sent you away in peace; we bless you in the name of the Lord."

<sup>30</sup> So Isaac prepared a great feast for them, and they ate and drank in preparation for the treaty ceremonies. <sup>31</sup> In the morning, as soon as they were up, they each took solemn oaths to seal a non-aggression pact. Then Isaac sent them happily home again.

<sup>32</sup> That very same day Isaac's servants came to tell him, "We have found water"—in the well they had been digging. <sup>33</sup> So he named the well, "The Well of the Oath,"<sup>d</sup> and the city that grew up there was named "Oath,"<sup>e</sup> and is called that to this day.

<sup>34</sup> Esau, at the age of forty, married a girl named Judith, daughter of Be-eri the Hethite; and he also married Basemath, daughter of Elon the Hethite. <sup>35</sup> But Isaac and Rebekah were bitter about his marrying them.

27 ONE DAY, IN Isaac's old age when he was half-blind, he called for Esau his oldest son. Isaac: "My son?"

e Beer-sheba.

Esau: "Yes, father?"

<sup>2,4</sup> Isaac: "I am an old man now, and expect to die 'most any day. Take your bow and arrows out into the fields and get me some venison, and prepare it just the way I like it—savory and good—and bring it here for me to eat, and I will give you the blessings that belong<sup>a</sup> to you, my first-born son,<sup>a</sup> before I die."

<sup>8,9,10</sup> Rebekah: "Now do exactly as I tell you. Go out to the flocks and bring me two young goats, and I'll prepare your father's favorite dish from them. Then take it to your father, and after he has enjoyed it he will bless you before his death, instead of Esau!"<sup>a</sup>

<sup>11,12</sup> Jacob: "But mother! He won't be fooled that easily.<sup>a</sup> Think how hairy Esau is, and how smooth my skin is! What if my father feels me? He'll think I'm making a fool of him, and curse me instead of blessing me!"

she took Esau's best clothes—they were there in the house—and instructed Jacob to put them on. <sup>16</sup> And she made him a pair of gloves from the hairy skin of the young goats, and fastened a strip of the hide around his neck; <sup>17</sup> then she gave him the meat, with its rich aroma, and some fresh-baked bread. <sup>18</sup> Jacob carried the platter of food into the room where his father was lying.

Jacob: "Father?"

Isaac: "Yes? Who is it, my son—Esau or Jacob?"

<sup>19</sup> Jacob: "It's Esau, your oldest son. I've done as you told me to. Here is the delicious venison you wanted. Sit up and eat it, so that you will bless me with all your heart!"

Jacob: "Because Jehovah your God put it in my path!"

Jacob: "Yes, of course."

<sup>25</sup> Isaac: "Then bring me the venison, and I will eat it and bless you with all my heart."

<sup>27,28,29</sup> Isaac: "The smell of my son is the good smell of the earth and fields that Jehovah has blessed. May God always give you plenty of rain for your crops, and good harvest of grain, and new wine. May many nations be your slaves. Be the master of your brothers. May all your relatives bow low before you. Cursed are all who curse you, and blessed are all who bless you."

<sup>30</sup> (As soon as Isaac has blessed Jacob, and almost before Jacob leaves the room, Esau arrives, coming in from his hunting. <sup>31</sup> He also has prepared his father's favorite dish and brings it to him.)

Esau: "Here I am, father, with the venison. Sit up and eat it so that you can give me your finest blessings!"

Esau: "Why, it's me, of course! Esau, your oldest son!"

Isaac: "Then who is it who was just here with venison, and I have already eaten it and blessed him with irrevocable blessing?"

Esau: "O my father, bless me, bless me too!"

and tricked me and has carried away your blessing."

<sup>39,40</sup> Isaac: "Yours will be no life of ease and luxury, but you shall hew your way with your sword. For a time you will serve your brother, but you will finally shake loose from him and be free."

<sup>41</sup> So Esau hated Jacob because of what he had done to him. He said to himself, "My father will soon be gone, and then I will kill Jacob."

<sup>42</sup> But someone got wind of what he was planning, and reported it to Rebekah. She sent for Jacob and told him that his life was being threatened by Esau.

<sup>43</sup> "This is what to do," she said. "Flee to your Uncle Laban in Haran. Stay there with him awhile until your brother's fury is spent, and he forgets what you have done. Then I will send for you. For why should I be bereaved of both of you in one day?"

<sup>6,7</sup> Esau realized that his father despised the local girls, and that his father and mother had sent Jacob to Paddan-aram, with his father's blessing, to get a wife from there, and that they had strictly warned him against marrying a Canaanite girl, and that Jacob had agreed and had left for Paddan-aram. <sup>8</sup> So Esau went to his Uncle Ishmael's family and married two additional wives from there, besides the wives he already had. One of these new wives was Mahalath, the sister of Nebaioth, and daughter of Ishmael, Abraham's son.

<sup>13</sup> At the top of the stairs stood the Lord. "I am Jehovah," he said, "the God of Abraham, and of your father Isaac. The ground you are lying on is yours! I will give it to you and to your descendants. <sup>14</sup> For you will have descendants as many as dust! They will cover the land from east to west and from north to south; and all the nations of the earth will be blessed through you and your descendants. <sup>15</sup> What's more, I am with you, and will protect you wherever you go, and will bring you back safely to this land; I will be with you constantly until I have finished giving you all I am promising."

<sup>20</sup> And Jacob vowed this vow to God: "If God will help and protect me on this journey and give me food and clothes, <sup>21</sup> and will bring me back safely to my father, then I will choose Jehovah as my God!"<sup>22</sup> And this memorial pillar shall become a place for worship; and I will give you back a tenth of everything you give me!"

29 JACOB TRAVELED ON, finally arriving in the land of the East.<sup>2</sup> He saw in the distance three flocks of sheep lying beside a well in an open field, waiting to be watered. But a heavy stone covered the mouth of the well.<sup>3</sup> (The custom was that the stone was not removed until all the flocks were there. After watering them, the stone was rolled back over the mouth of the well again.) "Jacob went over to the shepherds and asked them where they lived.

"At Haran," they said.

"He's well and prosperous. Look, there comes his daughter Rachel with the sheep."

<sup>7</sup> "Why don't you water the flocks so they can get back to grazing?" Jacob asked. "They'll be hungry if you stop so early in the day!"

tered his uncle's flock.<sup>11</sup> Then Jacob kissed Rachel and started crying!<sup>12,13</sup> He explained about being her cousin on her father's side, and that he was her Aunt Rebekah's son. She quickly ran and told her father, Laban, and as soon as he heard of Jacob's arrival, he rushed out to meet him and greeted him warmly and brought him home. Then Jacob told him his story.

After Jacob had been there about a month,<sup>15</sup> Laban said to him one day, "Just because we are relatives is no reason for you to work for me without pay. How much do you want?"<sup>16</sup> Now Laban had two daughters, Leah, the older, and her younger sister, Rachel.<sup>17</sup> Leah had lovely eyes, but Rachel was shapely, and in every way a beauty.<sup>18</sup> Well, Jacob was in love with Rachel. So he told her father, "I'll work for you seven years if you'll give me Rachel as my wife."

<sup>20</sup> So Jacob spent the next seven years working to pay for Rachel. But they seemed to him but a few days, he was so much in love.<sup>21</sup> Finally the time came for him to marry her.

"I have fulfilled my contract," Jacob said to Laban. "Now give me my wife, so that I can sleep with her."

Leah a servant girl, Zilpah, to be her maid.)<sup>25</sup> But in the morning—it was Leah!

“What sort of trick is this?” Jacob raged at Laban. “I worked for seven years for Rachel. What do you mean by this trickery?”

<sup>28</sup> So Jacob agreed to work seven more years. Then Laban gave him Rachel, too. <sup>29</sup> And Laban gave to Rachel a servant girl, Bilhah, to be her maid. <sup>30</sup> So Jacob slept with Rachel, too, and he loved her more than Leah, and stayed and worked the additional seven years.

<sup>32</sup> So Leah became pregnant and had a son, Reuben (meaning “God has noticed my trouble”), for she said, “Jehovah has noticed my trouble—now my husband will love me.” <sup>33</sup> She soon became pregnant again and had another son and named him Simeon (meaning “Jehovah heard”), for she said,

“Jehovah heard that I was unloved, and so he has given me another son.” <sup>34</sup> Again she became pregnant and had a son, and named him Levi (meaning “Attachment”) for she said, “Surely now my husband will feel affection for me, since I have given him three sons!” <sup>35</sup> Once again she was pregnant and had a son and named him Judah (meaning “Praise”), for she said, “Now I will praise Jehovah!” And then she stopped having children.

30 RACHEL, REALIZING SHE WAS barren, became envious of her sister. “Give me children or I’ll die,” she exclaimed to Jacob.

<sup>7</sup> Then Bilhah, Rachel’s servant-girl, became pregnant again and gave Jacob a second son. <sup>8</sup> Rachel named him Naphtali (meaning “Wrestling”), for she said, “I am in a fierce contest with my sister and I am winning!”

me blessed indeed!"

Rachel said sadly, "He will sleep with you tonight because of the mandrakes."

<sup>16</sup> That evening as Jacob was coming home from the fields, Leah went out to meet him. "You must sleep with me tonight!" she said; "for I am hiring you with some mandrakes my son has found!" So he did. <sup>17</sup> And God answered her prayers and she became pregnant again, and gave birth to her fifth son. <sup>18</sup> She named him Issachar (meaning "Wages"), for she said, "God has repaid me for giving my slave-girl to my husband." <sup>19</sup> Then once again she became pregnant, with a sixth son. <sup>20</sup> She named him Zebulun (meaning "Gifts"), for she said, "God has given me good gifts for my husband. Now he will honor me, for I have given him six sons." <sup>21</sup> Afterwards she gave birth to a daughter and named her Dinah.

<sup>22</sup> Then God remembered about Rachel's plight, and answered her prayers by giving her a child. <sup>23,24</sup> For she became pregnant and gave birth to a son. "God has removed the dark slur against my name," she said. And she named him Joseph (meaning "May I also have another!"), for she said, "May Jehovah give me another son."

<sup>25</sup> Soon after the birth of Joseph to Rachel, Jacob said to Laban, "I want to go back home. <sup>26</sup> Let me take my wives and children—for I earned them from you—and be gone, for you know how fully I have paid for them with my service to you."

<sup>29</sup> Jacob replied, "You know how faithfully I've served you through these many years, and how your flocks and herds have grown. <sup>30</sup> For it was little indeed you had before I came, and your wealth has increased enormously; Jehovah has blessed you from everything I do! But now, what about me? When should I provide for my own family?"

Jacob replied, "If you will do one thing, I'll go back to work for you. Let me go out among your flocks today and remove all the goats that are speckled or spotted, and all the black sheep. Give them to me as my wages. <sup>33</sup> Then if you ever find any white goats or sheep in my flock, you will know that I have stolen them from you!"

<sup>35,36</sup> So that very day Laban went out and formed a flock for Jacob of all the male goats that were ringed and spotted, and the females that were speckled and spotted with any white patches, and all of the black sheep. He gave them to Jacob's sons to take them three days' distance, and Jacob stayed and cared for Laban's flock. <sup>37</sup> Then Jacob took fresh shoots from poplar, almond, and plane trees, and peeled white streaks in them, <sup>38</sup> and placed these rods beside the watering troughs so that the flocks would see them when they came to drink; for that is when they mated. <sup>39,40</sup> So the flocks mated before the white-streaked rods, and their offspring were streaked and spotted, and Jacob added them to his flock. Then he divided out the ewes from Laban's flock and segregated them from the rams, and let them mate only with Jacob's black rams. Thus he built his flocks from Laban's. <sup>41</sup> Moreover, he watched for the stronger animals to mate, and placed the peeled branches before them, <sup>42</sup> but didn't with the feebler ones. So the less healthy lambs were Laban's and the stronger ones were Jacob's! <sup>43</sup> As a result, Jacob's flocks increased rapidly and he became very wealthy, with many servants, camels, and donkeys.

31 BUT JACOB LEARNED that Laban's sons were grumbling, "He owes everything he owns to our father. All his wealth is at our father's expense." <sup>2</sup> Soon Jacob noticed a considerable cooling in Laban's attitude towards him.

<sup>3</sup> Jehovah now spoke to Jacob and told him, "Return to the land of your fathers, and to your relatives there; and I will be with you."

"Your father has turned against me," he told them, "and now the God of my fathers has come and spoken to me. <sup>6</sup> You know how hard I've worked for your father, <sup>7</sup> but he has been completely unscrupulous and has broken his wage contract with me again and again and again. But God has not permitted him to do me any harm! <sup>8</sup> For if he said the speckled animals would be mine, then all the flock produced speckled; and when he changed and said I could have the streaked ones, then all the lambs were streaked! <sup>9</sup> In this way God has made me wealthy at your father's expense.

<sup>10</sup> "And at the mating season, I had a dream, and saw that the he-goats mating with the flock were streaked, speckled, and mottled. <sup>11</sup> Then, in my dream, the Angel of God called to me <sup>12</sup> and told me that I should mate the white<sup>a</sup> nanny goats with streaked, speckled, and mottled he-goats. 'For I have seen all that Laban has done to you,' the Angel said. <sup>13</sup> 'I am the God you met at Bethel,' he continued, 'the place where you anointed the pillar and made a vow to serve me. Now leave this country and return to the land of your birth.'" ing for us here—none of our father's wealth will come to us anyway! <sup>15</sup> He has reduced our rights to those of foreign women; he sold us, and what he received for us has disappeared. <sup>16</sup> "The riches God has given you from our father were legally ours and our children's to begin with! So go ahead and do whatever God has told you to."

tured in a battle, that you have rushed them away like this?" <sup>27</sup> Why didn't you give me a chance to have a farewell party, with singing and orchestra and harp? <sup>28</sup> Why didn't you let me kiss my grandchildren and tell them good-bye? This is a strange way to act. <sup>29</sup> I could crush you, but the God of your father appeared to me last night and told me, 'Be careful not to be too hard on Jacob!' <sup>30</sup> "But see here—though you feel you must go, and long so intensely for your childhood home—why have you stolen my idols?"

<sup>33</sup> Laban went first into Jacob's tent to search there, then into Leah's, and then searched the two tents of the concubines, but didn't find them. Finally he went into Rachel's tent. <sup>34</sup> Rachel, remember, was the one who had stolen the idols; she had stuffed them into her camel saddle and now was sitting on them! So although Laban searched the tents thoroughly, he didn't find them.

<sup>b</sup> Implied. Literally, "The manner of women is upon me." She was pregnant with Benjamin, but nevertheless may have been falsely claiming her menstrual period, which, under the later Mosaic law, caused ceremonial defilement of all that was sat upon. See Leviticus 15.

<sup>36,37</sup> Now Jacob got mad at Laban. "What did you find?" he demanded. "What is my crime? You have come rushing after me as though you were chasing a criminal and have searched through everything. Now put everything I stole out here in front of us, before your men and mine, for all to see and to decide whose it is!

<sup>38</sup> "Twenty years I've been with you, and all that time I cared for your ewes and nanny goats so that they produced healthy offspring, and I never touched one ram of yours for food. <sup>39</sup> If any were attacked and killed by wild animals, did I show them to you and ask you to reduce the count of your flock? No, I took the loss. You made me pay for every animal stolen from the flocks, whether I could help it or not.<sup>c</sup>

<sup>43</sup> Laban replied, "These women are my daughters, and these children are mine, and these flocks and all that you have—all are mine. So how could I harm my own daughters and grandchildren? "Come now and we will sign a peace pact, you and I, and will live by its terms."

<sup>44</sup> So Jacob took a stone and set it up as a monument, <sup>45</sup> and told his men to gather stones and make a heap, and Jacob and Laban ate together beside the pile of rocks. <sup>46,47</sup> They named it "The Witness Pile"—"Jegar-sahadutha," in Laban's language, and "Galeed" in Jacob's.

"This pile of stones will stand as a witness against us [if either of us trespasses across this line<sup>d</sup>]," Laban said. <sup>48</sup> So it was also called "The Watchtower" (Mizpah). For Laban said, "May the Lord see to it that we keep this bargain when we are out of each other's sight. <sup>49</sup> And if you are harsh to my daughters, or take other wives, I won't know, but God will see it.

So Jacob took oath before the mighty God of his father Isaac, to respect the boundary line. <sup>53</sup> Then Jacob presented a sacrifice to God there at the top of the mountain, and invited his companions to a feast, and afterwards spent the night with them on the mountain. <sup>54</sup> Laban was up early the next morning and kissed his daughters and grandchildren, and blessed them, and returned home.

32 SO JACOB AND his household<sup>a</sup> started on again. And the angels of God came to meet him. When he saw them he exclaimed, "God lives here!" So he named the place "God's territory!"<sup>b</sup>

<sup>6</sup> The messengers returned with the news that Esau was on the way to meet Jacob—with an army of 400 men! <sup>7</sup> Jacob was frantic with fear. He divided his household, along with the flocks and herds and camels, into two groups; <sup>8</sup> for he said, "If Esau attacks one group, perhaps the other can escape."

<sup>9</sup> Then Jacob prayed, "O God of Abraham my grandfather, and of my father Isaac—O Jehovah who told me to return to the land of my relatives, and said that you would do me good—<sup>10</sup> I am not worthy of the least of all your loving kindnesses shown me again and again just as you promised me. For when I left home I owned nothing except a walking stick! And now I am two armies! <sup>11</sup> O Lord, please deliver me from destruction at the hand of my brother Esau, for I am frightened—terribly afraid that he is coming to kill me and these mothers and my children. <sup>12</sup> But you promised to do me good, and to multiply my descendants until they become as the sands along the shores—too many to count."

200 nanny goats,
20 billy goats,
200 ewes,
20 rams,
30 milk camels,
with their colts,
40 cows;
10 bulls,
20 female donkeys,
10 male donkeys.

<sup>16</sup> He instructed his servants to drive them on ahead, each group of animals by itself, separated by a distance between. <sup>17</sup> He told the men driving the first group that when they met Esau and he asked, "Where are you going? Whose servants are you? Whose animals are these?"—<sup>18</sup> they should reply: "These belong to your servant Jacob. They are a present for his master Esau! He is coming right behind us!"

dan River at the Jabbok ford, then returned again to the camp and was there alone; and a Man wrestled with him until dawn.<sup>25</sup> And when the Man saw that he couldn't win the match, he struck Jacob's hip, and knocked it out of joint at the socket.

But Jacob panted, "I will not let you go until you bless me."

<sup>27</sup> "What is your name?" the Man asked.

"Jacob," was the reply.

<sup>28</sup> "It isn't anymore!" the Man told him. "It is Israel—one who has power with God. Because you have been strong with God, you shall prevail with men."

<sup>29</sup> "What is your name?" Jacob asked him.

"No, you mustn't ask," the Man told him. And he blessed him there.

<sup>30</sup> Jacob named the place "Peniel" ("The Face of God"), for he said, "I have seen God face to face, and yet my life is spared."<sup>31</sup> The sun rose as he started on, and he was limping because of his hip.<sup>32</sup> (That is why the people of Israel still do not eat the sciatic muscle where it attaches to the hip.)

low seven times before him.<sup>4</sup> And then Esau ran to meet him and embraced him affectionately and kissed him; and both of them were in tears!

"My children," Jacob replied.

And Jacob replied, "They are my gifts, to curry your favor!"

<sup>10</sup> "No, but please accept them," Jacob said, "for what a relief it is to see your friendly smile! I was as frightened of you as though approaching God!<sup>a</sup> Please take my gifts. For God has been very generous to me and I have enough." So Jacob insisted, and finally Esau accepted them.

<sup>12</sup> But Jacob replied, "As you can see,<sup>b</sup> some of the children are small, and the flocks and herds have their young, and if they are driven too hard, they will die.<sup>14</sup> So you go on ahead of us and we'll follow at our own pace and meet you at Seir."

me leave you some of my men to assist you and be your guides."

"No," Jacob insisted, "we'll get along just fine. Please do as I suggest."

<sup>16</sup> So Esau started back to Seir that same day. <sup>17</sup> Meanwhile Jacob and his household went as far as Succoth. There he built himself a camp, with pens for his flocks and herds. (That is why the place is called Succoth, meaning "huts.")

<sup>18</sup> Then they arrived safely at Shechem, in Canaan, and camped outside the city. <sup>19</sup> (He bought the land he camped on from the family of Hamor, Shechem's father, for 100 pieces of silver. <sup>20</sup> And there he erected an altar and called it "El-Elohe-Israel," "The Altar to the God of Israel.")

<sup>9,10</sup> Moreover, we invite you folks to live here among us and to let your daughters marry our sons, and we will give our daughters as wives for your young men. And you shall live among us wherever you wish and carry on your business among us and become rich!"

<sup>11</sup> Then Shechem addressed Dinah's father and brothers. "Please be kind to me and let me have her as my wife," he begged. "I will give whatever you require. <sup>12</sup> No matter what dowry or gift you demand, I will pay it—only give me the girl as my wife."

<sup>18,19</sup> Hamor and Shechem gladly agreed, and lost no time in acting upon this request, for Shechem was very much in love with Dinah, and could, he felt sure, sell the idea to the other men of the city—for he was highly respected and very popular. <sup>20</sup> So Hamor and Shechem appeared before the city council<sup>a</sup> and presented their request.

<sup>23</sup> "But if we do this, then all they have will become ours and the land will be enriched. Come on, let's agree to this so that they will settle here among us."

<sup>24</sup> So all the men agreed, and all were circumcised. <sup>25</sup> But three days later, when their wounds were sore and sensitive to every move they made, two of Dinah's brothers, Simeon and Levi, took their swords, entered the city without opposition, and slaughtered every man there, <sup>26</sup> including Hamor and Shechem. They rescued Dinah from Shechem's house and returned to their camp again.

<sup>30</sup> Then Jacob said to Levi and Simeon, "You have made me stink among all the people of this land—all the Canaanites and Perizzites. We are so few that they will come and crush us, and we will all be killed."

35 "MOVE ON TO Bethel now, and settle there," God said to Jacob, "and build an altar to worship the God who appeared to you when you fled from your brother Esau."

<sup>2</sup> So Jacob instructed all those in his household to destroy the idols they had brought with them, and to wash themselves and to put on fresh clothing. <sup>3</sup> "For we are going to Bethel," he told them, "and I will build an altar there to the God who answered my prayers in the day of my distress, and was with me on my journey."

<sup>4</sup> So they gave Jacob all their idols and their earrings, and he buried them beneath the oak tree near Shechem. <sup>5</sup> Then they started on again. And the terror of God was upon all the cities they journeyed through, so that they were not attacked.

<sup>6</sup> Finally they arrived at Luz (also called Bethel), in Canaan. <sup>7</sup> And Jacob erected an altar there and named it "The altar to the God who met me here at Bethel"<sup>a</sup> because it was there at Bethel that God appeared to him when he was fleeing from Esau.

Jacob ('Grabber'), but Israel ('One who prevails with God'). <sup>11</sup> I am God Almighty," the Lord said to him, "and I will cause you to be fertile and to multiply and to become a great nation, yes, many nations; many kings shall be among your descendants. <sup>12</sup> And I will pass on to you the land I gave to Abraham and Isaac. Yes, I will give it to you and to your descendants."

<sup>13,14</sup> Afterwards Jacob built a stone pillar at the place where God had appeared to him; and he poured wine over it as an offering to God, and then anointed the pillar with olive oil. <sup>15</sup> Jacob named the spot Bethel ("House of God"), because God had spoken to him there.

<sup>16</sup> Leaving Bethel, he and his household traveled on toward Ephrath (Bethlehem). But Rachel's pains of childbirth began while they were still a long way away. <sup>17</sup> After a very hard delivery, the midwife finally exclaimed, "Wonderful—another boy!" <sup>18</sup> And with Rachel's last breath (for she died) she named him "Ben-oni" ("Son of my sorrow"); but his father called him "Benjamin" ("Son of my right hand").

Here are the names of the twelve sons of Jacob:

Reuben, Jacob's oldest child,

Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, Zebulun.

Joseph, Benjamin.

Gad, Asher.

All these were born to him at Paddan-aram.

Adah (daughter of Elon the Hethite),

Oholibamah (daughter of Anah and granddaughter of Zibeon the Hivite), Basemath (his cousin<sup>a</sup>—she was a daughter of Ishmael—the sister of Nebaioth).

Korah. All these sons were born to Esau in the land of Canaan.

<sup>6,7,8</sup> Then Esau took his wives, children, household servants, cattle and flocks—all the wealth he had gained in the land of Canaan—and moved away from his brother Jacob to Mount Seir. (For there was not land enough to support them both because of all their cattle.)

Teman, Omar, Zepho,
Gatam, Kenaz, Amalek (born to Timna, Eliphaz' concubine).

<sup>13,14b</sup> Esau also had grandchildren from his wife Basemath. Born to her son Reuel were:

Nahath, Zerah, Shammah, Mizzah.

The clan of Omar,
The clan of Zepho,
The clan of Kenaz,
The clan of Korah,
The clan of Gatam,
The clan of Amalek.

The above clans were the descendants of Eliphaz, the oldest son of Esau and Adah.

The clan of Nahath,

The clan of Zerah,
The clan of Shammah,
The clan of Mizzah.

<sup>18,19</sup> And these are the clans named after the sons of Esau and his wife Oholibamah (daughter of Anah):

The clan of Jeush,
The clan of Jalam,
The clan of Korah.

<sup>20,21</sup> These are the names of the tribes that descended from Seir, the Horite—one of the native families of the land of Seir:

The tribe of Lotan,
The tribe of Shobal,
The tribe of Zibeon,
The tribe of Anah,
The tribe of Dishon,
The tribe of Ezer,
The tribe of Dishan.

Alvan, Manahath, Ebal, Shepho, Onam.

Dishon, Oholibamah.

Hemdan, Eshban,

King Bela (son of Beor), from Dinhabah in Edom.

Succeeded<sup>c</sup> by: King Jobab (son of Zerah), from the city<sup>f</sup> of Bozrah.

Succeeded by: King Husham, from the land of the Temanites.

Succeeded by: King Hadad (son of Bedad), the leader of the forces that defeated the army of Midian when it invaded Moab. His city was Avith.

Succeeded by: King Samlah, from Masrekah.

Succeeded by: King Shaul, from Rehoboth-by-the-River.

Succeeded by: King Baalhanan (son of Achbor).

Succeeded by: King Hadad, from the city of Pau.

King Hadad's wife was Mehetabel, daughter of Matred and granddaughter of Mezahab.

The clan of Timna,
The clan of Alvah,

37 SO JACOB SETTLED again in the land of Canaan, where his father had lived.

<sup>9</sup> Then he had another dream and told it to his brothers. "Listen to my latest dream," he boasted.

"The sun, moon, and eleven stars bowed low before me!" <sup>10</sup> This time he told his father as well as his brothers; but his father rebuked him. "What is this?" he asked. "Shall I indeed, and your mother and brothers come and bow before you?" <sup>11</sup> His brothers were fit to be tied concerning this affair, but his father gave it quite a bit of thought and wondered what it all meant.

<sup>12</sup> One day Joseph's brothers took their father's flocks to Shechem to graze them there. <sup>13,14</sup> A few days later Israel called for Joseph, and told him, "Your brothers are over in Shechem grazing the flocks. Go and see how they are getting along, and how it is with the flocks, and bring me word."

"Very good," Joseph replied. So he traveled to Shechem from his home at Hebron Valley. <sup>15</sup> A man noticed him wandering in the fields.

"Who are you looking for?" he asked.

<sup>17</sup> "Yes," the man told him, "they are no longer here. I heard your brothers say they were going to Dothan." So Joseph followed them to Dothan and found them there. <sup>18</sup> But when they saw him coming, recognizing him in the distance, they decided to kill him!

<sup>19,20</sup> "Here comes that master-dreamer," they exclaimed. "Come on, let's kill him and toss him into a well and tell father that a wild animal has eaten him. Then we'll see what will become of all his dreams!"

<sup>21,22</sup> But Reuben hoped to spare Joseph's life. "Let's not kill him," he said; "we'll shed no blood—let's throw him alive into this well here; that way he'll die without our touching him!" (Reuben was planning to get him out later and return him to his father.) <sup>23</sup> So when Joseph got there, they pulled off his brightly-colored robe, <sup>24</sup> and threw him into an empty well—there was no water in it. <sup>25</sup> Then they sat down for supper. Suddenly they noticed a string of camels coming towards them in the distance, probably Ishmaelite traders who were taking gum, spices, and herbs from Gilead to Egypt.

<sup>30</sup> "The child is gone; and I, where shall I go now?" he wept to his brothers. <sup>31</sup> Then the brothers killed a goat and spattered its blood on Joseph's coat, <sup>32</sup> and took the coat to their father and asked him to identify it.

"We found this in the field,"

they told him. "Is it Joseph's coat or not?"<sup>33</sup> Their father recognized it at once.

"Yes," he sobbed, "it is my son's coat. A wild animal has eaten him. Joseph is without doubt torn in pieces."

"I will die in mourning for my son," he would say, and then break down and cry.

38 ABOUT THIS TIME, Judah left home and moved to Adullam and lived there with a man named Hirah. <sup>2</sup> There he met and married a Canaanite girl—the daughter of Shua. <sup>3,4</sup> They lived at Chezib and had three sons, Er, Onan, and Shelah. These names were given to them by their mother, except for Er, who was named by his father.

<sup>8</sup> Then Judah said to Er's brother, Onan, "You must marry Tamar, as our law requires of a dead man's brother; so that her sons from you will be your brother's heirs."

counted as his own, and so, although he married her,<sup>a</sup> whenever he went in to sleep with her, he spilled the sperm on the bed<sup>b</sup> to prevent her from having a baby which would be his brother's. <sup>10</sup> So far as the Lord was concerned, it was very wrong of him [to deny a child to his deceased brother<sup>a</sup>], so he killed him, too. <sup>11</sup> Then Judah told Tamar, his daughter-in-law, not to marry again at that time, but to return to her childhood home and to her parents, and to remain a widow there until his youngest son Shelah was old enough to marry her. (But he didn't really intend for Shelah to do this, for fear God would kill him, too, just as he had his two brothers.) So Tamar went home to her parents.

"How much will you pay me?" she asked.

"What pledge will you give me, so that I can be sure you will send it?" she asked.

"Your identification seal and your walking stick," she replied. So he gave them to her and she let him come and sleep with her; and she became pregnant as a result. <sup>19</sup> Afterwards she resumed wearing her widow's clothing as usual. <sup>20</sup> Judah asked his friend Hirah the Adullamite to take the young goat back to her, and to pick up the pledges he had given her, but Hirah couldn't find her!

"But we've never had a public prostitute here," they replied. <sup>22</sup> So he returned to Judah and told him he couldn't find her anywhere, and what the men of the place had told him.

"Bring her out and burn her," Judah shouted.

<sup>25</sup> But as they were taking her out to kill her she sent this message to her father-in-law: "The man who owns this identification seal and walking stick is the father of my child. Do you recognize them?"

<sup>26</sup> Judah admitted that they were his and said, "She is more in the right than I am, because I refused to keep my promise to give her to my son Shelah." But he did not marry her.

<sup>27</sup> In due season the time of her delivery arrived and she had twin sons. <sup>28</sup> As they were being born the midwife tied a scarlet thread around the wrist of the child who appeared first, <sup>29</sup> but he drew back his hand and the other baby was actually the first to be born. "Where did you come from!" she exclaimed. And ever after he was called Perez (meaning "Bursting Out"). <sup>30</sup> Then, soon afterwards, the baby with the scarlet thread on his wrist was born, and he was named Zerah.

39 WHEN JOSEPH ARRIVED IN

Egypt as a captive of the Ishmaelite traders, he was purchased from them by Potiphar, a member of the personal staff of Pharaoh, the king of Egypt. Now this man Potiphar was the captain of the king's bodyguard and his chief executioner. <sup>2</sup> The Lord greatly blessed Joseph there in the home of his master, so that everything he did succeeded. <sup>3</sup> Potiphar noticed this and realized that the Lord was with Joseph in a very special way. <sup>4</sup> So Joseph naturally became quite a favorite with him. Soon he was put in charge of the administration of Potiphar's household, and all of his business affairs. <sup>5</sup> At once the Lord began blessing Potiphar for Joseph's sake. All his household affairs began to run smoothly, his crops flourished and his flocks multiplied. "So Potiphar gave Joseph the complete administrative responsibility over everything he owned. He hadn't a worry in the world with Joseph there, except to decide what he wanted to eat! Joseph, by the way, was a very handsome young man.

<sup>8</sup> Joseph refused. "Look," he told her, "my master trusts me with everything in the entire household; <sup>9</sup> he himself has no more authority here than I have! He has held back nothing from me except you yourself because you are his wife. How can I do such a wicked thing as this? It would be a great sin against God."

when I screamed, he ran, and forgot to take his jacket."

"That Hebrew slave you've had around here tried to rape me,"<sup>18</sup> and I was only saved by my screams. He fled, leaving his jacket behind!"

40 SOME TIME LATER it so happened that the king of Egypt became angry with his chief baker and his wine taster, so he jailed them both in the prison where Joseph was, in the castle of Potiphar, the captain of the guard, who was the chief executioner. <sup>4</sup> They remained under arrest there for quite some time, and Potiphar assigned Joseph to wait on them. <sup>5</sup> One night each of them had a dream. <sup>6</sup> The next morning Joseph noticed that they looked dejected and sad.

no one here to tell us what they mean."

"Interpreting dreams is God's business," Joseph replied. "Tell me what you saw."

<sup>9,10</sup> The wine taster told his dream first. "In my dream," he said, "I saw a vine with three branches that began to bud and blossom, and soon there were clusters of ripe grapes. <sup>11</sup> I was holding Pharaoh's wine cup in my hand, so I took the grapes and squeezed the juice into it, and gave it to him to drink."

<sup>12</sup> "I know what the dream means," Joseph said. "The three branches mean three days! <sup>13</sup> Within three days Pharaoh is going to take you out of prison and give you back your job as his wine taster. <sup>14</sup> And please have some pity on me when you are back in his favor, and mention me to Pharaoh, and ask him to let me out of here. <sup>15</sup> For I was kidnapped from my homeland among the Hebrews, and now this—here I am in jail when I did nothing to deserve it."

"In my dream," he said, "there were three baskets of pastries on my head. <sup>17</sup> In the top basket were all kinds of bakery goods for Pharaoh, but the birds came and ate them."

<sup>18,19</sup> "The three baskets mean three days," Joseph told him. "Three days from now Pharaoh will take off your head and impale your body on a pole, and the birds will come and pick off your flesh!"

for all of his officials and household staff. He sent for his wine taster and chief baker, and they were brought to him from the prison.

41 ONE NIGHT TWO years later, Pharaoh dreamed that he was standing on the bank of the Nile River, <sup>2</sup> when suddenly, seven sleek, fat cows came up out of the river and began grazing in the grass. <sup>3</sup> Then seven other cows came up from the river, but they were very skinny and all their ribs stood out. They went over and stood beside the fat cows. <sup>4</sup> Then the skinny cows ate the fat ones! At which point, Pharaoh woke up!

<sup>5</sup> Soon he fell asleep again and had a second dream. This time he saw seven heads of grain on one stalk, with every kernel well formed and plump. <sup>6</sup> Then, suddenly, seven more heads appeared on the stalk, but these were shriveled and withered by the east wind. <sup>7</sup> And these thin heads swallowed up the seven plump, well-formed heads! Then Pharaoh woke up again and realized it was all a dream. <sup>8</sup> Next morning, as he thought about it, he became very concerned as to what the dreams might mean; he called for all the magicians and sages of Egypt and told them about it, but not one of them could suggest what his dreams meant. <sup>9</sup> Then the king's wine taster spoke up.

"Today I remember my sin!" he said. <sup>10</sup> "Some time ago when you were angry with a couple of us and put me and the chief baker in jail in the castle of the captain of the guard, <sup>11</sup> the chief baker and I each had a dream one night. <sup>12</sup> We told the dreams to a young Hebrew fellow there who was a slave of the captain of the guard, and he told us what our dreams meant.

<sup>15</sup> "I had a dream last night," Pharaoh told him, "and none of these men can tell me what it means. But I have heard that you can interpret dreams, and that is why I have called for you."

<sup>17</sup> So Pharaoh told him the dream. "I was standing upon the bank of the Nile River," he said, <sup>18</sup> "when suddenly, seven fat, healthy-looking cows came up out of the river and began grazing along the river bank. <sup>19</sup> But then seven other cows came up from the river, very skinny and bony—in fact, I've never seen such poor-looking specimens in all the land of Egypt. <sup>20</sup> And these skinny cattle ate up the seven fat ones that had come out first, <sup>21</sup> and afterwards they were still as skinny as before! Then I woke up.

<sup>22</sup> "A little later I had another dream. This time there were seven heads of grain on one stalk, and all seven heads were plump and full. <sup>23</sup> Then, out of the same stalk, came seven withered, thin heads. <sup>24</sup> And the thin heads swallowed up the fat ones!

"I told all this to my magicians, but not one of them could tell me the meaning."

<sup>25</sup> "Both dreams mean the same thing," Joseph told Pharaoh. "God was telling you what he is going to do here in the land of Egypt. <sup>26</sup> The seven fat cows (and also the seven fat, well-formed heads of grain) mean that there are seven years of prosperity ahead. <sup>27</sup> The seven skinny cows (and also the seven thin and withered heads of grain) indicate that there will be seven years of famine following the seven years of prosperity.

<sup>28</sup> "So God has showed you what he is about to do: <sup>29</sup> The next seven years will be a period of great prosperity throughout all the land of Egypt; <sup>30</sup> but afterwards there will be seven years of famine so great that all the prosperity will be forgotten and wiped out; famine will consume the land.

<sup>31</sup> "The famine will be so terrible that even the memory of the good years will be erased. <sup>32</sup> The double dream gives double impact, showing that what I have told you is certainly going to happen, for God has decreed it, and it is going to happen soon. <sup>33</sup> My suggestion is that you find the wisest man in Egypt and put him in charge of administering a nation-wide farm program. <sup>34,35</sup> Let Pharaoh divide Egypt into five administrative districts,<sup>a</sup> and let the officials of these districts gather into the royal storehouses all the excess crops of the next seven years,<sup>36</sup> so that there will be enough to eat when the seven years of famine come. Otherwise, disaster will surely strike."

<sup>43</sup> Pharaoh also gave Joseph the chariot of his second-in-command, and wherever he went the shout arose, "Kneel down!" <sup>44</sup> And Pharaoh declared to Joseph, "I, the king of Egypt, swear that you shall have complete charge over all the land of Egypt."

meaning "He has the god-like power of life and death!"<sup>b</sup> And he gave him a wife, a girl named Asenath, daughter of Potiphera, priest of Heliopolis.<sup>c</sup> So Joseph became famous throughout the land of Egypt. <sup>46</sup> He was thirty years old as he entered the service of the king. Joseph went out from the presence of Pharaoh, and began traveling all across the land.

<sup>47</sup> And sure enough, for the next seven years there were bumper crops everywhere. <sup>48</sup> During those years, Joseph requisitioned for the government a portion of all the crops grown throughout Egypt, storing them in nearby cities. <sup>49</sup> After seven years of this, the granaries were full to overflowing, and there was so much that no one kept track of the amount.

<sup>50</sup> During this time before the arrival of the first of the famine years, two sons were born to Joseph by Asenath, the daughter of Potiphera, priest of the sun god Re of Heliopolis. <sup>51</sup> Joseph named his oldest son Manasseh (meaning "Made to Forget"—what he meant was that God had made up to him for all the anguish of his youth, and for the loss of his father's home). <sup>52</sup> The second boy was named Ephraim (meaning "Fruitful")—"For God has made me fruitful in this land of my slavery," he said).

<sup>53</sup> So at last the seven years of plenty came to an end. <sup>54</sup> Then the seven years of famine began, just as Joseph had predicted. There were crop failures in all the surrounding countries too, but in Egypt there was plenty of grain in the storehouses. <sup>2</sup> The people began to starve. They pleaded with Pharaoh for food, and he sent them to Joseph. "Do whatever he tells you to," he instructed them.

<sup>3,5,7</sup> So now, with severe famine all over the world, Joseph opened up the storehouses and sold grain to the Egyptians and to those from other lands who came to Egypt to buy grain from Joseph.

42 WHEN JACOB HEARD that there was grain available in Egypt he said to his sons, "Why are you standing around looking at one another? <sup>2</sup> I have heard that there is grain available in Egypt. Go down and buy some for us before we all starve to death."

<sup>6</sup> Since Joseph was governor of all Egypt, and in charge of the sale of the grain, it was to him that his brothers came, and bowed low before him, with their faces to the earth.

"Where are you from?" he demanded roughly.

"From the land of Canaan," they replied. "We have come to buy grain."

<sup>9</sup> Then Joseph remembered the dreams of long ago! But he said to them, "You are spies. You have come to see how destitute the famine has made our land."

<sup>13</sup> "Sir," they said, "there are twelve of us brothers, and our father is in the land of Canaan. Our youngest brother is there with our father, and one of our brothers is dead."

<sup>18</sup> The third day Joseph said to them, "I am a God-fearing man and I'm going to give you an opportunity to prove yourselves. <sup>19</sup> I'm going to take a chance that you are honorable:<sup>c</sup> only one of you shall remain in chains in jail, and the rest of you may go on home with grain for your families; <sup>20</sup> but bring your youngest brother back to me. In this way I will know whether you are telling me the truth; and if you are, I will spare you." To this they agreed.

<sup>21</sup> Speaking among themselves, they said, "This has all happened because of what we did to Joseph long ago. We saw his terror and anguish and heard his pleadings, but we wouldn't listen."

<sup>22</sup> "Didn't I tell you not to do it?" Reuben asked. "But you wouldn't listen. And now we are going to die because we murdered him."

<sup>23</sup> Of course they didn't know that Joseph understood them as he was standing there, for he had been speaking to them through an interpreter. <sup>24</sup> Now he left the room and found a place where he could weep. Returning, he selected Simeon from among them and had him bound before their eyes. <sup>25</sup> Joseph then ordered his servants to fill the men's sacks with grain, but also gave secret instructions to put each brother's payment at the top of his sack! He also gave them provisions for their journey. <sup>26</sup> So they loaded up their donkeys with the grain and started for home. <sup>27</sup> But when they stopped for the night and one of them opened his sack to get some grain to feed the donkeys, there was his money in the mouth of the sack!

<sup>28</sup> "Look," he exclaimed to his brothers, "my money is here in my sack." They were filled with terror. Trembling, they exclaimed to each other, "What is this that God has done to us?" <sup>29</sup> So they came to their father Jacob in the land of Canaan and told him all that had happened.

<sup>30</sup> "The king's chief assistant spoke very roughly to us," they told him, "and took us for spies. <sup>31</sup> 'No, no,' we said, 'we are honest men, not spies. <sup>32</sup> We are twelve brothers, sons of one father; one is dead, and the youngest is with our father in the land of Canaan.' <sup>33</sup> Then the man told us, 'This is the way I will find out if you are what you claim to be. Leave one of your brothers here with me and take grain for your families and go on home,' <sup>34</sup> but bring your youngest brother back to me. Then I shall know whether you are spies or honest men; if you prove to be what you say, then I will give you back your brother and you can come as often as you like to purchase grain.' "

<sup>37</sup> Then Reuben said to his father, "Kill my two sons if I don't bring Benjamin back to you. I'll be responsible for him."

43 BUT THERE WAS no relief from the terrible famine throughout the land. <sup>2</sup> When the grain they had brought from Egypt was almost gone, their father said to them, "Go again and buy us a little food."

<sup>3,4,5</sup> But Judah told him, "The man wasn't fooling one bit when he said, 'Don't ever come back again unless your brother is with you.' We cannot go unless you let Benjamin go with us."

<sup>6</sup> "Why did you ever tell him you had another brother?" Israel moaned. "Why did you have to treat me like that?"

<sup>7</sup> "But the man specifically asked us about our family," they told him. "He wanted to know whether our father was still living and he asked us if we had another brother, so we told him. How could we know that he was going to say, 'Bring me your brother?'"

<sup>8</sup> Judah said to his father, "Send the lad with me and we will be on our way; otherwise we will all die of starvation—and not only we, but you and all our little ones. <sup>9</sup> I guarantee his safety. If I don't bring him back to you, then let me bear the blame forever. <sup>10</sup> For we could have gone and returned by this time if you had let him come."

<sup>11</sup> So their father Israel finally said to them, "If it can't be avoided, then at least do this. Load your donkeys with the best products of the land. Take them to the man as gifts—balm, honey, spices, myrrh, pistachio nuts, and almonds.

<sup>12</sup> Take double money so that you can pay back what was in the mouths of your sacks, as it was probably someone's mistake, <sup>13</sup> and take your brother and go. <sup>14</sup> May God Almighty give you mercy before the man, so that he will release Simeon and return Benjamin. And if I must bear the anguish of their deaths, then so be it."

<sup>15</sup> So they took the gifts and double money and went to Egypt, and stood before Joseph. <sup>16</sup> When Joseph saw that Benjamin was with them he said to the manager of his household, "These men will eat with me this noon. Take them home and prepare a big feast." <sup>17</sup> So the man did as he was told and took them to Joseph's palace. <sup>18</sup> They were badly frightened when they saw where they were being taken.

"It's because of the money returned to us in our sacks," they said. "He wants to pretend we stole it and seize us as slaves, with our donkeys."

<sup>19</sup> As they arrived at the entrance to the palace, they went over to Joseph's household manager, <sup>20</sup> and said to him, "O sir, after our first trip to Egypt to buy food, <sup>21</sup> as we were returning home, we stopped for the night and opened our sacks, and the money was there that we had paid for the grain. Here it is; we have brought it back again, <sup>22</sup> along with additional money to buy more grain. We have no idea how the money got into our sacks."

Then he released Simeon and brought him out to them. <sup>24</sup> They were then conducted into the palace and given water to refresh their feet; and their donkeys were fed. <sup>25</sup> Then they got their presents ready for Joseph's arrival at noon, for they were told that they would be eating there. <sup>26</sup> When Joseph came home they gave him their presents, bowing low before him.

<sup>27</sup> He asked how they had been getting along. "And how is your father—the old man you spoke about? Is he still alive?"

<sup>29</sup> Looking at his brother<sup>a</sup> Benjamin, he asked, "Is this your youngest brother, the one you told me about? How are you, my son? God be gracious to you." <sup>30</sup> Then Joseph made a hasty exit, for he was overcome with love for his brother and had to go out and cry. Going into his bedroom, he wept there. <sup>31</sup> Then he washed his face and came out, keeping himself under control. "Let's eat," he said.

<sup>34</sup> Their food was served to them from his own table. He gave the largest serving to Benjamin—five times as much as to any of the others! They had a wonderful time bantering back and forth, and the wine flowed freely!

44 WHEN HIS BROTHERS were ready to leave,<sup>a</sup> Joseph ordered his household manager to fill each of their sacks with as much grain as they could carry—and to put into the mouth of each man's sack the money he had paid! <sup>2</sup> He was also told to put Joseph's own silver cup at the top of Benjamin's sack, along with the grain money. So the household manager did as he was told. <sup>3</sup> The brothers were up at dawn and on their way with their loaded donkeys.

<sup>4</sup> But when they were barely out of the city, Joseph said to his household manager, "Chase after them and stop them and ask them why they are acting like this when their benefactor has been so kind to them? <sup>5</sup> Ask them, 'What do you mean by stealing my lord's personal silver drinking cup, which he uses for fortune telling? What a wicked thing you have done!'" <sup>6</sup> So he caught up with them and spoke to them along the lines he had been instructed.

<sup>7</sup> "What in the world are you talking about?" they demanded. "What kind of people do you think we are, that you accuse us of such a terrible thing as that? <sup>8</sup> Didn't we bring back the money we found in the mouth of our sacks? Why would we steal silver or gold from your master's house? <sup>9</sup> If you find his cup with any one of us, let that one die. And all the rest of us will be slaves forever to your master."

sack, going on down the line to the youngest. And the cup was found in Benjamin's! <sup>13</sup> They ripped their clothing in despair, loaded the donkeys again, and returned to the city. <sup>14</sup> Joseph was still home when Judah and his brothers arrived, and they fell to the ground before him.

<sup>16</sup> And Judah said, "Oh, what shall we say to my lord? How can we plead? How can we prove our innocence? God is punishing us for our sins. Sir, we have all returned to be your slaves, both we and he in whose sack the cup was found."

<sup>17</sup> "No," Joseph said. "Only the man who stole the cup, he shall be my slave. The rest of you can go on home to your father."

<sup>18</sup> Then Judah stepped forward and said, "O sir, let me say just this one word to you. Be patient with me for a moment, for I know you can doom me in an instant, as though you were Pharaoh himself.

<sup>19</sup> "Sir, you asked us if we had a father or a brother, <sup>20</sup> and we said, 'Yes, we have a father, an old man, and a child of his old age, a little one. And his brother is dead, and he alone is left of his mother's children, and his father loves him very much.' <sup>21</sup> And you said to us, 'Bring him here so that I can see him.' <sup>22</sup> But we said to you, 'Sir, the lad cannot leave his father, for his father would die.' <sup>23</sup> But you told us, 'Don't come back here unless your youngest brother is with you.' <sup>24</sup> So we returned to our father and told him what you had said. <sup>25</sup> And when he said, 'Go back again and buy us a little food,' <sup>26</sup> we replied, 'We can't, unless you let our youngest brother go with us. Only then may we come.'

<sup>27</sup> "Then my father said to us, 'You know that my wife had two sons, <sup>28</sup> and that one of them went away and never returned—doubtless torn to pieces by some wild animal; I have never seen him since. <sup>29</sup> And if you take away his brother from me also, and any harm befalls him, I shall die with sorrow.' <sup>30</sup> And now, sir, if I go back to my father and the lad is not with us—seeing that our father's life is bound up in the lad's life— <sup>31</sup> when he sees that the boy is not with us, our father will die; and we will be responsible for bringing down his gray hairs with sorrow to the grave. <sup>32</sup> Sir, I pledged my father that I would take care of the lad. I told him, 'If I don't bring him back to you, I shall bear the blame forever.' <sup>33</sup> Please sir, let me stay here as a slave instead of the lad, and let the lad return with his brothers. <sup>34</sup> For how shall I return to my father if the lad is not with me? I cannot bear to see what this would do to him."

45 JOSEPH COULD STAND it no longer. "Out, all of you," he cried out to his attendants, and he was left alone with his brothers. <sup>2</sup> Then he wept aloud. His sobs could be heard throughout the palace, and the news was quickly carried to Pharaoh's palace.

<sup>3</sup> "I am Joseph!" he said to his brothers. "Is my father still alive?" But his brothers couldn't say a word, they were so stunned with surprise.

they came closer. And he said again, "I am Joseph, your brother whom you sold into Egypt! <sup>5</sup> But don't be angry with yourselves that you did this to me, for God did it! He sent me here ahead of you to preserve your lives. <sup>6</sup> These two years of famine will grow to seven, during which there will be neither plowing nor harvest. <sup>7</sup> God has sent me here to keep you and your families alive, so that you will become a great nation.

<sup>8</sup> "Yes, it was God who sent me here, not you! And he has made me a counselor to Pharaoh, and manager of this entire nation, ruler of all the land of Egypt.

<sup>9</sup> "Hurry, return to my father and tell him, 'Your son Joseph says, "God has made me chief of all the land of Egypt. Come down to me right away! <sup>10</sup> You shall live in the land of Goshen so that you can be near me with all your children, your grandchildren, your flocks and herds, and all that you have. <sup>11,12</sup> I will take care of you there"' (you men are witnesses of my promise, and my brother Benjamin has heard me say it) "for there are still five years of famine ahead of us. Otherwise you will come to utter poverty along with all your household."

Pharaoh was very happy to hear it, as were his officials.

<sup>17</sup> Then Pharaoh said to Joseph, "Tell your brothers to load their pack animals and return quickly to their homes in Canaan, <sup>18</sup> and to bring your father and all of your families and come here to Egypt to live. Tell them, 'Pharaoh will assign to you the very best territory in the land of Egypt. You shall live off the fat of the land!' <sup>19</sup> And tell your brothers to take wagons from Egypt to carry their wives and little ones, and to bring your father here. <sup>20</sup> Don't worry about your property, for the best of all the land of Egypt is yours."

"Don't quarrel along the way!" was his parting shot! <sup>25</sup> And leaving, they returned to the land of Canaan, to Jacob their father.

<sup>26</sup> "Joseph is alive," they shouted to him. "And he is ruler over all the land of Egypt!" But Jacob's heart was like a stone; he couldn't take it in. <sup>27</sup> But when they had given him Joseph's messages, and when he saw the wagons filled with food that Joseph had sent him, his spirit revived.

<sup>28</sup> And he said, "It must be true! Joseph my son is alive! I will go and see him before I die."

46 SO ISRAEL SET out with all his possessions, and came to Beer-sheba, and offered sacrifices there to the God of his father Isaac.

"Jacob! Jacob!" he called.

"Yes?" Jacob answered.

<sup>3,4</sup> "I am God," the voice replied, "the God of your father. Don't be afraid to go down to Egypt, for I will see to it that you become a great nation there. And I will go down with you into Egypt and I will bring your descendants back again; but you shall die in Egypt with Joseph at your side."

Reuben, his oldest son;
 Reuben's sons: Hanoch, Pallu, Hezron, and Carmi.

Simeon and his sons: Jemuel, Jamin, Ohad, Jachin, Zohar, and Shaul (Shaul's mother was a girl from Canaan).

Levi and his sons: Gershon, Kohath, Merari.

Judah and his sons: Er, Onan, Shelah, Perez, Zerah (however, Er and Onan died while still in Canaan, before Israel went to Egypt).

The sons of Perez were Hezron and Hamul.

Issachar and his sons: Tola, Puvah, Iob, Shimron.

Zebulun and his sons: Sered, Elon, Jahleel.

<sup>15</sup> So these descendants of Jacob and Leah, not including their daughter Dinah, born to Jacob in Paddan-aram, were thirty-three in all.

Gad and his sons: Ziphion, Haggi, Shuni, Ezbon, Eri, Arodi, and Areli.
 Asher and his sons: Imnah, Ishvah, Ishvi, Beriah, and a sister, Serah.
 Beriah's sons were Heber and Malchiel.

<sup>19-22</sup> Also in the total of Jacob's household were these fourteen sons and descendants of Jacob and Rachel:

Joseph and Benjamin;
Joseph's sons, born in the land of Egypt, were Manasseh and Ephraim (their mother was Asenath, the daughter of Potiphera, priest of Heliopolis);

Benjamin's sons: Bela, Becher, Ashbel, Gera, Naaman, Ehi, Rosh, Muphim, Huphim, and Ard.

Jacob and Bilhah, the slave-girl given to Rachel by her father, Laban:

Dan and his son: Hushim.
Naphtali and his sons: Jahzeel, Guni, Jezer, and Shillem.

<sup>26</sup> So the total number of those going to Egypt, of his own descendants, not counting the wives of Jacob's sons, was sixty-six. <sup>27</sup> With Joseph's two sons included, this total of Jacob's household there in Egypt totaled seventy.

<sup>28</sup> Jacob sent Judah on ahead to tell Joseph that they were on the way, and would soon arrive in Goshen—which they did. <sup>29</sup> Joseph jumped into his chariot and journeyed to Goshen to meet his father and they fell into each other's arms and wept a long while.

<sup>31</sup> And Joseph said to his brothers and to all their households, "I'll go and tell Pharaoh that you are here, and that you have come from the land of Canaan to join me.

<sup>32</sup> And I will tell him, 'These men are shepherds. They have brought with them their flocks and herds and everything they own.' <sup>33</sup> So when Pharaoh calls for you and asks you about your occupation, <sup>34</sup> tell him, 'We have been shepherds from our youth, as our fathers have been for many generations.' When you tell him this, he will let you live here in the land of Goshen." For shepherds were despised and hated in other parts of Egypt.

47 UPON THEIR ARRIVAL, Joseph went in to see Pharaoh.

"My father and my brothers are here from Canaan," he reported, "with all their flocks and herds and possessions. They wish to settle in the land of Goshen."

And they replied, "We are shepherds like our ancestors. <sup>4</sup> We have come to live here in Egypt, for there is no pasture for our flocks in Canaan—the famine is very bitter there. We request permission to live in the land of Goshen."

<sup>5,6</sup> And Pharaoh said to Joseph, "Choose anywhere you like for them to live. Give them the best land of Egypt. The land of Goshen will be fine. And if any of them are capable, put them in charge of my flocks, too."

<sup>12</sup> And Joseph furnished food to them in accordance with the number of their dependents. <sup>13</sup> The famine became worse and worse, so that all the land of Egypt and Canaan were starving. <sup>14</sup> Joseph collected all the money in Egypt and Canaan in exchange for grain, and he brought the money to Pharaoh's treasure-houses. <sup>15</sup> When the people were out of money, they came to Joseph crying again for food.

"Our money is gone," they said, "but give us bread; for why should we die?"

<sup>16</sup> "Well then," Joseph replied, "give me your livestock. I will trade you food in exchange."

<sup>17</sup> So they brought their cattle to Joseph in exchange for food. Soon all the horses, flocks, herds, and donkeys of Egypt were in Pharaoh's possession.

<sup>18</sup> The next year they came again and said, "Our money is gone, and our cattle are yours, and there is nothing left but our bodies and land. <sup>19</sup> Why should we die? Buy us and our land and we will be serfs to Pharaoh. We will trade ourselves for food, then we will live, and the land won't be abandoned."

they said. "We will gladly be the serfs of Pharaoh."

<sup>26</sup> So Joseph made it a law throughout the land of Egypt—and it is still the law—that Pharaoh should have as his tax twenty percent of all the crops except those produced on the land owned by the temples.

<sup>27</sup> So Israel lived in the land of Goshen in Egypt, and soon the people of Israel began to prosper, and there was a veritable population explosion among them. <sup>28</sup> Jacob lived seventeen years after his arrival, so that he was 147 years old at the time of his death. <sup>29</sup> As the time drew near for him to die, he called for his son Joseph and said to him, "Swear to me most solemnly that you will honor this, my last request: do not bury me in Egypt. <sup>30</sup> But when I am dead, take me out of Egypt and bury me beside my ancestors." And Joseph promised. <sup>31</sup> "Swear that you will do it," Jacob insisted. And Joseph did. Soon afterwards Jacob took to his bed.

48 ONE DAY NOT long after this, word came to Joseph that his father was failing rapidly. So, taking with him his two sons, Manasseh and Ephraim, he went to visit him. <sup>2</sup> When Jacob heard that Joseph had arrived, he gathered his strength and sat up in the bed to greet him, <sup>3</sup> and said to him,

"God Almighty appeared to me at Luz in the land of Canaan and blessed me, <sup>4</sup> and said to me, 'I will make you a great nation and I will give this land of Canaan to you and to your children's children, for an everlasting possession.' <sup>5</sup> And now, as to these two sons of yours, Ephraim and Manasseh, born here in the land of Egypt before I arrived, I am adopting them as my own, and they will inherit from me just as Reuben and Simeon will.<sup>6</sup> But any other children born to you shall be your own, and shall inherit Ephraim's and Manasseh's portion from you.<sup>7</sup> For your mother Rachel died after only two children<sup>a</sup> when I came from Paddan-aram, as we were just a short distance from Ephrath, and I buried her beside the road to Bethlehem."

<sup>8</sup> Then Israel looked over at the two boys. "Are these the ones?" he asked.

<sup>9</sup> "Yes," Joseph told him, "these are my sons whom God has given me here in Egypt."

And Israel said, "Bring them over to me and I will bless them."

<sup>10</sup> Israel was half blind with age, so that he could hardly see.

So Joseph brought the boys close to him and he kissed and embraced them.

<sup>11</sup> And Israel said to Joseph, "I never thought that I would see you again, but now God has let me see your children too."

<sup>14</sup> But Israel crossed his arms as he stretched them out to lay his hands upon the boys' heads, so that his right hand was upon the head of Ephraim, the younger boy, and his left hand was upon the head of Manasseh, the older. He did this purposely.

<sup>15</sup> Then he blessed Joseph with this blessing: "May God, the God of my fathers Abraham and Isaac, the God who has shepherded me all my life, wonderfully bless these boys.<sup>16</sup> He is the Angel who has kept me from all harm.

May these boys be an honor to my name and to the names of my fathers Abraham and Isaac; and may they become a mighty nation."

<sup>17</sup> But Joseph was upset and displeased when he saw that his father had laid his right hand on Ephraim's head; so he lifted it to place it on Manasseh's head instead.

<sup>20</sup> So Jacob blessed the boys that day with this blessing: "May the people of Israel bless each other by saying, 'God make you as prosperous as Ephraim and Manasseh.'"<sup>21</sup> (Note that he put Ephraim before Manasseh.)

<sup>22</sup> Then Israel said to Joseph, "I am about to die, but God will be with you and will bring you again to Canaan, the land of your fathers.

<sup>23</sup> And I have given the choice land of Shekem to you instead of to your brothers, as your portion of that land which I took from the Amorites with my sword and with my bow."

49 THEN JACOB CALLED together all his sons and said, "Gather around me and I will tell you what is going to happen to you in the days to come. <sup>2</sup> Listen to me, O sons of Jacob; listen to Israel your father.

<sup>3</sup> "Reuben, you are my oldest son, the child of my vigorous youth. You are the head of the list in rank and in honor. <sup>4</sup> But you are unruly as the wild waves of the sea, and you shall be first no longer. I am demoting you, for you slept with one of my wives and thus dishonored me.

bor for ships, with his borders extending to Sidon.

the morning, and in the evening divides the spoil." <sup>28</sup> So these are the blessings that Israel their father blessed his twelve sons with.

<sup>29,30</sup> Then he told them, "Soon I will die. You must bury me with my fathers in the land of Canaan, in the cave in the field of Mach-pelah, facing Mamre—the field Abraham bought from Ephron the Hethite for a burial ground. <sup>31</sup> There they buried Abraham and Sarah his wife; there they buried Isaac and Rebekah his wife; and there I buried Leah. <sup>32</sup> It is the cave which my grandfather Abraham purchased from the sons of Heth." <sup>33</sup> Then, when Jacob had finished his prophecies to his sons, he lay back in the bed, breathed his last, and died.

50 JOSEPH THREW HIMSELF upon his father's body and wept over him and kissed him. <sup>2</sup> Afterwards he commanded his morticians to embalm the body. <sup>3</sup> The embalming process required forty days, with a period of national mourning of seventy days. <sup>4</sup> Then, when at last the mourning was over, Joseph approached Pharaoh's staff and requested them to speak to Pharaoh on his behalf.

<sup>5</sup> "Tell his majesty," he requested them, "that Joseph's father made Joseph swear to take his body back to the land of Canaan, to bury him there. Ask his majesty to permit me to go and bury my father; assure him that I will return promptly."

"Now Joseph will pay us back for all the evil we did to him," they said. <sup>16,17</sup> So they sent him this message: "Before he died, your father instructed us to tell you to forgive us for the great evil we did to you. We servants of the God of your father beg you to forgive us." When

Joseph read the message, he broke down and cried.

<sup>19</sup> But Joseph told them, "Don't be afraid of me. Am I God, to judge and punish you?" <sup>20</sup> As far as I am concerned, God turned into good what you meant for evil, for he brought me to this high position I have today so that I could save the lives of many people. <sup>21</sup> No, don't be afraid. Indeed, I myself will take care of you and your families." And he spoke very kindly to them, reassuring them.

in Egypt. Joseph was 110 years old when he died. <sup>23</sup> He lived to see the birth of his son Ephraim's children, and the children of Machir, Manasseh's son, who played at his feet.

<sup>24</sup> "Soon I will die," Joseph told his brothers, "but God will surely come and get you, and bring you out of this land of Egypt and take you back to the land he promised to the descendants of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob." <sup>25</sup> Then Joseph made his brothers promise with an oath that they would take his body back with them when they returned to Canaan. <sup>26</sup> So Joseph died at the age of 110, and they embalmed him, and his body was placed in a coffin in Egypt.

EXODUS

1 THIS IS THE list of the sons of Jacob who accompanied him to Egypt, with their families:

Reuben, Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, Zebulun,
Benjamin, Dan, Naphtali,
Gad, Asher.

<sup>5</sup> So the total number who went with him was seventy (for Joseph was already there). <sup>6</sup> In due season Joseph and each of his brothers died, ending that generation.

<sup>7</sup> Meanwhile, their descendants were very fertile, increasing rapidly in numbers; there was a veritable population explosion so that they soon became a large nation, and they filled the land of Goshen.

<sup>11</sup> So the Egyptians made slaves of them and put brutal taskmasters over them to wear them down under heavy burdens while building the store-cities Pithom and Ramesses. <sup>12</sup> But the more the Egyptians mistreated and oppressed them, the more the Israelis seemed to multiply! The Egyptians became alarmed,<sup>13,14</sup> and made the Hebrew slavery more bitter still, forcing them to toil long and hard in the fields and to carry heavy loads of mortar and brick.

<sup>15,16</sup> Then Pharaoh, the king of Egypt, instructed the Hebrew midwives (their names were Shiphrah and Puah) to kill all Hebrew boys as soon as they were born, but to let the girls live.<sup>17</sup> But the midwives feared God and didn't obey the king—they let the boys live too.

<sup>19</sup> "Sir," they told him, "the Hebrew women have their babies so quickly that we can't get there in time! They are not slow like the Egyptian women!"

2 THERE WERE AT this time a Hebrew fellow and girl of the tribe of Levi who married and had a family, and a baby son was born to them. When the baby's mother saw that he was an unusually beautiful baby, she hid him at home for three months.<sup>3</sup> Then, when she could no longer hide him, she made a little boat from papyrus reeds, water-proofed it with tar, put the baby in it, and laid it among the reeds along the river's edge.<sup>4</sup> The baby's sister watched from a distance to see what would happen to him.

<sup>5</sup> Well, this is what happened: A princess, one of Pharaoh's daughters, came down to bathe in the river, and as she and her maids were walking along the river bank, she spied the little boat among the reeds and sent one of the maids to bring it to her.<sup>6</sup> When she opened it, there was a baby! And he was crying. This touched her heart. "He must be one of the Hebrew children!" she said.

<sup>9</sup> "Take this child home and nurse him for me," the princess instructed the baby's mother, "and I will pay you well!" So she took him home and nursed him.

<sup>10</sup> Later, when he was older, she brought him back to the princess and he became her son. She named him Moses (meaning<sup>a</sup> "to draw out") because she had drawn him out of the water.

rible conditions they were under. During his visit he saw an Egyptian knock a Hebrew to the ground—one of his own Hebrew brothers!

<sup>12</sup> Moses looked this way and that to be sure no one was watching, then killed the Egyptian and hid his body in the sand.

<sup>13</sup> The next day as he was out visiting among the Hebrews again, he saw two of them fighting. "What are you doing, hitting your own Hebrew brother like that?" he said to the one in the wrong.

<sup>14</sup> "And who are you?" the man demanded. "I suppose you think you are our prince and judge! And do you plan to kill me as you did that Egyptian yesterday?" When Moses realized that his deed was known, he was frightened. <sup>15</sup> And sure enough, when Pharaoh heard about it he ordered Moses arrested and executed. But Moses ran away into the land of Midian.

As he was sitting there beside a well, <sup>16</sup> seven girls who were daughters of the priest of Midian came to draw water and fill the water troughs for their father's flocks. <sup>17</sup> But the shepherds chased the girls away. Moses then came to their aid and rescued them from the shepherds and watered their flocks.

3 ONE DAY AS Moses was tending the flock of his father-in-law Jethro,<sup>a</sup> the priest of Midian, out at the edge of the desert near Horeb, the mountain of God, <sup>2</sup> suddenly the Angel of Jehovah appeared to him as a flame of fire in a bush. When Moses saw that the bush was on fire and that it didn't burn up, <sup>3a</sup> he went over to investigate. Then God called out to him,

"Moses! Moses!"

"Who is it?" Moses asked.

<sup>3</sup> "Don't come any closer," God told him. "Take off your shoes, for you are standing on holy ground. <sup>6</sup> I am the God of your fathers—the God of Abraham, Isaac, and a Moses' father-in-law goes under Jacob." (Moses covered his face with his hands, for he was afraid to look at God.)

<sup>7</sup> Then the Lord told him, "I have seen the deep sorrows of my people in Egypt, and have heard their pleas for freedom from their harsh taskmasters. <sup>8</sup> I have come to deliver them from the Egyptians and to take them out of Egypt into a good land, a large land, a land 'flowing with milk and honey'—the land where the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites live. <sup>9</sup> Yes, the wail of the people of Israel has risen to me in heaven, and I have seen the heavy tasks the Egyptians have oppressed them with. <sup>10</sup> Now I am going to send you to Pharaoh, to demand that he let you lead my people out of Egypt."

<sup>12</sup> Then God told him, "I will certainly be with you, and this is the proof that I am the one who is sending you: When you have led the people out of Egypt, you shall worship God here upon this mountain!"

<sup>13</sup> But Moses asked, "If I go to the people of Israel and tell them that their fathers' God has sent me, they will ask, 'Which God are you talking about?' What shall I tell them?"

<sup>14</sup> "The Sovereign God,"<sup>b</sup> was the reply. "Just say, 'I Am has sent me!'" <sup>15</sup> Yes, tell them, 'Jehovah,'<sup>c</sup> the God of your ancestors Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, has sent me to you.' (This is my eternal name, to be used throughout all generations.)

<sup>16</sup> "Call together all the elders of Israel," God instructed him, "and tell them about Jehovah appearing to you here in this burning bush and that he said to you, 'I have visited my people, and have seen what is happening to them there in Egypt. <sup>17</sup> I promise to rescue them from the drudgery and humiliation they are undergoing, and to take them to the land now occupied by the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites, a land "flowing with milk and honey."'

<sup>18</sup> "The elders of the people of Israel will accept your message. They must go with you to the king of Egypt and tell him, 'Jehovah, the God of the Hebrews, has met with us and instructed us to go three days' journey into the desert to sacrifice to him. Give us your permission.'

<sup>19</sup> "But I know that the king of Egypt will not let you go except under heavy pressure. <sup>20</sup> So I will give him all the pressure he needs! I will destroy Egypt with my miracles, and then at last he will let you go. <sup>21</sup> And I will see to it that the Egyptians load you down with gifts when you leave, so that you will by no means go out empty-handed! <sup>22</sup> Every woman will ask for jewels, silver, gold, and the finest of clothes from her Egyptian master's wife and neighbors. You will clothe your sons and daughters with the best of Egypt!"

b Or, "the Living God." Literally, "I am what I am," or, "I will be what I will be."

c Properly the name should be pronounced "Yahweh," as it is spelled in many modern versions. In this paraphrase "Yahweh" is translated either "Jehovah" or "Lord."

4 BUT MOSES SAID, "They won't believe me! They won't do what I tell them to. They'll say, 'Jehovah never appeared to you!'"

And he replied, "A shepherd's rod."

<sup>4</sup> Then the Lord told him, "Grab it by the tail!" He did, and it became a rod in his hand again!

<sup>5</sup> "Do that and they will believe you!" the Lord told him. "Then they will realize that Jehovah, the God of their ancestors Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, has really appeared to you. <sup>6</sup> Now reach your hand inside your robe, next to your chest." And when he did, and took it out again, it was white with leprosy! <sup>7</sup> "Now put it in again," Jehovah said. And when he did, and took it out again, it was normal, just as before!

<sup>8</sup> "If they don't believe the first miracle, they will the second," the Lord said, <sup>9</sup> "and if they don't accept you after these two signs, then take water from the Nile River and pour it upon the dry land, and it will turn to blood."

<sup>10</sup> But Moses pleaded, "O Lord, I'm just not a good speaker. I never have been, and I'm not now, even after you have spoken to me, for I have a speech impediment."<sup>a</sup>

<sup>11</sup> "Who makes mouths?" Jehovah asked him. "Isn't it I, the Lord? Who makes a man so that he can speak or not speak, see or not see, hear or not hear? <sup>12</sup> Now go ahead and do as I tell you, for I will help you to speak well, and I will tell you what to say."

<sup>14</sup> Then the Lord became angry. "All right," he said, "your brother Aaron<sup>b</sup> is a good speaker. And he is coming here to look for you, and will be very happy when he finds you. <sup>15</sup> So I will tell you what to tell him, and I will help both of you to speak well, and I will tell you what to do. <sup>16</sup> He will be your spokesman to the people. And you will be as God to him, telling him what to say. <sup>17</sup> And be sure to take your rod along so that you can perform the miracles I have shown you."

<sup>18</sup> Moses returned home and talked it over with Jethro, his father-in-law. "With your permission," Moses said, "I will go back to Egypt and visit my relatives. I don't even know whether they are still alive."

"Go with my blessing," Jethro replied.

<sup>21</sup> Jehovah told him, "When you arrive back in Egypt you are to go to Pharaoh and do the miracles I have shown you, but I will make him stubborn so that he will not let the people go. <sup>22</sup> Then you are to tell him, 'Jehovah says, "Israel is my eldest son,"<sup>23</sup> and I have commanded you to let him go away and worship me, but you have refused: and now see, I will slay your eldest son.'"<sup>24</sup>

Then God let him alone.

<sup>27</sup> Now Jehovah said to Aaron, "Go into the wilderness to meet Moses." So Aaron traveled to Mount Horeb, the mountain of God, and met Moses there, and they greeted each other warmly.<sup>28</sup> Moses told Aaron what God had said they must do, and what they were to say, and told him about the miracles they must do before Pharaoh.

<sup>29</sup> So Moses and Aaron returned to Egypt and summoned the elders of the people of Israel to a council meeting.<sup>30</sup> Aaron told them what Jehovah had said to Moses, and Moses performed the miracles as they watched.<sup>31</sup> Then the elders believed that God had sent them, and when they heard that Jehovah had visited them and had seen their sorrows, and had decided to rescue them, they all rejoiced and bowed their heads and worshiped.

5 AFTER THIS PRESENTATION to the elders, Moses and Aaron went to see Pharaoh. They told him, "We bring you a message from Jehovah, the God of Israel. He says, 'Let my people go, for they must make a holy pilgrimage out into the wilderness, for a religious feast, to worship me there.'"

<sup>2</sup> "Is that so?" retorted Pharaoh. "And who is Jehovah, that I should listen to him, and let Israel go? I don't know Jehovah and I will not let Israel go."

<sup>3</sup> But Aaron and Moses persisted. "The God of the Hebrews has met with us," they declared. "We must take a three days' trip into the wilderness and sacrifice there to Jehovah our God; if we don't obey him, we face death by plague or sword."

<sup>10,11</sup> So the taskmasters and officers informed the people: "Pharaoh has given orders to furnish you with no more straw. Go and find it wherever you can; but you must produce just as many bricks as before!"<sup>12</sup> So the people scattered everywhere to gather straw.

"Fulfill your daily quota just as before," they kept demanding. <sup>14</sup> Then they whipped the Israeli work-crew bosses. "Why haven't you fulfilled your quotas either yesterday or today?" they roared.

<sup>15</sup> These foremen went to Pharaoh and pleaded with him. "Don't treat us like this," they begged. <sup>16</sup> "We are given no straw and told to make as many bricks as before, and we are beaten for something that isn't our fault—it is the fault of your taskmasters for making such unreasonable demands."

<sup>17</sup> But Pharaoh replied, "You don't have enough work, or else you wouldn't be saying, 'Let us go and sacrifice to Jehovah.' <sup>18</sup> Get back to work. No straw will be given you, and you must deliver the regular quota of bricks."

<sup>20</sup> When they met Moses and Aaron waiting for them outside the palace, as they came out from their meeting with Pharaoh, <sup>21</sup> they swore at them. "May God judge you for making us stink before Pharaoh and his people," they said, "and for giving them an excuse to kill us."

<sup>22</sup> Then Moses went back to the Lord. "Lord," he protested, "how can you mistreat your own people like this? Why did you ever send me, if you were going to do this to them? <sup>23</sup> Ever since I gave Pharaoh your message, he has only been more and more brutal to them, and you have not delivered them at all!"

6 "NOW YOU WILL see what I shall do to Pharaoh," the Lord told Moses. "For he must be forced to let my people go; he will not only let them go, but will drive them out of his land! <sup>2,3</sup> I am Jehovah, the Almighty God who appeared to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob—though I did not reveal my name, Jehovah, to them. <sup>4</sup> And I entered into a solemn covenant with them; under its terms I promised to give them and their descendants the land of Canaan where they were living. <sup>5</sup> And now I have heard the groanings of the people of Israel, in slavery now to the Egyptians, and I remember my promise.

<sup>6</sup> "Therefore tell the descendants of Israel that I will use my mighty power and perform great miracles to deliver them from slavery, and make them free. <sup>7</sup> And I will accept them as my people and be their God. And they shall know that I am Jehovah their God who has rescued them from the Egyptians. <sup>8,9</sup> I will bring them into the land I promised to give to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. It shall belong to my people."

So Moses told the people what God had said, but they wouldn't listen any more because they were too dispirited after the tragic consequence of what he had said before.<sup>a</sup>

and Aaron to return to the people of Israel and to Pharaoh, king of Egypt, demanding that the people be permitted to leave.

<sup>26</sup> Aaron and Moses, included in that list, are the same Aaron and Moses to whom Jehovah said, "Lead all the people of Israel out of the land of Egypt,"<sup>27</sup> and who went to Pharaoh to ask permission to lead the people from the land.<sup>28,29</sup> and to whom the Lord said, "I am Jehovah. Go in and give Pharaoh the message I have given you."

<sup>30</sup> This is that Moses who argued with the Lord, "I can't do it; I'm no speaker—why should Pharaoh listen to me?"

7 THEN THE LORD said to Moses, "See, I have appointed you as my ambassador to Pharaoh, and your brother Aaron shall be your spokesman.<sup>2</sup> Tell Aaron everything I say to you, and he will announce it to Pharaoh, demanding that the people of Israel be allowed to leave Egypt.<sup>3</sup> But I will cause Pharaoh to stubbornly refuse, and I will multiply my miracles in the land of Egypt.<sup>4</sup> Yet even then Pharaoh won't listen to you; so I will crush Egypt with a final major disaster and then lead my people out.<sup>5</sup> The Egyptians will find out that I am indeed God when I show them my power and force them to let my people go."

<sup>8</sup> Then the Lord said to Moses and Aaron, <sup>9</sup> "Pharaoh will demand that you show him a miracle to prove that God has sent you; when he does, Aaron is to throw down his rod, and it will become a serpent."

<sup>10</sup> So Moses and Aaron went in to see Pharaoh, and performed the miracle, as Jehovah had instructed them—Aaron threw down his rod before Pharaoh and his court, and it became a serpent. <sup>11</sup> Then Pharaoh called in his sorcerers—the magicians of Egypt—and they were able to do the same thing with their magical arts! <sup>12</sup> Their rods became serpents, too! But Aaron's serpent swallowed their serpents! <sup>13</sup> Pharaoh's heart was still hard and stubborn, and he wouldn't listen, just as the Lord had predicted. <sup>14</sup> The Lord pointed this out to Moses, that Pharaoh's heart had been unmoved, and that he would continue to refuse to let the people go.

<sup>15</sup> "Nevertheless," the Lord said, "go back to Pharaoh in the morning, to be there as he goes down to the river. Stand beside the river bank and meet him there, holding in your hand the rod that turned into a serpent. <sup>16</sup> Say to him, 'Jehovah, the God of the Hebrews, has sent me back to demand that you let his people go to worship him in the wilderness. You wouldn't listen before, <sup>17</sup> and now the Lord says this: "You are going to find out that I am God. For I have instructed Moses to hit the water of the Nile with his rod, and the river will turn to blood!" The fish will die and the river will stink, so that the Egyptians will be unwilling to drink it." "

<sup>20</sup> So Moses and Aaron did as the Lord commanded them. As Pharaoh and all of his officials watched, Aaron hit the surface of the Nile with the rod, and the river turned to blood. <sup>21</sup> The fish died and the water became so foul that the Egyptians couldn't drink it; and there was blood throughout the land of Egypt. <sup>22</sup> But then the magicians of Egypt used their secret arts and they, too, turned water into blood; so Pharaoh's heart remained hard and stubborn, and he wouldn't listen to Moses and Aaron, just as the Lord had predicted, <sup>23</sup> and he returned to his palace, unimpressed. <sup>24</sup> Then the Egyptians dug wells along the river bank to get drinking water, for they couldn't drink from the river.

8 THE LORD SAID TO Moses, "Go in again to Pharaoh and tell him, 'Jehovah says, "Let my people go and worship me. <sup>2</sup> If you refuse, I will send vast hordes of frogs across your land from one border to the other. <sup>3,4</sup> The Nile River will swarm with them, and they will come out into your houses, even into your bedrooms and right into your beds! Every home in Egypt will be filled with them. They will fill your ovens and your kneading bowls; you and your people will be immersed in them!" "

<sup>5</sup> Then the Lord said to Moses, "Instruct Aaron to point the rod toward all the rivers, streams, and pools of Egypt, so that there will be frogs in every corner of the land."

<sup>8</sup> Then Pharaoh summoned Moses and Aaron and begged, "Plead with God to take the frogs away, and I will let the people go and sacrifice to him."

<sup>9</sup> "Be so kind as to tell me when you want them to go," Moses said, "and I will pray that the frogs will die at the time you specify, everywhere except in the river."

"All right," Moses replied, "it shall be as you have said; then you will know that there is no one like the Lord our God. <sup>11</sup> All the frogs will be destroyed, except those in the river."

<sup>13</sup> And the Lord did as Moses promised—dead frogs covered the countryside and filled the nation's homes. <sup>14</sup> They were piled into great heaps, making a terrible stench throughout the land. <sup>15</sup> But when Pharaoh saw that the frogs were gone, he hardened his heart and refused to let the people go, just as the Lord had predicted.

<sup>20</sup> Next the Lord told Moses, "Get up early in the morning and meet Pharaoh as he comes out to the river to bathe, and say to him, 'Jehovah says, "Let my people go and worship me." <sup>21</sup> If you refuse I will send swarms of flies throughout Egypt. Your homes will be filled with them and the ground will be covered with them.

<sup>22</sup> "But it will be very different in the land of Goshen where the Israelites live. No flies will be there; thus you will know that I am the Lord God of all the earth, <sup>23</sup> for I will make a distinction between your people and my people. All this will happen tomorrow." "

<sup>24</sup> And Jehovah did as he had said, so that there were terrible swarms of flies in Pharaoh's palace and in every home in Egypt.

God, but do it here in the land. Don't go out into the wilderness."

<sup>26</sup> But Moses replied, "That won't do! Our sacrifices to God are hated by the Egyptians, and if we do this right here before their eyes, they will kill us. <sup>27</sup> We must take a three-day trip into the wilderness and sacrifice there to Jehovah our God, as he commanded us."

<sup>29</sup> "Yes," Moses said, "I will ask him to cause the swarms of flies to disappear. But I am warning you that you must never again lie to us by promising to let the people go and then changing your mind."

<sup>30</sup> So Moses went out from Pharaoh and asked the Lord to get rid of the flies. <sup>31,32</sup> And the Lord did as Moses asked and caused the swarms to disappear, so that not one remained. But Pharaoh hardened his heart again and did not let the people go!

9 "GO BACK TO Pharaoh," the Lord commanded Moses, "and tell him, 'Jehovah, the God of the Hebrews, demands that you let his people go to sacrifice to him. <sup>2</sup> If you refuse, <sup>3</sup> the power of God will send a deadly plague to destroy your cattle, horses, donkeys, camels, flocks, and herds. <sup>4</sup> But the plague will affect only the cattle of Egypt; none of the Israeli herds and flocks will even be touched!'"

<sup>5</sup> The Lord announced that the plague would begin the very next day, <sup>6</sup> and it did. The next morning all the cattle of the Egyptians began dying, but not one of the Israeli herds was even sick. <sup>7</sup> Pharaoh sent to see whether it was true that none of the Israeli cattle were dead, yet when he found out that it was so, even then his mind remained unchanged and he refused to let the people go.

<sup>8</sup> Then Jehovah said to Moses and Aaron, "Take ashes from the kiln. Moses, toss it into the sky as Pharaoh watches. <sup>9</sup> It will spread like fine dust over all the land of Egypt and cause boils to break out upon people and animals alike, throughout the land."

<sup>10</sup> So they took ashes from the kiln and went to Pharaoh; as he watched, Moses tossed it toward the sky, and it became boils that broke out on men and animals alike throughout all Egypt. <sup>11</sup> And the magicians couldn't stand before Moses because of the boils, for the boils appeared upon them too. <sup>12</sup> But Jehovah hardened Pharaoh in his stubbornness, so that he refused to listen, just as the Lord had predicted to Moses.

<sup>13</sup> Then the Lord said to Moses, "Get up early in the morning and stand before Pharaoh and tell him, 'Jehovah the God of the Hebrews says, "Let my people go to worship me. <sup>14</sup> This time I am going to send a plague that will really speak to you and to your servants and to all the Egyptian people, and prove to you there is no other God in all the earth. <sup>15</sup> I could have killed you all by now, <sup>16</sup> but I didn't, for I wanted to demonstrate my power to you and to all the earth. <sup>17</sup> So you still think you are so great, do you, and defy my power, and refuse to let my people go? <sup>18</sup> Well, tomorrow about this time I will send a hailstorm across the nation such as there has never been since Egypt was founded! <sup>19</sup> Quick! Bring in your cattle from the fields, for every man and animal left out in the fields will die beneath the hail!" " "

<sup>27</sup> Then Pharaoh sent for Moses and Aaron. "I finally see my fault," he confessed. "Jehovah is right, and I and my people have been wrong all along. <sup>28</sup> Beg God to end this terrifying thunder and hail, and I will let you go at once."

<sup>29</sup> "All right," Moses replied, "as soon as I have left the city I will spread out my hands to the Lord, and the thunder and hail will stop. This will prove to you that the earth is controlled by Jehovah. <sup>30</sup> But as for you and your officials, I know that even yet you will not obey him." <sup>31</sup> All the flax and barley were knocked down and destroyed (for the barley was ripe, and the flax was in bloom), <sup>32</sup> but the wheat and the emmer were not destroyed, for they were not yet out of the ground.

10 THEN THE LORD said to Moses, "Go back again and make your demand upon Pharaoh; but I have hardened him and his officials, so that I can do more miracles demonstrating my power. <sup>2</sup> What stories you can tell your children and grandchildren about the incredible things I am doing in Egypt! Tell them what fools I made of the Egyptians, and how I proved to you that I am Jehovah "

<sup>3</sup> So Moses and Aaron requested another audience with Pharaoh and told him: "Jehovah, the God of the Hebrews, asks, 'How long will you refuse to submit to me? Let my people go so they can worship me. <sup>4</sup> If you refuse, tomorrow I will cover the entire nation with a thick layer of locusts so that you won't even be able to see the ground, and they will finish destroying everything that escaped the hail. <sup>5</sup> They will fill your palace, and the homes of your officials, and all the houses of Egypt. Never in the history of Egypt has there been a plague like this will bel' " Then Moses stalked out.

<sup>7</sup> The court officials now came to Pharaoh and asked him, "Are you going to destroy us completely? Don't you know even yet that all Egypt lies in ruins? Let the men go and serve Jehovah their God!"

<sup>8</sup> So Moses and Aaron were brought back to Pharaoh. "All right, go and serve Jehovah your God!" he said. "But just who is it you want to go?"

<sup>9</sup> "We will go with our sons and daughters, flocks and herds," Moses replied. "We will take everything with us; for we must all join in the holy pilgrimage."

<sup>10</sup> "In the name of God I will not let you take your little ones!" Pharaoh retorted. "I can see your plot!"

<sup>12</sup> Then the Lord said to Moses, "Hold out your hand over the land of Egypt to bring locusts—they will cover the land and eat everything the hail has left."

<sup>13</sup> So Moses lifted his rod and Jehovah caused an east wind to blow all that day and night; and when it was morning, the east wind had brought the locusts. <sup>14</sup> And the locusts covered the land of Egypt from border to border; it was the worst locust plague in all Egyptian history; and there will never again be another like it. <sup>15</sup> For the locusts covered the face of the earth and blotted out the sun so that the land was darkened; and they ate every bit of vegetation the hail had left; there remained not one green thing—not a tree, not a plant throughout all the land of Egypt.

<sup>16</sup> Then Pharaoh sent an urgent call for Moses and Aaron and said to them, "I confess my sin against Jehovah your God and against you. <sup>17</sup> Forgive my sin only this once, and beg Jehovah your God to take away this death. I promise not to refuse afterwards to let you go."

<sup>18</sup> So Moses went out from Pharaoh and entreated the Lord, <sup>19</sup> and he sent a very strong west wind that blew the locusts out into the Red Sea, so that there remained not one locust in all the land of Egypt! <sup>20</sup> But the Lord hardened Pharaoh's heart and he did not let the people go.

<sup>22</sup> So Moses did, and there was thick darkness over all the land for three days. <sup>23</sup> During all that time the people scarcely moved—but all the people of Israel had light as usual.

<sup>24</sup> Then Pharaoh called for Moses and said, "Go and worship Jehovah—but let your flocks and herds stay here; you can even take your children with you."

<sup>25</sup> "No," Moses said, "we must take our flocks and herds for sacrifices and burnt offerings to Jehovah our God. <sup>26</sup> Not a hoof shall be left behind; for we must have sacrifices for the Lord our God, and we do not know what he will choose until we get there."

will never see you again.”

11 THEN THE LORD said to Moses, “I will send just one more disaster on Pharaoh and his land, and after that he will let you go; in fact, he will be so anxious to get rid of you that he will practically throw you out of the country. <sup>2</sup> Tell all the men and women of Israel to prepare to ask their Egyptian neighbors for costly gold and silver jewelry.”

<sup>3</sup> (For God caused the Egyptians to be very favorable to the people of Israel, and Moses was a very great man in the land of Egypt and was revered by Pharaoh’s officials and the Egyptian people alike.)

<sup>7</sup> “But not a dog shall move his tongue against any of the people of Israel, nor shall any of their animals die. Then you will know that Jehovah makes a distinction between Egyptians and Israelis.’ <sup>8</sup> All these officials of yours will come running to me, bowing low and begging, ‘Please leave at once, and take all your people with you.’ Only then will I go!” Then, red-faced with anger, Moses stomped from the palace.<sup>b</sup>

<sup>9</sup> The Lord had told Moses, “Pharaoh won’t listen, and this will give me the opportunity of doing mighty miracles to demonstrate my power.” <sup>10</sup> So, although Moses and Aaron did these miracles right before Pharaoh’s eyes, the Lord hardened his heart so that he wouldn’t let the people leave the land.

12 THEN THE LORD said to Moses and Aaron, <sup>2</sup> “From now on, this month will be the first and most important month of the Jewish calendar. <sup>3,4</sup> Annually, on the tenth day of this month (announce this to all the people of Israel) each family shall get a lamb<sup>a</sup> (or, if a family is small, let it share the lamb with another small family in the neighborhood; whether to share in this way depends on the size of the families). <sup>5</sup> This animal shall be a year-old male, either a sheep or a goat, without any defects.

<sup>11</sup> "Eat it with your traveling clothes on, prepared for a long journey, wearing your walking shoes and carrying your walking sticks in your hands; eat it hurriedly. This observance shall be called the Lord's Passover. <sup>12</sup> For I will pass through the land of Egypt tonight and kill all the oldest sons and first-born male animals in all the land of Egypt, and execute judgment upon all the gods of Egypt—for I am Jehovah. <sup>13</sup> The blood you have placed on the doorposts will be proof that you obey me, and when I see the blood I will pass over you and I will not destroy your firstborn children when I smite the land of Egypt.

<sup>17</sup> "This annual 'Celebration with Unleavened Bread' will cause you always to remember today as the day when I brought you out of the land of Egypt; so it is a law that you must celebrate this day annually, generation after generation.

<sup>18</sup> Only bread without yeast may be eaten from the evening of the fourteenth day of the month until the evening of the twenty-first day of the month. <sup>19</sup> For these seven days there must be no trace of yeast in your homes; during that time anyone who eats anything that has yeast in it shall be excommunicated from the congregation of Israel. These same rules apply to foreigners who are living among you just as much as to those born in the land. <sup>20</sup> Again I repeat, during those days you must not eat anything made with yeast; serve only yeastless bread."

<sup>21</sup> Then Moses called for all the elders of Israel and said to them, "Go and get lambs from your flocks, a lamb for one or more families depending upon the number of persons in the families, and kill the lamb so that God will pass over you and not destroy you. <sup>22</sup> Drain the lamb's blood into a basin, and then take a cluster of hyssop branches and dip them into the lamb's blood, and strike the hyssop against the lintel above the door and against the two side panels, so that there will be blood upon them, and none of you shall go outside all night.

Lord will give you, just as he promised, and when you are celebrating the Passover, <sup>26</sup> and your children ask, 'What does all this mean? What is this ceremony about?' <sup>27</sup> you will reply, 'It is the celebration of Jehovah's passing over us, for he passed over the homes of the people of Israel, though he killed the Egyptians; he passed over our houses and did not come in to destroy us.' " And all the people bowed their heads and worshiped.

them on their shoulders. <sup>35</sup> And the people of Israel did as Moses said and asked the Egyptians for silver and gold jewelry, and for clothing. <sup>36</sup> And the Lord gave the Israelis favor with the Egyptians, so that they gave them whatever they wanted. And the Egyptians were practically stripped of everything they owned!

<sup>43</sup> Then Jehovah said to Moses and Aaron, "These are the rules concerning the observance of the Passover. No foreigners shall eat the lamb, <sup>44</sup> but any slave who has been purchased may eat it if he has been circumcised. <sup>45</sup> A hired servant or a visiting foreigner may not eat of it. <sup>46</sup> You shall, all of you who eat each lamb, eat it together in one house, and not carry it outside; and you shall not break any of its bones. <sup>47</sup> All the congregation of Israel shall observe this memorial at the same time.

<sup>48</sup> "As to foreigners, if they are living with you and want to observe the Passover with you, let all the males be circumcised, and then they may come and celebrate with you—then they shall be just as though they had been born among you; but no uncircumcised person shall ever eat the lamb. <sup>49</sup> The same law applies to those born in Israel and to foreigners living among you."

Moses, "Dedicate to me all of the firstborn sons<sup>a</sup> of Israel, and every firstborn male animal; they are mine!"

<sup>1</sup> Then Moses said to the people, "This is a day to remember forever—the day of leaving Egypt and your slavery; for the Lord has brought you out with mighty miracles. Now remember, during the annual celebration of this event you are to use no yeast; don't even have any in your homes. <sup>2</sup> Mark this day of your exodus, at the end of March<sup>b</sup> each year, when Jehovah brings you into the land of the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Hivites, and Jebusites—the land he promised your fathers, a land 'flowing with milk and honey.' <sup>6,7</sup> For seven days you shall eat only bread without yeast, and there must be no yeast in your homes, or anywhere within the borders of your land! Then, on the seventh day, a great feast to the Lord shall be held.

Jehovah killed all the firstborn males throughout the land of Egypt, both of men and animals; that is why we now give all the first-born males to the Lord—except that all the eldest sons are always bought back.' <sup>16</sup> Again I say, this celebration shall identify you as God's people, just as much as if his brand of ownership were placed upon your foreheads. It is a reminder that the Lord brought us out of Egypt with great power."

God did not lead them through the land of the Philistines, although that was the most direct route from Egypt to the Promised Land. The reason was that God felt the people might become discouraged by having to fight their way through, even though they had left Egypt armed; he thought they might return to Egypt. Instead, God led them along a route through the Red Sea wilderness.

<sup>19</sup> Moses took the bones of Joseph with them, for Joseph had made the sons of Israel vow before God that they would take his bones with them when God led them out of Egypt—as he was sure God would.

Migdol and the sea, opposite Baal-zephon, and to camp there along the shore. <sup>3</sup> For Pharaoh will think, 'Those Israelites are trapped now, between the desert and the sea!' <sup>4</sup> And once again I will harden Pharaoh's heart and he will chase after you. I have planned this to gain great honor and glory over Pharaoh and all his armies, and the Egyptians shall know that I am the Lord."

So they camped where they were told.

<sup>5</sup> When word reached the king of Egypt that the Israelites were not planning to return to Egypt after three days, but to keep on going, Pharaoh and his staff became bold again. "What is this we have done, letting all these slaves get away?" they asked. <sup>6</sup> So Pharaoh led the chase in his chariot, <sup>7</sup> followed by the pick of Egypt's chariot corps—600 chariots in all—and other chariots driven by Egyptian officers. <sup>8</sup> He pursued the people of Israel, for they had taken much of the wealth of Egypt with them. <sup>9</sup> Pharaoh's entire cavalry—horses, chariots, and charioteers—was used in the chase; and the Egyptian army overtook the people of Israel as they were camped beside the shore near Piha-hiroth, across from Baal-zephon.

enough graves for us in Egypt? Why did you make us leave Egypt? <sup>12</sup> Isn't this what we told you, while we were slaves, to leave us alone? We said it would be better to be slaves to the Egyptians than dead in the wilderness."

<sup>13</sup> But Moses told the people, "Don't be afraid. Just stand where you are and watch, and you will see the wonderful way the Lord will rescue you today. The Egyptians you are looking at—you will never see them again. <sup>14</sup> The Lord will fight for you, and you won't need to lift a finger!"<sup>a</sup>

<sup>15</sup> Then the Lord said to Moses, "Quit praying and get the people moving! Forward, march! <sup>16</sup> Use your rod—hold it out over the water, and the sea will open up a path before you, and all the people of Israel shall walk through on dry ground! <sup>17</sup> I will harden the hearts of the Egyptians and they will go in after you and you will see the honor I will get in defeating Pharaoh and all his armies, chariots, and horsemen. <sup>18</sup> And all Egypt shall know that I am Jehovah."

<sup>19</sup> Then the Angel of God, who was leading the people of Israel, moved the cloud around behind them, <sup>20</sup> and it stood between the people of Israel and the Egyptians. And that night, as it changed to a pillar of fire, it gave darkness to the Egyptians but light to the people of Israel! So the Egyptians couldn't find the Israelis!

and a strong east wind blew all that night, drying the sea bottom. <sup>22</sup> So the people of Israel walked through the sea on dry ground! <sup>23</sup> Then the Egyptians followed them between the walls of water along the bottom of the sea—all of Pharaoh's horses, chariots, and horsemen. <sup>24</sup> But in the early morning Jehovah looked down from the cloud of fire upon the array of the Egyptians, and began to harass them. <sup>25</sup> Their chariot wheels began coming off, so that their chariots scraped along the dry ground. "Let's get out of here," the Egyptians yelled. "Jehovah is fighting for them and against us."

<sup>26</sup> When all the Israelites were on the other side,<sup>b</sup> the Lord said to Moses, "Stretch out your hand again over the sea, so that the waters will come back over the Egyptians and their chariots and horsemen." <sup>27</sup> Moses did, and the sea returned to normal beneath the morning light. The Egyptians tried to flee, but the Lord drowned them in the sea. <sup>28</sup> The water covered the path and the chariots and horsemen. And of all the army of Pharaoh that chased after Israel through the sea, not one remained alive.

revered the Lord, and believed in him and in his servant Moses.

15 THEN MOSES AND the people of Israel sang this song to the Lord:

I will sing to the Lord, for he has triumphed gloriously;

He has thrown both horse and rider into the sea.

He is my God, and I will praise him.

He is my father's God—I will exalt him.

You sent forth your anger, and it consumed them as fire consumes straw.

them.

I will cut them apart with my sword

And divide the captured booty."

They sank as lead in the mighty waters.

Who is glorious in holiness like him?

Who is so awesome in splendor,

A wonder-working God?

But in your lovingkindness You have guided them wonderfully

To your holy land.

Fear has gripped the people of Philistia.

The mighty men of Moab tremble;

All the people of Canaan melt with fear.

<sup>16</sup> Terror and dread have overcome them.

O Lord, because of your great power they won't attack us!

Your people whom you purchased

Will pass by them in safety.

<sup>17</sup> You will bring them in and plant them on your mountain,

Your own homeland, Lord—
The sanctuary you made for them to live in.

Tried to follow through the sea;

But the Lord let down the walls of water on them

While the people of Israel walked through on dry land.

Sing to the Lord, for he has triumphed gloriously.

The horse and rider have been drowned in the sea.

<sup>22</sup> Then Moses led the people of Israel on from the Red Sea, and they moved out into the wilderness of Shur and were there three days without water. <sup>23</sup> Arriving at Marah, they couldn't drink the water because it was bitter (that is why the place was called Marah, meaning "bitter").

It was there<sup>26</sup> at Marah that the Lord laid before them the following conditions, to test their commitment to him: <sup>26</sup> "If you will listen to the voice of the Lord your God, and obey it, and do what is right, then I will not make you suffer the diseases I send on the Egyptians, for I am the Lord who heals you."

16 NOW THEY LEFT Elim and journeyed on into the Sih Wilderness, between Elim and Mt. Sinai, arriving there on the fifteenth day of the second month after leaving Egypt. <sup>1</sup> There too, the people spoke bitterly against Moses and Aaron.

<sup>2</sup> "Oh, that we were back in Egypt," they moaned, "and that the Lord had killed us there! For there we had plenty to eat. But now you have brought us into this wilderness to kill us with starvation."

<sup>3</sup> Then the Lord said to Moses, "Look, I'm going to rain down food from heaven for them. Everyone can go out each day and gather as much food as he needs. And I will test them in this, to see whether they will follow my instructions or not. <sup>4</sup> Tell them to gather twice as much as usual on the sixth day of each week."

<sup>5</sup> Then Moses and Aaron called a meeting of all the people of Israel and told them, "This evening you will realize that it was the Lord who brought you out of the land of Egypt. <sup>6,7</sup> In the morning you will see more of his glory; for he has heard your complaints against him (for you aren't really complaining against us—who are we?).

"The Lord will give you meat to eat in the evening, and bread in the morning. Come now before Jehovah, and hear his reply to your complaints."

<sup>11,12</sup> And Jehovah said to Moses, "I have heard their complaints. Tell them, 'In the evening you will have meat and in the morning you will be stuffed with bread, and you shall know that I am Jehovah your God.'"

And Moses told them, "It is the food Jehovah has given you to eat. <sup>16</sup> Jehovah has said for everyone to gather as much as is needed for his household—about three quarts<sup>a</sup> for each person in his home."

was full of maggots and had a terrible odor; and Moses was very angry with them. <sup>21</sup> So they gathered the food morning by morning, each home according to its need; and when the sun became hot upon the ground, the food melted and disappeared. <sup>22</sup> On the sixth day they gathered twice as much as usual, six quarts instead of three; then the leaders of the people came and asked Moses why this had been commanded them.

<sup>28,29</sup> "How long will these people refuse to obey?" the Lord asked Moses. "Don't they realize that I am giving them twice as much on the sixth day, so that there will be enough for two days? For the Lord has given you the seventh day as a day of Sabbath rest; stay in your tents and don't go out to pick up food from the ground that day."

<sup>11</sup> And the food became known as "manna" (meaning "What is it?"); it was white, like coriander seed, and flat, and tasted like honey bread.

<sup>12</sup> Then Moses gave them this further instruction from the Lord: they were to take three quarts of it to be kept as a museum specimen forever, so that later generations could see the bread the Lord had fed them with in the wilderness, when he brought them from Egypt.

<sup>13</sup> Moses told Aaron to get a container and put three quarts of manna in it and to keep it in a sacred place from generation to generation. <sup>14</sup> Aaron did this, just as the Lord had instructed Moses, and eventually it was kept in the Ark in the Tabernacle.

<sup>15</sup> So the people of Israel ate the manna forty years until they arrived in the land of Canaan, where there were crops to eat. <sup>16</sup> The omer—the container used to measure the manna—held about three quarts; it is approximately a tenth of a bushel.

17 NOW, AT GOD'S command, the people of Israel left the Sihm desert, going by easy stages to Rephidim. But upon arrival, there was no water!

"Quiet!" Moses commanded. "Are you trying to test God's patience with you?"

<sup>4</sup> Then Jehovah said to Moses, "Take the elders of Israel with you and lead the people out to Mt. Horeb. I will meet you there at the rock. Strike it with your rod<sup>a</sup>—the same one you struck the Nile with—and water will come pouring out, enough for everyone!" Moses did as he was told, and the water gushed out! <sup>5</sup> Moses named the place Massah (meaning "tempting Jehovah to slay us"), and sometimes they referred to it as Meribah (meaning "argument" and "strife!")—for it was there that the people of Israel argued against God and tempted him to slay<sup>6</sup> them by saying, "Is Jehovah going to take care of us or not?"

"Tomorrow," Moses told him, "I will stand at the top of the hill, with the rod of God in my hand!"

arms at his sides, the soldiers of Amalek were winning. <sup>12</sup> Moses' arms finally became too tired to hold up the rod any longer; so Aaron and Hur rolled a stone for him to sit on, and they stood on each side, holding up his hands until sunset. <sup>13</sup> As a result, Joshua and his troops crushed the army of Amalek, putting them to the sword.

<sup>14</sup> Then the Lord instructed Moses, "Write this into a permanent record, to be remembered forever, and announce to Joshua that I will utterly blot out every trace of Amalek." <sup>15,16</sup> Moses built an altar there and called it "Jehovah-nissi" (meaning "Jehovah is my flag").

"Raise the banner of the Lord!" Moses said. "For the Lord will be at war with Amalek generation after generation."

18 WORD SOON REACHED Jethro, Moses' father-in-law, the priest of Midian, about all the wonderful things God had done for his people and for Moses, and how the Lord had brought them out of Egypt.

<sup>1</sup> Then Jethro took Moses' wife, Zipporah, to him (for he had sent her home), <sup>2</sup> along with Moses' two sons, Gershom (meaning "foreigner," for Moses said when he was born, "I have been wandering in a foreign land") <sup>3</sup> and Eliezer (meaning "God is my help," for Moses said at his birth, "The God of my fathers was my helper, and delivered me from the sword of Pharaoh"). <sup>5,6</sup> They arrived while Moses and the people were camped at Mt. Sinai.<sup>a</sup>

"Jethro, your father-in-law, has come to visit you," Moses was told, "and he has brought your wife and your two sons."

<sup>7</sup> Moses went out to meet his father-in-law and greeted him warmly; they asked about each other's health and then went into Moses' tent to talk further. <sup>8</sup> Moses related to his father-in-law all that had been happening and what the Lord had done to Pharaoh and the Egyptians in order to deliver Israel, and all the problems there had been along the way, and how the Lord had delivered his people from all of them. <sup>9</sup> Jethro was very happy about everything the Lord had done for Israel, and about his bringing them out of Egypt.

<sup>10</sup> "Bless the Lord," Jethro said, "for he has saved you from the Egyptians and from Pharaoh, and has rescued Israel. <sup>11</sup> I know now that the Lord is greater than any other god because he delivered his people from the proud and cruel Egyptians."

<sup>14</sup> When Moses' father-in-law saw how much time this was taking, he said, "Why are you trying to do all this alone, with people standing and sacrifices for God."

here all day long to get your help?"

<sup>15,16</sup> "Well, because the people come to me with their disputes, to ask for God's decisions," Moses told him. "I am their judge, deciding who is right and who is wrong, and instructing them in God's ways. I apply the laws of God to their particular disputes."

<sup>21</sup> "Find some capable, godly, honest men who hate bribes, and appoint them as judges, one judge for each 1000 people; he in turn will have ten judges under him, each in charge of a hundred; and under each of them will be two judges, each responsible for the affairs of fifty people; and each of these will have five judges beneath him, each counseling ten persons. <sup>22</sup> Let these men be responsible to serve the people with justice at all times. Anything that is too important or complicated can be brought to you. But the smaller matters they can take care of themselves. That way it will be easier for you because you will share the burden with them.

<sup>23</sup> If you follow this advice, and if the Lord agrees, you will be able to endure the pressures, and there will be peace and harmony in the camp."

19 THE ISRAELIS ARRIVED in the Sinai peninsula three months after the night of their departure from Egypt. <sup>23</sup> After breaking camp at Rephidim, they came to the base of Mt. Sinai and set up camp there. Moses climbed the rugged mountain to meet with God, and from somewhere in the mountain God called to him and said,

"Give these instructions to the people of Israel. Tell them, 'You have seen what I did to the Egyptians, and how I brought you to myself as though on eagle's wings. <sup>3</sup> Now if you will obey me and keep your part of my contract with you, you shall be my own little flock from among all the nations of the earth; for all the earth is mine. <sup>4</sup> And you shall be a kingdom of priests to God, a holy nation.' "

<sup>9</sup> Then he said to Moses, "I am going to come to you in the form of a dark cloud, so that the people themselves can hear me when I talk with you, and then they will always believe you. <sup>10</sup> Go down now and see that the people are ready for my visit. Sanctify them today and tomorrow, and have them wash their clothes. <sup>11</sup> Then, the day after tomorrow, I will come down upon Mt. Sinai as all the people watch. <sup>12</sup> Set boundary lines the people may not pass, and tell them, 'Beware! Do not go up into the mountain, or even touch its boundaries; whoever does shall die—' <sup>13</sup> no hand shall touch him, but he shall be stoned or shot to death with arrows, whether man or animal.' Stay away from the mountain entirely until you hear a ram's horn sounding one long blast; then gather at the foot of the mountain!"

<sup>16</sup> On the morning of the third day there was a terrific thunder and lightning storm, and a huge cloud came down upon the mountain, and there was a long, loud blast as from a ram's horn; and all the people trembled. <sup>17</sup> Moses led them out from the camp to meet God, and they stood at the foot of the mountain. <sup>18</sup> All Mt. Sinai was covered with smoke because Jehovah descended upon it in the form of fire;

the smoke billowed into the sky as from a furnace, and the whole mountain shook with a violent earthquake. <sup>19</sup> As the trumpet blast grew louder and louder, Moses spoke and God thundered his reply. <sup>20</sup> So the Lord came down upon the top of Mt. Sinai and called Moses up to the top of the mountain, and Moses ascended to God.

<sup>21</sup> But the Lord told Moses, "Go back down and warn the people not to cross the boundaries. They must not come up here to try to see God, for they will die. <sup>22</sup> Even the priests on duty<sup>a</sup> must sanctify themselves, lest Jehovah destroy them."

<sup>23</sup> "But the people won't come up into the mountain!" Moses protested. "You told them not to! You told me to set boundaries around the mountain, and to declare it off limits because it is reserved for God."

<sup>24</sup> But Jehovah said, "Go on down, and bring Aaron back with you, and don't let the priests and the people break across the boundaries to try to come up here, or I will destroy them."

20 THEN GOD ISSUED this edict: <sup>1</sup> "I am Jehovah your God who liberated you from your slavery in Egypt.

must never bow to an image or worship it in any way; for I, the Lord your God, am very possessive. I will not share your affection with any other god!

"And when I punish people for their sins, the punishment continues upon the children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren of those who hate me;<sup>4</sup> but I lavish my love upon thousands of those who love me and obey my commandments.

<sup>7</sup> "You shall not use the name of Jehovah your God irreverently,<sup>b</sup> nor use it to swear to a falsehood. You will not escape punishment if you do.

<sup>8</sup> "Remember to observe the Sabbath as a holy day. <sup>9</sup> Six days a week are for your daily duties and your regular work, <sup>10</sup> but the seventh day is a day of Sabbath rest before the Lord your God. On that day you are to do no work of any kind, nor shall your son, daughter, or slaves—whether men or women—or your cattle or your house guests. <sup>11</sup> For in six days the Lord made the heaven, earth, and sea, and everything in them, and rested the seventh day; so he blessed the Sabbath day and set it aside for rest.<sup>c</sup>

<sup>12</sup> "Honor your father and mother, that you may have a long, good life in the land the Lord your God will give you.

<sup>19</sup> They said to Moses, "You tell us what God says and we will obey, but don't let God speak directly to us, or it will kill us."

<sup>20</sup> "Don't be afraid," Moses told them, "for God has come in this way to show you his awesome power, so that from now on you will be afraid to sin against him!"

<sup>22</sup> And the Lord told Moses to be his spokesman to the people of Israel. "You are witnesses to the fact that I have made known my will to you from heaven. <sup>23</sup> Remember, you must not make or worship idols made of silver or gold or of anything else!

<sup>24</sup> "The altars you make for me must be simple altars of earth. Offer upon them your sacrifices to me—your burnt offerings and peace offerings of sheep and oxen. Build altars only where I tell you to, and I will come and bless you there. <sup>25</sup> You may also build altars from stone, but if you do, then use only uncut stones and boulders. Don't chip or shape the stones with a tool, for that would make them unfit for my altar. <sup>26</sup> And don't make steps for the altar, or someone might look up beneath the skirts of your clothing and see your nakedness.

21 "HERE ARE OTHER laws you must obey:

<sup>3</sup> "If he sold himself as a slave before he married, then if he married afterwards, only he shall be freed; but if he was married before he became a slave, then his wife shall be freed with him at the same time. <sup>4</sup> But if his master gave him a wife while he was a slave, and they have sons or daughters, the wife and children shall still belong to the master, and he shall go out by himself free.

<sup>5</sup> "But if the man shall plainly declare, 'I prefer my master, my wife, and my children, and I would rather not go free,' <sup>6</sup> then his master shall bring him before the judges and shall publicly bore his ear with an awl, and after that he will be a slave forever.

<sup>7</sup> "If a man sells his daughter as a slave, she shall not be freed at the end of six years as the men are. <sup>8</sup> If she does not please the man who bought her, then he shall let her be bought back again; but he has no power to sell her to foreigners, since he has wronged her by no longer wanting her after marrying her. <sup>9</sup> And if he arranges an engagement between a Hebrew slave-girl and his son, then he may no longer treat her as a slave-girl, but must treat her as a daughter. <sup>10</sup> If he himself marries her and then takes another wife, he may not reduce her food or clothing, or fail to sleep with her as his wife. <sup>11</sup> If he fails in any of these three things, then she may leave freely without any payment.

<sup>12</sup> "Anyone who hits a man so hard that he dies shall surely be put to death. <sup>13</sup> But if it is accidental—an act of God—and not intentional, then I will appoint a place where he can run and get protection. <sup>14</sup> However, if a man deliberately attacks another, intending to kill him, drag him even from my altar, and kill him.

<sup>18</sup> "If two men are fighting, and one hits the other with a stone or with his fist and injures him so that he must be confined to bed, but doesn't die, <sup>19</sup> if later he is able to walk again, even with a limp,<sup>b</sup> the man who hit him will be innocent except that he must pay for the loss of his time until he is thoroughly healed, and pay any medical expenses.

does not die for a couple of days, then the man shall not be punished—for the slave is his property.

<sup>22</sup> “If two men are fighting, and in the process hurt a pregnant woman so that she has a miscarriage, but she lives, then the man who injured her shall be fined whatever amount the woman’s husband shall demand, and as the judges approve. <sup>23</sup> But if any harm comes to the woman and she dies, he shall be executed.

<sup>28</sup> “If an ox gores a man or woman to death, the ox shall be stoned and its flesh not eaten, but the owner shall not be held—<sup>29</sup> unless the ox was known to gore people in the past, and the owner had been notified and still the ox was not kept under control; in that case, if it kills someone, the ox shall be stoned and the owner also shall be killed. <sup>30</sup> But the dead man’s relatives may accept a fine instead, if they wish. The judges will determine the amount.<sup>c</sup>

given thirty pieces of silver, and the ox shall be stoned.

<sup>35</sup> “If a man’s ox injures another, and it dies, then the two owners shall sell the live ox and divide the price between them—and each shall also own half of the dead ox.

<sup>36</sup> But if the ox was known from past experience to gore, and its owner has not kept it under control, then there will not be a division of the income; but the owner of the living ox shall pay in full for the dead ox, and the dead one shall be his.

22 “IF A MAN steals an ox or sheep and then kills or sells it, he shall pay a fine of five to one—five oxen shall be returned for each stolen ox. For sheep, the fine shall be four to one—four sheep returned for each sheep stolen.

<sup>2</sup> “If a thief is caught in the act of breaking into a house and is killed, the one who killed him is not guilty. <sup>3</sup> But if it happens in the daylight, it must be presumed to be murder and the man who kills him is guilty.

“If a thief is captured, he must make full restitution; if he can’t, then he must be sold as a slave for his debt.

<sup>4</sup> “If he is caught in the act of stealing a live ox or donkey or sheep or whatever it is, he shall pay double value as his fine.

<sup>3</sup> "If someone deliberately lets his animal loose and it gets into another man's vineyard; or if he turns it into another man's field to graze, he must pay for all damages by giving the owner of the field or vineyard an equal amount of the best of his own crop.

<sup>7</sup> "If someone gives money or goods to anyone to keep for him, and it is stolen, the thief shall pay double if he is found. <sup>8</sup> But if no thief is found, then the man to whom the valuables were entrusted shall be brought before God to determine whether or not he himself has stolen his neighbor's property.

<sup>9</sup> "In every case in which an ox, donkey, sheep, clothing, or anything else is lost, and the owner believes he has found it in the possession of someone else who denies it, both parties to the dispute shall come before God for a decision, and the one whom God declares guilty shall pay double to the other.

<sup>10</sup> "If a man asks his neighbor to keep a donkey, ox, sheep, or any other animal for him, and it dies, or is hurt, or gets away, and there is no eyewitness to report just what happened to it, <sup>11</sup> then the neighbor must take an oath that he has not stolen it, and the owner must accept his word, and no restitution shall be made for it. <sup>12</sup> But if the animal or property has been stolen, the neighbor caring for it must repay the owner. <sup>13</sup> If it was attacked by some wild animal, he shall bring the torn carcass to confirm the fact, and shall not be required to make restitution.

<sup>14</sup> "If a man borrows an animal (or anything else) from a neighbor, and it is injured or killed, and the owner is not there at the time, then the man who borrowed it must pay for it. <sup>15</sup> But if the owner is there, he need not pay; and if it was rented, then he need not pay, because this possibility was included in the original rental fee.

<sup>22</sup> "You must not exploit widows or orphans; <sup>23</sup> if you do so in any way, and they cry to me for my help, I will surely give it. <sup>24</sup> And my anger shall flame out against you, and I will kill you with enemy armies, so that your wives will be widows and your children fatherless.

<sup>29</sup> "You must be prompt in giving me the tithe of your crops and your wine, and the redemption payment for your oldest son.

<sup>30</sup> "As to the firstborn of the oxen and the sheep, give it to me on the eighth day, after leaving it with its mother for seven days.

<sup>31</sup> "And since you yourselves are holy—my special people—do not eat any animal that has been attacked and killed by a wild animal. Leave its carcass for the dogs to eat.

in favor of a man just because he is poor.

<sup>4</sup> "If you come upon an enemy's ox or donkey that has strayed away, you must take it back to its owner. <sup>5</sup> If you see your enemy trying to get his donkey onto its feet beneath a heavy load, you must not go on by, but must help him.

<sup>10</sup> "Sow and reap your crops for six years, <sup>11</sup> but let the land rest and lie fallow during the seventh year, and let the poor among the people harvest any volunteer crop that may come up; leave the rest for the animals to enjoy. The same rule applies to your vineyards and your olive groves.

<sup>12</sup> "Work six days only, and rest the seventh; this is to give your oxen and donkeys a rest, as well as the people of your household—your slaves and visitors.

This celebration is to be an annual event at the regular time in March, the month you left Egypt; everyone must bring me a sacrifice at that time. <sup>16</sup> Then there is the Harvest Pilgrimage, when you must bring to me the first of your crops. And, finally, the Pilgrimage of Ingathering at the end of the harvest season. <sup>17</sup> At these three times each year, every man in Israel shall appear before the Lord God.

<sup>21</sup> Reverence him and obey all of his instructions; do not rebel against him, for he will not pardon your transgression; he is my representative—he bears my name. <sup>22</sup> But if you are careful to obey him, following all my instructions, then I will be an enemy to your enemies. <sup>23</sup> For my Angel shall go before you and bring you into the land of the Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Canaanites, Hivites, and Jebusites, to live there. And I will destroy those people before you.

<sup>25</sup> "You shall serve the Lord your God only; then I will bless you with food and with water, and I will take away sickness from among you. <sup>26</sup> There will be no miscarriages nor barrenness throughout your land, and you will live out the full quota of the days of your life.

<sup>27</sup> "The terror of the Lord shall fall upon all the people whose land you invade, and they will flee before you; <sup>28</sup> and I will send hornets to drive out the Hivites, Canaanites, and Hittites from before you. <sup>29</sup> I will not do it all in one year, for the land would become a wilderness, and the wild animals would become too many to control. <sup>30</sup> But I will drive them out a little at a time, until your population has increased enough to fill the land.

<sup>31</sup> "And I will set your enlarged boundaries from the Red Sea to the Philistine coast, and from the southern deserts as far as the Euphrates River; and I will cause you to defeat the people now living in the land, and you will drive them out ahead of you.

<sup>32</sup> "You must make no covenant with them, nor have anything to do with their gods. <sup>33</sup> Don't let them live among you! For I know that they will infect you with their sin of worshiping false gods, and that would be an utter disaster to you."

24 THE LORD NOW instructed Moses, "Come up here with Aaron, Nadab, Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel. All of you except Moses are to worship at a distance. <sup>2</sup> Moses alone shall come near to the Lord; and remember, none of the ordinary people are permitted to come up into the mountain at all."

<sup>3</sup> Then Moses announced to the people all the laws and regulations God had given him; and the people answered in unison, "We will obey them all."

<sup>4</sup> Moses wrote down the laws; and early the next morning he built an altar at the foot of the mountain, with twelve pillars around the altar because there were twelve tribes of Israel. <sup>5</sup> Then he sent some of the young men to sacrifice the burnt offerings and peace offerings to the Lord. <sup>6</sup> Moses took half of the blood of these animals, and drew it off into basins. The other half he splashed against the altar.

<sup>7</sup> And he read to the people the Book he had written—the Book of the Covenant—containing God's directions and laws. And the people said again, "We solemnly promise to obey every one of these rules."

<sup>8</sup> Then Moses threw the blood from the basins towards the people and said, "This blood confirms and seals the covenant the Lord has made with you in giving you these laws."

<sup>9</sup> Then Moses, Aaron, Nadab, Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel went up into the mountain. <sup>10</sup> And they saw the God of Israel; under his feet there seemed to be a pavement of brilliant sapphire stones, as clear as the heavens.

<sup>11</sup> Yet, even though the elders saw God, he did not destroy them; and they had a meal together before the Lord.

<sup>12</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, "Come up to me into the mountain, and remain until I give you the laws and commandments I have written on tablets of stone, so that you can teach the people from them." <sup>13</sup> So Moses and Joshua, his assistant, went up into the mountain of God.

25 JEHOVAH SAID TO Moses, "Tell the people of Israel that everyone who wants to may bring me an offering from this list:

Gold, silver, bronze, blue cloth, purple cloth, scarlet cloth, fine-twined linen, goat's hair, red-dyed ram's skins, goat-skins, acacia wood, olive oil for the lamps, spices for the anointing oil and for the fragrant incense, onyx stones, stones to be set in the ephod and in the breastplate.

<sup>8</sup> For I want the people of Israel to make me a sacred Temple where I can live among them.

<sup>9</sup> "This home of mine shall be a tent pavilion—a Tabernacle. I will give you a drawing of the construction plan, and the details of each furnishing.

the tablets of stone I shall give you. <sup>22</sup> And I will meet with you there and talk with you from above the place of mercy between the cherubim; and the Ark will contain the laws of my covenant. There I will tell you my commandments for the people of Israel.

one piece of pure, beaten gold. <sup>11</sup> Then make seven lamps for the lampstand, and set them so that they reflect their light forward. <sup>12</sup> The snuffers and trays are to be made of pure gold. <sup>13</sup> You will need about 107<sup>d</sup> pounds of pure gold for the lampstand and its accessories.

26 "MAKE THE TABERNACLE-TENT from ten colored sheets of fine-twined linen, forty-two feet long and six feet wide, dyed blue, purple, and scarlet, with cherubim embroidered on them. <sup>1</sup> Join five sheets end to end for each side of the tent, forming two long pieces, one for each side. <sup>2</sup> Use loops at the edges to join these two long pieces together side by side. There are to be fifty loops on each side, opposite each other. <sup>3</sup> Then make fifty golden clasps to fasten the loops together, so that the Tabernacle, the dwelling place of God, becomes a single unit.

<sup>4</sup> "The roof of the Tabernacle is made of goat's hair tarpaulins. There are to be eleven of these tarpaulins, each forty-five feet across and six feet wide. <sup>5</sup> Connect five of these tarpaulins into one wide section; and use the other six for another wide section. (The sixth tarpaulin will hang down to form a curtain across the front of the sacred tent.) <sup>10,11</sup> Use fifty loops along the edges of each of these two wide pieces, to join them together with fifty bronze clasps. Thus the two widths become one. <sup>12</sup> There will be a 1½-foot length of this roof-covering hanging down from the back of the tent, <sup>13</sup> and a 1½-foot length at the front. <sup>14</sup> On top of these blankets is placed a layer of rams' skins, dyed red, and over them a top layer of goatskins. This completes the roof-covering.

<sup>34</sup> “Now install the mercy place—the golden lid of the Ark—in the Most Holy Place. <sup>35</sup> Place the table and lampstand across the room from each other on the outer side of the veil. The lampstand will be on the south side of the Holy Place and the table on the north side.

27 “USING ACACIA WOOD, make a square altar 7½ feet wide, and three feet high. <sup>2</sup> Make horns for the four corners of the altar, attach them firmly, and overlay everything with bronze. <sup>3</sup> The ash buckets, shovels, basins, carcass-hooks, and fire pans are all to be made of bronze. <sup>4</sup> Make a bronze grating, with a metal ring at each corner, <sup>5</sup> and fit the grating halfway down into the fire box, resting it upon the ledge built there. <sup>6</sup> For moving the altar, make poles from acacia wood overlaid with bronze. <sup>7</sup> To carry it, put the poles into the rings at each side of the altar. <sup>8</sup> The altar is to be hollow, made from planks, just as was shown you on the mountain.

<sup>9,10</sup> “Then make a courtyard for the Tabernacle, enclosed with curtains made from fine-twined linen. On the south side the curtains will stretch for 150 feet, and be held up by twenty posts, fitting into twenty bronze post holders. The curtains will be held up with silver hooks attached to silver rods, attached to the posts. <sup>11</sup> It will be the same on the north side of the court—150 feet of curtains held up by twenty posts fitted into bronze sockets, with silver hooks and rods. <sup>12</sup> The west side of the court will be seventy-five feet wide, with ten posts and ten sockets. <sup>13</sup> The east side will also be seventy-five feet. <sup>14,15</sup> On each side of the entrance there will be 22½ feet of curtain, held up by three posts imbedded in three sockets.

<sup>16</sup> “The entrance to the court will be a thirty-foot-wide curtain, made of beautifully embroidered blue, purple, and scarlet fine-twined linen, and attached to four posts imbedded in their four sockets. <sup>17</sup> All the posts around the court are to be connected by silver rods, using silver hooks, the posts being imbedded in solid bronze bases. <sup>18</sup> So the entire court will be 150 feet long, and 75 feet wide, with curtain walls 7½ feet high, made from fine-twined linen.

<sup>19</sup> "All utensils used in the work of the Tabernacle, including all the pins and pegs for hanging the utensils on the walls, will be made of bronze.

28 "CONSECRATE AARON YOUR brother, and his sons Nadab, Abihu, Eleazer, and Ithamar, to be priests, to minister to me. <sup>2</sup> Make special clothes for Aaron, to indicate his separation to God—beautiful garments that will lend dignity to his work. <sup>3</sup> Instruct those to whom I have given special skill as tailors to make the garments that will set him apart from others, so that he may minister to me in the priest's office. <sup>4</sup> This is the wardrobe they shall make: a chestpiece, an ephod,<sup>a</sup> a robe, a checkered tunic, a turban, and a sash. They shall also make special garments for Aaron's sons.

engrave on them the names of the tribes of Israel. <sup>10</sup> Six names shall be on each stone, so that all the tribes are named in the order of their births. <sup>11</sup> When engraving these names, use the same technique as in making a seal; and mount the stones in gold settings. <sup>12</sup> Fasten the two stones upon the shoulders of the ephod, as memorial stones for the people of Israel: Aaron will carry their names before the Lord as a constant reminder. <sup>13,14</sup> Two chains of pure, twisted gold shall be made and attached to golden clasps on the shoulder of the ephod.

<sup>15</sup> "Then, using the most careful workmanship, make a chestpiece to be used as God's oracle; use the same gold, blue, purple, and scarlet threads of fine-twined linen as you did in the ephod. <sup>16</sup> This chestpiece is to be of two folds of cloth, forming a pouch. <sup>17</sup> Attach to it four rows of stones: A ruby, a topaz, and an emerald shall be in the first row. <sup>18</sup> The second row will be an emerald, a sapphire, and a diamond. <sup>19</sup> The third row will be an amber, an agate, and an amethyst. <sup>20</sup> The fourth row will be an onyx, a beryl, and a jasper—all set in gold settings. <sup>21</sup> Each stone will represent one of the tribes of Israel and the name of that tribe will be engraved upon it like a seal.

of the onyx stones on the shoulder of the ephod. <sup>26</sup> Then make two more golden rings and place them on the two lower, inside edges of the chestpiece; <sup>27</sup> also make two other golden rings for the bottom front edge of the ephod at the sash. <sup>28</sup> Now attach the bottom of the chestpiece to the bottom rings of the ephod by means of blue ribbons; this will prevent the chestpiece from coming loose from the ephod.

"The ephod shall be made of blue cloth, <sup>32</sup> with an opening for Aaron's head. It shall have a woven band around this opening, just as on the neck of a coat of mail, so that it will not fray. <sup>33,34</sup> The bottom edge of the ephod shall be embroidered with blue, purple, and scarlet pomegranates, alternated with gold bells. <sup>35</sup> Aaron shall wear the ephod whenever he goes in to minister to the Lord; the bells will tinkle as he goes in and out of the presence of the Lord in the Holy Place, so that he will not die.

would upon a seal, 'Consecrated to Jehovah.' <sup>37,38</sup> This plate is to be attached by means of a blue ribbon to the front of Aaron's turban. In this way Aaron will be wearing it upon his forehead, and thus bear the guilt connected with any errors regarding the offerings of the people of Israel. It shall always be worn when he goes into the presence of the Lord, so that the people will be accepted and forgiven.

29 "THIS IS THE ceremony for the dedication of Aaron and his sons as priests: get a young bull and two rams with no defects, <sup>2</sup> and bread made without yeast, and thin sheets of sweetened bread mingled with oil, and unleavened wafers with oil poured over them. (The various kinds of bread shall be made with finely ground wheat flour.)<sup>14</sup> Place the bread in a basket and bring it to the entrance of the Tabernacle, along with the young bull and the two rams.

"Bathe Aaron and his sons there at the entrance.<sup>15</sup> Then put Aaron's robe on him, and the tunic, ephod, chestpiece, and sash,<sup>16</sup> and place on his head the turban with the golden plate.<sup>17</sup> Then take the anointing oil and pour it upon his head.<sup>18</sup> Next, dress his sons in their robes,<sup>19</sup> with their woven sashes, and place caps on their heads. They will then be priests forever; thus you shall consecrate Aaron and his sons.

<sup>22</sup> "Then take the fat of the ram, including the fat tail and the fat that covers the insides, also the gall bladder and the two kidneys and the fat surrounding them, and the right thigh—for this is the ram for ordination of Aaron and his sons—<sup>23</sup> and one loaf of bread, one cake of shortening bread, and one wafer from the basket of unleavened bread that was placed before the Lord:<sup>24</sup> Place these in the hands of Aaron and his sons, to wave them in a gesture of offering to the Lord.

consecration of his son who succeeds him, from generation to generation, for his anointing ceremony.<sup>30</sup> Whoever is the next High Priest after Aaron shall wear these clothes for seven days before beginning to minister in the Tabernacle and the Holy Place.

libation.<sup>41</sup> Offer the other lamb in the evening, along with flour and the wine libation as in the morning, for a fragrant burnt offering to the Lord.

<sup>42</sup> "This shall be a perpetual daily offering, at the door of the Tabernacle before the Lord, where I will meet with you and speak with you.<sup>43</sup> And I will meet with the people of Israel there, and the Tabernacle shall be sanctified by my glory.<sup>44</sup> Yes, I will sanctify the Tabernacle and the altar and Aaron and his sons who are my ministers, the priests.<sup>45</sup> And I will live among the people of Israel and be their God,<sup>46</sup> and they shall know that I am the Lord their God. I brought them out of Egypt so that I could live among them. I am Jehovah their God.

30 "THEN MAKE A small altar for burning incense. It shall be made from acacia wood.<sup>2</sup> It is to be eighteen inches square and three feet high, with horns carved from the wood of the altar—they are not to be merely separate parts that are attached.<sup>3</sup> Overlay the top, sides, and horns of the altar with pure gold, and run a gold molding around the entire altar.<sup>4</sup> Beneath the molding, on each of two sides, construct two gold rings to hold the carrying poles.<sup>5</sup> The poles are to be made of acacia wood overlaid with gold.<sup>6</sup> Place the altar just outside the veil, near the place of mercy that is above the Ark containing the Ten Commandments. I will meet with you there.

trims the lamps, he shall burn sweet spices on the altar, <sup>a</sup> and each evening when he lights the lamps he shall burn the incense before the Lord, and this shall go on from generation to generation. <sup>b</sup> Offer no unauthorized incense, burnt offerings, meal offerings, or drink offerings.

<sup>11,12</sup> And Jehovah said to Moses, "Whenever you take a census of the people of Israel, each man who is numbered shall give a ransom to the Lord for his soul, so that there will be no plague among the people when you number them. <sup>13</sup> His payment shall be half a dollar.<sup>c</sup> <sup>14</sup> All who have reached their twentieth birthday shall give this offering. <sup>15</sup> The rich shall not give more and the poor shall not give less, for it is an offering to the Lord to make atonement for yourselves. <sup>16</sup> Use this money for the care of the Tabernacle; it is to bring you, the people of Israel, to the Lord's attention, and to make atonement for you."

to appear before the Lord, or when they approach the altar to burn offerings to the Lord. They must always wash before doing so, or they will die. <sup>21</sup> These are instructions to Aaron and his sons from generation to generation."

<sup>26,27</sup> "Use this," he said, "to anoint the Tabernacle, the Ark, the table and all its instruments, the lampstand and all its utensils, the incense altar, <sup>28</sup> the burnt offering altar with all its instruments, and the washbasin and its pedestal. <sup>29</sup> Sanctify them, to make them holy; whatever touches them shall become holy.<sup>e</sup> <sup>30</sup> Use it to anoint Aaron and his sons, sanctifying them so that they can minister to me as priests. <sup>31</sup> And say to the people of Israel, 'This shall always be my holy anointing oil. <sup>32</sup> It must never be poured upon an ordinary person, and you shall never make any of it yourselves, for it is holy, and it shall be treated by you as holy. <sup>33</sup> Anyone who compounds any incense like it or puts any of it upon someone who is not a priest shall be excommunicated.'"

tions to Moses concerning the incense: "Use sweet spices—stacte, onycha, galbanum, and pure frankincense, weighing out the same amounts of each, <sup>35</sup> using the usual techniques of the incense-maker, and seasoning it with salt; it shall be a pure and holy incense. <sup>36</sup> Beat some of it very fine and put some of it in front of the Ark where I meet with you in the Tabernacle; this incense is most holy. <sup>37</sup> Never make it for yourselves, for it is reserved for the Lord and you must treat it as holy. <sup>38</sup> Anyone making it for himself shall be excommunicated."

31 THE LORD ALSO said to Moses, "See, I have appointed Bezalel (son of Uri, and grandson of Hur, of the tribe of Judah), <sup>1</sup> and have filled him with the Spirit of God, giving him great wisdom, ability, and skill in constructing the Tabernacle and everything it contains. <sup>2</sup> He is highly capable as an artistic designer of objects made of gold, silver, and bronze. <sup>3</sup> He is skilled, too, as a jeweler and in carving wood.

<sup>4</sup> "And I have appointed Oholiab (son of Ahisamach of the tribe of Dan) to be his assistant; moreover, I have given special skill to all who are known as experts, so that they can make all the things I have instructed you to make: <sup>5</sup> the Tabernacle; the Ark with the place of mercy upon it; all the furnishings of the Tabernacle; <sup>6</sup> the table and its instruments; the pure gold lampstand with its instruments; the altar of incense; <sup>7</sup> the burnt offering altar with its instruments; the laver and its pedestal; <sup>8</sup> the beautifully made, holy garments for Aaron the priest, and the garments for his sons, so that they can minister as priests; <sup>9</sup> the anointing oil; and the sweet-spice incense for the Holy Place. They are to follow exactly the directions I gave you."

<sup>12,13</sup> The Lord then gave these further instructions to Moses: "Tell the people of Israel to rest on my Sabbath day, for the Sabbath is a reminder of the covenant between me and you forever; it helps you to remember that I am Jehovah who makes you holy. <sup>14,15</sup> Yes, rest on the Sabbath, for it is holy. Anyone who does not obey this command must die; anyone who does any work on that day shall be killed. <sup>16</sup> Work six days only, for the seventh day is a special day of solemn rest, holy to the Lord. This law is a perpetual covenant and obligation for the people of Israel. <sup>17</sup> It is an eternal symbol of the covenant between me and the people of Israel. For in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, and rested on the seventh day, and was refreshed."

<sup>18</sup> Then, as God finished speaking with Moses on Mount Sinai, he gave him the two tablets of stone on which the Ten Commandments were written with the finger of God.

32 WHEN MOSES DIDN'T come back down the mountain right away, the people went to Aaron. "Look," they said, "make us a god to lead us, for this fellow Moses who brought us here from Egypt has disappeared; something must have happened to him."

So they all did—men and women, boys and girls. <sup>4</sup> Aaron melted the gold, then molded and tooled it into the form of a calf. The people exclaimed, "O Israel, this is the god that brought you out of Egypt!"

<sup>5</sup> When Aaron saw how happy the people were about it, he built an altar before the calf and announced, "Tomorrow there will be a feast to Jehovah!"

<sup>6</sup> So they were up early the next morning and began offering burnt offerings and peace offerings to the calf-idol; afterwards they sat down to feast and drink at a wild party, followed by sexual immorality.

<sup>7</sup> Then the Lord told Moses, "Quick! Go on down, for your people that you brought from Egypt have defiled themselves, <sup>8</sup> and have quickly abandoned all my laws. They have molded themselves a calf, and worshiped it, and sacrificed to it, and said, 'This is your god, O Israel, that brought you out of Egypt.'"

<sup>9</sup> Then the Lord said, "I have seen what a stubborn, rebellious lot these people are. <sup>10</sup> Now let me alone and my anger shall blaze out against them and destroy them all; and I will make you, Moses, into a great nation instead of them."

<sup>11</sup> But Moses begged God not to do it. "Lord," he pleaded, "why is your anger so hot against your own people whom you brought from the land of Egypt with such great power and mighty miracles? <sup>12</sup> Do you want the Egyptians to say, 'God tricked them into coming to the mountains so that he could slay them, destroying them from off the face of the earth'? Turn back from your fierce wrath. Turn away from this terrible evil you are planning against your people! <sup>13</sup> Remember your promise to your servants—to Abraham, Isaac, and Israel. For you swore by your own self, 'I will multiply your posterity as the stars of heaven, and I will give them all of this land I have promised to your descendants, and they shall inherit it forever.'"

<sup>14</sup> So the Lord changed his mind and spared them. <sup>15</sup> Then Moses went down the mountain, holding in his hands the Ten Commandments written on both sides of two stone tablets. <sup>16</sup> (God himself had written the commandments on the tablets.)

<sup>19</sup> When they came near the camp, Moses saw the calf and the dancing, and in terrible anger he threw the tablets to the ground and they lay broken at the foot of the mountain. <sup>20</sup> He took the calf and melted it in the fire, and when the metal cooled, he ground it into powder and spread it upon the water and made the people drink it.

<sup>21</sup> Then he turned to Aaron. "What in the world did the people do to you?" he demanded, "to make you bring such a terrible sin upon them?"

<sup>22</sup> "Don't get so upset," Aaron replied. "You know these people and what a wicked bunch they are. <sup>23</sup> They said to me, 'Make us a god to lead us, for something has happened to this fellow Moses who led us out of Egypt.' <sup>24</sup> Well, I told them, 'Bring me your gold earrings.' So they brought them to me and I threw them into the fire, and . . . well . . . this calf came out!"

<sup>25</sup> When Moses saw that the people had been committing adultery—at Aaron's encouragement, and much to the amusement of their enemies—<sup>26</sup> he stood at the camp entrance and shouted, "All of you who are on the Lord's side, come over here and join me." And all the Levites came.

<sup>27</sup> He told them, "Jehovah the God of Israel says, 'Get your swords and go back and forth from one end of the camp to the other and kill even your brothers, friends, and neighbors.'"<sup>28</sup> So they did, and about three thousand men died that day.

<sup>29</sup> Then Moses told the Levites, "Today you have ordained yourselves for the service of the Lord, for you obeyed him even though it meant killing your own sons and brothers; now he will give you a great blessing."

<sup>30</sup> The next day Moses said to the people, "You have sinned a great sin, but I will return to the Lord on the mountain—perhaps I will be able to obtain his forgiveness for you."

<sup>31</sup> So Moses returned to the Lord and said, "Oh, these people have sinned a great sin, and have made themselves gods of gold. <sup>32</sup> Yet now if you will only forgive their sin—and if not, then blot me out of the book you have written."<sup>a</sup>

Moses, "Whoever has sinned against me will be blotted out of my book. <sup>34</sup> And now go, lead the people to the place I told you about, and I assure you that my Angel shall travel on ahead of you; however, when I come to visit these people, I will punish them for their sins."

33 THE LORD SAID to Moses, "Lead these people you brought from Egypt to the land I promised Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; for I said, 'I will give this land to your descendants.' <sup>2</sup> I will send an Angel before you to drive out the Canaanites, Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites. <sup>3</sup> It is a land 'flowing with milk and honey'; but I will not travel among you, for you are a stubborn, unruly people, and I would be tempted to destroy you along the way."

<sup>5</sup> For the Lord had told Moses to tell them, "You are an unruly, stubborn people. If I were there among you for even a moment, I would exterminate you. Remove your jewelry and ornaments until I decide what to do with you." <sup>6</sup> So, after that, they wore no jewelry.

wanted to consult with Jehovah went out there.

<sup>13</sup> Moses talked there with the Lord and said to him, "You have been telling me, 'Take these people to the Promised Land,' but you haven't told me whom you will send with me. You say you are my friend,<sup>a</sup> and that I have found favor before you; <sup>14</sup> please, if this is really so, guide me clearly along the way you want me to travel<sup>b</sup> so that I will understand you and walk acceptably before you. For don't forget that this nation is your people."

<sup>16</sup> For Moses had said, "If you aren't going with us, don't let us move a step from this place. <sup>17</sup> If you don't go with us, who will ever know that I and my people have found favor with you, and that we are different from any other people upon the face of the earth?"

<sup>18</sup> And the Lord had replied to Moses, "Yes, I will do what you have asked, for you have certainly found favor with me, and you are my friend."<sup>c</sup>

<sup>19</sup> Then Moses asked to see God's glory

<sup>20</sup> The Lord replied, "I will make my goodness pass before you, and I will announce to you the meaning of my name<sup>d</sup> Jehovah, the Lord. I show kindness and mercy to anyone I want to. <sup>21</sup> But you may not see the glory of my face, for man may not see me and live. <sup>22</sup> However, stand here on this rock beside me. <sup>23</sup> And when my glory goes by, I will put you in the cleft of the rock and cover you with my hand until I have passed. <sup>24</sup> Then I will remove my hand and you shall see my back, but not my face."

34 THE LORD TOLD Moses, "Prepare two stone tablets like the first ones and I will write upon them the same commands that were on the tablets you broke. <sup>2</sup> Be ready in the morning to come up into Mount Sinai and present yourself to me on the top of the mountain. <sup>3</sup> No one shall come with you and no one must be anywhere on the mountain. Do not let the flocks or herds feed close to the mountain."

<sup>4</sup> So Moses took two tablets of stone like the first ones, and was up early and climbed Mount Sinai, as the Lord had told him to, taking the two stone tablets in his hands.

<sup>5</sup> Then the Lord descended in the form of a pillar of cloud and stood there with him, and passed in front of him and announced the meaning of his name.<sup>a</sup> "I am Jehovah, the merciful and gracious God," he said, "slow to anger and rich in steadfast love and truth. <sup>7</sup> I, Jehovah, show this steadfast love to many thousands by forgiving their sins;<sup>b</sup> or else<sup>c</sup> I refuse to clear the guilty, and require that a father's sins be punished in the sons and grandsons, and even later generations."

<sup>8</sup> Moses fell down before the Lord and worshiped. <sup>9</sup> And he said, "If it is true that I have found favor in your sight, O Lord, then please go with us to the Promised Land; yes, it is an unruly, stubborn people, but pardon our iniquity and our sins, and accept us as your own."

<sup>10</sup> The Lord replied, "All right, this is the contract I am going to make with you. I will do miracles such as have never been done before anywhere in all the earth, and all the people of Israel shall see the power of the Lord—the terrible power I will display through you."

<sup>11</sup> Your part of the agreement is to obey all of my commandments; then I will drive out from before you the Amorites, Canaanites, Hittites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites.

<sup>12</sup> "Be very, very careful never to compromise with the people there in the land where you are going, for if you do, you will soon be following their evil ways. <sup>13</sup> Instead, you must break down their heathen altars, smash the obelisks they worship, and cut down their shameful idols.<sup>d</sup> <sup>14</sup> For you must worship no other gods, but only Jehovah, for he is a God who claims absolute loyalty and exclusive devotion.

harvest times, work only six days, and rest on the seventh.

<sup>22</sup> "And you must remember to celebrate these three annual religious festivals: the Festival of Weeks, the Festival of the First Wheat, and the Harvest Festival. <sup>23</sup> On each of these three occasions all the men and boys of Israel shall appear before the Lord. <sup>24</sup> No one will attack and conquer your land when you go up to appear before the Lord your God those three times each year. For I will drive out the nations from before you and enlarge your boundaries.

<sup>25</sup> "You must not use leavened bread with your sacrifices to me, and none of the meat of the Passover lamb may be kept over until the following morning. <sup>26</sup> And you must bring the best of the first of each year's crop to the Tabernacle of the Lord your God. You must not cook a young goat in its mother's milk."

<sup>27</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, "Write down these laws that I have given you, for they represent the terms of my covenant with you and with Israel."

<sup>28</sup> Moses was up on the mountain with the Lord for forty days and forty nights, and in all that time he neither ate nor drank. At that time God<sup>h</sup> wrote out the Covenant—the Ten Commandments—on the stone tablets. <sup>29</sup> Moses didn't realize as he came back down the mountain with the tablets that his face glowed from being in the presence of God. <sup>30</sup> Because of this radiance upon his face, Aaron and the people of Israel were afraid to come near him.

<sup>31</sup> But Moses called them over to him, and Aaron and the leaders of the congregation came and talked with him. <sup>32</sup> Afterwards, all the people came to him, and he gave them the commandments the Lord had given him upon the mountain. <sup>33</sup> When Moses had finished speaking with them, he put a veil over his face;<sup>i</sup> <sup>34</sup> but whenever he went into the Tabernacle to speak with the Lord, he removed the veil until he came out again; then he would pass on to the people whatever instructions God had given him, and the people would see his face aglow. Afterwards he would put the veil on again until he returned to speak with God.

35 NOW MOSES CALLED a meeting of all the people and told them, "These are the laws of Jehovah you must obey.

<sup>3</sup> Then Moses said to all the people, "This is what the Lord has commanded: <sup>4</sup> All of you who wish to, all those with generous hearts, may bring these offerings to Jehovah:

Gold, silver, and bronze;
Blue, purple, and scarlet cloth, made of fine-twined linen or of goat's hair;

 Tanned rams' skins and specially treated goatskins;
 Acacia wood;
 Olive oil for the lamps;
 Spices for the anointing oil and for the incense;
 Onyx stones and stones to be used for the ephod and chestpiece.

<sup>10-19</sup> "Come, all of you who are skilled craftsmen having special talents, and construct what God has commanded us:

The Tabernacle tent, and its coverings, clasps, frames, bars, pillars, and bases;
 The Ark and its poles;
 The place of mercy;
 The veil to enclose the Holy Place;
 The table, its carrying poles, and all of its utensils;
 The Bread of the Presence;
 Lamp holders, with lamps and oil;
 The incense altar and its carrying poles;
 The anointing oil and sweet incense;
 The curtain for the door of the Tabernacle;
 The altar for the burnt offerings;
 The bronze grating of the altar, and its carrying poles and utensils;
 The basin with its pedestal;
 The drapes for the walls of the court;
 The pillars and their bases;
 Drapes for the entrance to the court;
 The posts of the Tabernacle court, and their cords;
 The beautiful clothing for the priests, to be used when ministering in the Holy Place;

The holy garments for Aaron the priest, and for his sons."

Bezalel (the son of Uri and grandson of Hur of the tribe of Judah) as general superintendent of the project. <sup>12</sup> He will be able to create beautiful workmanship from gold, silver, and bronze; <sup>13</sup> he can cut and set stones like a jeweler, and can do beautiful carving; in fact, he has every needed skill. <sup>14</sup> And God has made him and Oholiab gifted teachers of their skills to others. (Oholiab is the son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan.) <sup>15</sup> God has filled them both with unusual skills as jewelers, carpenters, embroidery designers in blue, purple, and scarlet on linen backgrounds, and as weavers—they excel in all the crafts we will be needing in the work.

36 "ALL THE OTHER craftsmen with God-given abilities are to assist Bezalel and Oholiab in constructing and furnishing the Tabernacle." So Moses told Bezalel and Oholiab and all others who felt called to the work to begin. <sup>1</sup> Moses gave them the materials donated by the people and additional gifts were received each morning.

<sup>2-7</sup> But finally the workmen all left their task to meet with Moses and told him, "We have more than enough materials on hand now to complete the job!" So Moses sent a message throughout the camp announcing that no more donations were needed. Then at last the people were restrained from bringing more!

<sup>8-9</sup> The skilled weavers first made ten sheets from finely-twined blue, purple, and scarlet linen, with cherubim skillfully embroidered upon them. <sup>10</sup> Five of these sheets were attached end to end, then five others similarly attached, forming two long roof-sheets. <sup>11,12</sup> Fifty blue ribbons were looped along the edges of these two long sheets, each loop being opposite its mate on the other long sheet. <sup>13</sup> Then fifty clasps of gold were made to connect the loops, thus tying the two long sheets together to form the ceiling of the Tabernacle.

<sup>20</sup> For the sides of the Tabernacle he used frames of acacia wood standing on end. <sup>21</sup> The height of each frame was fifteen feet and the width  $2\frac{1}{4}$  feet. <sup>22</sup> Each frame had two clasps joining it to the next. <sup>23</sup> There were twenty frames on the south side, <sup>24</sup> with the bottoms fitting into forty silver bases. Each frame was connected to its base by two clasps. <sup>25,26</sup> There were also twenty frames on the north side of the Tabernacle, with forty silver bases, two for each frame. <sup>27</sup> The west side of the Tabernacle, which was its rear, was made from six frames, <sup>28</sup> plus another at each corner. <sup>29</sup> These frames, including those at the corners, were linked to each other at both top and bottom by rings. <sup>30</sup> So, on the west side, there were a total of eight frames with sixteen silver bases beneath them, two for each frame.

37 NEXT BEZALEL MADE the Ark. This was constructed of acacia wood and was 3¾ feet long, 2¼ feet wide, and 2¼ feet high. <sup>2</sup> It was plated with pure gold inside and out, and had a molding of gold all the way around the sides. <sup>3</sup> There were four golden rings fastened into its four feet, two rings at each end. <sup>4</sup> Then he made poles from acacia wood, and overlaid them with gold, <sup>5</sup> and put the poles into the rings at the sides of the Ark, to carry it.

<sup>6</sup> Then, from pure gold, he made a lid called "the place of mercy"; it was 3¾ feet long and 2¼ feet wide. <sup>7</sup> He made two cherubim of beaten gold and placed them at the two ends of the golden lid. <sup>8</sup> They were molded so that they were actually a part of the golden lid—it was all one piece. <sup>9</sup> The cherubim faced each other, with outstretched wings that overshadowed the place of mercy, looking down upon it.

four in all. <sup>22</sup> The decorations and branches were all one piece of pure, beaten gold. <sup>23,24</sup> Then he made the seven lamps at the ends of the branches, the snuffers, and the ash-trays, all of pure gold. The entire lampstand weighed 107 pounds, all pure gold.

<sup>25</sup> The incense altar was made of acacia wood. It was eighteen inches square and three feet high, with its corner-horns made as part of the altar so that it was all one piece. <sup>26</sup> He overlaid it all with pure gold and ran a gold molding around the edge. <sup>27</sup> Two gold rings were placed on each side, beneath this molding, to hold the carrying poles. <sup>28</sup> The carrying poles were gold-plated acacia wood.

It was thirty feet long and 7½ feet wide, just the same as the drapes composing the walls of the court.<sup>19</sup> It was supported by four posts, with four bronze bases, and with silver hooks and rods; the tops of the posts were also silver.

<sup>21</sup> This summarizes the various steps in building the Tabernacle to house the Ark, so that the Levites could carry on their ministry. All was done in the order designated by Moses and was supervised by Ithamar, son of Aaron the priest.

for casting the bases for the posts at the entrance to the Tabernacle, and for the bronze altar, the bronze grating, the altar utensils, the bases for the posts supporting the drapes enclosing the court, and for all the nails used in the construction of the Tabernacle and the court.

39 THEN, FOR THE priests, the people made beautiful garments of blue, purple, and scarlet cloth—garments to be used while ministering in the Holy Place. This same cloth was used for Aaron's sacred garments, in accordance with the Lord's instructions to Moses. <sup>2</sup> The ephod<sup>a</sup> was made from this cloth too, woven from fine-twined linen thread. <sup>3</sup> Bezalel beat gold into thin plates and cut it into wire threads, to work into the blue, purple, and scarlet linen; it was a skillful and beautiful piece of workmanship when finished.

All this was commanded to Moses by the Lord.

Furniture; clasps; frames; bars;

Posts; bases; layers of covering for the roof and sides—the rams' skins dyed red, the specially tanned goat skins, and the entrance drape; the Ark with the Ten Commandments in it;

The carrying poles;

The place of mercy;
 The table and all its utensils;
 The Bread of the Presence;
 The pure [gold<sup>d</sup>] lampstand with its lamps, utensils, and oil;
 The golden altar;
 The anointing oil;
 The sweet incense;
 The curtain-door of the Tabernacle;
 The bronze altar;
 The bronze grating;
 The poles and the utensils;
 The washbasin and its base;
 The drapes for the walls of the court and the posts holding them up;
 The bases and the drapes at the gate of the court;
 The cords and nails;
 All the utensils used there in the work of the Tabernacle.

<sup>41</sup> They also brought for his inspection the beautifully tailored garments to be worn while ministering in the Holy Place, and the holy garments for Aaron the priest and those for his sons, to be worn when on duty.

<sup>42</sup> So the people of Israel followed all the Lord's instructions to Moses. <sup>43</sup> And Moses inspected all their work and blessed them because it was all as the Lord had instructed him.

40 THE LORD NOW said to Moses, <sup>2</sup> "Put together the Tabernacle on the first day of the first month. <sup>3</sup> In it, place the Ark containing the Ten Commandments; and install the veil to enclose the Ark within the Holy of Holies. <sup>4</sup> Then bring in the table and place the utensils on it, and bring in the lampstand and light the lamps.

<sup>9</sup> "Take the anointing oil and sprinkle it here and there upon the Tabernacle and everything in it, upon all of its utensils and parts, and all the furniture, to hallow it; and it shall become holy. <sup>10</sup> Sprinkle the anointing oil upon the altar of burnt offering and its utensils, sanctifying it; for the altar shall then become most holy. <sup>11</sup> Then anoint the washbasin and its pedestal, sanctifying it.

as the Lord had commanded him. <sup>17</sup> On the first day of the first month, in the second year, the Tabernacle was put together. <sup>18</sup> Moses erected it by setting its frames into their bases and attaching the bars. <sup>19</sup> Then he spread the coverings over the framework, and put on the top layers, just as the Lord had commanded him.

<sup>20</sup> Inside the Ark he placed the stones with the Ten Commandments engraved on them, and attached the carrying poles to the Ark and installed the golden lid, the place of mercy. <sup>21</sup> Then he brought the Ark into the Tabernacle and set up the veil to screen it, just as the Lord had commanded.

burnt offerings near the entrance, and offered upon it a burnt offering and a meal offering, just as the Lord had commanded him.

<sup>34</sup> Then the cloud covered the Tabernacle and the glory of the Lord filled it. <sup>35</sup> Moses was not able to enter because the cloud was standing there, and the glory of the Lord filled the Tabernacle. <sup>36</sup> Whenever the cloud lifted and moved, the people of Israel journeyed onward, following it. <sup>37</sup> But if the cloud stayed, they stayed until it moved.

This continued throughout all their journeys.

LEVITICUS

1 THE LORD NOW spoke to Moses from the Tabernacle, <sup>2</sup> and commanded him to give the following instructions to the people of Israel: "When you sacrifice to the Lord, use animals from your herds and flocks.

"If your sacrifice is to be an ox given as a burnt offering, use only a bull with no physical defects. Bring the animal to the entrance of the Tabernacle where the priests will accept your gift for the Lord. <sup>4</sup> The person bringing it is to lay his hand upon its head, and it then becomes his substitute: the death of the animal will be accepted by God instead of the death of the man who brings it, as the penalty for his sins.<sup>a</sup> <sup>5</sup> The man shall then kill the animal there before the Lord, and Aaron's sons, the priests, will present the blood before the Lord, sprinkling it upon all sides of the altar at the entrance of the Tabernacle. <sup>6,7</sup> Then the priests will skin the animal<sup>b</sup> and quarter it, and build a wood fire upon the altar, <sup>8</sup> and put the sections of the animal and its head and fat upon the wood. <sup>9</sup> The internal organs and the legs are to be washed, then the priests will burn them upon the altar, and they will be an acceptable burnt offering with which the Lord is pleased.<sup>c</sup> <sup>10</sup> If the animal used as a burnt offering is a sheep or a goat, it too must be a male, and without any blemishes. <sup>11</sup> The man who brings it will kill it before the Lord on the north side of the altar, and Aaron's sons, the priests, will sprinkle its blood back and forth upon the altar. <sup>12</sup> Then the man will quarter it, and the priests will lay the pieces, with the head and the fat, on top of the wood on the altar. <sup>13</sup> But the internal organs and the legs shall first be washed with water. Then the priests shall burn it all upon the altar as an offering to the Lord; for burnt offerings give much pleasure to the Lord.

<sup>14</sup> "If anyone wishes to use a bird as his burnt offering, he may choose either turtle-doves or young pigeons. <sup>15,16,17</sup> A priest will take the bird to the altar and wring off its head, and the blood shall be drained out at the side of the altar. Then the priest will remove the crop and the feathers and throw them on the east side of the altar with the ashes. Then, grasping it by the wings, he shall tear it apart, but not completely. And the priest shall burn it upon the altar, and the Lord will have pleasure in this sacrifice.<sup>d</sup>

2 "ANYONE WHO WISHES to sacrifice a grain offering to the Lord is to bring fine flour and is to pour olive oil and incense upon it. <sup>2</sup> Then he is to take a handful, representing the entire amount,<sup>a</sup> to one of the priests to burn, and the Lord will be fully pleased.<sup>3</sup> The remainder of the flour is to be given to Aaron and his sons as their food; but all of it is counted as a holy burnt offering to the Lord.

<sup>4</sup> "If bread baked in the oven is brought as an offering to the Lord, it must be made from finely ground flour, baked with olive oil but without yeast. Wafers made without yeast and spread with olive oil may also be used as an offering.<sup>5</sup> If the offering is something from the griddle, it shall be made of finely ground flour without yeast, and mingled with olive oil.<sup>6</sup> Break it into pieces and pour oil upon it—it is a form of grain offering.<sup>7</sup> If your offering is cooked in a pan, it too shall be made of fine flour mixed with olive oil.

<sup>8</sup> "However it is prepared—whether baked, fried, or grilled—you are to bring this grain offering to the priest and he shall take it to the altar to present it to the Lord.

<sup>9</sup> "The priests are to burn only a representative portion<sup>b</sup> of the offering, but all of it will be fully appreciated by the Lord.<sup>10</sup> The remainder belongs to the priests for their own use, but it is all counted as a holy burnt offering to the Lord.

soned with salt,<sup>d</sup> because the salt is a reminder of God's covenant.

<sup>14</sup> "If you are offering from the first of your harvest, remove the kernels from a fresh ear, crush and roast them, then offer them to the Lord.<sup>15</sup> Put olive oil and incense on the offering, for it is a grain offering.<sup>16</sup> Then the priests shall burn part of the bruised grain mixed with oil and all of the incense as a representative portion before the Lord.

3 "WHEN ANYONE WANTS to give an offering of thanksgiving to the Lord, he may use either a bull or a cow, but the animal must be entirely without defect if it is to be offered to the Lord!<sup>2</sup> The man who brings the animal shall lay his hand upon its head and kill it at the door of the Tabernacle. Then Aaron's sons shall throw the blood against the sides of the altar,<sup>3,4,5</sup> and shall burn before the Lord the fat that covers the inward parts, the two kidneys and the loin-fat on them, and the gall bladder. And it will give the Lord much pleasure.

<sup>6</sup> "If a goat or sheep is used as a thank-offering to the Lord, it must have no defect and may be either a male or female—ram or ewe, billy goat or nanny goat.

<sup>7,8</sup> "If it is a lamb, the man who brings it shall lay his hand upon its head and kill it at the entrance of the Tabernacle; the priests shall throw the blood against the sides of the altar,<sup>9,10,11</sup> and shall offer upon the altar the fat, the tail removed close to the backbone, the fat covering the internal organs, the two kidneys with the loin-fat on them, and the gall bladder, as a burnt offering to the Lord.

4 THEN THE LORD gave these further instructions to Moses:

<sup>2</sup> "Tell the people of Israel that these are the laws concerning anyone who unintentionally breaks any of my commandments. <sup>3</sup> If a priest sins unintentionally, and so brings guilt upon the people, he must offer a young bull without defect as a sin offering to the Lord. <sup>4</sup> He shall bring it to the door of the Tabernacle, and shall lay his hand upon its head and kill it there before Jehovah. <sup>5</sup> Then the priest shall take the animal's blood into the Tabernacle, <sup>6</sup> and shall dip his finger in the blood and sprinkle it seven times before the Lord in front of the veil that bars the way to the Holy of Holies. <sup>7</sup> Then the priest shall put some of the blood upon the horns of the incense altar before the Lord in the Tabernacle; the remainder of the blood shall be poured out at the base of the altar for burnt offerings, at the entrance to the Tabernacle. <sup>8</sup> Then he shall take all the fat on the entrails, <sup>9</sup> the two kidneys and the loin-fat on them, and the gall bladder, <sup>10</sup> and shall burn them on the altar of burnt offering, just as in the case of a bull or cow sacrificed as a thank-offering. <sup>11,12</sup> But the remainder of the young bull—the skin, meat, head, legs, internal organs, and intestines—shall be carried to a ceremonially clean place outside the camp—a place where the ashes are brought from the altar—and burned there on a wood fire.

nation, and everyone will be forgiven. <sup>21</sup> The priest shall then cart the young bull outside the camp and burn it there, just as though it were a sin offering for an individual, only this time it is a sin offering for the entire nation.

remainder of the blood at the base of the altar. <sup>31</sup> All the fat shall be taken off, just as in the procedure for the thank-offering<sup>b</sup> sacrifice, and the priest shall burn it upon the altar; and the Lord will appreciate it. Thus the priest shall make atonement for that man, and he shall be forgiven.

<sup>32</sup> "However, if he chooses to bring a lamb as his sin offering, it must be a female without physical defect. <sup>33</sup> He shall bring it to the place where the burnt offerings are killed, and lay his hand upon its head and kill it there as a sin offering. <sup>34</sup> The priest shall take some of the blood with his finger and smear it upon the horns of the burnt offering altar, and all the rest of the blood shall be poured out at the base of the altar. <sup>35</sup> The fat shall be used just as in the case of a thank-offering<sup>b</sup> lamb—the priest shall burn the fat on the altar as in any other sacrifice made to Jehovah by fire; and the priest shall make atonement for the man, and his sin shall be forgiven.

5 "ANYONE REFUSING TO give testimony concerning what he knows about a crime is guilty.

<sup>2</sup> "Anyone touching anything ceremonially unclean—such as the dead body of an animal forbidden for food, wild or domesticated, or the dead body of some forbidden insect—is guilty, even though he wasn't aware of touching it. <sup>3</sup> Or if he touches human discharge of any kind, he becomes guilty as soon as he realizes that he has touched it.

whether the vow is good or bad, when he realizes what a foolish vow he has taken, he is guilty.

<sup>3</sup> "In any of these cases, he shall confess his sin <sup>4</sup> and bring his guilt offering to the Lord, a female lamb or goat, and the priest shall make atonement for him, and he shall be freed from his sin, and need not fulfill the vow.<sup>a</sup>

<sup>7</sup> "If he is too poor to bring a lamb to the Lord, then he shall bring two turtledoves or two young pigeons as his guilt offering; one of the birds shall be his sin offering and the other his burnt offering.

<sup>11</sup> "If he is too poor to bring turtledoves or young pigeons as his sin offering, then he shall bring a tenth of a bushel of fine flour. He must not mix it with olive oil or put any incense on it, because it is a sin offering. <sup>12</sup> He shall bring it to the priest and the priest shall take out a handful as a representative portion, and burn it on the altar just as any other offering to Jehovah made by fire; this shall be his sin offering. <sup>13</sup> In this way the priest shall make atonement for him for any sin of this kind, and he shall be forgiven. The rest of the flour shall belong to the priest, just as was the case with the grain offering."

<sup>14</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, <sup>15</sup> "If anyone sins by unintentionally defiling what is holy, then he shall bring a ram without defect, worth whatever fine<sup>b</sup> you charge against him, as his guilt offering to the Lord. <sup>16</sup> And he shall make restitution for the holy thing he has spoiled, or the tithe omitted,<sup>c</sup> by paying for the loss, plus a twenty percent penalty; he shall bring it to the priest, and the priest shall make atonement for him with the ram of the guilt offering, and he shall be forgiven.

<sup>17,18</sup> "Anyone who disobeys some law of God without realizing it is guilty anyway, and must bring his sacrifice of a value determined by Moses. This sacrifice shall be a ram without blemish taken to the priest as a guilt offering; with it the priest shall make atonement for him, so that he will be forgiven for whatever it is he has done without realizing it. <sup>19</sup> It must be offered as a guilt offering, for he is certainly guilty before the Lord."

6 AND THE LORD said to Moses, <sup>2</sup> "If anyone sins against me by refusing to return a deposit on something borrowed or rented, or by refusing to return something entrusted to him, or by robbery, or by oppressing his neighbor, <sup>3</sup> or by finding a lost article and lying about it, swearing that he doesn't have it—<sup>4</sup> on the day he is found guilty of any such sin, he shall restore what he took, adding a twenty percent fine, and give it to the one he has harmed; and on the same day he shall bring his guilt offering to the Tabernacle. <sup>5</sup> His guilt offering shall be a ram without defect, and must be worth whatever value you demand. He shall bring it to the priest, <sup>7</sup> and the priest shall make atonement for him before the Lord, and he shall be forgiven.”

ground flour with the olive oil and the incense mixed into it, and burn it upon the altar as a representative portion for the Lord; and it will be received with pleasure by the Lord. <sup>16</sup> After taking out this handful, the remainder of the flour will belong to Aaron and his sons for their food; it shall be eaten without yeast in the courtyard of the Tabernacle. <sup>17</sup> (Stress this instruction, that if it is baked it must be without yeast.) I have given to the priests this part of the burnt offerings made to me. However, all of it is most holy, just as is the entire sin offering and the entire guilt offering. <sup>18</sup> It may be eaten by any male descendant of Aaron, any priest, generation after generation. But only<sup>a</sup> the priests may eat these offerings made by fire to the Lord.”

<sup>19,20</sup> And Jehovah said to Moses, “On the day Aaron and his sons are anointed and inducted into the priesthood, they shall bring to the Lord a regular grain offering—a tenth of a bushel of fine flour, half to be offered in the morning and half in the evening. <sup>21</sup> It shall be cooked on a griddle, using olive oil, and should be well cooked, then brought to the Lord as an offering that pleases him very much. <sup>22,23</sup> As the sons of the priests replace their fathers, they shall be inducted into office by offering this same sacrifice on the day of their anointing. This is a perpetual law. These offerings shall be entirely burned up before the Lord; none of it shall be eaten.”

these are the instructions concerning the sin offering:

"This sacrifice is most holy, and shall be killed before the Lord at the place where the burnt offerings are killed. <sup>26</sup> The priest who performs the ceremony shall eat it in the courtyard of the Tabernacle. <sup>27</sup> Only those who are sanctified—the priests—may touch this meat; if any blood sprinkles onto their clothing, it must be washed in a holy place. <sup>28</sup> Then the clay pot in which the clothing is boiled shall be broken; or if a bronze kettle is used, it must be scoured and rinsed out thoroughly. <sup>29</sup> Every male among the priests may eat this offering, but only they, for it is most holy. <sup>30</sup> No sin offering may be eaten by the priests if any of its blood is taken into the Tabernacle, to make atonement in the Holy Place. That carcass must be entirely burned with fire before the Lord.

7 "HERE ARE THE instructions concerning the most holy offering for guilt:

<sup>2</sup> "The sacrificial animal shall be killed at the place where the burnt offering sacrifices are slain, and its blood shall be sprinkled back and forth upon the altar. <sup>3</sup> The priest will offer upon the altar all its fat, including the tail, the fat that covers the insides, <sup>4</sup> the two kidneys and the loin-fat, and the gall bladder—all shall be set aside for sacrificing. <sup>5</sup> The priests will burn them upon the altar as a guilt offering to the Lord. <sup>6</sup> Only males among the priests may then eat the carcass, and it must be eaten in a holy place,

<sup>16</sup> "However, if someone brings a sacrifice that is not for thanksgiving, but is because of a vow or is simply a voluntary offering to the Lord, any portion of the sacrifice that is not eaten the day it is sacrificed may be eaten the next day.<sup>17,18</sup> But anything left over until the third day shall be burned. For if any of it is eaten on the third day, the Lord will not accept it; it will have no value as a sacrifice, and there will be no credit to the one who brought it to be offered; and the priest who eats it shall be guilty, for it is detestable to the Lord, and the person who eats it must answer for his sin.

<sup>19</sup> "Any meat that comes into contact with anything that is ceremonially unclean shall not be eaten, but burned; and as for the meat that may be eaten, it may be eaten only by a person who is ceremonially clean.<sup>20</sup> Any priest who is ceremonially unclean but eats the thanksgiving offering anyway, shall be cut off from his people, for he has defiled what is sacred.<sup>b</sup> <sup>21</sup> Anyone who touches anything that is ceremonially unclean, whether it is uncleanness from man or beast, and then eats the peace offering, shall be cut off from his people, for he has defiled what is holy."

fering sacrificed by fire to the Lord shall be outlawed from his people.

<sup>29</sup> "Tell the people of Israel that anyone bringing a thanksgiving offering to the Lord must bring it personally with his own hands.<sup>30</sup> He shall bring the offering of the fat and breast, which is to be presented to the Lord by waving it before the altar.<sup>31</sup> Then the priest shall burn the fat upon the altar, but the breast shall belong to Aaron and his sons,<sup>32,33</sup> while the right thigh shall be given to the officiating priest.<sup>34</sup> For I have designated the breast and thigh as donations from the people of Israel to the sons of Aaron. Aaron and his sons must always be given this portion of the sacrifice.<sup>35</sup> This is their pay! It is to be set apart from the burnt offerings, and given to all who have been appointed to minister to the Lord as priests—to Aaron and to his sons.<sup>36</sup> For on the day the Lord anointed them, he commanded that the people of Israel give these portions to them; it is their right forever throughout all their generations."

<sup>37</sup> These were the instructions concerning the burnt offering, grain offering, sin offering, and guilt offering, and concerning the consecration offering and the peace offering;<sup>38</sup> these instructions were given to Moses by the Lord on Mount Sinai, to be passed on to the people of Israel so that they would know how to offer their sacrifices to God in the Sinai desert.

8 THE LORD SAID to Moses, "Now bring Aaron and his sons to the entrance of the Tabernacle, together with their garments, the anointing oil, the young bull for the sin offering, the two rams, and the basket of bread made without yeast; and summon all Israel to a meeting there."

<sup>4</sup> So all the people assembled, and Moses said to them, "What I am now going to do has been commanded by Jehovah."

<sup>10</sup> Then Moses took the anointing oil and sprinkled it upon the Tabernacle itself and on each item in it, sanctifying them. <sup>11</sup> When he came to the altar he sprinkled it seven times, and also sprinkled the utensils of the altar and the washbasin and its pedestal, to sanctify them. <sup>12</sup> Then he poured the anointing oil upon Aaron's head, thus setting him apart for his work. <sup>13</sup> Next Moses placed the robes on Aaron's sons, with the belts and caps, as the Lord had commanded him.

for the sin offering, and Aaron and his sons laid their hands upon its head <sup>15,16</sup> as Moses killed it. He smeared some of the blood with his finger upon the four horns of the altar, and upon the altar itself, to sanctify it, and poured out the rest of the blood at the base of the altar; thus he sanctified the altar, making atonement for it. He took all the fat covering the entrails, the fatty mass above the liver, and the two kidneys and their fat, and burned them all on the altar. <sup>17</sup> The carcass of the young bull, with its hide and dung, was burned outside the camp, as the Lord had commanded Moses.

the lobes of their right ears, upon their right thumbs, and upon the big toes of their right feet. The rest of the blood he sprinkled back and forth upon the altar.<sup>b</sup>

of the meat and bread must be burned."

<sup>33</sup> Next he told them not to leave the Tabernacle entrance for seven days, after which time their consecration would be completed—for it takes seven days. <sup>34</sup> Then Moses stated again that all he had done that day had been commanded by the Lord in order to make atonement for them. <sup>35</sup> And again he warned Aaron and his sons to stay at the entrance of the Tabernacle day and night for seven days. "If you leave," he told them, "you will die—this is what the Lord has said."

9 ON THE EIGHTH day (of the consecration ceremonies), Moses summoned Aaron and Aaron's sons and the elders of Israel, <sup>2</sup> and told Aaron to take a bull calf from the herd for a sin offering, and a ram without bodily defect for a burnt offering, and to offer them before the Lord.

<sup>3</sup> "And tell the people of Israel," Moses instructed, "to select a male goat for their sin offering, also a yearling calf and a yearling lamb, all without bodily defect, for their burnt offering. <sup>4</sup> In addition, the people are to bring to the Lord a peace offering sacrifice—an ox and a ram, and a grain offering—flour mingled with olive oil. For today," Moses said, "Jehovah will appear to them."

to the entrance of the Tabernacle, as Moses had commanded, and the people came and stood there before the Lord.

<sup>7</sup> Moses then told Aaron to proceed to the altar and to offer the sin offering and the burnt offering, making atonement for himself first, and then for the people, as the Lord had commanded. <sup>8</sup> So Aaron went up to the altar and killed the calf as a sacrifice for his own sin; <sup>9</sup> his sons caught the blood for him, and he dipped his finger in it and smeared it upon the horns of the altar, and poured out the rest at the base of the altar. <sup>10</sup> Then he burned upon the altar the fat, kidneys, and gall bladder from this sin offering, as the Lord had commanded Moses, <sup>11</sup> but he burned the meat and hide outside the camp.

<sup>15</sup> Next he sacrificed the people's offering; he killed the goat and offered it in just the same way as he had the sin offering for himself.<sup>a</sup>

<sup>17</sup> Then he presented the grain offering, taking a handful and burning it upon the altar in addition to the regular morning offering.

<sup>18</sup> Next he killed the ox and ram—the people's peace offering sacrifice; and Aaron's sons brought the blood to him and he sprinkled it back and forth upon the altar. <sup>19</sup> Then he collected the fat of the ox and the ram—the fat from their tails and the fat covering the inner organs—and the kidneys and gall bladders. <sup>20</sup> The fat was placed upon the breasts of these animals, and Aaron burned it upon the altar; <sup>21</sup> but he waved the breasts and right shoulders slowly before the Lord as a gesture of offering it to him, just as Moses had commanded.

<sup>1</sup> Then Moses said to Aaron, "This is what the Lord meant when he said, 'I will show myself holy among those who approach me, and I will be glorified before all the people.'" And Aaron was speechless.

<sup>4</sup> Then Moses said to Aaron and his sons Eleazar and Ithamar, "Do not mourn—do not let your hair hang loose as a sign of your mourning, and do not tear your clothes. If you do, God will strike you dead too, and his wrath will come upon all the people of Israel. But the rest of the people of Israel may lament the death of Nadab and Abihu, and mourn because of the terrible fire the Lord has sent. <sup>5</sup> But you are not to leave the Tabernacle under penalty of death, for the anointing oil of Jehovah is upon you." And they did as Moses commanded.

<sup>6</sup> Now the Lord instructed Aaron, "Never drink wine or strong drink when you go into the Tabernacle, lest you die; and this rule applies to your sons and to all your descendants from generation to generation. <sup>7</sup> Your duties will be to arbitrate for the people, to teach them the difference between what is holy and what is ordinary, what is pure and what is impure; <sup>8</sup> and to teach them all the laws Jehovah has given through Moses."

and Ithamar, "Take the grain offering—the food that remains after the handful has been offered to the Lord by burning it on the altar—make sure there is no leaven in it, and eat it beside the altar. The offering is most holy; <sup>10</sup> therefore you must eat it in the sanctuary, in a holy place. It belongs to you and to your sons, from the offerings to Jehovah made by fire; for so I am commanded. <sup>11</sup> But the breast and the thigh, which have been offered to the Lord by the gesture of waving it before him, may be eaten in any holy place. It belongs to you and to your sons and daughters for your food. It is your portion of the peace offering sacrifices of the people of Israel.

<sup>12</sup> The people are to bring the thigh that was set aside, along with the breast that was offered when the fat was burned, and they shall be presented before the Lord by the gesture of waving them. And afterwards they shall belong to you and your family, for the Lord has commanded this."

<sup>13</sup> Then Moses searched everywhere for the goat of the sin offering and discovered that it had been burned! He was very angry about this with Eleazar and Ithamar, the remaining sons of Aaron.

<sup>14</sup> "Why haven't you eaten the sin offering in the sanctuary, since it is most holy, and God has given it to you to take away the iniquity and guilt of the people, to make atonement for them before the Lord?" he demanded. <sup>15</sup> "Since its blood was not taken inside the sanctuary, you should certainly have eaten it there, as I ordered you."

Moses. "They offered their sin offering and burnt offering before the Lord," he said, "but if I had eaten the sin offering on such a day as this, would it have pleased the Lord?" <sup>20</sup> And when Moses heard that, he was satisfied.

11 THEN THE LORD said to Moses and Aaron,

<sup>2,3</sup> "Tell the people of Israel that the animals which may be used for food include any animal with cloven hooves which chews its cud. <sup>4-7</sup> This means that the following may not be eaten:

The camel (it chews the cud but does not have cloven hooves);

The coney, or rock badger (because although it chews the cud, it does not have cloven hooves);

The hare (because although it chews the cud, it does not have cloven hooves);

The swine (because although it has cloven hooves, it does not chew the cud).

<sup>8</sup> You may not eat their meat or even touch their dead bodies; they are forbidden foods for you.

The eagle, the metire, the osprey,

The falcon (all kinds), the kite,

The raven (all kinds), the ostrich,

The nighthawk, the seagull, The hawk (all kinds), the owl,

The cormorant, the ibis,

The marsh hen,

The pelican,

The vulture, the stork,

The heron (all kinds),

The hoopoe, the bat.

<sup>24</sup> "Anyone touching their dead bodies shall be defiled until the evening, <sup>25</sup> and must wash his clothes immediately. He must also quarantine himself until nightfall, as being ceremonially defiled.

<sup>26</sup> "You are also defiled by touching any animal with only semi-parted hoofs, or any animal that does not chew the cud. <sup>27</sup> Any animal that walks on paws is forbidden to you as food. Anyone touching the dead body of such an animal shall be defiled until evening. <sup>28</sup> Anyone carrying away the carcass shall wash his clothes and be ceremonially defiled until evening; for it is forbidden to you.

The mole, the rat,

The great lizard, the gecko,

The mouse, the lizard,

The snail, the chameleon.

<sup>11</sup> Anyone touching their dead bodies shall be defiled until evening, <sup>12</sup> and anything upon which the carcass falls shall be defiled—any article of wood, or of clothing, a rug, or a sack; anything it touches must be put into water, and is defiled until evening. After that it may be used again. <sup>13</sup> If it falls into a pottery bowl, anything in the bowl is defiled, and you shall smash the bowl. <sup>14</sup> If the water used to cleanse the defiled article touches any food, all of it is defiled. Any drink which is in the defiled bowl is also contaminated.

<sup>15</sup> "If the dead body of such an animal touches any clay oven, it is defiled and must be smashed. <sup>16</sup> If the body falls into a spring or cistern where there is water, that water is not defiled; yet anyone who pulls out the carcass is defiled. <sup>17</sup> And if the carcass touches grain to be sown in the field, it is not contaminated; <sup>18</sup> but if the seeds are wet and the carcass falls upon it, the seed is defiled.

Keep yourselves pure concerning these things, and be holy, for I am holy; therefore do not defile yourselves by touching any of these things that crawl upon the earth. "For I am the Lord who brought you out of the land of Egypt to be your God. You must therefore be holy, for I am holy." "These are the laws concerning animals, birds, and whatever swims in the water or crawls upon the ground. "These are the distinctions between what is ceremonially clean and may be eaten, and what is ceremonially defiled and may not be eaten, among all animal life upon the earth.

12 THE LORD TOLD Moses to give these instructions to the people of Israel:

bring a yearling lamb as a burnt offering, and a young pigeon or a turtledove for a sin offering.

She must take them to the door of the Tabernacle to the priest; <sup>7</sup> and the priest will offer them before the Lord and make atonement for her; then she will be ceremonially clean again after her bleeding at childbirth.

"These then, are the procedures after childbirth. <sup>8</sup> But if she is too poor to bring a lamb, then she must bring two turtledoves or two young pigeons. One will be for a burnt offering and the other for a sin offering. The priest will make atonement for her with these, so that she will be ceremonially pure again."

13 THE LORD SAID to Moses and Aaron, "If anyone notices a swelling in his skin, or a scab or boil or pimple with transparent skin, leprosy is to be suspected. He must be brought to Aaron the priest or to one of his sons <sup>3</sup> for the spot to be examined. If the hair in this spot turns white, and if the spot looks to be more than skin-deep, it is leprosy, and the priest must declare him a leper.<sup>a</sup>

examine him, and if the marks of the disease have become fainter and have not spread, then the priest shall pronounce him cured; it was only a scab, and the man need only wash his clothes and everything will be normal again. <sup>7</sup> But if the spot spreads in the skin after he has come to the priest to be examined, he must come back to the priest again, <sup>8</sup> and the priest shall look again, and if the spot has spread, then the priest must pronounce him a leper.

the man must go to the priest for examination. <sup>20</sup> If the priest sees that the trouble seems to be down under the skin, and if the hair at the spot has turned white, then the priest shall declare him defiled, for leprosy has broken out from the boil. <sup>21</sup> But if the priest sees that there are no white hairs in this spot, and the spot does not appear to be deeper than the skin, and if the color is gray, then the priest shall quarantine him for seven days. <sup>22</sup> If during that time the spot spreads, the priest must declare him a leper. <sup>23</sup> But if the bright spot grows no larger and does not spread, it is merely the scar from the boil, and the priest shall declare that all is well.

<sup>24</sup> "If a man is burned in some way, and the burned place becomes bright reddish-white or white, <sup>25</sup> then the priest must examine the spot. If the hair in the bright spot turns white, and the problem seems to be more than skin-deep, it is leprosy that has broken out from the burn, and the priest must pronounce him a leper.<sup>b</sup> <sup>26</sup> But if the priest sees that there are no white hairs in the bright spot, and the brightness appears to be no deeper than the skin and is fading, the priest shall quarantine him for seven days, <sup>27</sup> and examine him again the seventh day. If the spot spreads in the skin, the priest must pronounce him a leper.<sup>b</sup> <sup>28</sup> But if the bright spot does not move or spread in the skin, and is fading, it is simply a scar from the burn, and the priest shall declare that he does not have leprosy.

<sup>31</sup> But if the priest's examination reveals that the spot seems to be only in the skin and that there is black hair in it, then he shall be quarantined for seven days, <sup>32</sup> and examined again on the seventh day. If the spot has not spread and no yellow hair has appeared, and if the infection does not seem to be deeper than the skin, <sup>33</sup> he shall shave off all the hair around the spot (but not on the spot itself) and the priest shall quarantine him for another seven days.

gone from the front part of his head, he simply has a bald forehead, but this is not leprosy.<sup>42</sup> However, if in the baldness there is a reddish white spot, it may be leprosy breaking out.<sup>43</sup> In that case the priest shall examine him, and if there is a reddish white lump that looks like leprosy, "then he is a leper, and the priest must pronounce him such."

<sup>53</sup> "But if when he examines it again on the seventh day the spot has not spread, <sup>54</sup> the priest shall order the suspected article to be washed, then isolated for seven more days. <sup>55</sup> If after that time the spot has not changed its color, even though it has not spread, it is leprosy and shall be burned, for the article is infected through and through.<sup>e</sup> <sup>56</sup> But if the priest sees that the spot has faded after the washing, then he shall cut it out from the garment or leather goods or whatever it is in. <sup>57</sup> However, if it then reappears, it is leprosy and he must burn it. <sup>58</sup> But if after washing it there is no further trouble, it can be put back into service after another washing."

<sup>59</sup> These are the regulations concerning leprosy in a garment or anything made of skin or leather, indicating whether to pronounce it leprous or not.

14 AND THE LORD gave Moses these regulations concerning a person whose leprosy disappears:

turn to live inside the camp; however, he must stay outside his tent for seven days.<sup>9</sup> The seventh day he shall again shave all the hair from his head, beard, and eyebrows, and wash his clothes and bathe, and shall then be declared fully cured of his leprosy.

man's right ear and the thumb of his right hand and the big toe of his right foot—just as he did with the blood of the guilt offering. <sup>18</sup> The remainder of the oil in his hand shall be used to anoint the man's head. Thus the priest shall make atonement for him before the Lord.

<sup>21</sup> "If he is so poor that he cannot afford two lambs, then he shall bring only one, a male lamb for the guilt offering, to be presented to the Lord in the rite of atonement by waving it before the altar; and only three quarts of fine white flour, mixed with olive oil, for a grain offering, and a pint of olive oil.

the ceremony is being performed—and upon the thumb of his right hand and on the big toe of his right foot.

<sup>22</sup> These, then, are the laws concerning those who are cleansed of leprosy but are not able to bring the sacrifices normally required for the ceremony of cleansing.

<sup>23,24</sup> Then the Lord said to Moses and Aaron, “When you arrive in the land of Canaan which I have given you, and I place leprosy in some house there,<sup>25</sup> then the owner of the house shall come and report to the priest, ‘It seems to me that there may be leprosy in my house!’

<sup>26</sup> “The priest shall order the house to be emptied before he examines it, so that everything in the house will not be declared contaminated if he decides that there is leprosy there.<sup>27</sup> If he finds greenish or reddish streaks in the walls of the house which seem to be beneath the surface of the wall,<sup>28</sup> he shall close up the house for seven days,<sup>29</sup> and return the seventh day to look at it again. If the spots have spread in the wall,<sup>30</sup> then the priest shall order the removal of the spotted section of wall, and the material must be thrown into a defiled place outside the city.<sup>31</sup> Then he shall order the inside walls of the house scraped thoroughly, and the scrapings dumped in a defiled place outside the city.<sup>32</sup> Other stones shall be brought to replace those that have been removed, new mortar used, and the house replastered.

<sup>33</sup> “But if the spots appear again,<sup>34</sup> the priest shall come again and look, and if he sees that the spots have spread, it is leprosy, and the house is defiled.<sup>35</sup> Then he shall order the destruction of the house—all its stones, timbers, and mortar shall be carried out of the city to a defiled place.<sup>36</sup> Anyone entering the house while it is closed shall be defiled until evening.<sup>37</sup> Anyone who lies down or eats in the house shall wash his clothing.

the bird that was killed over the fresh water, and shall sprinkle the house seven times. In this way the house shall be cleansed.<sup>33</sup> Then he shall let the live bird fly away into an open field outside the city. This is the method for making atonement for the house and cleansing it."

"Any man who has a genital discharge<sup>a</sup> is ceremonially defiled.

shall be defiled until evening, and must wash his clothes and bathe himself. <sup>11</sup> If the defiled man touches anyone without first rinsing his hands, that person must wash his clothes and bathe himself and be defiled until evening. <sup>12</sup> Any earthen pot touched by the defiled man must be broken, and every wooden utensil must be rinsed in water.

touching her bed or anything she sits upon shall wash his clothes and bathe himself and be ceremonially defiled until evening. <sup>24</sup> A man having sexual intercourse with her during this time is ceremonially defiled for seven days, and every bed he lies upon shall be defiled.

16 AFTER AARON'S TWO sons died before the Lord, the Lord said to Moses, "Warn your brother Aaron not to enter into the Holy Place behind the veil, where the Ark and the place of mercy are, just whenever he chooses. The penalty for intrusion is death. For I myself am present in the cloud above the place of mercy.

<sup>3</sup> "Here are the conditions for his entering there: He must bring a young bull for a sin offering, and a ram for a burnt offering. <sup>4</sup> He must bathe himself and put on the sacred linen coat, shorts, belt, and turban. <sup>5</sup> The people of Israel shall then bring him two male goats for their sin offering, and a ram for their burnt offering. <sup>6</sup> First he shall present to the Lord the young bull as a sin offering for himself, making atonement for himself and his family. <sup>7</sup> Then he shall bring the two goats before the Lord at the entrance of the Tabernacle, <sup>8</sup> and cast lots to determine which is the Lord's and which is to be sent away.<sup>a</sup> <sup>9</sup> The goat allotted to the Lord shall then be sacrificed by Aaron as a sin offering. <sup>10</sup> The other goat shall be kept alive and placed before the Lord. The rite of atonement shall be performed over it, and it shall then be sent out into the desert as a scapegoat.<sup>a</sup> into fine powder, and bring it inside the veil.<sup>13</sup> There before the Lord he shall put the incense upon the coals, so that a cloud of incense will cover the mercy place above the Ark (containing the stone tablets of the Ten Commandments); thus he will not die.<sup>14</sup> And he shall bring some of the blood of the young bull and sprinkle it with his finger upon the east side of the mercy place, and then seven times in front of it.

<sup>15</sup> "Then he must go out<sup>b</sup> and sacrifice the people's sin offering goat, and bring its blood within the veil, and sprinkle it upon the place of mercy and in front of it, just as he did with the blood of the young bull.<sup>16</sup> Thus he shall make atonement for the holy place because it is defiled by the sins of the people of Israel, and for the Tabernacle, located right among them and surrounded by their defilement.<sup>17</sup> Not another soul shall be inside the Tabernacle when Aaron enters to make atonement in the Holy Place—not until after he comes out again and has made atonement for himself and his household and for all the people of Israel.<sup>18</sup> Then he shall go out to the altar before the Lord and make atonement for it. He must smear the blood of the young bull and the goat on the horns of the altar,<sup>19</sup> and sprinkle blood upon the altar seven times with his finger, thus cleansing it from the sinfulness of Israel, and making it holy.<sup>c</sup>

Place, the entire Tabernacle, and the altar, he shall bring the live goat and,<sup>21</sup> laying both hands upon its head, confess over it all the sins of the people of Israel. He shall lay all their sins upon the head of the goat and send it into the desert, led by a man appointed for the task.<sup>22</sup> So the goat shall carry all the sins of the people into a land where no one lives,<sup>d</sup> and the man shall let it loose in the wilderness.

must spend the day in self-examination and humility. This applies whether you are born in the land or are a foreigner living among the people of Israel; for this is the day commemorating the atonement, cleansing you in the Lord's eyes from all of your sins.<sup>31</sup> It is a Sabbath of solemn rest for you, and you shall spend the day in quiet humility;<sup>32</sup> this is a permanent law.<sup>33</sup> This ceremony, in later generations, shall be performed by the anointed High Priest, consecrated in place of his ancestor Aaron; he shall be the one to put on the holy linen garments,<sup>34</sup> and make atonement for the holy sanctuary, the Tabernacle, the altar, the priests, and the people.<sup>35</sup> This shall be an everlasting law for you, to make atonement for the people of Israel once each year, because of their sins."

17 THE LORD GAVE to Moses these additional instructions for Aaron and the priests and for all the people of Israel:

Lord will appreciate and enjoy—<sup>6</sup> for in this way the priest will be able to sprinkle the blood upon the altar of the Lord at the entrance of the Tabernacle, and to burn the fat as a savor the Lord will appreciate and enjoy—<sup>7</sup> instead of the people's sacrificing to evil spirits<sup>b</sup> out in the fields. This shall be a permanent law for you, from generation to generation.<sup>8,9</sup> I repeat: Anyone, whether an Israelite or a foreigner living among you who offers a burnt offering or a sacrifice anywhere other than at the entrance of the Tabernacle, where it will be sacrificed to the Lord, shall be excommunicated.

<sup>10</sup> "And I will turn my face against anyone, whether an Israelite or a foreigner living among you, who eats blood in any form. I will excommunicate him from his people.<sup>11</sup> For the life of the flesh is in the blood, and I have given you the blood to sprinkle upon the altar as an atonement for your souls; it is the blood that makes atonement, because it is the life.<sup>c</sup> <sup>12</sup> That is the reasoning behind my decree to the people of Israel, that neither they, nor any foreigner living among them, may eat blood.<sup>13</sup> Anyone, whether an Israelite or a foreigner living among you, who goes hunting and kills an animal or bird of a kind permitted for food, must pour out the blood and cover it with dust,<sup>14</sup> for the blood is the life. That is why I told the people of Israel never to eat it, for the life of every bird and animal<sup>d</sup> is its blood. Therefore, anyone who eats blood must he excommunicated.

<sup>15</sup> "And anyone—native born or foreigner—who eats the dead body of an animal that dies of itself, or is torn by wild animals, must wash his clothes and bathe himself and be defiled until evening; after that he shall be declared cleansed. <sup>16</sup> But if he does not wash his clothes and bathe, he shall suffer the consequence."

18 THE LORD THEN told Moses to tell the people of Israel,

"I am Jehovah your God, <sup>1</sup> so don't act like heathen—like the people of Egypt where you lived so long, or the people of Canaan where I am going to take you. <sup>2</sup> You must obey only my laws, and you must carry them out in detail, for I am the Lord your God. If you obey them you shall live. <sup>3</sup> I am the Lord.

ther; <sup>13</sup> nor your aunt—your mother's sister—because she is a close relative of your mother; <sup>14</sup> nor your aunt—the wife of your father's brother.<sup>d</sup>

<sup>24</sup> "Do not defile yourselves in any of these ways, for these are the things the heathen do; and because they do them I am going to cast them out from the land into which you are going. <sup>25</sup> That entire country is defiled with this kind of activity; that is why I am punishing the people living there, and will throw them out of the land.<sup>f</sup> <sup>26</sup> You must strictly obey all of my laws and ordinances, and you must not do any of these abominable things; these laws apply both to you who are born in the nation of Israel and to foreigners living among you.

<sup>27</sup> "Yes, all these abominations have been done continually by the people of the land where I am taking you, and the land is defiled. <sup>28</sup> Do not do these things or I will throw you out of the land, just as I will throw out<sup>g</sup> the nations that live there now. <sup>29,30</sup> Whoever does any of these terrible deeds shall be excommunicated from this nation. So be very sure to obey my laws, and do not practice any of these horrible customs. Do not defile yourselves with the evil deeds of those living in the land where you are going. For I am Jehovah your God."

19 THE LORD ALSO told Moses to tell the people of Israel, "You must be holy because I, the Lord your God, am holy. You must respect your mothers and fathers, and obey my Sabbath law, for I am the Lord your God. <sup>34</sup> Do not make or worship idols, for I am Jehovah your God.

<sup>3</sup> "When you sacrifice a peace offering to the Lord, offer it correctly so that it will be accepted: <sup>6</sup> Eat it the same day you offer it, or the next day at the latest; any remaining until the third day must be burned. <sup>7</sup> For any of it eaten on the third day is repulsive to me, and will not be accepted. <sup>8</sup> If you eat it on the third day you are guilty, for you profane the holiness of Jehovah, and you shall be excommunicated from Jehovah's people.

titute, lest the land become full of enormous wickedness.

<sup>30</sup> "Keep my Sabbath laws and reverence my Tabernacle, for I am the Lord.

<sup>32</sup> "You shall give due honor and respect to the elderly, in the fear of God. I am Jehovah.

<sup>33</sup> "Do not take advantage of foreigners in your land; do not wrong them. <sup>34</sup> They must be treated like any other citizen; love them as yourself, for remember that you too were foreigners in the land of Egypt. I am Jehovah your God.

<sup>35,36</sup> "You must be impartial in judgment. Use accurate measurements—lengths, weights, and volumes—and give full measure, for I am Jehovah your God who brought you from the land of Egypt. <sup>37</sup> You must heed all of my commandments and ordinances, carefully obeying them, for I am Jehovah."

20 THE LORD GAVE Moses these further instructions for the people of Israel:

"Anyone—whether an Israelite or a foreigner living among you—who sacrifices his child as a burnt offering to Molech shall without fail be stoned by his peers. <sup>1</sup> And I myself will turn against that man and cut him off from all his people, because he has given his child to Molech, thus making my Tabernacle<sup>a</sup> unfit for me to live in, and insulting <sup>6</sup> "I will set my face against anyone who consults mediums and wizards instead of me and I will cut that person off from his people. <sup>7</sup> So sanctify yourselves and be holy, for I am the Lord your God. <sup>8</sup> You must obey all of my commandments, for I am the Lord who sanctifies you.

course with an animal, he shall be executed and the animal killed. <sup>16</sup> If a woman has sexual intercourse with an animal, kill the woman and the animal, for they deserve their punishment.<sup>b</sup>

<sup>22</sup> "You must obey all of my laws and ordinances so that I will not throw you out of your new land.<sup>e</sup>

<sup>23</sup> You must not follow the customs of the nations I cast out before you, for they do all these things I have warned you against; that is the reason I abhor them. <sup>24</sup> I have promised you their land; I will give it to you to possess it. It is a land 'flow-

<sup>25</sup> "You shall therefore make a distinction between the birds and animals I have given you permission to eat and those you may not eat. You shall not contaminate yourselves and make yourselves hateful to me by eating any animal or bird which I have forbidden, though the land teem with them.

<sup>26</sup> You shall be holy to me, for I the Lord am holy, and I have set you apart from all other peoples, to be mine.

<sup>27</sup> "A medium or a wizard—whether man or woman—shall surely be stoned to death. They have caused their own doom."

21 THE LORD SAID to Moses: "Tell the priests never to defile themselves by touching a dead person, <sup>23</sup> unless it is a near relative—a mother, father, son, daughter, brother, or unmarried<sup>a</sup> sister for whom he has special responsibility since she has no husband. <sup>4</sup> For the priest is a leader among his people and he may not ceremonially defile himself as an ordinary person can.

prostitute, nor a woman of another tribe, and he shall not marry a divorced woman, for he is a holy man of God. <sup>8</sup> The priest is set apart to offer the sacrifices of your God; he is holy, for I, the Lord who sanctifies you, am holy. <sup>9</sup> The daughter of any priest who becomes a prostitute, thus violating her father's holiness as well as her own, shall be burned alive.

<sup>16,17</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, "Tell Aaron that any of his descendants from generation to generation who have any bodily defect may not offer the sacrifices to God. <sup>18</sup> For instance, if a man is blind or lame, or has a broken nose or any extra fingers or toes, <sup>19</sup> or has a broken foot or hand, <sup>20</sup> or has a humped back, or is a dwarf, or has a defect in his eye, or has pimples or scabby skin, or has imperfect testicles—<sup>21</sup> although he is a descendant of Aaron—he is not permitted to offer the fire sacrifices to the Lord because of his physical defect.<sup>22</sup> However, he shall be fed with the food of the priests from the offerings sacrificed to God, both from the holy and most holy offerings.<sup>23</sup> But he shall not go in behind the veil, nor come near the altar, because of the physical defect; this would defile my sanctuary, for it is Jehovah who sanctifies it.”

22 THE LORD TOLD Moses, “Instruct Aaron and his sons to be very careful not to defile my holy name by desecrating the people’s sacred gifts; for I am Jehovah.<sup>3</sup> From now on and forever, if a priest who is ceremonially defiled sacrifices the animals brought by the people or handles the gifts dedicated to Jehovah, he shall be discharged from the priesthood. For I am Jehovah!

<sup>4</sup> “No priest who is a leper or who has a running sore may eat the holy sacrifices until healed. And any priest who touches a dead person, or who is defiled by a seminal emission,<sup>5</sup> or who touches any reptile or other forbidden thing, or who touches anyone who is ceremonially defiled for any reason—<sup>6</sup> that priest shall be defiled until evening, and shall not eat of the holy sacrifices until after he has bathed that evening.<sup>7</sup> When the sun is down, then he shall be purified again and may eat the holy food, for it is his source of life.<sup>8</sup> He may not eat any animal that dies of itself or is torn by wild animals, for this will defile him. I am Jehovah.<sup>9</sup> Warn the priests to follow these instructions carefully, lest they be declared guilty and die for violating these rules. I am the Lord who sanctifies them.

<sup>14</sup> “If someone should eat of the holy sacrifices without realizing it, he shall return to the priest the amount he has used, with twenty percent added;<sup>15</sup> for the holy sacrifices brought by the people of Israel must not be defiled by being eaten by unauthorized persons, for these sacrifices have been offered to the Lord.<sup>16</sup> Anyone who violates this law is guilty and is in great danger because he has eaten the sacred offerings; for I am Jehovah who sanctifies the offerings.”

people of Israel that if an Israelite or other person living among you offers a burnt offering sacrifice to the Lord—whether it is to fulfill a promise or is a spontaneous free will offering—<sup>19</sup> it will only be acceptable to the Lord if it is a male animal without defect; it must be a young bull or a sheep or a goat.<sup>20</sup> Anything that has a defect must not be offered, for it will not be accepted.

<sup>21</sup> "Anyone sacrificing a peace offering to the Lord from the herd or flock, whether to fulfill a vow or as a voluntary offering, must sacrifice an animal that has no defect, or it will not be accepted:<sup>22</sup> An animal that is blind or disabled or mutilated, or which has sores or itch or any other skin disease, must not be offered to the Lord; it is not a fit burnt offering for the altar of the Lord.<sup>23</sup> If the young bull or lamb presented to the Lord has anything superfluous or lacking in its body parts, it may be offered as a free will offering, but not for a vow.<sup>24</sup> An animal that has injured genitals—crushed or castrated—shall not be offered to the Lord at any time.<sup>25</sup> This restriction applies to the sacrifices made by foreigners among you as well as those made by yourselves, for no defective animal is acceptable for this sacrifice."

and her offspring the same day, whether she is a cow or ewe.<sup>29,30</sup> When you offer the Lord a sacrifice of thanksgiving, you must do it in the right way, eating the sacrificial animal the same day it is slain. Leave none of it for the following day. I am the Lord.

<sup>31</sup> "You must keep all of my commandments, for I am the Lord.<sup>32,33</sup> You must not treat me as common and ordinary. Revere me and hallow me, for I, the Lord, made you holy to myself and rescued you from Egypt to be my own people! I am Jehovah!"

23 THE LORD SAID to Moses, "Announce to the people of Israel that they are to celebrate several annual festivals of the Lord—times when all Israel will assemble and worship me.<sup>1</sup> (These are in addition to your Sabbaths<sup>a</sup>—the seventh day of every week—which are always days of solemn rest in every home, times for assembling to worship, and for resting from the normal business of the week.)<sup>4</sup> These are the holy festivals which are to be observed each year:

shall make an offering by fire to the Lord.

<sup>9,10,11</sup> "The Festival of First Fruits: When you arrive in the land I will give you and reap your first harvest, bring the first sheaf of the harvest to the priest on the day after the Sabbath. He shall wave it before the Lord in a gesture of offering, and it will be accepted by the Lord as your gift. <sup>12</sup> That same day you shall sacrifice to the Lord a male yearling lamb without defect as a burnt offering. <sup>13</sup> A grain offering shall accompany it, consisting of a fifth of a bushel of finely ground flour mixed with olive oil, to be offered by fire to the Lord; this will be very pleasant to him. Also offer a drink offering consisting of three pints of wine. <sup>14</sup> Until this is done you must not eat any of the harvest for yourselves—neither fresh kernels nor bread nor parched grain. This is a permanent law throughout your nation.

ferings, very acceptable to Jehovah.<sup>c</sup> <sup>19</sup> And you shall offer one male goat for a sin offering, and two male yearling lambs for a peace offering.

<sup>20</sup> "The priests shall wave these offerings before the Lord along with the loaves representing the first sampling of your later crops. They are holy to the Lord, and will be given to the priests as food. <sup>21</sup> That day shall be announced as a time of sacred convocation of all the people; don't do any work that day. This is a law to be honored from generation to generation. <sup>22</sup> (When you reap your harvests, you must not thoroughly reap all the corners of the fields, nor pick up the fallen grain; leave it for the poor and for foreigners living among you who have no land of their own; I am Jehovah your God!)

for sin shall be excommunicated from his people.<sup>30,31</sup> And I will put to death anyone who does any kind of work that day. This is a law of Israel from generation to generation.<sup>32</sup> For this is a Sabbath of solemn rest, and in it you shall humble your souls and be filled with remorse; this time for atonement begins on the previous evening and goes on until the next evening.

<sup>37</sup> "(These, then, are the regular annual festivals—sacred convocations of all people—when offerings to the Lord are to be made by fire.<sup>38</sup> These annual festivals are in addition to your regular weekly days of holy rest. The sacrifices made during the festivals are to be in addition to your regular giving and normal fulfillment of your vows.)

24 THE LORD SAID to Moses, "Tell the people of Israel to bring you pure olive oil for an eternal flame<sup>34</sup> in the lampstand of pure gold which stands outside the veil that secludes the Holy of Holies. Each morning and evening Aaron shall supply it with fresh oil and trim the wicks. It will be an eternal flame before the Lord from generation to generation.

<sup>35</sup> "Every Sabbath day the High Priest shall place twelve loaves of bread in two rows upon the golden table that stands before the Lord. These loaves shall be baked from finely ground flour, using a fifth of a bushel for each. Pure frankincense shall be sprinkled along each row. This will be a memorial offering made by fire to the Lord, in memory of his everlasting covenant with the people of Israel. <sup>9</sup> The bread shall be eaten by Aaron and his sons, in a place set apart for the purpose. For these are offerings made by fire to the Lord under a permanent law of God, and are most holy.”

<sup>13,14</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, “Take him outside the camp and tell all who heard him to lay their hands upon his head; then all the people are to execute him by stoning. <sup>15,16</sup> And tell the people of Israel that anyone who curses his God must pay the penalty: he must die. All the congregation shall stone him; this law applies to the foreigner as well as to the Israelite who blasphemes the name of Jehovah. He must die.

animal must replace it, and whoever kills a man must die. <sup>22</sup> You shall have the same law for the foreigner as for the home-born citizen, for I am Jehovah your God.”

25 WHILE MOSES WAS ON Mount Sinai, the Lord gave him these instructions for the people of Israel:

“When you come into the land I am going to give you, you must let the land rest before the Lord every seventh year. <sup>3</sup> For six years you may sow your field and prune your vineyards and harvest your crops, <sup>4</sup> but during the seventh year the land is to lie fallow before the Lord, uncultivated. Don't sow your crops and don't prune your vineyards during that entire year. <sup>5</sup> Don't even reap for yourself the volunteer crops that come up, and don't gather the grapes for yourself; for it is a year of rest for the land. <sup>6,7</sup> Any crops that do grow that year shall be free to all—for you, your servants, your slaves, and any foreigners living among you. Cattle and wild animals alike shall be allowed to graze there.

It shall be a year when all the family estates sold to others shall be returned to the original owners or their heirs.

<sup>14,15,16</sup> "Because of this, if the land is sold or bought during the preceding forty-nine years, a fair price shall be arrived at by counting the number of years until the Jubilee. If the Jubilee is many years away, the price will be high; if few years, the price will be low; for what you are really doing is selling the number of crops the new owner will get from the land before it is returned to you.

<sup>17,18</sup> "You must fear your God and not overcharge! For I am Jehovah. Obey my laws if you want to live safely in the land. <sup>19</sup> When you obey, the land will yield bumper crops and you can eat your fill in safety. <sup>20</sup> But you will ask, 'What shall we eat the seventh year, since we are not allowed to plant or harvest crops that year?' <sup>21,22</sup> The answer is, 'I will bless you with bumper crops the sixth year that will last you until the crops of the eighth year are harvested!' <sup>23</sup> And remember, the land is mine, so you may not sell it permanently. You are merely my tenants and share-croppers!

<sup>32</sup> "There is one exception: The homes of the Levites, even though in walled cities, may be redeemed at any time, <sup>33</sup> and must be returned to the original owners in the Year of Jubilee; for the Levites will not be given farmland like the other tribes, but will receive only houses in their cities, and the surrounding fields.<sup>c</sup> <sup>34</sup> The Levites are not permitted to sell the fields of common land surrounding their cities, for these are their permanent possession, and they must belong to no one else.

<sup>33</sup> "If your brother becomes poor, you are responsible to help him; invite him to live with you as a guest in your home. <sup>36</sup> Fear your God and let your brother live with you; and don't charge him interest on the money you lend him. <sup>37</sup> Remember—no interest; and give him what he needs, at your cost: don't try to make a profit! <sup>38</sup> For I, the Lord your God, brought you out of the land of Egypt to give you the land of Canaan, and to be your God.

<sup>46</sup> "They will be permanent slaves for you to pass on to your children after you; but your brothers, the people of Israel, shall not be treated so.

you becomes rich, and an Israelite becomes poor and sells himself to the foreigner or to the foreigner's family, <sup>48</sup> he may be redeemed by one of his brothers, <sup>49</sup> his uncle, nephew, or anyone else who is a near relative. He may also redeem himself if he can find the money. <sup>50</sup> The price of his freedom shall be in proportion to the number of years left before the Year of Jubilee—whatever it would cost to hire a servant for that number of years. <sup>51</sup> If there are still many years until the Jubilee, he shall pay almost the amount he received when he sold himself; <sup>52</sup> if the years have passed and only a few remain until the Jubilee, then he will repay only a small part of the amount he received when he sold himself. <sup>53</sup> If he sells himself to a foreigner, the foreigner must treat him as a hired servant rather than as a slave or as property.

<sup>54</sup> "If he has not been redeemed by the time the Year of Jubilee arrives, then he and his children shall be freed at that time. <sup>55</sup> For the people of Israel are my servants; I brought them from the land of Egypt; I am the Lord your God.

26 "YOU MUST HAVE no idols; you must never worship carved images, obelisks, or shaped stones, for I am the Lord your God. <sup>2</sup> You must obey my Sabbath laws of rest, and reverence my Tabernacle, for I am the Lord.

<sup>3</sup> "If you obey all of my commandments, <sup>4</sup> I will give you regular rains, and the land will yield bumper crops, and the trees will be loaded with fruit long after the normal time!<sup>a</sup> And grapes will still be ripening when sowing time comes again. You shall eat your fill, and live safely in the land, <sup>6</sup> for I will give you peace, and you will go to sleep without fear. I will chase away the dangerous animals. <sup>7</sup> You will chase your enemies; they will die beneath your swords. <sup>8</sup> Five of you will chase a hundred, and a hundred of you, ten thousand! You will defeat all of your enemies. <sup>9</sup> I will look after you, and multiply you, and fulfill my covenant with you. <sup>10</sup> You will have such a surplus of crops that you won't know what to do with them when the new harvest is ready! <sup>11</sup> And I will live among you, and not despise you. <sup>12</sup> I will walk among you and be your God, and you shall be my people. <sup>13</sup> For I am the Lord your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt, with the intention that you be slaves no longer; I have broken your chains and will make you walk with dignity.<sup>b</sup>

<sup>14</sup> "But if you will not listen to me or obey me, <sup>15</sup> but reject my laws, <sup>16</sup> this is what I will do to you: I will punish you with sudden terrors and panic, and with tuberculosis and burning fever; your eyes shall be consumed and your life shall ebb away; you will sow your crops in vain, for your enemies will eat them.

<sup>17</sup> "I will set my face against you and you will flee before your attackers; those who hate you will rule you; you will even run when no one is chasing you!

<sup>18</sup> "And if you still disobey me, I will punish you seven times more severely for your sins. <sup>19</sup> I will break your proud power and make your heavens as iron, and your earth as bronze. <sup>20</sup> Your strength shall be spent in vain; for your land shall not yield its crops, nor your trees their fruit.

<sup>21</sup> "And if even then you will not obey me and listen to me, I will send you seven times more plagues because of your sins. <sup>22</sup> I will send wild animals to kill your children and destroy your cattle and reduce your numbers so that your roads will be deserted.

<sup>23</sup> "And if even this will not reform you, but you continue to walk against my wishes, <sup>24</sup> then I will walk against your wishes, and I, even I, will personally smite you seven times for your sin. <sup>25</sup> I will revenge the breaking of my covenant by bringing war against you. You will flee to your cities, and I will send a plague among you there; and you will be conquered by your enemies. <sup>26</sup> I will destroy your food supply so that one oven will be large enough to bake all the bread available for ten entire families; and you will still be hungry after your pitance has been doled out to you.

<sup>27</sup> "And if you still won't listen to me or obey me, <sup>28</sup> then I will let loose my great anger and send you seven times greater punishment for your sins. <sup>29</sup> You shall eat your own sons and daughters, <sup>30</sup> and I will destroy the altars on the hills where you worship your idols, and I will cut down your incense altars, leaving your dead bodies to rot among your idols; and I will abhor you. <sup>31</sup> I will make your cities desolate, and destroy your places of worship, and will not respond to your incense offerings. <sup>32</sup> Yes, I will desolate your land; your enemies shall live in it, utterly amazed at what I have done to you.

<sup>33</sup> "I will scatter you out among the nations, destroying you with war as you go. Your land shall be desolate and your cities destroyed. <sup>34,35</sup> Then at last the land will rest and make up for the many years you refused to let it lie idle; for it will lie desolate all the years that you are captives in enemy lands. Yes, then the land will rest and enjoy its Sabbaths! It will make up for the rest you didn't give it every seventh year when you lived upon it.

<sup>36</sup> "And for those who are left alive, I will cause them to be dragged away to distant lands as prisoners of war, and slaves. There they will live in constant fear. The sound of a leaf driven in the wind will send them fleeing as though chased by a man with a sword; they shall fall when no one is pursuing them. <sup>37</sup> Yes, though none pursue they shall stumble over each other in flight, as though fleeing in battle, with no power to stand before their enemies. <sup>38</sup> You shall perish among the nations and be destroyed among your enemies. <sup>39</sup> Those left shall pine away in enemy lands because of their sins, the same sins as those of their fathers.

land of their enemies.) When at last their evil hearts are humbled and they accept the punishment I send them for their sins, <sup>42</sup> then I will remember again my promises to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and I will remember the land (and its desolation). <sup>43</sup> For the land shall enjoy its Sabbaths as it lies desolate. But then at last they shall accept their punishment for rejecting my laws and for despising my rule. <sup>44</sup> But despite all they have done, I will not utterly destroy them and my covenant with them, for I am Jehovah their God. <sup>45</sup> For their sakes I will remember my promises to their ancestors, to be their God. For I brought their forefathers out of Egypt as all the nations watched in wonder. I am Jehovah."

27 THE LORD SAID to Moses, "Tell the people of Israel that when a person makes a special vow to give himself to the Lord, he shall give these payments instead: <sup>1</sup> A man from the age of twenty to sixty shall pay twenty-five dollars; <sup>2</sup> a woman from the age of twenty to sixty shall pay fifteen dollars; <sup>3</sup> a boy from five to twenty shall pay ten dollars; a girl, five dollars. <sup>4</sup> A boy one month to five years old shall have paid for him two and a half dollars; a girl, one and a half dollars. <sup>5</sup> A man over sixty shall pay seven and a half dollars; a woman, five dollars. <sup>6</sup> But if the person is too poor to pay this amount, he shall be brought to the priest and the priest shall talk it over with him, and he shall pay as the priest shall decide:

<sup>9</sup> "But if it is an animal that is vowed to be given to the Lord as a sacrifice, it must be given. <sup>10</sup> The vow may not be changed; the donor may neither change his mind about giving it to the Lord, nor substitute good for bad or bad for good; if he does, both the first and the second shall belong to the Lord! <sup>11,12</sup> But if the animal given to the Lord is not a kind that is permitted as a sacrifice, the owner shall bring it to the priest to value it, and he shall be told how much to pay instead. <sup>13</sup> If the animal is a kind that may be offered as a sacrifice,<sup>b</sup> but the man wants to redeem it, then he shall pay twenty percent more than the value set by the priest.

<sup>14,15</sup> "If someone donates his home to the Lord and then wishes to redeem it, the priest will decide its value and the man shall pay that amount plus twenty percent, and the house will be his again.

man decides to redeem the field, he shall pay twenty percent in addition to the priest's valuation, and the field will be his again.

<sup>20</sup> "But if he decides not to redeem the field, or if he has sold the field to someone else [and has given to the Lord his rights to it at the Year of Jubilee<sup>b</sup>], it shall not be returned to him again. <sup>21</sup> When it is freed in the Year of Jubilee, it shall belong to the Lord as a field devoted to him, and it shall be given to the priests.

<sup>26</sup> "You may not dedicate to the Lord the firstborn of any ox or sheep, for it is already his. <sup>27</sup> But if it is the firstborn of an animal that cannot be sacrificed because it is not on the list of those acceptable to the Lord, then the owner shall pay the priest's estimate of its worth, plus twenty percent; or if the owner does not redeem it, the priest may sell it to someone else. <sup>28</sup> However, anything utterly devoted to the Lord—people, animals, or inherited fields—shall not be sold or redeemed, for they are most holy to the Lord.

tenth given to the Lord shall not be selected on the basis of whether it is good or bad, and there shall be no substitutions; for if there is any change made, then both the original and the substitution shall belong to the Lord, and may not be bought back!"

NUMBERS

1 IT WAS ON the fifteenth day of April<sup>a</sup> of the second year after the Israelis left Egypt that the Lord issued the following instructions to Moses. (He was in the Tabernacle at the camp of Israel on the Sinai peninsula at the time.)

<sup>2-15</sup> "Take a census of all the men twenty years old and older who are able to go to war, indicating their tribe and family. You and Aaron are to direct the project, assisted by leaders from each tribe:"

Tribe	Leader
Reuben	Elizur (son of Shedeur)
Simeon	Shelumi-el (son of Zuri-shaddai)
Judah	Nahshon (son of Amminadab)
Issachar	Nethanel (son of Zuar)
Zebulun	Eliab (son of Helon)
Ephraim	Elishama (son of Ammihud) (son of Joseph)
Manasseh	Garnaliel (son of Pedahzur) (son of Joseph)

Benjamin	Abidan (son of Gideoni)
Dan	Ahiezzer (son of Ammishaddai)
Asher	Pagiel (son of Ochran)
Gad	Eliasaph (son of Deuel)
Naphtali	Ahira (son of Enan)

<sup>16</sup> These were the tribal leaders elected from among the people.

<sup>17,18,19</sup> On the same day<sup>b</sup> Moses and Aaron and the above-named leaders summoned all the men of Israel who were twenty years old or older to come and register, each man indicating his tribe and family, as the Lord had commanded Moses.<sup>c</sup> <sup>20-46</sup> Here is the final tabulation:

Tribe	Total
Reuben (the oldest son of Jacob)	46,500
Simeon	59,300
Gad	45,650
Judah	74,600
Issachar	54,400
Zebulun	57,400

<sup>d</sup> Literally, "no one who is under the ban of God to be put to death, may be ransomed."

Joseph: Ephraim (son of Joseph)	40,500
Joseph: Manasseh (son of Joseph)	32,200
Benjamin	35,400
Dan	62,700
Asher	41,500
Naphthali	53,400

<sup>50</sup> For the Levites are assigned for the work connected with the Tabernacle and its transportation. They are to live near the Tabernacle, <sup>51</sup> and whenever the Tabernacle is moved, the Levites are to take it down and set it up again; anyone else touching it shall be executed. <sup>52</sup> Each tribe of Israel shall have a separate camping area with its own flag. <sup>53</sup> The Levites' tents shall be clustered around the Tabernacle as a wall between the people of Israel and God's wrath—to protect them from his fierce anger against their sins."

2 THE LORD GAVE these further instructions to Moses and Aaron: "Each tribe will have its own tent area, with its flagpole and tribal banner; and at the center of these tribal compounds will be the Tabernacle."<sup>55-57</sup> Here are the tribal locations:<sup>a</sup>

Tribes	Leader:	Location:	Census:
Judah	Nahshon (son of Amminadab)	East side of the Tabernacle	74,600

Issachar	Nethanel (son of Zuar)	Next to Judah	54,400
Zebulun	Eliab (son of Helon)	Next to Issachar	57,400

So the total of all those on Judah's side of the camp was 186,400. These three tribes led the way whenever the Israelites traveled to a new campsite.

Reuben	Elizur (son of Shedeur)	South side of the Tabernacle	46,500
Simeon	Shelumiel (son of Zurishaddai)	Next to Reuben	59,300
Gad	Eliasaph (son of Reuel <sup>b</sup> )	Next to Simeon	45,650

So the total of the Reuben side of the camp was 151,450. These three tribes were next in line whenever the Israelites traveled.

Next in the line of march was the Tabernacle, with the Levites. When traveling, each tribe stayed together under its own flag, just as each was separate from the others in camp.

Ephraim	Elishama (son of Ammihud)	West side of Tabernacle	40,500
Manasseh	Gamaliel (son of Pedahzur)	Next to Ephraim	32,200
Benjamin	Abidan (son of Gideon)	Next to Manasseh	35,400

So the total on the Ephraim side of the camp was 108,100, and they were next in the line of march.

Dan	Abiezer (son of Ammishaddai)	North side of Tabernacle	62,700
-----	---------------------------------	--------------------------------	--------

Naphtali	Abira (son of Enan)	Next to Asher	53,400

So the total on Dan's side of the camp was 157,600. They brought up the rear whenever Israel traveled.<sup>32,33</sup> In summary, the armies of Israel totaled 603,550 (not including the Levites, who were exempted by Jehovah's commandment to Moses).<sup>34</sup> So the people of Israel set up their camps, each tribe under its own banner, in the locations indicated by the Lord to Moses.

3 AT THE TIME when the Lord spoke to Moses on Mount Sinai, <sup>2</sup> Aaron's<sup>a</sup> sons were:

Nadab (his oldest), Abihu, Eleazar, Ithamar.

<sup>5</sup> Then the Lord said to Moses, <sup>6</sup> "Summon the tribe of Levi and present them to Aaron as his assistants."<sup>7,8,9</sup> They will follow his instructions and perform the sacred duties at the Tabernacle on behalf of all the people of Israel. For they are assigned to him as representatives of all the people of Israel. They are in charge of all the furnishings and maintenance of the Tabernacle. <sup>10</sup> However, only Aaron and his sons may carry out the duties of the priesthood; anyone else who presumes to assume this office shall be executed."

<sup>11,12</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, "I have accepted the Levites in substitution for all the oldest sons of the people of Israel. The Levites are mine<sup>13</sup> in exchange for all the oldest sons. From the day I killed all the oldest sons of the Egyptians, I took for myself all the firstborn in Israel of both men and animals! They are mine; I am Jehovah."

Levi's son	Levi's grand-sons (clan names)	Census	Leader	Camp Location
Gershon	Libni Shime-i	7,500	Elisaph (son of Lael)	West side of the Tabernacle

The responsibility of these two clans of Levites was the care of the Tabernacle: its coverings, its entry drapes, the drapes covering the fence surrounding the courtyard, the screen at the entrance of the courtyard surrounding the Tabernacle, the altar, and all the ropes used in tying the Tabernacle together.

Levi's son	Levi's grand-sons (clan names)	Census	Leader	Camp Location
Kohath	Amram Izhar Hebron Uzziel	8,600	Elizaphan (son of Uzziel)	South side of the Tabernacle

The responsibility of these four clans of Levites was the care of the Ark, the table, the lampstand, the altars, the various utensils used in the Tabernacle, the veil, and any repairs needed on any of these items. (Note: Eleazar, Aaron's son, shall be the chief administrator over the leaders of the Levites, with special responsibility for the oversight of the sanctuary.)

Lev's son	Lev's grand-sons	Census	Leader	Camp Location
Merari	(clan names)	6,200	Zuriel (son of Abihail)	North side of Tabernacle
	Mahli

The responsibility of these two clans was the care of the frames of the Tabernacle building; the posts; the bases for the posts, and all of the equipment needed for their use; the posts around the courtyard and their bases, pegs, and ropes.

<sup>38</sup> The area east of the Tabernacle was reserved for the tents of Moses and of Aaron and his sons, who had the final responsibility for the Tabernacle on behalf of the people of Israel. (Anyone who was not a priest or Levite, but came into the Tabernacle, was to be executed.)

<sup>40</sup> Then the Lord said to Moses, "Now take a census of all the eldest sons in Israel who are a month old and older, and register each name. <sup>41</sup> The Levites shall be mine (I am Jehovah) as substitutes for the eldest sons of Israel; and the Levites' cattle are mine as substitutes for the firstborn cattle of the whole nation."

4 THEN THE LORD said to Moses and Aaron, "Take a census of the Kohath division of the Levite tribe. <sup>1</sup> This census will be of all males from ages thirty to fifty who are able to work in the Tabernacle. <sup>2</sup> These are their sacred duties:

<sup>3</sup> "When the camp moves, Aaron and his sons will enter the Tabernacle first and take down the veil and cover the Ark with it. <sup>6</sup> Then they will cover the veil with goatskin leather, cover the goatskins with a blue cloth, and place the carrying poles of the Ark in their rings.

<sup>7</sup> "Next they must spread a blue cloth over the table where the Bread of the Presence is displayed, and place the dishes, spoons, bowls, cups, and the Bread upon the cloth. <sup>8</sup> They will spread a scarlet cloth over that, and finally a covering of goatskin leather on top of the scarlet cloth. Then they shall insert the carrying poles into the table.

<sup>13</sup> "The ashes are to be removed from the altar, and the altar shall be covered with a purple cloth. <sup>14</sup> All of the altar utensils are to be placed upon the cloth—the firepans, hooks, shovels, basins, and other containers—and a cover of goatskin leather will be spread over them. Finally, the carrying poles are to be put in place. <sup>15</sup> When

Aaron and his sons have finished packing the sanctuary and all the utensils, the clan of Kohath shall come and carry the units to wherever the camp is traveling; but they must not touch the holy items, lest they die. This, then, is the sacred work of the sons of Kohath.

<sup>16</sup> "Aaron's son Eleazar shall be responsible for the oil for the light, the sweet incense, the daily grain offering, and the anointing oil—in fact, the supervision of the entire Tabernacle and everything in it will be his responsibility."

<sup>17,18,19</sup> Then the Lord said to Moses and Aaron, "Don't let the families of Kohath destroy themselves! This is what you must do so that they will not die when they carry the most holy things: Aaron and his sons shall go in with them and point out what each is to carry. <sup>20</sup> Otherwise they must never enter the sanctuary for even a moment, lest they look at the sacred objects there and die."

<sup>25</sup> "They will carry the curtains of the Tabernacle, the Tabernacle itself with its coverings, the goatskin leather roof, and the curtain for the Tabernacle entrance. <sup>26</sup> They are also to carry the drapes covering the courtyard fence, and the curtain across the entrance to the courtyard that surrounds the altar and the Tabernacle. They will also carry the altar, the ropes, and all of the accessories. They are fully responsible for the transportation of these items. <sup>27</sup> Aaron or any of his sons may assign the Gershonites' tasks to them, <sup>28</sup> but the Gershonites will be directly responsible to Aaron's son Ithamar.

"Assign duties to each man by name. <sup>33</sup> The Merari division will also report to Aaron's son Ithamar."

<sup>34</sup> So Moses and Aaron and the other leaders took a census of the Kohath division, <sup>35</sup> including all of the men thirty to fifty years of age who were eligible for the Tabernacle service, <sup>36</sup> and found that the total number was 2,750. <sup>37</sup> All this was done to carry out the Lord's instructions to Moses. <sup>38-41</sup> A similar census of the Gershon division totaled 2,630. <sup>42-45</sup> And of the Merari division, 3,200.

<sup>46,47,48</sup> Thus Moses and Aaron and the leaders of Israel found that the total of all the Levites who were thirty to fifty years old and who were eligible for the Tabernacle service and transportation, was 8,580. <sup>49</sup> This census was taken in response to the Lord's instructions to Moses.

5 THESE ARE FURTHER instructions from the Lord to Moses: "Inform the people of Israel that they must expel all lepers from the camp, and all who have open sores, or who have been defiled by touching a dead person. <sup>3</sup> This applies to men and women alike. Remove them so that they will not defile the camp where I live among you." <sup>4</sup> These instructions were put into effect.

<sup>5,6</sup> Then the Lord said to Moses, "Tell the people of Israel that when anyone, man or woman, betrays the Lord by betraying a trust, it is sin. <sup>7</sup> He must confess his sin and make full repayment for what he has stolen, <sup>8</sup> adding twenty percent and returning it to the person he took it from. <sup>9</sup> But if the person he wronged is dead, <sup>10</sup> and there is no near relative to whom the payment can be made, it must be given to the priest, along with a lamb for atonement. <sup>11,12</sup> When the people of Israel bring a gift to the Lord it shall go to the priests."

water in a clay jar and mix into it dust from the floor of the Tabernacle. <sup>16</sup> He shall unbind her hair and place the suspicion offering in her hands to determine whether or not her husband's suspicions are justified. The priest shall stand before her holding the jar of bitter water that brings a curse. <sup>19</sup> He shall require her to swear that she is innocent, and then he shall say to her, 'If no man has slept with you except your husband, be free from the effects of this bitter water that causes the curse. <sup>20</sup> But if you have committed adultery, <sup>21,22</sup> then Jehovah shall make you a curse among your people, for he will make your thigh rot away and your body swell.' And the woman shall be required to say, 'Yes, let it be so.' <sup>23</sup> Then the priest shall write these curses in a book and wash them off into the bitter water. <sup>24</sup> (When he requires the woman to drink the water, it becomes bitter within her [if she is guilty<sup>d</sup>].)

<sup>3</sup> "Throughout that time he must never cut his hair, for he is holy and consecrated to the Lord; that is why he must let his hair grow.

<sup>6,7</sup> "And he may not go near any dead body during the entire period of his vow, even if it is the body of his father, mother, brother, or sister; for his vow of consecration remains in effect, <sup>8</sup> and he is consecrated to the Lord throughout the entire period. <sup>9</sup> If he is defiled by having someone fall dead beside him, then seven days later he shall shave his defiled head; he will then be cleansed from the contamination of being in the presence of death.

must bring two turtledoves or two young pigeons to the priest at the entrance of the Tabernacle. <sup>11</sup> The priest shall offer one of the birds for a sin offering, and the other for a burnt offering, and make atonement for his defilement. And he must renew his vows that day and let his hair begin to grow again. <sup>12</sup> The days of his vow that were fulfilled<sup>a</sup> before his defilement no longer count. He must begin all over again with a new vow, and must bring a male lamb a year old for a guilt offering.

been shaved, the priest shall take the roasted shoulder of the lamb, one of the pancakes (made without yeast), and one of the wafers (also made without yeast), and put them all into the man's hands. <sup>20</sup> The priest shall then wave it all back and forth before the Lord in a gesture of offering; all of it is a holy portion for the priest, as are the rib piece and shoulder that were waved before the Lord. After that the Nazirite may again drink wine, for he is freed from his vow.

<sup>21</sup> "These are the regulations concerning a Nazirite and his sacrifices at the conclusion of his period of special dedication. In addition to these sacrifices he must bring any further offering he promised at the time he took his vow to become a Nazirite."

<sup>22,23</sup> Now the Lord said to Moses, "Tell Aaron and his sons that they are to give this special blessing to the people of Israel: <sup>24,25,26</sup> 'May the Lord bless and protect you; may the Lord's face radiate with joy because of you; may he be gracious to you, show you his favor, and give you his peace.' <sup>27</sup> This is how Aaron and his sons shall call down my blessings<sup>a</sup> upon the people of Israel; and I myself will personally bless them."

7 MOSES ANOINTED AND sanctified each part of the Tabernacle, including the altar and its utensils, on the day he finished setting it up. <sup>2</sup> Then the leaders of Israel—the chiefs of the tribes, the men who had organized the census—brought their offerings. <sup>3</sup> They brought six covered wagons, each drawn by two oxen—a wagon for every two leaders and an ox for each one; and they presented them to the Lord in front of the Tabernacle.

five male yearling lambs.

<sup>30-35</sup> On the fourth day the gifts were presented by Elizur, son of Shedeur, chief of the tribe of Reuben; his gifts and offerings were the same as those given on the previous days.<sup>b</sup>

<sup>36-41</sup> On the fifth day came Shelumi-el, the son of Zuri-shaddai, chief of the tribe of Simeon, with the same gifts.<sup>b</sup>

tribe of Dan and his offerings were the same as those on the previous days.<sup>c</sup>

12 silver platters (each weighing about two pounds);

12 silver bowls (each weighing about one pound); (so the total weight of the silver was about thirty-six pounds);

12 golden trays (the trays weighing about four ounces apiece); (so the total weight of gold was about three pounds).

12 bulls, 12 rams,

12 yearling male goats (with the grain offerings that accompanied them).

For sin offerings they brought:

12 male goats.

24 young bulls,

60 rams, 60 male goats,

Tabernacle to speak with God, he heard the Voice speaking to him from above the place of mercy over the Ark, the spot between the two cherubim.

8 THE LORD SAID to Moses, <sup>2</sup> "Tell Aaron that when he lights the seven lamps in the lampstand, he is to set them so that they will throw their light forward."

<sup>5, 6</sup> Then the Lord said to Moses, "Now set apart the Levites from the other people of Israel. <sup>7</sup> Do this by sprinkling water of purification upon them, then having them shave their entire bodies and wash their clothing and themselves. <sup>8</sup> Have them bring a young bull and a grain offering of fine flour mingled with oil, along with another young bull for a sin offering. <sup>9</sup> Then bring the Levites to the door of the Tabernacle as all the people watch.

<sup>11</sup> and Aaron, with a gesture of offering, shall present them to the Lord as a gift from the entire nation of Israel. The Levites will represent all the people in serving the Lord.

be presented to Aaron and his sons, just as any other gift to the Lord is given to the priests! <sup>14</sup> In this way you will dedicate the Levites from among the rest of the people of Israel, and the Levites shall be mine. <sup>15</sup> After you have sanctified them and presented them in this way, they shall go in and out of the Tabernacle to do their work.

<sup>16</sup> "They are mine from among all the people of Israel, and I have accepted them in place of all the firstborn children of the Israelites: I have taken the Levites as their substitutes. <sup>17</sup> For all the firstborn among the people of Israel are mine, both men and animals; I claimed them for myself the night I killed all the firstborn Egyptians. <sup>18</sup> Yes, I have accepted the Levites in place of all the eldest sons of Israel. <sup>19</sup> And I will give the Levites as a gift to Aaron and his sons. The Levites will carry out the sacred duties required of the people of Israel in the Tabernacle, and will offer the people's sacrifices, making atonement for them. There will be no plague among the Israelites—as there would be if the ordinary people entered the Tabernacle."

Aaron and his sons; everything was done just as the Lord had commanded Moses.

<sup>23,24</sup> The Lord also instructed Moses, "The Levites are to begin serving in the Tabernacle at the age of twenty-five, and are to retire at the age of fifty. <sup>25,26</sup> After retirement they can assist with various light duties in the Tabernacle, but will have no regular responsibilities."

9 JEHOVAH GAVE THESE instructions to Moses while he and the rest of the Israelites were on the Sinai peninsula, during the first month of the second year after leaving Egypt:

<sup>2,3</sup> "The people of Israel must celebrate the Passover annually on the fourteenth day of this first month,<sup>a</sup> beginning in the evening. Be sure to follow all of my instructions concerning this celebration."

<sup>4,5</sup> So Moses announced that the Passover celebration would begin on the evening of the fourteenth, there in the Sinai peninsula, just as the Lord had commanded. <sup>6,7</sup> But as it happened, some of the men had just attended a funeral, and were ceremonially defiled by having touched the dead, so they couldn't eat the Passover lamb that night. They came to Moses and Aaron and explained their problem and protested at being forbidden from offering their sacrifice to the Lord at the time he had appointed.

<sup>10</sup> "If any of the people of Israel, now or in the generations to come,

a Note: The 14th day of the first month of the Hebrew calendar corresponds approximately to our first day of April.

are defiled at Passover time because of touching a dead body, or if they are on a journey and cannot be present, they may still celebrate the Passover, but one month later,<sup>11</sup> on the fourteenth day of the second month, beginning in the evening. They are to eat the lamb at that time, with unleavened bread and bitter herbs.<sup>12</sup> They must not leave any of it until the next morning, and must not break a bone of it, and must follow all the regular instructions concerning the Passover.

it stayed only a few days, then they remained only a few days; for so the Lord had instructed them.<sup>20,21</sup> Sometimes the fire-cloud stayed only during the night and moved on the next morning. But day or night, when it moved, the people broke camp and followed.<sup>22</sup> If the Cloud stayed above the Tabernacle two days, a month, or a year, that is how long the people of Israel stayed; but as soon as it moved, they moved.<sup>23</sup> So it was that they camped or traveled at the commandment of the Lord; and whatever the Lord told Moses they should do, they did.

10 NOW THE LORD said to Moses, "Make two trumpets of beaten silver to be used for summoning the people to assemble and for signaling the breaking of camp.<sup>1</sup> When both trumpets are blown, the people will know that they are to gather at the entrance of the Tabernacle.<sup>2</sup> But if only one is blown, then only the chiefs of the tribes of Israel shall come to you.

ised Land and go to war against your enemies, God will hear you and save you from your enemies when you sound the alarm with these trumpets.<sup>10</sup> Use the trumpets in times of gladness, too, blowing them at your annual festivals and at the beginning of each month to rejoice over your burnt offerings and peace offerings. And God will be reminded of his covenant with you. For I am Jehovah, your God."

Deuel.

<sup>21</sup> Next came the Kohathites carrying the items from the inner sanctuary. (The Tabernacle was already erected in its new location by the time they arrived.) <sup>22</sup> Next in line was the tribe of Ephraim behind its flag, led by Elishama, the son of Ammihud; <sup>23</sup> and the tribe of Manasseh led by Gamaliel the son of Pedahzur; <sup>24</sup> and the tribe of Benjamin, led by Abidan the son of Gideon. <sup>25</sup> Last of all were the tribes headed by the flag of the tribe of Dan under the leadership of Ahiezer, the son of Ammishaddai; <sup>26</sup> the tribe of Asher, led by Pagiel, the son of Ochran; <sup>27</sup> and the tribe of Naphtali, led by Ahira, the son of Enan. <sup>28</sup> That was the order in which the tribes traveled.

<sup>29</sup> One day Moses said to his brother-in-law Hobab (son of Reuel, the Midianite), "At last we are on our way to the Promised Land. Come with us and we will do you good; for the Lord has given wonderful promises to Israel!"

the Cloud moving along ahead of them as they began their march. <sup>10</sup> As the Ark was carried forward, Moses cried out, "Arise, O Lord, and scatter your enemies; let them flee before you." <sup>11</sup> And when the Ark was set down he said, "Return, O Lord, to the millions of Israel."

11 THE PEOPLE WERE soon complaining about all their misfortunes, and the Lord heard them. His anger flared out against them because of their complaints, so the fire of the Lord began destroying those at the far end of the camp. <sup>1</sup> They screamed to Moses for help, and when he prayed for them the fire stopped. <sup>2</sup> Ever after, the area was known as "The Place of Burning,"<sup>a</sup> because the fire from the Lord burned among them there.

<sup>3</sup> Then the Egyptians who had come with them began to long for the good things of Egypt. This added to the discontent of the people of Israel and they wept, "Oh, for a few bites of meat! Oh, that we had some of the delicious fish we enjoyed so much in Egypt, and the wonderful cucumbers and melons, leeks, onions, and garlic! <sup>4</sup> But now our strength is gone, and day after day we have to face this manna!"

<sup>5</sup> The manna was about the size of coriander seed, and looked like droplets of gum from the bark of a tree. <sup>6</sup> The people gathered it from the ground and crushed it into flour or pounded it in mortars, boiled it, and then made pancakes from it—they tasted like pancakes fried in vegetable oil.<sup>b</sup> <sup>7</sup> The manna fell with the dew during the night.

<sup>16</sup> Then the Lord said to Moses, "Summon before me seventy of the leaders of Israel; bring them to the Tabernacle, to stand there with you. <sup>17</sup> I will come down and talk with you there and I will take of the Spirit which is on you and will put it upon them also; they shall bear the burden of the people along with you, so that you will not have the task alone.

<sup>18</sup> "And tell the people to purify themselves, for tomorrow they shall have meat to eat. Tell them, 'The Lord has heard your tearful complaints about all you left behind in Egypt, and he is going to give you meat. You shall eat it, <sup>19,20</sup> not for just a day or two, or five or ten or even twenty! For one whole month you will have meat until you vomit it from your noses; for you have rejected the Lord who is here among you, and you have wept for Egypt.”

<sup>21</sup> But Moses said, “There are 600,000 men alone [besides all the women and children<sup>c</sup>], and yet you promise them meat for a whole month! <sup>22</sup> If we butcher all our flocks and herds it won’t be enough! We would have to catch every fish in the ocean to fulfill your promise!”

<sup>23</sup> Then the Lord said to Moses, “When did I become weak? Now you shall see whether my word comes true or not!”

<sup>24</sup> So Moses left the Tabernacle and reported Jehovah’s words to the people; and he gathered the seventy elders and placed them around the Tabernacle. <sup>25</sup> And the Lord came down in the Cloud and talked with Moses, and the Lord took of the Spirit that was upon Moses and put it upon the seventy elders; and when the Spirit rested upon them, they prophesied for some time.

that all of the Lord’s people were prophets, and that the Lord would put his Spirit upon them all!” <sup>30</sup> Then Moses returned to the camp with the elders of Israel.

<sup>31</sup> The Lord sent a wind that brought quail from the sea, and let them fall into the camp and all around it! As far as one could walk in a day in any direction, there were quail flying three or four feet above the ground.<sup>d</sup> <sup>32</sup> So the people caught and killed quail all that day and through the night and all the next day too! The least anyone gathered was 100 bushels! Quail were spread out all around<sup>e</sup> the camp. <sup>33</sup> But as everyone began eating the meat, the anger of the Lord rose against the people and he killed large numbers of them with a plague. <sup>34</sup> So the name of that place was called, “The Place of the Graves Caused by Lust,”<sup>f</sup> because they buried the people there who had lusted for meat and for Egypt. <sup>35</sup> And from that place they journeyed to Hazeroth, where they stayed awhile.

But the Lord heard them. <sup>3</sup> Immediately he summoned Moses, Aaron, and Miriam to the Tabernacle: "Come here, you three," he commanded. So they stood before the Lord. (Now Moses was the humblest man on earth.)

<sup>f</sup> Literally, “Kibroth-hattaavah.” <sup>a</sup> Literally, “because of the Cushite woman he had married.” Apparently they were referring to his wife Zipporah, the Midianite daughter of Reuel (Exodus 2:21); for the land of Midian from which she came was sometimes called Cush. But areas of Ethiopia and Babylon were also known as Cush, so it is possible that the reference is to a second wife of Moses. It is indeterminate from the text as to whether the criticism was because she was a Gentile or (if she was a Cushite from Ethiopia) because of her color.

<sup>3</sup> Then the Lord descended in the Cloud and stood at the entrance of the Tabernacle. "Aaron and Miriam, step forward," he commanded; and they did. <sup>4</sup> And the Lord said to them, "Even with a prophet, I would communicate by visions and dreams; <sup>5</sup> but that is not how I communicate with my servant Moses. He is completely at home in my house! With him I speak face to face! And he shall see the very form of God! Why then were you not afraid to criticize him?"

<sup>11</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, "If her father had but spit in her face she would be defiled seven days. Let her be confined outside the camp for seven days, and after that she can come back again."

<sup>12</sup> So Miriam was excluded from the camp for seven days, and the people waited until she was brought back in before they traveled again.

<sup>3-13</sup> (The Israelis were camped in the wilderness of Paran at the time.) Moses did as the Lord had commanded and sent these twelve tribal leaders:

Shammu-a, son of Zaccur, from the tribe of Reuben;

Shaphat, son of Hori, from the tribe of Simeon;

Caleb, son of Jephunneh, from the tribe of Judah;

Igal, son of Joseph, from the tribe of Issachar;

Hoshea,<sup>a</sup> son of Nun, from the half-tribe of Ephraim;

Palti, son of Raphu, from the tribe of Benjamin;

Gaddiel, son of Sodi, from the tribe of Zebulun;

Gaddi, son of Susi, from the tribe of Joseph (actually, the half-tribe of Manasseh);

Ammiel, son of Gemalli, from the tribe of Dan;

Sethur, son of Michael, from the tribe of Asher;

Nahbi, son of Vophsi, from the tribe of Naphtali;

Geuel, son of Machi, from the tribe of Gad.

them.

<sup>27</sup> This was their report: "We arrived in the land you sent us to see, and it is indeed a magnificent country—a land 'flowing with milk and honey.' Here is some fruit we have brought as proof. <sup>28</sup> But the people living there are powerful, and their cities are fortified and very large; and what's more, we saw Anakim giants there! <sup>29</sup> The Amalekites live in the south, while in the hill country there are the Hittites, Jebusites, and Amorites; down along the coast of the Mediterranean Sea and in the Jordan River valley are the Canaanites."

<sup>30</sup> But Caleb reassured the people as they stood before Moses. "Let us go up at once and possess it," he said, "for we are well able to conquer it!"

<sup>31</sup> "Not against people as strong as they are!" the other spies said. "They would crush us!"

<sup>32</sup> So the majority report of the spies was negative: "The land is full of warriors, the people are powerfully built, <sup>33</sup> and we saw some of the Anakim there, descendants of the ancient race of giants. We felt like grasshoppers before them, they were so tall!"

14 THEN ALL THE people began weeping aloud, and they carried on all night. <sup>2</sup> Their voices rose in a great chorus of complaint against Moses and Aaron.

"We wish we had died in Egypt," they wailed, "or even here in the wilderness, <sup>3</sup> rather than be taken into this country ahead of us. Jehovah will kill us there, and our wives and little ones will become slaves. Let's get out of here and return to Egypt!"<sup>4</sup> The idea swept the camp. "Let's elect a leader to take us back to Egypt!" they shouted.

<sup>5</sup> Then Moses and Aaron fell face downward on the ground before the people of Israel; <sup>6</sup> two of the spies, Joshua (the son of Nun), and Caleb (the son of Jephunneh), ripped their clothing <sup>7</sup> and said to all the people, "It is a wonderful country ahead, <sup>8</sup> and the Lord loves us. He will bring us safely into the land and give it to us. It is very fertile, a land 'flowing with milk and honey'!" <sup>9</sup> Oh, do not rebel against the Lord, and do not fear the people of the land. For they are but bread for us to eat! The Lord is with us and he has removed his protection from them! Don't be afraid of them!"

<sup>10,11</sup> But the only response of the people was to talk of stoning them. Then the glory of the Lord appeared, and the Lord said to Moses, "How long will these people despise me? Will they never believe me, even after all the miracles I have done among them? <sup>12</sup> I will disinherit them and destroy them with a plague, and I will make you into a nation far greater and mightier than they are!"

<sup>13</sup> "But what will the Egyptians think when they hear about it?" Moses pleaded with the Lord. "They know full well the power you displayed in rescuing your people. <sup>14</sup> They have told this to the inhabitants of this land, who are well aware that you are with Israel and that you talk with her face to face.

They see the pillar of cloud and fire standing above us, and they know that you lead and protect us day and night. <sup>15</sup> Now if you kill all your people, the nations that have heard your fame will say, <sup>16</sup> 'The Lord had to kill them because he wasn't able to take care of them in the wilderness. He wasn't strong enough to bring them into the land he swore he would give them.'

<sup>20,21</sup> Then the Lord said, "All right, I will pardon them as you have requested. But I vow by my own name that just as it is true that all the earth shall be filled with the glory of the Lord, <sup>22</sup> so it is true that not one of the men who has seen my glory and the miracles I did both in Egypt and in the wilderness—and ten times refused to trust me and obey me—<sup>23</sup> shall even see the land I promised to this people's ancestors. <sup>24</sup> But my servant Caleb is a different kind of man—he has obeyed me fully. I will bring him into the land he entered as a spy, and his descendants shall have their full share in it. <sup>25</sup> But now, since the people of Israel are so afraid of the Amalekites and the Canaanites living in the valleys, tomorrow you must turn back into the wilderness in the direction of the Red Sea."

<sup>26,27</sup> Then the Lord added to Moses and to Aaron, "How long will these wicked people complain about me? For I have heard all that they have been saying. <sup>28</sup> Tell them, 'The Lord vows to do to you what you feared: <sup>29</sup> You will all die here in this wilderness! Not a single one of you twenty years old and older, who has complained against me, <sup>30</sup> shall enter the Promised Land. Only Caleb (son of Jephunneh) and Joshua (son of Nun) are permitted to enter it.

<sup>31</sup> "You said your children would become slaves of the people of the land. Well, instead I will bring them safely into the land and they shall inherit what you have despised. <sup>32</sup> But as for you, your dead bodies shall fall in this wilderness. <sup>33</sup> You must wander in the desert like nomads for forty years. In this way you will pay for your faithlessness, until the last of you lies dead in the desert.

<sup>34,35</sup> "Since the spies were in the land for forty days, you must wander in the wilderness for forty years—a year for each day, bearing the burden of your sins. I will teach you what it means to reject me. I, Jehovah, have spoken. Every one of you who has conspired against me shall die here in this wilderness."

<sup>36,37,38</sup> Then the ten spies who had incited the rebellion against Jehovah by striking fear into the hearts of the people were struck dead before the Lord. Of all the spies, only Joshua and Caleb remained alive. <sup>39</sup> What sorrow there was throughout the camp when Moses reported God's words to the people!

<sup>40</sup> They were up early the next morning, and started towards the Promised Land.

"Here we are!" they said. "We realize that we have sinned, but now we are ready to go on into the land the Lord has promised us."

<sup>41</sup> But Moses said, "It's too late. Now you are disobeying the Lord's orders to return to the wilderness. <sup>42</sup> Don't go ahead with your plan or you will be crushed by your enemies, for the Lord is not with you. <sup>43</sup> Don't you remember? The Amalekites and the Canaanites are there! You have deserted the Lord, and now he will desert you."

15 THE LORD TOLD Moses to give these instructions to the people of Israel: "When your children finally live in the land I am going to give them, <sup>34</sup> and they want to please the Lord with a burnt offering or any other offering by fire, their sacrifice must be an animal from their flocks of sheep and goats, or from their herds of cattle. Each sacrifice—whether an ordinary one, or a sacrifice to fulfill a vow, or a free-will offering, or a special sacrifice at any of the annual festivals—must be accompanied by a grain offering. If a lamb is being sacrificed, use three quarts of fine flour mixed with three pints of oil, <sup>3</sup> accompanied by three pints of wine for a drink offering.

<sup>6</sup> "If the sacrifice is a ram, use six quarts of fine flour mixed with four pints of oil, <sup>7</sup> and four pints of wine for a drink offering. This will be a sacrifice that is a pleasing fragrance to the Lord.

<sup>8,9</sup> "If the sacrifice is a young bull, then the grain offering accompanying it must consist of nine quarts of fine flour mixed with three quarts of oil, <sup>10</sup> plus three quarts of wine for the drink offering. This shall be offered by fire as a pleasing fragrance to the Lord.

<sup>17,18</sup> The Lord also said to Moses at this time, "Instruct the people of Israel that when they arrive in the land that I am going to give them, <sup>19,20,21</sup> they must present to the Lord a sample of each year's new crops by making a loaf, using coarse flour from the first grain that is cut each year. This loaf must be waved back and forth before the altar in a gesture of offering to the Lord. It is an annual offering from your threshing floor, and must be observed from generation to generation.

generations fail to carry out all of these regulations which the Lord has given you over the years through Moses, <sup>23,24</sup> then when the people realize their error, they must offer one young bull for a burnt offering. It will be a pleasant odor before the Lord, and must be offered along with the usual grain offering and drink offering, and one male goat for a sin offering. <sup>25</sup> And the priest shall make atonement for all of the people of Israel and they shall be forgiven; for it was an error, and they have corrected it with their sacrifice made by fire before the Lord, and by their sin offering. <sup>26</sup> All the people shall be forgiven, including the foreigners living among them, for the entire population is involved in such error and forgiveness.

on the Sabbath day. <sup>33</sup> He was arrested and taken before Moses and Aaron and the other judges.<sup>c</sup> <sup>34</sup> They jailed him until they could find out the Lord's mind concerning him.

<sup>35</sup> Then the Lord said to Moses, "The man must die—all the people shall stone him to death outside the camp."

16 ONE DAY KORAH (son of Izhar, grandson of Kohath, and a descendant of Levi) conspired with Dathan and Abiram (the sons of Eliab) and On (the son of Peleth), all three from the tribe of Reuben, <sup>2</sup> to incite a rebellion against Moses. Two hundred and fifty popular leaders, all members of the Assembly, were involved.

<sup>3</sup> They went to Moses and Aaron and said, "We have had enough of your presumption; you are no better than anyone else; everyone in Israel has been chosen of the Lord, and he is with all of us. What right do you have to put yourselves forward, claiming that we must obey you, and acting as though you were greater than anyone else among all these people of the Lord?"

<sup>4</sup> When Moses heard what they were saying he fell face downward to the ground. <sup>5</sup> Then he said to Korah and to those who were with him, "In the morning the Lord will show you who are his, and who is holy, and whom he has chosen as his priest. <sup>6,7</sup> Do this: You, Korah, and all those with you, take censers tomorrow and light them, and put incense upon them before the Lord, and we will find out whom the Lord has chosen.<sup>a</sup> You are the presumptuous ones, you sons of Levi."

<sup>8,9</sup> Then Moses spoke again to Korah: "Does it seem a small thing to you that the God of Israel has chosen you from among all the people of Israel to be near to himself as you work in the Tabernacle of Jehovah, and to stand before the people to minister to them? <sup>10</sup> Is it nothing to you that he has given this task to only you Levites? And now are you demanding the priesthood also? <sup>11,12</sup> That is what you are really after! That is why you are revolting against Jehovah. And what has Aaron done, that you are dissatisfied with him?" Then Moses summoned Dathan and Abiram (the sons of Eliab), but they refused

<sup>20</sup> But Moses and Aaron fell face downward to the ground before the Lord. "O God, the God of all mankind," they pleaded, "must you be angry with all the people when one man sins?"

<sup>26</sup> And Moses said, "By this you shall know that Jehovah has sent me to do all these things that I have done—for I have not done them on my own. <sup>27</sup> If these men die a natural death or from some ordinary accident or disease, then Jehovah has not sent me. <sup>28</sup> But if the Lord does a miracle and the ground opens up and swallows them and everything that belongs to them, and they go down alive into Sheol, then you will know that these men have despised the Lord."

<sup>29</sup> He had hardly finished speaking the words when the ground suddenly split open beneath them, <sup>30</sup> and a great fissure swallowed them up, along with their tents and families and the friends who were standing with them, and everything they owned. <sup>31</sup> So they went down alive into Sheol and the earth closed upon them, and they perished. <sup>32</sup> All of the people of Israel fled at their screams, fearing that the earth would swallow them too. <sup>35</sup> Then fire came forth from Jehovah and burned up the 250 men who were offering incense.

<sup>36,37</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, "Tell Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest to pull those censers from the fire; for they are holy, dedicated to the Lord. He must also scatter the burning incense <sup>38</sup> from the censers of these men who have sinned at the cost of their lives. He shall then beat the metal into a sheet as a covering for the altar, for these censers are holy because they were used before the Lord; and the altar sheet shall be a reminder to the people of Israel."

them." But Moses and Aaron fell face downward to the earth before the Lord.

<sup>46</sup> And Moses said to Aaron, "Quick, take a censer and place fire in it from the altar; lay incense on it, and carry it quickly among the people and make atonement for them; for God's anger has gone out among them—the plague has already begun."

<sup>47</sup> Aaron did as Moses had told him to, and ran among the people, for the plague had indeed already begun; and he put on the incense and made atonement for them. <sup>48</sup> And he stood between the living and the dead, and the plague was stopped, <sup>49</sup> but not before 14,700 people had died (in addition to those who had died the previous day with Korah). <sup>50</sup> Then Aaron returned to Moses at the entrance of the Tabernacle; and so the plague was stopped.

17 THEN THE LORD said to Moses, "Tell the people of Israel that each of their tribal chiefs is to bring you a wooden rod with his name inscribed upon it. Aaron's name is to be on the rod of the tribe of Levi. <sup>2</sup> Put these rods in the inner room of the Tabernacle where I meet with you, in front of the Ark. <sup>3</sup> I will use these rods to identify the man I have chosen: for buds will grow on his rod! Then at last this murmuring and complaining against you will stop!"

went in the next day, he found that Aaron's rod, representing the tribe of Levi, had budded and was blossoming, and had ripe almonds hanging from it!

<sup>9</sup> When Moses brought them out to show the others, they stared in disbelief! Then each man except Aaron claimed his rod. <sup>10</sup> The Lord told Moses to place Aaron's rod permanently beside the Ark as a reminder of this rebellion. He was to [bring it out and show it to the people again] if there were any further complaints about Aaron's authority; this would ward off further catastrophe to the people. <sup>11</sup> So Moses did as the Lord commanded him.

<sup>12,13</sup> But the people of Israel only grumbled the more. "We are as good as dead," they whined. "Everyone who even comes close to the Tabernacle dies. Must we all perish?"

18 THE LORD NOW spoke to Aaron: "You and your sons and your family are responsible for any desecration of the sanctuary," he said, "and will be held liable for any impropriety in your priestly work. <sup>2</sup> Your kinsmen, the tribe of Levi, are your assistants; but only you and your sons may perform the sacred duties in the Tabernacle itself. The Levites must be careful not to touch any of the sacred articles or the altar, lest I destroy both them and you. <sup>4</sup> No one who is not a member of the tribe of Levi shall assist you in any way. <sup>5</sup> Remember, only the priests are to perform the sacred duties within the sanctuary and at the altar. If you follow these instructions the wrath of God will never again fall upon any of the people of Israel for violating this law. <sup>6</sup> I say it again—your kinsmen the Levites are your assistants for the work of the Tabernacle. They are a gift to you from the Lord. <sup>7</sup> But you and your sons, the priests, shall personally handle all the sacred service, including the altar and all that is within the veil, for the priesthood is your special gift of service. Anyone else who attempts to perform these duties shall die."

everything that is dedicated to the Lord shall be yours, including the firstborn sons of the people of Israel, and the firstborn of their animals.<sup>16</sup> However, you may never accept the firstborn sons, nor the firstborn of any animals that I do not permit for food. Instead, there must be a payment of two and a half dollars made for each firstborn child. It is to be brought when he is one month old.

<sup>20</sup> "You priests may own no property, nor have any other income, for I am all that you need.<sup>21</sup> As for the tribe of Levi, your relatives, they shall be paid for their service with the tithes from the entire land of Israel.

<sup>22</sup> "From now on, Israelites other than the priests and Levites shall not enter the sanctuary, lest they be judged guilty and die.<sup>23</sup> Only the Levites shall do the work there, and they shall be guilty if they fail. This is a permanent law among you, that the Levites shall own no property in Israel,<sup>24</sup> for the people's tithes, offered to the Lord by the gesture of waving before the altar, shall belong to the Levites; these are their inheritance, and so they have no need for property."

<sup>25,26</sup> The Lord also said to Moses, "Tell the Levites to give to the Lord a tenth of the tithes they receive—a tithe of the tithe, to be presented to the Lord by the gesture of waving before the altar.<sup>27</sup> The Lord will consider this as your first-of-the-harvest offering to him of grain and wine, as though it were from your own property.<sup>28,29</sup> This tithe of the tithe shall be selected from the choicest part of the tithes you receive as the Lord's portion, and shall be given to Aaron the priest.<sup>30</sup> It shall be credited to you just as though it were from your own threshing floor and wine press.<sup>31</sup> Aaron and his sons and their families may eat it in their homes or anywhere they wish, for it is their compensation for their service in the Tabernacle.<sup>32</sup> You Levites will not be held guilty for accepting the Lord's tithes if you then give the best tenth to the priests. But beware that you do not treat the holy gifts of the people of Israel as though they were common, lest you die."

19 THE LORD SAID to Moses and Aaron, "Here is another of my laws:

"Tell the people of Israel to bring you a red heifer without defect, one that has never been yoked. Give her to Eleazar the priest and he shall take her outside the camp and someone shall kill her as he watches. <sup>4</sup> Eleazar shall take some of her blood upon his finger and sprinkle it seven times towards the front of the Tabernacle. <sup>5</sup> Then someone shall burn the heifer as he watches—her hide, meat, blood, and dung. <sup>6</sup> Eleazar shall take cedar wood and hyssop branches and scarlet thread, and throw them into the burning pile.

<sup>7</sup> "Then he must wash his clothes, and bathe, and afterwards return to the camp and be ceremonially defiled until the evening. <sup>8</sup> And the one who burns the animal must wash his clothes, and bathe, and he too shall be defiled until evening. <sup>9</sup> Then someone who is not ceremonially defiled shall gather up the ashes of the heifer and place them in some purified place outside the camp, where they shall be kept for the people of Israel as a source of water for the purification ceremonies, for removal of sin. <sup>10</sup> And the one who gathers up the ashes of the heifer must wash his clothes and be defiled until evening; this is a permanent law for the benefit of the people of Israel and any foreigners living among them.

<sup>11</sup> "Anyone who touches a dead human body shall be defiled for seven days, <sup>12</sup> and must purify himself the third and seventh days with water [run through the ashes of the red heifer<sup>a</sup>]; then he will be purified; but if he does not do this on the third day, he will continue to be defiled even after the seventh day.

Tabernacle of the Lord, and shall be excommunicated from Israel. The cleansing water was not sprinkled upon him, so the defilement continues.

<sup>14</sup> "When a man dies in a tent, these are the various regulations: Everyone who enters the tent, and those who are in it at the time, shall be defiled seven days. <sup>15</sup> Any container in the tent without a lid over it is defiled.

<sup>16</sup> "If someone out in a field touches the corpse of someone who has been killed in battle, or who has died in any other way, or if he even touches a bone or a grave, he shall be defiled seven days. <sup>17</sup> To become purified again, ashes from the red heifer sin offering<sup>b</sup> are to be added to spring water in a kettle. <sup>18</sup> Then a person who is not defiled shall take hyssop branches and dip them into the water and sprinkle the water upon the tent and upon all the pots and pans in the tent, and upon anyone who has been defiled by being in the tent, or by touching a bone, or touching someone who has been killed or is otherwise dead, or has touched a grave. <sup>19</sup> This shall take place on the third and seventh days; then the defiled person must wash his clothes, and bathe himself, and that evening he will be out from under the defilement.

<sup>20</sup> "But anyone who is defiled and doesn't purify himself shall be excommunicated, for he has defiled the sanctuary of the Lord, and the water to cleanse him has not been sprinkled upon him; so he remains defiled. <sup>21</sup> This is a permanent law. The man who sprinkles the water must afterwards wash his clothes; and anyone touching the water shall be defiled until evening.<sup>22</sup> And anything a defiled person touches shall be defiled until evening."

20 THE PEOPLE OF Israel arrived in the wilderness of Zin in April<sup>a</sup> and camped at Kadesh, where Miriam died and was buried.<sup>2</sup> There was not enough water to drink at that place, so the people again rebelled against Moses and Aaron. A great mob formed,<sup>3</sup> and they held a protest meeting.

"Would that we too had died with our dear brothers the Lord killed!" they shouted at Moses.<sup>4</sup> "You have deliberately brought us into this wilderness to get rid of us, along with our flocks and herds.<sup>5</sup> Why did you ever make us leave Egypt and bring us here to this evil place? Where is the fertile land of wonderful crops—the figs, vines, and pomegranates you told us about? Why, there isn't even water enough to drink!"

<sup>6</sup> Moses and Aaron turned away and went to the entrance of the Tabernacle, where they fell face downward before the Lord; and the glory of Jehovah appeared to them.

<sup>7</sup> And he said to Moses, <sup>8</sup> "Get Aaron's<sup>b</sup> rod; then you and Aaron must summon the people. As they watch, speak to that rock over there and tell it to pour out its water! You will give them water from a rock, enough for all the people and all their cattle!"

<sup>9</sup> So Moses did as instructed. He took the rod from the place where it was kept before the Lord;<sup>10</sup> then Moses and Aaron summoned the people to come and gather at the rock; and he said to them, "Listen, you rebels! Must we bring you water from this rock?"

<sup>11</sup> Then Moses lifted the rod and struck the rock twice, and water gushed out; and the people and their cattle drank.

<sup>12</sup> But the Lord said to Moses and Aaron, "Because you did not believe me<sup>c</sup> and did not sanctify me in the eyes of the people of Israel, you shall not bring them into the land I have promised them!"

<sup>13</sup> This place was named Meribah (meaning "Rebel Waters"), because it was where the people of Israel fought against Jehovah, and where he showed himself to be holy before them.

<sup>14</sup> While Moses was at Kadesh he sent messengers to the king of Edom: "We are the descendants of your brother<sup>d</sup> Israel," he declared. "You know our sad history,<sup>15</sup> how our ancestors went down to visit Egypt and stayed there so long, and became slaves of the Egyptians.<sup>16</sup> But when we cried to the Lord he heard us and sent an Angel who brought us out of Egypt, and now we are here at Kadesh, encamped on the borders of your land.<sup>17</sup> Please let us pass through your country. We will be careful not to go through your planted fields, nor through your vineyards; we won't even drink water from your wells, but will stay on the main road and not leave it until we have crossed your border on the other side."

<sup>18</sup> But the king of Edom said, "Stay out! If you attempt to enter my land I will meet you with an army!"

<sup>19</sup> "But, sir," protested the Israeli ambassadors, "we will stay on the main road and will not even drink your water unless we pay whatever you demand for it. We only want to pass through, and nothing else."

<sup>21,22</sup> Because Edom refused to allow Israel to pass through their country, Israel turned back and journeyed from Kadesh to Mount Hor.

Eleazar; and Aaron died on the top of the mountain. Moses and Eleazar returned, <sup>29</sup> and when the people were informed of Aaron's death, they mourned for him for thirty days.

21 WHEN THE KING of Arad heard that the Israelis were approaching (for they were traveling the same route as the spies), he mobilized his army and attacked Israel, taking some of the men as prisoners. <sup>2</sup> Then the people of Israel vowed to the Lord that if he would help them conquer the king of Arad and his people, they would completely annihilate all the cities of that area. <sup>3</sup> The Lord heeded their request and defeated the Canaanites; and the Israelis completely destroyed them and their cities. The name of the region was thereafter called Hormah (meaning "Utterly Destroyed").

<sup>4</sup> Then the people of Israel returned to Mount Hor, and from there continued southward along the road to the Red Sea in order to go around the land of Edom. The people were very discouraged; <sup>5</sup> they began to murmur against God and to complain against Moses. "Why have you brought us out of Egypt to die here in the wilderness?" they whined. "There is nothing to eat here, and nothing to drink, and we hate this insipid manna."

and cried out, "We have sinned, for we have spoken against Jehovah and against you. Pray to him to take away the snakes." Moses prayed for the people.

<sup>10</sup> Israel journeyed next to Obboth and camped there. <sup>11</sup> Then they went on to Iye-abarim, in the wilderness, a short distance east of Moab, <sup>12</sup> and from there they traveled to the valley of the brook Zared and set up camp. <sup>13</sup> Then they moved to the far side of the Arnon River, near the borders of the Amorites. (The Arnon River is the boundary line between the Moabites and the Amorites. <sup>14</sup> This fact is mentioned in The Book of the Wars of Jehovah, where it is stated that the valley of the Arnon River, and the city of Waheb, <sup>15</sup> lie between the Amorites and the people of Moab.)

<sup>16</sup> Then Israel traveled to Beer (meaning "A Well"). This is the place where the Lord told Moses, "Summon the people, and I will give them water." <sup>17,18</sup> What happened is described in this song that the people sang:

Spring up, O well!
Sing of the water!
This is a well

The leaders dug.
It was hollowed
With their staves
And shovels.

Then they left the desert and proceeded on through Mattanah, <sup>19</sup> Nahaliel, and Bamoth; <sup>20</sup> then to the valley in the plateau of Moab, which overlooks the desert with Mount Pisgah in the distance. <sup>21</sup> Israel now sent ambassadors to King Sihon of the Amorites.

<sup>22</sup> "Let us travel through your land," they requested. "We will not leave the road until we have passed beyond your borders. We won't trample your fields or touch your vineyards or drink your water."

<sup>25,26</sup> So Israel captured all the cities of the Amorites and lived in them, including the city of Heshbon, which had been King Sihon's capital. <sup>27-30</sup> The ancient poets had referred to King Sihon in this poem:

Come to Heshbon,
King Sihon's capital,
For a fire has flamed forth
And devoured
The city of Ar in Moab,
On the heights of the Arnon River.
Woe to Moab!

<sup>a</sup> Literally, "Make a fiery serpent." Ammon was strong." Deuteronomy 2:19 indicates that God had promised the land of the Ammonites to the descendants of Lot.

<sup>b</sup> Literally, "For the border of the children of Ammon was strong." Deuteronomy 2:19 indicates that God had promised the land of the Ammonites to the descendants of Lot.

You are finished,
O people of Chemosh;
His sons have fled,
And his daughters are captured

By King Sihon of the Amorites.

He has destroyed
The little children
And the men and women
As far as Dibon, Nophah, and Medeba.

<sup>31,32</sup> While Israel was there in the Amorite country, Moses sent spies to look over the Jazer area; he followed up with an armed attack, capturing all of the towns and driving out the Amorites. <sup>33</sup> They next turned their attention to the city of Bashan, but King Og of Bashan met them with his army at Edre-i. <sup>34</sup> The Lord told Moses not to fear—that the enemy was already conquered! “The same thing will happen to King Og as happened to King Sihon at Heshbon,” the Lord assured him. <sup>35</sup> And sure enough, Israel was victorious and killed King Og, his sons, and his subjects, so that not a single survivor remained; and Israel occupied the land.

22 THE PEOPLE OF Israel now traveled to the plains of Moab and camped east of the Jordan River opposite Jericho. <sup>23</sup> When King Balak of Moab (the son of Zippor) realized how many of them there were, and when he learned what they had done to the Amorites, he and his people were terrified. <sup>4</sup> They quickly consulted with the leaders of Midian.

So King Balak <sup>5,6</sup> sent messengers to Balaam (son of Beor) who was living in his native land of Pethor, near the Euphrates River. He begged Balaam to come and help him.

“A vast horde of people has arrived from Egypt, and they cover the face of the earth and are headed toward me,” he frantically explained. “Please come and curse them for me, so that I can drive them out of my land; for I know what fantastic blessings fall on those whom you bless, and I also know that those whom you curse are doomed.”

<sup>7</sup> The messengers he sent were some of the top leaders of Moab and Midian. They went to Balaam with money in hand, and urgently explained to him what Balak wanted.

<sup>8</sup> “Stay here overnight,” Balaam said, “and I’ll tell you in the morning whatever the Lord directs me to say.” So they did.

<sup>14</sup> So King Balak’s ambassadors returned without him and reported his refusal. <sup>15</sup> Balak tried again. This time he sent a larger number of even more distinguished ambassadors than the former group.

<sup>16,17</sup> They came to Balaam with this message:

"King Balak pleads with you to come. He promises you great honors plus any payment you ask. Name your own figure! Only come and curse these people for us."

<sup>18</sup> But Balaam replied, "If he were to give me a palace filled with silver and gold, I could do nothing contrary to the command of the Lord my God. <sup>19</sup> However, stay here tonight so that I can find out whether the Lord will add anything to what he said before."

<sup>21</sup> So the next morning he saddled his donkey and started off with them. <sup>22,23</sup> But God was angry about Balaam's eager attitude,<sup>a</sup> so he sent an angel to stand in the road to kill him. As Balaam and two servants were riding along, Balaam's donkey suddenly saw the angel of the Lord standing in the road with a drawn sword. She bolted off the road into a field, but Balaam beat her back onto the road. <sup>24</sup> Now the angel of the Lord stood at a place where the road went between two vineyard walls. <sup>25</sup> When the donkey saw him standing there, she squirmed past by pressing against the wall, crushing Balaam's foot in the process. So he beat her again. <sup>26</sup> Then the angel of the Lord moved farther down the road and stood in a place so narrow that the donkey couldn't get by at all. <sup>27</sup> So she lay down in the road! In a great fit of temper Balaam beat her again with his staff.

<sup>28</sup> Then the Lord caused the donkey to speak! "What have I done that deserves your beating me these three times?" she asked.

<sup>29</sup> "Because you have made me look like a fool!" Balaam shouted. "I wish I had a sword with me, for I would kill you."

<sup>30</sup> "Have I ever done anything like this before in my entire life?" the donkey asked.

"No," he admitted.

<sup>31</sup> Then the Lord opened Balaam's eyes and he saw the angel standing in the roadway with drawn sword, and he fell flat on the ground before him.

<sup>32</sup> "Why did you beat your donkey those three times?" the angel demanded. "I have come to stop you because you are headed for destruction. <sup>33</sup> Three times the donkey saw me and shied away from me; otherwise I would certainly have killed you by now, and spared her."

<sup>34</sup> Then Balaam confessed, "I have sinned. I didn't realize you were there. I will go back home if you don't want me to go on."

<sup>35</sup> But the angel told him, "Go with the men, but say only what I tell you to say." So Balaam went on with them. <sup>36</sup> When King Balak heard that Balaam was on the way, he left the capital and went out to meet him at the Arnon River, at the border of his land.

<sup>37</sup> "Why did you delay so long?" he asked Balaam. "Didn't you believe me when I said I would give you great honors?"

except what God tells me to say; and that is what I shall speak."<sup>9</sup> Balaam accompanied the king to Kiriathhuzoth, <sup>40</sup> where King Balak sacrificed oxen and sheep, and gave animals to Balaam and the ambassadors for their sacrifices. <sup>41</sup> The next morning Balak took Balaam to the top of Mount Bamoth-baal, from which he could see the people of Israel spread out before him.

23 BALAAM SAID TO the king, "Build seven altars here, and prepare seven young bulls and seven rams for sacrifice."

<sup>3,4</sup> Then Balaam said to the king, "Stand here by your burnt offerings and I will see if the Lord will meet me; and I will tell you what he says to me." So he went up to a barren height, and God met him there. Balaam told the Lord, "I have prepared seven altars, and have sacrificed a young bull and a ram on each." <sup>5</sup> Then the Lord gave Balaam a message for King Balak.

"King Balak, king of Moab, has brought me
From the land of Aram,
From the eastern mountains.
'Come,' he told me, 'curse
Jacob for me!
Let your anger rise on Israel.'
But how can I curse
What God has not cursed?
How can I denounce

A people God has not denounced?

I see them from the cliff tops,
I watch them from the hills.
They live alone,
And prefer to remain distinct
From every other nation.
They are as numerous as dust!

They are beyond numbering.
If only I could die as happy as an Israelite!

Oh, that my end might be like theirs!"

<sup>11</sup> "What have you done to me?" demanded King Balak. "I told you to curse my enemies, and now you have blessed them!"

<sup>13</sup> Then Balak told him, "Come with me to another place; there you will see only a portion of the nation of Israel. Curse at least that many!"

<sup>14</sup> So King Balak took Balaam into the fields of Zophim at the top of Mount Pisgah, and built seven altars there; and he offered up a young bull and a ram on each altar.

<sup>15</sup> Then Balaam said to the king, "Stand here by your burnt offering while I go to meet the Lord." <sup>16</sup> And the Lord met Balaam and told him what to say. <sup>17</sup> So he returned to where the king and the princes of Moab were standing beside their burnt offerings.

"What has Jehovah said?" the king eagerly inquired.

<sup>18-24</sup> And he replied,

"Rise up, Balak, and hear:
Listen to me, you son of Zip-por.
God is not a man, that he should lie;

He doesn't change his mind like humans do.

Has he ever promised,
Without doing what he said?
Look! I have received a command to bless them,

For God has blessed them,
And I cannot reverse it!

He has not seen sin in Jacob.
He will not trouble Israel!
Jehovah their God is with them.

He is their king!
God has brought them out of Egypt.

Israel has the strength of a wild ox.

No curse can be placed on Jacob,

And no magic shall be done against him.

For now it shall be said of Israel,

"What wonders God has done for them!"

These people rise up as a lion;
They shall not lie down

Until they have eaten what they capture

And have drunk the blood of the slain!"

<sup>25</sup> "If you aren't going to curse them, at least don't bless them!" the king exclaimed to Balaam.

tell you that I must say whatever Jehovah tells me to?"

<sup>27</sup> Then the king said to Balaam,
"I will take you to yet another place. Perhaps it will please God to let you curse them from there."

<sup>28</sup> So King Balak took Balaam to the top of Mount Peor, overlooking the desert. <sup>29</sup> Balaam again told the king to build seven altars, and to prepare seven young bulls and seven rams for the sacrifice. <sup>30</sup> The king did as Balaam said, and offered a young bull and ram on every altar.

24 BALAAM REALIZED BY now that Jehovah planned to bless Israel, so he didn't even go to meet the Lord as he had earlier. Instead, he went at once and looked out toward the camp of Israel <sup>2</sup> which stretched away across the plains, divided by tribal areas.

Then the Spirit of God came upon him, <sup>3-9</sup> and he spoke this prophecy concerning them:

"Balaam the son of Beor says that

The man whose eyes are open says,

"I have listened to the word of God,

I have seen what God Almighty showed me;

I fell, and my eyes were opened:

Oh, the joys awaiting Israel,
Joys in the homes of Jacob.

I see them spread before me as green valleys,

And fruitful gardens by the riverside;

As aloes planted by the Lord himself;

As cedar trees beside the waters.

They shall be blessed with an abundance of water,

And they shall live in many places.

Their king will be greater than Agag;

Their kingdom is exalted.
God has brought them from Egypt.

Israel has the strength of a wild ox,
And shall eat up the nations that oppose him;
He shall break their bones in pieces,
And shall shoot them with many arrows.
Israel sleeps as a lion or a lioness—
Who dares arouse him?
Blessed is everyone who blesses you, O Israel,
And curses shall fall upon everyone who curses you.' "

by now. Striking his hands together in anger and disgust he shouted, "I called you to curse my enemies and instead you have blessed them three times.

home! I had planned to promote you to great honor, but Jehovah has kept you from it!"

<sup>12</sup> Balaam replied, "Didn't I tell your messengers <sup>11</sup> that even if you gave me a palace filled with silver and gold, I could not go beyond the words of Jehovah, and could not say a word of my own? I said that I would say only what Jehovah says!"

<sup>14</sup> "Yes, I shall return now to my own people. But first, let me tell you what the Israelites are going to do to your people!"

<sup>13, 19</sup> So he spoke this prophecy to him:

"Balaam the son of Beor is the man Whose eyes are open!
He hears the words of God
And has knowledge from the Most High;
He sees what Almighty God has shown him;

He fell, and his eyes were opened:
I see in the future of Israel,
Far down the distant trail,
That there shall come a star from Jacob!
This ruler of Israel
Shall smite the people of Moab,
And destroy the sons of Sheth.
Israel shall possess all Edom and Seir.
They shall overcome their enemies.
Jacob shall arise in power
And shall destroy many cities."

the homes of the people of Amalek and prophesied;

"Amalek was the first of the nations,
But its destiny is destruction!"

<sup>21, 22</sup> Then he looked over at the Kenites:

"Yes, you are strongly situated,
Your nest is set in the rocks!
But the Kenites shall be destroyed,
And the mighty army of the king of Assyria shall deport you from this land!"

by saying:

"Alas, who can live when God does this?
Ships shall come from the coasts of Cyprus,
And shall oppress both Eber and Assyria.
They too must be de-

25 WHILE ISRAEL WAS camped at Acacia, some of the young men began going to wild parties with the local Moabite girls.<sup>2</sup> These girls also invited them to attend the sacrifices to their gods, and soon the men were not only attending the feasts, but also bowing down and worshipping the idols.

“Execute all the tribal leaders of Israel. Hang them up before the Lord in broad daylight, so that his fierce anger will turn away from the people.”

He thrust the spear all the way through the man's body and into her stomach. So the plague was stopped,<sup>9</sup> but only after 24,000 people had already died.

<sup>10,11</sup> Then the Lord said to Moses, “Phinehas (son of Eleazar and grandson of Aaron the priest) has turned away my anger, for he was as angry as I, concerning my honor; so I have stopped destroying all Israel as I had intended.<sup>12,13</sup> Now because of what he has done—because of his zeal for his God, and because he has made atonement for the people of Israel by what he did—I promise that he and his descendants shall be priests forever.”

<sup>16,17</sup> Then the Lord said to Moses, “Destroy the Midianites,<sup>18</sup> for they are destroying you with their wives. They are causing you to worship Baal, and they are leading you astray, as you have just seen by the death of Cozbi.”

26 AFTER THE PLAGUE had ended, Jehovah said to Moses and to Eleazar (son of Aaron the priest), <sup>2</sup> “Take a census of all the men of Israel who are twenty years old or older, to find out how many of each tribe and clan are able to go to war.”

<sup>3,4</sup> So Moses and Eleazar issued census instructions to the leaders of Israel. (The entire nation was camped in the plains of Moab beside the Jordan River, opposite Jericho.) Here are the results of the census:

a But not before Balaam gave insidious advice that brought about the situation described in Numbers 25:1-3. See Numbers 31:16.

This Dathan and Abiram were the two leaders who conspired with Korah against Moses and Aaron, and in fact challenged the very authority of God! But the earth opened and swallowed them; and 250 men were destroyed by fire from the Lord that day, as a warning to the entire nation.)

The 32,500 registered in the half-tribe of Ephraim included the following clans, named after the sons of Ephraim:

The Jahzeelites, named after their ancestor Jahzeel.

The Gunites, named after their ancestor Guni.

The Jezerites, named after their ancestor Jezer.

The Shillemites, named after their ancestor Shillem.

drawing for the larger sections," the Lord instructed, "and let the smaller tribes draw for the smaller sections."

The Gershonites, named after their ancestor Gershon.

The Kohathites, named after their ancestor Kohath.

The Merarites, named after their ancestor Merari.

The Libnites, the Hebronites, The Mahlites, the Mushites, The Korahites.

While Levi was in Egypt, a daughter, Jochebed, was born to him and she became the wife of Amram, son of Kohath. They were the parents of Aaron, Moses, and Miriam. <sup>60</sup> To Aaron were born Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. <sup>61</sup> But Nadab and Abihu died when they offered unholy fire before the Lord.

<sup>62</sup> The total number of Levites in the census was 23,000, counting all the males a month old and upward. But the Levites were not included in the total census figure of the people of Israel, for the Levites were given no land when it was divided among the tribes. <sup>63</sup> So these are the census figures as prepared by Moses and Eleazar the priest, in the plains of Moab beside the Jordan River, across from Jericho. <sup>64,65</sup> Not one person in this entire census had been counted<sup>a</sup> in the previous census taken in the wilderness of Sinai

<sup>a</sup> Forty years earlier, at the time of the first census, they had been under twenty years of age, and so were not counted. All who at that time were older than twenty years of age were now dead.

For all who had been counted then had died, as the Lord had decreed when he said of them, "They shall die in the wilderness." The only exceptions were Caleb (son of Jephunneh) and Joshua (son of Nun).

27 ONE DAY THE daughters of Zelophehad came to the entrance of the Tabernacle to give a petition to Moses, Eleazar the priest, the tribal leaders, and others who were there. These women were of the half-tribe of Manasseh (a son of Joseph). Their ancestor was Machir, son of Manasseh. Manasseh's son Gilead was their great-grandfather, his son Hephher was their grandfather, and his son Zelophehad was their father.

<sup>3,4</sup> "Our father died in the wilderness," they said, "and he was not one of those who perished in Korah's revolt against the Lord—it was a natural death, but he had no sons. Why should the name of our father disappear just because he had no son? We feel that we should be given property along with our father's brothers."

<sup>6,7</sup> And the Lord replied to Moses, "The daughters of Zelophehad are correct. Give them land along with their uncles; give them the property that would have been given to their father if he had lived.

<sup>8</sup> Moreover, this is a general law among you, that if a man dies and has no sons, then his inheritance shall be passed on to his daughters. <sup>9</sup> And if he has no daughter, it shall belong to his brothers. <sup>10</sup> And if he has no brother, then it shall go to his uncles. <sup>11</sup> But if he has no uncles, then it shall go to the nearest relative."

<sup>12</sup> One day the Lord said to Moses, "Go up into Mount Abarim and look across the river to the land I have given to the people of Israel. <sup>13</sup> After you have seen it, you shall die as Aaron your brother did, <sup>14</sup> for you rebelled against my instructions in the wilderness of Zin. When the people of Israel rebelled, you did not glorify me<sup>a</sup> before them by following my instructions to order water to come out of the rock." He was referring to the incident at the waters of Meribah ("Place of Strife") in Kadesh, in the wilderness of Zin.

<sup>20</sup> Publicly give him your authority so that all the people of Israel will obey him. <sup>21</sup> He shall be the one to consult with Eleazar the priest in order to get directions from the Lord. The Lord will speak to Eleazar through the use of the Urim, and Eleazar will pass on these instructions to Joshua and the people.

In this way the Lord will continue to give them guidance."

<sup>22</sup> So Moses did as Jehovah commanded, and took Joshua to Eleazar the priest. As the people watched, <sup>23</sup> Moses laid his hands upon him and dedicated him to his responsibilities, as the Lord had commanded.

28 THE LORD GAVE Moses these instructions to give to the people of Israel: "The offerings which you burn on the altar for me are my food, and are a pleasure to me; so see to it that they are brought regularly and are offered as I have instructed you.

<sup>9,10</sup> "On the Sabbath day, sacrifice two yearling male lambs—both without defect—in addition to the regular offerings. They are to be accompanied by a grain offering of six quarts of fine flour mixed with oil, and the usual drink offering.

<sup>11</sup> "Also, on the first day of each month there shall be an extra burnt offering to the Lord of two young bulls, one ram, and seven male yearling lambs—all without defect.

offer as burnt sacrifices to the Lord two young bulls, one ram, and seven yearling male lambs—all without defect. <sup>20,21</sup> With each bull there shall be a grain offering of nine quarts of fine flour mixed with oil; with the ram there shall be six quarts; and with each of the seven lambs there shall be three quarts of fine flour. <sup>22</sup> You must also offer a male goat as a sin offering, to make atonement for yourselves. <sup>23</sup> These offerings shall be in addition to the usual daily sacrifices. <sup>24</sup> This same sacrifice shall be offered on each of the seven days of the feast; they will be very pleasant to the Lord. <sup>25</sup> On the seventh day there shall again be a holy and solemn assembly of all the people, and during that day you may do no hard work.

<sup>26</sup> "On the Day of First-fruits (also called the Festival of Weeks, or Pentecost), there must be a special, solemn assembly of all the people to celebrate the new harvest. On that day you are to present the first of the new crop of grain as a grain offering to the Lord; there is to be no hard work by anyone on that day. <sup>27</sup> A special burnt offering, very pleasant to the Lord, shall be offered that day. It shall consist of two young bulls, one ram, and seven yearling male lambs. <sup>28,29</sup> These shall be accompanied by your grain offering of nine quarts of fine flour mixed with oil with each bull, six quarts with the ram, and three quarts with each of the seven lambs. <sup>30</sup> Also offer one male goat to make atonement for yourselves.

29 THE FESTIVAL OF Trumpets shall be celebrated on the fifteenth day of September<sup>a</sup> each year; there shall be a solemn assembly of all the people on that day, and no hard work may be done. <sup>2</sup> On that day you shall offer a burnt sacrifice consisting of one young bull, one ram, and seven yearling male lambs—all without defect. These are sacrifices which the Lord will appreciate and enjoy. <sup>3,4</sup> A grain offering of nine quarts of fine flour mingled with oil shall be offered with the bull, six quarts with the ram, and three quarts with each of the seven lambs. <sup>5</sup> In addition, there shall be a male goat sacrificed as a sin offering, to make atonement for you. <sup>6</sup> These special sacrifices are in addition to the regular monthly burnt offering for that day,<sup>b</sup> and also in addition to the regular daily burnt sacrifices, which are to be offered with the respective grain offerings and drink offerings, as specified by the ordinances governing them.

<sup>7</sup> "Ten days later<sup>c</sup> another convocation of all the people shall be held. This will be a day of solemn humility before the Lord, and no work of any kind may be done. <sup>8</sup> On that day you shall offer a burnt sacrifice to the Lord—it will be very pleasant to him—of one young bull, one ram, seven yearling male lambs—each without defect—<sup>9,10</sup> and their accompanying grain offerings. Nine quarts of fine flour mixed with oil are to be offered with the bull; six with the ram; and three with each of the seven lambs.<sup>11</sup> You are also to sacrifice one male goat for a sin offering. This is in addition to the sin offering of the Day of Atonement [offered annually on that day<sup>d</sup>], and in addition to the regular daily burnt sacrifices, grain offerings, and drink offerings.

tion to the regular daily burnt sacrifice, you are to sacrifice a male goat with its accompanying grain offering and drink offering for a sin offering.

male goat and the usual grain and drink offerings as a sin offering.

30 NOW MOSES SUMMONED the leaders of the tribes and told them, "The Lord has commanded that when anyone makes a promise to the Lord, either to do something or to quit doing something, that vow must not be broken: the person making the vow must do exactly as he has promised.

is still a girl at home in her father's home, <sup>4</sup> and her father hears that she has made a vow with penalties, but says nothing, then her vow shall stand. <sup>5</sup> But if her father refuses to let her make the vow, or feels that the penalties she has agreed to are too harsh, then her promise will automatically become invalid. Her father must state his disagreement on the first day he hears about it; and then Jehovah will forgive her because her father would not let her do it.

ther and his daughter who is living at home.

31 THEN THE LORD said to Moses, "Take vengeance on the Midianites for leading you into idolatry, and then you must die."

<sup>1</sup> Moses said to the people, "Some of you must take arms to wage Jehovah's war against Midian. <sup>2</sup> Conscript 1,000 men from each tribe." So this was done; and out of the many thousands of Israel, 12,000 armed men were sent to battle by Moses. <sup>3</sup> Phinehas (son of Eleazar the priest) led them into battle, accompanied by the Ark,<sup>a</sup> with trumpets blaring. <sup>4</sup> And every man of Midian was killed in battle! <sup>5</sup> Among those killed were all five of the Midianite kings—Evi, Rekem, Zur, Hur, and Reba. Balaam, the son of Beor, was also killed.

<sup>9,10,11</sup> Then the Israeli army took as captives all the women and children, and seized the cattle and flocks and a lot of miscellaneous booty. All of the cities, towns, and villages of Midian were then burned. <sup>12</sup> The captives and other spoils of war were brought to Moses and Eleazar the priest, and to the rest of the people of Israel who were camped on the plains of Moab beside the Jordan River, across from Jericho. <sup>13</sup> Moses and Eleazar the priest and all the leaders of the people went out to meet the victorious army, <sup>14</sup> but Moses was very angry with the army officers and battalion leaders.

<sup>16</sup> "These are the very ones who followed Balaam's advice and caused the people of Israel to worship idols on Mount Peor, and they are the cause of the plague that destroyed us. <sup>17</sup> Now kill all the boys and all the women who have had sexual intercourse. <sup>18</sup> Only the little girls may live; you may keep them for yourselves. <sup>19</sup> Now stay outside of the camp for seven days, all of you who have killed anyone or touched a dead body. Then purify yourselves and your captives on the third and seventh days. <sup>20</sup> Remember also to purify all your garments and everything made of leather, goat's hair, or wood."

<sup>21</sup> Then Eleazar the priest said to the men who were in the battle, "This is the commandment Jehovah has given Moses: <sup>22</sup> 'Anything that will stand heat—such as gold, silver, bronze, iron, tin, or lead—<sup>23</sup> shall be passed through fire in order to be made ceremonially pure; it must then be further purified with the purification water. But anything that won't stand heat shall be purified by the water alone.' <sup>24</sup> On the seventh day you must wash your clothes and be purified, and then you may come back into the camp."

<sup>25</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, <sup>26</sup> "You and Eleazar the priest and the leaders of the tribes are to make a list of all the booty, including the people and animals; <sup>27</sup> then divide it into two parts. Half of it is for the men who were in the battle, and the other half is to be given to the people of Israel. <sup>28</sup> But first, the Lord gets a share of all the captives, oxen, donkeys, and flocks kept by the army. His share is one out of every five hundred. <sup>29</sup> Give this share to Eleazar the priest to be presented to the Lord by the gesture of waving before the altar. <sup>30</sup> Also levy a two percent tribute of all the captives, flocks, and cattle that are given to the people of Israel. Present this to the Levites in charge of the Tabernacle, for it is the Lord's portion."

<sup>31</sup> So Moses and Eleazar the priest did as the Lord commanded. <sup>32-35</sup> The total booty (besides the jewelry, clothing, etc., which the soldiers kept for themselves) was 675,000 sheep; 72,000 oxen; 61,000 donkeys; and 32,000 young girls.

- 337,500 sheep (of which 675 were given to the Lord);
- 36,000 oxen (of which 72 were given to the Lord);
- 30,500 donkeys (of which 61 were given to the Lord);
- 16,000 girls (of whom 32 went to the Levites).<sup>b</sup>

<sup>41</sup> All of the Lord's portion was given to Eleazar the priest, as the Lord had directed Moses.

- 337,500 sheep,
- 36,000 oxen,
- 30,500 donkeys, and
- 16,000 girls

<sup>48,49</sup> Then the officers and battalion leaders came to Moses and said,

"We have accounted for all the men who went out to battle, and not one of us is missing! <sup>50</sup> So we have brought a special thank-offering to the Lord from our booty—gold jewelry, bracelets, anklets, rings, earrings, and necklaces. This is to make atonement for our souls before the Lord."

32 WHEN ISRAEL ARRIVED in the land of Jazar and Gilead, the tribes of Reuben and Gad (who had large flocks of sheep) noticed what wonderful sheep country it was. <sup>2</sup> So they came to Moses and Eleazar the priest and the other tribal leaders and said, <sup>3,4</sup> "The Lord has used Israel to destroy the population of this whole countryside—Ataroth, Dibon, Jazer, Nimrah, Heshbon, Elealeh, Sebam, Nebo, and Beon. And it is all wonderful sheep country, ideal for our flocks. <sup>5</sup> Please let us have this land as our portion instead of the land on the other side of the Jordan River."

going across to the land that the Lord has given them? <sup>9</sup> This is the same kind of thing your fathers did! I sent them from Kadesh-barnea to spy out the land, <sup>9</sup> but when they finished their survey and returned from the valley of Eshcol, they discouraged the people from going on into the Promised Land. <sup>10,11</sup> And the Lord's anger was hot against them, and he swore that of all those he had rescued from Egypt, no one over twenty years of age would ever see the land he promised Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, for they had refused to do what he wanted them to. <sup>12</sup> The only exceptions were Caleb (son of Jephunneh the Kenizite) and Joshua (son of Nun)—for they wholeheartedly followed the Lord and urged the people to go on into the Promised Land.

<sup>13</sup> "The Lord made us wander back and forth in the wilderness for forty years until all that evil generation died. <sup>14</sup> But here you are, a brood of sinners doing exactly the same thing! Only there are more of you, so Jehovah's anger against Israel will be even fiercer this time. <sup>15</sup> If you turn away from God like this, he will make the people stay even longer in the wilderness, and you will be responsible for destroying his people and bringing disaster to this entire nation!"

<sup>16</sup> "Not at all!" they explained. "We will build sheepfolds for our flocks and cities for our little ones, <sup>17</sup> but we ourselves will go over armed, ahead of the rest of the people of Israel, until we have brought them safely to their inheritance. But first we will need to build walled cities here for our families, to keep them safe from attack by the local inhabitants. <sup>18</sup> We will not settle down here until all the people of Israel have received their inheritance. <sup>19</sup> We don't want land on the other side of the Jordan; we would rather have it on this side, on the east."

<sup>20</sup> Then Moses said, "All right, if you will do what you have said and arm yourselves for Jehovah's war, <sup>21</sup> and keep your troops across the Jordan until the Lord has driven out his enemies, <sup>22</sup> then, when the land is finally subdued before the Lord, you may return. Then you will have discharged your duty to the Lord and to the rest of the people of Israel. And the land on the eastern side shall be your possession from the Lord. <sup>23</sup> But if you don't do as you have said, then you will have sinned against the Lord, and you may be sure that your sin will catch up with you. <sup>24</sup> Go ahead and build cities for your families and sheepfolds for your sheep, and do all you have said."

<sup>25</sup> "We will follow your instructions exactly," the people of Gad and Reuben replied. <sup>26</sup> "Our children, wives, flocks, and cattle shall stay here in the cities of Gilead. <sup>27</sup> But all of us who are conscripted will go over to battle for the Lord, just as you have said."

<sup>28</sup> So Moses gave his approval by saying to Eleazar, Joshua, and the tribal leaders of Israel, <sup>29</sup> "If all the men of the tribes of Gad and Reuben who are conscripted for the Lord's battles go with you over Jordan, then, when the land is conquered, you must give them the land of Gilead; <sup>30</sup> but if they refuse, then they must accept land among the rest of you in the land of Canaan."

<sup>31</sup> The tribes of Gad and Reuben said again, "As the Lord has commanded, so we will do—<sup>32</sup> we will follow the Lord fully armed into Canaan, but our own land shall be here on this side of the Jordan."

<sup>33</sup> So Moses assigned the territory of King Sihon of the Amorites, and of King Og of Bashan—all the land and cities—to the tribes of Gad, Reuben, and the half-tribe of Manasseh (son of Joseph).

Dibon, Ataroth, Aroer, Atroth-shophan, Jazer, Jogbehah, Beth-nimrah,
Beth-haran.

They were all fortified cities with sheepfolds.

Heshbon, Elealeh, Kiriathaim, Nebo,
Baal-meon, Sibmah.

(The Israelites later changed the names of some of these cities they had conquered and rebuilt.)

Nobah, after his own name.

<sup>50,51</sup> It was while they were camped there that the Lord told Moses to tell the people of Israel, "When you pass across the Jordan River into the land of Canaan, <sup>52</sup> you must drive out all the people living there and destroy all their idols—their carved stones, molten images, and the open-air sanctuaries in the hills where they worship their idols. <sup>53</sup> I have given the land to you; take it and live there. <sup>54</sup> You will be given land in proportion to the size of your tribes. The larger sections of land will be divided by lot among the larger tribes, and the smaller sections will be allotted to the smaller tribes. <sup>55</sup> But if you refuse to drive out the people living there, those who remain will be as cinders in your eyes and thorns in your sides. <sup>56</sup> And I will destroy you as I had planned for you to destroy them."

34 THE LORD TOLD Moses to tell the people of Israel, "When they come into the land of Canaan (I am giving you the entire land as your homeland),<sup>1</sup> the southern portion of the country will be the wilderness of Zin, along the edge of Edom. The southern boundary will begin at the Dead Sea,<sup>2</sup> and will continue south past Scorpion Pass<sup>3</sup> in the direction of Zin. Its southernmost point will be Kadesh-barnea, from which it will go to Hazardadar, and on to Azmon.<sup>4</sup> From Azmon the boundary will follow the Wadi-el-Arish<sup>b</sup> down to the Mediterranean Sea.

<sup>7,8,9</sup> "Your northern border will begin at the Mediterranean Sea and will proceed eastward to Mount Hor, then to Lebo-Hamath, and on through Zedad and Ziphron to Hazaranan.

<sup>10,11</sup> "The eastern border will be from Hazaranan south to Shepham, then on to Riblah at the east side of Ain. From there it will make a large half-circle, first going south and then westward until it touches the southernmost tip of the Sea of Galilee,<sup>12</sup> and then along the Jordan River, ending at the Dead Sea."

<sup>13</sup> "This is the territory you are to apportion among yourselves by lot," Moses said. "It is to be divided up among the nine and one-half tribes,<sup>14,15</sup> for the tribes of Reuben and Gad and the half-tribe of Manasseh have already been assigned land on the east side of the Jordan, opposite Jericho."

<sup>16-28</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, "These are the names of the men I have appointed to handle the dividing up of the land: Eleazar the priest, Joshua (son of Nun), and one leader from each tribe, as listed below:

Tribe	Leader
Judah	Caleb (son of Jephunneh)
Simeon	Shemuel (son of Ammihud)
Benjamin	Elidad (son of Chislon)
Dan	Bukki (son of Jogli)
Manasseh	Hanniel (son of Ephod)
Ephraim	Kemuel (son of Shiptan)
Zebulun	Elizaphan (son of Parnach)
Issachar	Paltiel (son of Azzan)
Asher	Ahihud (son of Shelomi)
Naphtali	Pedahel (son of Ammihud)

35 WHILE ISRAEL WAS camped beside the Jordan on the plains of Moab, opposite Jericho, the Lord said to Moses,

<sup>6</sup> "You shall give the Levites the six Cities of Refuge where a person who has accidentally killed someone can run and be safe, and forty-two other cities besides.<sup>7</sup> In all, there shall be forty-eight cities with the surrounding pastureland given to the Levites. <sup>8</sup> These cities shall be in various parts of the nation; the larger tribes with many cities will give several to the Levites, while the smaller tribes will give fewer."

<sup>9,10</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, "Tell the people that when they arrive in the land, <sup>11</sup> Cities of Refuge shall be designated for anyone to flee into if he has killed someone accidentally. <sup>12</sup> These Cities will be places of protection from the dead man's relatives who want to avenge his death; for the slayer must not be killed unless a fair trial establishes his guilt. <sup>13,14</sup> Three of these six Cities of Refuge are to be located in the land of Canaan, and three on the east side of the Jordan River. <sup>15</sup> These are not only for the protection of Israelites, but also for foreigners and travelers.

<sup>16</sup> "But if someone is struck and killed by a piece of iron, it must be presumed to be murder, and the murderer must be executed. <sup>17</sup> Or if the slain man was struck down with a large stone, it is murder, and the murderer shall die. <sup>18</sup> The same is true if he is killed with a wooden weapon. <sup>19</sup> The avenger of his death shall personally kill the murderer when he meets him. <sup>20</sup> So, if anyone kills another out of hatred by throwing something at him, or ambushing him, <sup>21</sup> or angrily striking him with his fist so that he dies, he is a murderer; and the murderer shall be executed by the avenger.

<sup>22,23</sup> "But if it is an accident—a case in which something is thrown unintentionally, or in which a stone is thrown without anger, without realizing it will hit anyone, and without wanting to harm an enemy—yet the man dies, <sup>24</sup> then the people shall judge whether or not it was an accident, and whether or not to hand the killer over to the avenger of the dead man. <sup>25</sup> If it is decided that it was accidental, then the people shall save the killer from the avenger; the killer shall be permitted to stay in the City of Refuge; and he must live there until the death of the High Priest.

<sup>26</sup> "If the slayer leaves the City, <sup>27</sup> and the avenger finds him outside and kills him, it is not murder, <sup>28</sup> for the man should have stayed inside the City until the death of the High Priest. But after the death of the High Priest, the man may return to his own land and home. <sup>29</sup> These are permanent laws for all Israel from generation to generation.

36 THEN THE HEADS of the sub-clan of Gilead (of the clan of Machir, of the tribe of Manasseh, one of the sons of Joseph) came to Moses and the leaders of Israel with a petition: "The Lord instructed you to divide the land by lot among the people of Israel," they reminded Moses, "and to give the inheritance of our brother Zelophehad to his daughters. <sup>3</sup> But if they marry into another tribe, their land will go with them to the tribe into which they marry. In this way the total area of our tribe will be reduced, <sup>4</sup> and will not be returned at the Year of Jubilee."

the inheritance of every tribe is to remain permanently as it was first allotted. <sup>8</sup> The girls throughout the tribes of Israel who are heiresses must marry within their own tribe, so that their land won't leave the tribe. <sup>9</sup> In this way no inheritance shall move from one tribe to another.'"

<sup>13</sup> These are the commandments and ordinances which the Lord gave to the people of Israel through Moses, while they were camped on the plains of Moab beside the Jordan River, across from Jericho.

DEUTERONOMY

1 THIS BOOK RECORDS Moses' address to the people of Israel when they were camped in the valley of the Arabah in the wilderness of Moab, east of the Jordan River. (Cities in the area included Suph, Paran, Tophel, Laban, Hazeroth, and Dizahab.) The speech was given on February 15,<sup>a</sup> forty years after the people of Israel left Mount Horeb—though it takes only eleven days to travel by foot from Mount Horeb to Kadesh-barnea,<sup>b</sup> going by way of Mount Seir! At the time of this address, King Sihon of the Amorites had already been defeated at Heshbon, and King Og of Bashan had been defeated at Ashtaroth, near Edre-i. Here, then, is Moses' address to Israel, stating all the laws God had commanded him to pass on to them:

Negeb, and all the land of Canaan and Lebanon—the entire area from the shores of the Mediterranean Sea to the Euphrates River. <sup>8</sup> I am giving all of it to you! Go in and possess it, for it is the land the Lord promised to your ancestors Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and all of their descendants.'

<sup>9</sup> "At that time I told the people, 'I need help! You are a great burden for me to carry all by myself, <sup>10</sup> for the Lord has multiplied you like stars! <sup>11</sup> And may he multiply you a thousand times more, and bless you as he promised, <sup>12</sup> but what can one man do to settle all your quarrels and problems? <sup>13</sup> So choose some men from each tribe who are wise, experienced, and understanding, and I will appoint them as your leaders.'

which the Lord our God had directed us. We were then at Kadesh-barnea [on the border of the Promised Land<sup>c</sup>] and I said to the people, 'The Lord God has given us this land. Go and possess it as he told us to. Don't be afraid! Don't even doubt!'

<sup>23</sup> "This seemed like a good idea, so I chose twelve spies, one from each tribe. <sup>24,25</sup> They crossed into the hills and came to the Valley of Eshcol, and returned with samples of the local fruit. One look was enough to convince us that it was indeed a good land the Lord our God had given us. <sup>26</sup> But the people refused to go in, and rebelled against the Lord's command.

<sup>27</sup> "They murmured and complained in their tents and said, 'The Lord must hate us, bringing us here from Egypt to be slaughtered by these Amorites. <sup>28</sup> What are we getting into? Our brothers who spied out the land have frightened us with their report. They say that the people of the land are tall and powerful, and that the walls of their cities rise high into the sky! They have even seen giants there—the descendants of the Anakim!'

<sup>29</sup> "But I said to them, 'Don't be afraid! <sup>30</sup> The Lord God is your leader, and he will fight for you with his mighty miracles, just as you saw him do in Egypt. <sup>31</sup> And you know how he has cared for you again and again here in the wilderness, just as a father cares for his child!" <sup>32</sup> But nothing I said did any good.

"They refused to believe the Lord our God <sup>33</sup> who had led them all the way, and had selected the best places for them to camp, and had guided them by a pillar of fire at night and a pillar of cloud during the day.

<sup>37</sup> "And the Lord was even angry with me because of them and said to me, 'You shall not enter the Promised Land! <sup>38</sup> Instead, your assistant, Joshua (the son of Nun), shall lead the people. Encourage him as he prepares to take over the leadership. <sup>39</sup> I will give the land to the children they said would die in the wilderness. <sup>40</sup> But as for you of the older generation, turn around now and go on back across the desert toward the Red Sea.'

<sup>41</sup> "Then they confessed, 'We have sinned! We will go into the land and fight for it as the Lord our God has told us to.' So they strapped on their weapons and thought it would be easy to conquer the whole area.

<sup>42</sup> "But the Lord said to me, 'Tell them not to do it, for I will not go with them; they will be struck down before their enemies.'

belled again against the Lord's commandment and went on up into the hill country to fight. <sup>44</sup> But the Amorites who lived there came out against them, and chased them like bees and killed them from Seir to Hormah. <sup>45</sup> Then they returned and wept before the Lord, but he wouldn't listen. <sup>46</sup> So they stayed there at Kadesh for a long time.

2 "THEN WE TURNED back across the wilderness toward the Red Sea, for so the Lord had instructed me. For many years we wandered around in the area of Mount Seir. <sup>2</sup> Then at last the Lord said, <sup>3</sup> " 'You have stayed here long enough. Turn northward. <sup>4</sup> Inform the people that they will be passing through the country belonging to their brothers the Edomites, the descendants of Esau who live in Seir; the Edomites will be nervous, so be careful. <sup>5</sup> Don't start a fight! For I have given them all the Mount Seir hill country as their permanent possession, and I will not give you even a tiny piece of their land. <sup>6</sup> Pay them for whatever food or water you use. <sup>7</sup> The Lord your God has watched over you and blessed you every step of the way for all these forty years as you have wandered around in this great wilderness; and you have lacked nothing in all that time.'

<sup>8</sup> "So we passed through Edom where our brothers lived, crossing the Arabah Road that goes south to Elath and Ezi-on-geber, and traveling northward toward the Moab desert.

for I will not give you any of their land; I have given it to the descendants of Lot.'

<sup>10</sup> '(The Emim used to live in that area, a very large tribe, tall as the giants of Anakim; <sup>11</sup> both the Emim and the Anakim are often referred to as the Rephaim, but the Moabites call them Emim. <sup>12</sup> In earlier days the Horites lived in Seir, but they were driven out and displaced by the Edomites, the descendants of Esau, just as Israel would displace the peoples of Canaan, whose land had been assigned to Israel by the Lord.)

<sup>14,15</sup> 'So it took us thirty-eight years to finally get across Zered Brook from Kadesh! For the Lord had decreed that this could not happen until all the men, who thirty-eight years earlier were old enough to bear arms, had died. Yes, the hand of the Lord was against them until finally all were dead. <sup>16,17</sup> Then at last the Lord said to me,

<sup>21</sup> They were a large and powerful tribe, as tall as the Anakim; but Jehovah destroyed them as the Ammonites came in, and the Ammonites lived there in their place.

<sup>23</sup> Another similar situation occurred when the people of Caphtor invaded and destroyed the tribe of Avvim living in villages scattered across the countryside as far away as Gaza.)

<sup>24</sup> 'Then the Lord said, 'Cross the Arnon River into the land of King Sihon the Amorite, king of Heshbon. War against him and begin to take possession of his land. <sup>25</sup> Beginning today I will make people throughout the whole earth tremble with fear because of you, and dread your arrival.'

<sup>26</sup> 'Then from the wilderness of Kedemoth I sent ambassadors to King Sihon of Heshbon with a proposal of peace. <sup>27</sup> 'Let us pass through your land,' we said. 'We will stay on the main road and won't turn off into the fields on either side. <sup>28</sup> We will not steal food as we go, but will purchase every bite we eat and everything we drink; all we want is permission to pass through. <sup>29</sup> The Edomites at Seir allowed us to go through their country, and so did the Moabites, whose capital is at Ar. We are on our way across the Jordan into the land the Lord our God has given us.'

<sup>30</sup> 'But King Sihon refused because Jehovah your God made him obstinate, so that he could destroy Sihon by the hands of Israel, as has now been done.

<sup>31</sup> 'Then the Lord said to me, 'I have begun to give you the land of King Sihon; when you possess it, it shall belong to Israel forever.'

<sup>32</sup> 'King Sihon then declared war on us and mobilized his forces at Jahaz. <sup>33,34</sup> But the Lord our God crushed him, and we conquered all his cities, and utterly destroyed everything, including the women and babies. We left nothing alive<sup>35,36</sup> except the cattle, which we took as our reward, along with the booty gained from ransacking the cities we had taken. We conquered everything from Aroer to Gilead—from the edge of the Arnon River valley, and including all the cities in the valley. Not one city was too strong for us, for the Lord our God gave all of them to us.<sup>37</sup> However, we stayed away from the people of Ammon and from the Jabbok River and the hill country cities, the places Jehovah our God had forbidden us to enter.

3 "NEXT WE TURNED toward King Og's land of Bashan. He immediately mobilized his army and attacked us at Edre-i. But the Lord told me not to be afraid of him. 'All his people and his land are yours,' the Lord told me. 'You will do to him as you did to King Sihon of the Amorites, at Heshbon.'<sup>3</sup> So the Lord helped us fight against King Og and his people, and we killed them all.<sup>4</sup> We conquered all sixty of his cities, the entire Argob region of Bashan.<sup>5</sup> These were well-fortified cities with high walls and barred gates. Of course we also took all of the unwallled towns.<sup>6</sup> We utterly destroyed the kingdom of Bashan just as we had destroyed King Sihon's kingdom at Heshbon, killing the entire population—men, women, and children alike.<sup>7</sup> But we kept the cattle and loot for ourselves.

<sup>8</sup> "We now possessed all the land of the two kings of the Amorites east of the Jordan River—all the land from the valley of the Arnon to Mount Hermon.<sup>9</sup> (The Sidonians called Mount Hermon 'Sirion,' while the Amorites called it 'Senir.') <sup>10</sup> We had now conquered all the cities on the plateau, and all of Gilead and Bashan as far as the cities of Salecah and Edre-i.

<sup>12</sup> "At that time I gave the conquered land to the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh. To the tribes of Reuben and Gad I gave the area beginning at Aroer on the Arnon River, plus half of Mount Gilead, including its cities.<sup>13</sup> The half-tribe of Manasseh received the remainder of Gilead and all of the former kingdom of King Og, the Argob region. (Bashan is sometimes called 'The Land of the Rephaim.')

the Salt Sea (also called the Sea of the Arabah).

<sup>18</sup> "At that time I reminded the tribes of Reuben and Gad and the half-tribe of Manasseh, that although the Lord had given them the land, they could not begin settling down until their armed men led the other tribes across the Jordan to the land the Lord was giving them.

<sup>19</sup> "But your wives and children,' I told them, 'may live here in the cities the Lord has given you, caring for your many cattle <sup>20</sup> until you return after the Lord has given victory to the other tribes, too. When they conquer the land the Lord your God has given them across the Jordan River, then you may return here to your own land.'

<sup>21</sup> "Then I said to Joshua, 'You have seen what the Lord your God has done to those two kings. You will do the same to all the kingdoms on the other side of the Jordan.

<sup>23,24,25</sup> "At that time I made this plea to God: 'O Lord God, please let me cross over into the Promised Land—the good land beyond the Jordan River with its rolling hills—and Lebanon. I want to see the result of all the greatness and power you have been showing us; for what God in all of heaven or earth can do what you have done for us?'

<sup>26</sup> "But the Lord was angry with me because of you, and would not let me cross over. 'Speak of it no more,' he ordered, <sup>27</sup> 'but go to the top of Mount Pisgah where you can look out in every direction, and there you will see the land in the distance. But you shall not cross the Jordan River. <sup>28</sup> Commission Joshua to replace you, and then encourage him, for he shall lead the people across to conquer the land you will see from the mountain top.'

4 "AND NOW, O Israel, listen carefully to these laws I teach you, and obey them if you want to live and enter into and possess the land given you by the Lord God of your ancestors. <sup>2</sup> Do not add other laws or subtract from these; just obey them, for they are from the Lord your God. <sup>3</sup> You have seen what the Lord did to you at Baal-peor, where he destroyed many people for worshiping idols. <sup>4</sup> But all of you who were faithful to the Lord your God are still alive today.

<sup>5</sup> "These are the laws for you to obey when you arrive in the land where you will live. They are from the Lord our God. He has given them to me to pass on to you. <sup>6</sup> If you obey them they will give you a reputation for wisdom and intelligence. When the surrounding nations hear these laws they will exclaim, 'What other nation is as wise and prudent as Israel!' <sup>7</sup> For what other nation, great or small, has God among them, as the Lord our God is here among us whenever we call upon him? <sup>8</sup> And what nation, no matter how great, has laws as fair as these I am giving you today?

<sup>9</sup> "But watch out! Be very careful never to forget what you have seen God doing for you. May his miracles have a deep and permanent effect upon your lives! Tell your children and your grandchildren about the glorious miracles he did. <sup>10</sup> Tell them especially about the day you stood before the Lord at Mount Horeb, and he told me, 'Summon the people before me and I will instruct them, so that they will learn always to reverence me, and so that they can teach my laws to their children.' <sup>11</sup> You stood at the foot of the mountain, and the mountain burned with fire; flames shot far into the sky, surrounded by black clouds and deep darkness. <sup>12</sup> And the Lord spoke to you from the fire; you heard his words but didn't see him. <sup>13</sup> He proclaimed the laws you must obey—the Ten Commandments—and wrote them on two stone tablets. <sup>14</sup> Yes, it was at that time that the Lord commanded me to issue the laws you must obey when you arrive in the Promised Land.

<sup>15</sup> "But beware! You didn't see the form of God that day as he spoke to you from the fire at Mount Horeb, <sup>16,17</sup> so do not defile yourselves by trying to make a statue of God—an idol in any form, whether of a man, woman, animal, bird, <sup>18</sup> a small animal that runs along the ground, or a fish. <sup>19</sup> And do not look up into the sky to worship the sun, moon, or stars. The Lord may permit other nations to get away with this, but not you. <sup>20</sup> The Lord has rescued you from prison—Egypt—to be his special people, his own inheritance; this is what you are today. <sup>21,22</sup> But he was angry with me because of you; he vowed that I could not go over the Jordan River into the good land he has given you as your inheritance. I must die here on this side of the river. <sup>23</sup> Beware lest you break the contract the Lord your God has made with you! You will break it if you make any idols, for the Lord your God has utterly forbidden this. <sup>24</sup> He is a devouring fire, a jealous God.

<sup>25</sup> "In the future, when your children and grandchildren are born and you have been in the land a long time, and you have defiled yourselves by making idols, and the Lord your God is very angry because of your sin, <sup>26</sup> heaven and earth are witnesses that you shall be quickly destroyed from the land. Soon, now, you will cross the Jordan River and conquer that land. But your days there will be brief; you will then be utterly destroyed. <sup>27</sup> Jehovah will scatter you among the nations, and you will be but few in number. <sup>28</sup> There, far away, you will worship idols made from wood and stone, idols that neither see nor hear nor eat nor smell.

<sup>29</sup> "But you will also begin to search again for Jehovah your God, and you shall find him when you search for him with all your hearts and souls. <sup>30</sup> When those bitter days have come upon you in the latter times, you will finally return to the Lord your God and listen to what he tells you. <sup>31</sup> For the Lord your God is merciful—he will not abandon you nor destroy you nor forget the promises he has made to your ancestors.

<sup>32</sup> "In all history, going back to the time when God created man upon the earth, search from one end of the heavens to the other to see if you can find anything like this: <sup>33</sup> An entire nation heard the voice of God speaking to it from fire, as you did, and lived! <sup>34</sup> Where else will you ever find another example of God's removing a nation from its slavery by sending terrible plagues, mighty miracles, war, and terror? Yet that is what the Lord your God did for you in Egypt, right before your very eyes. <sup>35</sup> He did these things so you would realize that Jehovah is God, and that there is no one else like him. <sup>36</sup> He let you hear his voice instructing you from heaven, and he let you see his great pillar of fire upon the earth; you even heard his words from the center of the fire.

were camped east of the Jordan River near the city of Beth-peor. (This was the land formerly occupied by the Amorites under King Sihon, whose capital was Heshbon; he and his people were destroyed by Moses and the Israelis. <sup>46</sup> Israel conquered his land and that of King Og of Bashan—they were two Amorite kings east of the Jordan. <sup>47</sup> Israel also conquered all the area from Aroer at the edge of the Arnon River valley to Mount Sirion, or Mount Hermon, as it is sometimes called; <sup>48</sup> and all the Arabah east of the Jordan River over to the Salt Sea, below the slopes of Mount Pisgah.)

5 MOSES CONTINUED SPEAKING to the people of Israel and said, "Listen carefully now to all these laws God has given you; learn them, and be sure to obey them!

<sup>8</sup> "Never make idols; don't worship images, whether of birds, animals, or fish. <sup>9,10</sup> You shall not bow down to any images nor worship them in any way, for I am the Lord your God. I am a jealous

God, and I will bring the curse of a father's sins upon even the third and fourth generation of the children of those who hate me; but I will show kindness to a thousand generations of those who love me and keep my commandments.

<sup>11</sup> "You must never use my name to make a vow you don't intend to keep.<sup>a</sup> I will not overlook that.

<sup>12</sup> "Keep the Sabbath day holy. This is my command. <sup>13</sup> Work the other six days, <sup>14</sup> but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord your God; no work shall be done that day by you or by any of your household—your sons, daughters, servants, oxen, donkeys, or cattle; even foreigners living among you must obey this law. Everybody must rest as you do. <sup>15</sup> Why should you keep the Sabbath? It is because you were slaves in Egypt, and the Lord your God brought you out with a great display of miracles.

<sup>16</sup> "Honor your father and mother (remember, this is a commandment of the Lord your God); if you do so, you shall have a long, prosperous life in the land he is giving you.

laws to each one of you from the heart of the fire, surrounded by the clouds and thick darkness that engulfed Mount Sinai. Those were the only commandments he gave you at that time,<sup>b</sup> and he wrote them out on two stone tablets and gave them to me. <sup>23</sup> But when you heard the loud voice from the darkness, and saw the terrible fire at the top of the mountain, all your tribal leaders came to me <sup>24</sup> and pleaded, "Today the Lord our God has shown us his glory and greatness; we have even heard his voice from the heart of the fire. Now we know that a man may speak to God and not die; <sup>25</sup> but we will surely die if he speaks to us again. This awesome fire will consume us. <sup>26,27</sup> What man can hear, as we have, the voice of the living God speaking from the heart of the fire, and live? You go and listen to all that God says, then come and tell us, and we will listen and obey."

<sup>28</sup> "And the Lord agreed to your request, and said to me, 'I have heard what the people have said to you, and I agree. <sup>29</sup> Oh, that they would always have such a heart for me, wanting to obey my commandments. Then all would go well with them in the future, and with their children throughout all generations! <sup>30</sup> Go and tell them to return to their tents. <sup>31</sup> Then you come back and stand here beside me, and I will give you all my commandments, and you shall teach them to the people; and they will obey them in the land I am giving to them.'" a Literally, "You must not utter the name of the Lord your God to misuse it."

b Literally, "and he added no more."

ments of the Lord your God, following his directions in every detail, going the whole way he has laid out for you; <sup>1</sup> only then will you live long and prosperous lives in the land you are to enter and possess.

6 "THE LORD YOUR God told me to give you all these commandments which you are to obey in the land you will soon be entering, where you will live. <sup>2</sup> The purpose of these laws is to cause you, your sons, and your grandsons to reverence the Lord your God by obeying all of his instructions as long as you live; if you do, you will have long, prosperous years ahead of you. <sup>3</sup> Therefore, O Israel, listen closely to each command and be careful to obey it, so that all will go well with you, and so that you will have many children. If you obey these commands you will become a great nation in a glorious land 'flowing with milk and honey,' even as the God of your fathers promised you.

<sup>4</sup> "O Israel, listen: Jehovah is our God, Jehovah alone. <sup>5</sup> You must love him with all your heart, soul, and might. <sup>6</sup> And you must think constantly about these commandments I am giving you today. <sup>7</sup> You must teach them to your children and talk about them when you are at home or out for a walk; at bedtime and the first thing in the morning. <sup>8</sup> Tie them on your finger, wear them on your forehead, <sup>9</sup> and write them on the doorposts of your house!

<sup>10,11,12</sup> "When the Lord your God has brought you into the land he promised your ancestors, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and when he has given you great cities full of good things—cities you didn't build, wells you didn't dig, and vineyards and olive trees you didn't plant—and when you have eaten until you can hold no more, then beware lest you forget the Lord who brought you out of the land of Egypt, the land of slavery. <sup>13</sup> When you are full, don't forget to be reverent to him and to serve him and to use his name alone to endorse your promises.

<sup>20</sup> "In the years to come when your son asks you, 'What is the purpose of these laws which the Lord our God has given us?' <sup>21</sup> you must tell him, 'We were Pharaoh's slaves in Egypt, and the Lord brought us out of Egypt with great power <sup>22</sup> and mighty miracles—with terrible blows against Egypt and Pharaoh and all his people. We saw it all with our own eyes. <sup>23</sup> He brought us out of Egypt so that he could give us this land he had promised to our ancestors. <sup>24</sup> And he has commanded us to obey all of these laws and to reverence him so that he can preserve us alive as he has until now. <sup>25</sup> For it always goes well with us when we obey all the laws of the Lord our God.'

7 "WHEN THE LORD brings you into the Promised Land, as he soon will, he will destroy the following seven nations, all greater and mightier than you are:

The Hittites,
The Girgashites,
The Amorites,
The Canaanites,
The Perizzites, the Hivites,
The Jebusites.

<sup>2</sup> When the Lord your God delivers them over to you to be destroyed, do a complete job of it—don't make any treaties or show them mercy; utterly wipe them out. <sup>3</sup> Do not intermarry with them, nor let your sons and daughters marry their sons and daughters. <sup>4</sup> That would surely result in your young people's beginning to worship their gods. Then the anger of the Lord would be hot against you and he would surely destroy you.

<sup>5</sup> "You must break down the heathen altars and shatter the obelisks and cut up the shameful images and burn the idols. <sup>6</sup> For you are a holy people, dedicated to the Lord your God. He has chosen you from all the people on the face of the whole earth to be his own chosen ones. <sup>7</sup> He didn't choose you and pour out his love upon you because you were a larger nation than any other, for you were the smallest of all! <sup>8</sup> It was just because he loves you, and because he kept his promise to your ancestors. That is why he brought you out of slavery in Egypt with such amazing power and mighty miracles.

<sup>9</sup> "Understand, therefore, that the Lord your God is the faithful God who for a thousand generations keeps his promises and constantly loves those who love him and who obey his commands. <sup>10</sup> But those who hate him shall be punished publicly and destroyed. He will deal with them personally.

<sup>13</sup> And he will love you and bless you and make you into a great nation. He will make you fertile and give fertility to your ground and to your animals, so that you will have large crops of grain, grapes, and olives, and great flocks of cattle, sheep, and goats when you arrive in the land he promised your fathers to give you. <sup>14</sup> You will be blessed above all the nations of the earth; not one of you, whether male or female, shall be barren, not even your cattle. <sup>15</sup> And the Lord will take away all your sickness and will not let you suffer any of the diseases of Egypt you remember so well; he will give them all to your enemies!

<sup>16</sup> "You must destroy all the nations which the Lord your God delivers into your hands. Have no pity, and do not worship their gods; if you do, it will be a sad day for you. <sup>17</sup> Perhaps you will think to yourself, 'How can we ever conquer these nations that are so much more powerful than we are?' <sup>18</sup> But don't be afraid of them! Just remember what the Lord your God did to Pharaoh and to all the land of Egypt.<sup>19</sup> Do you remember the terrors the Lord sent upon them—your parents saw it with their own eyes—and the mighty miracles and wonders, and the power and strength of Almighty God which he used to bring you out of Egypt? Well, the Lord your God will use this same might against the people you fear.<sup>20</sup> Moreover, the Lord your God will send hornets to drive out those who hide from you!

<sup>21</sup> "No, do not be afraid of those nations, for the Lord your God is among you, and he is a great and awesome God.<sup>22</sup> He will cast them out a little at a time; he will not do it all at once, for if he did, the wild animals would multiply too quickly and become dangerous.<sup>23</sup> He will do it gradually, and you will move in against those nations and destroy them.<sup>24</sup> He will deliver their kings into your hands, and you will erase their names from the face of the earth. No one will be able to stand against you.

<sup>25</sup> "Burn their idols and do not touch the silver or gold they are made of. Do not take it or it will be a snare to you, for it is horrible to the Lord your God.<sup>26</sup> Do not bring an idol into your home and worship it, for then your doom is sealed. Utterly detest it, for it is a cursed thing.

8 "YOU MUST OBEY all the commandments I give you today. If you do, you will not only live, you will multiply and will go in and take over the land promised to your fathers by the Lord.<sup>2</sup> Do you remember how the Lord led you through the wilderness for all those forty years, humbling you and testing you to find out how you would respond, and whether or not you would really obey him?<sup>3</sup> Yes, he humbled you by letting you go hungry and then feeding you with manna, a food previously unknown to both you and your ancestors. He did it to help you realize that food isn't everything, and that real life comes by obeying every command of God.<sup>4</sup> For all these forty years your clothes haven't grown old, and your feet haven't been blistered or swollen.<sup>5</sup> So you should realize that, as a man punishes his son, the Lord punishes you to help you.

<sup>11</sup> "But that is the time to be careful! Beware that in your plenty<sup>a</sup> you don't forget the Lord your God and begin to disobey him.<sup>12,13</sup> For when you have become full and prosperous and have built fine homes to live in, and when your flocks and herds have become very large, and your silver and gold have multiplied, <sup>14</sup> that is the time to watch out that you don't become proud, and forget the Lord your God who brought you out of your slavery in the land of Egypt. <sup>15</sup> Beware that you don't forget the God who led you through the great and terrible wilderness with the dangerous snakes and scorpions, where it was so hot and dry. He gave you water from the rock! <sup>16</sup> He fed you with manna in the wilderness (it was a kind of bread unknown before) so that you would become humble and so that your trust in him would grow, and he could do you good. <sup>17</sup> He did it so that you would never feel that it was your own power and might that made you wealthy. <sup>18</sup> Always remember that it is the Lord your God who gives you power to become rich, and he does it to fulfill his promise to your ancestors.

<sup>19</sup> "But if you forget about the Lord your God and worship other gods instead, and follow evil ways, you shall certainly perish, <sup>20</sup> just as the Lord has caused other nations in the past to perish. That will be your fate, too, if you don't obey the Lord your God.

9 "O ISRAEL, LISTEN! Today you are to cross the Jordan River and begin to dispossess the nations on the other side. Those nations are much greater and more powerful than you are! They live in high walled cities. Among them are the famed Anak giants, against whom none can stand! <sup>3</sup> But the Lord your God will go before you as a devouring fire to destroy them, so that you will quickly conquer them and drive them out.

<sup>4</sup> "Then, when the Lord has done this for you, don't say to yourselves, 'The Lord has helped us because we are so good!' No, it is because of the wickedness of the other nations that he is doing it. <sup>5</sup> It is not at all because you are such fine, upright people that the Lord will drive them out from before you! I say it again, it is only because of the wickedness of the other nations, and because of his promises to your ancestors, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, that he will do it. <sup>6</sup> I say it yet again: Jehovah your God is not giving you this good land because you are good, for you are not—you are a wicked, stubborn people.

<sup>7</sup> "Don't you remember (oh, never forget it!) how continually angry you made the Lord your God out in the wilderness, from the day you left Egypt until now? For all this time you have constantly rebelled against him.

<sup>8</sup> "Don't you remember how angry you made him at Mount Horeb? He was ready to destroy you. <sup>9</sup> I was on the mountain at the time, receiving the contract which Jehovah had made with you—the stone tablets with the laws inscribed upon them. I was there for forty days and forty nights, and all that time I ate nothing. I didn't even take a drink of water. <sup>10,11</sup> At the end of those forty days and nights the Lord gave me the contract, the tablets on which he had written the commandments he had spoken from the fire-covered mountain while the people had watched below. <sup>12</sup> He told me to go down quickly because the people I had led out of Egypt had defiled themselves, quickly turning away from the laws of God, and had made an idol from molten metal.

<sup>13,14</sup> "Let me alone that I may destroy this evil, stubborn people!" the Lord told me, 'and I will blot out their name from under heaven, and I will make a mighty nation of you, mightier and greater than they are.'

<sup>15</sup> "I came down from the burning mountain, holding in my hands the two tablets inscribed with the laws of God. <sup>16</sup> There below me I could see the calf you had made in your terrible sin against the Lord your God. How quickly you turned away from him! <sup>17</sup> I lifted the tablets high above my head and dashed them to the ground! I smashed them before your eyes! <sup>18</sup> Then, for another forty days and nights I lay before the Lord, neither eating bread nor drinking water, for you had done what the Lord hated most, thus provoking him to great anger. <sup>19</sup> How I feared for you—for the Lord was ready to destroy you. But that time, too, he listened to me. <sup>20</sup> Aaron was in great danger because the Lord was so angry with him; but I prayed, and the Lord spared him. <sup>21</sup> I took your sin—the calf you had made—and burned it and ground it into fine dust, and threw it into the stream that cascaded out of the mountain.

against the Lord from the first day I knew you. <sup>25</sup> That is why I fell down before him for forty days and nights when the Lord was ready to destroy you.

<sup>26</sup> "I prayed to him, 'O Lord God, don't destroy your own people. They are your inheritance saved from Egypt by your mighty power and glorious strength. <sup>27</sup> Don't notice the rebellion and stubbornness of these people, but remember instead your promises to your servants Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. Oh, please overlook the awful wickedness and sin of these people. <sup>28</sup> For if you destroy them the Egyptians will say, "It is because the Lord wasn't able to bring them to the land he promised them," or "He destroyed them because he hated them: he brought them into the wilderness to slay them." <sup>29</sup> They are your people and your inheritance which you brought from Egypt by your great power and your mighty arm.'

10 "AT THAT TIME the Lord told me to cut two more stone tablets like the first ones, and to make a wooden Ark to keep them in, and to return to God on the mountain. <sup>2</sup> He said he would rewrite on the tablets the same commandments that were on the tablets I had smashed, and that I should place them in the Ark. <sup>3</sup> So I made an Ark of acacia wood and hewed out two stone tablets like the first two, and took the tablets up on the mountain to God. <sup>4</sup> He again wrote the Ten Commandments on them and gave them to me. (They were the same commandments he had given you from the heart of the fire on the mountain as you all watched below.) <sup>5</sup> Then I came down and placed the tablets in the Ark I had made, where they are to this day, just as the Lord commanded me.

<sup>6</sup> "The people of Israel then journeyed from Be-eroth of Bene-jaakan to Moserah, where Aaron died and was buried. His son Eleazar became the next priest.

<sup>8</sup> It was there that Jehovah set apart the tribe of Levi to carry the Ark containing the Ten Commandments of Jehovah, and to stand before the Lord and to do his work and to bless his name, just as is done today. <sup>9</sup> (That is why the tribe of Levi does not have a portion of land reserved for it in the Promised Land, as their brother tribes do; for as the Lord told them, he himself is their inheritance.)

<sup>10</sup> "As I said before, I stayed on the mountain before the Lord for forty days and nights the second time, just as I had the first, and the Lord again yielded to my pleas and didn't destroy you.

<sup>12,13</sup> "And now, Israel, what does the Lord your God require of you except to listen carefully to all he says to you, and to obey for your own good the commandments I am giving you today, and to love him, and to worship him with all your hearts and souls? <sup>14</sup> Earth and highest heaven belong to the Lord your God. <sup>15</sup> And yet he rejoiced in your fathers and loved them so much that he chose you, their children, to be above every other nation, as is evident today. <sup>16</sup> Therefore, cleanse your sinful hearts and stop your stubbornness.

<sup>17</sup> "Jehovah your God is God of gods and Lord of lords. He is the great and mighty God, the God of terror who shows no partiality and takes no bribes. <sup>18</sup> He gives justice to the fatherless and widows. He loves foreigners and gives them food and clothing. <sup>19</sup> (You too must love foreigners, for you yourselves were foreigners in the land of Egypt.) <sup>20</sup> You must fear the Lord your God and worship him and cling to him and take oaths by his name alone. <sup>21</sup> He is your praise and he is your God, the one who has done mighty miracles you yourselves have seen. <sup>22</sup> When your ancestors went down into Egypt there were only seventy of them, but now the Lord your God has made you as many as the stars in the sky!

11 "YOU MUST LOVE the Lord your God and obey every one of his commands. <sup>2</sup> Listen! I am not talking now to your children who have never experienced the Lord's punishments or seen his greatness and his awesome power. <sup>3</sup> They weren't there to see the miracles he did in Egypt against Pharaoh and all his land. <sup>4</sup> They didn't see what God did to the armies of Egypt and to their horses and chariots—how he drowned them in the Red Sea as they were chasing you, and how the Lord has kept them powerless against you until this very day! <sup>5</sup> They didn't see how the Lord cared for you time and again through all the years you were wandering in the wilderness, until your arrival here. <sup>6</sup>They weren't there when Dathan and Abiram (the sons of Eliab, descendants<sup>a</sup> of Reuben) sinned, and the earth opened up and swallowed them, with their households and tents and all their belongings, as all Israel watched!

<sup>7</sup>"But you have seen these mighty miracles! <sup>8</sup>How carefully, then, you should obey these commandments I am going to give you today, so that you may have the strength to go in and possess the land you are about to enter. <sup>9</sup>If you obey the commandments, you will have a long and good life in the land the Lord promised to your ancestors and to you, their descendants—a wonderful land 'flowing with milk and honey'! <sup>10</sup>For the land you are about to enter and possess is not like the land of Egypt where you have come from, where irrigation is necessary. <sup>11</sup>It is a land of hills and valleys with plenty of rain— <sup>12</sup>a land that the Lord your God personally cares for! His eyes are always upon it, day after day throughout the year!

<sup>13</sup>"And if you will carefully obey all of his commandments that I am going to give you today, and if you will love the Lord your God with all your hearts and souls, and will worship him, <sup>14</sup>then he will continue to send both the early and late rains that will produce wonderful crops of grain, grapes for your wine, and olive oil. <sup>15</sup>He will give you lush pastureland for your cattle to graze in, and you yourselves shall have plenty to eat and be fully con-

<sup>16</sup>"But beware that your hearts do not turn from God to worship other gods. <sup>17</sup>For if you do, the anger of the Lord will be hot against you, and he will shut the heavens—there will be no rain and no harvest, and you will quickly perish from the good land the Lord has given you. <sup>18</sup>So keep these commandments carefully in mind. Tie them to your hand to remind you to obey them, and tie them to your forehead between your eyes! <sup>19</sup>Teach them to your children. Talk about them when you are sitting at home, when you are out walking, at bedtime, and before breakfast! <sup>20</sup>Write them upon the doors of your houses and upon your gates, <sup>21</sup>so that as long as there is sky above the earth, you and your children will enjoy the good life awaiting you in the land the Lord has promised you.<sup>b</sup>

<sup>22</sup>"If you carefully obey all the commandments I give you, loving the Lord your God, walking in all his ways, and clinging to him, <sup>23</sup>then the Lord will drive out all the nations in your land, no matter how much greater and stronger than you they might be. <sup>24</sup>Wherever you go, the land is yours. Your frontiers will stretch from the southern Negeb to Lebanon, and from the Euphrates River to the Mediterranean Sea. <sup>25</sup>No one will be able to stand against you, for the Lord your God will send fear and dread ahead of you wherever you go, just as he has promised.

ing if you obey the commandments of the Lord your God which I am giving you today,<sup>28</sup> and a curse if you refuse them and worship the gods of these other nations.<sup>29</sup> When the Lord your God brings you into the land to possess it, a blessing shall be proclaimed from Mount Gerizim, and a curse from Mount Ebal!<sup>30</sup> (Gerizim and Ebal are mountains west of the Jordan River, where the Canaanites live, in the wasteland near Gilgal, where the oaks of Moreh are.)<sup>31</sup> For you are to cross the Jordan and live in the land the Lord is giving you.<sup>32</sup> But you must obey all the laws I am giving you today.

12 "THESE ARE THE laws you must obey when you arrive in the land which Jehovah, the God of your fathers, has given you forever:

<sup>4,5</sup> "You must not make sacrifices to your God just anywhere, as the heathen sacrifice to their gods. Rather, you must build a sanctuary for him at a place he himself will select as his home.<sup>6</sup> There you shall bring to the Lord your burnt offerings and other sacrifices—your tithes, your offerings presented by the gesture of waving before the altar, your offerings to fulfill your vows, your free-will offerings, and your offerings of the firstborn animals of your flocks and herds.<sup>7</sup> There you and your families shall feast before the Lord your God, and shall rejoice in all he has done for you.

<sup>17</sup> "But none of the offerings may be eaten at home. Neither the tithe of your grain and new wine and olive oil, nor the firstborn of your flocks and herds, nor anything you have vowed to give the Lord, nor your freewill offerings, nor the offerings to be presented to the Lord by waving them before his altar.

<sup>18</sup> All these must be brought to the central altar where you, your children, and the Levites shall eat them before the Lord your God. He will tell you where this altar must be located. Rejoice before the Lord your God in everything you do.

<sup>20-21</sup> "If, when the Lord enlarges your borders, the central altar is too far away from you, then your flocks and herds may be butchered on your own farms, just as you do now with gazelle and deer. And even persons who are ceremonially defiled may eat them. The only restriction is never to eat the blood, for the blood is the life, and you shall not eat the life with the meat.

<sup>26,27</sup> Only your gifts to the Lord, and the offerings you have promised in your vows, and your burnt offerings need be taken to the central altar. These may only be sacrificed upon the altar of the Lord your God. The blood will be poured out upon the altar, and you will eat the meat.

<sup>31</sup> You must not insult the Lord your God like that! These nations have done horrible things that he hates, all in the name of their religion. They have even roasted their sons and daughters before their gods. <sup>32</sup> Obey all the commandments I give you. Do not add to or subtract from them.

13 "IF THERE IS a prophet among you, or one who claims to foretell the future by dreams, <sup>2</sup> and if his predictions come true but he says, 'Come, let us worship the gods of the other nations,' <sup>3</sup> don't listen to him. For the Lord is testing you to find out whether or not you really love him with all your heart and soul. <sup>4</sup> You must never worship any God but Jehovah; obey only his commands and cling to him.

<sup>5</sup> "The prophet who tries to lead you astray must be executed, for he has attempted to foment rebellion against the Lord your God who brought you out of slavery in the land of Egypt. By executing him you will clear out the evil from among you. <sup>6,7</sup> If your nearest relative or closest friend, even a brother, son, daughter, or beloved wife whispers to you to come and worship these foreign gods, <sup>8</sup> do not consent nor listen, and have no pity: Do not spare that person from the penalty; don't conceal his horrible suggestion. <sup>9</sup> Execute him! Your own hand shall be the first upon him to put him to death, then the hands of all the people. <sup>10</sup> Stone him to death because he has tried to draw you away from the Lord your God who brought you from the land of Egypt, the place of slavery.

<sup>12,13,14</sup> "If you ever hear it said about one of the cities of Israel that some worthless rabble have led their fellow citizens astray with the suggestion that they worship foreign gods, first check the facts to see if the rumor is true. If you find that it is, that it is certain that such a horrible thing is happening among you in one of the cities the Lord has given you, <sup>15</sup> you must without fail declare war against that city and utterly destroy all of its inhabitants, and even all of the cattle. <sup>16</sup> Afterwards you must pile all the booty into the middle of the street and burn it, then put the entire city to the torch, as a burnt offering to Jehovah your God. That city shall forever remain a lifeless mound and may never be rebuilt. <sup>17</sup> Keep none of the booty! Then the Lord will turn from his fierce anger and be merciful to you, and have compassion upon you, and make you a great nation just as he promised your ancestors. <sup>18</sup> Of course, the Lord your God will be merciful only if you have been obedient to him and to his commandments which I am giving you today, and if you have been doing that which is right in the eyes of the Lord.

14 "SINCE YOU ARE the people of God, never cut yourselves [as the heathen do when they worship their idols<sup>a</sup>] nor shave the front halves of your heads for funerals. <sup>2</sup> You belong exclusively to the Lord your God, and he has chosen you to be his own possession, more so than any other nation on the face of the earth.

<sup>3,4,5</sup> "You are not to eat any animal I have declared to be ceremonially defiled. These are the animals you may eat:

The ox, the sheep, the goat,
The deer, the gazelle, the roe-buck,
The wild goat, the ibex,
The antelope, and the mountain sheep.

<sup>6</sup> "Any animal that has cloven hooves and chews the cud may be eaten, <sup>7</sup> but if the animal doesn't have both, it may not be eaten. So you may not eat the camel, the hare, or the coney.

"They chew the cud but do not have cloven hooves. <sup>8</sup> Pigs may not be eaten because, although they have cloven hooves, they don't chew the cud. You may not even touch the dead bodies of such animals.

The eagle, the vulture,
The osprey, the buzzard,
The falcon (any variety),
The raven (any variety),
The ostrich, the nighthawk,
The sea gull, the hawk (any variety),
The screech owl, the great owl,
The horned owl, the pelican,
The vulture, the cormorant,
The stork, the heron (any variety),

The hoopoe, the bat.

<sup>21</sup> "Don't eat anything that has died a natural death. However, a foreigner among you may eat it. You may give it or sell it to him, but don't eat it yourself, for you are holy to the Lord your God.

"You must not boil a young goat in its mother's milk.

<sup>22</sup> "You must tithe all of your crops every year. <sup>23</sup> Bring this tithe to eat before the Lord your God at the place he shall choose as his sanctuary; this applies to your tithes of grain, new wine, olive oil, and the firstborn of your flocks and herds. The purpose of tithing is to teach you always to put God first in your lives. <sup>24</sup> If the place the Lord chooses for his sanctuary is so far away that it isn't convenient to carry your tithes to that place, <sup>25</sup> then you may sell the tithe portion of your crops and herds and take the money to the Lord's sanctuary. <sup>26</sup> When you arrive, use the money to buy an ox, a sheep, some wine, or some strong drink, to feast there before the Lord your God, and to rejoice with your household.

<sup>28</sup> "Every third year you are to use your entire tithe for local welfare programs: <sup>29</sup> Give it to the Levites who have no inheritance among you, or to foreigners, or to widows and orphans within your city, so that they can eat and be satisfied; and then Jehovah your God will bless you and your work.

15 "AT THE END of every seventh year there is to be a canceling of all debts! <sup>2</sup> Every creditor shall write "Paid in full" on any promissory note he holds against a fellow Israelite, for the Lord has released everyone from his obligation. <sup>3</sup> (This release does not apply to foreigners.) <sup>4</sup> No one will become poor because of this, for the Lord will greatly bless you in the land he is giving you if you obey this command. The only prerequisite for his blessing is that you carefully heed all the commands of the Lord your God that I am giving you today. <sup>5</sup> He will bless you as he has promised. You shall lend money to many nations but will never need to borrow! You shall rule many nations, but they shall not rule over you!

<sup>6</sup> "But if, when you arrive in the land the Lord will give you, there are any among you who are poor, you must not shut your heart or hand against them; <sup>7</sup> you must lend them as much as they need. <sup>8</sup> Beware! Don't refuse a loan because the year of debt cancellation is close at hand! If you refuse to make the loan and the needy man cries out to the Lord, it will be counted against you as a sin. <sup>9</sup> You must lend him what he needs, and don't moan about it either! For the Lord will prosper you in everything you do because of this! <sup>10</sup> There will always be some among you who are poor; that is why this commandment is necessary. You must lend to them liberally.

<sup>16</sup> "But if your Hebrew slave doesn't want to leave—if he says he loves you and enjoys your pleasant home and gets along well with you—<sup>17</sup> then take an awl and pierce his ear into the door, and after that he shall be your slave forever. Do the same with your women slaves. <sup>18</sup> But when you free a slave you must not feel bad, for remember that for six years he has cost you less than half the price of a hired hand! And the Lord your God will prosper all you do because you have released him!

for your family at home. Anyone, even if ceremonially defiled at the time, may eat it, just as anyone may eat a gazelle or deer. <sup>23</sup> But don't eat the blood; pour it out upon the ground like water.

16 "ALWAYS REMEMBER TO celebrate the Passover during the month of April,<sup>a</sup> for that was when Jehovah your God brought you out of Egypt by night. <sup>2</sup> Your Passover sacrifice shall be either a lamb or an ox, sacrificed to the Lord your God at his sanctuary. <sup>3</sup> Eat the sacrifice with unleavened bread. Eat unleavened bread for seven days as a reminder of the bread you ate as you escaped from Egypt. This is to remind you that you left Egypt in such a hurry that there was no time for the bread to rise.<sup>b</sup> Remember that day all the rest of your lives! <sup>4</sup> For seven days no trace of yeast shall be in your homes, and none of the Passover lamb shall be left until the next morning.

begins, <sup>10</sup> there shall be another festival before the Lord your God called the Festival of Weeks. At that time bring to him a free-will offering proportionate in size to his blessing upon you as judged by the amount of your harvest. <sup>11</sup> It is a time to rejoice before the Lord with your family and household. And don't forget to include the local Levites, foreigners, widows, and orphans. Invite them to accompany you to the celebration at the sanctuary. <sup>12</sup> Remember! You were a slave in Egypt, so be sure to carry out this command.

<sup>13</sup> "Another celebration, the Festival of Shelters, must be observed for seven days at the end of the harvest season, after the grain is threshed and the grapes have been pressed. <sup>14</sup> This will be a happy time of rejoicing together with your family and servants. And don't forget to include the Levites, foreigners, orphans, and widows of your town.

<sup>15</sup> "This feast will be held at the sanctuary, which will be located at the place the Lord will designate. It is a time of deep thanksgiving to the Lord for blessing you with a good harvest and in so many other ways; it shall be a time of great joy.

The Festival of Unleavened Bread,

The Festival of Weeks,

The Festival of Shelters.

"On each of these occasions bring a gift to the Lord. <sup>17</sup> Give as you are able, according as the Lord has blessed you.

<sup>18</sup> "Appoint judges and administrative officials for all the cities the Lord your God is giving you. They will administer justice in every part of the land. <sup>19</sup> Never twist justice to benefit a rich man, and never accept bribes. For bribes blind the eyes of the wisest and corrupt their decisions. <sup>20</sup> Justice must prevail.

"That is the only way you will be successful in the land which the Lord your God is giving you.

<sup>21</sup> "Never, under any circumstances, are you to erect shameful images beside the altar of the Lord your God. <sup>22</sup> And never set up an obelisk, for the Lord hates them!

17 "NEVER SACRIFICE A sick or defective ox or sheep to the Lord your God. He doesn't feel honored by such gifts!

<sup>23</sup> "If anyone, whether man or woman, in any village throughout your land violates your covenant with God by worshiping other gods, the sun, moon, or stars—which I have strictly forbidden—<sup>1</sup> first check the rumor very carefully; if there is no doubt it is true, <sup>2</sup> then that man or woman shall be taken outside the city and shall be stoned to death. <sup>3</sup> However, never put a man to death on the testimony of only one witness; there must be at least two or three. <sup>4</sup> The witnesses shall throw the first stones, and then all the people shall join in. In this way you will purge all evil from among you.

<sup>5</sup> "If a case arises that is too hard for you to decide—for instance, whether someone is guilty of murder when there is insufficient evidence, or whether someone's rights have been violated—you shall take the case to the sanctuary of the Lord your God,<sup>9</sup> to the priests and Levites, and the chief judge on duty at the time will make the decision.

<sup>11</sup> The sentence he imposes is to be fully executed. <sup>12</sup> If the defendant refuses to accept the decision of the priest or judge appointed by God for this purpose, the penalty is death. Such sinners must be purged from Israel. <sup>13</sup> Then everyone will hear about what happened to the man who refused God's verdict, and they will be afraid to defy the court's judgment a second time.

<sup>14</sup> "When you arrive in the land the Lord your God will give you, and have conquered it, and begin to think, 'We ought to have a king like the other nations around us'—<sup>15</sup> be sure that you select as king the man the Lord your God shall choose. He must be an Israelite, not a foreigner. <sup>16</sup> Be sure that he doesn't build up a large stable of horses for himself, nor send his men to Egypt to raise horses for him there, for the Lord has told you, 'Never return to Egypt again.' <sup>17</sup> He must not have too many wives, lest his heart be turned away from the Lord, neither shall he be excessively rich.

<sup>18</sup> "And when he has been crowned and sits upon his throne as king, then he must copy these laws from the book kept by the Levite-priests. <sup>19</sup> That copy of the laws shall be his constant companion. He must read from it every day of his life so that he will learn to respect the Lord his God by obeying all of his commands. <sup>20</sup> This regular reading of God's laws will prevent him from feeling that he is better than his fellow citizens. It will also prevent him from turning away from God's laws in the slightest respect, and will ensure his having a long, good reign. His sons will then follow him upon the throne.

18 "REMEMBER THAT THE priests and all the other members of the Levite tribe will not be given property like the other tribes. So the priests and Levites are to be supported by the sacrifices brought to the altar of the Lord and by the other offerings the people bring to him. <sup>2</sup> They don't need to own property, for the Lord is their property! That is what he promised them! <sup>3</sup> The shoulder, the cheeks, and the stomach of every ox or sheep brought for sacrifice must be given to the priests. <sup>4</sup> In addition, the priests shall receive the harvest samples brought in thanksgiving to the Lord—the first of the grain, the new wine, the olive oil, and of the fleece at shearing time. <sup>5</sup> For the Lord your God has chosen the tribe of Levi, of all the tribes, to minister to the Lord from generation to generation.

<sup>6,7</sup> "Any Levite, no matter where he lives in the land of Israel, has the right to come to the sanctuary at any time and minister in the name of the Lord, just like his brother Levites who work there regularly. <sup>8</sup> He shall be given his share of the sacrifices and offerings as his right, not just if he is in need.

burned to death as a sacrifice to heathen gods, must be killed.<sup>a</sup> No Israeli may practice black magic, or call on the evil spirits for aid, or be a fortune teller,<sup>11</sup> or be a serpent charmer, medium, or wizard, or call forth the spirits of the dead.

<sup>15</sup> "Instead, he will raise up for you a Prophet like me, an Israeli, a man to whom you must listen and whom you must obey. <sup>16</sup> For this is what you yourselves begged of God at Mount Horeb. There at the foot of the mountain you begged that you might not have to listen to the terrifying voice of God again, or see the awesome fire on the mountain, lest you die.

<sup>17</sup> "All right," the Lord said to me, 'I will do as they have requested. <sup>18</sup> I will raise up from among them a Prophet, an Israeli like you. I will tell him what to say, and he shall be my spokesman to the people. <sup>19</sup> I will personally deal with anyone who will not listen to him and heed his messages from me. <sup>20</sup> But any prophet who falsely claims that his message is from me, shall die. And any prophet who claims to give a message from other gods must die.' <sup>21</sup> If you wonder, 'How shall we know whether the prophecy is from the Lord or not?'

<sup>22</sup> this is the way to know: If the thing he prophesies doesn't happen, it is not the Lord who has given him the message; he has made it up himself. You have nothing to fear from him.

19 "WHEN THE LORD your God has destroyed the nations you will displace, and when you are living in their cities and homes, <sup>23</sup> you must set apart three Cities of Refuge so that anyone who accidentally kills someone may flee to safety. Divide the country into three districts, with one of these cities in each district; and keep the roads to these cities in good repair.

"These cities must be scattered so that one of them will be reasonably close to everyone; otherwise the angry avenger might catch and kill the innocent slayer, even though he should not have died since he had not killed deliberately.

<sup>8</sup> "If the Lord enlarges your boundaries as he promised your ancestors, and gives you all the land he promised <sup>9</sup> (whether he does this depends on your obedience to all these commandments I am giving you today—loving the Lord your God and walking his paths), then you must designate three additional Cities of Refuge. <sup>10</sup> In this way you will be able to avoid the death of innocent people, and you will not be held responsible for unjustified bloodshed.

<sup>11</sup> "But if anyone hates his neighbor and springs out of hiding and kills him, and then flees into one of the Cities of Refuge, <sup>12</sup> the elders of his home town shall send for him and shall bring him home and deliver him over to the dead man's avenger, to kill him. <sup>13</sup> Don't pity him! Purge all murderers from Israel! Only then will all go well with you.

<sup>14</sup> "When you arrive in the land the Lord your God is giving you, remember that you must never steal a man's land by moving the boundary marker.

<sup>15</sup> "Never convict anyone on the testimony of one witness. There must be at least two, and three is even better. <sup>16</sup> If anyone gives false witness, claiming he has seen someone do wrong when he hasn't, <sup>17</sup> both men shall be brought before the priests and judges on duty before the Lord at the time. <sup>18</sup> They must be closely questioned, and if the witness is lying, <sup>19</sup> his penalty shall be the punishment he thought the other man would get. In this way you will purge out evil from among you.

20 "WHEN YOU GO to war and see before you vast numbers of horses and chariots, an army far greater than yours, don't be frightened! The Lord your God is with you—the same God who brought you safely out of Egypt! <sup>2</sup> Before you begin the battle, a priest shall stand before the Israeli army and say, <sup>3</sup> "Listen to me, all you men of Israel! Don't be afraid as you go out to fight today! <sup>4</sup> For the Lord your God is going with you! He will fight for you against your enemies, and he will give you the victory!"

"The Lord will give you victory."

<sup>5</sup> "Then the officers of the army shall address the men in this manner: 'Has anyone just built a new house, but not yet dedicated it? If so, go home! For you might be killed in the battle, and someone else would dedicate it! <sup>6</sup> Has anyone just planted a vineyard but not yet eaten any of its fruit? If so, go home! You might die in battle and someone else would eat it! <sup>7</sup> Has anyone just become engaged? Well, go home and get married! For you might die in the battle, and someone else would marry your fiancée. <sup>8</sup> And now, is anyone afraid? If you are, go home before you frighten the rest of us!"

<sup>10</sup> "As you approach a city to fight against it, first offer it a truce. <sup>11</sup> If it accepts the truce and opens its gates to you, then all its people shall become your servants. <sup>12</sup> But if it refuses and won't make peace with you, you must besiege it.

<sup>13</sup> When the Lord your God has given it to you, kill every male in the city; <sup>14</sup> but you may keep for yourselves all the women, children, cattle, and booty. <sup>15</sup> These instructions apply only to distant cities, not to those in the Promised Land<sup>a</sup> itself.

<sup>16</sup> "For in the cities within the boundaries of the Promised Land you are to save no one; destroy every living thing. <sup>17</sup> Utterly destroy the Hittites, the Amorites, the Canaanites, the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites. This is the commandment of the Lord your God.

<sup>18</sup> "The purpose of this command is to prevent the people of the land from luring you into idol worship and into participation in their loathsome customs, thus sinning deeply against the Lord your God.

<sup>19</sup> "When you besiege a city, don't destroy the fruit trees. Eat all the fruit you wish; just don't cut down the trees. They aren't enemies who need to be slaughtered! <sup>20</sup> But you may cut down trees that aren't valuable for food. Use them for the siege [to make ladders, portable towers, and battering rams<sup>b</sup>].

21 "IF, WHEN YOU arrive in the Promised Land, a murder victim is found lying in a field and no one has seen the murder, <sup>2</sup> the elders and judges shall measure from the body to the nearest city. <sup>3</sup> Then the elders of that city shall take a heifer that has never been yoked, <sup>4</sup> and lead it to a valley where there is running water—a valley neither plowed nor sowed—and there break its neck.

<sup>5</sup> "Then the priests shall come (for the Lord your God has chosen them to minister before him and to pronounce his blessings and decide lawsuits and punishments), <sup>6</sup> and shall wash their hands over the heifer, <sup>7</sup> and say, 'Our hands have not shed this blood, neither have our eyes seen it. <sup>8</sup> O Lord, forgive your people Israel whom you have redeemed, and do not charge them with murdering an innocent man. Forgive us the guilt of this man's blood.' <sup>9</sup> In this way you will put away the guilt from among you by following the Lord's directions.

<sup>15</sup> "If a man has two wives but loves one and not the other, and both have borne him children, and the mother of his oldest son is the wife he doesn't love, <sup>16</sup> he may not give a larger inheritance to his younger son, the son of the wife he loves. <sup>17</sup> He must give the customary double portion to his oldest son, who is the beginning of his strength and who owns the rights of a first-born son, even though he is the son of the wife his father doesn't love.

<sup>18</sup> "If a man has a stubborn, rebellious son who will not obey his father or mother, even though they punish him, <sup>19</sup> then his father and mother shall take him before the elders of the city <sup>20</sup> and declare, 'This son of ours is stubborn and rebellious and won't obey; he is a worthless drunkard.' <sup>21</sup> Then the men of the city shall stone him to death. In this way you shall put away this evil from among you, and all the young men of Israel will hear about what happened and will be afraid.

<sup>22</sup> "If a man has committed a crime worthy of death, and is executed and then hanged on a tree, <sup>23</sup> his body shall not remain on the tree overnight. You must bury him the same day, for anyone hanging on a tree is cursed of God. Don't defile the land the Lord your God has given you.

22 "IF YOU SEE someone's ox or sheep wandering away, don't pretend you didn't see it; take it back to its owner. <sup>2</sup> If you don't know who the owner is, take it to your farm and keep it there until the owner comes looking for it, and then give it to him. <sup>3</sup> The same applies to donkeys, clothing, or anything else you find. Keep it for its owner.

wear women's clothing. This is abhorrent to the Lord your God.

<sup>6</sup> "If a bird's nest is lying on the ground, or if you spy one in a tree, and there are young ones or eggs in it with the mother sitting in the nest, don't take the mother with the young. <sup>7</sup> Let her go, and take only the young. The Lord will bless you for it.

<sup>8</sup> "Every new house must have a guardrail around the edge of the flat rooftop to prevent anyone from falling off and bringing guilt to both the house and its owner.

<sup>16</sup> "Her father shall tell them, 'I gave my daughter to this man to be his wife, and now he despises her, <sup>17,18</sup> and has accused her of shameful things, claiming that she was not a virgin when she married; yet here is the proof.' And they shall spread the garment before the judges. The judges shall sentence the man to be whipped, <sup>19</sup> and fine him one hundred dollars<sup>c</sup> to be given to the girl's father, for he has falsely accused a virgin of Israel. She shall remain his wife and he may never divorce her. <sup>20</sup> But if the man's accusations are true, and she was not a virgin, <sup>21</sup> the judges shall take the girl to the door of her father's home where the men of the city shall stone her to death. She has defiled Israel by flagrant crime, being a prostitute while living at home with her parents; and such evil must be cleansed from among you.

<sup>22</sup> "If a man is discovered committing adultery, both he and the other man's wife must be killed; in this way evil will be cleansed from Israel. <sup>23,24</sup> If a girl who is engaged is seduced within the walls of a city, both she and the man who seduced her shall be taken outside the gates and stoned to death—the girl because she didn't scream for help; and the man because he has violated the virginity of another man's fiancée. <sup>25,26,27</sup> In this way you will reduce crime among you. But if this deed takes place out in the country, only the man shall die. The girl is as innocent as a murder victim; for it must be assumed that she screamed, but there was no one to hear and rescue her out in the field.

with his father's widow<sup>e</sup> since she belonged to his father.

23 "IF A MAN'S testicles are crushed or his penis cut off, he shall not enter the sanctuary. <sup>2</sup> A bastard may not enter the sanctuary, nor any of his descendants for ten generations.

<sup>3</sup> "No Ammonite or Moabite may ever enter the sanctuary, even after the tenth generation. <sup>4</sup> The reason for this law is that these nations did not welcome you with food and water when you came out of Egypt; they even tried to hire Balaam, the son of Beor from Pethor, Mesopotamia, to curse you. <sup>5</sup> But the Lord wouldn't listen to Balaam; instead, he turned the intended curse into a blessing for you, because the Lord loves you. <sup>6</sup> You must never, as long as you live, try to help the Ammonites or the Moabites in any way. <sup>7</sup> But don't look down on the Edomites and the Egyptians; the Edomites are your brothers and you lived among the Egyptians. <sup>8</sup> The grandchildren of the Egyptians who came with you from Egypt may enter the sanctuary of the Lord.

shall be outside the camp. <sup>13</sup> Each man must have a spade as part of his equipment; after every bowel movement he must dig a hole with the spade and cover the excrement.

<sup>14</sup> The camp must be holy, for the Lord walks among you to protect you and to cause your enemies to fall before you; and the Lord does not want to see anything indecent lest he turn away from you.

<sup>15,16</sup> "If a slave escapes from his master, you must not force him to return; let him live among you in whatever town he shall choose, and do not oppress him.

<sup>17,18</sup> "No prostitutes are permitted in Israel, either men or women; you must not bring to the Lord any offering from the earnings of a prostitute or a homosexual, for both are detestable to the Lord your God.

<sup>20</sup> You may take interest from a foreigner, but not from an Israeli. For if you take interest from a brother, an Israeli, the Lord your God won't bless you when you arrive in the Promised Land.

<sup>21</sup> "When you make a vow to the Lord, be prompt in doing whatever it is you promised him, for the Lord demands that you promptly fulfill your vows; it is a sin if you don't.

<sup>22</sup> (But it is not a sin if you refrain from vowing!) <sup>23</sup> Once you make the vow, you must be careful to do as you have said, for it was your own choice, and you have vowed to the Lord your God.

<sup>24</sup> "You may eat your fill of the grapes from another man's vineyard, but do not take any away in a container. <sup>25</sup> It is the same with someone else's grain—you may eat a few handfuls of it, but don't use a sickle.

24 "IF A MAN doesn't like something about his wife, he may write a letter stating that he has divorced her, give her the letter, and send her away. <sup>2</sup> If she then remarries, <sup>3</sup> and the second husband also divorces her, or dies, <sup>4</sup> the former husband may not marry her again, for she has been defiled; this would bring guilt upon the land the Lord your God is giving you.

"A newly married man is not to be drafted into the army nor given any other special responsibilities; for a year he shall be free to be at home, happy with his wife.

<sup>6</sup> "It is illegal to take a millstone as a pledge, for it is a tool by which its owner gains his livelihood. <sup>7</sup> If anyone kidnaps a brother Israelite, and treats him as a slave or sells him, the kidnapper must die, in order to purge the evil from among you.

<sup>8</sup> "Be very careful to follow the instructions of the priest in cases of leprosy, for I have given him rules and guidelines you must obey to the letter: <sup>9</sup> Remember what the Lord your God did to Miriam as you were coming from Egypt.

<sup>10</sup> "If you lend anything to another man, you must not enter his house to get his security. <sup>11</sup> Stand outside! The owner will bring it out to you. <sup>12,13</sup> If the man is poor and gives you his cloak as security, you are not to sleep in it. Take it back to him at sundown so that he can use it through the night and bless you; and the Lord your God will count it as righteousness for you.

<sup>14,15</sup> "Never oppress a poor hired man, whether a fellow Israelite or a foreigner living in your town. Pay him his wage each day before sunset, for since he is poor he needs it right away; otherwise he may cry out to the Lord against you and it would be counted as a sin against you.

<sup>17</sup> "Justice must be given to migrants and orphans and you must never accept a widow's garment in pledge of her debt. <sup>18</sup> Always remember that you were slaves in Egypt, and that the Lord your God rescued you; that is why I have given you this command. <sup>19</sup> If, when reaping your harvest, you forget to bring in a sheaf from the field, don't go back after it. Leave it for the migrants, orphans, and widows; then the Lord your God will bless and prosper all you do. <sup>20</sup> When you beat the olives from your olive trees, don't go over the boughs twice; leave anything remaining for the migrants, orphans, and widows.

<sup>22</sup> Remember that you were slaves in the land of Egypt—that is why I am giving you this command.

25 "If a man is guilty of a crime, and the penalty is a beating, the judge shall command him to lie down and be beaten in his presence with up to forty stripes in proportion to the seriousness of the crime; but no more than forty stripes may be given lest the punishment seem too severe, and your brother be degraded in your eyes.

<sup>13,14,15</sup> "In all your transactions you must use accurate scales and honest measurements, so that you will have a long, good life in the land the Lord your God is giving you. <sup>16</sup> All who cheat with unjust weights and measurements are detestable to the Lord your God.

<sup>17</sup> "You must never forget what the people of Amalek did to you as you came from Egypt. <sup>18</sup> Remember that they fought with you and struck down those who were faint and weary and lagging behind, with no respect or fear of God. <sup>19</sup> Therefore, when the Lord your God has given you rest from all your enemies in the Promised Land, you are utterly to destroy the name of Amalek from under heaven. Never forget this.

26 "WHEN YOU ARRIVE in the land and have conquered it and are living there, <sup>23</sup> you must present to the Lord at his sanctuary the first sample from each annual<sup>a</sup> harvest. Bring it in a basket and hand it to the priest on duty and say to him, 'This gift is my acknowledgment, that the Lord my God has brought me to the land he promised our ancestors.' <sup>24</sup> The priest will then take the basket from your hand and set it before the altar. <sup>25</sup> You shall then say before the Lord your God, 'My ancestors were migrant Arameans who went to Egypt for refuge. They were few in number, but in Egypt they became a mighty nation. <sup>26</sup> The Egyptians mistreated us and we cried to the Lord God. He heard us and saw our hardship, toil, and oppression, <sup>27</sup> and brought us out of Egypt with mighty miracles and a powerful hand. He did great and awesome miracles before the Egyptians, <sup>28</sup> and has brought us to this place and given us this land "flowing with milk and honey!"

<sup>10</sup> And now, O Lord, see, I have brought you a token of the first of the crops from the ground you have given me." Then place the samples before the Lord your God, and worship him. <sup>11</sup> Afterwards, go and feast on all the good things he has given you. Celebrate with your family and with any Levites or migrants living among you.

<sup>12</sup> "Every third year is a year of special tithing. That year you are to give all your tithes to the Levites, migrants, orphans, and widows, so that they will be well fed. <sup>13</sup> Then you shall declare before the Lord your God, 'I have given all of my tithes to the Levites, the migrants, the orphans, and the widows, just as you commanded me; I have not violated or forgotten any of your rules. <sup>14</sup> I have not touched the tithe while I was ceremonially defiled (for instance, while I was in mourning), nor have I offered any of it to the dead. I have obeyed the Lord my God and have done everything you commanded me. <sup>15</sup> Look down from your holy home in heaven and bless your people and the land you have given us, as you promised our ancestors; make it a land "flowing with milk and honey!"

<sup>16</sup> "You must wholeheartedly obey all of these commandments and ordinances which the Lord your God is giving you today. <sup>17</sup> You have declared today that he is your God, and you have promised to obey and keep his laws and ordinances, and to heed all he tells you to do. <sup>18</sup> And the Lord has declared today that you are his very own people, just as he promised, and that you must obey all of his laws.<sup>19</sup> If you do, he will make you greater than any other nation, allowing you to receive praise, honor, and renown; but to attain this honor and renown you must be a holy people to the Lord your God, as he requires."

27 THEN MOSES AND the elders of Israel gave the people these further instructions to obey:<sup>a</sup>

<sup>9</sup> Then Moses and the Levite-priests addressed all Israel as follows: "O Israel, listen! Today you have become the people of the Lord your God,<sup>10</sup> so today you must begin to obey all of these commandments I have given you."

seph, and Benjamin shall stand upon Mount Gerizim to proclaim a blessing,<sup>13</sup> and the tribes of Reuben, Gad, Asher, Zebulun, Dan, and Naphtali shall stand upon Mount Ebal to proclaim a curse.<sup>14</sup> Then the Levites standing between<sup>d</sup> them shall shout to all Israel, <sup>15</sup> "The curse of God be upon anyone who makes and worships an idol, even in secret, whether carved of wood or made from molten metal—for these handmade gods are hated by the Lord.' And all the people shall reply, 'Amen.'

<sup>16</sup> "Cursed is anyone who despises his father or mother.' And all the people shall reply, 'Amen.'

<sup>18</sup> "Cursed is he who takes advantage of a blind man.' And all the people shall reply, 'Amen.'

<sup>21</sup> "Cursed is he who has sexual intercourse with an animal.' And all the people shall reply, 'Amen.'

<sup>26</sup> "Cursed is anyone who does not obey these laws.' And all the people shall reply, 'Amen.'

28 "IF YOU FULLY obey all of these commandments of the Lord your God, the laws I am declaring to you today, God will transform you into the greatest nation in the world. <sup>2-6</sup> These are the blessings that will come upon you:

Blessings in the city,
Blessings in the field;
Many children,
Ample crops,
Large flocks and herds;
Blessings of fruit and bread;
Blessings when you come in,
Blessings when you go out.

<sup>7</sup> "The Lord will defeat your enemies before you; they will march out together against you but scatter before you in seven directions! <sup>8</sup> The Lord will bless you with good crops and healthy cattle, and prosper everything you do when you arrive in the land the Lord your God is giving you.

<sup>9</sup> "He will change you into a holy people dedicated to himself; this he has promised to do if you will only obey him and walk in his ways. <sup>10</sup> All the nations in the world shall see that you belong to the Lord, and they will stand in awe.

<sup>11</sup> "The Lord will give you an abundance of good things in the land, just as he promised: many children, many cattle, and abundant crops. <sup>12</sup> He will open to you his wonderful treasury of rain in the heavens, to give you fine crops every season. He will bless everything you do; and you shall lend to many nations, but shall not borrow from them. <sup>13</sup> If you will only listen and obey the commandments of the Lord your God that I am giving you today, he will make you the head and not the tail, and you shall always have the upper hand. <sup>14</sup> But each of these blessings depends on your not turning aside in any way from the laws I have given you; and you must never worship other gods.

<sup>15-19</sup> "If you won't listen to the Lord your God and won't obey these laws I am giving you today, then all of these curses shall come upon you:

Curses in the city;
Curses in the fields;
Curses on your fruit and bread;

The curse of barren wombs;
Curses upon your crops;
Curses upon the fertility of your cattle and flocks;
Curses when you come in;
Curses when you go out.

<sup>20</sup> "For the Lord himself will send his personal curse upon you. You will be confused and a failure in everything you do, until at last you are destroyed because of the sin of forsaking him. <sup>21</sup> He will send disease among you until you are destroyed from the face of the land which you are about to enter and possess. <sup>22</sup> He will send tuberculosis, fever, infections, plague, and war. He will blight your crops, covering them with mildew. All these devastations shall pursue you until you perish.

<sup>23</sup> "The heavens above you will be as unyielding as bronze, and the earth beneath will be as iron. <sup>24</sup> The land will become as dry as dust for lack of rain, and dust storms shall destroy you.

<sup>25</sup> "The Lord will cause you to be defeated by your enemies. You will march out to battle gloriously, but flee before your enemies in utter confusion; and you will be tossed to and fro among all the nations of the earth. <sup>26</sup> Your dead bodies will be food to the birds and wild animals, and no one will be there to chase them away.

<sup>27</sup> "He will send upon you Egyptian boils, tumors, scurvy, and itch, for none of which will there be a remedy. <sup>28</sup> He will send madness, blindness, fear, and panic upon you. <sup>29</sup> You shall grope in the bright sunlight just as the blind man gropes in darkness. You shall not prosper in anything you do; you will be oppressed and robbed continually, and nothing will save you.

<sup>30</sup> "Someone else will marry your fiancée; someone else will live in the house you build; someone else will eat the fruit of the vineyard you plant. <sup>31</sup> Your oxen shall be butchered before your eyes, but you won't get a single bite of the meat. Your donkeys will be driven away as you watch, and will never return to you again. Your sheep will be given to your enemies. And there will be no one to protect you. <sup>32</sup> You will watch as your sons and daughters are taken away as slaves. Your heart will break with longing for them, but you will not be able to help them. <sup>33</sup> A foreign nation you have not even heard of will eat the crops you will have worked so hard to grow. You will always be oppressed and crushed. <sup>34</sup> You will go mad because of all the tragedy you see around you. <sup>35</sup> The Lord will cover you with boils from head to foot.

<sup>36</sup> "He will exile you and the king you will choose, to a nation to whom neither you nor your ancestors gave a second thought; and while in exile you shall worship gods of wood and stone! <sup>37</sup> You will become an object of horror, a proverb and a byword among all the nations, for the Lord will thrust you away.

<sup>38</sup> "You will sow much but reap little, for the locusts will eat your crops. <sup>39</sup> You will plant vineyards and care for them, but you won't eat the grapes or drink the wine, for worms will destroy the vines. <sup>40</sup> Olive trees will be growing everywhere, but there won't be enough olive oil to anoint yourselves! For the trees will drop their fruit before it is matured. <sup>41</sup> Your sons and daughters will be snatched away from you as slaves. <sup>42</sup> The locusts shall destroy your trees and vines. <sup>43</sup> Foreigners living among you shall become richer and richer while you become poorer and poorer. <sup>44</sup> They shall lend to you, not you to them! They shall be the head and you shall be the tail!

stroyed—all because you refuse to listen to the Lord your God.

<sup>47,48</sup> You will become slaves to your enemies because of your failure to praise God for all that he has given you: The Lord will send your enemies against you, and you will be hungry, thirsty, naked, and in want of everything. A yoke of iron shall be placed around your neck until you are destroyed!

<sup>49</sup> "The Lord will bring a distant nation against you, swooping down upon you like an eagle; a nation whose language you don't understand—<sup>50</sup> a nation of fierce and angry men who will have no mercy upon young or old. <sup>51</sup> They will eat you out of house and home until your cattle and crops are gone. Your grain, new wine, olive oil, calves, and lambs will all disappear.

<sup>52</sup> That nation will lay siege to your cities and knock down your highest walls—the walls you will trust to protect you. <sup>53</sup> You will even eat the flesh of your own sons and daughters in the terrible days of siege that lie ahead. <sup>54</sup> The most tender-hearted man among you will be utterly callous toward his own brother and his beloved wife and his children who are still alive. <sup>55</sup> He will refuse to give them a share of the flesh he is devouring—the flesh of his own children—because he is starving in the midst of the siege of your cities. <sup>56,57</sup> The most tender and delicate woman among you—the one who would not so much as touch her feet to the ground—will refuse to share with her beloved husband, son, and daughter. She will hide from them the afterbirth and the new baby she has borne, so that she herself can eat them: so terrible will be the hunger during the siege and the awful distress caused by your enemies at your gates.

<sup>58,59</sup> "If you refuse to obey all the laws written in this book, thus refusing reverence to the glorious and fearful name of Jehovah your God, then Jehovah will send perpetual plagues upon you and upon your children. <sup>60</sup> He will bring upon you all the diseases of Egypt which you feared so much, and they shall plague the land. <sup>61</sup> And that is not all! The Lord will bring upon you every sickness and plague there is, even those not mentioned in this book, until you are destroyed: <sup>62</sup> There will be few of you left, though before you were as numerous as stars. All this if you do not listen to the Lord your God.

<sup>63</sup> "Just as the Lord has rejoiced over you and has done such wonderful things for you and has multiplied you, so the Lord at that time will rejoice in destroying you; and you shall disappear from the land.

<sup>64</sup> For the Lord will scatter you among all the nations from one end of the earth to the other. There you will worship heathen gods that neither you nor your ancestors have known, gods made of wood and stone! <sup>65</sup> There among those nations you shall find no rest, but the Lord will give you trembling hearts, darkness, and bodies wasted from sorrow and fear. <sup>66</sup> Your lives will hang in doubt. You will live night and day in fear, and will have no reason to believe that you will see the morning light. <sup>67</sup> In the morning you will say, 'Oh, that night were here!" And in the evening you will say, 'Oh, that morning were here!' You will say this because of the awesome horrors surrounding you. <sup>10</sup> Then the Lord will send you back to Egypt in ships, a journey I promised you would never need to make again; and there you will offer to sell yourselves to your enemies as slaves—but no one will even want to buy you."

29 IT WAS ON the plains of Moab that Moses restated the covenant which the Lord had made with the people of Israel at Mount Horeb. <sup>23</sup> He summoned all Israel before him and told them,

"You have seen with your own eyes the great plagues and mighty miracles that the Lord brought upon Pharaoh and his people in the land of Egypt. <sup>4</sup> But even yet the Lord hasn't given you hearts that understand or eyes that see or ears that hear! <sup>5</sup> For forty years God has led you through the wilderness, yet your clothes haven't become old, and your shoes haven't worn out! <sup>6</sup> The reason he hasn't let you settle down to grow grain for bread or grapes for wine and strong drink, is so that you would realize that it is the Lord your God who has been caring for you.

ple, your judges, and your administrative officers—are standing today before the Lord your God, <sup>11</sup> along with your little ones and your wives and the foreigners that are among you—those who chop your wood and carry your water. <sup>12</sup> You are standing here to enter into a contract with Jehovah your God, a contract he is making with you today. <sup>13</sup> He wants to confirm you today as his people, and to confirm that he is your God, just as he promised your ancestors, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. <sup>14,15</sup> This contract is not with you alone as you stand before him today, but with all future generations of Israel as well.

<sup>20</sup> For the Lord will not pardon! His anger and jealousy will be hot against that man. And all the curses written in this book shall lie heavily upon him, and the Lord will blot out his name from under heaven.

<sup>21</sup> The Lord will separate that man from all the tribes of Israel, to pour out upon him all the curses (which are recorded in this book) that befall those who break this contract.

<sup>22</sup> Then your children and the generations to come and the foreigners that pass by from distant lands shall see the devastation of the land and the diseases the Lord will have sent upon it. <sup>23</sup> They will see that the whole land is alkali and salt, a burned over wasteland, unsown, without crops, without a shred of vegetation—just like Sodom and Gomorrah and Admah and Zebboim, destroyed by the Lord in his anger.

<sup>24</sup> “Why has the Lord done this to his land?” the nations will ask. “Why was he so angry?”

<sup>25</sup> “And they will be told, ‘Because the people of the land broke the contract made with them by Jehovah, the God of their ancestors, when he brought them out of the land of Egypt. <sup>26</sup> For they worshiped other gods, violating his express command. <sup>27</sup> That is why the anger of the Lord was hot against this land, so that all his curses (which are recorded in this book) broke forth upon them. <sup>28</sup> In great anger the Lord rooted them out of their land and threw them away into another land, where they still live today!’

<sup>29</sup> “There are secrets the Lord your God has not revealed to us, but these words which he has revealed are for us and our children to obey forever.

30 “WHEN ALL THESE things have happened to you—the blessings and the curses I have listed—you will meditate upon them as you are living among the nations where the Lord your God will have driven you. <sup>2</sup> If at that time you want to return to the Lord your God, and you and your children have begun wholeheartedly to obey all of the commandments I have given you today, <sup>3</sup> then the Lord your God will rescue you from your captivity! He will have mercy upon you and come and gather you out of all the nations where he will have scattered you. <sup>4</sup> Though you are at the ends of the earth, he will go and find you and bring you back again <sup>5</sup> to the land of your ancestors. You shall possess the land again, and he will do you good and bless you even more than he did your ancestors! <sup>6</sup> He will cleanse your hearts and the hearts of your children and of your children’s children so that you will love the Lord your God with all your hearts and souls, and Israel shall come alive again!

<sup>7,8</sup> “If you return to the Lord and obey all the commandments that I command you today, the Lord your God will take his curses and turn them against your enemies—against those who hate you and persecute you. <sup>9</sup> The Lord your God will prosper everything you do and give you many children and much cattle and wonderful crops; for the Lord will again rejoice over you as he did over your fathers. <sup>10</sup> He will rejoice if you but obey the commandments written in this book of the law, and if you turn to the Lord your God with all your hearts and souls. <sup>11</sup> Obeying these commandments is not something beyond your strength and reach; <sup>12</sup> for these laws are not in the far heavens, so distant that you can’t hear and obey them, and with no one to bring them down to you;

<sup>11</sup> nor are they beyond the ocean, so far that no one can bring you their message; <sup>14</sup> but they are very close at hand—in your hearts and on your lips—so that you can obey them.

<sup>15</sup> "Look, today I have set before you life and death, depending on whether you obey or disobey. <sup>16</sup> I have commanded you today to love the Lord your God and to follow his paths and to keep his laws, so that you will live and become a great nation, and so that the Lord your God will bless you and the land you are about to possess. <sup>17</sup> But if your hearts turn away and you won't listen—if you are drawn away to worship other gods—<sup>18</sup> then I declare to you this day that you shall surely perish; you will not have a long, good life in the land you are going in to possess.

<sup>19</sup> "I call heaven and earth to witness against you that today I have set before you life or death, blessing or curse. Oh, that you would choose life; that you and your children might live! <sup>20</sup> Choose to love the Lord your God and to obey him and to cling to him, for he is your life and the length of your days. You will then be able to live safely in the land the Lord promised your ancestors, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob."

31 AFTER MOSES HAD said all these things to the people of Israel, <sup>2</sup> he told them, "I am now 120 years old! I am no longer able to lead you,<sup>3</sup> for the Lord has told me that I shall not cross the Jordan River. <sup>3</sup> But the Lord himself will lead you, and will destroy the nations living there, and you shall overcome them. Joshua is your new commander, as the Lord has instructed. <sup>4</sup> The Lord will destroy the nations living in the land, just as he destroyed Sihon and Og, the kings of the Amorites. <sup>5</sup> The Lord will deliver over to you the people living there, and you shall destroy them as I have commanded you. <sup>6</sup> Be strong! Be courageous! Do not be afraid of them! For the Lord your God will be with you. He will neither fail you nor forsake you."

<sup>7</sup> Then Moses called for Joshua and said to him, as all Israel watched, "Be strong! Be courageous! For you shall lead these people into the land promised by the Lord to their ancestors; see to it that they conquer it. <sup>8</sup> Don't be afraid, for the Lord will go before you and will be with you; he will not fail nor forsake you."

<sup>9</sup> Then Moses wrote out the laws he had already delivered to the people and gave them to the priests, the sons of Levi, who carried the Ark containing the Ten Commandments of the Lord. Moses also gave copies of the laws to the elders of Israel. <sup>10,11</sup> The Lord commanded that these laws be read to all the people at the end of every seventh year—the Year of Release—at the Festival of Tabernacles, when all Israel would assemble before the Lord at the sanctuary.

<sup>12</sup> "Call them all together," the Lord instructed, "—men, women, children, and foreigners living among you—to hear the laws of God and to learn his will, so that you will reverence the Lord your God and obey his laws. <sup>13</sup> Do this so that your little children who have not known these laws will hear them and learn how to revere the Lord your God as long as you live in the Promised Land."

<sup>14</sup> Then the Lord said to Moses, "The time has come when you must die. Summon Joshua and come into the Tabernacle where I can give him his instructions." So Moses and Joshua came and stood before the Lord.

<sup>15</sup> He appeared to them in a great cloud at the Tabernacle entrance, <sup>16</sup> and said to Moses, "You shall die and join your ancestors. After you are gone, these people will begin worshipping foreign gods in the Promised Land. They will forget about me and break the contract I have made with them. <sup>17</sup> Then my anger will flame out against them and I will abandon them, hiding my face from them, and they shall be destroyed. Terrible trouble will come upon them, so that they will say, 'God is no longer among us!' <sup>18</sup> I will turn away from them because of their sins in worshipping other gods.

<sup>19</sup> "Now write down the words of this song, and teach it to the people of Israel as my warning to them. <sup>20</sup> When I have brought them into the land I promised their ancestors—a land 'flowing with milk and honey'—and when they have become fat and prosperous, and worship other gods and despise me and break my contract, <sup>21</sup> and great disasters come upon them, then this song will remind them of the reason for their woes. (For this song will live from generation to generation.)

I know now, even before they enter the land, what these people are like."

<sup>22</sup> So, on that very day, Moses wrote down the words of the song and taught it to the Israelites. <sup>23</sup> Then he charged Joshua (son of Nun) to be strong and courageous, and said to him, "You must bring the people of Israel into the land the Lord promised them; for the Lord says, 'I will be with you.'"

<sup>24</sup> When Moses had finished writing down all the laws that are recorded in this book, <sup>25</sup> he instructed the Levites who carried the Ark containing the Ten Commandments <sup>26</sup> to put this book of the law beside the Ark, as a solemn warning to the people of Israel.

<sup>27</sup> "For I know how rebellious and stubborn you are," Moses told them. "If even today, while I am still here with you, you are defiant rebels against the Lord, how much more rebellious will you be after my death! <sup>28</sup> Now summon all the elders and officers of your tribes so that I can speak to them, and call heaven and earth to witness against them. <sup>29</sup> I know that after my death you will utterly defile yourselves and turn away from God and his commands; and in the days to come evil will crush you for you will do what the Lord says is evil, making him very angry."

32 "LISTEN, O HEAVENS and earth!

Listen to what I say!

<sup>2</sup> My words shall fall upon you

Like the gentle rain and dew,
 Like rain upon the tender grass,
 Like showers on the hillside.
<sup>3</sup> I will proclaim the greatness of the Lord.
 How glorious he is!
<sup>4</sup> He is the Rock. His work is perfect.
 Everything he does, is just and fair.
 He is faithful, without sin.
<sup>5</sup> But Israel has become corrupt, Smeared with sin. They are no longer his;
 They are a stubborn, twisted generation.
<sup>6</sup> Is this the way you treat Jehovah?
 O foolish people,
 Is not God your Father?
 Has he not created you?
 Has he not established you and made you strong?
<sup>7</sup> Remember the days of long ago!
 (Ask your father and the aged men;
 They will tell you all about it.)
<sup>8</sup> When God divided up the world among the nations,
 He gave each of them a supervising angel!
<sup>9</sup> But he appointed none for Israel;
 For Israel was God's own personal possession!
<sup>10</sup> God protected them in the howling wilderness
 As though they were the apple of his eye.
<sup>11</sup> He spreads his wings over-

them,
 Even as an eagle overspreads her young.
 She carries them upon her wings—
 As does the Lord his people!
<sup>12</sup> When the Lord alone was leading them,
 And they lived without foreign gods,
<sup>13</sup> God gave them fertile hill-tops,
 Rolling, fertile fields,
 Honey from the rock,
 And olive oil from stony ground!<sup>a</sup> <sup>14</sup> He gave them milk and meat—
 Choice Bashan rams, and goats—
 And the finest of the wheat;
 They drank the sparkling wine.
<sup>15</sup> But Israel<sup>b</sup> was soon overfed;
 Yes, fat and bloated;
 Then, in plenty, they forsook their God.
 They shrugged away the Rock of their salvation.
<sup>16</sup> Israel began to follow foreign gods,
 And Jehovah was very angry;
 He was jealous of his people.
<sup>17</sup> They sacrificed to heathen gods,
 To new gods never before worshiped.

 had given them birth.

doing,
And detested them!
His sons and daughters were insulting him.
<sup>20</sup> He said, 'I will abandon them;
See what happens to them then!
For they are a stubborn,
faithless generation.
<sup>21</sup> They have made me very jealous of their idols,
Which are not gods at all.
Now I, in turn, will make them jealous
By giving my affections
To the foolish Gentile nations of the world.
<sup>22</sup> For my anger has kindled a fire
That burns to the depths of the underworld,
Consuming the earth and all of its crops,
And setting its mountains on fire.
<sup>23</sup> I will heap evils upon them And shoot them down with my arrows.
<sup>24</sup> I will waste them with hunger,
Burning fever, and fatal disease.
I will devour them! I will set wild beasts upon them,
To rip them apart with their teeth;
And deadly serpents
Crawling in the dust.
<sup>25</sup> Outside, the enemies' sword—
Inside, the plague<sup>c</sup>— Shall terrorize young men and girls alike;

"Israel is a faithless nation."

The baby nursing at the breast,
And aged men.
<sup>26</sup> I had decided to scatter them to distant lands,
So that even the memory of
them
Would disappear.
<sup>27</sup> But then I thought,
'My enemies will boast,
'Israel is destroyed by our own might;
It was not the Lord
Who did it!''
<sup>28</sup> Israel is a stupid nation;
Foolish, without understanding.
<sup>29</sup> Oh, that they were wise!
Oh, that they could understand!
Oh, that they would know what they are getting into!
<sup>30</sup> How could one single enemy chase a thousand of them,
And two put ten thousand to flight, Unless their Rock had abandoned them,
Unless the Lord had destroyed them?
<sup>31</sup> But the rock of other nations
Is not like our Rock; Prayers to their gods are valueless.
<sup>32</sup> They act like men of Sodom and Gomorrah:
Their deeds<sup>d</sup> are bitter with poison;
<sup>33</sup> They drink the wine of serpent venom.
<sup>34</sup> But Israel<sup>c</sup> is my special people,

Sealed as jewels within my treasury.

And I decree the punishment of all her enemies:
Their doom is sealed.

<sup>34</sup> The Lord will see his people righted,
And will have compassion on them when they slip.

He will watch their power ebb away,
Both slave and free.

<sup>35</sup> Then God will ask,
'Where are their gods—
The rocks they claimed to be their refuge?

To whom they sacrificed their fat and wine?

Let those gods arise,
And help them!

<sup>37</sup> Don't you see that I alone am God?

I kill and make live.
I wound and heal—
No one delivers from my power.

<sup>40,41</sup> I raise my hand to heaven
And vow by my existence,
That I will whet the lightning of my sword!

And hurl my punishments upon my enemies!

My arrows shall be drunk with blood!

My sword devours the flesh and blood

Of all the slain and captives.
The heads of the enemy
Are gory with blood.'

Praise his people,
O Gentile nations,
For he will avenge his people,

Taking vengeance on his enemies,
Purifying his land
And his people."

<sup>44,45</sup> When Moses and Joshua had recited all the words of this song to the people, <sup>46</sup> Moses made these comments:

"Meditate upon all the laws I have given you today, and pass them on to your children. <sup>47</sup> These laws are not mere words—they are your life! Through obeying them, you will live long, plentiful lives in the land you are going to possess across the Jordan River."

<sup>48</sup> That same day, the Lord said to Moses, <sup>49</sup> "Go to Mount Nebo in the Abarim mountains, in the land of Moab across from Jericho. Climb to its heights, and look out across the land of Canaan, the land I am giving to the people of Israel. <sup>50</sup> After you see the land you must die and join your ancestors, just as Aaron your brother died in Mount Hor and joined them. <sup>51</sup> For you dishonored me among the people of Israel at the springs of Meribathkadesh, in the wilderness of Zin.
<sup>52</sup> You will see spread out before you the land I am giving the people of Israel, but you will not enter it."

33 THIS IS THE blessing that Moses, the man of God, gave to the people of Israel before his death:

Mount Sinai,
And dawned upon us from Mount Seir;
He shone from Mount Paran, Surrounded by ten thousands of holy angels,<sup>a</sup>

 And with flaming fire at his right hand.
<sup>3</sup> How he loves his people—
 His holy ones are in his hands.
 They followed in your steps,
 O Lord.
 They have received their directions from you.
<sup>4</sup> The laws I have given Are your precious possession.
<sup>5</sup> The Lord became king in Jerusalem, Elected by a convocation of the leaders of the tribes!
<sup>6</sup> Let Reuben live forever
 And may his tribe increase!"
 And Moses said of Judah:
 "O Lord, hear the cry of
 Judah
 And unite him with Israel;
 Fight for him against his enemies."
<sup>8</sup> Then Moses said concerning the tribe of Levi:
 "Give to godly Levi
 Your Urim and your Thum-mim.
 You tested Levi at Massah and at Meribah;
<sup>9</sup> He obeyed your instructions
 [and destroyed many sinners<sup>b</sup>],
 Even his own children, brothers, fathers, and mothers.
<sup>10</sup> The Levites shall teach God's laws to Israel
 And shall work before you at the incense altar
 And the altar of burnt offering.

<sup>11</sup> O Lord, prosper the Levites
 And accept the work they do for you.
 Crush those who are their
 enemies;
 Don't let them rise again."
<sup>12</sup> Concerning the tribe of Benjamin, Moses said:
 "He is beloved of God
 And lives in safety beside him.
 God surrounds him with his loving care,
 And preserves him from every harm."
 seph, he said:
 "May his land be blessed by God
 With the choicest gifts of heaven
 And of the earth that lies below.
<sup>14</sup> May he be blessed With the best of what the sun makes grow;
 Growing richly month by month,
<sup>15</sup> With the finest of mountain crops
 And of the everlasting hills.
<sup>16</sup> May he be blessed with the best gifts
 Of the earth and its fullness,
 And with the favor of God who appeared
 In the burning bush.
 Let all these blessings come upon Joseph,
 The prince among his brothers.
<sup>17</sup> He is a young bull in strength and splendor, With the strong horns of a wild ox

To push against the nations everywhere;
This is my blessing on the multitudes of Ephraim
And the thousands of Manasseh."

<sup>18</sup> Of the tribe of Zebulun, Moses
said:

"Rejoice, O Zebulun, you
outdoorsmen,
And Issachar, you lovers of your tents;

<sup>19</sup> They shall summon the people

To celebrate their sacrifices with them.

Lo, they taste the riches of the sea

And the treasures of the sand."

Moses said:

"A blessing upon those who help Gad.

He crouches like a lion,
With savage arm and face and head.

<sup>21</sup> He chose the best of the land for himself

Because it is reserved for a leader.

He led the people Because he carried out God's penalties for Israel."

<sup>22</sup> Of the tribe of Dan, Moses said:

"Dan is like a lion's cub Leaping out from Bashan."

Moses said:

"O Naphtali, you are satisfied

With all the blessings of the Lord;

The Mediterranean coast and the Negeb
Are your home."

<sup>24</sup> Of the tribe of Asher:

"Asher is a favorite son,
Esteemed above his brothers;
He bathes his feet in soothing olive oil.

<sup>25</sup> May you be protected with strong bolts

Of iron and bronze,
And may your strength match the length of your days!

<sup>26</sup> There is none like the God-of Jerusalem—

He descends from the heavens

In majestic splendor to help you.

<sup>27</sup> The eternal God is your Refuge,

And underneath are the everlasting arms.

He thrusts out your enemies
before you;

It is he who cries, 'Destroy
them!'

<sup>28</sup> So Israel dwells safely, Prospering in a land of corn-and wine,

While the gentle rains descend from heaven.

<sup>29</sup> What blessings are yours,
O Israel!

Who else has been saved by the Lord?

He is your shield and your helper!

He is your excellent sword!
Your enemies shall bow low
before you,

And you shall trample on their backs!"

34 THEN MOSES CLIMBED from the plains of Moab to Pisgah Peak in Mount Nebo, across from Jericho. And the Lord pointed out to him the Promised Land, as they gazed out across Gilead as far as Dan:

<sup>2</sup> "There is Naphtali; and there is Ephraim and Manasseh; and across there, Judah, extending to the Mediterranean Sea; <sup>3</sup> there is the Negeb; and the Jordan Valley; and Jericho, the city of palm trees; and Zoar," the Lord told him.

<sup>4</sup> "It is the Promised Land," the Lord told Moses. "I promised Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob that I would give it to their descendants. Now you have seen it, but you will not enter it."

<sup>5</sup> So Moses, the disciple of the Lord, died in the land of Moab as the Lord had said. <sup>6</sup> The Lord buried him in a valley near Beth-Peor in Moab, but no one knows the exact place.

<sup>7</sup> Moses was 120 years old when he died, yet his eyesight was perfect and he was as strong as a young man. <sup>8</sup> The people of Israel mourned for him for thirty days on the plains of Moab.

<sup>9</sup> Joshua (son of Nun) was full of the spirit of wisdom, for Moses had laid his hands upon him; so the people of Israel obeyed him, and followed the commandments that the Lord had given to Moses.

<sup>10</sup> There has never been another prophet like Moses, for the Lord talked to him face to face. <sup>11,12</sup> And at God's command he performed amazing miracles which have never been equaled.

He did great and terrifying wonders before Pharaoh and his entire court in Egypt, and before the people of Israel in the wilderness.

JOSHUA

1 AFTER THE DEATH of Moses, the Lord's disciple, God spoke to Moses' assistant, whose name was Joshua (the son of Nun), and said to him, <sup>2</sup> "Now that my disciple is dead, [you are the new leader of Israel<sup>a</sup>]. Lead my people across the Jordan River into the Promised Land. <sup>3</sup> I say to you what I said to Moses: 'Wherever you go will be part of the land of Israel— <sup>4</sup> all the way from Negeb desert in the south to the Lebanon mountains in the north, and from the Mediterranean Sea in the west to the Euphrates River in the east, including all the land of the Hittites.' <sup>5</sup> No one will be able to oppose you as long as you live, for I will be with you just as I was with Moses; I will not abandon you or fail to help you.

<sup>6</sup> "Be strong and brave, for you will be a successful leader of my people; and they shall conquer all the land I promised to their ancestors. <sup>7</sup> You need only to be strong and courageous and to obey to the letter every law Moses gave you, for if you are careful to obey every one of them you will be successful in everything you do. <sup>4</sup> Constantly remind the people about these laws, and you yourself must think about them every day and every night so that you will be sure to obey all of them. For only then will you succeed. <sup>5</sup> Yes, be bold and strong! Banish fear and doubt! For remember, the Lord your God is with you wherever you go."

<sup>10,11</sup> Then Joshua issued instructions to the leaders of Israel to tell the people to get ready to cross the Jordan River. "In three days we will go across and conquer and live in the land which God has given us!" he told them.

<sup>12,13</sup> Then he summoned the leaders of the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh and reminded them of their agreement with Moses: "The Lord your God has given you a homeland here on the east side of the Jordan River," Moses had told them, <sup>14</sup> "so your wives and children and cattle may remain here, but your troops, fully armed, must lead the other tribes across the Jordan River to help them conquer their territory on the other side; <sup>15</sup> stay with them until they complete the conquest. Only then may you settle down here on the east side of the Jordan."

<sup>17,18</sup> "We will obey you just as we obeyed Moses," they assured him, "and may the Lord your God be with you as he was with Moses. If anyone, no matter who, rebels against your commands, he shall die. So lead on with courage and strength!"

2 THEN JOSHUA SENT two spies from the Israeli camp at Acacia to cross the river and check out the situation on the other side, especially at Jericho. They arrived at an inn operated by a woman named Rahab, who was a prostitute. They were planning to spend the night there, <sup>2</sup> but someone informed the king of Jericho that two Israelis who were suspected of being spies had arrived in the city that evening. <sup>3</sup> He dispatched a police squadron to Rahab's home, demanding that she surrender them.

"They are spies," he explained. "They have been sent by the Israeli leaders to discover the best way to attack us."

<sup>4</sup> But she had hidden them, so she told the officer in charge, "The men were here earlier, but I didn't know they were spies. <sup>5</sup> They left the city at dusk as the city gates were about to close, and I don't know where they went. If you hurry you can probably catch up with them!"

<sup>6</sup> But actually she had taken them up to the roof and hidden them beneath piles of flax that were drying there. <sup>7</sup> So the constable and his men went all the way to the Jordan River looking for them; meanwhile, the city gates were kept shut. <sup>8</sup> Rahab went up to talk to the men before they retired for the night.

<sup>9</sup> "I know perfectly well that your God is going to give my country to you," she told them. "We are all afraid of you; everyone is terrified if the word Israel is even mentioned. <sup>10</sup> For we have heard how the Lord made a path through the Red Sea for you when you left Egypt! And we know what you did to Sihon and Og, the two Amorite kings east of the Jordan, and how you ruined their land and completely destroyed their people. <sup>11</sup> No wonder we are afraid of you! No one has any fight left in him after hearing things like that, for your God is the supreme God of heaven, not just an ordinary god. <sup>12,13</sup> Now I beg for this one thing: Swear to me by the sacred name of your God that when Jericho is conquered you will let me live, along with my father and mother, my brothers and sisters, and all their families. This is only fair after the way I have helped you."

<sup>14</sup> The men agreed. "If you won't betray us, we'll see to it that you and your family aren't harmed," they promised. <sup>15</sup> "We'll defend you with our lives." Then, since her house was on top of the city wall, she let them down by a rope from a window.

<sup>16</sup> "Escape to the mountains," she told them. "Hide there for three days until the men who are searching for you have returned; then go on your way."

<sup>17,18</sup> But before they left, the men had said to her, "We cannot be responsible for what happens to you unless this rope is hanging from this window and unless all your relatives—your father, mother, brothers, and anyone else—are here inside the house. <sup>19</sup> If they go out into the street we assume no responsibility whatsoever; but we swear that no one inside this house will be killed or injured. <sup>20</sup> However, if you betray us, then this oath will no longer bind us in any way."

<sup>21</sup> "I accept your terms," she replied. And she left the scarlet rope hanging from the window. <sup>22</sup> The spies went up into the mountains and stayed there three days, until the men who were chasing them had returned to the city after searching everywhere along the road without success. <sup>23</sup> Then the two spies came down from the mountain and crossed the river and reported to Joshua all that had happened to them.

<sup>24</sup> "The Lord will certainly give us the entire land," they said, "for all the people over there are scared to death of us."

3 EARLY THE NEXT morning Joshua and all the people of Israel left Acacia, and arrived that evening at the banks of the Jordan River, where they camped for a few days before crossing.

<sup>2,3,4</sup> On the third day, officers went through the camp giving these instructions: "When you see the priests carrying the Ark of God,<sup>a</sup> follow them. You have never before been where we are going now, so they will guide you. However, stay about a half mile behind, with a clear space between you and the Ark; be sure that you don't get any closer."

the priests, "Take up the Ark and lead us across the river!" And so they started out.

<sup>7</sup> "Today," the Lord told Joshua, "I will give you great honor, so that all Israel will know that I am with you just as I was with Moses."

<sup>9</sup> Then Joshua summoned all the people and told them, "Come and listen to what the Lord your God has said. <sup>10</sup> Today you are going to know for sure that the living God is among you and that he will, without fail, drive out the Canaanites, Hittites, Hivites, Perizzites, Girgashites, Amorites, and Jebusites—all the people who now live in the land you will soon occupy. <sup>11</sup> Think of it! The Ark of God, who is Lord of the whole earth, will lead you across the river!"

<sup>13,14</sup> When the priests who are carrying the Ark touch the water with their feet, the river will stop flowing as though held back by a dam, and will pile up as though against an invisible wall!" Now it was the harvest season and the Jordan was overflowing all its banks; but as the people set out to cross the river and as the feet of the priests who were carrying the Ark touched the water at the river's edge, <sup>15,16</sup> suddenly, far up the river at the city of Adam, near Zarethan, the water began piling up as though against a dam! And the water below that point flowed on to the Salt Sea until the riverbed was empty. Then all the people crossed at a spot where the river was close to the city of Jericho, "and the priests who were carrying the Ark stood on dry ground in the middle of the Jordan and waited as all the people passed by."

4 WHEN ALL THE people were safely across, the Lord said to Joshua,

<sup>2,3</sup> "Tell the twelve men chosen for a special task, one from each tribe, each to take a stone from where the priests are standing in the middle of the Jordan, and to carry them out and pile them up as a monument at the place where you camp tonight."

<sup>4</sup> So Joshua summoned the twelve men, <sup>5</sup> and told them, "Go out into the middle of the Jordan where the Ark is. Each of you is to carry out a stone on your shoulder—twelve stones in all, one for each of the twelve tribes. <sup>6</sup> We will use them to build a monument so that in the future, when your children ask, 'What is this monument for?' <sup>7</sup> you can tell them, 'It is to remind us that the Jordan River stopped flowing when the Ark of God went across!' The monument will be a permanent reminder to the people of Israel of this amazing miracle."

<sup>8</sup> So the men did as Joshua told them. They took twelve stones from the middle of the Jordan river—one for each tribe, just as the Lord had commanded Joshua. They carried them to the place where they were camped for the night and constructed a monument there. <sup>9</sup> Joshua also built another monument of twelve stones in the middle of the river, at the place where the priests were standing; and it is there to this day.<sup>10</sup> The priests who were carrying the Ark stood in the middle of the river until all these instructions of the Lord, which had been given to Joshua by Moses, had been carried out. Meanwhile, the people had hurried across the riverbed,<sup>11</sup> and when everyone was over, the people watched the priests carry the Ark up out of the river.

b Their duties are explained in chapter 4, verses 2-7.

<sup>12,13</sup> The troops of Reuben, Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh—fully armed as Moses had instructed, and forty thousand strong—led the other tribes of the Lord's army across to the plains of Jericho.

<sup>14</sup> It was a tremendous day for Joshua! The Lord made him great in the eyes of all the people of Israel, and they revered him as much as they had Moses, and respected him deeply all the rest of his life.<sup>15,16</sup> For it was Joshua who, at the Lord's command, issued the orders to the priests carrying the Ark.

"Come up from the riverbed," the Lord now told him to command them.

stones from the Jordan were piled up as a monument.

<sup>21</sup> Then Joshua explained again the purpose of the stones: "In the future," he said, "when your children ask you why these stones are here and what they mean,<sup>22</sup> you are to tell them that these stones are a reminder of this amazing miracle—that the nation of Israel crossed the Jordan River on dry ground!<sup>23</sup> Tell them how the Lord our God dried up the river right before our eyes, and then kept it dry until we were all across! It is the same thing the Lord did forty years ago<sup>b</sup> at the Red Sea! <sup>24</sup> He did this so that all the nations of the earth will realize that Jehovah is the mighty God, and so that all of you will worship him forever."

5 WHEN THE NATIONS west of the Jordan River—the Amorites and Canaanites who lived along the Mediterranean coast—heard that the Lord had dried up the Jordan River so the people of Israel could cross, their courage melted away completely and they were paralyzed with fear.

<sup>25</sup> The Lord then told Joshua to set aside a day to circumcise the entire male population of Israel. (It was the second time in Israel's history that this was done.) The Lord instructed them to manufacture flint knives for this purpose. The place where the circumcision rite took place was named "The Hill of the Foreskins."<sup>26</sup> The reason for this second circumcision ceremony was that although when Israel left Egypt all of the men who had been old enough to bear arms had been circumcised, that entire generation had died during the years in the wilderness, and none of the boys born since that time had been circumcised. <sup>6</sup> For the nation of Israel had traveled back and forth across the wilderness for forty years until all the men who had been old enough to bear arms when they left Egypt were dead; they had not obeyed the Lord, and he vowed that he wouldn't let them enter the land he had promised to Israel—a land that “flowed with milk and honey.” <sup>7</sup> So now Joshua circumcised their children—the men who had grown up to take their fathers' places.

<sup>8,9</sup> And the Lord said to Joshua, “Today I have ended your shame of not being circumcised.” <sup>a</sup> So the place where this was done was called Gilgal (meaning, “to end” <sup>b</sup>), and is still called that today. After the ceremony the entire nation rested in camp until the raw flesh of their wounds had been healed.

<sup>10</sup> While they were camped at Gilgal on the plains of Jericho, they celebrated the Passover during the evening of the 14th day of the month. <sup>11,12</sup> The next day they began to eat from the gardens and grain fields which they invaded, and they made unleavened bread. The following day no manna fell, and it was never seen again! So from that time on they lived on the crops of Canaan.

<sup>13</sup> As Joshua was sizing up the city of Jericho, a man appeared nearby with a drawn sword. Joshua strode over to him and demanded,

“Are you friend or foe?”

<sup>14</sup> “I am the Commander-in-Chief of the Lord's army,” he replied.

Joshua fell to the ground before him and worshiped him and said, “Give me your commands.”

<sup>15</sup> “Take off your shoes,” the Commander told him, “for this is holy ground.” And Joshua did.

6 THE GATES OF Jericho were kept tightly shut because the people were afraid of the Israelis; no one was allowed to go in or out.

from any of you until I tell you to shout; then shout!"

<sup>11</sup> The Ark was carried around the city once that day, after which everyone returned to the camp again and spent the night there. <sup>12,13,14</sup> At dawn the next morning they went around again, and returned again to the camp. They followed this pattern for six days. <sup>15</sup> At dawn of the seventh day they started out again, but this time they went around the city not once, but seven times. <sup>16</sup> The seventh time, as the priests blew a long, loud trumpet blast, Joshua yelled to the people, "Shout! The Lord has given us the city!"

<sup>17</sup> (He had told them previously, "Kill everyone except Rahab the prostitute and anyone in her house, for she protected our spies. <sup>18</sup> Don't take any loot, for everything is to be destroyed. If it isn't, disaster will fall upon the entire nation of Israel. <sup>19</sup> But all the silver and gold and the utensils of bronze and iron will be dedicated to the Lord, and must be brought into his treasury.")

<sup>20</sup> So when the people heard the trumpet blast, they shouted as loud as they could. And suddenly the walls of Jericho crumbled and fell before them, and the people of Israel poured into the city from every side and captured it! <sup>21</sup> They destroyed everything in it—men and women, young and old; oxen; sheep; donkeys—everything.

rescued her, along with her father, mother, brothers, and other relatives who were with her. Arrangements were made for them to live outside the camp of Israel. <sup>24</sup> Then the Israelites burned the city and everything in it except that the silver and gold and the bronze and iron utensils were kept for the Lord's treasury. <sup>25</sup> Thus Joshua saved Rahab the prostitute and her relatives who were with her in the house, and they still live among the Israelites because she hid the spies sent to Jericho by Joshua.

<sup>26</sup> Then Joshua declared a terrible curse upon anyone who might rebuild Jericho, warning that when the foundation was laid, the builder's oldest son would die, and when the gates were set up, his youngest son would die.<sup>a</sup>

7 BUT THERE WAS sin among the Israelites: God's command to destroy everything except that which was reserved for the Lord's treasury was disobeyed. For Achan (the son of Carmi, grandson of Zabdi, and great-grandson of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah) took some loot for himself, and the Lord was very angry with the entire nation of Israel because of this.

no point in all of us going there."

<sup>7</sup> Joshua cried out to the Lord, "O Jehovah, why have you brought us over the Jordan River if you are going to let the Amorites kill us? Why weren't we content with what we had? Why didn't we stay on the other side? <sup>8</sup> O Lord, what am I to do now that Israel has fled from her enemies! <sup>9</sup> For when the Canaanites and the other nearby nations hear about it, they will surround us and attack us and wipe us out. And then what will happen to the honor of your great name?"

<sup>10,11</sup> But the Lord said to Joshua, "Get up off your face! Israel has sinned and disobeyed my commandment and has taken loot when I said it was not to be taken; and they have not only taken it, they have lied about it and have hidden it among their belongings.

<sup>12</sup> That is why the people of Israel are being defeated. That is why your men are running from their enemies—for they are cursed.<sup>a</sup> I will not stay with you any longer unless you completely rid yourselves of this sin.

<sup>13</sup> "Get up! Tell the people, 'Each of you must undergo purification rites in preparation for tomorrow, for the Lord your God of Israel says that someone has stolen from him, and you cannot defeat your enemies until you deal with this sin.' <sup>14</sup> In the morning you must come by tribes, and the Lord will point out the tribe to which the guilty man belongs. And that tribe must come by its clans and the Lord will point out the guilty clan; and the clan must come by its families, and then each member of the guilty family must come one by one. <sup>15</sup> And the one who has stolen that which belongs to the Lord shall be burned with fire, along with everything he has, for he has violated the covenant of the Lord and has brought calamity upon all of Israel."

<sup>16</sup> So, early the next morning, Joshua brought the tribes of Israel before the Lord, and the tribe of Judah was indicated. <sup>17</sup> Then he brought the clans of Judah, and the clan of Zerah was singled out. Then the families of that clan were brought before the Lord and the family of Zabdi was indicated.

<sup>19</sup> Joshua said to Achan, "My son, give glory to the God of Israel and make your confession. Tell me what you have done."

ver worth $200, and a bar of gold worth $500. I wanted them so much that I took them, and they are hidden in the ground beneath my tent, with the silver buried deeper than the rest."

<sup>22</sup> So Joshua sent some men to search for the loot. They ran to the tent and found the stolen goods hidden there just as Achan had said, with the silver buried beneath the rest. <sup>23</sup> They brought it all to Joshua and laid it on the ground in front of him. <sup>24</sup> Then Joshua and all the Israelites took Achan, the silver, the robe, the wedge of gold, his sons, his daughters, his oxen, donkeys, sheep, his tent, and everything he had, and brought them to the valley of Achor.

<sup>25</sup> Then Joshua said to Achan, "Why have you brought calamity upon us? The Lord will now bring calamity upon you."

And the men of Israel stoned them to death and burned their bodies, <sup>26</sup> and piled a great heap of stones upon them. The stones are still there to this day, and even today that place is called "The Valley of Calamity." And so the fierce anger of the Lord was ended.

8 THEN THE LORD said to Joshua, "Don't be afraid or discouraged; take the entire army and go to Ai, for it is now yours to conquer. I have given the king of Ai and all of his people to you. <sup>2</sup> You shall do to them as you did to Jericho and her king; but this time you may keep the loot and the cattle for yourselves. Set an ambush behind the city."

<sup>5</sup> "This is the plan," he explained to them. "When our main army attacks, the men of Ai will come out to fight as they did before, and we will run away. <sup>6</sup> We will let them chase us until they have all left the city; for they will say, 'The Israelites are running away again just as they did before!' <sup>7</sup> Then you will jump up from your ambush and enter the city, for the Lord will give it to you. <sup>8</sup> Set the city on fire, as the Lord has commanded. You now have your instructions."

a These were evidently additional to the thirty thousand men already hiding there. Perhaps the additional five thousand were to intercept the forces expected from Bethel (verse 17).

in the city were called out to chase after them; so the city was left defenseless; <sup>17</sup> there was not a soldier left in Ai or Bethel and the city gates were left wide open.

<sup>18</sup> Then the Lord said to Joshua, "Point your spear toward Ai, for I will give you the city." Joshua did. <sup>19</sup> And when the men in ambush saw his signal, they jumped up and poured into the city and set it on fire. <sup>20,21</sup> When the men of Ai looked behind them, smoke from the city was filling the sky, and they had nowhere to go. When Joshua and the troops who were with him saw the smoke, they knew that their men who had been in ambush were inside the city, so they turned upon their pursuers and began killing them. <sup>22</sup> Then the Israelites who were inside the city came out and began destroying the enemy from the rear. So the men of Ai were caught in a trap and all of them died; not one man survived or escaped, <sup>23</sup> except for the king of Ai, who was captured and brought to Joshua.

on a tree until evening, but as the sun was going down, he took down the body and threw it in front of the city gate. There he piled a great heap of stones over it, which can still be seen.

<sup>30</sup> Then Joshua built an altar to the Lord God of Israel at Mount Ebal, <sup>31</sup> as Moses had commanded<sup>b</sup> in the book of his laws: "Make me an altar of boulders that have neither been broken nor carved," the Lord had said concerning Mount Ebal. Then the priests offered burnt sacrifices and peace offerings to the Lord on the altar. <sup>32</sup> And as the people of Israel watched, Joshua carved upon the stones of the altar each of the Ten Commandments.<sup>c</sup>

<sup>33</sup> Then all the people of Israel—including the elders, officers, judges, and the foreigners living among them—divided into two groups, half of them standing at the foot of Mount Gerizim and half at the foot of Mount Ebal. Between them stood the priests with the Ark, ready to pronounce their blessing. (This was all done in accordance with the instructions given long before by Moses.) <sup>34</sup> Joshua then read to them all of the statements of blessing and curses that Moses had written in the book of God's laws. <sup>35</sup> Every commandment Moses had ever given was read before the entire assembly, including the women and children and the foreigners who lived among the Israelites.

9 WHEN THE KINGS of the surrounding area heard what had happened to Jericho, they quickly combined their armies to fight for their lives against Joshua and the Israelis. These were the kings of the nations west of the Jordan River, along the shores of the Mediterranean as far north as the Lebanon mountains—the Hittites, Amorites, Canaanites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites.

<sup>3,4,5</sup> But when the people of Gibeon heard what had happened to Jericho and Ai, they resorted to trickery to save themselves. They sent ambassadors to Joshua wearing worn-out clothing, as though from a long journey, with patched shoes, weatherworn saddlebags on their donkeys, old, patched wineskins and dry, moldy bread. <sup>6</sup> When they arrived at the camp of Israel at Gilgal, they told Joshua and the men of Israel, "We have come from a distant land to ask for a peace treaty with you."

<sup>7</sup> The Israelis replied to these Hivites, "How do we know you don't live nearby? For if you do, we cannot make a treaty with you."

<sup>8</sup> They replied, "We will be your slaves."

"But who are you?" Joshua demanded. "Where do you come from?"

<sup>9</sup> And they told him, "We are from a very distant country; we have heard of the might of the Lord your God and of all that he did in Egypt, <sup>10</sup> and what you did to the two kings of the Amorites—Sihon, king of Heshbon, and Og, king of Bashan. <sup>11</sup> So our elders and our people instructed us, 'Prepare for a long journey; go to the people of Israel and declare our nation to be their servants, and ask for peace.'

when we left, but now as you see, it is dry and moldy; <sup>13</sup> these wineskins were new, but now they are old and cracked; our clothing and shoes have become worn out from our long, hard trip."

<sup>14,15</sup> Joshua and the other leaders finally believed them. They did not bother to ask the Lord, but went ahead and signed a peace treaty. And the leaders of Israel ratified the agreement with a binding oath.

<sup>16</sup> Three days later the facts came out—these men were close neighbors. <sup>17</sup> The Israeli army set out at once to investigate, and reached their cities in three days. (The names of the cities were Gibeon, Chephirah, Be-eroth, and Kiriath-jearim.) <sup>18</sup> But the cities were not harmed because of the vow which the leaders of Israel had made before the Lord God. The people of Israel were angry with their leaders because of the peace treaty.

<sup>19</sup> But the leaders replied, "We have sworn before the Lord God of Israel that we will not touch them, and we won't. <sup>20</sup> We must let them live, for if we break our oath the wrath of Jehovah will be upon us."

cause we were told that Jehovah instructed his disciple Moses to conquer this entire land and destroy all the people living in it. So we feared for our lives because of you; that is why we have done it.<sup>22</sup> But now we are in your hands; you may do with us as you wish."

<sup>26</sup> So Joshua would not allow the people of Israel to kill them,<sup>27</sup> but they became wood-choppers and water-carriers for the people of Israel and for the altar of the Lord—wherever it would be built (for the Lord hadn't yet told them where to build it). This arrangement is still in force at the time of this writing.

10 WHEN ADONI-ZEDEK, THE king of Jerusalem, heard how Joshua had captured and destroyed Ai and had killed its king, the same as he had done at Jericho, and how the people of Gibeon had made peace with Israel and were now their allies,<sup>1</sup> he was very frightened. For Gibeon was a great city—as great as the royal cities and much larger than Ai—and its men were known as hard fighters.<sup>2</sup> So King Adoni-zedek of Jerusalem sent messengers to several other kings:

King Hoham of Hebron,
King Piram of Jarmuth,
King Japhia of Lachish,
King Debir of Eglon.

<sup>4</sup> "Come and help me destroy Gibeon," he urged them, "for they have made peace with Joshua and the people of Israel."

"Come and help your servants!"

they demanded. "Come quickly and save us! For all the kings of the Amorites who live in the hills are here with their armies."

<sup>8</sup> "Don't be afraid of them," the Lord said to Joshua, "for they are already defeated! I have given them to you to destroy. Not a single one of them will be able to stand up to you."

<sup>9</sup> Joshua traveled all night from Gilgal and took the enemy armies by surprise. <sup>10</sup> Then the Lord threw them into a panic so that the army of Israel slaughtered great numbers of them at Gibeon and chased the others all the way to Beth-horon and Azekah and Makkedah, killing them along the way. <sup>11</sup> And as the enemy was racing down the hill to Beth-horon, the Lord destroyed them with a great hailstorm that continued all the way to Azekah; in fact, more men died from the hail than by the swords of the Israelis.

<sup>12</sup> As the men of Israel were pursuing and harassing the foe, Joshua prayed aloud, "Let the sun stand still over Gibeon, and let the moon stand in its place over the valley of Aijalon!"

<sup>13</sup> And the sun and the moon didn't move until the Israeli army had finished the destruction of its enemies! This is described in greater detail in The Book of Jasher. So the sun stopped in the heavens and stayed there for almost twenty-four hours! <sup>14</sup> There had never been such a day before, and there has never been another since, when the Lord stopped the sun and moon—all because of the prayer of one man. But the Lord was fighting for Israel.

<sup>19</sup> Then Joshua commanded the rest of the army, "Go on chasing the enemy and cut them down from the rear. Don't let them get back to their cities, for the Lord will help you to completely destroy them."

<sup>25</sup> "Don't ever be afraid or discouraged," Joshua said to his men. "Be strong and courageous, for the Lord is going to do this to all of your enemies."

<sup>27</sup> As the sun was going down, Joshua instructed that their bodies be taken down and thrown into the cave where they had been hiding; and a great pile of stones was placed at the mouth of the cave. (The pile is still there today.)

<sup>29</sup> Then the Israelis went to Libnah. <sup>30</sup> There, too, the Lord gave them the city and its king. Every last person was slaughtered, just as at Jericho.

<sup>40</sup> So Joshua and his army conquered the whole country—the nations and kings of the hill country, the Negeb, the lowlands, and the mountain slopes. They destroyed everyone in the land, just as the Lord God of Israel had commanded, <sup>41</sup> slaughtering them from Kadesh-barnea to Gaza, and from Goshen to Gibeon. <sup>42</sup> This was all accomplished in one campaign, for the Lord God of Israel was fighting for his people. <sup>43</sup> Then Joshua and his army returned to their camp at Gilgal.

11 WHEN KING JABIN of Hazor heard what had happened, he sent urgent messages to the following kings:

King Jobab of Madon;
The king of Shimron;
The king of Achshaph;
All the kings of the northern hill country;
The kings in the Arabah, south of Chinneroth;
Those in the lowland;
The kings in the mountain areas of Dor, on the west;
The kings of Canaan, both east and west;
The kings of the Amorites;
The kings of the Hittites;
The kings of the Perizzites;
The kings in the Jebusite hill country;
The Hivite kings in the cities on the slopes of Mount Hermon, in the land of Mizpah.

<sup>6</sup> But the Lord said to Joshua, "Don't be afraid of them, for by this time tomorrow they will all be dead! Hamstring their horses and burn their chariots." <sup>7</sup> Joshua and his troops arrived suddenly at the Springs of Merom and attacked. <sup>8</sup> And the Lord gave all that vast army to the Israelis, who chased them as far as Great Sidon and a place called the Salt Pits, and eastward into the valley of Mizpah; so not one enemy troop survived the battle. <sup>9</sup> Then Joshua and his men did as the Lord had instructed, for they hamstringed the horses and burned all the chariots.

<sup>10</sup> On the way back, Joshua captured Hazor and killed its king. (Hazor had at one time been the capital of the federation of all those kingdoms.) <sup>11</sup> Every person there was killed and the city was burned.

<sup>12</sup> Then he attacked and destroyed all the other cities of those kings. All the people were slaughtered, just as Moses had commanded long before. <sup>13</sup> (However, Joshua did not burn any of the cities built on mounds except for Hazor.) <sup>14</sup> All the loot and cattle of the ravaged cities were taken by the Israelis for themselves, but they killed all the people. <sup>15</sup> For so the Lord had commanded his disciple Moses; and Moses had passed the commandment on to Joshua, who did as he had been told: he carefully obeyed all of the Lord's instructions to Moses.

territories. <sup>18</sup> It took seven years<sup>a</sup> of war to accomplish all of this. <sup>19</sup> None of the cities was given a peace treaty except the Hivites of Gibeon; all of the others were destroyed. <sup>20</sup> For the Lord made the enemy kings want to fight the Israelites instead of asking for peace; so they were mercilessly killed, as the Lord had commanded Moses.

<sup>21</sup> During this period Joshua routed all of the giants—the descendants of Anak who lived in the hill country in Hebron, Debir, Anab, Judah, and Israel; he killed them all and completely destroyed their cities. <sup>22</sup> None was left in all the land of Israel, though some still remained in Gaza, Gath, and Ashdod.

<sup>23</sup> So Joshua took the entire land just as the Lord had instructed Moses; and he gave it to the people of Israel as their inheritance, dividing the land among the tribes.

So the land finally rested from its war.

12 HERE IS THE list of the kings on the east side of the Jordan River whose cities were destroyed by the Israelites: (The area involved stretched all the way from the valley of the Arnon River to Mount Hermon, including the cities of the eastern desert.)

area of Gilead, which lies north of the Jabbok River. <sup>2</sup> Sihon also controlled the Jordan River valley as far north as the western shores of the Lake of Galilee; and as far south as the Salt Sea and the slopes of Mount Pisgah.

<sup>5</sup> Moses and the people of Israel had destroyed these people, and Moses gave the land to the tribes of Reuben and the half-tribe of Manasseh.

<sup>7</sup> Here is a list of the kings destroyed by Joshua and the armies of Israel on the west side of the Jordan. (This land which lay between Baal-gad in the Valley of Lebanon and Mount Halak, west of Mount Seir, was allotted by Joshua to the other tribes of Israel. <sup>8-24</sup> The area included the hill country, the lowlands, the Arabah, the mountain slopes, the Judean Desert, and the Negeb. The people who lived there were the Hittites, the Amorites, the Canaanites, the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites):

The king of Jericho;
The king of Ai, near Bethel;
The king of Jerusalem;
The king of Hebron;

<sup>a</sup> Implied in other text. Literally, "a long time."

The king of Jarmuth;
 The king of Lachish;
 The king of Eglon;
 The king of Gezer;
 The king of Debir;
 The king of Geder;
 The king of Hormah;
 The king of Arad;
 The king of Libnah;
 The king of Adullam;
 The king of Makkedah;
 The king of Bethel;
 The king of Tappu-ah;
 The king of Hepher;
 The king of Aphek;
 The king of Lasharon;
 The king of Madon;
 The king of Hazor;
 The king of Shimron-meron;
 The king of Achshaph;
 The king of Taanach;
 The king of Megiddo;
 The king of Kadesh;
 The king of Jokne-am, in Carmel;
 The king of Dor in the city of Naphathdor;
 The king of Goiim in Gilgal;
 The king of Tirzah.

So in all, thirty-one kings and their cities were destroyed.

13 JOSHUA WAS NOW an old man. "You are growing old," the Lord said to him, "and there are still many nations to be conquered. <sup>27</sup> Here is a list of the areas still to be occupied:

All the land of the Philistines;
 The land of the Geshurites;
 The territory now belonging to the Canaanites from the brook of Egypt to the southern boundary of Ekron;

 Five cities of the Philistines: Gaza, Ashdod, Ashkelon, Gath, Ekron;
 The land of the Avvim in the south;
 In the north,<sup>a</sup> all the land of the Canaanites, including Me-arah (which belongs to the Sidonians), stretching northward<sup>a</sup> to Aphek at the boundary of the Amorites;
 The land of the Gebalites on the coast<sup>a</sup> and all of the Lebanon mountain area from Baal-gad beneath Mount Hermon in the south to the entrance of Hamath in the north;
 All the hill country from Lebanon to Misrephoth-maim, including all the land of the Sidonians.

I am ready to drive these people out from before the nation of Israel, so include all this territory when you divide the land among the nine tribes and the half-tribe of Manasseh as I have commanded you."

<sup>28</sup> The other half of the tribe of Manasseh, and the tribes of Reuben and Gad, had already received their inheritance on the east side of the Jordan, for Moses had previously assigned this land to them. <sup>29</sup> Their territory ran from Aroer, on the edge of the valley of the Arnon River, included the city in the valley, and crossed the tableland of Medeba to Dibon;<sup>10</sup> it also included all the cities of King Sihon of the Amorites, who reigned in Heshbon, and extended as far as the borders of Ammon.<sup>11</sup> It included Gilead; the territory of the Geshurites and the Ma-acathites; all of Mount Hermon; Mount Bashan with its city of Salecah;<sup>12</sup> and all the territory of King Og of Bashan, who had reigned in Ashtaroth and Edre-i. (He was the last of the Rephaim, for Moses had attacked them and driven them out.<sup>13</sup> However, the people of Israel had not driven out the Geshurites or the Ma-acathites, who still live there among the Israelites to this day.)

The Land Given to the Tribe of Levi:

Moses hadn't assigned any land to the tribe of Levi: instead, they were given the offerings brought to the Lord.

Fitting the size of its territory to its size of population,<sup>b</sup> Moses had assigned the following area to the tribe of Reuben: <sup>16</sup> Their land extended from Aroer on the edge of the valley of the Arnon River, past the city of Arnon in the middle of the valley, to beyond the tableland near Medeba. <sup>17</sup> It included Heshbon and the other cities on the plain—Dibon, Bamoth-baal, Beth-baal-meon, <sup>18</sup> Jahaz, Kedemoth, Mepha-ath, <sup>19</sup> Kiriathaim, Sibmah, Zereth-shahar on the mountain above the valley, <sup>20</sup> Beth-peor, Beth-jeshimoth, and the slopes of Mount Pisgah.

<sup>21</sup> The land of Reuben also included the cities of the tableland and the kingdom of Sihon. Sihon was the king who had lived in Heshbon and was killed by Moses along with the other chiefs of Midian—Evi, Rekem, Zur, Hur, and Reba. <sup>22</sup> The people of Israel also killed Balaam the magician, the son of Beor. <sup>23</sup> The Jordan River was the western boundary of the tribe of Reuben.

Moses also assigned land to the tribe of Gad in proportion to its population.<sup>b</sup> <sup>25</sup> This territory included Jazer, all the cities of Gilead and half of the land of Ammon as far as Aroer near Rabbah. <sup>26</sup> It also extended from Heshbon to Ramath-mizpeh and Betonim, and from Mahanaim to Lo-debar. <sup>27,28</sup> In the valley were Beth-haram, and Beth-nimrah, Succoth, Zaphon, and the rest of the kingdom of King Sihon of Heshbon. The Jordan River was the western border, extending as far as the Lake of Galilee; then the border turned east from the Jordan River.

Moses had assigned the following territory to the half-tribe of Manasseh in proportion to its needs:<sup>b</sup> <sup>30</sup> Their territory extended north from Mahanaim, included all of Bashan, the former kingdom of King Og, and the sixty cities of Jair in Bashan. <sup>31</sup> Half of Gilead and King Og's royal cities of Ashtaroth and Edre-i were given to half of the clan Machir, who was Manasseh's

<sup>12</sup> That was how Moses divided the land east of the Jordan River where the people were camped at that time across from Jericho. <sup>13</sup> But Moses had given no land to the tribe of Levi for, as he had explained to them, the Lord God was their inheritance. He was all they needed. He would take care of them in other ways.

14 THE CONQUERED LANDS of Canaan were allotted to the remaining nine and a half tribes of Israel. The decision as to which tribe would receive which area was decided by throwing dice before the Lord, and he caused them to turn up in the ways he wanted. <sup>2</sup> Eleazar the priest, Joshua, and the tribal leaders supervised the lottery.

<sup>3,4</sup> (Moses had already given land to the two and a half tribes on the east side of the Jordan River. The tribe of Joseph had become two separate tribes, Manasseh and Ephraim, and the Levites were given no land at all, except cities in which to live and the surrounding pasturelands for their cattle. <sup>5</sup> So the distribution of the land was in strict accordance with the Lord's directions to Moses.)

A delegation from the tribe of Judah, led by Caleb, came to Joshua in Gilgal.

"Remember what the Lord said to Moses about you and me when we were at Kadesh-barnea?" Caleb asked Joshua. <sup>7</sup> "I was forty years old at the time, and Moses had sent us from Kadesh-barnea to spy out the land of Canaan. I reported what I felt was the truth, <sup>8</sup> but our brothers who went with us frightened the people and discouraged them from entering the Promised Land. But since I had followed the Lord my God, <sup>9</sup> Moses told me, 'The section of Canaan you were just in shall belong to you and your descendants forever.'

<sup>10</sup> "Now, as you see, from that time until now the Lord has kept me alive and well for all these forty-five years since crisscrossing the wilderness, and today I am eighty-five years old. <sup>11</sup> I am as strong now as I was when Moses sent us on that journey, and I can still travel and fight as well as I could then! <sup>12</sup> So I'm asking that you give me the hill country which the Lord promised me. You will remember that as spies we found the Anakim living there in great, walled cities, but if the Lord is with me I shall drive them out of the land."

<sup>13,14</sup> So Joshua blessed him and gave him Hebron as a permanent inheritance because he had followed the Lord God of Israel. <sup>15</sup> (Before that time Hebron had been called Kiriath-arba, after a great hero of the Anakim.)

And there was no resistance from the local populations as the Israelis resettled the land.

15 THE LAND GIVEN to the Tribe of Judah (as assigned by sacred lot):

Judah's southern boundary began at the northern border of Edom, crossed the Wilderness of Zin, and ended at the northern edge of the Negeb. <sup>2,3,4</sup> More specifically, this boundary began at the south bay of the Salt Sea, ran along the road going south of Mount Akrabim, on into the Wilderness of Zin to Hezron (south of Kadesh-barne-a), and then up through Karka and Azmon, until it finally reached the Brook of Egypt, and along that to the Mediterranean Sea.

a Literally, "by lot."

The northern boundary began at the bay where the Jordan River empties into the Salt Sea, <sup>6</sup> crossed to Beth-hoglah, then proceeded north of Beth-arabah to the stone of Bohan (son of Reuben). <sup>7</sup> From that point it went through the Valley of Achor to Debir, where it turned northwest toward Gilgal, opposite the slopes of Adummim on the south side of the valley. From there the border extended to the springs at En-shemesh and on to En-rogel. <sup>8</sup> The boundary then passed through the Valley of Hinnom, along the southern shoulder of Jebus (where the city of Jerusalem is located), then west to the top of the mountain above the Valley of Hinnom and on up to the northern end of the Valley of Rephaim. <sup>9</sup> From there the border extended from the top of the mountain to the spring of Nephtoah, and from there to the cities of Mount Ephron before it turned northward to circle around Baalah (which is another name for Kiriath-jearim).

<sup>10,11</sup> Then the border circled west of Baalah to Mount Seir, passed along to the town of Chesalon on the northern shoulder of Mount Jearim, and went down to Bethshemesh. Turning northwest again, the boundary line proceeded past the south of Timnah to the shoulder of the hill north of Ekron, where it bent to the left, passing south of Shikkeron and Mount Baalah. Turning again to the north, it passed Jabneel and ended at the Mediterranean Sea.

The Lord instructed Joshua to assign some of Judah's territory to Caleb (son of Jephunneh), so he was given the city of Arba (also called Hebron), which had been named after Anak's father. <sup>14</sup> Caleb drove out the descendants of the three sons of Anak: Talmai, Sheshai, and Ahiman. <sup>15</sup> Then he fought against the people living in the city of Debir (formerly called Kiriath-sepher).

<sup>16</sup> Caleb said that he would give his daughter Achsah to be the wife of anyone who would go and capture Kiriath-sepher. <sup>17</sup> Othni-el (son of Kenaz), Caleb's nephew, was the one who conquered it, so Achsah became Othni-el's wife. <sup>18,19</sup> As she was leaving with him, she urged him to ask her father for an additional field as a wedding present.<sup>a</sup> She got off her donkey to speak to Caleb about this.

"What is it? What can I do for you?" he asked.

And she replied, "Give me another present! For the land you gave me is a desert. Give us some springs, too!" Then he gave her the upper and lower springs.

Kabzeel, Eder, Jagur, Kinah, Dimonah, Adadah, Kedesh, Hazor, Ithnan,
Ziph, Telem, Be-aloth,
Hazor-hadattah,

Hazor), Amam, Shema,
Moladah, Hazar-gaddah,
Heshmon, Beth-pelet,
Hazar-shual, Beer-sheba,

Ezem, Eltolad, Chesil, Hormah, Ziklag,
Maddannah, Sansannah, Lebaoth, Shilhim, Ain, and Rimmon.

In all, there were twenty-nine of these cities with their surrounding villages.

<sup>33-36</sup> The following cities situated in the lowlands were also given to Judah:

Eshtaol, Zorah, Ashnah, Zanoah, En-gannim,
Tappu-ah, Enam, Jarmuth,
Adullam, Socoh, Azekah,
Sha-araim, Adithaim, Gederah, and Gederothaim.

In all, there were fourteen of these cities with their surrounding villages.

<sup>37-44</sup> The tribe of Judah also inherited twenty-five other cities with their villages:<sup>b</sup>

Zenan, Hadashah, Migdal-gad, Dilean,
Mizpeh, Jokthe-el, Lachish,
Bozkath, Eglon, Cabbon,

Lahmam, Chitlish,

Naamah, Makkedah,
Libnah, Ether, Ashan, Iphtah, Ashnah, Nezeb, Keilah, Achzib, and Mareshah.

<sup>46</sup> From Ekron the boundary extended to the Mediterranean, and included the cities along the borders of Ashdod with their nearby villages; <sup>47</sup> also the city of Ashdod with its villages, and Gaza with its villages as far as the Brook of Egypt; also the entire Mediterranean coast from the mouth of the Brook of Egypt on the south, to Tyre on the north.

<sup>48-62</sup> Judah also received these forty-four<sup>c</sup> cities in the hill country with their surrounding villages:

Shamir, Jattir, Socoh,
Dannah, Kiriath-sannah
(or, Debir), Anab, Eshtemoah, Anim, Goshen,
Holon, Giloh, Arab,

Maarath, Beth-anoth, Eltekon, Kiriath-baal (also known as Kiriath-jearim),

En-gedi.

<sup>63</sup> But the tribe of Judah could not drive out the Jebusites who lived in the city of Jerusalem, so the Jebusites live there among the people of Judah to this day.

16 THE SOUTHERN BOUNDARY of the Tribes of Joseph (Ephraim and the half-tribe of Manasseh):

This boundary extended from the Jordan River at Jericho through the wilderness and the hill country to Bethel. It then went from Bethel to Luz, then on to Ataroth, in the territory of the Archites; and west to the border of the Japhletites as far as Lower Beth-horon, then to Gezer and on over to the Mediterranean.

<sup>3,6</sup> The Land Given to the Tribe of Ephraim: The eastern boundary began at Ataroth-addar. From there it ran to Upper Beth-horon, then on to the Mediterranean Sea. The northern boundary began at the Sea, ran east past Michmethath, then continued on past Taanath-shiloh and Janoah. <sup>7</sup> From Janoah it turned southward to Ataroth and Naarah, and touched Jericho, and ended at the Jordan River. <sup>8</sup> [The western half of the northern boundary<sup>a</sup>] went from Tappu-ah, and followed along Kanah Brook to the Mediterranean Sea. <sup>9</sup> Ephraim was also given some of the cities in the territory of the half-tribe of Manasseh.

<sup>10</sup> The Canaanites living in Gezer were never driven out, so they still live as slaves among the people of Ephraim.

17 THE LAND GIVEN to the Half-tribe of Manasseh (Joseph's oldest son):

The clan of Machir (Manasseh's oldest son who was the father of Gilead) had already been given the land of Gilead and Bashan [on the east side of the Jordan River<sup>a</sup>], for they were great warriors. <sup>2</sup> So now, land on the west side of the Jordan<sup>a</sup> was given to the clans of Abiezer, Helek, Asri-el, Shechem, Shemida, and Hephher.

<sup>3</sup> However, Hephher's son Zelophehad (grandson of Gilead, great-grandson of Machir, and great-great-grandson of Manasseh) had no sons. He had only five daughters whose names were Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah.

<sup>4</sup> These women came to Eleazar the priest and to Joshua and the Israeli leaders and reminded them,

"The Lord told Moses that we were to receive as much property as the men of our tribe."<sup>b</sup>

<sup>5,6</sup> So, as the Lord had commanded through Moses, these five women were given an inheritance along with their five great-uncles, and the total inheritance came to ten sections of land (in addition to the land of Gilead and Bashan across the Jordan River).

<sup>7</sup> The northern boundary of the tribe of Manasseh extended southward from the border of Asher to Michmethath, which is east of Shechem. On the south the boundary went from Michmethath to the Spring of Tappu-ah. <sup>8</sup> (The land of Tappu-ah belonged to Manasseh, but the city of Tappu-ah, on the border of Manasseh's land, belonged to the tribe of Ephraim.)<sup>9</sup> From the spring of Tappu-ah the border of Manasseh followed the north bank of the Brook of Kanah to the Mediterranean Sea. (Several cities south of the brook belonged to the tribe of Ephraim, though they were located in Manasseh's territory.)<sup>10</sup> The land south of the brook and as far west as the Mediterranean Sea was assigned to Ephraim, and the land north of the brook and east of the sea went to Manasseh. Manasseh's northern boundary was the territory of Asher and the eastern boundary was the territory of Issachar.

<sup>11</sup> The half-tribe of Manasseh was also given the following cities which were situated in the areas assigned to Issachar and Asher: Beth-shean, Ible-am, Dor, Endor, Taanach, Megiddo (where there are the three cliffs), with their respective villages.<sup>12</sup> But since the descendants of Manasseh could not drive out the people who lived in those cities, the Canaanites remained.<sup>13</sup> Later on, however, when the Israelis became strong enough, they forced the Canaanites to work as slaves.

<sup>14</sup> Then the two tribes of Joseph came to Joshua and asked, "Why have you given us only one portion of land when the Lord has given us such large populations?"

<sup>15</sup> "If the hill country of Ephraim is not large enough for you," Joshua replied, "and if you are able to do it, you may clear out the forest land where the Perizzites and Rephaim live."

<sup>16,17,18</sup> "Fine," said the tribes of Joseph, "for the Canaanites in the lowlands around Beth-shean and the Valley of Jezreel have iron chariots and are too strong for us."

"Then you shall have the mountain forests," Joshua replied, "and since you are such a large, strong tribe you will surely be able to clear it all and live there. And I'm sure you can drive out the Canaanites from the valleys, too, even though they are strong and have iron chariots."

18 AFTER THE CONQUEST—although seven of the tribes of Israel had not yet entered and conquered the land God had given them—all Israel gathered at Shiloh to set up the Tabernacle.

<sup>1</sup> Then Joshua asked them, "How long are you going to wait before clearing out the people living in the land which the Lord your God has given to you?" <sup>2</sup> Select three men from each tribe and I will send them to scout the unconquered territory and bring back a report of its size and natural divisions so that I can divide it for you. <sup>3,6</sup> The scouts will map it into seven sections, and then I will throw the sacred dice to decide which section will be assigned to each tribe. <sup>7</sup> However, remember that the Levites won't receive any land; they are priests of the Lord. That is their wonderful heritage. And of course the tribes of Gad and Reuben and the half-tribe of Manasseh won't receive any more, for they already have land on the east side of the Jordan where Moses promised them that they could settle."

<sup>8</sup> So the scouts went out to map the country and to bring back their report to Joshua. Then the Lord could assign the sections of land to the tribes by the throw of the sacred dice. <sup>9</sup> The men did as they were told and divided the entire territory into seven sections, listing the cities in each section. Then they returned to Joshua and the camp at Shiloh. <sup>10</sup> There at the Tabernacle at Shiloh the Lord showed Joshua by the sacred lottery which tribe should have each section:

The section of land assigned to the families of the tribe of Benjamin lay between the territory previously assigned to the tribes of Judah and Joseph.

<sup>12</sup> The northern boundary began at the Jordan River, went north of Jericho, then west through the hill country and the Wilderness of Beth-aven.

crossed south of the old city of Jerusalem<sup>a</sup> where the Jebusites lived, and continued down to En-rogel.

<sup>17</sup> From En-rogel the boundary proceeded northeast to En-shemesh and on to Geliloth (which is opposite the slope of Adummim). Then it went down to the Stone of Bohan (who was a son of Reuben), <sup>18</sup> where it passed along the north edge of the Arabah. The border then went down into the Arabah, <sup>19</sup> ran south past Beth-hoglah, and ended at the north bay of the Salt Sea—which is the southern end of the Jordan River.

<sup>20</sup> The eastern border was the Jordan River. This was the land assigned to the tribe of Benjamin. <sup>21-28</sup> These twenty-six<sup>b</sup> cities were included in the land given to the tribe of Benjamin:

Jericho, Beth-hoglah, Emek-keziz, Beth-arabah,
Zimaraïm, Bethel, Avvim,
Parah, Ophrah,
Chephar-ammoni, Ophni,
Geba, Gibeon, Ramah,
Be-eroth, Mizpeh,
Chephirah, Mozah, Rekem,
Irpeel, Taralah, Zela, Ha-eleph, Jebus (or, Jerusalem), Gibe-ah, and Kiriath-jearim.

All of these cities and their surrounding villages were given to the tribe of Benjamin.

19 THE LAND GIVEN to the Tribe of Simeon:

The tribe of Simeon received the next assignment of land—including part of the land previously assigned to Judah. <sup>2-7</sup> Their inheritance included these seventeen<sup>a</sup> cities with their respective villages:

Beer-sheba, Sheba, Moladah, Hazar-shual,
 Balah, Ezem, Eltolad,
 Bethul, Hormah, Ziklag,
 Beth-marcaboth,
 Hazar-susah, Beth-lebaoth,
 Sharuh, En-rimmon,
 Ether, and Ashan.

<sup>8</sup> The cities as far south as Baalath-beer (also known as Ramah-in-the-Negeb) were also given to the tribe of Simeon. <sup>9</sup> So the Simeon tribe's inheritance came from what had earlier been given to Judah, for Judah's section had been too large for them.

The third tribe to receive its assignment of land was Zebulun. Its boundary started on the south side of Sarid. <sup>11</sup> From there it circled to the west, going near Mareal and Dabbesheth until it reached the brook east of Jeokne-am. <sup>12</sup> In the other direction, the boundary line went east to the border of Chisloth-tabor, and from there to Daberath and Japhia; <sup>13</sup> then it continued east of Gath-hepher, Ethkazin, and Rimmon and turned toward Neah. <sup>14</sup> The northern boundary of Zebulun passed Hannathon and ended at the Valley of Iphtahel. <sup>15,16</sup> The cities in these areas, besides those already mentioned,<sup>b</sup> included Kattath, Nahalal, Shimron, Idalah, Bethlehem, and each of their surrounding villages. Altogether there were twelve of these cities.

The fourth tribe to be assigned its land was Issachar. Its boundaries included the following cities:

Jezreel, Chesulloth, Shunem, Hapharaim, Shion,
 Anaharath, Rabbith,
 Kishion, Ebez, Remeth,
 En-gannim, En-haddah,
 Beth-pazzez, Tabor, Shahazumah, and Beth-shemesh—

sixteen cities in all, each with its surrounding villages. The boundary of Issachar ended at the Jordan River.

The fifth tribe to be assigned its land was Asher. The boundaries included these cities:

Helkath, Hali, Beten, Achshaph, Allammelech,
 Amad, and Mishal.

The boundary on the west side went from Carmel to Shihor-libnath, <sup>27</sup> turned east toward Beth-dagon, and ran as far as Zebulun in the Valley of Iphtahel, running north of Beth-emek and Neiel. It then passed to the east of Kabul, <sup>28</sup> Ebron, Rehob, Hammon, Kanah, and Greater Sidon. <sup>29</sup> Then the boundary turned toward Ramah and the fortified city of Tyre and came to the Mediterranean Sea at Hosah. The territory also included Mahalab, Achzib, <sup>30,31</sup> Ummah, Aphek, and Rehob—an overall total of twenty-two cities and their surrounding villages.

The sixth tribe to receive its assignment was the tribe of Naphtali.

Ziddim, Zer, Hammath, Rakkath, Chinnereth, Adamah, Ramah, Hazor,
Kedesh, Edre-i, Enhazor,
Yiron, Migdal-el, Horem,
Beth-anath, and
Beth-shemesh.

So altogether the territory included nineteen cities with their surrounding villages.

The last tribe to be assigned its land was Dan. <sup>41-46</sup> The cities within its area included:

Zorah, Eshta-ol,
Ir-shemesh, Sha-alabbin,
Aijalon, Ithlah, Elon,
Timnah, Ekron, Eltekeh,
Gibbethon, Baalath, Jehud,
Bene-berak, Gath-rimmon,
Me-jarkon, and Rakkon, also the territory near Joppa.

<sup>47,48</sup> But some of this territory proved impossible to conquer, so the tribe of Dan captured the city of Leshem, slaughtered its people, and lived there; and they called the city "Dan," naming it after their ancestor.

<sup>49</sup> So all the land was divided among the tribes, with the boundaries indicated; and the nation of Israel gave a special piece of land to Joshua, <sup>50</sup> for the Lord had said that he could have any city he wanted. He chose Timnath-serah in the hill country of Ephraim; he rebuilt it and lived there.

<sup>51</sup> Eleazar the priest, Joshua, and the leaders of the tribes of Israel supervised the sacred lottery to divide the land among the tribes. This was done in the Lord's presence at the entrance of the Tabernacle at Shiloh.

20 THE LORD SAID to Joshua, <sup>2</sup> "Tell the people of Israel to designate now the Cities of Refuge, as I instructed Moses.<sup>a</sup> <sup>3</sup> If a man is guilty of killing someone unintentionally, he can run to one of these cities and be protected from the relatives of the dead man, who may try to kill him in revenge. <sup>4</sup> When the innocent killer reaches any of these cities, he will meet with the city council and explain what happened, and they must let him come in and must give him a place to live among them. <sup>5</sup> If a relative of the dead man comes to kill him in revenge, the innocent slayer must not be released to them, for the death was accidental. <sup>6</sup> The man who caused the accidental death must stay in that city until he has been tried by the judges, and must live there until the death of the High Priest who was in office at the time of the accident. But then he is free to return to his own city and home."

<sup>7</sup> The cities chosen as Cities of Refuge were Kedesh of Galilee in the hill country of Naphtali; Shechem, in the hill country of Ephraim; and Kiriath-arba (also known as Hebron) in the hill country of Judah. <sup>8</sup> The Lord also instructed that three cities be set aside for this purpose on the east side of the Jordan River, across from Jericho. They were Bezer, in the wilderness of the land of the tribe of Reuben; Ramoth of Gilead, in the territory of the tribe of Gad; and Golan of Bashan, in the land of the tribe of Manasseh.

<sup>9</sup> These Cities of Refuge were for foreigners living in Israel as well as for the Israelis themselves, so that anyone who accidentally killed another man could run to that place for a trial, and not be killed in revenge.

21 THEN THE LEADERS of the tribe of Levi came to Shiloh to consult with Eleazar the priest and with Joshua and the leaders of the various tribes.

<sup>2</sup> "The Lord instructed Moses to give cities to us Levites for our homes, and pastureland for our cattle," they said.

<sup>3</sup> So they were given some of the recently conquered cities with their pasturelands. <sup>4</sup> Thirteen of these cities had been assigned originally to the tribes of Judah, Simeon, and Benjamin. These were given to some of the priests of the Kohath division (of the tribe of Levi, descendants of Aaron). <sup>5</sup> The other families of the Kohath division were given ten cities from the territories of Ephraim, Dan, and the half-tribe of Manasseh. <sup>6</sup> The Gershon division received thirteen cities, selected by sacred lot in the area of Bashan. These cities were given by the tribes of Issachar, Asher, Naphtali, and the half-tribe of Manasseh. <sup>7</sup> The Merari division received twelve cities from the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and Zebulun. <sup>8</sup> So the Lord's command to Moses was obeyed, and the cities and pasturelands were assigned by the toss of the sacred dice.

The tribes of Judah and Simeon gave them the nine<sup>a</sup> cities listed below, with their surrounding pasturelands:

Hebron, in the Judean hills, as a City of Refuge—it was also called Kiriath-arba (Arba was the father of Anak)—although the fields beyond the city and the surrounding villages were given to Caleb, the son of Jephunneh;

Libnah, Jattir, Eshtemoa, Holon, Debir, Ain, Juttah, and Beth-shemesh.

<sup>17,18</sup> The tribe of Benjamin gave them these four cities and their pasturelands:

Gibeon, Gaba, Anathoth, and Almon.

Aaron.

<sup>20,21,22</sup> The other families of the Kohath division received four<sup>b</sup> cities and pasturelands from the tribe of Ephraim:

Shechem (a City of Refuge), Gezer, Kibza-im, and Beth-horon.

<sup>23,24</sup> The following four cities and pasturelands were given by the tribe of Dan:

Elteke, Gibbethon, Aijalon, and Gath-rimmon.

Golan, in Bashan (a City of Refuge), and Be-eshterah.

<sup>28,29</sup> The tribe of Issachar gave four cities:

Kishion, Daberath, Jarmuth, and Engannim.

Mishal, Abdon, Helkath, and Rehob.

Zebulun:

Jokne-am, Kartah, Dimnah, and Nahalal.

Ramoth (a City of Refuge), Mahanaim, Heshbon, and Jazer.

<sup>43</sup> So in this way the Lord gave to Israel all the land he had promised to their ancestors, and they went in and conquered it and lived there. <sup>44</sup> And the Lord gave them peace, just as he had promised, and no one could stand against them; the Lord helped them destroy all their enemies. <sup>45</sup> Every good thing the Lord had promised them came true.

22 JOSHUA NOW CALLED together the troops from the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh, <sup>2,3</sup> and addressed them as follows:

"You have done as the Lord's disciple Moses commanded you, and have obeyed every order I have given you—every order of the Lord your God. You have not deserted your brother tribes, even though the campaign has lasted for such a long time. <sup>4</sup> And now the Lord our God has given us success and rest as he promised he would. So go home now to the land given you by the Lord's servant Moses, on the other side of the Jordan River. <sup>3</sup> Be sure to continue to obey all of the commandments Moses gave you. Love the Lord and follow his plan for your lives. Cling to him and serve him enthusiastically."

<sup>4</sup> So Joshua blessed them and sent them home. <sup>7,8</sup> (Moses had assigned the land of Bashan to the half-tribe of Manasseh, although the other half of the tribe was given land on the west side of the Jordan.) As Joshua sent away these troops, he blessed them and told them to share their great wealth with their relatives back home—their booty of cattle, silver, gold, bronze, iron, and clothing.

<sup>9</sup> So the troops of Reuben, Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh left the army of Israel at Shiloh in Canaan and crossed the Jordan River to their own homeland of Gilead. <sup>10</sup> Before they went across, while they were still in Canaan, they built a large monument for everyone to see, in the shape of an altar.

<sup>11</sup> But when the rest of Israel heard about what they had done, <sup>12</sup> they mustered an army at Shiloh and prepared to go to war against their brother tribes. <sup>13</sup> First, however, they sent a delegation led by Phinehas, the son of Eleazar the priest. They crossed the river and talked to the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and Manasseh. <sup>14</sup> In this delegation were ten high officials of Israel, one from each of the ten tribes, and each a clan leader. <sup>15</sup> When they arrived in the land of Gilead they said to the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh, the Lord demands to know why you are sinning against the God of Israel by turning away from him and building an altar of rebellion against the Lord. <sup>17,18</sup> Was our guilt at Peor—from which we have not even yet been cleansed despite the plague that tormented us—so little that you must rebel again? For you know that if you rebel today the Lord will be angry with all of us tomorrow. <sup>19</sup> If you need the altar because your land is defiled, then join us on our side of the river where the Lord lives among us in his Tabernacle, and we will share our land with you. But do not rebel against the Lord by building another altar in addition to the only true altar of our God. <sup>20</sup> Don't you remember that when Achan, the son of Zerah, sinned against the Lord, the entire nation was punished in addition to the one man who had sinned?"

<sup>22,23</sup> "We swear by Jehovah, the God of gods, that we have not built the altar in rebellion against the Lord. He knows (and let all Israel know it too) that we have not built the altar to sacrifice burnt offerings or grain offerings or peace offerings—may the curse of God be on us if we did. <sup>24,25</sup> We have done it because we love the Lord and because we fear that in the future your children will say to ours, 'What right do you have to worship the Lord God of Israel? The Lord has placed the Jordan River as a barrier between our people and your people. You have no part in the Lord.'

And your children may make our children stop worshiping him.<sup>26,27</sup> So we decided to build the altar as a symbol to show our children and your children that we, too, may worship the Lord with our burnt offerings and peace offerings and sacrifices, and your children will not be able to say to ours, 'You have no part in the Lord our God.'<sup>28</sup> If they say this, our children can reply, 'Look at the altar of the Lord which our fathers made, patterned after the altar of Jehovah. It is not for burnt offerings or sacrifices, but is a symbol of the relationship with God that both of us have.'

<sup>29</sup> "Far be it from us to turn away from the Lord or to rebel against him by building our own altar for burnt offerings, grain offerings, or sacrifices. Only the altar in front of the Tabernacle may be used for that."

<sup>30</sup> When Phinehas the priest and the high officials heard this from the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and Manasseh, they were very happy.

<sup>31</sup> Phinehas replied to them, "Today we know that the Lord is among us because you have not sinned against the Lord as we thought; instead, you have saved us from destruction!"

<sup>32</sup> Then Phinehas and the ten ambassadors went back to the people of Israel and told them what had happened,<sup>33</sup> and all Israel rejoiced and praised God and spoke no more of war against Reuben and Gad.

<sup>34</sup> The people of Reuben and Gad named the altar "The Altar of Witness," for they said, "It is a witness between us and them that Jehovah is our God, too."

23 LONG AFTER THIS, when the Lord had given success to the people of Israel against their enemies and when Joshua was very old,<sup>2</sup> he called for the leaders of Israel—the elders, judges, and officers—and said to them, "I am an old man now,<sup>3</sup> and you have seen all that the Lord your God has done for you during my lifetime. He has fought for you against your enemies and has given you their land.<sup>4,5</sup> And I have divided to you the land of the nations yet unconquered as well as the land of those you have already destroyed. All the land from the Jordan River to the Mediterranean Sea shall be yours, for the Lord your God will drive out all the people living there now, and you will live there instead, just as he has promised you.

<sup>6</sup> "But be very sure to follow all the instructions written in the book of the laws of Moses; do not deviate from them the least little bit.<sup>7</sup> Be sure that you do not mix with the heathen people still remaining in the land; do not even mention the names of their gods, much less swear by them or worship them.<sup>8</sup> But follow the Lord your God just as you have until now.<sup>9</sup> He has driven out great, strong nations from before you, and no one has been able to defeat you.<sup>10</sup> Each one of you has put to flight a thousand of the enemy, for the Lord your God fights for you, just as he has promised.<sup>11</sup> So be very careful to keep on loving him.

<sup>12</sup> "If you don't, and if you begin to intermarry with the nations around you,<sup>13</sup> then know for a certainty that the Lord your God will no longer chase those nations from your land. Instead, they will be a snare and a trap to you, a pain in your side and a thorn in your eyes, and you will disappear from this good land which the Lord your God has given you.

<sup>14</sup> "Soon I will be going the way of all the earth—I am going to die.

"You know very well that God's promises to you have all come true. <sup>15,16</sup> But as certainly as the Lord has given you the good things he promised, just as certainly he will bring evil upon you if you disobey him. For if you worship other gods he will completely wipe you out from this good land which the Lord has given you. His anger will rise hot against you, and you will quickly perish."

24 THEN JOSHUA SUMMONED all the people of Israel to him at Shechem, along with their leaders—the elders, officers, and judges. So they came and presented themselves before God.

<sup>1</sup> Then Joshua addressed them as follows: "The Lord God of Israel says, 'Your ancestors, including Terah the father of Abraham and Nahor, lived east of the Euphrates River; and they worshiped other gods. <sup>2</sup> But I took your father Abraham from that land across the river and led him into the land of Canaan and gave him many descendants through Isaac his son. <sup>3</sup> Isaac's children, whom I gave him, were Jacob and Esau. To Esau I gave the area around Mount Seir while Jacob and his children went into Egypt.

<sup>4</sup> "Then I sent Moses and Aaron to bring terrible plagues upon Egypt; and afterwards I brought my people out as free men. <sup>5</sup> But when they arrived at the Red Sea, the Egyptians chased after them with chariots and cavalry. <sup>6</sup> Then Israel cried out to me and I put darkness between them and the Egyptians; and I brought the sea crashing in upon the Egyptians, drowning them. You saw what I did. Then Israel lived in the wilderness for many years.

<sup>7</sup> "Finally I brought you into the land of the Amorites on the other side of the Jordan; and they fought against you, but I destroyed them and gave you their land. <sup>8</sup> Then King Balak of Moab started a war against Israel, and he asked Balaam, the son of Beor, to curse you. <sup>9</sup> But I wouldn't listen to him. Instead I made him bless you; and so I delivered Israel from him.

<sup>10</sup> "Then you crossed the Jordan River and came to Jericho. The men of Jericho fought against you, and so did many others—the Perizzites, the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Girgashites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites. Each in turn fought against you but I destroyed them all. <sup>11</sup> And I sent hornets ahead of you to drive out the two kings of the Amorites and their people. It was not your swords or bows that brought you victory! <sup>12</sup> I gave you land you had not worked for and cities you did not build—these cities where you are now living. I gave you vineyards and olive groves for food, though you did not plant them."

<sup>13</sup> "So revere Jehovah and serve him in sincerity and truth. Put away forever the idols which your ancestors worshiped when they lived beyond the Euphrates River and in Egypt. Worship the Lord alone.<sup>15</sup> But if you are unwilling to obey the Lord, then decide today whom you will obey. Will it be the gods of your ancestors beyond the Euphrates or the gods of the Amorites here in this land? But as for me and my family, we will serve the Lord."

<sup>16</sup> And the people replied, "We would never forsake the Lord and worship other gods! <sup>17</sup> For the Lord our God is the one who rescued our fathers from their slavery in the land of Egypt. He is the God who did mighty miracles before the eyes of Israel, as we traveled through the wilderness, and preserved us from our enemies when we passed through their land. <sup>18</sup> It was the Lord who drove out the Amorites and the other nations living here in the land. Yes, we choose the Lord, for he alone is our God."

<sup>19</sup> But Joshua replied to the people, "You can't worship the Lord God, for he is holy and jealous; he will not forgive your rebellion and sins. <sup>20</sup> If you forsake him and worship other gods, he will turn upon you and destroy you, even though he has taken care of you for such a long time."

<sup>22</sup> "You have heard yourselves say it," Joshua said—"you have chosen to obey the Lord."

"Yes," they replied, "we are witnesses."

<sup>23</sup> "All right," he said, "then you must destroy all the idols you now own, and you must obey the Lord God of Israel."

<sup>24</sup> The people replied to Joshua, "Yes, we will worship and obey the Lord alone."

<sup>26</sup> Joshua recorded the people's reply in the book of the laws of God, and took a huge stone as a reminder and rolled it beneath the oak tree that was beside the Tabernacle.

<sup>27</sup> Then Joshua said to all the people, "This stone has heard everything the Lord said, so it will be a witness to testify against you if you go back on your word."

<sup>28</sup> Then Joshua sent the people away to their own sections of the country.

<sup>31</sup> Israel obeyed the Lord throughout the lifetimes of Joshua and the other old men who had personally witnessed the amazing deeds which the Lord had done for Israel.

<sup>32</sup> The bones of Joseph, which the people of Israel had brought with them when they left Egypt, were buried in Shechem, in the parcel of ground which Jacob had bought for $200 from the sons of Hamor. (The land was located in the territory assigned to the tribes of Joseph.)

<sup>33</sup> Eleazar, the son of Aaron, also died; he was buried in the hill country of Ephraim, at Gibe-ah, the city which had been given to his son Phinehas.

JUDGES

1 AFTER JOSHUA DIED, the nation of Israel went to the Lord to receive his instructions.

"Which of our tribes should be the first to go to war against the Canaanites?" they inquired.

<sup>3</sup> The leaders of the tribe of Judah, however, asked help from the tribe of Simeon. "Join us in clearing out the people living in the territory allotted to us," they said, "and then we will help you conquer yours." So the army of Simeon went with the army of Judah. <sup>4,5</sup> And the Lord helped them defeat the Canaanites and Perizzites, so that ten thousand of the enemy were slain at Bezek. King Adoni-bezek escaped, but the Israeli army soon captured him and cut off his thumbs and big toes.

<sup>7</sup> "I have treated seventy kings in this same manner and have fed them the scraps under my table!" King Adoni-bezek said. "Now God has paid me back." He was taken to Jerusalem, and died there.

<sup>8</sup> (Judah had conquered Jerusalem, and massacred its people, setting the city on fire.) <sup>9</sup> Afterward the army of Judah fought the Canaanites in the hill country and in the Negeb, as well as on the coastal plains. <sup>10</sup> Then Judah marched against the Canaanites in Hebron (formerly called Kiriath-arba), destroying the cities of She-shai, Ahiman, and Talmi. <sup>11</sup> Later they attacked the city of Debir (formerly called Kiriath-sepher).

<sup>13</sup> Caleb's nephew, Othni-el, son of his younger brother Kenaz, volunteered to lead the attack; and he conquered the city and won Achsah as his bride. <sup>14</sup> As they were leaving for their new home,<sup>a</sup> she urged him to ask her father for an additional<sup>b</sup> piece of land. She dismounted from her donkey to speak to Caleb about it.

"What do you wish?" he asked.

<sup>15</sup> And she replied, "You have been kind enough to give me land in the Negeb, but please give us springs of water too."

So Caleb gave her the upper and lower springs.

ron, with their surrounding villages.<sup>19</sup> The Lord helped the tribe of Judah exterminate the people of the hill country, though they failed in their attempt to conquer the people of the valley, who had iron chariots.

<sup>20</sup> The city of Hebron was given to Caleb as the Lord had promised; so Caleb drove out the inhabitants of the city; they were descendants of the three sons of Anak.

<sup>21</sup> The tribe of Benjamin failed to exterminate the Jebusites living in Jerusalem, so they still live there today, mingled with the Israelis.

<sup>22,23</sup> As for the tribe of Joseph, they attacked the city of Bethel, formerly known as Luz, and the Lord was with them. First they sent scouts,<sup>24</sup> who captured a man coming out of the city. They offered to spare his life and that of his family if he would show them the entrance passage through the wall.<sup>c</sup> <sup>25</sup> So he showed them how to get in, and they massacred the entire population except for this man and his family. <sup>26</sup> Later the man moved to Syria and founded a city there, naming it Luz, too, as it is still known today.

<sup>27</sup> The tribe of Manasseh failed to drive out the people living in Beth-shean, Taanach, Dor, Ibleam, Megiddo, with their surrounding towns; so the Canaanites stayed there. <sup>28</sup> In later years when the Israelis were stronger they put the Canaanites to work as slaves, but never did force them to leave the country. <sup>29</sup> This was also true of the Canaanites living in Gezer; they still live among the tribe of Ephraim.

<sup>30</sup> And the tribe of Zebulun did not massacre the people of Kitron or Nahalol, but made them their slaves;<sup>31,32</sup> nor did the tribe of Asher drive out the residents of Acco, Sidon, Ahlab, Achzib, Helbah, Aphik, or Rehob; so the Israelis still live among the Canaanites, who were the original people of that land. <sup>33</sup> And the tribe of Naphtali did not drive out the people of Beth-shemesh or of Beth-anath, so these people continue to live among them as servants.

<sup>34</sup> As for the tribe of Dan, the Amorites forced them into the hill country and wouldn't let them come down into the valley; <sup>35</sup> but when the Amorites later spread into Mount Heres, Aijalon, and Shalbibim, the tribe of Joseph conquered them and made them their slaves. <sup>36</sup> The boundary of the Amorites begins at the ascent of Scorpion Pass, runs to a spot called The Rock, and continues upward from there.

2 ONE DAY THE Angel of the Lord arrived at Bochim, coming from Gilgal, and announced to the people of Israel, "I brought you out of Egypt into this land which I promised to your ancestors, and I said that I would never break my covenant with you, <sup>2</sup> if you, on your part, would make no peace treaties with the people living in this land; I told you to destroy their heathen altars. Why have you not obeyed? <sup>3</sup> And now since you have broken the contract, it is no longer in effect, and I no longer promise to destroy the nations living in your land; rather, they shall be thorns in your sides, and their gods will be a constant temptation to you."

<sup>4</sup> The people broke into tears as the Angel finished speaking; <sup>5</sup> so the name of that place was called "Bochim" (meaning, "the place where people wept"). Then they offered sacrifices to the Lord.

<sup>6</sup> When Joshua finally disbanded the armies of Israel, the tribes moved into their new territories and took possession of the land. <sup>7,8,9</sup> Joshua, the man of God, died at the age of 110, and was buried at the edge of his property in Timnath-heres, in the hill country of Ephraim, north of Mount Gaash. The people had remained true to the Lord throughout Joshua's lifetime, and as long afterward as the old men of his generation were still living—those who had seen the mighty miracles the Lord had done for Israel.

<sup>10</sup> But finally all that generation died; and the next generation did not worship Jehovah as their God, and did not care about the mighty miracles he had done for Israel.

<sup>11</sup> They did many things which the Lord had expressly forbidden, including the worshiping of heathen gods. <sup>12,13,14</sup> They abandoned Jehovah, the God loved and worshiped by their ancestors—the God who had brought them out of Egypt. Instead, they were worshiping and bowing low before the idols of the neighboring nations.

So the anger of the Lord flamed out against all Israel. He left them to the mercy of their enemies, for they had departed from Jehovah and were worshiping Baal and the Ashtarothe idols.

<sup>15</sup> So now when the nation of Israel went out to battle against its enemies, the Lord blocked their path. He had warned them about this, and in fact had vowed that he would do it. But when the people were in this terrible plight, <sup>16</sup> the Lord raised up judges to save them from their enemies. <sup>17</sup> Yet even then Israel would not listen to the judges, but broke faith with Jehovah by worshiping other gods instead. How quickly they turned away from the true faith of their ancestors, for they refused to obey God's commands. <sup>18</sup> Each judge rescued the people of Israel from their enemies throughout his lifetime, for the Lord was moved to pity by the groaning of his people under their crushing oppressions; so he helped them as long as that judge lived. <sup>19</sup> But when the judge died, the people turned from doing right and behaved even worse than their ancestors had. They prayed to heathen gods again, throwing themselves to the ground in humble worship. They stubbornly returned to the evil customs of the nations around them.

3 HERE IS A list of the nations the Lord left in the land to test the new generation of Israel who had not experienced the wars of Canaan. For God wanted to give opportunity to the youth of Israel to exercise faith<sup>a</sup> and obedience<sup>a</sup> in conquering their enemies:<sup>b</sup>

The Philistines (five cities),
The Canaanites,
The Sidonians,
The Hivites living in Mount Lebanon, from Baal-hermon to the entrance of Hamath.

<sup>4</sup> These people were a test to the new generation of Israel, to see whether they would obey the commandments the Lord had given to them through Moses.

<sup>5</sup> So Israel lived among the Canaanites, Hittites, Hivites, Perizzites, Amorites, and Jebusites. <sup>6</sup> But instead of destroying them, the people of Israel intermarried with them. The young men of Israel took their girls as wives, and the Israeli girls married their men. And soon Israel was worshiping their gods. <sup>7</sup> So the people of Israel were very evil in God's sight, for they turned against Jehovah their God and worshiped Baal and the Asheroth idols.

<sup>8</sup> Then the anger of the Lord flamed out against Israel, and he let King Cushan-rishathaim of eastern Syria conquer them. They were under his rule for eight years. <sup>9</sup> But when Israel cried out to the Lord, he gave them Caleb's nephew, Othni-el (son of Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother) to save them. <sup>10</sup> The Spirit of the Lord took control of him and he reformed and purged Israel so that when he led the forces of Israel against the army of King Cushan-rishathaim, the Lord helped Israel conquer him completely.

<sup>11</sup> Then, for forty years under Othni-el, there was peace in the land. But when Othni-el died, <sup>12</sup> the people of Israel turned once again to their sinful ways, so God helped King Eglon of Moab to conquer part of Israel at that time. <sup>13</sup> Allied with him were the armies of the Ammonites and the Amalekites. These forces defeated the Israelis and took possession of Jericho, often called "The City of Palm Trees." <sup>14</sup> For the next eighteen years the people of Israel were required to pay crushing taxes to King Eglon.

<sup>15</sup> But when they cried to the Lord, he sent them a savior, Ehud (son of Gera, a Benjaminite), who was left-handed. Ehud was the man chosen to carry Israel's annual tax money to the Moabite capital. <sup>16</sup> Before he went on this journey he made himself a double-edged dagger eighteen inches long and hid it in his clothing, strapped against his right thigh. <sup>17,18,19</sup> After delivering the money to King Eglon (who, by the way, was very fat!) he started home again. But outside the city, at the quarries of Gilgal, he sent his companions on and returned alone to the king.

"I have a secret message for you," he told him.

The king immediately dismissed all those who were with him so that <sup>a</sup> Implied in chapter 2, verse 22; and chapter 3, verse 4.

the people of Israel . . . might know war . . ."

he could have a private interview. <sup>20</sup> Ehud walked over to him as he was sitting in a cool upstairs room and said to him, "It is a message from God!"

King Eglon stood up at once to receive it, <sup>21</sup> whereupon Ehud reached beneath his robe with his strong left hand, pulled out the double-bladed dagger strapped against his right thigh, and plunged it deep into the king's belly. <sup>22,23</sup> The hilt of the dagger disappeared beneath the flesh, and the fat closed over it as the entrails oozed out. Leaving the dagger there, Ehud locked the doors behind him and escaped across an upstairs porch.

<sup>25</sup> But when, after a long time, he still didn't come out, they became concerned and got a key. And when they opened the door, they found their master dead on the floor.

<sup>26</sup> Meanwhile Ehud had escaped past the quarries to Se-irah. <sup>27</sup> When he arrived in the hill country of Ephraim, he blew a trumpet as a call to arms and mustered an army under his own command.

<sup>28</sup> "Follow me," he told them, "for the Lord has put your enemies, the Moabites, at your mercy!"

The army then proceeded to seize the fords of the Jordan River near Moab, preventing anyone from crossing. <sup>29</sup> Then they attacked the Moabites and killed about ten thousand of the strongest and most skillful of their fighting men, letting not one escape. <sup>30</sup> So Moab was conquered by Israel that day, and the land was at peace for the next eighty years.

<sup>31</sup> The next judge after Ehud was Shamgar (son of Anath). He once killed six hundred Philistines with an ox goad, thereby saving Israel from disaster.

4 AFTER EHUD'S DEATH the people of Israel again sinned against the Lord, <sup>2,3</sup> so the Lord let them be conquered by King Jabin of Hazor, in Canaan. The commander-in-chief of his army was Sisera, who lived in Harosheth-hagoiim. He had nine hundred iron chariots, and made life unbearable for the Israelites for twenty years. But finally they begged the Lord for help.

<sup>4</sup> Israel's leader at that time, the one who was responsible for bringing the people back to God, was Deborah, a prophetess, the wife of Lappidoth. <sup>5</sup> She held court at a place now called "Deborah's Palm Tree," between Ramah and Bethel, in the hill country of Ephraim; and the Israelites came to her to decide their disputes.<sup>a</sup>

<sup>6</sup> One day she summoned Barak (son of Abinoam), who lived in Kedesh, in the land of Naphtali, and said to him, "The Lord God of Israel has commanded you to mobilize ten thousand men from the tribes of Naphtali and Zebulun. Lead them to Mount Tabor, <sup>7</sup> to fight King Jabin's mighty army with all his chariots, under General Sisera's command. The Lord says, 'I will draw them to the Kishon River, and you will defeat them there.' ”

<sup>9</sup> “All right,” she replied, “I’ll go with you; but I’m warning you now that the honor of conquering Sisera will go to a woman instead of to you!” So she went with him to Kedesh.

<sup>10</sup> When Barak summoned the men of Zebulun and Naphtali to mobilize at Kedesh, ten thousand men volunteered. And Deborah marched with them. <sup>11</sup> (Heber; the Kenite—the Kenites were the descendants of Moses’ father-in-law Hobab—had moved away from the rest of his clan, and had been living in various places as far away as the Oak of Za-ananim, near Kedesh.)

<sup>14</sup> Then Deborah said to Barak, “Now is the time for action! The Lord leads on! He has already delivered Sisera into your hand!”

So Barak led his ten thousand men down the slopes of Mount Tabor into battle. <sup>15</sup> Then the Lord threw the enemy into a panic, both the soldiers and the charioteers, and Sisera leaped from his chariot and escaped on foot. <sup>16</sup> Barak and his men chased the enemy and the chariots as far as Harosheth-hagoyim, until all of Sisera’s army was destroyed; not one man was left alive. <sup>17</sup> Meanwhile, Sisera had escaped to the tent of Jael, the wife of Heber the Kenite, for there was a mutual-assistance agreement between King Jabin of Hazor and the clan of Heber.

<sup>18</sup> Jael went out to meet Sisera and said to him, “Come into my tent, sir. You will be safe here in our protection. Don’t be afraid.” So he went into her tent and she covered him with a blanket.

<sup>19</sup> “Please give me some water,” he said, “for I am very thirsty.” So she gave him some milk and covered him again.

<sup>20</sup> “Stand in the door of the tent,” he told her, “and if anyone comes by, looking for me, tell them that no one is here.”

<sup>21</sup> Then Jael took a sharp tent peg and a hammer and, quietly creeping up to him as he slept, she drove the peg through his temples and into the ground; and so he died, for he was fast asleep from weariness.

<sup>22</sup> When Barak came by looking for Sisera, Jael went out to meet him and said, “Come, and I will show you the man you are looking for.”

So he followed her into the tent and found Sisera lying there dead, with the tent peg through his temples. <sup>23</sup> So that day the Lord used Israel to subdue King Jabin of Canaan. <sup>24</sup> And from that time on Israel became stronger and stronger against King Jabin, until he and all his people were destroyed.

5 THEN DEBORAH AND Barak sang this song about the wonderful victory:

Israel’s leaders bravely led;
The people gladly followed!
Yes, bless the Lord!

<sup>3</sup> Listen, O you kings and princes,

 For I shall sing about the Lord,
 The God of Israel.
<sup>4</sup> When you led us out from Seir,
 Out across the fields of Edom,
 The earth trembled
 And the sky poured down its rain.
<sup>5</sup> Yes, even Mount Sinai
 quaked
 At the presence of the God of Israel
<sup>6</sup> In the days of Shamgar and of Jael,
 The main roads were deserted.
 Travelers used the narrow,
 crooked side paths.
<sup>7</sup> Israel's population dwindle, Until Deborah became a mother to Israel.
<sup>8</sup> When Israel chose new gods,
 Everything collapsed.
 Our masters would not let us have
 A shield or spear.
 Among forty thousand men
 of Israel,
 Not a weapon could be found!
<sup>9</sup> How I rejoice
 In the leaders of Israel
 Who offered themselves so willingly!
 Praise the Lord!
<sup>10</sup> Let all Israel, rich and poor,
 Join in his praises—
 Those who ride on white donkeys
 And sit on rich carpets,

And those who are poor and must walk.
<sup>11</sup> The village musicians
 Gather at the village well
 To sing of the triumphs of the Lord.
 Again and again they sing
 the ballad
 Of how the Lord saved Israel
 With an army of peasants!
 The people of the Lord
 Marched through the gates!
<sup>12</sup> Awake, O Deborah, and sing!
 Arise, O Barak!
 O son of Abino-am, lead away your captives!
<sup>13,14</sup> Down from Mount Tabor marched the noble remnant.
 The people of the Lord Marched down against great odds.
 They came from Ephraim and Benjamin,
 From Machir and from Zebulun.
<sup>15</sup> Down into the valley
 Went the princes of Issachar
 With Deborah and Barak.
 At God's command they rushed into the valley.
 (But the tribe of Reuben didn't go.
<sup>16</sup> Why did you sit at home among the sheepfolds,
 Playing your shepherd pipes?
 Yes, the tribe of Reuben has an uneasy conscience.
<sup>17</sup> Why did Gilead remain across the Jordan,
 And why did Dan remain with his ships?
 And why did Asher sit unmoved
 Upon the seashore,

At ease beside his harbors?)

and Naphtali

Dared to die upon the fields of battle.

fought in Taanach

By Megiddo's springs,
But did not win the victory.

<sup>20</sup> The very stars of heaven Fought Sisera.

<sup>21</sup> The rushing Kishon River Swept them away.

March on, my soul, with strength!

<sup>22</sup> Hear the stamping
Of the horsehoofs of the enemy!

See the prancing of his steeds!

<sup>23</sup> But the Angel of Jehovah Put a curse on Meroz.

'Curse them bitterly,' he said,
'Because they did not come to help the Lord

Against his enemies.'

The wife of Heber the Kenite—

Yes, may she be blessed Above all women who live in tents.

<sup>25</sup> He asked for water
And she gave him milk in a beautiful cup!

<sup>26</sup> Then she took a tent pin and a workman's hammer
And pierced Sisera's temples, Crushing his head.

She pounded the tent pin through his head,

<sup>27</sup> And he lay at her feet, Dead.

<sup>28</sup> The mother of Sisera watched through the window

For his return.

'Why is his chariot so long in coming?

Why don't we hear the sound of the wheels?'

<sup>29</sup> But her ladies-in-waiting —and she herself—replied,

<sup>30</sup> 'There is much loot to be divided,

And it takes time.

Each man receives a girl or two;

And Sisera will get gorgeous robes,

And he will bring home
Many gifts for me.'

<sup>31</sup> O Lord, may all your enemies

Perish as Sisera did,

But may those who love the Lord

Shine as the sun!"

After that there was peace in the land for forty years.

6 THEN THE PEOPLE of Israel began once again to worship other gods, and once again the Lord let their enemies harass them. This time it was by the people of Midian, for seven years. <sup>2</sup> The Midianites were so cruel that the Israelis took to the mountains, living in caves and dens. <sup>3,4</sup> When they planted their seed, marauders from Midian, Amalek, and other neighboring nations came and destroyed their crops and plundered the countryside as far away as Gaza, leaving nothing to eat, and taking away all their sheep, oxen, and donkeys.
<sup>5</sup> These enemy hordes arrived on droves of camels too numerous to count and stayed until the land was completely stripped and devastated. <sup>6,7</sup> So Israel was reduced to abject poverty because of the Midianites. Then at last the people of Israel began to cry out to the Lord for help.

<sup>9</sup> However, the Lord's reply through the prophet he sent to them was this: "The Lord God of Israel brought you out of slavery in Egypt, <sup>9</sup> and rescued you from the Egyptians and from all who were cruel to you, and drove out your enemies from before you, and gave you their land. <sup>10</sup> He told you that he is the Lord your God, and that you must not worship the gods of the Amorites who live around you on every side. But you have not listened to him."

<sup>11</sup> But one day the Angel of the Lord came and sat beneath the oak tree at Ophrah, on the farm of Joash the Abiezrite. Joash's son, Gideon, had been threshing wheat by hand in the bottom of a grape press—a pit where grapes were pressed to make wine—for he was hiding from the Midianites.

<sup>12</sup> The Angel of the Lord appeared to him and said, "Mighty soldier, the Lord is with you!"

<sup>13</sup> "Stranger," Gideon replied, "if the Lord is with us, why has all this happened to us? And where are all the miracles our ancestors have told us about—such as when God brought them out of Egypt? Now the Lord has thrown us away and has let the Midianites completely ruin us."

<sup>14</sup> Then the Lord turned to him and said, "I will make you strong! Go and save Israel from the Midianites! I am sending you!"

<sup>15</sup> But Gideon replied, "Sir, how can I save Israel? My family is the poorest in the whole tribe of Manasseh, and I am the least thought of in the entire family!"

<sup>16</sup> Whereupon the Lord said to him, "But I, Jehovah,<sup>a</sup> will be with you! And you shall quickly destroy the Midianite hordes!"

<sup>17</sup> Gideon replied, "If it is really true that you are going to help me like that, then do some miracle to prove it! Prove that it is really Jehovah who is talking to me!" <sup>18</sup> But stay here until I go and get a present for you."

"All right," the Angel agreed. "I'll stay here until you return."

<sup>19</sup> Gideon hurried home and roasted a young goat, and baked some unleavened bread from a bushel of flour. Then, carrying the meat in a basket and broth in a pot, he took it out to the Angel, who was beneath the oak tree, and presented it to him.

<sup>20</sup> The Angel said to him, "Place the meat and the bread upon that rock over there, and pour the broth over it."

When Gideon had followed these instructions, <sup>21</sup> the Angel touched the meat and bread with his staff, and fire flamed up from the rock and consumed them! And suddenly the Angel was gone!

<sup>22</sup> When Gideon realized that it had indeed been the Angel of the Lord, he cried out, "Alas, O Lord God, for I have seen the Angel of the Lord face to face!"

<sup>a</sup> Literally, "I Am will be with you." The same name is used here as in Exodus 3:14. God is telling Gideon that the same one who appeared to Moses and rescued Israel from Egypt (much on Gideon's mind; see verse 13) will now do it again, rescuing Israel from Midian.

<sup>24</sup> And Gideon built an altar there and named it "The Altar of Peace with Jehovah." (The altar is still there in Ophrah in the land of the Abiezrites.) <sup>25</sup> That night the Lord told Gideon to hitch his father's best ox to the family altar of Baal, and pull it down, and to cut down the wooden idol of the goddess Asherah that stood nearby.

<sup>26</sup> "Replace it with an altar for the Lord your God, built here on this hill, laying the stones carefully. Then sacrifice the ox as a burnt offering to the Lord, using the wooden idol as wood for the fire on the altar."

<sup>27</sup> So Gideon took ten of his servants and did as the Lord had commanded. But he did it at night for fear of the other members of his father's household, and for fear of the men of the city; for he knew what would happen if they found out who did it! <sup>28</sup> Early the next morning, as the city began to stir, someone discovered that the altar of Baal was knocked apart, the idol beside it was gone, and a new altar had been built instead, with the remains of a sacrifice on it.

<sup>29</sup> "Who did this?" everyone demanded. Finally they learned that it was Gideon, the son of Joash.

<sup>30</sup> "Bring out your son," they shouted to Joash. "He must die for insulting the altar of Baal, and for cutting down the Asherah idol."

<sup>31</sup> But Joash retorted to the whole mob, "Does Baal need your help? What an insult to a god! You are the ones who should die for insulting Baal! If Baal is really a god, let him take care of himself and destroy the one who broke apart his altar!"

<sup>32</sup> From then on Gideon was called "Jerubbaal," a nickname meaning "Let Baal take care of himself!"<sup>b</sup>

<sup>33</sup> Soon afterward the armies of Midian, Amalek, and other neighboring nations united in one vast alliance against Israel. They crossed the Jordan and camped in the valley of Jezreel. <sup>34</sup> Then the Spirit of the Lord came upon Gideon, and he blew a trumpet as a call to arms, and the men of Abiezer came to him. <sup>35</sup> He also sent messengers throughout Manasseh, Asher, Zebulun, and Naphtali, summoning their fighting forces, and all of them responded.

<sup>36</sup> Then Gideon said to God, "If you are really going to use me to save Israel as you promised, <sup>37</sup> prove it to me in this way: I'll put some wool on the threshing floor tonight, and if, in the morning, the fleece is wet and the ground is dry, I will know you are going to help me!"

<sup>38</sup> And it happened just that way! When he got up the next morning he pressed the fleece together and wrung out a whole bowlful of water!

<sup>39</sup> Then Gideon said to the Lord, "Please don't be angry with me, but let me make one more test: this time let the fleece remain dry while the ground around it is wet!"

<sup>40</sup> So the Lord did as he asked; that night the fleece stayed dry, but the ground was covered with dew!

7 JERUBBAAL (THAT IS, Gideon—his other name) and his army got an early start and went as far as the spring of Harod. The armies of Midian were camped north of them, down in the valley beside the hill of Moreh.

<sup>2</sup> The Lord then said to Gideon, "There are too many of you! I can't let all of you fight the Midianites, for then the people of Israel will boast to me that they saved themselves by their own strength! <sup>3</sup> Send home any of your men who are timid and frightened."

So twenty-two thousand of them left, and only ten thousand remained who were willing to fight.

<sup>4</sup> But the Lord told Gideon, "There are still too many! Bring them down to the spring and I'll show you which ones shall go with you and which ones shall not."

<sup>5,6</sup> So Gideon assembled them at the water. There the Lord told him, "Divide them into two groups decided by the way they drink. In Group 1 will be all the men who cup the water in their hands to get it to their mouths and lap it like dogs. In Group 2 will be those who kneel, with their mouths in the stream."

Only three hundred of the men drank from their hands; all the others drank with their mouths to the stream.

<sup>8,9</sup> So after Gideon had collected all the clay jars and trumpets they had among them, he sent them home, leaving only three hundred men with him.

During the night, with the Midianites camped in the valley just below, the Lord said to Gideon, "Get up! Take your troops and attack the Midianites, for I will cause you to defeat them!" <sup>10</sup> But if you are afraid, first go down to the camp alone—take along your servant Purah if you like—<sup>11</sup> and listen to what they are saying down there! You will be greatly encouraged and be eager to attack!"

So he took Purah and crept down through the darkness to the outposts of the enemy camp.

<sup>12,13</sup> The vast armies of Midian, Amalek, and the other nations of the East were crowded across the valley like locusts—yes, like the sand upon the seashore—and there were too many camels even to count! Gideon crept up to one of the tents just as a man inside had wakened from a nightmare and was telling his tent-mate about it.

"I had this strange dream," he was saying, "and there was this huge loaf of barley bread that came tumbling down into our camp. It hit our tent and knocked it flat!"

<sup>14</sup> The other soldier replied, "Your dream can mean only one thing! Gideon, the son of Joash, the Israeli, is going to come and massacre all the allied forces of Midian!"

<sup>15</sup> When Gideon heard the dream and the interpretation, all he could do was just stand there worshipping God! Then he returned to his men and shouted, "Get up! For the Lord is going to use you to conquer all the vast armies of Midian!"

men into three groups and gave each man a trumpet and a clay jar with a torch in it. <sup>17</sup> Then he explained his plan.

"When we arrive at the outer guardposts of the camp," he told them, "do just as I do. <sup>18</sup> As soon as I and the men in my group blow our trumpets, you blow yours on all sides of the camp and shout, 'We fight for God and for Gideon!'"

<sup>19,20</sup> It was just after midnight and the change of guards when Gideon and the hundred men with him crept to the outer edge of the camp of Midian.

Suddenly they blew their trumpets and broke their clay jars so that their torches blazed into the night. Then the other two hundred of his men did the same, blowing the trumpets in their right hands, and holding the flaming torches in their left hands, all yelling, "For the Lord and for Gideon!"

<sup>21</sup> Then they just stood and watched as the whole vast enemy army began rushing around in a panic, shouting and running away.

<sup>22</sup> For in the confusion the Lord caused the enemy troops to begin fighting and killing each other from one end of the camp to the other, and they fled into the night to places as far away as Beth-shittah near Zererah, and to the border of Abel-meholah near Tabbath.

<sup>23</sup> Then Gideon sent for the troops of Naphtali, Asher, and Manasseh and told them to come and chase and destroy the fleeing army of Midian. <sup>24</sup> Gideon also sent messengers throughout the hill country of Ephraim summoning troops who seized the fords of the Jordan River at Beth-barah, thus preventing the Midianites from escaping by going across. <sup>25</sup> Oreb and Zeeb, the two generals of Midian, were captured. Oreb was killed at the rock now known by his name, and Zeeb at the winepress of Zeeb, as it is now called; and the Israelites took the heads of Oreb and Zeeb across the Jordan to Gideon.

8 BUT THE TRIBAL leaders of Ephraim were violently angry with Gideon.

"Why didn't you send for us when you first went out to fight the Midianites?" they demanded.

<sup>4</sup> Gideon now crossed the Jordan River with his three hundred men. They were very tired, but still chasing the enemy. <sup>5</sup> He asked the men of Succoth for food. "We are weary from chasing after Zebah and Zalmunna, the kings of Midian," he said.

<sup>6</sup> But the leaders of Succoth replied, "You haven't caught them yet! If we feed you and you fail, they'll return and destroy us."<sup>b</sup>

<sup>7</sup> Then Gideon warned them, "When the Lord has delivered them to us, I will return and tear your flesh with the thorns and briars of a More literally, "Are not the last grapes of Ephraim better than the entire crop of Abiezer?"

b Literally, "are Zebah and Zalmunna already in your hand . . . ?"

the wilderness."

<sup>8</sup> Then he went up to Penuel and asked for food there, but got the same answer. <sup>9</sup> And he said to them also, "When this is all over, I will return and break down this tower."

<sup>10</sup> By this time King Zebah and King Zalmunna with a remnant of fifteen thousand troops were in Karkor. That was all that was left of the allied armies of the east; for one hundred twenty thousand had already been killed. <sup>11</sup> Then Gideon circled around by the caravan route east of Nobah and Jogbehah, striking at the Midianite army in surprise raids. <sup>12</sup> The two kings fled, but Gideon chased and captured them, routing their entire force. <sup>13</sup> Later, Gideon returned by way of Heres Pass. <sup>14</sup> There he captured a young fellow from Succoth and demanded that he write down the names of all the seventy-seven political and religious leaders of the city.

<sup>15</sup> He then returned to Succoth. "You taunted me that I would never catch King Zebah and King Zalmunna, and you refused to give us food when we were tired and hungry," he said. "Well, here they are!"

<sup>16</sup> Then he took the leaders of the city and scraped them to death<sup>c</sup> with wild thorns and briars. <sup>17</sup> He also went to Penuel and knocked down the city tower and killed the entire male population.

<sup>18</sup> Then Gideon asked King Zebah and King Zalmunna, "The men you killed at Tabor—what were they like?"

They replied, "They were dressed just like you—like sons of kings!"

<sup>19</sup> "They must have been my brothers!" Gideon exclaimed. "I swear that if you hadn't killed them I wouldn't kill you."

<sup>20</sup> Then, turning to Jether, his oldest son, he instructed him to kill them. But the boy was only a lad and was afraid to.

<sup>21</sup> Then Zebah and Zalmunna said to Gideon, "You do it; we'd rather be killed by a man!"<sup>d</sup> So Gideon killed them and took the ornaments from their camels' necks.

<sup>22</sup> Now the men of Israel said to Gideon, "Be our king! You and your sons and all your descendants shall be our rulers, for you have saved us from Midian."

<sup>23,24</sup> But Gideon replied, "I will not be your king, nor shall my son; the Lord is your King! However, I have one request. Give me all the earrings collected from your fallen foes,"—for the troops of Midian, being Ishmaelites, all wore golden earrings.

gold and put it in Ophrah, his home town. But all Israel soon began worshipping it, so it became an evil deed that Gideon and his family did.

<sup>28</sup> That is the true account of how Midian was subdued by Israel. Midian never recovered, and the land was at peace for forty years—all during Gideon's lifetime.

<sup>29</sup> He returned home, <sup>30</sup> and eventually had seventy sons, for he married many wives. <sup>31</sup> He also had a concubine in Shechem, who presented him with a son named Abimelech. <sup>32</sup> Gideon finally died, an old, old man, and was buried in the sepulcher of his father Joash in Ophrah, in the land of the Abiezrites.

<sup>33</sup> But as soon as Gideon was dead, the Israelis began to worship the idols Baal and Baal-berith. <sup>34</sup> They no longer considered the Lord as their God, though he had rescued them from all their enemies on every side. <sup>35</sup> Nor did they show any kindness to the family of Gideon despite all he had done for them.

9 ONE DAY GIDEON'S son Abimelech visited his uncles—his mother's brothers—in Shechem.

<sup>2</sup> "Go and talk to the leaders of Shechem," he requested, "and ask them whether they want to be ruled by seventy kings—Gideon's seventy sons—or by one man—meaning me, your own flesh and blood!"<sup>a</sup>

<sup>3</sup> So his uncles went to the leaders of the city and proposed Abimelech's scheme; and they decided that since his mother was a native of their town they would go along with it. <sup>4</sup> They gave him money from the temple offerings of the idol Baal-berith, which he used to hire some worthless loafers who agreed to do whatever he told them to. <sup>5</sup> He took them to his father's home at Ophrah and there, upon one stone, they slaughtered all seventy of his half-brothers, except for the youngest, Jotham, who escaped and hid. <sup>6</sup> Then the citizens of Shechem and Beth-millo called a meeting under the oak beside the garrison at Shechem, and Abimelech was acclaimed king of Israel.

<sup>7</sup> When Jotham heard about this, he stood at the top of Mount Gerizim and shouted across to the men of Shechem, "If you want God's blessing, listen to me! <sup>8</sup> Once upon a time the trees decided to elect a king. First they asked the olive tree, <sup>9</sup> but it refused.

"Should I quit producing the olive oil that blesses God and man, just to wave to and fro over the other trees?" it asked.

<sup>10</sup> "Then they said to the fig tree, 'You be our king!'

<sup>12</sup> "Then they said to the grapevine, 'You reign over us!'

<sup>13</sup> "But the grapevine replied, 'Shall I quit producing the wine that cheers both God and man, just to be mightier than all the other trees?'

turned to the thorn bush. 'You be our king!' they exclaimed.

<sup>15</sup> "And the thorn bush replied, 'If you really want me, come and humble yourselves beneath my shade! If you refuse, let fire flame forth from me and burn down the great cedars of Lebanon!'

<sup>16</sup> "Now make sure that you have done the right thing in making Abimelech your king, that you have done right by Gideon and all of his descendants. <sup>17</sup> For my father fought for you and risked his life and delivered you from the Midianites, <sup>18</sup> yet you have revolted against him and killed his seventy sons upon one stone. And now you have chosen his slave girl's son, Abimelech, to be your king just because he is your relative. <sup>19</sup> If you are sure that you have done right by Gideon and his descendants, then may you and Abimelech have a long and happy life together. <sup>20</sup> But if you have not been fair to Gideon, then may Abimelech destroy the citizens of Shechem and Beth-millo; and may they destroy Abimelech!"

<sup>21</sup> Then Jotham escaped and lived in Beer for fear of his brother Abimelech. <sup>22,23</sup> Three years later God stirred up trouble between King Abimelech and the citizens of Shechem, and they revolted. <sup>24</sup> In the events that followed, both Abimelech and the citizens of Shechem who aided him in butchering Gideon's seventy sons were given their just punishment for these murders. <sup>25</sup> For the men of Shechem set an ambush for Abimelech along the trail at the top of the mountain. (While they were waiting for him to come along, they robbed everyone else who passed that way.) But someone warned Abimelech about their plot. <sup>26</sup> At that time Gaal (the son of Ebed) moved to Shechem with his brothers, and he became one of the leading citizens. <sup>27</sup> During the harvest feast at Shechem that year, held in the temple of the local god, the wine flowed freely and everyone began cursing Abimelech.

<sup>30</sup> But when Zebul, the mayor of the city, heard what Gaal was saying, he was furious. <sup>31</sup> He sent messengers to Abimelech in Arumah telling him, "Gaal, son of Ebed, and his relatives have come to live in Shechem, and now they are arousing the city to rebellion against you. <sup>32</sup> Come by night with an army and hide out in the fields; <sup>33</sup> and in the morning, as soon as it is daylight, storm the city. When he and those who are with him come out against you, you can do with them as you wish!"

<sup>34</sup> So Abimelech and his men marched through the night and split into four groups, stationing themselves around the city. <sup>35</sup> The next morning as Gaal sat at the city gates, discussing various issues with the local leaders, Abimelech and his men began their march upon the city.

that mountain! Doesn't it look like people coming down?"

"No!" Zebul said. "You're just seeing shadows that look like men!"

<sup>37</sup> "No, look over there," Gaal said. "I'm sure I see people coming towards us. And look! There are others coming along the road past the oak of Meonenim!"

<sup>38</sup> Then Zebul turned on him triumphantly. "Now where is that big mouth of yours?" he demanded. "Who was it who said, 'Who is Abimelech, and why should he be our king?' The men you taunted and cursed are right outside the city! Go on out and fight!"

<sup>42</sup> The next day the men of Shechem went out to battle again. However, someone had told Abimelech about their plans, <sup>43</sup> so he had divided his men into three groups hiding in the fields. And when the men of the city went out to attack, he and his men jumped up from their hiding places and began killing them. <sup>44</sup> Abimelech stormed the city gate to keep the men of Shechem from getting back in, while his other two groups cut them down in the fields. <sup>45</sup> The battle went on all day before Abimelech finally captured the city, killed its people, and leveled it to the ground. <sup>46</sup> The people at the nearby town of Migdal saw what was happening and took refuge in the fort next to the temple of Baal-berith.

<sup>47,48</sup> When Abimelech learned of this, he led his forces to Mount Zalmon where he began chopping a bundle of firewood, and placed it upon his shoulder. "Do as I have done," he told his men. <sup>49</sup> So each of them quickly cut a bundle and carried it back to the town where, following Abimelech's example, the bundles were piled against the walls of the fort and set on fire. So all the people inside died, about a thousand men and women.

<sup>54</sup> "Kill me!" he groaned to his youthful armor bearer. "Never let it be said that a woman killed Abimelech!"

So the young man pierced him with his sword, and he died. <sup>55</sup> When his men saw that he was dead, they disbanded and returned to their homes. <sup>56,57</sup> Thus God punished both Abimelech and the men of Shechem for their sin of murdering Gideon's seventy sons. So the curse of Jotham, Gideon's son, came true.

10 AFTER ABIMELECH'S DEATH, the next judge of Israel was Tola (son of Puah and grandson of Dodo). He was from the tribe of Issachar, but lived in the city of Shamir in the hill country of Ephraim. <sup>2</sup>He was Israel's judge for twenty-three years. When he died, he was buried in Shamir, <sup>3</sup>and was succeeded by Jair, a man from Gilead, who judged Israel for twenty-two years. <sup>4</sup>His thirty sons rode around together on thirty donkeys, and they owned thirty cities in the land of Gilead which are still called "The Cities of Jair." <sup>5</sup>When Jair died he was buried in Kamon.

<sup>6</sup>Then the people of Israel turned away from the Lord again, and worshiped the heathen gods Baal and Ashtaroth, and the gods of Syria, Sidon, Moab, Ammon and Philistia. Not only this, but they no longer worshiped Jehovah at all. <sup>7a</sup>This made Jehovah very angry with his people, so he immediately permitted the Philistines and the Ammonites to begin tormenting them. These attacks took place east of the Jordan River in the land of the Amorites (that is, in Gilead), <sup>9</sup>and also in Judah, Benjamin, and Ephraim. For the Ammonites crossed the Jordan to attack the Israelis. This went on for eighteen years. <sup>10</sup>Finally the Israelis turned to Jehovah again and begged him to save them.

"We have sinned against you and have forsaken you as our God and have worshiped idols," they confessed.

"But the Lord replied, "Didn't I save you from the Egyptians, the Amorites, the Ammonites, the Philistines, <sup>12</sup>the Sidonians, the Amalekites, and the Maonites? Has there ever been a time when you cried out to me that I haven't rescued you? <sup>13</sup>Yet you continue to abandon me and to worship other gods. So go away; I won't save you any more. <sup>14</sup>Go and cry to the new gods you have chosen! Let them save you in your hour of distress!"

<sup>15</sup>But they pleaded with him again and said, "We have sinned. Punish us in any way you think best, only save us once more from our enemies."

<sup>18</sup>"Who will lead our forces against the Ammonites?" the leaders of Gilead asked each other. "Whoever volunteers shall be our king!"

11 NOW JEPHTHAH WAS a great warrior from the land of Gilead, but his mother was a prostitute. His father (whose name was Gilead) had several other sons by his legitimate wife, and when these half brothers grew up, they chased Jephthah out of the country.

"You son of a whore!" they said. "You'll not get any of our father's estate."

<sup>3</sup>So Jephthah fled from his father's home and lived in the land of Tob. Soon he had quite a band of malcontents as his followers, living off the land as bandits. <sup>4</sup>It was about this time that the Ammonites began their war against Israel. <sup>5</sup>The leaders of Gilead sent for Jephthah, <sup>6</sup>begging him to come and lead their army against the Ammonites.

<sup>7</sup>But Jephthah said to them, "Why do you come to me when you hate me and have driven me out of my father's house? Why come now when you're in trouble?"

<sup>8</sup> "Because we need you," they replied. "If you will be our commander-in-chief against the Ammonites, we will make you the king of Gilead."

<sup>11</sup> So Jephthah accepted the commission and was made commander-in-chief and king. The contract was ratified before the Lord in Mizpah at a general assembly of all the people. <sup>12</sup> Then Jephthah sent messengers to the king of Ammon, demanding to know why Israel was being attacked. <sup>13</sup> The king of Ammon replied that the land belonged to the people of Ammon; it had been stolen from them, he said, when the Israelites came from Egypt; the whole territory from the Arnon River to the Jabbok and the Jordan was his, he claimed.

"Give us back our land peacefully," he demanded.

derness, and traveled along the eastern border until at last they arrived beyond the boundary of Moab at the Arnon River; but they never once crossed into Moab. <sup>19</sup> Then Israel sent messengers to King Sihon of the Amorites, who lived in Heshbon, and asked permission to cross through his land to get to their destination. <sup>20</sup> But King Sihon didn't trust Israel, so he mobilized an army at Jahaz and attacked them. <sup>21,22</sup> But the Lord our God helped Israel defeat King Sihon and all your people, so Israel took over all of your land from the Arnon River to the Jabbok, and from the wilderness to the Jordan River.

<sup>23</sup> "So you see, it was the Lord God of Israel who took away the land from the Amorites and gave it to Israel. Why, then, should we return it to you? <sup>24</sup> You keep whatever your god Chemosh gives you, and we will keep whatever Jehovah our God gives us! <sup>25</sup> And besides, just who do you think you are? Are you better than King Balak, the king of Moab? Did he try to recover his land after Israel defeated him? No, of course not. <sup>26</sup> But now after three hundred years you make an issue of this! Israel has been living here for all that time, spread across the land from Heshbon to Aroer, and all along the Arnon River. Why have you made no effort to recover it before now? <sup>27</sup> No, I have not sinned against you; rather, you have wronged me by coming to war against me; but Jehovah the Judge will soon show which of us is right—Israel or Ammon."

Lord came upon Jephthah and he led his army across the land of Gilead and Manasseh, past Mizpah in Gilead, and attacked the army of Ammon. <sup>10,11</sup> Meanwhile Jephthah had vowed to the Lord that if God would help Israel conquer the Ammonites, then when he returned home in peace, the first person coming out of his house to meet him would be sacrificed as a burnt offering to the Lord!

<sup>12</sup> So Jephthah led his army against the Ammonites, and the Lord gave him the victory. <sup>13</sup> He destroyed the Ammonites with a terrible slaughter all the way from Aroer to Minnith, including twenty cities, and as far away as Vineyard Meadow. Thus the Ammonites were subdued by the people of Israel.

"Alas, my daughter!" he cried out. "You have brought me to the dust. For I have made a vow to the Lord and I cannot take it back."

<sup>16</sup> And she said, "Father, you must do whatever you promised the Lord, for he has given you a great victory over your enemies, the Ammonites. <sup>17</sup> But first let me go up into the hills and roam with my girl friends for two months, weeping because I'll never marry."

And so she did, bewailing her fate with her friends for two months. <sup>19</sup> Then she returned to her father, who did as he had vowed. So she was never married.<sup>a</sup> And after that it became a custom in Israel, <sup>40</sup> that the young girls went away for four days each year to lament the fate of Jephthah's daughter.

12 THEN THE TRIBE of Ephraim mobilized its army at Zaphon and sent this message to Jephthah: "Why didn't you call for us to help you fight against Ammon? We are going to burn down your house, with you in it!"

<sup>2</sup> "I summoned you, but you refused to come!" Jephthah retorted. "You failed to help us in our time of need, <sup>3</sup> so I risked my life and went to battle without you, and the Lord helped me to conquer the enemy. Is that anything for you to fight us about?"

"Are you a member of the tribe of Ephraim?" they asked. If the man replied that he was not, <sup>6</sup> then they demanded, "Say 'Shibboleth.'" But if he couldn't pronounce the H and said, "Sibboleth" instead of "Shibboleth," he was dragged away and killed. So forty-two thousand people of Ephraim died there at that time.

<sup>7</sup> Jephthah was Israel's judge for six years. At his death he was buried in one of the cities of Gilead.

<sup>8</sup> The next judge was Ibzan, who lived in Bethlehem. <sup>9,10</sup> He had thirty sons and thirty daughters. He married his daughters to men outside his clan, and brought in thirty girls to marry his sons. He judged Israel for seven years before he died, and was buried at Bethlehem.

<sup>13</sup> Next was Abdon (son of Hillel) from Pirathon. <sup>14</sup> He had forty sons and thirty grandsons, who rode on seventy donkeys. He was Israel's judge for eight years. <sup>15</sup> Then he died and was buried in Pirathon, in Ephraim, in the hill country of the Amalekites.

13 ONCE AGAIN ISRAEL sinned by worshipping other gods, so the Lord let them be conquered by the Philistines, who kept them in subjection for forty years. <sup>23</sup> Then one day the Angel of the Lord appeared to the wife of Manoah, of the tribe of Dan, who lived in the city of Zorah. She had no children, but the Angel said to her, "Even though you have been barren so long, you will soon conceive and have a son! <sup>4</sup> Don't drink any wine or beer, and don't eat any food that isn't kosher. <sup>5</sup> Your son's hair must never be cut, for he shall be a Nazirite, a special servant of God from the time of his birth; and he will begin to rescue Israel from the Philistines."

peared to me and I think he must be the Angel of the Lord, for he was almost too glorious to look at. I didn't ask where he was from, and he didn't tell me his name, <sup>7</sup> but he told me, 'You are going to have a baby boy!' And he told me not to drink any wine or beer, and not to eat food that isn't kosher, for the baby is going to be a Nazirite—he will be dedicated to God from the moment of his birth until the day of his death!"

<sup>8</sup> Then Manoah prayed, "O Lord, please let the man from God come back to us again and give us more instructions about the child you are going to give us." <sup>9</sup> The Lord answered his prayer, and the Angel of God appeared once again to his wife as she was sitting in the field. But again she was alone—Manoah was not with her— <sup>10</sup> so she quickly ran and found her husband and told him, "The same man is here again!"

<sup>11</sup> Manoah ran back with his wife and asked, "Are you the man who talked to my wife the other day?"

"Yes," he replied, "I am."

<sup>12</sup> So Manoah asked him, "Can you give us any special instructions about how we should raise the baby after he is born?"

<sup>13,14</sup> And the Angel replied, "Be sure that your wife follows the instructions I gave her. She must not eat grapes or raisins, or drink any wine or beer, or eat anything that isn't kosher."

<sup>15</sup> Then Manoah said to the Angel, "Please stay here until we can get you something to eat."

if you wish to bring something, bring an offering to sacrifice to the Lord." (Manoah didn't yet realize that he was the Angel of the Lord.)

<sup>17</sup> Then Manoah asked him for his name. "When all this comes true and the baby is born," he said to the Angel, "we will certainly want to tell everyone that you predicted it!"

<sup>19</sup> Then Manoah took a young goat and a grain offering and offered it as a sacrifice to the Lord; and the Angel did a strange and wonderful thing, <sup>20</sup> for as the flames from the altar were leaping up toward the sky, and as Manoah and his wife watched, the Angel ascended in the fire! Manoah and his wife fell face downward to the ground, <sup>21</sup> and that was the last they ever saw of him. It was then that Manoah finally realized that it had been the Angel of the Lord.

<sup>22</sup> "We will die," Manoah cried out to his wife, "for we have seen God!"

<sup>23</sup> But his wife said, "If the Lord were going to kill us he wouldn't have accepted our burnt offerings and wouldn't have appeared to us and told us this wonderful thing and done these miracles."

<sup>24</sup> When her son was born they named him Samson, and the Lord blessed him as he grew up. <sup>25</sup> And the Spirit of the Lord began to excite him whenever he visited the parade grounds of the army of the tribe of Dan, located between the cities of Zorah and Eshta-ol.

14 ONE DAY WHEN Samson was in Timnah, he noticed a certain Philistine girl, <sup>2</sup> and when he got home he told his father and mother that he wanted to marry her. <sup>3</sup> They objected strenuously.

"Why don't you marry a Jewish girl?" they asked. "Why must you go and get a wife from these heathen Philistines? Isn't there one girl among all the people of Israel you could marry?"

But Samson told his father, "She is the one I want. Get her for me."

<sup>4</sup> His father and mother didn't realize that the Lord was behind the request, for God was setting a trap for the Philistines, who at that time were the rulers of Israel.

<sup>5</sup> As Samson and his parents were going to Timnah, a young lion attacked Samson in the vineyards on the outskirts of the town. <sup>6</sup> At that moment the Spirit of the Lord came mightily upon him and since he had no weapon, he ripped the lion's jaws apart, and did it as easily as though it were a young goat! But he didn't tell his father or mother about it. <sup>7</sup> Upon arriving at Timnah he talked with the girl and found her to be just what he wanted, so the arrangements were made.<sup>a</sup>

Samson threw a party for thirty young men of the village, as was the custom of the day.<sup>12</sup> When Samson asked if they would like to hear a riddle, they replied that they would.

"If you solve my riddle during these seven days of the celebration," he said, "I'll give you thirty plain robes and thirty fancy robes.<sup>13</sup> But if you can't solve it, then you must give the robes to me!"

"All right," they agreed, "let's hear it."

<sup>14</sup> This was his riddle: "Food came out of the eater, and sweetness from the strong!" Three days later they were still trying to figure it out.

<sup>15</sup> On the fourth day they said to his new wife, "Get the answer from your husband, or we'll burn down your father's house with you in it. Were we invited to this party just to make us poor?"

<sup>16</sup> So Samson's wife broke down in tears before him and said, "You don't love me at all; you hate me, for you have told a riddle to my people and haven't told me the answer!"

"I haven't even told it to my father or mother; why should I tell you?" he replied.

<sup>17</sup> So she cried whenever she was with him and kept it up for the remainder of the celebration. At last, on the seventh day, he told her the answer and she, of course, gave the answer to the young men.<sup>18</sup> So before sunset of the seventh day they gave him their reply.

"What is sweeter than honey?" they asked, "and what is stronger than a lion?"

"If you hadn't plowed with my heifer, you wouldn't have found the answer to my riddle!" he retorted.

<sup>19</sup> Then the Spirit of the Lord came upon him and he went to the city of Ashkelon, killed thirty men, took their clothing, and gave it to the young men who had told him the answer to his riddle. But he was furious about it and abandoned his wife and went back home to live with his father and mother.<sup>20</sup> So his wife was married instead to the fellow who had been best man at Samson's wedding.

15 LATER ON, DURING the wheat harvest, Samson took a young goat as a present to his wife, intending to sleep with her; but her father wouldn't let him in.

<sup>4</sup> So he went out and caught three hundred foxes and tied their tails together in pairs, with a torch between each pair.<sup>5</sup> Then he lit the torches and let the foxes run through the fields of the Philistines, burning the grain to the ground along with all the sheaves and shocks of grain, and destroying the olive trees.

"Samson," was the reply, "because his wife's father gave her to another man." So the Philistines came and got the girl and her father and burned them alive.

<sup>7</sup> "Now my vengeance will strike again!" Samson vowed.<sup>8</sup> So he attacked them with great fury and killed many of them. Then he went to live in a cave in the rock of Etam. <sup>9</sup> The Philistines in turn sent a huge posse into Judah and raided Lehi.

<sup>10</sup> "Why have you come here?" the men of Judah asked.

And the Philistines replied, "To capture Samson and do to him as he has done to us."

<sup>11</sup> So three thousand men of Judah went down to get Samson at the cave in the rock of Etam.

"What are you doing to us?" they demanded of him. "Don't you realize that the Philistines are our rulers?"

But Samson replied, "I only paid them back for what they did to me."

<sup>12,13</sup> "We have come to capture you and take you to the Philistines," the men of Judah told him.

"All right," Samson said, "but promise me that you won't kill me yourselves."

"No," they replied, "we won't do that."

So they tied him with two new ropes and led him away. <sup>14</sup> As Samson and his captors arrived at Lehi, the Philistines shouted with glee; but then the strength of the Lord came upon Samson, and the ropes with which he was tied snapped like thread and fell from his wrists! <sup>15</sup> Then he picked up a donkey's jawbone that was lying on the ground and killed a thousand Philistines with it. <sup>16,17</sup> Tossing away the jawbone, he remarked,

"Heaps upon heaps,
All with a donkey's jaw!
I've killed a thousand men,
All with a donkey's jaw!"

(The place has been called "Jawbone Hill" ever since.)

<sup>18</sup> But now he was very thirsty and he prayed to the Lord and said, "You have given Israel such a wonderful deliverance through me today! Must I now die of thirst, and fall to the mercy of these heathen?"

<sup>19</sup> So the Lord caused water to gush out from a hollow in the ground and Samson's spirit was revived as he drank. Then he named the place "The Spring of the Man Who Prayed," and the spring is still there today.

<sup>20</sup> Samson was Israel's judge for the next twenty years, but the Philistines still controlled the land.

16 ONE DAY SAMSON went to the Philistine city of Gaza and spent the night with a prostitute.

<sup>2</sup> Word soon spread that he had been seen in the city, so the police were alerted and many men of the city lay in wait all night at the city gate to capture him if he tried to leave.

"In the morning," they thought, "when there is enough light, we'll find him and kill him."

<sup>3</sup> Samson stayed in bed with the girl until midnight, then went out to the city gates and lifted them, with the two gateposts, right out of the ground. He put them on his shoulders and carried them to the top of the mountain across from Hebron!

<sup>4</sup> Later on he fell in love with a girl named Delilah over in the valley of Sorek. <sup>5</sup> The five heads of the Philistine nation went personally to her and demanded that she find out from Samson what made him so strong, so that they would know how to overpower and subdue him and put him in chains.

"Each of us will give you a thousand dollars for this job," they promised.

<sup>6</sup> So Delilah begged Samson to tell her his secret. "Please tell me, Samson, why you are so strong," she pleaded. "I don't think anyone could ever capture you!"

<sup>7</sup> "Well," Samson replied, "if I were tied with seven raw-leather bowstrings, I would become as weak as anyone else."

<sup>8</sup> So they brought her the seven bowstrings, and while he slept<sup>a</sup> she tied him with them. <sup>9</sup> Some men were hiding in the next room, so as soon as she had tied him up she exclaimed, "Samson! The Philistines are here!"

Then he snapped the bowstrings like cotton thread,<sup>b</sup> and so his secret was not discovered.

<sup>10</sup> Afterward Delilah said to him, "You are making fun of me! You told me a lie! Please tell me how you can be captured!"

<sup>11</sup> "Well," he said, "if I am tied with brand new ropes which have never been used, I will be as weak as other men."

<sup>12</sup> So that time, as he slept,<sup>c</sup> Delilah took new ropes and tied him with them. The men were hiding in the next room, as before. Again Delilah exclaimed, "Samson! The Philistines have come to capture you!"

But he broke the ropes from his arms like spiderwebs!

<sup>13</sup> "You have mocked me again, and told me more lies!" Delilah complained. "Now tell me how you can really be captured."

"Well," he said, "if you weave my hair into your loom . . . I!"

<sup>14</sup> So while he slept, she did just that and then screamed, "The Philistines have come, Samson!" And he woke up and yanked his hair away, breaking the loom.

<sup>15</sup> "How can you say you love me when you don't confide in me?" she whined. "You've made fun of me three times now, and you still haven't told me what makes you so strong!"

<sup>16,17</sup> She nagged at him every day until he couldn't stand it any longer and finally told her his secret.

"My hair has never been cut," he confessed, "for I've been a Nazirite to God since before my birth. If my hair were cut, my strength would leave me, and I would become as weak as anyone else."

<sup>18</sup> Delilah realized that he had finally told her the truth, so she sent for the five Philistine leaders.

"Come just this once more," she said, "for this time he has told me everything."

So they brought the money with them. <sup>19</sup> She lulled him to sleep with his head in her lap, and they brought in a barber and cut off his hair. Delilah began to hit him, but she could see that his strength was leaving him.

him and gouged out his eyes and took him to Gaza, where he was bound with bronze chains and made to grind grain in the prison.<sup>22</sup> But before long his hair began to grow again.

<sup>23,24</sup> The Philistine leaders declared a great festival to celebrate the capture of Samson. The people made sacrifices to their god Dagon and excitedly praised him.

"Our god has delivered our enemy Samson to us!" they gloated as they saw him there in chains. "The scourge of our nation who killed so many of us is now in our power!"<sup>25,26</sup> Half drunk by now, the people demanded, "Bring out Samson so we can have some fun with him!"

So he was brought from the prison and made to stand at the center of the temple, between the two pillars supporting the roof. Samson said to the boy who was leading him by the hand, "Place my hands against the two pillars. I want to rest against them."

<sup>27</sup> By then the temple was completely filled with people. The five Philistine leaders were there as well as three thousand people in the balconies<sup>d</sup> who were watching Samson and making fun of him.

<sup>1</sup> Then Samson prayed to the Lord and said, "O Lord Jehovah, remember me again—please strengthen me one more time, so that I may pay back the Philistines for the loss of at least one of my eyes."

tines," he prayed.

And the temple crashed down upon the Philistine leaders and all the people. So those he killed at the moment of his death were more than those he had killed during his entire lifetime.<sup>31</sup> Later, his brothers and other relatives came down to get his body, and they brought him back home and buried him between Zorah and Eshta-ol, where his father, Manoah, was buried. He had judged Israel for twenty years.

17 IN THE HILL country of Ephraim lived a man named Micah.

<sup>2</sup> One day he said to his mother, "That thousand dollars you thought was stolen from you, and you were cursing about—well, I stole it!"

"God bless you for confessing it," his mother replied. <sup>3</sup> So he returned the money to her.

"I am going to give it to the Lord as a credit for your account," she declared. "I'll have an idol carved for you and plate it with the silver."

<sup>4,5</sup> So his mother took a fifth of it to a silversmith, and the idol he made from it was placed in Micah's shrine. Micah had many idols in his collection, also an ephod and some teraphim, and he installed one of his sons as the priest. <sup>6</sup> (For in those days Israel had no king, so everyone did whatever he wanted to—whatever seemed right in his own eyes.)

looking for a good place to live. He happened to stop at Micah's house as he was traveling through.

And he replied, "I am a priest<sup>b</sup> from Bethlehem, in Judah, and I am looking for a place to live."

<sup>10,11</sup> "Well, stay here with me," Micah said, "and you can be my priest. I will give you ten dollars a year plus a new suit and your board and room." The young man agreed to this, and became as one of Micah's sons. <sup>12</sup> So Micah consecrated him as his personal priest.

<sup>13</sup> "I know the Lord will really bless me now," Micah exclaimed, "because now I have a genuine priest working for me!"<sup>c</sup>

18 AS HAS ALREADY been stated, there was no king in Israel at that time. The tribe of Dan was trying to find a place to settle, for they had not yet driven out the people living in the land assigned to them. <sup>2</sup> So the men of Dan chose five army heroes from the cities of Zorah and Eshta-ol as scouts to go and spy out the land they were supposed to settle in. Arriving in the hill country of Ephraim, they stayed at Micah's home. <sup>3</sup> Noticing the young Levite's accent, they took him aside and asked him, "What are you doing here? Why did you come?" <sup>4</sup> He told them about his contract with Micah, and that he was his personal priest.

<sup>5</sup> "Well, then," they said, "ask God whether or not our trip will be successful."

is well. The Lord is taking care of you."

<sup>7</sup> So the five men went on to the town of Laish, and noticed how secure everyone felt. Their manner of life was Phoenician, and they were wealthy. They lived quietly, and were unprepared for an attack, for there were no tribes in the area strong enough to try it. They lived a great distance from their relatives in Sidon, and had little or no contact with the nearby villages. <sup>8</sup> So the spies returned to their people in Zorah and Eshta-ol.

"What about it?" they were asked. "What did you find?"

<sup>9,10</sup> And the men replied, "Let's attack! We have seen the land and it is ours for the taking—a broad, fertile, wonderful place—a real paradise. The people aren't even prepared to defend themselves! Come on, let's go! For God has given it to us!"

<sup>11</sup> So six hundred armed troops of the tribe of Dan set out from Zorah and Eshta-ol. <sup>12</sup> They camped first at a place west of Kiriath-jearim in Judah (which is still called "The Camp of Dan"), <sup>13</sup> then they went on up into the hill country of Ephraim.

As they passed the home of Micah, <sup>14</sup> the five spies told the others. "There is a shrine in there with an ephod, some teraphim, and many plated idols. It's obvious what we ought to do!"

<sup>15,16</sup> So the five men went over to the house and with all of the armed men standing just outside the gate, they talked to the young priest, and asked him how he was getting along. <sup>17</sup> Then the five spies entered the shrine and took the idols, the ephod, and the teraphim.

<sup>19</sup> "Be quiet and come with us," they said. "Be a priest to all of us. Isn't it better for you to be a priest to a whole tribe in Israel instead of just to one man in his private home?"

"What do you want, chasing after us like this?" the men of Dan demanded.

<sup>26</sup> So the men of Dan kept going. When Micah saw that there were too many of them for him to handle, he turned back home.

<sup>27</sup> Then, with Micah's idols and the priest, the men of Dan arrived at the city of Laish. There weren't even any guards, so they went in and slaughtered all the people and burned the city to the ground.

<sup>28</sup> There was no one to help the inhabitants, for they were too far away from Sidon, and they had no local allies, for they had no dealings with anyone. This happened in the valley next to Beth-rehob. Then the people of the tribe of Dan rebuilt the city and lived there. <sup>29</sup> The city was named "Dan" after their ancestor, Israel's son, but it had originally been called Laish.

<sup>30</sup> Then they set up the idols and appointed a man named Jonathan (son of Gershom and grandson of Moses!) and his sons as their priests. This family continued as priests until the city was finally conquered by its enemies. <sup>31</sup> So Micah's idols were worshiped by the tribe of Dan as long as the Tabernacle remained at Shiloh.

19 AT THIS TIME before Israel had a king, there was a man of the tribe of Levi living on the far side of the hill country of Ephraim, who brought home a girl from Bethlehem in Judah to be his concubine. <sup>2</sup> But she became angry with him and ran away, and returned to her father's home in Bethlehem, and was there about four months. <sup>3</sup> Then her husband, taking along a servant and an extra donkey, went to see her to try to win her back again. When he arrived at her home, she let him in and introduced him to her father, who was delighted to meet him. <sup>4</sup> Her father urged him to stay awhile, so he stayed three days, and they all had a very pleasant time.

<sup>5</sup> On the fourth day they were up early, ready to leave, but the girl's father insisted on their having breakfast first. <sup>6</sup> Then he pleaded with him to stay one more day, as they were having such a good time. <sup>7</sup> At first the man refused, but his father-in-law kept urging him until finally he gave in. <sup>8</sup> The next morning they were up early again, and again the girl's father pleaded, "Stay just today and leave sometime this evening." So they had another day of feasting.

<sup>9</sup> That afternoon as he and his wife and servant were preparing to leave, his father-in-law said, "Look, it's getting late. Stay just tonight, and we will have a pleasant evening together and tomorrow you can get up early and be on your way."

<sup>10</sup> But this time the man was adamant, so they left, getting as far as Jerusalem (also called Jebus) before dark.

<sup>12,13</sup> "No," his master said, "we can't stay in this heathen city where there are no Israelites—we will go on to Gibe-ah, or possibly Ramah."

<sup>14</sup> So they went on. The sun was setting just as they came to Gibe-ah, a village of the tribe of Benjamin, <sup>15</sup> so they went there for the night. But as no one invited them in, they camped in the village square. <sup>16</sup> Just then an old man came by on his way home from his work in the fields. (He was originally from the hill country of Ephraim, but was living now in Gibe-ah, even though it was in the territory of Benjamin.) <sup>17</sup> When he saw the travelers camped in the square, he asked them where they were from, and where they were going.

plied. "I live on the far edge of the Ephraim hill country, near Shiloh. But no one has taken us in for the night, <sup>19</sup> even though we have fodder for our donkeys, and plenty of food and wine for ourselves."

<sup>20</sup> "Don't worry," the old man said, "be my guests; for you mustn't stay here in the square. It's too dangerous."

<sup>21</sup> So he took them home with him. He fed their donkeys while they rested, and afterward they had supper together. <sup>22</sup> Just as they were beginning to warm to the occasion, a gang of sex perverts gathered around the house and began beating at the door and yelling at the old man to bring out the man who was staying with him, so they could rape him. <sup>23</sup> The old man stepped outside to talk to them.

"No, my brothers, don't do such a dastardly act," he begged, "for he is my guest. <sup>24</sup> Here, take my virgin daughter and this man's wife. I'll bring them out and you can do whatever you like to them—but don't do such a thing to this man."

But there was no answer, for she was dead; so he threw her across the donkey's back and took her home. <sup>29</sup> When he got there he took a knife and cut her body into twelve parts and sent one piece to each tribe of Israel. <sup>30</sup> Then the entire nation was roused to action against the men of Benjamin because of this awful deed.

"There hasn't been such a horrible crime since Israel left Egypt," everyone said. "We've got to do something about it."

20 THEN THE ENTIRE nation of Israel sent their leaders and 450,000 troops to assemble with one mind before the Lord at Mizpah. They came from as far away as Dan and Beersheba, and everywhere between, and from across the Jordan in the land of Gilead. <sup>1</sup> (Word of the mobilization of the Israeli forces at Mizpah soon reached the land of Benjamin.) The chiefs of Israel now called for the murdered woman's husband and asked him just what had happened.

<sup>4</sup> "We arrived one evening at Gibe-ah, a village in Benjamin," he began. <sup>5</sup> "That night the men of Gibe-ah surrounded the house, planning to kill me, and they raped my wife until she was dead. <sup>6</sup> So I cut her body into twelve pieces and sent the pieces throughout the land of Israel, for these men have committed a terrible crime. <sup>7</sup> Now then, sons of Israel, express your mind and give me your counsel!"

<sup>8,9,10</sup> And as one man they replied, "Not one of us will return home until we have punished the village of Gibe-ah. A tenth of the army will be selected by lot as a supply line to bring us food, and the rest of us will destroy Gibe-ah for this horrible deed."

<sup>12</sup> Then messengers were sent to the tribe of Benjamin, asking, "Did you know about the terrible thing that was done among you? <sup>13</sup> Give up these evil men from the city of Gibe-ah so that we can execute them and purge Israel of her evil." But the people of Benjamin wouldn't listen. <sup>14,15</sup> Instead, twenty-six thousand of them arrived in Gibe-ah to join the seven hundred local men in their defense against the rest of Israel. <sup>16</sup> (Among all these there were seven hundred men who were left-handed sharpshooters. They could hit a target within a hair's breadth, never missing!) <sup>17</sup> The army of Israel, not counting the men of Benjamin, numbered 400,000 men.

<sup>18</sup> Before the battle the Israeli army went to Bethel first to ask counsel from God. "Which tribe shall lead us against the people of Benjamin?" they asked.

And the Lord replied, "Judah shall go first."

And the Lord said, "Yes." So the men of Israel took courage and went out again the next day to fight at the same place. <sup>25</sup> And that day they lost another eighteen thousand men, all experienced swordsmen.

<sup>26</sup> Then the entire army went up to Bethel and wept before the Lord and fasted until evening, offering burnt sacrifices and peace offerings. <sup>27,28</sup> (The Ark of God was in Bethel in those days. Phinehas, the son of Eleazar and grandson of Aaron, was the priest.)

The men of Israel asked the Lord, "Shall we go out again and fight against our brother Benjamin, or shall we stop?"

And the Lord said, "Go, for tomorrow I will see to it that you defeat the men of Benjamin."

<sup>29</sup> So the Israeli army set an ambush all around the village, <sup>30</sup> and went out again on the third day and set themselves in their usual battle formation. <sup>31</sup> When the army of Benjamin came out of the town to attack, the Israeli forces retreated and Benjamin was drawn away from the town as they chased after Israel. And as they had done previously, Benjamin began to kill the men of Israel along the roadway running between Bethel and Gibe-ah, so that about thirty of them died.

<sup>32</sup> Then the army of Benjamin shouted, "We're defeating them again!" But the armies of Israel had agreed in advance to run away so that the army of Benjamin would chase them and be drawn away from the town. <sup>33</sup> But when the main army of Israel reached Baaltamar, it turned and attacked, and the ten thousand men in ambush west of Geba jumped up from where they were, <sup>34</sup> and advanced against the rear of the army of Benjamin, who still didn't realize the impending disaster. <sup>35-39</sup> So the Lord helped Israel defeat Benjamin, and the Israeli army killed 25,100 men of Benjamin that day, leaving but a tiny remnant of their forces.

Summary of the Battle:

The army of Israel retreated from the men of Benjamin in order to give the ambush more room for maneuvering. When the men of Benjamin had killed about thirty of the Israelis, they were confident of a massive slaughter just as on the previous days. But then the men in ambush rushed into the village and slaughtered everyone in it, and set it on fire. The great cloud of smoke pouring into the sky was the signal for the Israeli army to turn around and attack the army of Benjamin, <sup>40,41</sup> who now looked behind them and were terrified to discover that their city was on fire, and that they were in serious trouble. <sup>42</sup> So they ran toward the wilderness, but the Israelis chased after them, and the men who had set the ambush came out and joined the slaughter from the rear. <sup>43</sup> They encircled the army of Benjamin east of Gibe-ah, and killed most of them there. <sup>44</sup> Eighteen thousand of the Benjamin troops died in that day's battle. <sup>45</sup> The rest of the army fled into the wilderness toward the rock of Rimmon, but five thousand were killed along the way, and two thousand more near Gidom.

<sup>46,47</sup> So the tribe of Benjamin lost twenty-five thousand brave warriors that day, leaving only six hundred men who escaped to the rock of Rimmon, where they lived for four months. <sup>48</sup> Then the Israeli army returned and slaughtered the entire population of the tribe of Benjamin—men, women, children, and cattle—and burned down every city and village in the entire land.

21 THE LEADERS OF Israel had vowed at Mizpah never to let their daughters marry a man from the tribe of Benjamin: <sup>2</sup> And now the Israeli leaders met at Bethel and sat before God until evening, weeping bitterly.

<sup>3</sup> "O Lord God of Israel," they cried out, "why has this happened, that now one of our tribes is missing?"

<sup>4</sup> The next morning they were up early and built an altar, and offered sacrifices and peace offerings on it. <sup>5</sup> And they said among themselves, "Was any tribe of Israel not represented when we held our council before the Lord at Mizpah?" For at that time it was agreed by solemn oath that anyone who refused to come must die. <sup>6</sup> There was deep sadness throughout all Israel for the loss of their brother tribe, Benjamin.

"Gone," they kept saying to themselves, "gone—an entire tribe of Israel has been cut off, and is gone. <sup>7</sup> And how shall we get wives for the few who remain, since we have sworn by the Lord that we will not give them our daughters?"

<sup>8</sup> Then they thought again of their oath to kill anyone who refused to come to Mizpah, and discovered that no one had attended from Jabesh-gilead.

<sup>10,11,12</sup> So they sent twelve thousand of their best soldiers to destroy the people of Jabesh-gilead. All the men, married women, and children were slain, but the young virgins of marriageable age were saved. There were four hundred of these, and they were brought to the camp at Shiloh.

<sup>16</sup> "What shall we do for wives for the others, since all the women of the tribe of Benjamin are dead?" the leaders of Israel asked.

<sup>17</sup> "There must be some way to get wives for them, so that an entire tribe of Israel will not be lost forever. <sup>18</sup> But we can't give them our own daughters. We have sworn with a solemn oath that anyone who does this shall be cursed of God."

they were told and kidnapped the girls who took part in the celebration, and carried them off to their own land. Then they rebuilt their cities and lived in them.<sup>24</sup> So the people of Israel returned to their homes.

<sup>25</sup> (There was no king in Israel in those days, and every man did whatever he thought was right.)

RUTH

1 LONG AGO WHEN judges ruled in Israel, a man named Elimelech, from Bethlehem,<sup>a</sup> left the country because of a famine and moved to the land of Moab. With him were his wife, Naomi, and his two sons, Mahlon and Chilion.<sup>3</sup> During the time of their residence there, Elimelech died and Naomi was left with her two sons.

<sup>4,5</sup> These young men, Mahlon and Chilion, married girls of Moab, Orpah and Ruth. But later, both men died, so that Naomi was left alone, without her husband or sons.<sup>6,7</sup> She decided to return to Israel with her daughters-in-law, for she had heard that the Lord had blessed his people by giving them good crops again.

<sup>8</sup> But after they had begun their homeward journey, she changed her mind and said to her two daughters-in-law, "Why don't you return to your parents' homes instead of coming with me? And may the Lord reward you for your faithfulness to your husbands and to me.<sup>9</sup> And may he bless you with another happy marriage." Then she kissed them and they all broke down and cried.

<sup>11</sup> But Naomi replied, "It is better for you to return to your own people. Do I have younger sons who could grow up to be your husbands?<sup>b</sup> <sup>12</sup> No, my daughters, return to your parents' homes, for I am too old to have a husband. And even if that were possible, and I became pregnant tonight, and bore sons, <sup>13</sup> would you wait for them to grow up? No, of course not, my daughters; oh, how I grieve for you that the Lord has punished me in a way that injures you."

<sup>15</sup> "See," Naomi said to her, "your sister-in-law has gone back to her people and to her gods; you should do the same."

<sup>16</sup> But Ruth replied, "Don't make me leave you, for I want to go wherever you go, and to live wherever you live; your people shall be my people, and your God shall be my God; <sup>17</sup> I want to die where you die, and be buried there. May the Lord do terrible things to me if I allow anything but death to separate us."

<sup>18</sup> And when Naomi saw that Ruth had made up her mind and could not be persuaded otherwise, she stopped urging her. <sup>19</sup> So they both came to Bethlehem and the entire village was stirred by their arrival.

"Is it really Naomi?" the women asked.

<sup>20</sup> But she told them, "Don't call me Naomi. Call me Mara," (Naomi means "pleasant"; Mara means "bitter") "for Almighty God has dealt me bitter blows. <sup>21</sup> I went out full and the Lord has brought me home empty; why should you call me Naomi when the Lord has turned his back on me and sent such calamity!"

2 NOW NAOMI HAD an in-law there in Bethlehem who was a very wealthy man. His name was Boaz.

And Naomi said, "All right, dear daughter. Go ahead."

while she was there. After exchanging greetings with the reapers he said to his foreman, "Hey, who's that girl over there?"

<sup>5</sup> And the foreman replied, "It's that girl from the land of Moab who came back with Naomi." She asked me this morning if she could pick up the grains dropped by the reapers, and she has been at it ever since except for a few minutes' rest over there in the shade."

<sup>6,7</sup> Boaz went over and talked to her. "Listen, my child," he said to her. "Stay right here with us to glean; don't think of going to any other fields. Stay right behind my women workers; I have warned the young men not to bother you; when you are thirsty, go and help yourself to the water."

<sup>10,11</sup> She thanked him warmly. "How can you be so kind to me?" she asked. "You must know I am only a foreigner."

"Yes, I know," Boaz replied, "and I also know about all the love and kindness you have shown your mother-in-law since the death of your husband, and how you left your father and mother in your own land and have come here to live among strangers. <sup>12</sup> May the Lord God of Israel, under whose wings you have come to take refuge, bless you for it."

<sup>13</sup> "Oh, thank you, sir," she replied. "You are so good to me, and I'm not even one of your workers!"

So she sat with his reapers and he gave her food,<sup>b</sup> more than she could eat. <sup>15</sup> And when she went back to work again, Boaz told his young men to let her glean right among the sheaves without stopping her, <sup>16</sup> and to snap off some heads of barley and drop them on purpose for her to glean, and not to make any remarks. <sup>17</sup> So she worked there all day, and in the evening when she had beaten out the barley she had gleaned, it came to a whole bushel! <sup>18</sup> She carried it back into the city and gave it to her mother-in-law, with what was left of her lunch.

<sup>19</sup> "So much!" Naomi exclaimed. "Where in the world did you glean today? Praise the Lord for whoever was so kind to you." So Ruth told her mother-in-law all about it, and mentioned that the owner of the field was Boaz.

<sup>21</sup> "Well," Ruth told her, "he said to come back and stay close behind his reapers until the entire field is harvested."

<sup>22</sup> "This is wonderful!" Naomi exclaimed. "Do as he has said. Stay with his girls right through the whole harvest; you will be safer there than in any other field!"

<sup>23</sup> So Ruth did, and gleaned with them until the end of the barley harvest, and then the wheat harvest, too.

3 ONE DAY NAOMI said to Ruth, "My dear, isn't it time that I try to find a husband for you, and get you happily married again? <sup>2</sup> The man I'm thinking of is Boaz! He has been so kind to us, and is a close relative. I happen to know that he will be winnowing barley tonight out on the threshing-floor. <sup>3</sup> Now do what I tell you—bathe and put on some perfume and some nice clothes and go on down to the threshing-floor, but don't let him see you until he has finished his supper. <sup>4</sup> Notice where he lies down to sleep; then go and lift the cover off his feet and lie down there, and he will tell you what to do concerning marriage."

<sup>6</sup> So she went down to the threshing-floor that night and followed her mother-in-law's instructions. After Boaz had finished a good meal, he lay down very contentedly beside a heap of grain and went to sleep.

Then Ruth came quietly and lifted the covering off his feet and lay there. <sup>8</sup> Suddenly, around midnight, he wakened and sat up, startled. There was a woman lying at his feet!

<sup>9</sup> "Who are you?" he demanded. "It's I, sir—Ruth," she replied. "Make me your wife according to God's law, for you are my close relative."

<sup>10</sup> "Thank God for a girl like you!" he exclaimed. "For you are being even kinder to Naomi now than before. Naturally you'd prefer a younger man, even though poor. But you have put aside your personal desires [so that you can give

Naomi an heir by marrying me<sup>a</sup>].
 "Now don't worry about a thing, my child; I'll handle all the details, for everyone knows what a wonderful person you are."<sup>2</sup> But there is one problem. It's true that I am a close relative, but there is someone else who is more closely related to you than I am. "Stay here tonight, and in the morning I'll talk to him, and if he will marry you, fine; let him do his duty; but if he won't, then I will, I swear by Jehovah; lie down until the morning."

"So she lay at his feet until the morning and was up early, before daybreak, for he had said to her, "Don't let it be known that a woman was here at the threshing-floor."

<sup>15-18</sup> "Bring your shawl," he told her. Then he tied up a bushel and a half of barley in it as a present for her mother-in-law, and laid it on her back. Then she returned to the city.

"Well, what happened, dear?" Naomi asked her when she arrived home. She told Naomi everything and gave her the barley from Boaz, and mentioned his remark that she mustn't go home without a present.

Then Naomi said to her, "Just be patient until we hear what happens, for Boaz won't rest until he has followed through on this. He'll settle it today."

4 SO BOAZ WENT down to the market place<sup>a</sup> and found the relative he had mentioned.

"Say, come over here," he called to him. "I want to talk to you a minute."

So they sat down together. <sup>2</sup> Then Boaz called for ten of the chief men of the village, and asked them to sit as witnesses.

<sup>3</sup> Boaz said to his relative, "You know Naomi, who came back to us from Moab. She is selling our brother Elimelech's property. <sup>4</sup> I felt that I should speak to you about it so that you can buy it if you wish, with these respected men as witnesses.

"If you want it,<sup>b</sup> let me know right away, for if you don't take it, I will. You have the first right to purchase it and I am next."

The man replied, "All right, I'll buy it."

<sup>5</sup> Then Boaz told him, "Your purchase of the land from Naomi requires your marriage to Ruth so that she can have children to carry on her husband's name, and to inherit the land."

"Then I can't do it," the man replied. "For her son would become an heir to my property, too;<sup>c</sup> you buy it."

<sup>2</sup> In those days it was the custom in Israel for a man transferring a right of purchase to pull off his sandal and hand it to the other party; this publicly validated the transaction. <sup>3</sup> So, as the man said to Boaz, "You buy it for yourself," he drew off his sandal.

<sup>5</sup> Then Boaz said to the witnesses and to the crowd standing around, "You have seen that today I have bought all the property of

Elimelech, Chilion, and Mahlon, from Naomi,<sup>10</sup> and that with it I have purchased Ruth the Moabitess, the widow of Mahlon, to be my wife, so that she can have a son to carry on the family name of her dead husband."

<sup>11</sup> And all the people standing there, and the witnesses replied, "We are witnesses. May the Lord make this woman, who has now come into your home, as fertile as Rachel and Leah, from whom all the nation of Israel descended! May you be a great and successful man in Bethlehem,<sup>12</sup> and may the descendants the Lord will give you from this young woman be as numerous and honorable as those of our ancestor Perez, the son of Tamar and Judah."

<sup>14</sup> And the women of the city said to Naomi, "Bless the Lord who has given you this little grandson; may he be famous in Israel. <sup>15</sup> May he restore your youth and take care of you in your old age; for he is the son of your daughter-in-law who loves you so much, and who has been kinder to you than seven sons!"

<sup>16,17</sup> Naomi took care of the baby, and the neighbor women said, "Now at last Naomi has a son again!"

And they named him Obed. He was the father of Jesse and grandfather of King David.

Perez, Hezron, Ram,
Amminadab, Nashon,
Salmon, Boaz, Obed,
Jesse, David.

1 SAMUEL

1 THIS IS THE story of Elkanah, a man of the tribe of Ephraim who lived in Ramathaim-zophim, in the hills of Ephraim.

His father's name was Jero-ham,

His grandfather was Elihu,
His great-grandfather was Tohu,

His great-great-grandfather was Zuph.

families journeyed to the Tabernacle at Shiloh to worship the Lord of the heavens and to sacrifice to him. (The priests on duty at that time were the two sons of Eli—Hophni and Phinehas.) <sup>4</sup> On the day he presented his sacrifice, Elkanah would celebrate the happy occasion by giving presents to Peninnah and her children; <sup>5</sup> but although he loved Hannah very much, he could give her only one present, for the Lord had sealed her womb; so she had no children to give presents to. <sup>6</sup> Peninnah made matters worse by taunting Hannah because of her barrenness.<sup>7</sup> Every year it was the same—Peninnah scoffing and laughing at her as they went to Shiloh, making her cry so much she couldn't eat.

<sup>8</sup> "What's the matter, Hannah?" Elkanah would exclaim. "Why aren't you eating? Why make such a fuss over having no children? Isn't having me better than having ten sons?"

<sup>9</sup> One evening after supper, when they were at Shiloh, Hannah went over to the Tabernacle. Eli the priest was sitting at his customary place beside the entrance.<sup>10</sup> She was in deep anguish and was crying bitterly as she prayed to the Lord.

<sup>11</sup> And she made this vow: "O Lord of heaven, if you will look down upon my sorrow and answer my prayer and give me a son, then I will give him back to you, and he'll be yours for his entire lifetime, and his hair shall never be cut."<sup>a</sup>

<sup>15,16</sup> "Oh, no, sir!" she replied, "I'm not drunk! But I am very sad and I was pouring out my heart to the Lord. Please don't think that I am just some drunken bum!"

<sup>17</sup> "In that case," Eli said, "cheer up! May the Lord of Israel grant you your petition, whatever it is!"

and began to take her meals again.

<sup>19,20</sup> The entire family was up early the next morning and went to the Tabernacle to worship the Lord once more. Then they returned home to Ramah, and when Elkanah slept with Hannah, the Lord remembered her petition; in the process of time, a baby boy was born to her. She named him Samuel (meaning<sup>b</sup> "asked of God") because, as she said, "I asked the Lord for him."

<sup>21,22</sup> The next year Elkanah and Peninnah and her children went on the annual trip to the Tabernacle without Hannah, for she told her husband, "Wait until the baby is weaned, and then I will take him to the Tabernacle and leave him there."

So she stayed home until the baby was weaned.<sup>24</sup> Then, though he was still so small, they took him to the Tabernacle in Shiloh, along with a three-year-old bull for the sacrifice, and a bushel of flour and some wine.

<sup>26</sup> "Sir, do you remember me?" Hannah asked him. "I am the woman who stood here that time praying to the Lord! <sup>27</sup> I asked him to give me this child, and he has given me my request; <sup>28</sup> and now I am giving him to the Lord for as long as he lives." So she left him there at the Tabernacle for the Lord to use.

<sup>a</sup> This was an approved custom for those who were wholly dedicated to God.

<sup>b</sup> This was a play on words. The word Samuel in Hebrew sounds like the word "to ask."

2 THIS WAS HANNAH'S prayer:
 "How I rejoice in the Lord!
 How he has blessed me!
 Now I have an answer for my enemies,
 For the Lord has solved my problem.
 How I rejoice!
<sup>2</sup> No one is as holy as the Lord!
 There is no other God,
 Nor any Rock like our God.
<sup>3</sup> Quit acting so proud and arrogant!
 The Lord knows what you have done,
 And he will judge your deeds.
<sup>4</sup> Those who were mighty are mighty no more!
 Those who were weak are now strong.
<sup>5</sup> Those who were well are now starving;
 Those who were starving are fed.
 The barren woman now has seven children;
 She with many children has no more!
<sup>6</sup> The Lord kills,
 The Lord gives life.
<sup>7</sup> Some he causes to be poor
 And others to be rich.
 He cuts one down
 And lifts another up.
<sup>8</sup> He lifts the poor from the dust—
 Yes, from a pile of ashes—
 And treats them as princes
 Sitting in the seats of honor.
 For all the earth is the Lord's
 And he has set the world in order.

<sup>9</sup> He will protect his godly ones,
 But the wicked shall be silenced in darkness.
 No one shall succeed by strength alone.
<sup>10</sup> Those who fight against the Lord shall be broken;
 He thunders against them from heaven.
 He judges throughout the earth.
 He gives mighty strength to his King,
 And gives great glory to his anointed one."

<sup>11</sup> So they returned home to Ramah without Samuel; and the child became the Lord's helper, for he assisted Eli the priest.

<sup>12</sup> Now the sons of Eli were evil men who didn't love the Lord.
<sup>13,14</sup> It was their regular practice to send out a servant whenever anyone was offering a sacrifice, and while the flesh of the sacrificed animal was boiling, the servant would put a three-pronged fleshhook into the pot and demand that whatever it brought up be given to Eli's sons.
 They treated all of the Israelites in this way when they came to Shiloh to worship. <sup>15</sup> Sometimes the servant would come even before the rite of burning the fat on the altar had been performed, and he would demand raw meat before it was boiled, so that it could be used for roasting.

<sup>16</sup> If the man offering the sacrifice replied, "Take as much as you want, but the fat must first be burned," [as the law requires<sup>a</sup>], then the servant would say,

"No, give it to me now or I'll take it by force."

<sup>17</sup> So the sin of these young men was very great in the eyes of the Lord; for they treated the people's offerings to the Lord with contempt.

<sup>22</sup> Eli was now very old, but he was aware of what was going on around him. He knew, for instance, that his sons were seducing the young women who assisted at the entrance to the Tabernacle.

<sup>23,24,25</sup> "I have been hearing terrible reports from the Lord's people about what you are doing," Eli told his sons. "It is an awful thing to make the Lord's people sin. Ordinary sin receives heavy punishment, but how much more this sin of yours which has been committed against the Lord?" But they wouldn't listen to their father, for the Lord was already planning to kill them.

<sup>26</sup> Little Samuel was growing in two ways—he was getting taller, and he was becoming everyone's favorite (and he was a favorite of the Lord's, too!).

<sup>27</sup> One day a prophet<sup>c</sup> came to Eli and gave him this message from the Lord: "Didn't I demonstrate my power when the people of Israel were slaves in Egypt? <sup>28</sup> Didn't I choose your ancestor Levi from among all his brothers to be my priest, and to sacrifice upon my altar, and to burn incense, and to wear a priestly robe<sup>d</sup> as he served me? And didn't I assign the sacrificial offerings to you priests? <sup>29</sup> Then why are you so greedy for all the other offerings which are brought to me? Why have you honored your sons more than me—for you and they have become fat from the best of the offerings of my people!

<sup>30</sup> "Therefore, I, the Lord God of Israel, declare that although I promised that your branch of the tribe of Levi could always be my priests, it is ridiculous to think that what you are doing can continue. I will honor only those who honor me, and I will despise those who despise me. <sup>31</sup> I will put an end to your family, so that it will no longer serve as priests. Every member will die before his time. None shall live to be old.

Phinehas, to die on the same day!

<sup>35</sup> "Then I will raise up a faithful priest who will serve me and do whatever I tell him to do. I will bless his descendants, and his family shall be priests to my kings forever. <sup>36</sup> Then all of your descendants shall bow before him, begging for money and food. 'Please,' they will say, 'give me a job among the priests so that I will have enough to eat.'"

3 MEANWHILE LITTLE SAMUEL was helping the Lord by assisting Eli. Messages from the Lord were very rare in those days, <sup>23</sup> but one night after Eli had gone to bed (he was almost blind with age by now), and Samuel was sleeping in the Temple near the Ark, <sup>45</sup> the Lord called out, "Samuel! Samuel!"

"Yes?" Samuel replied. "What is it?" He jumped up and ran to Eli. "Here I am. What do you want?" he asked.

"I didn't call you," Eli said. "Go on back to bed." So he did. <sup>6</sup> Then the Lord called again, "Samuel!" And again Samuel jumped up and ran to Eli.

"Yes?" he asked. "What do you need?"

"No, I didn't call you, my son," Eli said. "Go on back to bed."

<sup>7</sup> (Samuel had never had a message from Jehovah before.) <sup>8</sup> So now the Lord called the third time, and once more Samuel jumped up and ran to Eli.

"Yes?" he asked. "What do you need?"

Then Eli realized it was the Lord who had spoken to the child.

<sup>9</sup> So he said to Samuel, "Go and lie down again, and if he calls again, say, 'Yes, Lord, I'm listening.'" So Samuel went back to bed.

And Samuel replied, "Yes, I'm listening."

<sup>11</sup> Then the Lord said to Samuel, "I am going to do a shocking thing in Israel. <sup>12</sup> I am going to do all of the dreadful things I warned Eli about. <sup>13</sup> I have continually threatened him and his entire family with punishment because his sons are blaspheming God, and he doesn't stop them. <sup>14</sup> So I have vowed that the sins of Eli and of his sons shall never be forgiven by sacrifices and offerings."

<sup>15</sup> Samuel stayed in bed until morning, then opened the doors of the Temple as usual, for he was afraid to tell Eli what the Lord had said to him. <sup>16,17</sup> But Eli called him.

"My son," he said, "what did the Lord say to you? Tell me everything. And may God punish you if you hide anything from me!"

<sup>18</sup> So Samuel told him what the Lord had said.

"It is the Lord's will," Eli replied; "let him do what he thinks best."

<sup>19</sup> As Samuel grew, the Lord was with him and people listened carefully to his advice. <sup>20</sup> And all Israel from Dan to Beer-sheba knew that Samuel was going to be a prophet of the Lord. <sup>21,22</sup> Then the Lord began to give messages to him there at the Tabernacle in Shiloh, and he passed them on to the people of Israel.

a Literally, "did not yet know Jehovah."

4 AT THAT TIME Israel was at war with the Philistines. The Israeli army was camped near Ebenezer, the Philistines at Aphek.<sup>2</sup> And the Philistines defeated Israel, killing four thousand of them.<sup>3</sup> After the battle was over, the army of Israel returned to their camp and their leaders discussed why the Lord had let them be defeated.

"Let's bring the Ark here from Shiloh," they said. "If we carry it into battle with us, the Lord will be among us and he will surely save us from our enemies."

<sup>6</sup> "What's going on?" the Philistines asked. "What's all the shouting about over in the camp of the Hebrews?"

When they were told it was because the Ark of the Lord had arrived,<sup>7</sup> they panicked.

"God has come into their camp!" they cried out. "Woe upon us, for we have never had to face anything like this before!<sup>8</sup> Who can save us from these mighty gods of Israel? They are the same gods who destroyed the Egyptians with plagues when Israel was in the wilderness.<sup>9</sup> Fight as you never have before, O Philistines, or we will become their slaves just as they have been ours."

again. Thirty thousand men of Israel died that day and the remainder fled to their tents.<sup>11</sup> And the Ark of God was captured and Hophni and Phinehas were killed.

<sup>16</sup> "I have just come from the battle—I was there today," he told Eli,<sup>17</sup> "and Israel has been defeated and thousands of the Israeli troops are dead on the battlefield. Hophni and Phinehas were killed too, and the Ark has been captured."

<sup>18</sup> When the messenger mentioned what had happened to the Ark, Eli fell backward from his seat beside the gate and his neck was broken by the fall and he died (for he was old and fat). He had judged Israel for forty years.

<sup>19</sup> When Eli's daughter-in-law, Phinehas's wife, who was pregnant, heard that the Ark had been captured and that her husband and father-in-law were dead, her labor pains suddenly began.<sup>20</sup> Just before she died, the women who were attending her told her that everything was all right and that the baby was a boy. But she did not reply or respond in any way. <sup>21,22</sup> Then she murmured, "Name the child 'Ichabod,' for Israel's glory is gone." (Ichabod means "there is no glory.") She named him this because the Ark of God had been captured and because her husband and her father-in-law were dead.)

5 THE PHILISTINES TOOK the captured Ark of God from the battleground at Ebenezer to the temple of their idol Dagon in the city of Ashdod. <sup>3</sup> But when the local citizens went to see it the next morning, Dagon had fallen with his face to the ground before the Ark of Jehovah! They set him up again, <sup>4</sup> but the next morning the same thing had happened—the idol had fallen face down before the Ark of the Lord again. This time his head and hands had been cut off and were lying in the doorway; only the trunk of his body was left intact. <sup>5</sup> (That is why to this day neither the priests of Dagon nor his worshipers will walk on the threshold of the temple of Dagon in Ashdod.)

<sup>6</sup> Then the Lord began to destroy the people of Ashdod and the nearby villages with a plague of boils. <sup>7</sup> When the people realized what was happening, they exclaimed, "We can't keep the Ark of the God of Israel here any longer. We will all perish along with our god Dagon."

<sup>8</sup> So they called a conference of the mayors of the five cities of the Philistines to decide how to dispose of the Ark. The decision was to take it to Gath. <sup>9</sup> But when the Ark arrived at Gath, the Lord began destroying its people, young and old, with the plague, and there was a great panic. <sup>10</sup> So they sent the Ark to Ekron, but when the people of Ekron saw it coming they cried out, "They are bringing the Ark of the God of Israel here to kill us too!"

<sup>11</sup> So they summoned the mayors again and begged them to send the Ark back to its own country, lest the entire city die. For the plague had already begun and great fear was sweeping across the city. <sup>12</sup> Those who didn't die were deathly ill; and there was weeping everywhere.

6 THE ARK REMAINED in the Philistine country for seven months in all. <sup>2</sup> Then the Philistines called for their priests and diviners and asked them, "What shall we do about the Ark of God? What sort of gift shall we send with it when we return it to its own land?"

<sup>3</sup> "Yes, send it back with a gift," they were told. "Send a guilt offering so that the plague will stop. Then, if it doesn't, you will know God didn't send the plague upon you after all."

And they were told, "Send five gold models of the tumor caused by the plague, and five gold models of the rats that have ravaged the whole land—the capital cities and villages alike. If you send these gifts and then praise the God of Israel, perhaps he will stop persecuting you and your god. <sup>6</sup> Don't be stubborn and rebellious as Pharaoh and the Egyptians were. They wouldn't let Israel go until God had destroyed them with dreadful plagues.

<sup>10</sup> So these instructions were carried out. Two fresh cows were hitched to the cart and their calves were shut up in the barn. <sup>11</sup> Then the Ark of the Lord and the chest containing the gold rats and tumors were placed upon the cart. <sup>12</sup> And sure enough, the cows went straight along the road toward Beth-shemesh, lowing as they went; and the Philistine mayors followed them as far as the border of Beth-shemesh. <sup>13</sup> The people of Beth-shemesh were reaping wheat in the valley, and when they saw the Ark they went wild with joy!

<sup>14</sup> The cart came into the field of a man named Joshua and stopped beside a large rock. So the people broke up the wood of the cart for a fire and killed the cows and sacrificed them to the Lord as a burnt offering. <sup>15</sup> Several men of the tribe of Levi lifted the Ark and the chest containing the golden rats and tumors from the cart and laid them on the rock. And many burnt offerings and sacrifices were offered to the Lord that day by the men of Beth-shemesh.

<sup>16</sup> After the five Philistine mayors had watched for awhile, they returned to Ekron that same day. <sup>17</sup> The five gold models of tumors which had been sent by the Philistines as a guilt offering to the Lord were gifts from the mayors of the capital cities, Ashdod, Gaza, Ashkelon, Gath, and Ekron. <sup>18</sup> The gold rats were to placate God for the other Philistine cities, both the fortified cities and the country villages controlled by the five capitals. (By the way, that large rock at Beth-shemesh can still be seen in the field of Joshua.) <sup>19</sup> But the Lord killed seventy of the men of Beth-shemesh because they looked into the Ark. And the people mourned because of the many people whom the Lord had killed.

<sup>21</sup> So they sent messengers to the people at Kiriath-jearim and told them that the Philistines had brought back the Ark of the Lord. "Come and get it!" they begged.

7 SO THE MEN of Kiriath-jearim came and took the Ark to the hillside home of Abinadab; and installed his son Eleazar to be in charge of it. <sup>2</sup> The Ark remained there for twenty years, and during that time all Israel was in sorrow because the Lord had seemingly abandoned them.

them, "If you are really serious about wanting to return to the Lord, get rid of your foreign gods and your Ashtaroth idols. Determine to obey only the Lord; then he will rescue you from the Philistines."

<sup>4</sup> So they destroyed their idols of Baal and Ashtaroth and worshiped only the Lord.

<sup>5</sup> Then Samuel told them, "Come to Mizpah, all of you, and I will pray to the Lord for you."

<sup>6</sup> So they gathered there and, in a great ceremony, drew water from the well and poured it out before the Lord. They also went without food all day as a sign of sorrow for their sins. So it was at Mizpah that Samuel became Israel's judge.

<sup>7</sup> When the Philistine leaders heard about the great crowds at Mizpah, they mobilized their army and advanced. The Israelis were badly frightened when they learned that the Philistines were approaching.

<sup>9</sup> So Samuel took a suckling lamb and offered it to the Lord as a whole burnt offering and pleaded with him to help Israel. And the Lord responded. <sup>10</sup> Just as Samuel was sacrificing the burnt offering, the Philistines arrived for battle, but the Lord spoke with a mighty voice of thunder from heaven, and they were thrown into confusion, and the Israelis routed them, <sup>11</sup> and chased them from Mizpah to Bethcar, killing them all along the way. <sup>12</sup> Samuel then took a stone and placed it between Mizpah and Jeshanah and named it Ebenezer (meaning, "the Stone of Help"), for he said, "The Lord has certainly helped us!" <sup>13</sup> So the Philistines were subdued and didn't invade Israel again at that time, because the Lord was against them throughout the remainder of Samuel's lifetime.

<sup>14</sup> The Israeli cities between Ekron and Gath, which had been conquered by the Philistines, were now returned to Israel, for the Israeli army rescued them from their Philistine captors. And there was peace between Israel and the Amorites in those days.

<sup>16</sup> He rode circuit annually, setting up his court first at Bethel, then Gilgal, and then Mizpah, and cases of dispute were brought to him in each of those three cities from all the surrounding territory. <sup>17</sup> Then he would come back to Ramah, for his home was there, and he would hear cases there, too. And he built an altar to the Lord at Ramah.

8 IN HIS OLD age, Samuel retired and appointed his sons as judges in his place. <sup>2</sup> Joel and Abijah, his oldest sons, held court in Beer-sheba; <sup>3</sup> but they were not like their father, for they were greedy for money. They accepted bribes and were very corrupt in the administration of justice. <sup>4</sup> Finally the leaders of Israel met in Ramah to discuss the matter with Samuel. <sup>5</sup> They told him that since his retirement things hadn't been the same, for his sons were not good men.

"Give us a king like all the other nations have," they pleaded.

plied, "for I am the one they are rejecting, not you—they don't want me to be their king any longer. <sup>8</sup> Ever since I brought them from Egypt they have continually forsaken me and followed other gods. And now they are giving you the same treatment. <sup>9</sup> Do as they ask, but warn them about what it will be like to have a king!"

<sup>10</sup> So Samuel told the people what the Lord had said:

<sup>11</sup> "If you insist on having a king, he will conscript your sons and make them run before his chariots; <sup>12</sup> some will be made to lead his troops into battle, while others will be slave laborers; they will be forced to plow in the royal fields, and harvest his crops without pay; and make his weapons and chariot equipment. <sup>13</sup> He will take your daughters from you and force them to cook and bake and make perfumes for him. <sup>14</sup> He will take away the best of your fields and vineyards and olive groves and give them to his friends. <sup>15</sup> He will take a tenth of your harvest and distribute it to his favorites. <sup>16</sup> He will demand your slaves and the finest of your youth and will use your animals for his personal gain. <sup>17</sup> He will demand a tenth of your flocks, and you shall be his slaves. <sup>18</sup> You will shed bitter tears because of this king you are demanding, but the Lord will not help you."

"Even so, we still want a king," they said, <sup>20</sup> "for we want to be like the nations around us. He will govern us and lead us to battle."

<sup>21</sup> So Samuel told the Lord what the people had said, <sup>22</sup> and the Lord replied again, "Then do as they say and give them a king."

So Samuel agreed and sent the men home again.

9 KISH WAS A rich, influential man from the tribe of Benjamin. He was the son of Abiel, grandson of Zeror, great-grandson of Becorath, and great-great-grandson of Aphiah. <sup>2</sup> His son Saul was the most handsome man in Israel. And he was head and shoulders taller than anyone else in the land!

<sup>3</sup> One day Kish's donkeys strayed away, so he sent Saul and a servant to look for them. <sup>4</sup> They traveled all through the hill country of Ephraim, the land of Shalisha, the Shaalim area, and the entire land of Benjamin, but couldn't find them anywhere. <sup>5</sup> Finally, after searching in the land of Zuph, Saul said to the servant, "Let's go home; by now my father will be more worried about us than about the donkeys!"

<sup>6</sup> But the servant said, "I've just thought of something! There is a prophet who lives here in this city; he is held in high honor by all the people because everything he says comes true; let's go and find him and perhaps he can tell us where the donkeys are."

<sup>7</sup> "But we don't have anything to pay him with," Saul replied. "Even our food is gone and we don't have a thing to give him."

<sup>8</sup> "Well," the servant said, "I have a dollar! We can at least offer it to him and see what happens!"

So they started into the city where the prophet lived. As they were climbing a hill toward the city, they saw some young girls going out to draw water and asked them if they knew whether the seer was in town. (In those days prophets were called seers. "Let's go and ask the seer," people would say, rather than, "Let's go and ask the prophet," as we would say now.)

<sup>14</sup> So they went into the city, and as they were entering the gates they saw Samuel coming out toward them to go up the hill. <sup>15</sup> The Lord had told Samuel the previous day,

<sup>16</sup> "About this time tomorrow I will send you a man from the land of Benjamin. You are to anoint him as the leader of my people. He will save them from the Philistines, for I have looked down on them in mercy and have heard their cry."

<sup>17</sup> When Samuel saw Saul the Lord said, "That's the man I told you about! He will rule my people."

<sup>18</sup> Just then Saul approached Samuel and asked, "Can you please tell me where the seer's house is?"

<sup>19</sup> "I am the seer!" Samuel replied. "Go on up the hill ahead of me and we'll eat together; in the morning I will tell you what you want to know and send you on your way. <sup>20</sup> And don't worry about those donkeys that were lost three days ago, for they have been found. And anyway, you own all the wealth of Israel now!"

<sup>21</sup> "Pardon me, sir," Saul replied. "I'm from the tribe of Benjamin, the smallest in Israel, and my family is the least important of all the families of the tribe! You must have the wrong man!"

"Go ahead and eat it," Samuel said, "for I was saving it for you, even before I invited these others!"

So Saul ate with Samuel. <sup>25</sup> After the feast, when they had returned to the city, Samuel took Saul up to the porch on the roof and talked with him there. <sup>26,27</sup> At daybreak the next morning, Samuel called up to him, "Get up; it's time you were on your way!"

So Saul got up and Samuel accompanied him to the edge of the city. When they reached the city walls Samuel told Saul to send the servant on ahead. Then he told him, "I have received a special message for you from the Lord."

10 THEN SAMUEL TOOK a flask of olive oil and poured it over Saul's head and kissed him on the cheek and said,

"I am doing this because the Lord has appointed you to be the king of his people, Israel! <sup>2</sup> When you leave me, you will see two men beside Rachel's tomb at Zelzah, in the land of Benjamin; they will tell you that the donkeys have been found and that your father is worried about you and is asking, 'How am I to find my son?' <sup>3</sup> And when you get to the oak of Tabor you will see three men coming toward you who are on their way to worship God at the altar at Bethel; one will be carrying three young goats, another will have three loaves of bread, and the third will have a bottle of wine. <sup>4</sup> They will greet you and offer you two of the loaves, which you are to accept. <sup>5</sup> After that you will come to Gibeath-elohim, also known as "God's Hill," where the garrison of the Philistines is. As you arrive there you will meet a band of prophets coming down the hill playing a psaltery, a timbrel, a flute, and a harp, and prophesying as they come.

<sup>6</sup> "At that time the Spirit of the Lord will come mightily upon you, and you will prophesy with them and you will feel and act like a different person. <sup>7</sup> From that time on your decisions should be based on whatever seems best under the circumstances, for the Lord will guide you. <sup>8</sup> Go to Gilgal and wait there seven days for me, for I will be coming to sacrifice burnt offerings and peace offerings. I will give you further instructions when I arrive."

<sup>9</sup> As Saul said good-bye and started to go, God gave him a new attitude, and all of Samuel's prophecies came true that day. <sup>10</sup> When Saul and the servant arrived at the Hill of God they saw the prophets coming toward them, and the Spirit of God came upon him, and he too began to prophesy.

And Saul replied, "We went to look for the donkeys, but we couldn't find them; so we went to the prophet Samuel to ask him where they were."

<sup>16</sup> "He said the donkeys had been found!" Saul replied. (But he didn't tell him that he had been anointed as king!)

<sup>17</sup> Samuel now called a convocation of all Israel at Mizpah, <sup>18,19</sup> and gave them this message from the Lord God: "I brought you from Egypt and rescued you from the Egyptians and from all of the nations that were torturing you. But although I have done so much for you, you have rejected me and have said, 'We want a king instead!' All right, then, present yourselves before the Lord by tribes and clans."

<sup>20</sup> So Samuel called the tribal leaders together before the Lord, and the tribe of Benjamin was chosen by sacred lot. <sup>21</sup> Then he brought each family of the tribe of Benjamin before the Lord, and the family of the Matrites was chosen.

And finally, the sacred lot selected Saul, the son of Kish. But when they looked for him, he had disappeared!

<sup>22</sup> So they asked the Lord, "Where is he? Is he here among us?"

And the Lord replied, "He is hiding in the baggage."

<sup>23</sup> So they found him and brought him out, and he stood head and shoulders above anyone else.

<sup>24</sup> Then Samuel said to all the people, "This is the man the Lord has chosen as your king. There isn't his equal in all of Israel!"

And all the people shouted, "Long live the king!"

<sup>25</sup> Then Samuel told the people again what the rights and duties of a king were; he wrote them in a book and put it in a special place before the Lord. Then Samuel sent the people home again.

<sup>26</sup> When Saul returned to his home at Gibe-ah, a band of men whose hearts the Lord had touched became his constant companions.

<sup>27</sup> There were, however, some bums and loafers who exclaimed, "How can this man save us?" And they despised him and refused to bring him presents, but he took no notice.

11 AT THIS TIME Nahash led the army of the Ammonites against the Israeli city of Jabesh-gilead. But the citizens of Jabesh asked for peace. "Leave us alone and we will be your servants," they pleaded.

<sup>3</sup> "Give us seven days to see if we can get some help!" replied the elders of Jabesh. "If none of our brothers will come and save us, we will agree to your terms."

<sup>4</sup> When a messenger came to Gibe-ah, Saul's home town, and told the people about their plight, everyone broke into tears.

<sup>5</sup> Saul was plowing in the field, and when he returned to town he asked, "What's the matter? Why is everyone crying?"

So they told him about the message from Jabesh. <sup>6</sup> Then the Spirit of God came strongly upon Saul and he became very angry. <sup>7</sup> He took two oxen and cut them into pieces and sent messengers to carry them throughout all Israel.

"This is what will happen to the oxen of anyone who refuses to follow Saul and Samuel to battle!" he announced. And God caused the people to be afraid of Saul's anger, and they came to him as one man. <sup>8</sup> He counted them in Bezek and found that there were three hundred thousand of them in addition to thirty thousand from Judah.

<sup>9</sup> So he sent the messengers back to Jabesh-gilead to say, "We will rescue you before tomorrow noon!" What joy there was throughout the city when that message arrived!

<sup>10</sup> The men of Jabesh then told their enemies, "We surrender. Tomorrow we will come out to you and you can do to us as you wish."

<sup>11</sup> But early the next morning Saul arrived, having divided his army into three detachments, and launched a surprise attack against the Ammonites and slaughtered them all morning. The remnant of their army was so badly scattered that no two of them were left together.

<sup>12</sup> Then the people exclaimed to Samuel, "Where are those men who said that Saul shouldn't be our king? Bring them here and we will kill them!"

<sup>13</sup> But Saul replied, "No one will be executed today; for today the Lord has rescued Israel!"

<sup>14</sup> Then Samuel said to the people, "Come, let us all go to Gilgal and reconfirm Saul as our king."

<sup>15</sup> So they went to Gilgal and in a solemn ceremony before the Lord they crowned him king. Then they offered peace offerings to the Lord, and Saul and all Israel were very happy.

12 THEN SAMUEL ADDRESSED the people again:

"Look," he said, "I have done as you asked. I have given you a king. <sup>2</sup> I have selected him ahead of my own sons and now I stand here, an old, grey-haired man who has been in public service from the time he was a lad. <sup>3</sup> Now tell me as I stand before the Lord and before his anointed king—whose ox or donkey have I stolen? Have I ever defrauded you? Have I ever oppressed you? Have I ever taken a bribe? Tell me and I will make right whatever I have done wrong."

<sup>5</sup> "The Lord and his anointed king are my witnesses," Samuel declared, "that you can never accuse me of robbing you."

"Yes, it is true," they replied.

continued. "He brought your ancestors out of the land of Egypt.

<sup>7</sup> "Now stand here quietly before the Lord as I remind you of all the good things he has done for you and for your ancestors:

<sup>8</sup> "When the Israelites were in Egypt and cried out to the Lord, he sent Moses and Aaron to bring them into this land. <sup>9</sup> But they soon forgot about the Lord their God, so he let them be conquered by Sisera, the general of King Hazor's army, and by the Philistines and the king of Moab.

<sup>10</sup> "Then they cried to the Lord again and confessed that they had sinned by turning away from him and worshipping the Baal and Ash-taroath idols. And they pleaded, 'We will worship you and you alone if you will only rescue us from our enemies.' <sup>11</sup> Then the Lord sent Gideon, Barak, Jephthah, and Samuel to save you, and you lived in safety.

<sup>12</sup> "But when you were afraid of Nahash, the king of Ammon, you came to me and said that you wanted a king to reign over you. But the Lord your God was already your King, for he has always been your King. <sup>13</sup> All right, here is the king you have chosen. Look him over. You have asked for him, and the Lord has answered your request.

<sup>14</sup> "Now if you will fear and worship the Lord and listen to his commandments and not rebel against the Lord, and if both you and your king follow the Lord your God, then all will be well. <sup>15</sup> But if you rebel against the Lord's commandments and refuse to listen to him, then his hand will be as heavy upon you as it was upon your ancestors.

<sup>16</sup> "Now watch as the Lord does great miracles. <sup>17</sup> You know that it does not rain at this time of the year, during the wheat harvest; I will pray for the Lord to send thunder and rain today, so that you will realize the extent of your wickedness in asking for a king!"

<sup>18</sup> So Samuel called to the Lord, and the Lord sent thunder and rain; and all the people were very much afraid of the Lord and of Samuel.

<sup>19</sup> "Pray for us lest we die!" they cried out to Samuel. "For now we have added to all our other sins by asking for a king."

<sup>20</sup> "Don't be frightened," Samuel reassured them. "You have certainly done wrong, but make sure now that you worship the Lord with true enthusiasm, and that you don't turn your back on him in any way. <sup>21</sup> Other gods can't help you.

<sup>22</sup> The Lord will not abandon his chosen people, for that would dishonor his great name. He made you a special nation for himself—just because he wanted to!

<sup>23</sup> "As for me, far be it from me that I should sin against the Lord by ending my prayers for you; and I will continue to teach you those things which are good and right.

<sup>24</sup> "Trust the Lord and sincerely worship him; think of all the tremendous things he has done for you. <sup>25</sup> But if you continue to sin, you and your king will be destroyed."

13 BY THIS TIME Saul had reigned for one year.<sup>a</sup> In the second year of his reign, <sup>2</sup> he selected three thousand special troops and took two thousand of them with him to Michmash and Mount Bethel while the other thousand remained with Jonathan, Saul's son, in Gibe-ah in the land of Benjamin. The rest of the army was sent home.

<sup>3,4</sup> Then Jonathan attacked and destroyed the garrison of the Philistines at Geba. The news spread quickly throughout the land of the Philistines, and Saul sounded the call to arms throughout Israel. He announced that he had destroyed the Philistine garrison and warned his troops that they stank to high heaven as far as the Philistines were concerned. So the entire Israeli army mobilized again and joined at Gilgal. <sup>5</sup> The Philistines recruited a mighty army of three thousand chariots, six thousand horsemen, and so many soldiers that they were as thick as sand along the seashore; and they camped at Michmash east of Beth-aven.

<sup>8</sup> Samuel had told Saul earlier to wait seven days for his arrival, but when he still didn't come, and Saul's troops were rapidly slipping away, <sup>9</sup> he decided to sacrifice the burnt offering and the peace offerings himself. <sup>10</sup> But just as he was finishing, Samuel arrived. Saul went out to meet him and to receive his blessing, <sup>11</sup> but Samuel said, "What is this you have done?"

"Well," Saul replied, "when I saw that my men were scattering from me, and that you hadn't arrived by the time you said you would, and that the Philistines were at Michmash, ready for battle, <sup>12</sup> I said, 'The Philistines are ready to march against us and I haven't even asked for the Lord's help!' So I reluctantly offered the burnt offering without waiting for you to arrive."

<sup>13</sup> "You fool!" Samuel exclaimed. "You have disobeyed the commandment of the Lord your God. He was planning to make you and your descendants kings of Israel forever, <sup>14</sup> but now your dynasty must end; for the Lord wants a man who will obey him. And he has discovered the man he wants and has already appointed him as king over his people; for you have not obeyed the Lord's commandment."

When Saul counted the soldiers who were still with him, he found that there were only about six hundred left! <sup>16</sup> Saul and Jonathan and these six hundred men set up their camp in Geba in the land of Benjamin; but the Philistines stayed at Michmash. <sup>17</sup> Three companies of raiders soon left the camp of the Philistines; one went toward Ophrah in the land of Shual, <sup>18</sup> another went to Beth-horon, and the third moved toward the border above the valley of Zeboim near the desert.

<sup>19</sup> There were no blacksmiths at all in the land of Israel in those days, for the Philistines wouldn't allow them for fear of their making swords and spears for the Hebrews.

For sharpening a plow point, 60¢

For sharpening a disc, 60¢

For sharpening an axe, 30¢

For sharpening a sickle, 30¢

For sharpening an ox goad, 30¢)

<sup>22</sup> So there was not a single sword or spear in the entire "army" of Israel that day, except for Saul's and Jonathan's. <sup>23</sup> The mountain pass at Michmash had meanwhile been secured by a contingent of the Philistine army.

14 A DAY OR so later, Prince Jonathan said to his young bodyguard, "Come on, let's cross the valley to the garrison of the Philistines." But he didn't tell his father that he was leaving.

No one realized that Jonathan had gone. <sup>4</sup> To reach the Philistine garrison, Jonathan had to go over a narrow pass between two rocky crags which had been named Bozez and Seneh. <sup>7</sup> The crag on the north was in front of Michmash and the southern one was in front of Geba.

<sup>6</sup> "Yes, let's go across to those heathen," Jonathan had said to his bodyguard. "Perhaps the Lord will do a miracle for us. For it makes no difference to him how many enemy troops there are!"

<sup>7</sup> "Fine!" the youth replied. "Do as you think best; I'm with you heart and soul, whatever you decide."

<sup>8</sup> "All right, then this is what we'll do," Jonathan told him. <sup>9</sup> "When they see us, if they say, 'Stay where you are or we'll kill you!' then we will stop and wait for them. <sup>10</sup> But if they say, 'Come on up and fight!' then we will do just that; for it will be God's signal that he will help us defeat them!"

"Come on, climb right behind me," Jonathan exclaimed to his bodyguard, "for the Lord will help us defeat them!"

creasing the terror.

<sup>17</sup> "Find out who isn't here," Saul ordered. And when they had checked, they found that Jonathan and his bodyguard were gone. <sup>18</sup> "Bring the Ark of God," Saul shouted to Ahijah. (For the Ark was among the people of Israel at that time.) <sup>19</sup> But while Saul was talking to the priest, the shouting and the tumult in the camp of the Philistines grew louder and louder. "Quick! What does God say?" Saul demanded.

<sup>24,25</sup> Saul had declared, "A curse upon anyone who eats anything before evening—before I have full revenge on my enemies." So no one ate anything all day, even though they found honeycomb on the ground in the forest, <sup>26</sup> for they all feared Saul's curse. <sup>27</sup> Jonathan, however, had not heard his father's command; so he dipped a stick into a honeycomb, and when he had eaten the honey he felt much better. <sup>28</sup> Then someone told him that his father had laid a curse upon anyone who ate food that day, and everyone was weary and faint as a result.

<sup>29</sup> "That's ridiculous!" Jonathan exclaimed. "A command like that only hurts us. See how much better I feel now that I have eaten this little bit of honey." <sup>30</sup> If the people had been allowed to eat freely from the food they found among our enemies, think how many more we could have slaughtered!"

<sup>31</sup> But hungry as they were, they chased and killed the Philistines all day from Michmash to Aijalon, growing more and more faint. <sup>32</sup> That evening<sup>a</sup> they flew upon the spoils of battle and butchered the sheep, oxen, and calves, and ate the raw, bloody meat. <sup>33</sup> Someone reported to Saul what was happening, that the people were sinning against the Lord by eating blood.

"That is very wrong," Saul said. "Roll a great stone over here," <sup>34</sup> and go out among the troops and tell them to bring the oxen and sheep here to kill and drain them, and not to sin against the Lord by eating the blood." So that is what they did.

"Fine!" his men replied. "Do as you think best."

But the priest said, "Let's ask God first."

<sup>37</sup> So Saul asked God, "Shall we go after the Philistines? Will you help us defeat them?" But the Lord made no reply all night.

<sup>38</sup> Then Saul said to the leaders, "Something's wrong!<sup>a</sup> We must find out what sin was committed today." <sup>39</sup> I vow by the name of the God who saved Israel that though the sinner be my own son Jonathan, he shall surely die!" But no one would tell him what the trouble was.

<sup>40</sup> Then Saul proposed, "Jonathan and I will stand over here, and all of you stand over there." And the people agreed.

<sup>41</sup> Then Saul said, "O Lord God of Israel, why haven't you answered my question? What is wrong? Are Jonathan and I guilty, or is the sin among the others? O Lord God, show us who is guilty." And Jonathan and Saul were chosen by sacred lot as the guilty ones, and the people were declared innocent.

"I tasted a little honey," Jonathan admitted. "It was only a little bit on the end of a stick; but now I must die."

<sup>44</sup> "Yes, Jonathan," Saul said, "you must die; may God strike me dead if you are not executed for this."

<sup>45</sup> But the troops retorted, "Jonathan, who saved Israel today, shall die? Far from it! We vow by the life of God that not one hair on his head will be touched, for he has been used of God to do a mighty miracle today." So the people rescued Jonathan.

home. <sup>47</sup> And now, since he was securely in the saddle as king of Israel, Saul sent the Israeli army out in every direction against Moab, Ammon, Edom, the kings of Zobah, and the Philistines. And wherever he turned, he was successful. <sup>48</sup> He did great deeds and conquered the Amalekites and saved Israel from all those who had been their conquerors.

<sup>49</sup> Saul had three sons, Jonathan, Ishvi, and Malchishua; and two daughters, Merab and Michal. <sup>50,51</sup> Saul's wife was Ahino-am, the daughter of Ahima-az. And the general-in-chief of his army was his cousin Abner, his uncle Ner's son. (Abner's father, Ner, and Saul's father, Kish, were brothers; both were the sons of Abiel.)

15 ONE DAY SAMUEL said to Saul, "I crowned you king of Israel because God told me to. Now be sure that you obey him. <sup>2</sup> Here is his commandment to you: 'I have decided to settle accounts with the nation of Amalek for refusing to allow my people to cross their territory when Israel came from Egypt. <sup>3</sup> Now go and completely destroy the entire Amalek nation—men, women, babies, little children, oxen, sheep, camels, and donkeys.'"

ley below them. <sup>6</sup> Saul sent a message to the Kenites, telling them to get out from among the Amalekites or else die with them. "For you were kind to the people of Israel when they came out of the land of Egypt," he explained. So the Kenites packed up and left.

<sup>11</sup> "I am sorry that I ever made Saul king, for he has again refused to obey me."

Samuel was so deeply moved when he heard what God was saying, that he cried to the Lord all night. <sup>12</sup> Early the next morning he went out to find Saul. Someone said that he had gone to Mount Carmel to erect a monument to himself, and had then gone on to Gilgal. <sup>13</sup> When Samuel finally found him, Saul greeted him cheerfully.

"Hello there," he said. "Well, I have carried out the Lord's command!"

<sup>14</sup> "Then what was all the bleating of sheep and lowing of oxen I heard?" Samuel demanded.

<sup>15</sup> "It's true that the army spared the best of the sheep and oxen," Saul admitted, "but they are going to sacrifice them to the Lord your God; and we have destroyed everything else."

<sup>16</sup> Then Samuel said to Saul,

"Stop! Listen to what the Lord told me last night!"

"What was it?" Saul asked.

<sup>17</sup> And Samuel told him, "When you didn't think much of yourself, God made you king of Israel.

<sup>18</sup> And he sent you on an errand and told you, 'Go and completely destroy the sinners, the Amalekites, until they are all dead.' <sup>19</sup> Then why didn't you obey the Lord? Why did you rush for the loot and do exactly what God said not to?"

<sup>20</sup> "But I have obeyed the Lord," Saul insisted. "I did what he told me to; and I brought King Agag but killed everyone else. <sup>21</sup> And it was only when my troops demanded it that I let them keep the best of the sheep and oxen and loot to sacrifice to the Lord."

<sup>22</sup> Samuel replied, "Has the Lord as much pleasure in your burnt offerings and sacrifices as in your obedience? Obedience is far better than sacrifice. He is much more interested in your listening to him than in your offering the fat of rams to him. <sup>23</sup> For rebellion is as bad as the sin of witchcraft, and stubbornness is as bad as worshiping idols. And now because you have rejected the word of Jehovah, he has rejected you from being king."

<sup>24</sup> "I have sinned," Saul finally admitted. "Yes, I have disobeyed your instructions and the command of the Lord, for I was afraid of the people and did what they demanded. <sup>25</sup> Oh, please pardon my sin now and go with me to worship the Lord."

<sup>26</sup> But Samuel replied, "It's no use! Since you have rejected the commandment of the Lord, he has rejected you from being the king of Israel."

<sup>28</sup> And Samuel said to him, "See? The Lord has torn the kingdom of Israel from you today and has given it to a countryman of yours who is better than you are. <sup>29</sup> And he who is the glory of Israel is not lying, nor will he change his mind, for he is not a man!"

<sup>30</sup> Then Saul pleaded again, "I have sinned; but oh, at least honor me before the leaders and before my people by going with me to worship the Lord your God."

<sup>31</sup> So Samuel finally agreed and went with him. <sup>32</sup> Then Samuel said, "Bring King Agag to me." Agag arrived all full of smiles, for he thought, "Surely the worst is over and I have been spared!" <sup>33</sup> But Samuel said, "As your sword has killed the sons of many mothers, now your mother shall be childless." And Samuel chopped him in pieces before the Lord at Gilgal. <sup>34</sup> Then Samuel went home to Ramah, and Saul returned to Gibeah. <sup>35</sup> Samuel never saw Saul again, but he mourned constantly for him; and the Lord was sorry that he had ever made Saul king of Israel.

16 FINALLY THE LORD said to Samuel, "You have mourned long enough for Saul, for I have rejected him as king of Israel. Now take a vial of olive oil and go to Bethlehem and find a man named Jesse, for I have selected one of his sons to be the new king."

<sup>2</sup> But Samuel asked, "How can I do that? If Saul hears about it, he will kill me."

"Take a heifer with you," the Lord replied, "and say that you have come to make a sacrifice to the Lord.<sup>3</sup> Then call Jesse to the sacrifice and I will show you which of his sons to anoint."

<sup>4</sup> So Samuel did as the Lord had told him to. When he arrived at Bethlehem, the elders of the city came trembling to meet him.

"What is wrong?" they asked. "Why have you come?"

<sup>5</sup> But he replied, "All is well. I have come to sacrifice to the Lord. Purify yourselves and come with me to the sacrifice."

And he performed the purification rite on Jesse and his sons, and invited them too. <sup>6</sup> When they arrived, Samuel took one look at Eliab and thought, "Surely this is the man the Lord has chosen!"

<sup>7</sup> But the Lord said to Samuel, "Don't judge by a man's face or height, for this is not the one. I don't make decisions the way you do! Men judge by outward appearance, but I look at a man's thoughts and intentions."

<sup>9</sup> Next Jesse summoned Shammah, but the Lord said, "No, this is not the one." In the same way all seven of his sons presented themselves to Samuel and were rejected.

<sup>10,11</sup> "The Lord has not chosen any of them," Samuel told Jesse. "Are these all there are?"

"Well, there is the youngest," Jesse replied. "But he's out in the fields watching the sheep."

"Send for him at once," Samuel said, "for we will not sit down to eat until he arrives."

<sup>12</sup> So Jesse sent for him. He was a fine looking boy, ruddy-faced, and with pleasant eyes. And the Lord said, "This is the one; anoint him."

<sup>13</sup> So as David stood there among his brothers, Samuel took the olive oil he had brought and poured it upon David's head; and the Spirit of Jehovah came upon him and gave him great power from that day onward. Then Samuel returned to Ramah.

"We'll find a good harpist to play for you whenever the tormenting spirit is bothering you," they said. "The harp music will quiet you and you'll soon be well again."

<sup>18</sup> One of them said he knew a young fellow in Bethlehem, the son of a man named Jesse, who was not only a talented harp player, but was handsome, brave, and strong, and had good, solid judgment. "What's more," he added, "the Lord is with him."

<sup>22</sup> Then Saul wrote to Jesse, "Please let David join my staff, for I am very fond of him."

<sup>23</sup> And whenever the tormenting spirit from God troubled Saul, David would play the harp and Saul would feel better, and the evil spirit would go away.

17 THE PHILISTINES NOW mustered their army for battle and camped between Socoh in Judah and Azekah in Ephes-dammim. <sup>2</sup> Saul countered with a buildup of forces at Elah Valley. <sup>3</sup> So the Philistines and Israelis faced each other on opposite hills, with the valley between them.

<sup>8</sup> He stood and shouted across to the Israelis, "Do you need a whole army to settle this? I will represent the Philistines, and you choose someone to represent you, and we will settle this in single combat! <sup>9</sup> If your man is able to kill me, then we will be your slaves. But if I kill him, then you must be our slaves! <sup>10</sup> I defy the armies of Israel! Send me a man who will fight with me!"

tribe of Ephraim who lived in Bethlehem-Judah) had seven older brothers. <sup>13</sup> The three oldest—Eliab, Abinadab, and Shamamah—had already volunteered for Saul's army to fight the Philistines. <sup>14,15</sup> David was the youngest son, and was on Saul's staff on a part-time basis. He went back and forth to Bethlehem to help his father with the sheep. <sup>16</sup> For forty days, twice a day, morning and evening the Philistine giant strutted before the armies of Israel.

insulted the entire army of Israel. And have you heard about the huge reward the king has offered to anyone who kills him? And the king will give him one of his daughters for a wife, and his whole family will be exempted from paying taxes!"

<sup>26</sup> David talked to some others standing there to verify the report. "What will a man get for killing this Philistine and ending his insults to Israel?" he asked them. "Who is this heathen Philistine, anyway, that he is allowed to defy the armies of the living God?" <sup>27</sup> And he received the same reply as before.

<sup>28</sup> But when David's oldest brother, Eliab, heard David talking like that, he was angry. "What are you doing around here, anyway?" he demanded. "What about the sheep you're supposed to be taking care of? I know what a cocky brat you are; you just want to see the battle!"

<sup>29</sup> "What have I done now?" David replied. "I was only asking a question!"

<sup>30</sup> And he walked over to some others and asked them the same thing and received the same answer.

<sup>31</sup> When it was finally realized what David meant, someone told King Saul, and the king sent for him.

<sup>33</sup> "Don't be ridiculous!" Saul replied. "How can a kid like you fight with a man like him? You are only a boy and he has been in the army since he was a boy!"

<sup>34</sup> But David persisted. "When I am taking care of my father's sheep," he said, "and a lion or a bear comes and grabs a lamb from the flock, <sup>35</sup> I go after it with a club and take the lamb from its mouth. If it turns on me I catch it by the jaw and club it to death. <sup>36</sup> I have done this to both lions and bears, and I'll do it to this heathen Philistine too, for he has defied the armies of the living God! <sup>37</sup> The Lord who saved me from the claws and teeth of the lion and the bear will save me from this Philistine!"

Saul finally consented, "All right, go ahead," he said, "and may the Lord be with you!"

<sup>38,39</sup> Then Saul gave David his own armor—a bronze helmet and a coat of mail. David put it on, strapped the sword over it, and took a step or two to see what it was like, for he had never worn such things before. "I can hardly move!" he exclaimed, and took them off again. <sup>40</sup> Then he picked up five smooth stones from a stream and put them in his shepherd's bag and, armed only with his shepherd's staff and sling, started across to Goliath. <sup>41,42</sup> Goliath walked out towards David with his shield bearer ahead of him, sneering in contempt at this nice little red-cheeked boy!

<sup>43</sup> "Am I a dog," he roared at David, "that you come at me with a stick?" And he cursed David by the names of his gods. <sup>44</sup> "Come over here and I'll give your flesh to the birds and wild animals," Goliath yelled.

<sup>45</sup> David shouted in reply, "You come to me with a sword and a spear, but I come to you in the name of the Lord of the armies of heaven and of Israel—the very God whom you have defied. <sup>46</sup> Today the Lord will conquer you and I will kill you and cut off your head; and then I will give the dead bodies of your men to the birds and wild animals, and the whole world will know that there is a God in Israel! <sup>47</sup> And Israel will learn that the Lord does not depend on weapons to fulfill his plans—he works without regard to human means! He will give you to us!”

<sup>48,49</sup> As Goliath approached, David ran out to meet him and, reaching into his shepherd's bag, took out a stone, hurled it from his sling, and hit the Philistine in the forehead. The stone sank in, and the man fell on his face to the ground.

<sup>50,51</sup> So David conquered the Philistine giant with a sling and a stone. Since he had no sword, he ran over and pulled Goliath's from its sheath and killed him with it, and then cut off his head. When the Philistines saw that their champion was dead, they turned and ran.

<sup>52</sup> Then the Israelis gave a great shout of triumph and rushed after the Philistines, chasing them as far as Gath and the gates of Ekron. The bodies of the dead and wounded Philistines were strewn all along the road to Shaaraim. <sup>53</sup> Then the Israeli army returned and plundered the deserted Philistine camp.

And David replied, “His name is Jesse and we live in Bethlehem.”

18 AFTER KING SAUL had finished his conversation with David, David met Jonathan, the king's son, and there was an immediate bond of love between them. Jonathan swore to be his blood brother, <sup>4</sup> and sealed the pact by giving him his robe, sword, bow, and belt.

King Saul now kept David at Jerusalem and wouldn't let him return home any more. <sup>5</sup> He was Saul's special assistant, and he always carried out his assignments successfully. So Saul made him commander of his troops, an appointment which was applauded by the army and general public alike. <sup>6</sup> But something had happened when the victorious Israeli army was returning home after David had killed Goliath. Women came out from all the towns along the way to celebrate and to cheer for King Saul, and were singing and dancing for joy with tambourines and cymbals.

<sup>c</sup> Literally, “Whose son is this?” Since David was, if successful, scheduled to marry Saul's daughter, Saul wanted to know more about his family! The other explanation of this confusing passage is that Saul's unstable mental condition caused forgetfulness, so that he didn't recognize David.

"Saul has slain his thousands, and David his ten thousands!"

<sup>8</sup> Of course Saul was very angry. "What's this?" he said to himself. "They credit David with ten thousands and me with only thousands. Next they'll be making him their king!"

<sup>10</sup> The very next day, in fact, a tormenting spirit from God overwhelmed Saul, and he began to rave like a madman. David began to soothe him by playing the harp, as he did whenever this happened. But Saul, who was fiddling with his spear, <sup>11,12</sup> suddenly hurled it at David, intending to pin him to the wall. But David jumped aside and escaped. This happened another time, too, for Saul was afraid of him and jealous because the Lord had left him and was now with David. <sup>13</sup> Finally Saul banned him from his presence and demoted him to the rank of captain. But the controversy put David more than ever in the public eye.

<sup>14</sup> David continued to succeed in everything he undertook, for the Lord was with him. <sup>15,16</sup> When King Saul saw this, he became even more afraid of him; but all Israel and Judah loved him, for he was as one of them.

<sup>17</sup> One day Saul said to David, "I am ready to give you my oldest daughter Merab as your wife. But first you must prove yourself to be a real soldier by fighting the Lord's battles." For Saul thought to himself, "I'll send him out against the Philistines and let them kill him rather than doing it myself."

<sup>18</sup> "Who am I that I should be the king's son-in-law?" David exclaimed. "My father's family is nothing!"

<sup>19</sup> But when the time arrived for the wedding, Saul married her to Adriel, a man from Meholath, instead. <sup>20</sup> In the meantime Saul's daughter Michal had fallen in love with David, and Saul was delighted when he heard about it.

<sup>21</sup> "Here's another opportunity to see him killed by the Philistines!" Saul said to himself. But to David he said, "You can be my son-in-law after all, for I will give you my youngest daughter."

<sup>22</sup> Then Saul instructed his men to say confidentially to David that the king really liked him a lot, and that they all loved him and thought he should accept the king's proposition and become his son-in-law.

<sup>23</sup> But David replied, "How can a poor man like me from an unknown family find enough dowry to marry the daughter of a king?"

<sup>26</sup> David was delighted to accept the offer. So, before the time limit expired, <sup>27</sup> he and his men went out and killed two hundred Philistines and presented their foreskins to King Saul. So Saul gave Michal to him.

much the Lord was with David and how immensely popular he was with all the people, <sup>29</sup> he became even more afraid of him, and grew to hate him more with every passing day. <sup>30</sup> Whenever the Philistine army attacked, David was more successful against them than all the rest of Saul's officers. So David's name became very famous throughout the land.

19 SAUL NOW URGED his aides and his son Jonathan to assassinate David. But Jonathan, because of his close friendship with David, <sup>2</sup> told him what his father was planning. "Tomorrow morning," he warned him, "you must find a hiding place out in the fields. <sup>3</sup> I'll ask my father to go out there with me, and I'll talk to him about you; then I'll tell you everything I can find out."

"He's never done anything to harm you," Jonathan pleaded. "He has always helped you in any way he could. <sup>5</sup> Have you forgotten about the time he risked his life to kill Goliath, and how the Lord brought a great victory to Israel as a result? You were certainly happy about it then. Why should you now murder an innocent man by killing him? There is no reason for it at all!"

Afterwards Jonathan called David and told him what had happened. Then he took David to Saul and everything was as it had been before. <sup>8</sup> War broke out shortly after that and David led his troops against the Philistines and slaughtered many of them, and put to flight their entire army.

<sup>9,10</sup> But one day as Saul was sitting at home, listening to David playing the harp, suddenly the tormenting spirit from the Lord attacked him. He had his spear in his hand, and hurled it at David in an attempt to kill him. But David dodged out of the way and fled into the night, leaving the spear imbedded in the timber of the wall. <sup>11</sup> Saul sent troops to watch David's house and kill him when he came out in the morning.

"If you don't get away tonight," Michal warned him, "you'll be dead by morning."

"I had to," Michal replied. "He threatened to kill me if I didn't help

him."

<sup>18</sup> In that way David got away and went to Ramah to see Samuel, and told him all that Saul had done to him. So Samuel took David with him to live at Naioth. <sup>19</sup> When the report reached Saul that David was at Naioth in Ramah, <sup>20</sup> he sent soldiers to capture him; but when they arrived and saw Samuel and the other prophets prophesying, the Spirit of God came upon them and they also began to prophesy.

<sup>21</sup> When Saul heard what had happened, he sent other soldiers, but they too prophesied! The same thing happened a third time! <sup>22</sup> Then Saul himself went to Ramah and arrived at the great well in Secu.

"Where are Samuel and David?" he demanded.

Someone told him they were at Naioth. <sup>23</sup> But on the way to Naioth the Spirit of God came upon Saul, and he too began to prophesy! <sup>24</sup> He tore off his clothes and lay naked all day and all night, prophesying with Samuel's prophets. Saul's men were incredulous!

"What!" they exclaimed. "Is Saul a prophet, too?"<sup>d</sup>

20 DAVID NOW FLED from Naioth in Ramah, and found Jonathan.

"What have I done?" he exclaimed. "Why is your father so determined to kill me?"

<sup>2</sup> "That's not true!" Jonathan protested. "I'm sure he's not planning any such thing, for he always tells me everything he's going to do,

"I am a step away from death."

even little things, and I know he wouldn't hide something like this from me. It just isn't so."

<sup>3</sup> "Of course you don't know about it!" David fumed. "Your father knows perfectly well about our friendship, so he has said to himself, 'I'll not tell Jonathan—why should I hurt him?' But the truth is that I am only a step away from death! I swear it by the Lord and by your own soul!"

<sup>5</sup> And David replied, "Tomorrow is the beginning of the celebration of the new moon. Always before, I've been with your father for this occasion, but tomorrow I'll hide in the field and stay there until the evening of the third day. <sup>6</sup> If your father asks where I am, tell him that I asked permission to go home to Bethlehem for an annual family reunion. <sup>7</sup> If he says, 'Fine!' then I'll know that all is well. But if he is angry, then I'll know that he is planning to kill me. <sup>8</sup> Do this for me as my sworn brother. Or else kill me yourself if I have sinned against your father, but don't betray me to him!"

<sup>9</sup> "Of course not!" Jonathan exclaimed. "Look, wouldn't I say so if I knew that my father was planning to kill you?"

<sup>10</sup> Then David asked, "How will I know whether or not your father is angry?"

<sup>11</sup> "Come out to the field with me," Jonathan replied. And they went out there together.

promise by the Lord God of Israel that about this time tomorrow, or the next day at the latest, I will talk to my father about you and let you know at once how he feels about you.<sup>13</sup> If he is angry and wants you killed, then may the Lord kill me if I don't tell you, so you can escape and live. May the Lord be with you as he used to be with my father.<sup>14</sup> And remember, you must demonstrate the love and kindness of the Lord not only to me during my own lifetime,<sup>15</sup> but also to my children after the Lord has destroyed all of your enemies."

<sup>16</sup> So Jonathan made a covenant with the family of David, and David swore to it with a terrible curse against himself and his descendants, should he be unfaithful to his promise.<sup>17</sup> But Jonathan made David swear to it again, this time by his love for him, for he loved him as much as he loved himself.

<sup>18</sup> Then Jonathan said, "Yes, they will miss you tomorrow when your place at the table is empty.<sup>19</sup> By the day after tomorrow, everyone will be asking about you, so be at the hideout where you were before, over by the stone pile.<sup>20</sup> I will come out and shoot three arrows in front of the pile as though I were shooting at a target.<sup>21</sup> Then I'll send a lad to bring the arrows back. If you hear me tell him, 'They're on this side,' then you will know that all is well and that there is no trouble.<sup>22</sup> But if I tell him, 'Go farther—the arrows are still ahead of you,' then it will mean that you must leave immediately.<sup>23</sup> And may the Lord make us keep our promises to each other, for he has witnessed them."<sup>a</sup>

When the new moon celebration began, the king sat down to eat at his usual place against the wall. Jonathan sat opposite him and Abner was sitting beside Saul, but David's place was empty.<sup>26</sup> Saul didn't say anything about it that day, for he supposed that something had happened so that David was ceremonially impure. Yes, surely that must be it!<sup>27</sup> But when his place was still empty the next day, Saul asked Jonathan, "Why hasn't David been here for dinner either yesterday or today?"

<sup>28,29</sup> "He asked me if he could go to Bethlehem to take part in a family celebration," Jonathan replied. "His brother demanded that he be there, so I told him to go ahead."

<sup>30</sup> Saul boiled with rage. "You son of a bitch!"<sup>b</sup> he yelled at him. "Do you think I don't know that you want this son of a nobody<sup>c</sup> to be king in your place, shaming yourself and your mother?"<sup>31</sup> As long as that fellow is alive, you'll never be king. Now go and get him so I can kill him!"

left the table in fierce anger and refused to eat all that day, for he was hurt by his father's shameful behavior toward David.

<sup>35</sup> The next morning, as agreed, Jonathan went out into the field and took a young boy with him to gather his arrows.

<sup>36</sup> "Start running," he told the boy, "so that you can find the arrows as I shoot them." So the boy ran and Jonathan shot an arrow beyond him. <sup>37</sup> When the boy had almost reached the arrow, Jonathan shouted, "The arrow is still ahead of you." <sup>38</sup> Hurry, hurry, don't wait." So the boy quickly gathered up the arrows and ran back to his master. <sup>39</sup> He, of course, didn't understand what Jonathan meant; only Jonathan and David knew. <sup>40</sup> Then Jonathan gave his bow and arrows to the boy and told him to take them back to the city.

<sup>41</sup> As soon as he was gone, David came out from where he had been hiding near the south edge of the field and they sadly shook hands, tears running down their cheeks until David could weep no more.<sup>d</sup>

<sup>42</sup> At last Jonathan said to David, "Cheer up, for we have entrusted each other and each other's children into God's hands forever." So they parted, David going away and Jonathan returning to the city.

21 DAVID WENT TO the city of Nob to see Ahimelech, the priest. Ahimelech trembled when he saw him.

"Why are you alone?" he asked.

"Why is no one with you?"

<sup>2</sup> "The king has sent me on a private matter," David lied. "He told me not to tell anybody why I am here. I have told my men where to meet me later." <sup>3</sup> Now, what is there to eat? Give me five loaves of bread, or anything else you can."

<sup>4</sup> "We don't have any regular bread," the priest replied, "but there is the holy bread, which I guess you can have if only your young men have not slept with any women for awhile."

<sup>5</sup> "Rest assured," David replied. "I never let my men run wild when they are on an expedition, and since they stay clean even on ordinary trips, how much more so on this one!"

<sup>6</sup> So, since there was no other food available, the priest gave him the holy bread—the Bread of the Presence that was placed before the Lord in the Tabernacle. It had just been replaced that day with fresh bread.

<sup>8</sup> David asked Ahimelech if he had a spear or sword he could use. "The king's business required such haste, and I left in such a rush that I came away without a weapon!" David explained.

that if you want it, for there is nothing else here."

"Just the thing!" David replied. "Give it to me!"

<sup>10</sup> Then David hurried on, for he was fearful of Saul, and went to King Achish of Gath. <sup>11</sup> But Achish's officers weren't happy about his being there. "Isn't he the top leader of Israel?" they asked.

"Isn't he the one the people honor at their dances, singing, 'Saul has slain his thousands and David his ten thousands'?"

<sup>12</sup> David heard these comments and was afraid of what King Achish might do to him, <sup>13</sup> so he pretended to be insane! He scratched on doors and let his spittle flow down his beard, <sup>14,15</sup> until finally King Achish said to his men, "Must you bring me a madman? We already have enough of them around here! Should such a fellow as this be my guest?"

22 SO DAVID LEFT Gath and escaped to the cave of Adullam, where his brothers and other relatives soon joined him. <sup>2</sup> Then others began coming—those who were in any kind of trouble, such as being in debt, or merely discontented—until David was the leader of about four hundred men.

<sup>3</sup> (Later David went to Mizpeh in Moab to ask permission of the king for his father and mother to live there under royal protection until David knew what God was going to do for him. <sup>4</sup> They stayed in Moab during the entire period when David was living in the cave.)

<sup>5</sup> One day the prophet Gad told David to leave the cave and return to the land of Judah. So David went to the forest of Hereth. <sup>6</sup> The news of his arrival in Judah soon reached Saul. He was in Gibe-ah at the time, sitting beneath an oak tree playing with his spear, surrounded by his officers.

<sup>7</sup> "Listen here, you men of Benjamin!" Saul exclaimed when he heard the news. "Has David promised you fields and vineyards and commissions in his army? <sup>8</sup> Is that why you are against me? For not one of you has ever told me that my own son is on David's side. You're not even sorry for me. Think of it! My own son—encouraging David to come and kill me!"

<sup>9,10</sup> Then Doeg the Edomite, who was standing there with Saul's men, spoke up. "When I was at Nob," he said, "I saw David talking to Ahimelech the priest. Ahimelech consulted the Lord to find out what David should do, and then gave him food and the sword of Goliath the Philistine."

<sup>11,12</sup> King Saul immediately summoned Ahimelech and all his family and all the other priests at Nob. When they arrived Saul shouted at him, "Listen to me, you son of Ahitub!"

"What is it?" quavered Ahimelech.

<sup>13</sup> "Why have you and David conspired against me?" Saul demanded. "Why did you give him food and a sword and talk to God for him? Why did you encourage him to revolt against me and to come here and attack me?"

<sup>14</sup> "But sir," Ahimelech replied, "is there anyone among all your servants who is as faithful as David your son-in-law? Why, he is the captain of your bodyguard and a highly honored member of your own household! <sup>13</sup> This was certainly not the first time I had consulted God for him! It's unfair for you to accuse me and my family in this matter, for we knew nothing of any plot against you."

<sup>16</sup> "You shall die, Ahimelech, along with your entire family!" the king shouted. <sup>17</sup> He ordered his bodyguards, "Kill these priests, for they are allies and conspirators with David; they knew he was running away from me, but they didn't tell me!"

But the soldiers refused to harm the clergy.

<sup>18</sup> Then the king said to Doeg, "You do it."

So Doeg turned on them and killed them, eighty-five priests in all, all wearing their priestly robes.

<sup>19</sup> Then he went to Nob, the city of the priests, and killed the priests' families—men, women, children, and babies, and also all the oxen, donkeys, and sheep. <sup>20</sup> Only Abiathar, one of the sons of Ahimelech, escaped and fled to David.

<sup>21</sup> When he told him what Saul had done, <sup>22</sup> David exclaimed, "I knew it! When I saw Doeg there, I knew he would tell Saul. Now I have caused the death of all of your father's family. <sup>23</sup> Stay here with me, and I'll protect you with my own life. Any harm to you will be over my dead body."

23 ONE DAY NEWS came to David that the Philistines were at Keilah robbing the threshing floors.

"Yes, go and save Keilah," the Lord told him.

<sup>3</sup> But David's men said, "We're afraid even here in Judah; we certainly don't want to go to Keilah to fight the whole Philistine army!"

<sup>5</sup> They went to Keilah and slaughtered the Philistines and confiscated their cattle, and so the people of Keilah were saved. <sup>6</sup> (Abiathar the priest went to Keilah with David, taking his ephod with him to get answers for David from the Lord.) <sup>7</sup> Saul soon learned that David was at Keilah.

"Good!" he exclaimed. "We've got him now! God has delivered him to me, for he has trapped himself in a walled city!"

<sup>8</sup> So Saul mobilized his entire army to march to Keilah and besiege David and his men. <sup>9</sup> But David learned of Saul's plan and told Abiathar the priest to bring the ephod and to ask the Lord what he should do.

<sup>10</sup> "O Lord God of Israel," David said, "I have heard that Saul is planning to come and destroy Keilah because I am here. <sup>11</sup> Will the men of Keilah surrender me to him? And will Saul actually come, as I have heard? O Lord God of Israel, please tell me."

And the Lord said, "He will come."

<sup>12</sup> "And will these men of Keilah betray me to Saul?" David persisted.

And the Lord replied, "Yes, they will betray you."

<sup>13</sup> So David and his men—about six hundred of them now—left Keilah and began roaming the countryside. Word soon reached Saul that David had escaped, so he didn't go there after all. <sup>14,15</sup> David now lived in the wilderness caves in the hill country of Ziph. One day near Horesh he received the news that Saul was on the way to Ziph to search for him and kill him. Saul hunted him day after day, but the Lord didn't let him find him.

<sup>17</sup> "Don't be afraid," Jonathan reassured him. "My father will never find you! You are going to be the king of Israel and I will be next to you, as my father is well aware."

<sup>18</sup> So the two of them renewed their pact of friendship; and David stayed at Horesh while Jonathan returned home.)

<sup>19</sup> But now the men of Ziph went to Saul in Gibe-ah and betrayed David to him.

"We know where he is hiding," they said. "He is in the caves of Horesh on Hachilah Hill, down in the southern part of the wilderness.

<sup>20</sup> Come on down, sir, and we will catch him for you and your fondest wish will be fulfilled!"

<sup>21</sup> "Well, praise the Lord!" Saul said. "At last someone has had pity on me! <sup>22</sup> Go and check again to be sure of where he is staying and who has seen him there, for I know that he is very crafty. <sup>23</sup> Discover his hiding places and then come back and give me a more definite report. Then I'll go with you. And if he is in the area at all, I'll find him if I have to search every inch of the entire land!"

home. But when David heard that Saul was on his way to Ziph, he and his men went even further into the wilderness of Maon in the south of the desert. But Saul followed them there. <sup>26</sup> He and David were now on opposite sides of a mountain. As Saul and his men began to close in, David tried his best to escape, but it was no use. <sup>27</sup> But just then a message reached Saul that the Philistines were raiding Israel again, <sup>28</sup> so Saul quit the chase and returned to fight the Philistines. Ever since that time the place where David was camped has been called, "The Rock of Escape!" <sup>29</sup> David then went to live in the caves of Engedi.

24 AFTER SAUL'S RETURN from his battle with the Philistines, he was told that David had gone into the wilderness of Engedi; <sup>2</sup> so he took three thousand special troops and went to search for him among the rocks and wild goats of the desert. <sup>3</sup> At the place where the road passes some sheepfolds, Saul went into a cave to go to the bathroom, but as it happened, David and his men were hiding in the cave!

<sup>4</sup> "Now's your time!" David's men whispered to him. "Today is the day the Lord was talking about when he said, 'I will certainly put Saul into your power, to do with as you wish!'" Then David crept forward and quietly slit off the bottom of Saul's robe! <sup>5</sup> But then his conscience began bothering him.

<sup>6</sup> "I shouldn't have done it," he said to his men. "It is a serious sin to attack God's chosen king in any way."

After Saul had left the cave and gone on his way, David came out and shouted after him, "My lord the king!" And when Saul looked around, David bowed low before him.

<sup>9,10</sup> Then he shouted to Saul, "Why do you listen to the people who say that I am trying to harm you? This very day you have seen that it isn't true. The Lord placed you at my mercy back there in the cave and some of my men told me to kill you, but I spared you. For I said, 'I will never harm him—he is the Lord's chosen king.' <sup>11</sup> See what I have in my hand? It is the hem of your robe! I cut it off, but I didn't kill you! Doesn't this convince you that I am not trying to harm you and that I have not sinned against you, even though you have been hunting for my life?"

<sup>12</sup> "The Lord will decide between us. Perhaps he will kill you for what you are trying to do to me, but I will never harm you. <sup>13</sup> As that old proverb says, 'Wicked is as wicked does,' but despite your wickedness, I'll not touch you. <sup>14</sup> And who is the king of Israel trying to catch, anyway? Should he spend his time chasing one who is as worthless as a dead dog or a flea? <sup>15</sup> May the Lord judge as to which of us is right and punish whichever one of us is guilty. He is my lawyer and defender, and he will rescue me from your power!"

Saul called back, "Is it really you, my son David?" Then he began to cry. <sup>17</sup> And he said to David, "You are a better man than I am, for you have repaid me good for evil. <sup>18</sup> Yes, you have been wonderfully kind to me today, for when the Lord delivered me into your hand, you didn't kill me. <sup>19</sup> Who else in all the world would let his enemy get away when he had him in his power? May the Lord reward you well for the kindness you have shown me today. <sup>20</sup> And now I realize that you are surely going to be king, and Israel shall be yours to rule. <sup>21</sup> Oh, swear to me by the Lord that when that happens you will not kill my family and destroy my line of descendants!"

25 SHORTLY AFTERWARDS, SAMUEL died and all Israel gathered for his funeral and buried him in his family plot at Ramah.

Meanwhile David went down to the wilderness of Paran. <sup>2</sup> A wealthy man from Maon owned a sheep ranch there, near the village of Carmel. He had three thousand sheep and a thousand goats, and was at his ranch at this time for the sheep shearing. <sup>3</sup> His name was Nabal and his wife, a beautiful and very intelligent woman, was named Abigail. But the man, who was a descendant of Caleb, was uncouth, churlish, stubborn, and ill-mannered.

<sup>4</sup> When David heard that Nabal was shearing his sheep, <sup>5</sup> he sent ten of his young men to Carmel to give him this message: <sup>6</sup> "May God prosper you and your family and multiply everything you own. <sup>7</sup> I am told that you are shearing your sheep and goats. While your shepherds have lived among us, we have never harmed them, nor stolen anything from them the whole time they have been in Carmel. <sup>8</sup> Ask your young men and they will tell you whether or not this is true. Now I have sent my men to ask for a little contribution from you, for we have come at a happy time of holiday. Please give us a present of whatever is at hand."

<sup>10</sup> "Who is this fellow David?" he asked. "Who does this son of Jesse think he is? There are lots of servants these days who run away from their masters. <sup>11</sup> Should I take my bread and my water and my meat that I've slaughtered for my shearers and give it to a gang who suddenly appear from nowhere?"<sup>a</sup>

<sup>14</sup> Meanwhile, one of Nabal's men went and told Abigail, "David sent men from the wilderness to talk to our master, but he insulted them and railed at them. <sup>15,16</sup> But David's men were very good to us and we never suffered any harm from them; in fact, day and night they were like a wall of protection to us and the sheep, and nothing was stolen from us the whole time they were with us. <sup>17</sup> You'd better think fast, for there is going to be trouble for our master and his whole family—he's such a stubborn lout that no one can even talk to him!"

<sup>18</sup> Then Abigail hurriedly took two hundred loaves of bread, two barrels of wine, five dressed sheep, two bushels of roasted grain, one hundred raisin cakes, and two hundred fig cakes, and packed them onto donkeys.

<sup>19</sup> "Go on ahead," she said to her young men, "and I will follow." But she didn't tell her husband what she was doing. <sup>20</sup> As she was riding down the trail on her donkey, she met David coming towards her.

<sup>21</sup> David had been saying to himself, "A lot of good it did us to help this fellow. We protected his flocks in the wilderness so that not one thing was lost or stolen, but he has repaid me bad for good. All that I get for my trouble is insults. <sup>22</sup> May God curse me if even one of his men remains alive by tomorrow morning!"

<sup>24</sup> "I accept all blame in this matter, my lord," she said. "Please listen to what I want to say. <sup>25</sup> Nabal is a bad-tempered boor, but please don't pay any attention to what he said. He is a fool—just like his name means. But I didn't see the messengers you sent. <sup>26</sup> Sir, since the Lord has kept you from murdering and taking vengeance into your own hands, I pray by the life of God, and by your own life too, that all your enemies shall be as cursed as Nabal is. <sup>27</sup> And now, here is a present I have brought to you and your young men. <sup>28</sup> Forgive me for my boldness is coming out here.

The Lord will surely reward you with eternal royalty for your descendants, for you are fighting his battles; and you will never do wrong throughout your entire life. <sup>29</sup> Even when you are chased by those who seek your life, you are safe in the care of the Lord your God, just as though you were safe inside his purse! But the lives of your enemies shall disappear like stones from a sling! <sup>30,31</sup> When the Lord has done all the good things he promised you and has made you king of Israel, you won't want the conscience of a murderer who took the law into his own hands! And when the Lord has done these great things for you, please remember me!"

<sup>32</sup> David replied to Abigail, "Bless the Lord God of Israel who has sent you to meet me today! <sup>33</sup> Thank God for your good sense! Bless you for keeping me from murdering the man and carrying out vengeance with my own hands. <sup>34</sup> For I swear by the Lord, the God of Israel who has kept me from hurting you, that if you had not come out to meet me, not one of Nabal's men would be alive tomorrow morning."

<sup>35</sup> Then David accepted her gifts and told her to return home without fear, for he would not kill her husband. <sup>36</sup> When she arrived home she found that Nabal had thrown a big party. He was roaring drunk, so she didn't tell him anything about her meeting with David until the next morning. <sup>37,38</sup> By that time he was sober, and when his wife told him what had happened, he had a stroke and lay paralyzed<sup>b</sup> for about ten days, then died, for the Lord killed him.

<sup>39</sup> When David heard that Nabal was dead, he said, "Praise the Lord! God has paid back Nabal and kept me from doing it myself; he has received his punishment for his sin."

Then David wasted no time in sending messengers to Abigail to ask her to become his wife. <sup>40</sup> When the messengers arrived at Carmel and told her why they had come, <sup>41</sup> she readily agreed to his request. <sup>42</sup> Quickly getting ready, she took along five of her serving girls as attendants, mounted her donkey, and followed the men back to David. So she became his wife.

26 NOW THE MEN from Ziph came back to Saul at Gibe-ah to tell him that David had returned to the wilderness and was hiding on Hachilah Hill. <sup>2</sup> So Saul took his elite corps of three thousand troops and went to hunt him down. <sup>3,4</sup> Saul camped along the road at the edge of the wilderness where David was hiding, but David knew of Saul's arrival and sent out spies to watch his movements.

"Any volunteers to go down

there with me?" David asked Ahimelech (the Hittite) and Abishai (Joab's brother and the son of Zeruiah).

"I'll go with you," Abishai replied. So David and Abishai went to Saul's camp and found him asleep, with his spear in the ground beside his head.

"God has put your enemy within your power this time for sure," Abishai whispered to David. "Let me go and put that spear through him. I'll pin him to the earth with it—I'll not need to strike a second time!"

"No," David said. "Don't kill him, for who can remain innocent after attacking the Lord's chosen king? <sup>10</sup> Surely God will strike him down some day, or he will die in battle or of old age. <sup>11</sup> But God forbid that I should kill the man he has chosen to be king! But I'll tell you what—we'll take his spear and his jug of water and then get out of here!"

<sup>12</sup> So David took the spear and jug of water, and they got away without anyone seeing them or even waking up, because the Lord had put them sound asleep. <sup>13</sup> They climbed the mountain slope opposite the camp until they were at a safe distance.

"Then David shouted down to Abner and Saul, "Wake up, Abner!"

"Who is it?" Abner demanded.

"Well, Abner, you're a great fellow, aren't you?" David taunted. "Where in all Israel is there anyone as wonderful? So why haven't you guarded your master the king when someone came to kill him? <sup>16</sup> This isn't good at all! I swear by the Lord that you ought to die for your carelessness. Where is the king's spear and the jug of water that was beside his head? Look and see!"

<sup>17,18</sup> Saul recognized David's voice and said, "Is that you, my son David?"

And David replied, "Yes, sir, it is. Why are you chasing me? What have I done? What is my crime? <sup>19</sup> If the Lord has stirred you up against me, then let him accept my peace offering. But if this is simply the scheme of a man, then may he be cursed by God. For you have driven me out of my home so that I can't be with the Lord's people, and you have sent me away to worship heathen gods. <sup>20</sup> Must I die on foreign soil, far from the presence of Jehovah? Why should the king of Israel come out to hunt my life like a partridge on the mountains?"

<sup>21</sup> Then Saul confessed, "I have done wrong. Come back home, my son, and I'll no longer try to harm you; for you saved my life today. I have been a fool, and very, very wrong."

<sup>25</sup> And Saul said to David, "Blessings on you, my son David. You shall do heroic deeds and be a great conqueror."

Then David went away and Saul returned home.

27 BUT DAVID KEPT thinking to himself, "Some day Saul is going to get me. I'll try my luck among the Philistines until Saul gives up and quits hunting for me; then I will finally be safe again."

<sup>2,3</sup> So David took his six hundred men and their families to live at Gath under the protection of King Achish. He had his two wives with him—Ahino-am of Jezreel and Abigail of Carmel, Nabal's widow. <sup>4</sup> Word soon reached Saul that David had fled to Gath, so he quit hunting for him.

<sup>5</sup> One day David said to Achish, "My lord, if it is all right with you, we would rather live in one of the country towns instead of here in the royal city."

<sup>6</sup> So Achish gave him Ziklag (which still belongs to the kings of Judah to this day), <sup>7</sup> and they lived there among the Philistines for a year and four months. <sup>8</sup> He and his men spent their time raiding the Geshurites, the Girzites, and the Amalekites—people who had lived near Shur along the road to Egypt ever since ancient times. <sup>9</sup> They didn't leave one person alive in the villages they hit, and took for themselves the sheep, oxen, donkeys, camels, and clothing before returning to their homes.

<sup>10</sup> "Where did you make your raid today?" Achish would ask.

And David would reply, "Against the south of Judah and the people of Jerahmeel and the Kenites."

<sup>11</sup> No one was left alive to come to Gath and tell where he had really been. This happened again and again while he was living among the Philistines. <sup>12</sup> Achish believed David and thought that the people of Israel must hate him bitterly by now. "Now he will have to stay here and serve me forever!" the king thought.

28 ABOUT THAT TIME the Philistines mustered their armies for another war with Israel.

"Come and help us fight," King Achish said to David and his men.

<sup>2</sup> "Good," David agreed. "You will soon see what a help we can be to you."

"If you are, you shall be my personal bodyguard for life," Achish told him.

<sup>3</sup> (Meanwhile, Samuel had died and all Israel had mourned for him. He was buried in Ramah, his home town. King Saul had banned all mediums and wizards from the land of Israel.)

<sup>5,6</sup> When Saul saw the vast army of the Philistines, he was frantic with fear and asked the Lord what he should do. But the Lord refused to answer him, either by dreams, or by Urim,<sup>a</sup> or by the prophets. <sup>7,8</sup> Saul then instructed his aides to try to find a medium so that he could ask her what to do, and they found one at Endor. Saul disguised himself by wearing ordinary clothing instead of his royal robes. He went to the woman's home at night, accompanied by two of his men.

<sup>a</sup> The Urim and Thummim were holy instruments which were used as lots in determining the will of God. See Exodus 28:30.

"I've got to talk to a dead man," he pleaded. "Will you bring his spirit up?"

<sup>9</sup> "Are you trying to get me killed?" the woman demanded. "You know that Saul has had all of the mediums and fortune-tellers executed. You are spying on me."

<sup>11</sup> Finally the woman said, "Well, whom do you want me to bring up?"

"Bring me Samuel," Saul replied.

"I see a specter coming up out of the earth," she said.

<sup>14</sup> "What does he look like?"

"He is an old man wrapped in a robe."

Saul realized that it was Samuel and bowed low before him.

<sup>15</sup> "Why have you disturbed me by bringing me back?" Samuel asked Saul.

"Because I am in deep trouble," he replied. "The Philistines are at war with us, and God has left me and won't reply by prophets or dreams; so I have called for you to ask you what to do."

<sup>16</sup> But Samuel replied, "Why ask me if the Lord has left you and has become your enemy? <sup>17</sup> He has done just as he said he would and has taken the kingdom from you and given it to your rival, David. <sup>18</sup> All this has come upon you because you did not obey the Lord's instructions when he was so angry with Amalek. <sup>19</sup> What's more, the entire Israeli army will be routed and destroyed by the Philistines tomorrow, and you and your sons will be here with me."

<sup>20</sup> Saul now fell full length upon the ground, paralyzed with fright because of Samuel's words. He was also faint with hunger, for he had eaten nothing all day. <sup>21</sup> When the woman saw how distraught he was, she said, "Sir, I obeyed your command at the risk of my life. <sup>22</sup> Now do what I say, and let me give you something to eat so you'll regain your strength for the trip back."

<sup>23</sup> But he refused. The men who were with him added their pleas to that of the woman until he finally yielded and got up and sat on the bed. <sup>24</sup> The woman had been fattening a calf, so she hurried out and killed it and kneaded dough and baked unleavened bread. <sup>25</sup> She brought the meal to the king and his men, and they ate it. Then they went out into the night.

And King Achish told them, "This is David, the runaway servant of King Saul of Israel. He's been with me for years, and I've never found one fault in him since he arrived."

manded. "They aren't going into the battle with us—they'll turn against us. Is there any better way for him to reconcile himself with his master than by turning against us in the battle?" This is the same man the women of Israel sang about in their dances: "Saul has slain his thousands and David his ten thousands!"

"I swear by the Lord," he told them, "you are some of the finest men I've ever met, and I think you should go with us, but my commanders say no. <sup>7</sup> Please don't upset them, but go back quietly."

<sup>8</sup> "What have I done to deserve this treatment?" David demanded. "Why can't I fight your enemies?"

<sup>9</sup> But Achish insisted, "As far as I'm concerned, you're as perfect as an angel of God. But my commanders are afraid to have you with them in the battle. <sup>10</sup> Now get up early in the morning and leave as soon as it is light."

30 THREE DAYS LATER, when David and his men arrived home at their city of Ziklag, they found that the Amalekites had raided the city and burned it to the ground, <sup>2</sup> carrying off all the women and children. <sup>3</sup> As David and his men looked at the ruins and realized what had happened to their families, <sup>4</sup> they wept until they could weep no more. <sup>5</sup> (David's two wives, Ahino-am and Abigail, were among those who had been captured.) <sup>6</sup> David was seriously worried, for in their bitter grief for their children, his men began talking of killing him. But David took strength from the Lord.

<sup>7</sup> Then he said to Abiathar the priest, "Bring me the ephod!" So Abiathar brought it.

<sup>8</sup> David asked the Lord, "Shall I chase them? Will I catch them?"

And the Lord told him, "Yes, go after them; you will recover everything that was taken from you!"

<sup>9,10</sup> So David and his six hundred men set out after the Amalekites. When they reached Besor Brook, two hundred of the men were too exhausted to cross, but the other four hundred kept going. <sup>11,12</sup> Along the way they found an Egyptian youth in a field and brought him to David. He had not had anything to eat or drink for three days and nights, so they gave him part of a fig cake, two clusters of raisins, and some water, and his strength soon returned.

<sup>13</sup> "Who are you and where do you come from?" David asked him.

"I am an Egyptian—the servant of an Amalekite," he replied. "My master left me behind three days ago because I was sick. <sup>14</sup> We were on our way back from raiding the Cherethites in the Negeb, and had raided the south of Judah and the land of Caleb, and had burned Ziklag."

The young man replied, "If you swear by God's name that you will not kill me or give me back to my master, then I will guide you to them."

<sup>16</sup> So he led them to the Amalekite encampment. They were spread out across the fields, eating and drinking and dancing with joy because of the vast amount of loot they had taken from the Philistines and from the men of Judah. <sup>17</sup> David and his men rushed in among them and slaughtered them all that night and the entire next day until evening. No one escaped except four hundred young men who fled on camels. <sup>18,19</sup> David got back everything they had taken. The men recovered their families and all of their belongings, and David rescued his two wives. <sup>20</sup> His troops rounded up all the flocks and herds and drove them on ahead of them. "These are all yours personally, as your reward!" they told David.

<sup>22</sup> But some of the ruffians among David's men declared, "They didn't go with us, so they can't have any of the loot. Give them their wives and their children and tell them to be gone."

<sup>23</sup> But David said, "No, my brothers! The Lord has kept us safe and helped us defeat the enemy.

<sup>24</sup> Do you think that anyone will listen to you when you talk like this? We share and share alike—those who go to battle and those who guard the equipment."

<sup>25</sup> From then on David made this a law for all of Israel, and it is still followed.

where David and his men had been: Bethel, South Ramoth, Jattir, Aroer, Siphmoth, Eshtemoa, Raca, the cities of the Jerahmeelites, the cities of the Kenites, Hormah, Borashan, Athach, Hebron.

31 MEANWHILE THE PHILISTINES had begun the battle against Israel, and the Israelis fled from them and were slaughtered wholesale on Mount Gilboa. <sup>2</sup> The Philistines closed in on Saul, and killed his sons Jonathan, Abinidab, and Malchishua.

<sup>3</sup> Then the archers overtook Saul and wounded him badly. He groaned to his armor bearer, "Kill me with your sword before these heathen Philistines capture me and torture me." But his armor bearer was afraid to, so Saul took his own sword and fell upon the point of the blade, and it pierced him through. <sup>4</sup> When his armor bearer saw that he was dead, he also fell upon his sword and died with him. <sup>5</sup> So Saul, his armor bearer, his three sons, and his troops died together that same day.

<sup>6</sup> When the Israelis on the other side of the valley and beyond the Jordan heard that their comrades had fled and that Saul and his sons were dead, they abandoned their cities; and the Philistines lived in them.

<sup>7</sup> The next day when the Philistines went out to strip the dead, they found the bodies of Saul and his three sons on Mount Gilboa. <sup>8</sup> They cut off Saul's head and stripped off his armor and sent the wonderful news of Saul's death to their idols and to the people throughout their land.

<sup>10</sup> His armor was placed in the temple of Ashtaroth, and his body was fastened to the wall of Bethshan.

tines had done, <sup>12</sup> warriors from that town traveled all night to Bethshan and took down the bodies of Saul and his sons from the wall and brought them to Jabesh, where they cremated them. <sup>13</sup> Then they buried their remains beneath the oak tree at Jabesh and fasted for seven days.

2 SAMUEL

1 SAUL WAS DEAD and David had returned to Ziklag after slaughtering the Amalekites. Three days later a man arrived from the Israeli army with his clothes torn and with dirt on his head as a sign of mourning. He fell to the ground before David in deep respect.

"From the Israeli army," he replied.

And the man replied, "Our entire army fled. Thousands of men are dead and wounded on the field, and Saul and his son Jonathan have been killed."

<sup>3</sup> "How do you know they are dead?"

<sup>4</sup> "Because I was on Mount Gilboa and saw Saul leaning against his spear with the enemy chariots closing in upon him. <sup>5</sup> When he saw me he cried out for me to come to him.

<sup>6</sup> "Who are you?" he asked.

"An Amalekite," I replied.

<sup>7</sup> "Come and put me out of my misery," he begged, "for I am in terrible pain but life lingers on."

<sup>8</sup> "So I killed him, for I knew he couldn't live.<sup>a</sup> Then I took his crown and one of his bracelets to bring to you, my lord."

<sup>9</sup> David and his men tore their clothes in sorrow when they heard the news. <sup>10</sup> They mourned and wept and fasted all day for Saul and his son Jonathan, and for the Lord's people, and for the men of Israel who had died that day.

<sup>11</sup> Then David said to the young man who had brought the news, "Where are you from?"

And he replied, "I am an Amalekite."

<sup>13</sup> Then he said to one of his young men, "Kill him!" So he ran him through with his sword and he died.

<sup>a</sup> He was evidently lying. See 1 Samuel 31:3, 4 for the true account. Probably he had found Saul dead upon the field and thought David would reward him for killing his rival.

pointed king."

<sup>17,18</sup> Then David composed a dirge for Saul and Jonathan and afterward commanded that it be sung throughout Israel. It is quoted here from the book, Heroic Ballads.

<sup>19</sup> O Israel, your pride and joy lies dead upon the hills;

Mighty heroes have fallen.

Hide it from the cities of Gath and Ashkelon,

Lest the heathen nations laugh in triumph.

Let no crops of grain grow on your slopes.<sup>b</sup>

For there the mighty Saul has died;

He is God's appointed king no more.

<sup>22</sup> Both Saul and Jonathan slew their strongest foes, And did not return from battle empty-handed.

Both Saul and Jonathan! They were together in life and in death.

They were swifter than eagles, stronger than lions.

He enriched you With fine clothing and golden ornaments.

<sup>25</sup> These mighty heroes have fallen in the midst of the battle.

Jonathan is slain upon the hills.

<sup>26</sup> How I weep for you, my brother Jonathan;

How much I loved you!

And your love for me was deeper

Than the love of women!

<sup>27</sup> The mighty ones have fallen,

Stripped of their weapons, and dead.

2 DAVID THEN ASKED the Lord, "Shall I move back to Judah?"

And the Lord replied, "Yes."

"Which city shall I go to?"

And the Lord replied, "Hebron."

<sup>4</sup> Then the leaders of Judah came to David and crowned him king of the Judean confederacy.

When David heard that the men of Jabesh-gilead had buried Saul, <sup>5</sup> he sent them this message: "May the Lord bless you for being so loyal to your king and giving him a decent burial. <sup>6</sup> May the Lord be loyal to you in return, and reward you with many demonstrations of his love!

And I too will be kind to you because of what you have done.

<sup>7</sup> And now I ask you to be my strong and loyal subjects, now that Saul is dead. Be like the tribe of Judah who have appointed me as their new king."

in-chief, had gone to Mahanaim to crown Saul's son Ish-bosheth as king.<sup>9</sup> His territory included Gilead, Ashuri, Jezreel, Ephraim, the tribe of Benjamin, and all the rest of Israel.<sup>10,11</sup> Ish-bosheth was forty years old at the time. He reigned in Mahanaim for two years; meanwhile, David was reigning in Hebron as king of the Judean confederacy for seven and one-half years.

Joab agreed,<sup>15</sup> so twelve men were chosen from each side to fight in mortal combat.<sup>16</sup> Each one grabbed his opponent by the hair and thrust his sword into the other's side, so that all of them died. The place has been known ever since as Sword Field.

<sup>17</sup> The two armies then began to fight each other, and by the end of the day Abner and the men of Israel had been defeated by Joab<sup>a</sup> and the forces of David.<sup>18</sup> Joab's brothers, Abishai and Asahel, were also in the battle. Asahel could run like a deer,<sup>19</sup> and he began chasing Abner. He wouldn't stop for anything, but kept on, singleminded, after Abner alone.

to him, "Is that you, Asahel?"

"Yes," he called back, "it is."

<sup>21</sup> "Go after someone else!" Abner warned. But Asahel refused and kept on coming.

<sup>23</sup> But he refused to turn away, so Abner pierced him through the belly with the butt end of his spear. It went right through his body and came out his back. He stumbled to the ground and died there, and everyone stopped when they came to the place where he lay.

<sup>27</sup> Joab shouted back, "I swear by God that even if you hadn't spoken, we would all have gone home tomorrow morning."<sup>28</sup> Then he blew his trumpet and his men stopped chasing the troops of Israel.

<sup>29</sup> That night Abner and his men retreated across the Jordan Valley, crossed the river, and traveled all the next morning until they arrived at Mahanaim.<sup>30</sup> Joab and the men who were with him returned home too, and when he counted his casualties, he learned that only nineteen men were missing, in addition to Asahel. <sup>11</sup> But three hundred and sixty of Abner's men (all from the tribe of Benjamin) were dead. <sup>12</sup> Joab and his men took Asahel's body to Bethlehem and buried him beside his father; then they traveled all night and reached Hebron at daybreak.

3 THAT WAS THE beginning of a long war between the followers of Saul and of David. David's position now became stronger and stronger, while Saul's dynasty became weaker and weaker.

<sup>2</sup> Several sons were born to David while he was at Hebron. The oldest was Amnon, born to his wife Ahino-am. <sup>3</sup> His second son, Chileab, was born to Abigail, the widow of Nabal of Carmel. The third was Absalom, born to Maacah, the daughter of King Talmai of Geshur. <sup>4</sup> The fourth was Adonijah, who was born to Haggith. Then Shephatiah was born to Abital, and <sup>5</sup> Ithream was born to Eglah.

"Am I a Judean dog to be kicked around like this?" he shouted. "After all I have done for you and for your father by not betraying you to David, is this my reward—to find fault with me about some woman?" <sup>9,10</sup> May God curse me if I don't do everything I can to take away the entire kingdom from you, all the way from Dan to Beer-sheba, and give it to David, just as the Lord predicted."

<sup>17</sup> Meanwhile, Abner consulted with the leaders of Israel and reminded them that for a long time they had wanted David as their king.

<sup>18</sup> "Now is the time!" he told them. "For the Lord has said, 'It is David by whom I will save my people from the Philistines and from all their other enemies.'"

<sup>19</sup> Abner also talked to the leaders of the tribe of Benjamin; then he went to Hebron and reported to David his progress with the people of Israel and Benjamin.

<sup>21</sup> As Abner left, he promised David, "When I get back I will call a convention of all the people of Israel, and they will elect you as their king, as you've so long desired." So David let Abner return in safety.

<sup>27</sup> When Abner arrived at Hebron, Joab took him aside at the city gate as if to speak with him privately; but then he pulled out a dagger and killed him in revenge for the death of his brother Asahel.

<sup>28</sup> When David heard about it he declared, "I vow by the Lord that I and my people are innocent of this crime against Abner. <sup>29</sup> Joab and his family are the guilty ones. May each of his children be victims of cancer, or be lepers, or be sterile, or die of starvation, or be killed by the sword!"

to all those who were with him, "Go into deep mourning for Abner." And King David accompanied the bier to the cemetery. <sup>32</sup> They buried Abner in Hebron. And the king and all the people wept at the graveside.

<sup>33,34</sup> "Should Abner have died like a fool?" the king lamented.

"Your hands were not bound,

Your feet were not tied—

You were murdered—

The victim of a wicked plot."

And all the people wept again for him. <sup>35,36</sup> David had refused to eat anything the day of the funeral, and now everyone begged him to take a bite of supper. But David vowed that he would eat nothing until sundown. This pleased his people, just as everything else he did pleased them! <sup>37</sup> Thus the whole nation, both Judah and Israel, understood from David's actions that he was in no way responsible for Abner's death.

<sup>38</sup> And David said to his people, "A great leader and a great man has fallen today in Israel; <sup>39</sup> and even though I am God's chosen king, I can do nothing with these two sons of Zeruiah. May the Lord repay wicked men for their wicked deeds."

4 WHEN KING ISH-BOSHETH heard about Abner's death at Hebron, he was paralyzed with fear, and his people too were badly frightened. <sup>2,3</sup> The command of the Israeli troops then fell to two brothers, Baanah and Rechab, who were captains of King Ish-bosheth's raiding bands. They were the sons of Rimmon, who was from Be-eroth in Benjamin. (People from Be-eroth are counted as Benjaminites even though they fled to Gittaim,<sup>a</sup> where they now live.)

<sup>4</sup> (There was a little lame grandson of King Saul's named Mephibosheth, who was the son of Prince Jonathan. He was five years old at the time Saul and Jonathan were killed at the battle of Jezreel. When the news of the outcome of the battle reached the capital, the child's nurse grabbed him and fled, but she fell and dropped him as she was running, and he became lame.)

"Look!" they exclaimed. "Here is the head of Ish-bosheth, the son of your enemy Saul who tried to kill you. Today the Lord has given you revenge upon Saul and upon his entire family!"

<sup>8</sup> But David replied, "I swear by the Lord who saved me from my enemies, <sup>9</sup> that when someone told me, 'Saul is dead,' thinking he was bringing me good news, I killed him; that is how I rewarded him for his 'glad tidings.' <sup>10</sup> And how much more shall I do to wicked men who kill a good man in his own house and on his bed! Shall I not demand your lives?"

men to kill them, and they did. They cut off their hands and feet and hanged their bodies beside the pool in Hebron. And they took Ish-bosheth's head and buried it in Abner's tomb in Hebron.

5 THEN REPRESENTATIVES OF all the tribes of Israel came to David at Hebron and gave him their pledge of loyalty.

"We are your blood brothers," they said. <sup>2</sup> "And even when Saul was our king you were our real leader. The Lord has said that you should be the shepherd and leader of his people."

<sup>3</sup> So David made a contract before the Lord with the leaders of Israel there at Hebron, and they crowned him king of Israel. <sup>4</sup> (He had already been the king of Judah for seven years, since the age of thirty. He then ruled thirty-three years in Jerusalem as king of both Israel and Judah; so he reigned for forty years altogether.)

<sup>5</sup> David now led his troops to Jerusalem to fight against the Jebusites who lived there.

"You'll never come in here," they told him. "Even the blind and lame could keep you out!" For they thought they were safe. <sup>7</sup> But David and his troops defeated them and captured the stronghold of Zion, now called the City of David.

<sup>8</sup> When the insulting message from the defenders of the city reached David, he told his troops, "Go up through the water tunnel into the city and destroy those 'lame' and 'blind' Jebusites. How I hate them." (That is the origin of the saying, "Even the blind and the lame could conquer you!")

<sup>10</sup> So David became greater and greater, for the Lord God of heaven was with him.

<sup>12</sup> David now realized why the Lord had made him the king and blessed his kingdom so greatly—it was because God wanted to pour out his kindness on Israel, his chosen people.

Shammu-a, Shobab,
Nathan, Solomon, Ibhah, Elishu-a, Nepheg, Japhia, Elishama, Eliada, Eliphelet.

<sup>17</sup> When the Philistines heard that David had been crowned king of Israel, they tried to capture him; but David was told that they were coming and went into the stronghold. <sup>18</sup> The Philistines arrived and spread out across the valley of Rephaim.

<sup>19</sup> Then David asked the Lord, "Shall I go out and fight against them? Will you defeat them for me?"

And the Lord replied, "Yes, go ahead, for I will give them to you."

feated them. "The Lord did it!" he exclaimed. "He burst through my enemies like a raging flood." So he named the place "Bursting." <sup>21</sup> At that time David and his troops confiscated many idols which had been abandoned by the Philistines. <sup>22</sup> But the Philistines returned and again spread out across the valley of Rephaim.

<sup>24</sup> When you hear a sound like marching feet in the tops of the balsam trees, attack! For it will signify that the Lord has prepared the way for you and will destroy them."

<sup>25</sup> So David did as the Lord had instructed him and destroyed the Philistines all the way from Geba to Gezer.

6 THEN DAVID MOBILIZED thirty thousand special troops and led them to Baal-judah to bring home the Ark of the Lord of heaven enthroned above the cherubim. <sup>1</sup> The Ark was placed upon a new cart and taken from the hillside home of Abinadab. It was driven by Abinadab's sons, Uzzah and Ahio. <sup>2</sup> Ahio was walking in front, <sup>3</sup> and was followed by David and the other leaders of Israel, who were joyously waving branches of juniper trees and playing every sort of musical instrument before the Lord—lyres, harps, tambourines, castanets, and cymbals.

Uzzah and he killed him for doing this, so he died there beside the Ark. <sup>8</sup> David was angry at what the Lord had done, and named the spot "The Place of Wrath upon Uzzah" (which it is still called to this day).

<sup>9</sup> David was now afraid of the Lord and asked, "How can I ever bring the Ark home?" <sup>10</sup> So he decided against taking it into the City of David, but carried it instead to the home of Obed-edom, who had come from Gath. <sup>11</sup> It remained there for three months, and the Lord blessed Obed-edom and all his household.

<sup>12</sup> When David heard this, he brought the Ark to the City of David with a great celebration. <sup>13</sup> After the men who were carrying it had gone six paces, they stopped and waited so that he could sacrifice an ox and a fat lamb. <sup>14</sup> And David danced before the Lord with all his might, and was wearing priests' clothing. <sup>15</sup> So Israel brought home the Ark of the Lord with much shouting and blowing of trumpets.

<sup>17</sup> The Ark was placed inside the tent which David had prepared for it; and he sacrificed burnt offerings and peace offerings to the Lord. <sup>18</sup> Then he blessed the people in the name of the Lord of heaven, <sup>19</sup> and gave a present to everyone—men and women alike—of a loaf of bread, some wine, and a cake of raisins. When it was all over, and everyone had gone home, <sup>20</sup> David returned to bless his family.

But Michal came out to meet him and exclaimed in disgust, "How glorious the king of Israel looked today! He exposed himself to the girls along the street like a common pervert!"

<sup>21</sup> David retorted, "I was dancing before the Lord who chose me above your father and his family and who appointed me as leader of Israel, the people of the Lord! So I am willing to act like a fool in order to show my joy in the Lord. <sup>22</sup> Yes, and I am willing to look even more foolish than this, but I will be respected by the girls of whom you spoke!"

7 WHEN THE LORD finally sent peace upon the land, and Israel was no longer at war with the surrounding nations, <sup>2</sup> David said to Nathan the prophet, "Look! Here I am living in this beautiful cedar palace while the Ark of God is out in a tent!"

<sup>4</sup> But that night the Lord said to Nathan, <sup>5</sup> "Tell my servant David not to do it!" <sup>6</sup> For I have never lived in a temple. My home has been a tent ever since the time I brought Israel out of Egypt. <sup>7</sup> And I have never once complained to Israel's leaders, the shepherds of my people. Have I ever asked them, 'Why a Literally, "David was girded with a linen ephod," a house to dwell in?"

a Literally, "Shall you build me haven't you built me a beautiful cedar temple?"

<sup>8</sup> "Now go and give this message to David from the Lord of heaven: 'I chose you to be the leader of my people Israel when you were a mere shepherd, tending your sheep in the pastureland. <sup>9</sup> I have been with you wherever you have gone and have destroyed your enemies. And I will make your name greater yet, so that you will be one of the most famous men in the world! <sup>10,11</sup> I have selected a homeland for my people from which they will never have to move. It will be their own land where the heathen nations won't bother them as they did when the judges ruled my people. There will be no more wars against you; and your descendants shall rule this land for generations to come! <sup>12</sup> For when you die, I will put one of your sons upon your throne and I will make his kingdom strong. <sup>13</sup> He is the one who shall build me a temple. And I will continue his kingdom into eternity. <sup>14</sup> I will be his father and he shall be my son. If he sins, I will use other nations to punish him, <sup>15</sup> but my love and kindness shall not leave him as I took it from Saul, your predecessor. <sup>16</sup> Your family shall rule my kingdom forever.'"

<sup>18</sup> Then David went into the Tabernacle and sat before the Lord and prayed, "O Lord God, why have you showered your blessings on such an insignificant person as I am? <sup>19</sup> And now, in addition to everything else, you speak of giving me an eternal dynasty! Such generosity is far beyond any human standard! Oh, Lord God! <sup>20</sup> What can I say? For you know what I am like! <sup>21</sup> You are doing all these things just because you promised to and because you want to! <sup>22</sup> How great you are, Lord God! We have never heard of any other god like you. And there is no other god. <sup>23</sup> What other nation in all the earth has received such blessings as Israel, your people? For you have rescued your chosen nation in order to bring glory to your name. You have done great miracles to destroy Egypt and its gods. <sup>24</sup> You chose Israel to be your people forever, and you became our God.

<sup>25</sup> "And now, Lord God, do as you have promised concerning me and my family. <sup>26</sup> And may you be eternally honored when you have established Israel as your people and have established my dynasty before you. <sup>27</sup> For you have revealed to me, O Lord of heaven, God of Israel, that I am the first of a dynasty which will rule your people forever; that is why I have been bold enough to pray this prayer of acceptance. <sup>28</sup> For you are indeed God, and your words are truth; and you have promised me these good things— <sup>29</sup> so do as you have promised! Bless me and my family forever! May our dynasty continue on and on before you; for you, Lord God, have promised it.

8 AFTER THIS DAVID subdued and humbled the Philistines by conquering Gath, their largest city. <sup>2</sup> He also devastated the land of Moab. He divided his victims by making them lie down side by side in rows. Two-thirds of each row, as measured with a tape, were butchered, and one-third were spared to become David's servants—they paid him tribute each year.

ley of Salt, <sup>14</sup> and then placed garrisons throughout Edom, so that the entire nation was forced to pay tribute to Israel—another example of the way the Lord made him victorious wherever he went.

<sup>15</sup> David reigned with justice over Israel and was fair to everyone. <sup>16</sup> The general of his army was Joab (son of Zeruiah), and his secretary of state was Jehoshaphat (son of Ahilud). <sup>17</sup> Zadok (son of Ahitub) and Ahimelech (son of Abiathar) were the High Priests, and Seraiah was the king's private secretary. <sup>18</sup> Benaiah (son of Jehoiada) was captain of his bodyguard,<sup>b</sup> and David's sons were his assistants.<sup>c</sup>

9 ONE DAY DAVID began wondering if any of Saul's family was still living, for he wanted to be kind to them, as he had promised Prince Jonathan. <sup>2</sup> He heard about a man named Ziba who had been one of Saul's servants, and summoned him.

"Are you Ziba?" the king asked.

"Yes, sir, I am," he replied.

<sup>3</sup> The king then asked him, "Is anyone left from Saul's family? If so, I want to fulfill a sacred vow by being kind to him."

"Yes," Ziba replied, "Jonathan's lame son is still alive."

<sup>4</sup> "Where is he?" the king asked.

"In Lo-debar," Ziba told him.

"At the home of Machir."

<sup>7</sup> But David said, "Don't be afraid! I've asked you to come so that I can be kind to you because of my vow to your father Jonathan. I will restore to you all the land of your grandfather Saul, and you shall live here at the palace!"

<sup>8</sup> Mephibosheth fell to the ground before the king. "Should the king show kindness to a dead dog like me?" he exclaimed.

<sup>9</sup> Then the king summoned Saul's servant Ziba. "I have given your master's grandson everything that belonged to Saul and his family," he said. <sup>10,11</sup> "You and your sons and servants are to farm the land for him, to produce food for his family; but he will live here with me."

Ziba, who had fifteen sons and twenty servants, replied, "Sir, I will do all that you have commanded."

And from that time on, Mephibosheth ate regularly with King David, as though he were one of his own sons. <sup>12</sup> Mephibosheth had a young son, Mica. All the household of Ziba became Mephibosheth's servants, <sup>13</sup> but Mephibosheth (who was lame in both feet) moved to Jerusalem to live at the palace.

10 SOME TIME AFTER this the Ammonite king died and his son Hanun replaced him.

<sup>2</sup> "I am going to show special respect for him," David said, "because his father Nahash was always so loyal and kind to me." So David sent ambassadors to express regrets to Hanun about his father's death.

<sup>3</sup> But Hanun's officers told him, "These men aren't here to honor your father! David has sent them to spy out the city before attacking it!"

<sup>6</sup> Now the people of Ammon realized how seriously they had angered David, so they hired twenty thousand Syrian mercenaries from the lands of Rehob and Zobah, one thousand from the king of Maacah, and ten thousand from the land of Tob. <sup>7</sup> When David heard about this, he sent Joab and the entire Israeli army to attack them. The Ammonites defended the gates of their city while the Syrians from Zobah, Rehob, Tob, and Maacah fought in the fields. <sup>8</sup> When Joab realized that he would have to fight on two fronts, he selected the best fighters in his army, placed them under his personal command, and took them out to fight the Syrians in the fields. <sup>10</sup> He left the rest of the army to his brother Abishai, who was to attack the city.

<sup>11</sup> "If I need assistance against the Syrians, come out and help me," Joab instructed him. "And if the Ammonites are too strong for you, I will come and help you. <sup>12</sup> Courage! We must really act like men today if we are going to save our people and the cities of our God. May the Lord's will be done."

<sup>13</sup> And when Joab and his troops attacked, the Syrians began to run away. <sup>14</sup> Then, when the Ammonites saw the Syrians running, they ran too, and retreated into the city.

Afterwards Joab returned to Jerusalem. <sup>15,16</sup> The Syrians now realized that they were no match for Israel. So when they regrouped, they were joined by additional Syrian troops summoned by Hadadezer from the other side of the Euphrates River. These troops arrived at Helam under the command of Shobach, the commander-in-chief of all of Hadadezer's forces.

<sup>17</sup> When David heard what was happening, he personally led the Israeli army to Helam, where the Syrians attacked him. <sup>18</sup> But again the Syrians fled from the Israelis, this time leaving seven hundred charioteers dead on the field, also forty thousand cavalymen, including General Shobach. <sup>19</sup> When Hadadezer's allies saw that the Syrians had been defeated, they surrendered to David and became his servants. And the Syrians were afraid to help the Ammonites anymore after that.

11 IN THE SPRING of the following year, at the time when wars begin, David sent Joab and the Israeli army to destroy the Ammonites. They began by laying siege to the city of Rabbah. But David stayed in Jerusalem.

<sup>2</sup> One night he couldn't get to sleep<sup>a</sup> and went for a stroll on the roof of the palace. As he looked out over the city, he noticed a woman of unusual beauty taking her evening bath. <sup>3</sup> He sent to find out who she was and was told that she was Bath-sheba, the daughter of Eliam and the wife of Uriah. <sup>4</sup> Then David sent for her and when she came he slept with her. (She had just completed the purification rites after menstruation.) Then she returned home. <sup>5</sup> When she found that he had gotten her pregnant she sent a message to inform him.

<sup>6</sup> So David dispatched a memo to Joab: "Send me Uriah the Hittite." <sup>7</sup> When he arrived, David asked him how Joab and the army were getting along and how the war was prospering. <sup>8</sup> Then he told him to go home and relax, and he sent a present to him at his home. <sup>9</sup> But Uriah didn't go there. He stayed that night at the gateway of the palace with the other servants of the king.

<sup>10</sup> When David heard what Uriah had done, he summoned him and asked him, "What's the matter with you? Why didn't you go home to your wife last night after being away for so long?"

<sup>11</sup> Uriah replied, "The Ark and the armies and the general and his officers are camping out in open fields, and should I go home to wine and dine and sleep with my wife? I swear that I will never be guilty of acting like that."

So Uriah stayed around the palace. <sup>13</sup> David invited him to dinner and got him drunk; but even so he didn't go home that night, but again he slept at the entry to the palace.

—and then pull back and leave him there to die! <sup>16</sup> So Joab assigned Uriah to a spot close to the besieged city where he knew that the enemies' best men were fighting; <sup>17</sup> and Uriah was killed along with several other Israeli soldiers.

<sup>18</sup> When Joab sent a report to David of how the battle was going, <sup>19,20,21</sup> he told his messenger, "If the king is angry and asks, 'Why did the troops go so close to the city? Didn't they know there would be shooting from the walls? Wasn't Abimelech killed at Thebez by a woman who threw down a millstone on him?'—then tell him, 'Uriah was killed, too.'"

<sup>23</sup> "The enemy came out against us," he said, "and as we chased them back to the city gates, <sup>24</sup> the men on the wall attacked us; and some of our men were killed, and Uriah the Hittite is dead too."

<sup>25</sup> "Well, tell Joab not to be discouraged," David said. "The sword kills one as well as another!<sup>b</sup> Fight harder next time, and conquer the city; tell him he is doing well."

<sup>26</sup> When Bath-sheba heard that her husband was dead, she mourned for him; <sup>27</sup> then, when the period of mourning was over, David sent for her and brought her to the palace and she became one of his wives; and she gave birth to his son. But the Lord was very displeased with what David had done.

12 SO THE LORD sent the prophet Nathan to tell David this story:

"There were two men in a certain city, one very rich, owning many flocks of sheep and herds of goats; <sup>1</sup> and the other very poor, owning nothing but a little lamb he had managed to buy. It was his children's pet and he fed it from his own plate and let it drink from his own cup; he cuddled it in his arms like a baby daughter. <sup>2</sup> Recently a guest arrived at the home of the rich man. But instead of killing a lamb from his own flocks for food for the traveler, he took the poor man's lamb and roasted it and served it."

<sup>3</sup> David was furious. "I swear by the living God," he vowed, "any man who would do a thing like that should be put to death; <sup>4</sup> he shall repay four lambs to the poor man for the one he stole, and for having no pity."

<sup>5</sup> Then Nathan said to David, "You are that rich man! The Lord God of Israel says, 'I made you king of Israel and saved you from the power of Saul. <sup>6</sup> I gave you his palace and his wives and the kingdoms of Israel and Judah; and if that had not been enough, I would have given you much, much more. <sup>7</sup> Why, then, have you despised the laws of God and done this horrible deed? For you have murdered Uriah and stolen his wife. <sup>8</sup> Therefore murder shall be a constant threat in your family from this time on, because you have insulted me by taking Uriah's wife. <sup>9</sup> I vow that because of what you have done I will cause your own household to rebel against you. I will give your wives to another man, and he will go to bed with them in public view.<sup>a</sup> <sup>12</sup> You did it secretly, but I will do this to you openly, in the sight of all Israel.' ”

Then Nathan replied, “Yes, but the Lord has forgiven you, and you won't die for this sin. <sup>14</sup> But you have given great opportunity to the enemies of the Lord to despise and blaspheme him, so your child shall die.”

<sup>15</sup> Then Nathan returned to his home. And the Lord made Bathsheba's baby deathly sick. <sup>16</sup> David begged him to spare the child, and went without food and lay all night before the Lord on the bare earth. <sup>17</sup> The leaders of the nation pleaded with him to get up and eat with them, but he refused. <sup>18</sup> Then, on the seventh day, the baby died. David's aides were afraid to tell him.

“He was so broken up about the baby being sick,” they said, “what will he do to himself when we tell him the child is dead?”

“Is the baby dead?” he asked.

“Yes,” they replied, “he is.”

<sup>20</sup> Then David got up off the ground, washed himself, brushed his hair, changed his clothes, and went into the Tabernacle and worshiped the Lord. Then he returned to the palace and ate. <sup>21</sup> His aides were amazed.

“We don't understand you,” they told him. “While the baby was still living, you wept and refused to eat; but now that the baby is dead, you have stopped your mourning and are eating again.”

<sup>22</sup> David replied, “I fasted and wept while the child was alive, for I said, ‘Perhaps the Lord will be gracious to me and let the child live.’ ” <sup>23</sup> But why should I fast when he is dead? Can I bring him back again? I shall go to him, but he shall not return to me.”

<sup>29,30</sup> So David led his army to Rabbah and captured it. Tremendous amounts of loot were carried back to Jerusalem, and David took the king of Rabbah's crown—a $50,000 treasure made from solid gold set with gems—and placed it on his own head. <sup>31</sup> He made slaves of the people of the city and made them labor with saws, picks, and axes and work in the brick kilns;<sup>e</sup> that is the way he treated all of the cities of the Ammonites. Then David and the army returned to Jerusalem.

13 PRINCE ABSALOM, DAVID'S son, had a beautiful sister named Tamar. And Prince Amnon (her half brother) fell desperately in love with her. <sup>2</sup> Amnon became so tormented by his love for her that he became ill. He had no way of talking to her, for the girls and young men were kept strictly apart.<sup>a</sup> <sup>3</sup> But Amnon had a very crafty friend—his cousin Jonadab (the son of David's brother Shimeah).

<sup>4</sup> One day Jonadab said to Amnon, "What's the trouble? Why should the son of a king look so haggard morning after morning?"

So Amnon told him, "I am in love with Tamar, my half sister."

<sup>5</sup> "Well," Jonadab said, "I'll tell you what to do. Go back to bed and pretend you are sick; when your father comes to see you, ask him to let Tamar come and prepare some food for you. Tell him you'll feel better if she feeds you."

<sup>6</sup> So Amnon did. And when the king came to see him, Amnon asked him for this favor—that his sister Tamar be permitted to come and cook a little something for him to eat. <sup>7</sup> David agreed, and sent word to Tamar to go to Amnon's quarters and prepare some food for him. <sup>8</sup> So she did, and went into his bedroom so that he could watch her mix some dough; then she baked some special bread for him. <sup>9</sup> But when she set the serving tray before him, he refused to eat!

"Everyone get out of here," he told his servants; so they all left the apartment.

<sup>10</sup> Then he said to Tamar, "Now bring me the food again here in my bedroom and feed it to me." So Tamar took it to him. <sup>11</sup> But as she was standing there before him, he grabbed her and demanded, "Come to bed with me, my darling."

<sup>12</sup> "Oh, Amnon," she cried. "Don't be foolish! Don't do this to me! You know what a serious crime it is in Israel.<sup>b</sup> <sup>13</sup> Where could I go in my shame? And you would be called one of the greatest fools in Israel. Please, just speak to the king about it, for he will let you marry me."

<sup>14</sup> But he wouldn't listen to her; and since he was stronger than she, he forced her. <sup>15</sup> Then suddenly his love turned to hate, and now he hated her more than he had loved her.

"Get out of here!" he snarled at her.

<sup>16</sup> "No, no!" she cried. "To reject me now is a greater crime than the other you did to me."

But he wouldn't listen to her. <sup>17,18</sup> He shouted for his valet and demanded, "Throw this woman out and lock the door behind her."

So he put her out. She was wearing a long robe with sleeves, as was the custom in those days for virgin daughters of the king. <sup>19</sup> Now she tore the robe and put ashes on her head and with her head in her hands went away crying.

a Literally, "for she was a virgin, and it seemed impossible to Amnon to do anything to her."

b Literally, "No such thing ought to be done in Israel; do not this folly."

<sup>20</sup> Her brother Absalom asked her, "Is it true that Amnon raped you? Don't be so upset, since it's all in the family anyway. It's not anything to worry about!"

So Tamar lived as a desolate woman in her brother Absalom's quarters.

<sup>21-24</sup> When King David heard what had happened, he was very angry, but Absalom said nothing one way or the other about this to Amnon. However, he hated him with a deep hatred because of what he had done to his sister. Then, two years later, when Absalom's sheep were being sheared at Baal-hazor in Ephraim, Absalom invited his father and all his brothers to come to a feast to celebrate the occasion.

<sup>25</sup> The king replied, "No, my boy; if we all came, we would be too much of a burden on you."

Absalom pressed him, but he wouldn't come, though he sent his thanks.

<sup>26</sup> "Well, then," Absalom said, "if you can't come, how about sending my brother Amnon instead?"

"Why Amnon?" the king asked.

<sup>27</sup> Absalom kept on urging the matter until finally the king agreed, and let all of his sons attend, including Amnon.

<sup>28</sup> Absalom told his men, "Wait until Amnon gets drunk, then, at my signal, kill him! Don't be afraid. I'm the one who gives the orders around here, and this is a command. Take courage and do it!"

<sup>29,30</sup> So they murdered Amnon. Then the other sons of the king jumped on their mules and fled. As they were on the way back to Jerusalem, the report reached David: "Absalom has killed all of your sons, and not one is left alive!"

<sup>31</sup> The king jumped up, ripped off his robe, and fell prostrate to the ground. His aides also tore their clothes in horror and sorrow.

<sup>32,33</sup> But just then Jonadab (the son of David's brother Shime-ah) arrived and said, "No, not all have been killed! It was only Amnon! Absalom has been plotting this ever since Amnon raped Tamar. No, no! Your sons aren't all dead! It was only Amnon."

<sup>34</sup> (Absalom got away.) Now the watchman on the Jerusalem wall saw a great crowd coming toward the city along the road at the side of the hill.

<sup>35</sup> "See!" Jonadab told the king. "There they are now! Your sons are coming, just as I said."

<sup>36</sup> They soon arrived, weeping and sobbing, and the king and his officials wept with them. <sup>37,38,39</sup> Absalom fled to King Talmai of Geshur (the son of Ammihud) and stayed there three years. Meanwhile David, now reconciled to Amnon's death, longed day after day for fellowship with his son Absalom.

14 WHEN GENERAL JOAB realized how much the king was longing to see Absalom, <sup>2,3</sup> he sent for a woman of Tekoa who had a reputation for great wisdom and told her to ask for an appointment with the king. He told her what to say to him.

"Pretend you are in mourning," Joab instructed her. "Wear mourning clothes, and dishevel your hair as though you have been in deep sorrow for a long time."

<sup>4</sup> When the woman approached the king, she fell face downward on the floor in front of him, and cried out, "O king! Help me!"

<sup>5,6</sup> "What's the trouble?" he asked.

"I am a widow," she replied, "and my two sons had a fight out in the field, and since no one was there to part them, one of them was killed. <sup>7</sup> Now the rest of the family is demanding that I surrender my other son to them to be executed for murdering his brother. But if I do that, I will have no one left, and my husband's name will be destroyed from the face of the earth."

<sup>8</sup> "Leave it with me," the king told her, "I'll see to it that no one touches him."

<sup>9</sup> "Oh, thank you, my lord," she replied. "And I'll take the responsibility if you are criticized for helping me like this."

<sup>10</sup> "Don't worry about that!" the king replied. "If anyone objects, bring him to me; I can assure you he will never complain again!"

<sup>11</sup> Then she said, "Please swear to me by God that you won't let anyone harm my son. I want no more bloodshed."

"I vow by God," he replied, "that not a hair of your son's head shall be disturbed!"

<sup>12</sup> "Please let me ask one more thing of you!" she said.

"Go ahead," he replied. "Speak!"

for all the people of God as you have promised to do for me?" she asked. "You have convicted yourself in making this decision, because you have refused to bring home your own banished son. <sup>14</sup> All of us must die eventually; our lives are like water that is poured out on the ground—it can't be gathered up again. But God will bless you with a longer life if you will find a way to bring your son back from his exile.<sup>a</sup> <sup>15,16</sup> But I have come to plead with you for my son because my life and my son's life have been threatened, and I said to myself, 'Perhaps the king will listen to me and rescue us from those who would end our existence in Israel. <sup>17</sup> Yes, the king will give us peace again.' I know that you are like the angel of God and can discern good from evil. May God be with you."

<sup>18</sup> "I want to know one thing," the king replied.

"Yes, my lord?" she asked.

And the woman replied, "How can I deny it? Yes, Joab sent me and told me what to say. <sup>20</sup> He did it in order to place the matter before you in a different light. But you are as wise as an angel of God, and you know everything that happens!"

<sup>22</sup> Joab fell to the ground before the king and blessed him and said, "At last I know that you like me! For you have granted me this request!"

<sup>23</sup> Then Joab went to Geshur and a Or, "God does not sweep life away, but has made provision to bring back those he banishes, so that they will not be forever exiles."

brought Absalom back to Jerusalem.

<sup>24</sup> "He may go to his own quarters," the king ordered, "but he must never come here. I refuse to see him."

<sup>25</sup> Now no one in Israel was such a handsome specimen of manhood as Absalom, and no one else received such praise. <sup>26</sup> He cut his hair only once a year—and then only because it weighed three pounds and was too much of a load to carry around! <sup>27</sup> He had three sons and one daughter, Tamar, who was a very beautiful girl.

<sup>28</sup> After Absalom had been in Jerusalem for two years and had not yet seen the king, <sup>29</sup> he sent for Joab to ask him to intercede for him; but Joab wouldn't come. Absalom sent for him again, but again he refused to come.

<sup>30</sup> So Absalom said to his servants, "Go and set fire to that barley field of Joab's next to mine," and they did.

<sup>31</sup> Then Joab came to Absalom and demanded, "Why did your servants set my field on fire?"

<sup>32</sup> And Absalom replied, "Because I wanted you to ask the king why he brought me back from Geshur if he didn't intend to see me. I might as well have stayed there. Let me have an interview with the king; then if he finds that I am guilty of murder, let him execute me."

<sup>33</sup> So Joab told the king what Absalom had said. Then at last David summoned Absalom, and he came and bowed low before the king, and David kissed him.

15 ABSALOM THEN BOUGHT a magnificent chariot and chariot horses, and hired fifty footmen to run ahead of him. <sup>2</sup> He got up early every morning and went out to the gate of the city; and when anyone came to bring a case to the king for trial, Absalom called him over and expressed interest in his problem.

<sup>3</sup> He would say, "I can see that you are right in this matter; it's unfortunate that the king doesn't have anyone to assist him in hearing these cases. <sup>4</sup> I surely wish I were the judge; then anyone with a lawsuit could come to me, and I would give him justice!"

<sup>5</sup> And when anyone came to bow to him, Absalom wouldn't let him, but shook his hand instead!<sup>a</sup> <sup>6</sup> So in this way Absalom stole the hearts of all the people of Israel.

<sup>7</sup> After four years, Absalom said to the king, "Let me go to Hebron to sacrifice to the Lord in fulfillment of a vow I made to him while I was at Geshur—that if he would bring me back to Jerusalem, I would sacrifice to him."

So Absalom went to Hebron.<sup>b</sup> <sup>10</sup> But while he was there, he sent spies to every part of Israel to incite rebellion against the king. "As soon as you hear the trumpets," his message read, "you will know that Absalom has been crowned in Hebron." <sup>11</sup> He took two hundred men from Jerusalem with him as guests, but they knew nothing of his intentions. <sup>12</sup> While he was offering the sacrifice, he sent for Ahithophel, one of David's counselors who lived in Giloh. Ahithophel declared for Absalom, as did more and more others. So the conspiracy became very strong.

<sup>13</sup> A messenger soon arrived in Jerusalem to tell King David, "All Israel has joined Absalom in a conspiracy against you!"

<sup>14</sup> "Then we must flee at once or it will be too late!" was David's instant response to his men. "If we get out of the city before he arrives, both we and the city of Jerusalem will be saved."

<sup>19,20</sup> But suddenly the king turned to Ittai, the captain of the six hundred Gittites, and said to him, "What are you doing here? Go on back with your men to Jerusalem, to your king, for you are a guest in Israel, a foreigner in exile. It seems but yesterday that you arrived, and now today should I force you to wander with us, who knows where? Go on back and take your troops with you, and may the Lord be merciful to you."

<sup>21</sup> But Ittai replied, "I vow by God and by your own life that wherever you go, I will go, no matter what happens—whether it means life or death."

<sup>22</sup> So David replied, "All right, come with us." Then Ittai and his six hundred men and their families went along.

<sup>23</sup> There was deep sadness throughout the city as the king and his retinue passed by, crossed Kidron Brook, and went out into the country. <sup>24</sup> Abiathar and Zadok and the Levites took the Ark of the Covenant of God and set it down beside the road until everyone had passed. <sup>25,26</sup> Then, following David's instructions, Zadok took the Ark back into the city. "If the Lord sees fit," David said, "he will bring me back to see the Ark and the Tabernacle again. But if he is through with me, well, let him do what seems best to him."

<sup>27</sup> Then the king told Zadok, "Look, here is my plan. Return quietly to the city with your son Ahima-az and Abiathar's son Jonathan. <sup>28</sup> I will stop at the ford of the Jordan River and wait there for a message from you. Let me know what happens in Jerusalem before I disappear into the wilderness."

<sup>29</sup> So Zadok and Abiathar carried the Ark of God back into the city and stayed there.

<sup>30</sup> David walked up the road that led to the Mount of Olives, weeping as he went. His head was covered and his feet were bare as a sign of mourning. And the people who were with him covered their heads and wept as they climbed the mountain. <sup>31</sup> When someone told David that Ahithophel, his advisor, was backing Absalom, David prayed, "O Lord, please make Ahithophel give Absalom foolish advice!" <sup>32</sup> As they reached the spot at the top of the Mount of Olives where people worshiped God, David found Hushai the Archite waiting for him with torn clothing and earth upon his head.

<sup>33,34</sup> But David told him, "If you go with me, you will only be a burden; return to Jerusalem and tell Absalom, 'I will counsel you as I did your father.' Then you can frustrate and counter Ahithophel's advice." <sup>35,36</sup> Zadok and Abiathar, the priests, are there. Tell them the plans that are being made to capture me, and they will send their sons Ahima-az and Jonathan to find me and tell me what is going on."

"So David's friend Hushai returned to the city, getting there just as Absalom arrived.

And Ziba replied, "The donkeys are for your people to ride on, and the bread and summer fruit are for the young men to eat; the wine is to be taken with you into the wilderness for any who become faint."

"He stayed at Jerusalem," Ziba replied. "He said, 'Now I'll get to be king! Today I will get back the kingdom of my father, Saul.'"<sup>a</sup>

<sup>3</sup> "In that case," the king told Ziba, "I give you everything he owns."

"Thank you, thank you, sir," Ziba replied.

<sup>4</sup> As David and his party passed Bahurim, a man came out of the village cursing them. It was Shime-i, the son of Gera, a member of Saul's family. <sup>5</sup> He threw stones at the king and the king's officers and all the mighty warriors who surrounded them!

<sup>6,7</sup> "Get out of here, you murderer, you scoundrel!" he shouted at David. "The Lord is paying you back for murdering King Saul and his family; you stole his throne and now the Lord has given it to your son Absalom! At last you will taste some of your own medicine, you murderer!"

<sup>8</sup> "Why should this dead dog curse my lord the king?" Abishai demanded. "Let me go over and strike off his head!"

<sup>9</sup> "No!" the king said. "If the Lord has told him to curse me, who am I to say no? <sup>10</sup> My own son is trying to kill me, and this Benjamite is merely cursing me. Let him alone, for no doubt the Lord has told him to do it. <sup>11</sup> And perhaps the Lord will see that I am being wronged and will bless me because of these curses."

<sup>12</sup> So David and his men continued on, and Shime-i kept pace with them on a nearby hillside, cursing as he went and throwing stones at David and tossing dust into the air. <sup>13</sup> The king and all those who were with him were weary by the time they reached

Bahurim, so they stayed there awhile and rested.

"Long live the king!" he exclaimed. "Long live the king!"

<sup>17</sup> "Is this the way to treat your friend David?" Absalom asked him. "Why aren't you with him?"

<sup>18</sup> "Because I work for the man who is chosen by the Lord and by Israel," Hushai replied. <sup>19</sup> "And anyway, why shouldn't I? I helped your father and now I will help you!"

<sup>21</sup> Ahithophel told him, "Go and sleep with your father's wives, for he has left them here to keep the house. Then all Israel will know that you have insulted him beyond the possibility of reconciliation, and they will all close ranks behind you."<sup>b</sup>

<sup>22</sup> So a tent was erected on the roof of the palace where everybody could see it, and Absalom went into the tent to lie with his father's wives. <sup>23</sup> (Absalom did whatever Ahithophel told him to, just as David had; for every word Ahithophel spoke was as wise as though it had come directly from the mouth of God.)

night. <sup>23</sup> I will come upon him while he is weary and discouraged, and he and his troops will be thrown into a panic and everyone will run away; and I will kill only the king, and let all those who are with him live, and restore them to you."

"What is your opinion?" Absalom asked him. "Should we follow Ahithophel's advice? If not, speak up."

<sup>7</sup> "Well," Hushai replied, "this time I think Ahithophel has made a mistake. <sup>8</sup> You know your father and his men; they are mighty warriors and are probably as upset as a mother bear who has been robbed of her cubs. And your father is an old soldier and isn't going to be spending the night among the troops; <sup>9</sup> he has probably already hidden in some pit or cave. And when he comes out and attacks and a few of your men fall, there will be panic among your troops and everyone will start shouting that your men are being slaughtered. <sup>10</sup> Then even the bravest of them, though they have hearts of lions, will be paralyzed with fear; for all Israel knows what a mighty man your father is and how courageous his soldiers are.

<sup>11</sup> "What I suggest is that you mobilize the entire army of Israel, bringing them from as far away as Dan and Beer-sheba, so that your will have a huge force. And I think that you should personally lead the troops. <sup>12</sup> Then when we find him we can destroy his entire army so that not one of them is left alive. <sup>13</sup> And if David has escaped into some city, you will have the entire army of Israel there at your command, and we can take ropes and drag the walls of the city into the nearest valley until every stone is torn down."

<sup>14</sup> Then Absalom and all the men of Israel said, "Hushai's advice is better than Ahithophel's." For the Lord had arranged to defeat the counsel of Ahithophel, which really was the better plan, so that he could bring disaster upon Absalom! <sup>15</sup> Then Hushai reported to Zadok and Abiathar, the priests, what Ahithophel had said and what he himself had suggested instead.

<sup>16</sup> "Quick!" he told them. "Find David and urge him not to stay at the ford of the Jordan River tonight. He must go across at once into the wilderness beyond; otherwise he will die, and his entire army with him."

<sup>17</sup> Jonathan and Ahima-az had been staying at En-rogel so as not to be seen entering and leaving the city. Arrangements had been made for a servant girl to carry to them the messages they were to take to King David. <sup>18</sup> But a boy saw them leaving En-rogel to go to David, and he told Absalom about it. Meanwhile, they escaped to Bahurim where a man hid them inside a well in his backyard. <sup>19</sup> The man's wife put a cloth over the top of the well with grain on it to dry in the sun; so no one suspected they were there.

<sup>20</sup> When Absalom's men arrived and asked her if she had seen Ahima-az and Jonathan, she said they had crossed the brook and were gone. They looked for them without success and returned to Jerusalem. <sup>21</sup> Then the two men crawled out of the well and hurried on to King David. "Quick!" they told him, "cross the Jordan tonight!" And they told him how Ahithophel had advised that he be captured and killed. <sup>22</sup> So David and all the people with him went across during the night and were all on the other bank before dawn.

<sup>24</sup> David soon arrived at Mahanaim. Meanwhile, Absalom had mobilized the entire army of Israel and was leading the men across the Jordan River. <sup>25</sup> Absalom had appointed Amasa as general of the army, replacing Joab. (Amasa was Joab's second cousin; his father was Ithra, an Ishmaelite, and his mother was Abigail, the daughter of Nahash, who was the sister of Joab's mother Zeruiah.) <sup>26</sup> Absalom and the Israeli army now camped in the land of Gilead.

<sup>27</sup> When David arrived at Mahanaim, he was warmly greeted by Shobi (son of Nahash of Rabbah, an Ammonite) and Machir (son of Ammiel of Lodebar) and Barzillai (a Gileadite of Rogelim). <sup>28,29</sup> They brought him and those who were with him mats to sleep on, cooking pots, serving bowls, wheat and barley flour, parched grain, beans, lentils, honey, butter, and cheese. For they said, "You must be very tired and hungry and thirsty after your long march through the wilderness."

18 DAVID NOW APPOINTED regimental colonels and company commanders over his troops. <sup>2</sup> A third were placed under Joab's brother, Abishai (the son of Zeruiah); and a third under Ittai, the Gittite. The king planned to lead the army himself, but his men objected strongly.

<sup>3</sup> "You mustn't do it," they said, "for if we have to turn and run, and half of us die, it will make no difference to them—they will be looking only for you. You are worth ten thousand of us, and it is better that you stay here in the city and send us help if we need it."

<sup>5</sup> And the king commanded Joab, Abishai, and Ittai, "For my sake, deal gently with young Absalom." And all the troops heard the king give them this charge.

<sup>6</sup> So the battle began in the forest of Ephraim, <sup>7</sup> and the Israeli troops were beaten back by David's men. There was a great slaughter and twenty thousand men laid down their lives that day. <sup>8</sup> The battle raged all across the countryside, and more men disappeared in the forest than were killed. <sup>9</sup> During the battle Absalom came upon some of David's men and as he fled<sup>a</sup> on his mule, it went beneath the thick boughs of a great oak tree, and his hair caught in the branches. His mule went on, leaving him dangling in the air. <sup>10</sup> One of David's men saw him and told Joab.

<sup>11</sup> "What? You saw him there and didn't kill him?" Joab demanded. "I would have rewarded you handsomely and made you a commissioned officer."<sup>b</sup>

<sup>12</sup> "For a million dollars I wouldn't do it," the man replied. "We all heard the king say to you and Abishai and Ittai, 'For my sake, please don't harm young Absalom.' <sup>13</sup> And if I had betrayed the king by killing his son (and the king would certainly find out who did it), you yourself would be the first to accuse me."

<sup>14</sup> "Enough of this nonsense," Joab said. Then he took three daggers and plunged them into the heart of Absalom as he dangled alive from the oak. <sup>15</sup> Ten of Joab's young armor bearers then surrounded Absalom and finished him off. <sup>16</sup> Then Joab blew the trumpet, and his men returned from chasing the army of Israel. <sup>17</sup> They threw Absalom's body into a deep pit in the forest and piled a great heap of stones over it. And the army of Israel fled to their homes.

<sup>18</sup> (Absalom had built a monument to himself in the King's Valley, for he said, "I have no sons to carry on my name." He called it "Absalom's Monument," as it is still known today.)

<sup>19</sup> Then Zadok's son Ahima-az said, "Let me run to King David with the good news that the Lord has saved him from his enemy Absalom."

"No, we don't need you now, my boy," Joab replied. "There is no further news to send."

<sup>23</sup> "Yes, but let me go anyway," he begged.

And Joab finally said, "All right, go ahead." Then Ahima-az took a short cut across the plain and got there ahead of the man from Cush. <sup>24</sup> David was sitting at the gate of the city. When the watchman climbed the stairs to his post at the top of the wall, he saw a lone man running towards them.

<sup>25</sup> He shouted the news down to David, and the king replied, "If he is alone, he has news."

As the messenger came closer, <sup>26</sup> the watchman saw another man running towards them. He shouted down, "Here comes another one."

And the king replied, "He will have more news."

<sup>27</sup> "The first man looks like Ahima-az, the son of Zadok," the watchman said.

"He is a good man and comes with good news," the king replied.

<sup>28</sup> Then Ahima-az cried out to the king, "All is well!" He bowed low with his face to the ground and said, "Blessed be the Lord your God who has destroyed the rebels who dared to stand against you."

"When Joab told me to come, there was a lot of shouting; but I didn't know what was happening,"<sup>c</sup> Ahima-az answered.

<sup>31</sup> Then the man from Cush arrived and said, "I have good news for my lord the king. Today Jehovah has rescued you from all those who rebelled against you."

And the man replied, "May all of your enemies be as that young man is!"

<sup>33</sup> Then the king broke into tears, and went up to his room over the gate, crying as he went. "O my son Absalom, my son, my son Absalom. If only I could have died for you! O Absalom, my son, my son."

19 WORD SOON REACHED Joab that the king was weeping and mourning for Absalom. <sup>1</sup> As the people heard of the king's deep grief for his son, the joy of that day's wonderful victory was turned into deep sadness. <sup>2</sup> The entire army crept back into the city as though they were ashamed and had been beaten in battle.

my son Absalom! O Absalom my son, my son!"

<sup>5</sup> Then Joab went to the king's room and said to him, "We saved your life today and the lives of your sons, your daughters, your wives and concubines; and yet you act like this, making us feel ashamed, as though we had done something wrong. <sup>6</sup> You seem to love those who hate you, and hate those who love you. Apparently we don't mean anything to you; if Absalom had lived and all of us had died, you would be happy. <sup>7</sup> Now go out there and congratulate the troops, for I swear by Jehovah that if you don't, not a single one of them will remain here during the night; then you will be worse off than you have ever been in your entire life."

<sup>8,9,10</sup> So the king went out and sat at the city gates, and as the news spread throughout the city that he was there, everyone went to him.

Meanwhile, there was much discussion and argument going on all across the nation: "Why aren't we talking about bringing the king back?" was the great topic everywhere. "For he saved us from our enemies, the Philistines; and Absalom, whom we made our king instead, chased him out of the country, but now Absalom is dead. Let's ask David to return and be our king again."

<sup>11,12</sup> Then David sent Zadok and Abiathar the priests to say to the elders of Judah, "Why are you the last ones to reinstate the king? For all Israel is ready, and only you are holding out. Yet you are my own brothers, my own tribe, my own flesh and blood!"

<sup>13</sup> And he told them to tell

Amasa, "Since you are my nephew, may God strike me dead if I do not appoint you as commander-in-chief of my army in place of Joab."

<sup>14</sup> Then Amasa convinced all the leaders of Judah, and they responded as one man. They sent word to the king, "Return to us and bring back all those who are with you."

<sup>15</sup> So the king started back to Jerusalem. And when he arrived at the Jordan River, it seemed as if everyone in Judah had come to Gilgal to meet him and escort him across the river! <sup>16</sup> Then Shime-i (the son of Gera the Benjaminite), the man from Bahurim, hurried across with the men of Judah to welcome King David. <sup>17</sup> A thousand men from the tribe of Benjamin were with him, including Ziba, the servant of Saul, and Ziba's fifteen sons and twenty servants; they rushed down to the Jordan to arrive ahead of the king. <sup>18</sup> They all worked hard ferrying the king's household and troops across, and helped them in every way they could.

As the king was crossing, Shime-i fell down before him, <sup>19</sup> and pleaded, "My lord the king, please forgive me and forget the terrible thing I did when you left Jerusalem; <sup>20</sup> for I know very well how much I sinned. That is why I have come here today, the very first person in all the tribe of Joseph to greet you."

"Why didn't you come with me, Mephibosheth?" the king asked him.

<sup>26</sup> And he replied, "My lord, O king, my servant Ziba deceived me. I told him, 'Saddle my donkey so that I can go with the king.' For as you know I am lame. <sup>27</sup> But Ziba has slandered me by saying that I refused to come.<sup>a</sup> But I know that you are as an angel of God, so do what you think best. <sup>28</sup> I and all my relatives could expect only death from you, but instead you have honored me among all those who eat at your own table! So how can I complain?"

<sup>29</sup> "All right," David replied. "My decision is that you and Ziba will divide the land equally between you."

<sup>30</sup> "Give him all of it," Mephibosheth said. "I am content just to have you back again!"

<sup>33</sup> "Come across with me and live in Jerusalem," the king said to Barzillai. "I will take care of you there."

too old for that. <sup>35</sup> I am eighty years old today, and life has lost its excitement.<sup>b</sup> Food and wine are no longer tasty, and entertainment is not much fun; I would only be a burden to my lord the king. <sup>36</sup> Just to go across the river with you is all the honor I need! <sup>37</sup> Then let me return again to die in my own city, where my father and mother are buried. But here is Chimham.<sup>c</sup> Let him go with you and receive whatever good things you want to give him."

<sup>39</sup> So all the people crossed the Jordan with the king; and after David had kissed and blessed Barzillai, he returned home. <sup>40</sup> The king then went on to Gilgal, taking Chimham with him. And most of Judah and half of Israel were there to greet him. <sup>41</sup> But the men of Israel complained to the king because only men from Judah had ferried him and his household across the Jordan.

<sup>42</sup> "Why not?" the men of Judah replied. "The king is one of our own tribe. Why should this make you angry? We have charged him nothing—he hasn't fed us or given us gifts!"

<sup>43</sup> "But there are ten tribes in Israel," the others replied, "so we have ten times as much right in the king as you do; why didn't you invite the rest of us? And, remember, we were the first to speak of bringing him back to be our king again."

The argument continued back and forth, and the men of Judah were very rough in their replies.

20 THEN A HOT-HEAD whose name was Sheba (son of Bichri, a Benjaminite) blew a trumpet and yelled, "We want nothing to do with David. Come on, you men of Israel, let's get out of here. He's not our king!"

<sup>4</sup> Then the king instructed Amasa to mobilize the army of Judah within three days and to report back at that time. <sup>5</sup> So Amasa went out to notify the troops, but it took him longer than the three days he had been given.

<sup>6</sup> Then David said to Abishai, "That fellow Sheba is going to hurt us more than Absalom did. Quick, take my bodyguard and chase after him before he gets into a fortified city where we can't reach him."

<sup>7</sup> So Abishai and Joab set out after Sheba with an elite guard from Joab's army and the king's own bodyguard. <sup>8,9,10</sup> As they arrived at the great stone in Gibeon, they came face to face with Amasa. Joab was wearing his uniform with a dagger strapped to his side. As he stepped forward to greet Amasa, he stealthily slipped the dagger from its sheath. "I'm glad to see you, my brother," Joab said, and took him by the beard with his right hand as though to kiss him. Amasa didn't notice the dagger in his left hand, and Joab stabbed him in the stomach with it, so that his bowels gushed out onto the ground. He did not need to strike again, and he died there. Joab and his brother Abishai left him lying there and continued after Sheba.

<sup>12</sup> But Amasa lay in his blood in the middle of the road, and when Joab's young officers saw that a crowd was gathering around to stare at him, they dragged him off the road into a field and threw a garment over him. <sup>13</sup> With the body out of the way, everyone went on with Joab to capture Sheba.

<sup>16</sup> But a wise woman in the city called out to Joab, "Listen to me, Joab. Come over here so I can talk to you."

<sup>17</sup> As he approached, the woman asked, "Are you Joab?"

And he replied, "I am."

<sup>18</sup> So she told him, "There used to be a saying, 'If you want to settle an argument, ask advice at Abel.' For we always give wise counsel.

<sup>19</sup> You are destroying an ancient, peace-loving city, loyal to Israel. Should you destroy what is the Lord's?"

<sup>20</sup> And Joab replied, "That isn't it at all. <sup>21</sup> All I want is a man named Sheba from the hill country of Ephraim, who has revolted against King David. If you will deliver him to me, we will leave the city in peace."

"All right," the woman replied, "we will throw his head over the wall to you."

<sup>22</sup> Then the woman went to the people with her wise advice, and they cut off Sheba's head and threw it out to Joab. And he blew the trumpet and called his troops back from the attack, and they returned to the king at Jerusalem.

<sup>24</sup> Adoram was in charge of the forced labor battalions, and Jehoshaphat was the historian who kept the records. <sup>25</sup> Sheva was the secretary, and Zadok and Abiathar were the chief priests. <sup>26</sup> Ira the Jairite was David's personal chaplain.

21 THERE WAS A famine during David's reign that lasted year after year for three years, and David spent much time in prayer about it. Then the Lord said, "The famine is because of the guilt of Saul and his family, for they murdered the Gibeonites."

nation of the Amorites. Israel had sworn not to kill them; but Saul, in his nationalistic zeal, had tried to wipe them out.

<sup>2</sup> David asked them, "What can I do for you, to rid ourselves of this guilt and to induce you to ask God to bless us?"

<sup>3</sup> "Well, money won't do it," the Gibeonites replied, "and we don't want to see Israelites executed in revenge."

"What can I do, then?" David asked. "Just tell me and I will do it for you."

<sup>4,5</sup> "Well, then," they replied, "give us seven of Saul's sons—the sons of the man who did his best to destroy us. We will hang them before the Lord in Gibeon, the city of King Saul."

"All right," the king said, "I will do it."

<sup>7</sup> He spared Jonathan's son Mephibosheth, who was Saul's grandson, because of the oath between himself and Jonathan. <sup>8</sup> But he gave them the two sons of Rizpah—Armoni and Mephibosheth—who were grandsons of Saul by his wife Aiah. He also gave them the five adopted sons of Michal that she brought up for Saul's daughter Merab, the wife of Adriel. <sup>9</sup> The men of Gibeon impaled them in the mountain before the Lord. So all seven of them died together at the beginning of the barley harvest.

at their bodies during the day and the wild animals from eating them at night. <sup>11</sup> When David learned what she had done, <sup>12,13,14</sup> he arranged for the men's bones to be buried in the grave of Saul's father, Kish. At the same time he sent a request to the men of Jabesh-gilead, asking them to bring him the bones of Saul and Jonathan. They had stolen their bodies from the public square at Beth-shan where the Philistines had impaled them after they had died in battle on Mount Gilboa. So their bones were brought to him. Then at last God answered prayer and ended the famine.

<sup>15</sup> Once when the Philistines were at war with Israel, and David and his men were in the thick of the battle, David became weak and exhausted. <sup>16</sup> Ishbi-benob, a giant whose speartip weighed more than twelve pounds and who was sporting a new suit of armor, closed in on David and was about to kill him. <sup>17</sup> But Abishai the son of Zeruiah came to his rescue and killed the Philistine. After that David's men declared, "You are not going out to battle again! Why should we risk snuffing out the light of Israel?"

vid's nephew Jonathan—the son of David's brother Shime-i—killed him. <sup>22</sup> These four were from the tribe of giants in Gath, and were killed by David's troops.

22 DAVID SANG THIS song to the Lord after he had rescued him from Saul and from all his other enemies:

My fortress and my Savior.

<sup>3</sup> I will hide in God,
Who is my rock and my refuge.

He is my shield
And my salvation,
My refuge and high tower.
Thank you, O my Savior,
For saving me from all my enemies.

<sup>4</sup> I will call upon the Lord,
Who is worthy to be praised;
He will save me from all my enemies.

<sup>5</sup> The waves of death surrounded me;
Floods of evil burst upon me;

<sup>6</sup> I was trapped, and bound
By hell and death;

<sup>7</sup> But I called upon the Lord in my distress,
And he heard me from his Temple.

My cry reached his ears.

<sup>8</sup> Then the earth shook and trembled;
The foundations of the heavens quaked
Because of his wrath.

<sup>9</sup> Smoke poured from his nostrils;
Fire leaped from his mouth
And burned up all before

him,
 Setting fire to the world.<sup>a</sup> <sup>10</sup> He bent the heavens down and came to earth;
 He walked upon dark clouds.
<sup>11</sup> He rode upon the glorious—
 On the wings of the wind.
<sup>12</sup> Darkness surrounded him,
 And clouds were thick
 around him;
<sup>13</sup> The earth was radiant with his brightness.
<sup>14</sup> The Lord thundered from heaven;
 The God above all gods gave out a mighty shout.
<sup>15</sup> He shot forth his arrows of lightning
 And routed his enemies.
<sup>16</sup> By the blast of his breath
 Was the sea split in two.
 The bottom of the sea appeared.
<sup>17</sup> From above, he rescued me.
 He drew me out from the waters;
<sup>18</sup> He saved me from powerful enemies,
 From those who hated me
 And from those who were too strong for me.
<sup>19</sup> They came upon me
 In the day of my calamity,
 But the Lord was my salvation.
<sup>20</sup> He set me free and rescued
 me,
 For I was his delight.
<sup>21</sup> The Lord rewarded me for my goodness,
 For my hands were clean;
<sup>22</sup> And I have not departed from my God.

<sup>23</sup> I knew his laws,
 And I obeyed them.
<sup>24</sup> I was perfect in obedience
 And kept myself from sin.
<sup>25</sup> That is why the Lord has done so much for me,
 For he sees that I am clean.
<sup>26</sup> You are merciful to the merciful;
 You show your perfections
 To the blameless.
<sup>27</sup> To those who are pure,
 You show yourself pure;
 But you destroy those who are evil.
<sup>28</sup> You will save those in trouble,
 But you bring down the haughty;
 For you watch their every move.
<sup>29</sup> O Lord, you are my light!
 You make my darkness bright.
<sup>30</sup> By your power I can crush an army;
 By your strength I leap over a wall.
<sup>31</sup> As for God, his way is perfect;
 The word of the Lord is true.
 He shields all who hide behind him.
<sup>32</sup> Our Lord alone is God;
 We have no other Savior.<sup>b</sup>
<sup>33</sup> God is my strong fortress;
 He has made me safe.
<sup>34</sup> He causes the good to walk a steady tread
 Like mountain goats upon the rocks.
<sup>35</sup> He gives me skill in war
 And strength to bend a bow

of bronze.

<sup>36</sup> You have given me the shield of your salvation;
Your gentleness has made me great.

<sup>37</sup> You have made wide steps for my feet,
To keep them from slipping.

<sup>38</sup> I have chased my enemies
And destroyed them.
I did not stop till all were gone.

<sup>39</sup> I have destroyed them
So that none can rise again.
They have fallen beneath my feet.

<sup>40</sup> For you have given me strength for the battle
And have caused me to subdue
All those who rose against me.

<sup>41</sup> You have made my enemies

Turn and run away;
I have destroyed them all.

<sup>42</sup> They looked in vain for help;

They cried to God,
But he refused to answer.

<sup>43</sup> I beat them into dust;
I crushed and scattered them
Like dust along the streets.

<sup>44</sup> You have preserved me
From the rebels of my people;

You have preserved me
As the head of the nations.
Foreigners shall serve me

<sup>45</sup> And shall quickly submit to me
When they hear of my power.

<sup>46</sup> They shall lose heart
And come, trembling,
From their hiding places.

<sup>47</sup> The Lord lives.
Blessed be my Rock.
Praise to him—

The Rock of my salvation.

<sup>48</sup> Blessed be God

Who destroys those who oppose me

<sup>49</sup> And rescues me from my enemies.

Yes, you hold me safe above their heads.

You deliver me from violence.

And sing praises to your name.

<sup>51</sup> He gives wonderful deliverance to his king,

And shows mercy to his anointed—

To David and his family,
Forever.”

23 THESE ARE THE last words of David: “David, the son of Jesse, speaks.

David, the man to whom God gave such wonderful success;

David, the anointed of the God of Jacob;

David, sweet psalmist of Israel:

<sup>2</sup> The Spirit of the Lord spoke by me,

And his word was on my tongue.

<sup>3</sup> The Rock of Israel said to me:

“One shall come who rules righteously,

Who rules in the fear of God.

<sup>4</sup> He shall be as the light of the morning;

A cloudless sunrise
When the tender grass
Springs forth upon the earth;
As sunshine after rain.<sup>1</sup>

<sup>2</sup> And it is my family
He has chosen!
Yes, God has made An everlasting covenant with me;

His agreement is eternal, final, sealed.

He will constantly look after My safety and success.<sup>a</sup>

<sup>6</sup> But the godless are as thorns to be thrown away,
For they tear the hand that touches them.

<sup>7</sup> One must be armed to chop them down;

They shall be burned.<sup>8</sup>

<sup>9</sup> These are the names of the Top Three—the most heroic men in David's army: the first was Josheb-bashebeth from Tah-chemon, known also as Adino, the Eznite. He once killed eight hundred men in one battle.

<sup>9</sup> Next in rank was Eleazar, the son of Dodo and grandson of Ahohi.
He was one of the three men who, with David, held back the Philistines that time when the rest of the Israeli army fled.<sup>10</sup>
He killed the Philistines until his hand was too tired to hold his sword; and the Lord gave him a great victory. (The rest of the army did not return until it was time to collect the loot!)

<sup>11,12</sup> After him was Shammah, the son of Agee from Harar. Once during a Philistine attack, when all his men deserted him and fled, he stood alone at the center of a field of lentils and beat back the Philistines;

and God gave him a great victory.

<sup>13</sup> One time when David was living in the cave of Adullam and the invading Philistines were at the valley of Rephaim, three of The Thirty—the top-ranking officers of the Israeli army—went down at harvest time to visit him. <sup>14</sup> David was in the stronghold at the time, for Philistine marauders had occupied the nearby city of Bethlehem.

<sup>15</sup> David remarked, "How thirsty
I am for some of that good water in the city well!" (The well was near the city gate.)

<sup>16</sup> So the three men broke through the Philistine ranks and drew water from the well and brought it to David. But he refused to drink it! Instead, he poured it out before the Lord.

<sup>17</sup> "No, my God," he exclaimed, "I cannot do it! This is the blood of these men who have risked their lives."

<sup>18,19</sup> Of those three men, Abishai, the brother of Joab (son of Zeruiah), was the greatest. Once he took on three hundred of the enemy singlehanded and killed them all. It was by such feats that he earned a reputation equal to The Three, though he was not actually one of them. But he was the greatest of The Thirty—the top-ranking officers of the army—and was their leader.

<sup>20</sup> There was also Benaiah (son of Jehoiada), a heroic soldier from Kabzeel. Benaiah killed two giants,<sup>b</sup> sons of Ariel of Moab. An-<sup>a</sup> Literally, "He will cause my help and my desire to sprout."

Hebrew wording is uncertain.

other time he went down into a pit and, despite the slippery snow on the ground, took on a lion that was caught there and killed it. <sup>21</sup> Another time, armed only with a staff, he killed an Egyptian warrior who was armed with a spear; he wrenched the spear from the Egyptian's hand and killed him with it. <sup>22</sup> These were some of the deeds that gave Benaiah almost as much renown as the Top Three. <sup>23</sup> He was one of the greatest of The Thirty, but was not actually one of the Top Three. And David made him chief of his bodyguard.

<sup>24-29</sup> Asahel, the brother of Joab, was also one of The Thirty. Others were:

Elhanan (son of Dodo) from Bethlehem;
 Shammah from Harod;
 Erika from Harod;
 Helez from Palti;
 Ira (son of Ikkesh) from Tekoa;
 Abi-ezer from Anathoth;
 Mebunnai from Hushath;
 Zalmon from Ahoh;
 Maharai from Netophah;
 Heleb (son of Baanah) from Netophah;
 Ittai (son of Ribai) from Gibe-ah, of the tribe of Benjamin;
 Benaiah of Pirathon;
 Hiddai from the brooks of Gaash;
 Abi-albon from Arbath;
 Azmaveth from Bahurim;
 Eliahba from Sha-albon;
 The sons of Jashen;

Jonathan;
 Shammah from Harar;
 Ahiam (the son of Sharar) from Harar;
 Eliphelet (son of Ahasbai) from Maacah;

 Hezro from Carmel;
 Paarai from Arba;
 Igal (son of Nathan) from Zobah;
 Bani from Gad;
 Zelek from Ammon;

 Gareb from Ithra;
 Uriah the Hittite—thirty-seven<sup>c</sup> in all.

24 ONCE AGAIN THE anger of the Lord flared against Israel, and David was moved to harm them by taking a national census.

<sup>2</sup> The king said to Joab, commander-in-chief of his army, "Take a census of all the people from one end of the nation to the other, so that I will know how many of them there are."

<sup>3</sup> But Joab replied, "God grant that you will live to see the day when there will be a hundred times as many people in your kingdom as there are now! But you have no right to rejoice in their strength."<sup>a</sup>

<sup>4</sup> But the king's command overcame Joab's remonstrance; so Joab and the other army officers went out to count the people of Israel.

<sup>c</sup> The Thirty, plus the Top Three, plus Generals Joab, Abishai, Asahel, and Benaiah. Apparently new names were elected to this hall of fame to replace those who died.

<sup>8</sup> Having gone through the entire land, they completed their task in nine months and twenty days. <sup>9</sup> And Joab reported the number of the people to the king—800,000 men of conscription age in Israel, and 500,000 in Judah.

<sup>10</sup> But after he had taken the census, David's conscience began to bother him, and he said to the Lord, "What I did was very wrong. Please forgive this foolish wickedness of mine."

<sup>11</sup> The next morning the word of the Lord came to the prophet Gad, who was David's contact with God.

The Lord said to Gad, <sup>12</sup> "Tell David that I will give him three choices."

<sup>13</sup> So Gad came to David and asked him, "Will you choose seven years of famine across the land, or to flee for three months before your enemies, or to submit to three days of plague? Think this over and let me know what answer to give to God."

<sup>15</sup> So the Lord sent a plague upon Israel that morning, and it lasted for three days; and seventy thousand men died throughout the nation.

<sup>16</sup> But as the death angel was preparing to destroy Jerusalem, the Lord was sorry for what was happening and told him to stop. He was by the threshing floor of Araunah the Jebusite at the time.

<sup>17</sup> When David saw the angel, he said to the Lord, "Look, I am the one who has sinned! What have these sheep done? Let your anger be only against me and my family."

<sup>18</sup> That day Gad came to David and said to him, "Go and build an altar to the Lord on the threshing floor of Araunah the Jebusite." <sup>19</sup> So David went to do what the Lord had commanded him. <sup>20</sup> When Araunah saw the king and his men coming towards him, he came forward and fell flat on the ground with his face in the dust.

<sup>21</sup> "Why have you come?" Araunah asked.

And David replied, "To buy your threshing floor, so that I can build an altar to the Lord, and he will stop the plague."

<sup>22</sup> "Use anything you like," Araunah told the king. "Here are oxen for the burnt offering, and you can use the threshing instruments and ox yokes for wood to build a fire on the altar. <sup>23</sup> I will give it all to you, and may the Lord God accept your sacrifice."

<sup>24</sup> But the king said to Araunah, "No, I will not have it as a gift. I will buy it, for I don't want to offer to the Lord my God burnt offerings that have cost me nothing."

So David paid him<sup>b</sup> for the

threshing floor and the oxen.<sup>25</sup> And David built an altar there to the Lord and offered burnt offerings and peace offerings. And the Lord answered his prayer, and the plague was stopped.

1 KINGS

1 IN HIS OLD age King David was confined to his bed; but no matter how many blankets were heaped upon him, he was always cold.

<sup>2</sup> "The cure for this," his aides told him, "is to find a young virgin to be your concubine and nurse. She will lie in your arms and keep you warm."

<sup>3,4</sup> So they searched the country from one end to the other to find the most beautiful girl in all the land. Abishag, from Shunam, was finally selected. They brought her to the king and she lay in his arms to warm him (but he had no sexual relations with her).

<sup>5</sup> At about that time, David's son<sup>a</sup> Adonijah (his mother was Haggith) decided to crown himself king in place of his aged father. So he hired chariots and drivers and recruited fifty men to run down the streets before him as royal footmen.

<sup>6</sup> Now his father, King David, had never disciplined him at any time—not so much as by a single scolding! He was a very handsome man, and was Absalom's younger brother.

<sup>7</sup> He took General Joab and Abiathar the priest into his confidence, and they agreed to help him become king. <sup>8</sup> But among those who remained loyal to King David and refused to endorse Adonijah were the priests Zadok and Benaiah, the prophet Nathan, Shime-i, Rei, and David's army chiefs.

<sup>9</sup> Adonijah went to En-rogel where he sacrificed sheep, oxen, and fat young goats at the Serpent's Stone. Then he summoned all of his brothers—the other sons of King David—and all the royal officials of Judah, requesting that they come to his coronation. <sup>10</sup> But he didn't invite Nathan the prophet, Benaiah, the loyal army officers, or his brother Solomon.

<sup>11</sup> Then Nathan the prophet went to Bath-sheba, Solomon's mother, and asked her, "Do you realize that Haggith's son, Adonijah, is now the king and that our lord David doesn't even know about it?" <sup>12</sup> If you want to save your own life and the life of your son Solomon—do exactly as I say! <sup>13</sup> Go at once to King David and ask him, 'My lord, didn't you promise me that my son Solomon would be the next king and would sit upon your throne? Then why is Adonijah reigning?' <sup>14</sup> And while you are still talking with him, I'll come and confirm everything you've said."

before him.

"What do you want?" he asked her.

<sup>17</sup> She replied, "My lord, you vowed to me by the Lord your God that my son Solomon would be the next king and would sit upon your throne. <sup>18</sup> But instead, Adonijah is the new king, and you don't even know about it. <sup>19</sup> He has celebrated his coronation by sacrificing oxen, fat goats, and many sheep and has invited all your sons and Abiathar the priest and General Joab. But he didn't invite Solomon. <sup>20</sup> And now, my lord the king, all Israel is waiting for your decision as to whether Adonijah is the one you have chosen to succeed you. <sup>21</sup> If you don't act, my son Solomon and I will be arrested and executed as criminals as soon as you are dead."

Nathan came in and bowed low before the king, <sup>24</sup> and asked, "My lord, have you appointed Adonijah to be the next king? Is he the one you have selected to sit upon your throne? <sup>25</sup> Today he celebrated his coronation by sacrificing oxen and fat goats and many sheep, and has invited your sons to attend the festivities. He also invited General Joab and Abiathar the priest; and they are feasting and drinking with him and shouting, 'Long live King Adonijah!' <sup>26</sup> But Zadok the priest and Benaiah and Solomon and I weren't invited. <sup>27</sup> Has this been done with your knowledge? For you haven't said a word as to which of your sons you have chosen to be the next king."

<sup>28</sup> "Call Bath-sheba," David said. So she came back in and stood before the king.

<sup>29</sup> And the king vowed, "As the Lord lives who has rescued me from every danger, <sup>30</sup> I decree that your son Solomon shall be the next king and shall sit upon my throne, just as I swore to you before by the Lord God of Israel."

When they arrived, <sup>33</sup> he said to them, "Take Solomon and my officers to Gihon. Solomon is to ride on my personal mule, <sup>34</sup> and Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet are to anoint him there as king of Israel. Then blow the trumpets and shout, 'Long live King Solomon!' <sup>35</sup> When you bring him back here, place him upon my throne as the new king; for I have appointed him king of Israel and Judah."

<sup>36</sup> "Amen! Praise God!" replied Benaiah, and added, <sup>37</sup> "May the Lord be with Solomon as he has been with you, and may God make Solomon's reign even greater than yours!"

people shouted, "Long live King Solomon!"

<sup>40</sup> Then they all returned with him to Jerusalem, making a joyous and noisy celebration all along the way. <sup>41</sup> Adonijah and his guests heard the commotion and shouting just as they were finishing their banquet.

"What's going on?" Joab demanded. "Why is the city in such an uproar?"

<sup>42</sup> And while he was still speaking, Jonathan, the son of Abiathar the priest, rushed in.

"Come in," Adonijah said to him, "for you are a good man; you must have good news."

table and fled in panic; for they were fearful for their lives. Adonijah rushed into the Tabernacle and caught hold of the horns of the sacred altar. <sup>51</sup> When word reached Solomon that Adonijah was claiming sanctuary in the Tabernacle, and pleading for clemency, <sup>52</sup> Solomon replied, "If he behaves himself, he will not be harmed; but if he does not, he shall die." <sup>53</sup> So King Solomon summoned him, and they brought him down from the altar. He came to bow low before the king; and then Solomon curtly dismissed him.

"Go on home," he said.

2 AS THE TIME of King David's death approached, he gave this charge to his son Solomon:

<sup>2</sup> "I am going where every man on earth must some day go. I am counting on you to be a strong and worthy successor. <sup>3</sup> Obey the laws of God and follow all his ways; keep each of his commands written in the law of Moses so that you will prosper in everything you do, wherever you turn. <sup>4</sup> If you do this, then the Lord will fulfill the promise he gave me, that if my children and their descendants watch their step and are faithful to God, one of them shall always be the king of Israel—my dynasty will never end.

<sup>5</sup> "Now listen to my instructions. You know that Joab murdered my two generals, Abner and Amasa. He pretended that it was an act of war, but it was done in a time of peace. <sup>6</sup> You are a wise man and will know what to do—don't let him die in peace. <sup>7</sup> But be kind to the sons of Barzillai the Gileadite. Make them permanent guests of the king, for they took care of me when I fled from your brother Absalom. <sup>8</sup> And do you remember Shime-i, the son of Gera the Benjaminite from Bahurim? He cursed me with a terrible curse as I was going to Mahanaim; but when he came down to meet me at the Jordan River I promised I wouldn't kill him. <sup>9</sup> But that promise doesn't bind you! You are a wise man, and you will know how to arrange a bloody death for him."

<sup>13</sup> One day Adonijah the son of Haggith came to see Solomon's mother, Bath-sheba.

"Have you come to make trouble?" she asked him.

"No," he replied, "I come in peace. <sup>14</sup> As a matter of fact, I have a favor to ask of you."

"What is it?" she asked.

<sup>15</sup> "Everything was going well for me," he said, "and the kingdom was mine: everyone expected me to be the next king. But the tables are turned, and everything went to my brother instead; for that is the way the Lord wanted it. <sup>16</sup> But now I have just a small favor to ask of you; please don't turn me down."

"What is it?" she asked.

<sup>17</sup> He replied, "Speak to King Solomon on my behalf (for I know he will do anything you request) and ask him to give me Abishag, the Shunammite, as my wife."

"All right," Bath-sheba replied, "I'll ask him."

<sup>18</sup> So she went to ask the favor of King Solomon. The king stood up from his throne as she entered and bowed low to her. He ordered that a throne for his mother be placed beside his; so she sat at his right hand.

<sup>20</sup> "I have one small request to make of you," she said. "I hope you won't turn me down."

"What is it, my mother?" he asked. "You know I won't refuse you."

<sup>22</sup> "Are you crazy?" he asked her. "If I were to give him Abishag, I would be giving him the kingdom too! For he is my older brother! He and Abiathar the priest and General Joab would take over!"

<sup>23,24</sup> Then King Solomon swore with a great oath, "May God strike me dead if Adonijah does not die this very day for this plot against me! I swear it by the living God who has given me the throne of my father David and this kingdom he promised me."

<sup>26</sup> Then the king said to Abiathar the priest, "Go back to your home in Anathoth. You should be killed, too, but I won't do it now. For you carried the Ark of the Lord during my father's reign, and you suffered right along with him in all of his troubles."

<sup>27</sup> So Solomon forced Abiathar to give up his position as the priest of the Lord, thereby fulfilling the decree of Jehovah at Shiloh concerning the descendants of Eli.<sup>a</sup>

<sup>28</sup> When Joab heard about Adonijah's death (Joab had joined Adonijah's revolt, though not Absalom's) he ran to the Tabernacle for sanctuary and caught hold of the horns of the altar. <sup>29</sup> When news of this reached King Solomon, he sent Benaiah to execute him.

<sup>30</sup> Benaiah went into the Tabernacle and said to Joab, "The king says to come out!"

"No," he said, "I'll die here."

So Benaiah returned to the king for further instructions.

<sup>31</sup> "Do as he says," the king replied. "Kill him there beside the altar and bury him. This will remove the guilt of his senseless murders from me and from my father's family. <sup>32</sup> Then Jehovah will hold him personally responsible for the murders of two men who were better than he. For my father was no party to the deaths of General Abner, commander-in-chief of the army of Israel, and General Amasa, commander-in-chief of the army of Judah. <sup>33</sup> May Joab and his descendants be forever guilty of these murders, and may the Lord declare David and his descendants guiltless concerning their deaths."

<sup>35</sup> Then the king appointed Benaiah as commander-in-chief, and Zadok as priest instead of Abiathar.

<sup>36,37</sup> The king now sent for Shime-i and told him, "Build a house here in Jerusalem, and don't step outside the city on pain of death. The moment you go beyond Kidron Brook, you die; and it will be your own fault."

<sup>38</sup> "All right," Shime-i replied, "whatever you say." So he lived in Jerusalem for a long time.

<sup>39</sup> But three years later two of Shime-i's slaves escaped to King Achish of Gath. When Shime-i learned where they were, <sup>40</sup> he saddled a donkey and went to Gath to visit the king. And when he had found his slaves, he took them back to Jerusalem.

<sup>41</sup> When Solomon heard that Shime-i had left Jerusalem and had gone to Gath and returned, <sup>42</sup> he sent for him and demanded, "Didn't I command you in the name of God to stay in Jerusalem or die? You replied, 'Very well, I will do as you say.' <sup>43</sup> Then why have you not kept your agreement and obeyed my commandment? <sup>44</sup> And what about all the wicked things you did to my father, King David? May the Lord take revenge on you, <sup>45</sup> but may I receive God's rich blessings, and may one of David's descendants always sit upon this throne."

So Solomon's grip upon the kingdom became secure.

3 SOLOMON MADE AN alliance with Pharaoh, the king of Egypt, and married one of his daughters. He brought her to Jerusalem to live in the City of David until he could finish building his palace and the Temple and the wall

<sup>6</sup> Solomon replied, "You were wonderfully kind to my father David because he was honest and true and faithful to you, and obeyed your commands. And you have continued your kindness to him by giving him a son to succeed him." <sup>7</sup> O Lord my God, now you have made me the king instead of my father David, but I am as a little child who doesn't know his way around. <sup>8</sup> And here I am among your own chosen people, a nation so great that there are almost too many people to count! <sup>9</sup> Give me an understanding mind so that I can govern your people well and know the difference between what is right and what is wrong. For who by himself is able to carry such a heavy responsibility?"

<sup>10</sup> The Lord was pleased with his reply and was glad that Solomon had asked for wisdom. <sup>11</sup> So he replied, "Because you have asked for wisdom in governing my people, and haven't asked for a long life or riches for yourself, or the defeat of your enemies— <sup>12</sup> yes, I'll give you what you asked for! I will give you a wiser mind than anyone else has ever had or ever will have! <sup>13</sup> And I will also give you what you didn't ask for—riches and honor! And no one in all the world will be as rich and famous as you for the rest of your life! <sup>14</sup> And I will give you a long life if you follow me and obey my laws as your father David did."

<sup>15</sup> Then Solomon woke up and realized it had been a dream. He returned to Jerusalem and went into the Tabernacle. And as he stood before the Ark of the Covenant of the Lord, he sacrificed burnt offerings and peace offerings. Then he invited all of his officials to a great banquet.

<sup>16</sup> Soon afterwards two young prostitutes came to the king to have an argument settled.

<sup>17,18</sup> "Sir," one of them began, "we live in the same house, just the two of us, and recently I had a baby. When it was three days old, this woman's baby was born too. <sup>19</sup> But her baby died during the night when she rolled over on it in her sleep and smothered it. <sup>20</sup> Then she got up in the night and took my son from beside me while I was asleep, and laid her dead child in my arms and took mine to sleep beside her. <sup>21</sup> And in the morning when I tried to feed my baby it was dead! But when it became light outside, I saw that it wasn't my son at all."

<sup>22</sup> Then the other woman interrupted, "It certainly was her son, and the living child is mine."

"No," the first woman said, "the dead one is yours and the living one is mine." And so they argued back and forth before the king.

<sup>23</sup> Then the king said, "Let's get the facts straight: both of you claim the living child, and each says that the dead child belongs to the other."

<sup>24</sup> All right, bring me a sword." So a sword was brought to the king.

<sup>25</sup> Then he said, "Divide the living child in two and give half to each of these women!"

<sup>26</sup> Then the woman who really was the mother of the child, and who loved him very much, cried out, "Oh, no, sir! Give her the child—don't kill him!"

But the other woman said, "All right, it will be neither yours nor mine; divide it between us!"

<sup>27</sup> Then the king said, "Give the baby to the woman who wants him to live, for she is the mother!"

<sup>28</sup> Word of the king's decision spread quickly throughout the entire nation, and all the people were awed as they realized the great wisdom God had given him.

4 HERE IS A list of King Solomon's cabinet members:

Azariah (son of Zadok) was the High Priest;

Elihoreph and Ahijah (sons of Shisha) were secretaries;

Jehoshaphat (son of Ahilud) was the official historian and in charge of the archives;

Benaiah (son of Jehoiada) was commander-in-chief of the army;

Zadok and Abiathar were priests;

Azariah (son of Nathan) was secretary of state;

Zabud (son of Nathan) was the king's personal priest and special friend;

Ahishar was manager of palace affairs;

Adoniram (son of Abda) was superintendent of public works.

<sup>7</sup> There were also twelve officials of Solomon's court—one man from each tribe—responsible for requisitioning food from the people for the king's household. Each of them arranged provisions for one month of the year.

<sup>8-19</sup> The names of these twelve officers were:

Ben-hur, whose area for this taxation was the hill country of Ephraim;

Ben-deker, whose area was Makaz, Sha-albim, Beth-shemesh, and Elon-beth-hanan;

Ben-hesed, whose area was Arubboth, including Socoh and all the land of Hephher;

Ben-abinadab (who married Solomon's daughter, the princess Taphath), whose area was the highlands of Dor;

Baana (son of Ahilud), whose area was Taanach and Megiddo, all of Beth-shean near Zarethan below Jezreel, and all the territory from Beth-shean to Abel-meholah and over to Jokmeam;

Ben-geber, whose area was Ramoth-gilead, including the villages of Jair (the son of Manasseh) in Gilead; and the region of Argob in Bashan, including sixty walled cities with bronze gates;

Ahinadab (the son of Iddo), whose area was Mahanaim;

Ahima-az (who married Princess Basemath, another of Solomon's daughters), whose area was Naphtali;

Baana (son of Hushai), whose areas were Asher and Bealoth;

Jehoshaphat (son of Paruah), whose area was Issachar; Shime-i (son of Ela), whose area was Benjamin;

Geber (son of Uri), whose area was Gilead, including the territories of King Sihon of the Amorites and King Og of Bashan.

A general manager supervised these officials and their work.

<sup>24</sup> His dominion extended over all the kingdoms west of the Euphrates River, from Tiphseh to Gaza. And there was peace throughout the land.

Throughout the lifetime of Solomon, all of Judah and Israel lived in peace and safety; and each family had its own home and garden.

<sup>29</sup> God gave Solomon great wisdom and understanding, and a mind with broad interests. <sup>30</sup> In fact, his wisdom excelled that of any of the wise men of the East, including those in Egypt. <sup>31</sup> He was wiser than Ethan the Ezrahite and Heman, Calcol, and Darda, the sons of Mahol; and he was famous among all the surrounding nations. <sup>32</sup> He was the author of 3,000 proverbs and wrote 1,005 songs. <sup>33</sup> He was a great naturalist, with interest in animals, birds, snakes, fish, and trees—from the great cedars of Lebanon down to the tiny hyssop which grows in cracks in the wall. <sup>34</sup> And kings from many lands sent their ambassadors to him for his advice.

5 KING HIRAM OF Tyre had always been a great admirer of David, so when he learned that David's son Solomon was the new king of Israel, he sent ambassadors to extend congratulations and good wishes. <sup>25</sup> Solomon replied with a proposal about the Temple of the Lord he wanted to build. His father David, Solomon pointed out to Hiram, had not been able to build it because of the numerous wars going on, and he had been waiting for the Lord to give him peace.

“But now,” Solomon said to Hiram, “the Lord my God has given Israel peace on every side; I have no foreign enemies or internal rebellions. <sup>3</sup> So I am planning to build a Temple for the Lord my God, just as he instructed my father that I should do. For the Lord told him, ‘Your son, whom I will place upon your throne, shall build me a Temple.’ <sup>4</sup> Now please assist me with this project. Send your woodsmen to the mountains of Lebanon to cut cedar timber for me, and I will send my men to work beside them, and I will pay your men whatever wages you ask; for as you know, no one in Israel can cut timber like you Sidonians!”

<sup>7</sup> Hiram was very pleased with the message from Solomon. “Praise God for giving David a wise son to be king of the great nation of Israel,” he said. <sup>8</sup> Then he sent this reply to Solomon: “I have received your message and I will do as you have asked concerning the timber. I can supply both cedar and cypress. <sup>9</sup> My men will bring the logs from the Lebanon mountains to the Mediterranean Sea and build them into rafts. We will float them along the coast to wherever you need them; then we will break the rafts apart and deliver the timber to you. You can pay me with food for my household.”

and Solomon made a formal alliance of peace.

<sup>13</sup> Then Solomon drafted thirty thousand laborers from all over Israel, <sup>14</sup> and rotated them to Lebanon, ten thousand a month, so that each man was a month in Lebanon and two months at home. Adoniram was the general superintendent of this labor camp. <sup>15</sup> Solomon also had seventy thousand additional laborers, eighty thousand stonecutters in the hill country, <sup>16</sup> and thirty-three hundred foremen. <sup>17</sup> The stonecutters quarried and shaped huge blocks of stone—a very expensive job—for the foundation of the Temple. <sup>18</sup> Men from Gebal helped Solomon's and Hiram's builders in cutting the timber and making the boards, and in preparing the stone for the Temple.

6 IT WAS IN the spring of the fourth year of Solomon's reign that he began the actual construction of the Temple. (This was 480 years after the people of Israel left their slavery in Egypt.) <sup>2</sup> The Temple was ninety feet long, thirty feet wide, and forty-five feet high. <sup>3</sup> All along the front of the Temple was a porch thirty feet long and fifteen feet deep. <sup>4</sup> Narrow windows were used throughout.

<sup>5</sup> An annex of rooms was built along the full length of both sides of the Temple against the outer walls. <sup>6</sup> These rooms were three stories high, the lower floor being 7½ feet wide, the second floor 9 feet wide, and the upper floor 10½ feet wide. The rooms were connected to the walls of the Temple by beams resting on blocks built out from the wall—so the beams were not inserted into the walls themselves.

<sup>7</sup> The stones used in the construction of the Temple were prefinished at the quarry, so the entire structure was built without the sound of hammer, axe, or any other tool at the building site.

<sup>8</sup> The bottom floor of the side rooms was entered from the right side of the Temple, and there were winding stairs going up to the second floor; another flight of stairs led from the second to the third. <sup>9</sup> After completing the Temple, Solomon paneled it all, including the beams and pillars, with cedar. <sup>10</sup> As already stated, there was an annex on each side of the building, attached to the Temple walls by cedar timbers. Each story of the annex was 7½ feet high.

<sup>11,12</sup> Then the Lord sent this message to Solomon concerning the Temple he was building: "If you do as I tell you to and follow all of my commandments and instructions, I will do what I told your father David I would do: <sup>13</sup> I will live among the people of Israel and never forsake them."

<sup>14</sup> At last the Temple was finished. <sup>15</sup> The entire inside, from floor to ceiling, was paneled with cedar, and the floors were made of cypress boards. <sup>16</sup> The thirty-foot inner room at the far end of the Temple—the Most Holy Place—was also paneled from the floor to the ceiling with cedar boards. <sup>17</sup> The remainder of the Temple—other than the Most Holy Place—was sixty feet long. <sup>18</sup> Throughout the Temple the cedar paneling laid over the stone walls was carved with designs of rosebuds and open flowers.

<sup>19</sup> The inner room was where the Ark of the Covenant of the Lord was placed. <sup>20</sup> This inner sanctuary was thirty feet long, thirty feet wide, and thirty feet high. Its walls and ceiling were overlaid with pure gold, and Solomon made a cedar-wood altar for this room. <sup>21,22</sup> Then he overlaid the interior of the remainder of the Temple—including the cedar altar—with pure gold; and he made gold chains to protect the entrance to the Most Holy Place.

<sup>33</sup> Then he made square doorposts of olive wood for the entrance to the Temple. <sup>34</sup> There were two folding doors of cypress wood, and each door was hinged to fold back upon itself. <sup>35</sup> Angels, palm trees, and open flowers were carved on these doors and carefully overlaid with gold.

<sup>36</sup> The wall of the inner court had three layers of hewn stone and one layer of cedar beams.

<sup>37</sup> The foundation of the Temple was laid in the month of May in the fourth year of Solomon's reign, <sup>38</sup> and the entire building was completed in every detail in November of the eleventh year of his reign. So it took seven years to build.

7 THEN SOLOMON BUILT his own palace, which took thirteen years to construct.

<sup>2</sup> One of the rooms in the palace was called the Hall of the Forest of Lebanon. It was huge—measuring 150 feet long, 75 feet wide, and 45 feet high. The great cedar ceiling beams rested upon four rows of cedar pillars. <sup>34</sup> There were forty-five windows in the hall, set in three tiers, one tier above the other, five to a tier, facing each other from three walls. <sup>3</sup> Each of the doorways and windows had a square frame.

<sup>6</sup> Another room was called the Hall of Pillars. It was seventy-five feet long and forty-five feet wide, with a porch in front covered by a canopy which was supported by pillars.

<sup>7</sup> There was also the Throne Room or Judgment Hall, where Solomon sat to hear legal matters; it was paneled with cedar from the floor to the rafters.

ing quarters, the same size, in the palace which he built for Pharaoh's daughter—one of his wives.)

<sup>9</sup> These buildings were constructed entirely from huge, expensive stones, cut to measure. <sup>10</sup> The foundation stones were twelve to fifteen feet across. <sup>11</sup> The huge stones in the walls were also cut to measure, and were topped with cedar beams. <sup>12</sup> The Great Court had three courses of hewn stone in its walls, topped with cedar beams, just like the inner court of the Temple and the porch of the palace.

<sup>13</sup> King Solomon then asked for a man named Hiram to come from Tyre, for he was a skilled craftsman in bronze work. <sup>14</sup> He was half Jewish, being the son of a widow of the tribe of Naphtali, and his father had been a foundry worker from Tyre. So he came to work for King Solomon.

ments an inch or two apart,<sup>b</sup> which were cast along with the tank.<sup>25</sup> It rested on twelve bronze<sup>c</sup> oxen standing tail to tail, three facing north, three west, three south, and three east.<sup>26</sup> The sides of the tank were four inches thick; its brim was shaped like a goblet, and it had a twelve thousand gallon capacity.

<sup>32</sup> The stands rode on four wheels which were connected to axles that had been cast as part of the stands. The wheels were twenty-seven inches high,<sup>33</sup> and were similar to chariot wheels. All the parts of the stands were cast from molten bronze, including the axles, spokes, rims, and hubs.<sup>34</sup> There were supports at each of the four corners of the stands, and these, too, were cast with the stands.<sup>35</sup> A nine-inch rim surrounded the tip of each stand, banded with lugs. All was cast as one unit with the stand.<sup>36</sup> Cherubim, lions, and palm trees surrounded by wreaths were engraved on the borders of the band wherever there was room.<sup>37</sup> All ten stands were the same size and were made alike, for each was cast from the same mold.

<sup>41-46</sup> Here is a list of the items he made:

- Two pillars;
- A capital at the top of each pillar;
- Latticework covering the bases of the capitals of each pillar;
- Four hundred pomegranates in two rows on the latticework, to cover the bases of the two capitals;
- Ten movable stands holding ten vats;
- One large tank and twelve oxen supporting it;
- Pots;
- Shovels;
- Basins.

All these items were made of burnished bronze, and were cast at the plains of the Jordan River between Succoth and Zarethan. <sup>47</sup> The total weight of these pieces was not known because they were too heavy to weigh!

<sup>51</sup> When the Temple was finally finished, Solomon took into the treasury of the Temple the silver, the gold, and all the vessels dedicated for that purpose by his father David.

8 THEN SOLOMON CALLED a convocation at Jerusalem of all the leaders of Israel—the heads of the tribes and clans—to observe the transferring of the Ark of the Covenant of the Lord from the Tabernacle in Zion, the City of David, to the Temple. <sup>2</sup> This celebration occurred at the time of the Tabernacle Festival in the month of October. <sup>3,4</sup> During the festivities the priests carried the Ark to the Temple, along with all the sacred vessels which had previously been in the Tabernacle. <sup>5</sup> King Solomon and all the people gathered before the Ark, sacrificing uncounted sheep and oxen.

<sup>6</sup> Then the priests took the Ark into the inner sanctuary of the Temple—the Most Holy Place—and placed it under the wings of the angels. <sup>7</sup> The angels had been constructed in such a manner that their wings spread out over the spot where the Ark would be placed; so now their wings overshadowed the Ark and its carrying poles. <sup>8</sup> The poles were so long that they stuck out past the angels and could be seen from the next room, but not from the outer court; and they remain there to this day. <sup>9</sup> There was nothing in the Ark at that time except the two stone tablets which Moses had placed there at Mount Horeb at the time the Lord made his covenant with the people of Israel after they left Egypt.

“The Lord has said that he would live in the thick darkness;

But, O Lord, I have built you a lovely home on earth, a place for you to live forever.”

<sup>14</sup> Then the king turned around and faced the people as they stood before him, and blessed them.

<sup>15</sup> “Blessed be the Lord God of Israel,” he said, “who has done today what he promised my father David: <sup>16</sup> for he said to him, ‘When I brought my people from Egypt, I didn’t appoint a place for my Temple, but I appointed a man to be my people’s leader.’ <sup>17</sup> This man was my father, David. He wanted to build a Temple for the Lord God of Israel, "but the Lord told him not to. 'I am glad you want to do it,' he said, 'but your son is the one who shall build my Temple.'"<sup>20</sup> And now the Lord has done what he promised; for I have followed my father as king of Israel, and now this Temple has been built for the Lord God of Israel.<sup>21</sup> And I have prepared a place in the Temple for the Ark which contains the covenant made by the Lord with our fathers, at the time that he brought them out of the land of Egypt."

<sup>22,23</sup> Then, as all the people watched, Solomon stood before the altar of the Lord with his hands spread out towards heaven and said, "O Lord God of Israel, there is no god like you in heaven or earth, for you are loving and kind and you keep your promises to your people if they do their best to do your will.<sup>24</sup> Today you have fulfilled your promise to my father David, who was your servant;<sup>25</sup> and now, O Lord God of Israel, fulfill your further promise to him: that if his descendants follow your ways and try to do your will as he did, one of them shall always sit upon the throne of Israel.<sup>26</sup> Yes, O God of Israel, fulfill this promise too.

<sup>27</sup> "But is it possible that God would really live on earth? Why, even the skies and the highest heavens cannot contain you, much less this Temple I have built!<sup>28</sup> And yet, O Lord my God, you have heard and answered my request:<sup>29</sup> Please watch over this Temple night and day—this place you have promised to live in—and as I face toward the Temple and pray, whether by night or by day, please listen to me and answer my requests.<sup>30</sup> Listen to every plea of the people of Israel whenever they face this place to pray; yes, hear in heaven where you live, and when you hear, forgive.

<sup>31</sup> "If a man is accused of doing something wrong and then, standing here before your altar, swears that he didn't do it,<sup>32</sup> hear him in heaven and do what is right; judge whether or not he did it.

<sup>33,34</sup> "And when your people sin and their enemies defeat them, hear them from heaven and forgive them if they turn to you again and confess that you are their God. Bring them back again to this land which you have given to their fathers.

<sup>35,36</sup> "And when the skies are shut up and there is no rain because of their sin, hear them from heaven and forgive them when they pray toward this place and confess your name. And after you have punished them, help them to follow the good ways in which they should walk, and send rain upon the land which you have given your people.

<sup>37</sup> "If there is a famine in the land caused by plant disease or locusts or caterpillars, or if Israel's enemies besiege one of her cities, or if the people are struck by an epidemic or plague—or whatever the problem is—<sup>38</sup> then when the people realize their sin and pray toward this Temple,<sup>39</sup> hear them from heaven and forgive and answer all who have made an honest confession; for you know each heart.<sup>40</sup> In this way they will always learn to reverence you as they continue to live in this land which you have given their fathers.

<sup>41,42</sup> "And when foreigners hear of your great name and come from distant lands to worship you (for they shall hear of your great name and mighty miracles) and pray toward this Temple, <sup>43</sup> hear them from heaven and answer their prayers. And all the nations of the earth will know and fear your name just as your own people Israel do; and all the earth will know that this is your Temple.

<sup>44</sup> "When you send your people out to battle against their enemies and they pray to you, looking toward your chosen city of Jerusalem and toward this Temple which I have built for your name, <sup>45</sup> hear their prayer and help them.

<sup>46</sup> "If they sin against you (and who doesn't?) and you become angry with them and let their enemies lead them away as captives to some foreign land, whether far or near, <sup>47</sup> and they come to their senses and turn to you and cry to you saying, 'We have sinned, we have done wrong'; <sup>48</sup> if they honestly return to you and pray toward this land which you have given their fathers, and toward this city of Jerusalem which you have chosen, and toward this Temple, which I have built for your name, <sup>49</sup> hear their prayers and pleadings from heaven where you live, and come to their assistance.

<sup>50</sup> "Forgive your people for all of their evil deeds, and make their captors merciful to them; <sup>51</sup> for they are your people—your inheritance that you brought out from the Egyptian furnace. <sup>52</sup> May your eyes be open and your ears listening to their pleas. O Lord, hear and answer them whenever they cry out to you, <sup>53</sup> for when you brought our fathers out of the land of Egypt, you told your servant Moses that you had chosen Israel from among all the nations of the earth to be your own special people."

<sup>54,55</sup> Solomon had been kneeling with his hands outstretched toward heaven. As he finished this prayer, he rose from before the altar of Jehovah and cried out this blessing upon all the people of Israel:

<sup>56</sup> "Blessed be the Lord who has fulfilled his promise and given rest to his people Israel; not one word has failed of all the wonderful promises proclaimed by his servant Moses. <sup>57</sup> May the Lord our God be with us as he was with our fathers; may he never forsake us. <sup>58</sup> May he give us the desire to do his will in everything, and to obey all the commandments and instructions he has given our ancestors. <sup>59</sup> And may these words of my prayer be constantly before him day and night, so that he helps me and all of Israel in accordance with our daily needs. <sup>60</sup> May people all over the earth know that the Lord is God, and that there is no other god at all. <sup>61</sup> O my people, may you live good and perfect lives before the Lord our God; may you always obey his laws and commandments, just as you are doing today."

end of the land to the other. "Afterwards Solomon sent the people home, happy for all the goodness that the Lord had shown to his servant David and to his people Israel. And they blessed the king.

9 WHEN SOLOMON HAD finished building the Temple and the palace and all the other buildings he had always wanted, <sup>2,3</sup> the Lord appeared to him the second time (the first time had been at Gibeon) and said to him,

"I have heard your prayer. I have hallowed this Temple which you have built and have put my name here forever. I will constantly watch over it and rejoice in it. <sup>4</sup> And if you live in honesty and truth as your father David did, always obeying me, <sup>5</sup> then I will cause your descendants to be the kings of Israel forever, just as I promised your father David when I told him, 'One of your sons shall always be upon the throne of Israel.'

<sup>6</sup> "However, if you or your children turn away from me and worship other gods and do not obey my laws, <sup>7</sup> then I will take away the people of Israel from this land which I have given them. I will take them from this Temple which I have hallowed for my name and I will cast them out of my sight; and Israel will become a joke to the nations and an example and proverb of sudden disaster. <sup>8</sup> This Temple will become a heap of ruins, and everyone passing by will be amazed and will whistle with astonishment, asking, 'Why has the Lord done such things to this land and this Temple?' <sup>9</sup> And the answer will be, 'The people of Israel abandoned the Lord their God who brought them out of the land of Egypt; they worshiped other gods instead. That is why the Lord has brought this evil upon them.' "

<sup>10</sup> At the end of the twenty years during which Solomon built the Temple and the palace, <sup>11,12</sup> he gave twenty cities in the land of Galilee to King Hiram of Tyre as payment for all the cedar and cypress lumber and gold he had furnished for the construction of the palace and Temple. Hiram came from Tyre to see the cities, but he wasn't at all pleased with them.

<sup>13</sup> "What sort of deal is this, my brother?" he asked. "These cities are a wasteland!" (And they are still known as "The Wasteland" today.)

<sup>15</sup> Solomon had conscripted forced labor to build the Temple, his palace, Fort Millo, the wall of Jerusalem, and the cities of Hazor, Megiddo, and Gezer. <sup>16</sup> Gezer was the city the king of Egypt conquered and burned, killing the Israeli population; later he had given the city to his daughter as dowry—she was one of Solomon's wives. <sup>17,18</sup> So now Solomon rebuilt Gezer along with Lower Beth-horon, Baalath, and Tamar, a desert city. <sup>19</sup> He also built cities for grain storage, cities in which to keep his chariots, cities for homes for his cavalry and chariot drivers, and resort cities near Jerusalem and in the Lebanon mountains and elsewhere throughout the land.

vites, and Jebusites. For the people of Israel had not been able to wipe them out completely at the time of the invasion and conquest of Israel, and they continue as slaves even today. <sup>22</sup> Solomon didn't conscript any Israelis for this work, although they became soldiers, officials, army officers, chariot commanders, and cavalrymen. <sup>23</sup> And there were 550 men of Israel who were overseers of the labor forces.

Miscellaneous Notes:

<sup>24</sup> King Solomon moved Pharaoh's daughter from the City of David—the old sector of Jerusalem—to the new quarters he had built for her in the palace. Then he built Fort Millo.

<sup>25</sup> After the Temple was completed, Solomon offered burnt offerings and peace offerings three times a year on the altar he had built. And he also burned incense upon it.

<sup>26</sup> King Solomon had a shipyard in Ezion-geber near Eloth on the Red Sea in the land of Edom, where he built a fleet of ships.

<sup>27,28</sup> King Hiram supplied experienced sailors to accompany Solomon's crews. They used to run back and forth from Ophir, bringing gold to King Solomon, the total value of which was more than $12,000,000..

10 WHEN THE QUEEN of Sheba heard how wonderfully the Lord had blessed Solomon with wisdom,<sup>a</sup> she decided to test him with some hard questions. <sup>2</sup> She arrived in Jerusalem with a long train of camels carrying spices, gold, and jewels; and she told him all her problems. <sup>3</sup> Solomon answered all her questions; nothing was too difficult for him, for the Lord gave him the right answers every time.<sup>b 4</sup> She soon realized that everything she had ever heard about his great wisdom was true. She also saw the beautiful palace he had built, <sup>5</sup> and when she saw the wonderful foods on his table, the great number of servants and aides who stood around in splendid uniforms, his cupbearers, and the many offerings he sacrificed by fire to the Lord—well, there was no more spirit in her!

<sup>6</sup> She exclaimed to him, "Everything I heard in my own country about your wisdom and about the wonderful things going on here is all true. <sup>7</sup> I didn't believe it until I came, but now I have seen it for myself! And really! The half had not been told me! Your wisdom and prosperity are far greater than anything I've ever heard of! <sup>8</sup> Your people are happy and your palace aides are content—but how could it be otherwise, for they stand here day after day listening to your wisdom! <sup>9</sup> Blessed be the Lord your God who chose you and set you on the throne of Israel. How the Lord must love Israel—for he gave you to them as their king! And you give your people a just, good government!"

<sup>10</sup> Then she gave the king a gift of $3,500,000 in gold, along with a huge quantity of spices and precious gems; in fact, it was the largest single gift of spices King Solomon had ever received.

<sup>b</sup> Literally, "there was nothing hidden from the king which he could not explain to her."

<sup>13</sup> In exchange for the gifts from the queen of Sheba, King Solomon gave her everything she asked him for, besides the presents he had already planned. Then she and her servants returned to their own land.

<sup>14</sup> Each year Solomon received gold worth about $20,000,000, <sup>15</sup> besides sales taxes and profits from trade with the kings of Arabia and the other surrounding territories. <sup>16,17</sup> Solomon had some of the gold beaten into two hundred pieces of armor (gold worth $6,000 went into each piece) and three hundred shields ($1,800 worth of gold in each). And he kept them in his palace in the Hall of the Forest of Lebanon.

<sup>18</sup> He also made a huge ivory throne and overlaid it with pure gold. <sup>19</sup> It had six steps and a rounded back, with arm rests; and a lion standing on each side. <sup>20</sup> And there were two lions on each step—twelve in all. There was no other throne in all the world so splendid as that one.

<sup>21</sup> All of King Solomon's cups were of solid gold, and in the Hall of the Forest of Lebanon his entire dining service was made of solid gold. (Silver wasn't used because it wasn't considered to be of much value!)

<sup>26</sup> Solomon built up a great stable of horses with a vast number of chariots and cavalry—1,400 chariots in all, and 12,000 cavalrymen who lived in the chariot cities and with the king at Jerusalem. <sup>27</sup> Silver was as common as stones in Jerusalem in those days, and cedar was of no greater value than the common sycamore! <sup>28</sup> Solomon's horses were brought to him from Egypt and southern Turkey, where his agents purchased them at wholesale prices.

<sup>29</sup> An Egyptian chariot delivered to Jerusalem cost $400, and the horses were valued at $150 each. Many of these were then resold to the Hittite and Syrian kings.

11 KING SOLOMON MARRIED many other girls besides the Egyptian princess. Many of them came from nations where idols were worshiped<sup>a</sup>—Moab, Ammon, Edom, Sidon, and from the Hittites—<sup>2</sup> even though the Lord had clearly instructed his people not to marry into those nations, because the women they married would get them started worshipping their gods. Yet Solomon did it anyway. <sup>3</sup> He had seven hundred wives and three hundred concubines; and sure enough, they turned his heart away from the Lord, <sup>4</sup> especially in his old age. They encouraged him to worship their gods instead of trusting completely in the Lord as his father David had done. <sup>5</sup> Solomon worshiped Ashtoreth, the goddess of the Sidonians, and Milcom, the horrible god of the Ammonites. <sup>6</sup> Thus Solomon did what was clearly wrong and refused to follow the Lord as his father David did. <sup>7</sup> He even built a temple on the Mount of Olives, across the valley from Jerusalem, for Chemosh, the depraved god of Moab, and another for Molech, the unutterably vile god of the Ammonites. <sup>8</sup> Solomon built temples for these foreign wives to use for burning incense and sacrificing to their gods.

<sup>9,10</sup> Jehovah was very angry with Solomon about this, for now Solomon was no longer interested in the Lord God of Israel who had appeared to him twice to warn him specifically against worshipping other gods. But he hadn't listened, <sup>11</sup> so now the Lord said to him, "Since you have not kept our agreement and have not obeyed my laws, I will tear the kingdom away from you and your family and give it to someone else. <sup>12,13</sup> However, for the sake of your father David, I won't do this while you are still alive. I will take the kingdom away from your son. And even so I will let him be king of one tribe, for David's sake and for the sake of Jerusalem, my chosen city."

<sup>14</sup> So the Lord caused Hadad the Edomite to grow in power. And Solomon became apprehensive, for Hadad was a member of the royal family of Edom. <sup>15</sup> Years before, when David had been in Edom with Joab to arrange for the burial of some Israeli soldiers who had died in battle, the Israeli army had killed nearly every male in the entire country. <sup>16,17,18</sup> It took six months to accomplish this, but they finally killed all except Hadad and a few royal officials who took him to Egypt (he was a very small child at the time). They slipped out of Midian and went to Paran, where others joined them and accompanied them to Egypt, and Pharaoh had given them homes and food.

<sup>19</sup> Hadad became one of Pharaoh's closest friends, and he gave him a wife—the sister of Queen Tahpenes. <sup>20</sup> She presented him with a son, Genubath, who was brought up in Pharaoh's palace among Pharaoh's own sons. <sup>21</sup> When Hadad, there in Egypt, heard that David and Joab were both dead, he asked Pharaoh for permission to return to Edom.

<sup>22</sup> "Why?" Pharaoh asked him. "What do you lack here? How have we disappointed you?"

"Everything is wonderful," he replied, "but even so, I'd like to go back home."

later became king) when David destroyed Zobah. <sup>25</sup> During Solomon's entire lifetime, Rezon and Hadad were his enemies, for they hated Israel intensely.

<sup>26</sup> Another rebel leader was Jeroboam (the son of Nebat), who came from the city of Zeredah in Ephraim; his mother was Zeruah, a widow. <sup>27,28</sup> Here is the story back of his rebellion: Solomon was rebuilding Fort Millo, repairing the walls of this city his father had built. Jeroboam was very able, and when Solomon saw how industrious he was, he put him in charge of his labor battalions from the tribe of Joseph.

<sup>29</sup> One day as Jeroboam was leaving Jerusalem, the prophet Ahijah from Shiloh (who had put on a new robe for the occasion) met him and called him aside to talk to him. And as the two of them were alone in the field, <sup>30</sup> Ahijah tore his new robe into twelve parts, <sup>31</sup> and said to Jeroboam, "Take ten of these pieces, for the Lord God of Israel says, 'I will tear the kingdom from the hand of Solomon and give ten of the tribes to you! <sup>32</sup> But I will leave him one tribe<sup>b</sup> for the sake of my servant David and for the sake of Jerusalem, which I have chosen above all the other cities of Israel. <sup>33</sup> For Solomon has forsaken me and worships Ashtoreth, the goddess of the Sidonians; and Chemosh, the god of Moab; and Milcom, the god of the Ammonites. He has not followed my paths and has not done what I consider right; he has not kept my laws and instructions as his father David did.

<sup>34</sup> I will not take the kingdom from him now, however; for the sake of my servant David, my chosen one who obeyed my commandments, I will let Solomon reign for the rest of his life.

<sup>35</sup> "But I will take away the kingdom from his son and give ten of the tribes to you. <sup>36</sup> His son shall have the other one so that the descendants of David will continue to reign in Jerusalem, the city I have chosen to be the place for my name to be enshrined. <sup>37</sup> And I will place you on the throne of Israel, and give you absolute power. <sup>38</sup> If you listen to what I tell you and walk in my path and do whatever I consider right, obeying my commandments as my servant David did, then I will bless you; and your descendants shall rule Israel forever. (I once made this same promise to David. <sup>39</sup> But because of Solomon's sin I will punish the descendants of David—though not forever.)"

<sup>41</sup> The rest of what Solomon did and said is written in the book The Acts of Solomon. <sup>42</sup> He ruled in Jerusalem for forty years, <sup>43</sup> and then died and was buried in the city of his father David; and his son Rehoboam reigned in his place.

12 REHOBAM'S INAUGURATION WAS at Shechem, and all Israel came for the coronation ceremony. <sup>2,3,4</sup> Jeroboam, who was still in Egypt where he had fled from King Solomon, heard about the plans from his friends. They urged him to attend, so he joined the rest of Israel at Shechem, and was the ringleader in getting the people to make certain demands upon Rehoboam.

"Your father was a hard master," they told Rehoboam. "We don't want you as our king unless you promise to treat us better than he did."

<sup>6</sup> Rehoboam talked it over with the old men who had counseled his father Solomon.

"What do you think I should do?" he asked them.

<sup>7</sup> And they replied, "If you give them a pleasant reply and agree to be good to them and serve them well, you can be their king forever."

<sup>8</sup> But Rehoboam refused the old men's counsel and called in the young men with whom he had grown up.

<sup>9</sup> "What do you think I should do?" he asked them.

<sup>10</sup> And the young men replied, "Tell them, 'If you think my father was hard on you, well, I'll be harder! 'Yes, my father was harsh, but I'll be even harsher! My father used whips on you, but I'll use scorpions!'"

<sup>12</sup> So when Jeroboam and the people returned three days later, <sup>13,14</sup> the new king answered them roughly. He ignored the old men's advice and followed that of the young men; <sup>15</sup> so the king refused the people's demands. (But the Lord's hand was in it—he caused the new king to do this in order to fulfill his promise to Jeroboam, made through Ahijah, the prophet from Shiloh.)

<sup>16,17</sup> When the people realized that the king meant what he said and was refusing to listen to them, they began shouting, "Down with David and all his relatives! Let's go home! Let Rehoboam be king of his own family!"

And they all deserted him except for the tribe of Judah, who remained loyal and accepted Rehoboam as their king. <sup>18</sup> When King Rehoboam sent Adoram (who was in charge of the draft) to conscript men from the other tribes, a great mob stoned him to death. But King Rehoboam escaped by chariot and fled to Jerusalem. <sup>19</sup> And Israel has been in rebellion against the dynasty of David to this day.

<sup>20</sup> When the people of Israel learned of Jeroboam's return from Egypt, he was asked to come before an open meeting of all the people; and there he was made king of Israel. Only the tribe of Judah<sup>a</sup> continued under the kingship of the family of David.

<sup>23,24</sup> "Tell Rehoboam the son of Solomon, king of Judah, and all the people of Judah and Benjamin that they must not fight against their brothers, the people of Israel. Tell them to disband and go home, for what has happened to Rehoboam is according to my wish." So the army went home as the Lord had commanded.

<sup>23</sup> Jeroboam now built the city of Shechem in the hill country of Ephraim, and it became his capital. Later he built Peniel. <sup>24</sup> Jeroboam thought, "Unless I'm careful, the people will want a descendant of David as their king. <sup>25</sup> When they go to Jerusalem to offer sacrifices at the Temple, they will become friendly with King Rehoboam; then they will kill me and ask him to be their king instead."

<sup>26</sup> So on the advice of his counselors, the king had two gold calf-idols made and told the people, "It's too much trouble to go to Jerusalem to worship; from now on these will be your gods—they rescued you from your captivity in Egypt!"

<sup>27</sup> One of these calf-idols was placed in Bethel and the other in Dan. <sup>28</sup> This was of course a great sin, for the people worshiped them. <sup>29</sup> He also made shrines on the hills and ordained priests from the rank and file of the people—even those who were not from the priest-tribe of Levi. <sup>30,31</sup> Jeroboam also announced <sup>a</sup>that the annual Tabernacle Festival would be held at Bethel on the first of November<sup>b</sup> (a date he decided upon himself), similar to the annual festival at Jerusalem; he himself offered sacrifices upon the altar to the calves at Bethel, and burned incense to them. And it was there at Bethel that he ordained priests for the shrines on the hills.

13 AS JEROBOAM APPROACHED the altar to burn incense to the golden calf-idol, a prophet of the Lord from Judah walked up to him. <sup>2</sup> Then, at the Lord's command, the prophet shouted, "O altar, the Lord says that a child named Josiah shall be born into the family line of David, and he shall sacrifice upon you the priests from the shrines on the hills who come here to burn incense; and men's bones shall be burned upon you."

<sup>3</sup> Then he gave this proof that his message was from the Lord: "This altar will split apart, and the ashes on it will spill to the ground."

<sup>4</sup> The king was very angry with the prophet for saying this. He shouted to his guards, "Arrest that man!" and shook his fist at him. Instantly the king's arm became paralyzed in that position; he couldn't pull it back again! <sup>5</sup> At the same moment a wide crack appeared in the altar and the ashes poured out, just as the prophet had said would happen. For this was the prophet's proof that God had been speaking through him.

<sup>6</sup> "Oh, please, please," the king cried out to the prophet, "beg the Lord your God to restore my arm again."

So he prayed to the Lord, and the king's arm became normal again.

<sup>7</sup> Then the king said to the <sup>b</sup> Literally, "on the fifteenth day of the eighth month" of the Hebrew calendar. This was a month later than the annual celebration in Jerusalem, which God had ordained.

prophet, "Come to the palace with me and rest awhile and have some food; and I'll give you a reward because you healed my arm."

<sup>8</sup> But the prophet said to the king, "Even if you gave me half your palace, I wouldn't go into it; nor would I eat or drink even water in this place! <sup>9</sup> For the Lord has given me strict orders not to eat anything or drink any water while I'm here, and not to return to Judah by the road I came on."

<sup>10</sup> So he went back another way.

<sup>11</sup> As it happened, there was an old prophet living in Bethel, and his sons went home and told him what the prophet from Judah had done and what he had said to the king.

<sup>12</sup> "Which way did he go?" the old prophet asked. So they told him.

<sup>13</sup> "Quick, saddle the donkey," the old man said. And when they had saddled the donkey for him, <sup>14</sup> he rode after the prophet and found him sitting under an oak tree.

"Are you the prophet who came from Judah?" he asked him.

"Yes," he replied, "I am."

<sup>15</sup> Then the old man said to the prophet, "Come home with me and eat."

<sup>16,17</sup> "No," he replied, "I can't; for I am not allowed to eat anything or to drink any water at Bethel. The Lord strictly warned me against it; and he also told me not to return home by the same road I came on."

<sup>18</sup> But the old man said, "I am a prophet too, just as you are; and an angel gave me a message from the Lord. I am to take you home with me and give you food and water."

But the old man was lying to him. <sup>19</sup> So they went back together, and the prophet ate some food and drank some water at the old man's home.

<sup>20</sup> Then, suddenly, while they were sitting at the table, a message from the Lord came to the old man, <sup>21,22</sup> and he shouted at the prophet from Judah, "The Lord says that because you have been disobedient to his clear command, and have come here, and have eaten and drunk water in the place he told you not to, therefore your body shall not be buried in the grave of your fathers."

<sup>26</sup> When he heard what had happened he exclaimed, "It is the prophet who disobeyed the Lord's command; the Lord fulfilled his warning by causing the lion to kill him."

<sup>27</sup> Then he said to his sons, "Saddle my donkey!" And they did.

<sup>28</sup> He found the prophet's body lying in the road; and the donkey and lion were still standing there beside it, for the lion had not eaten the body nor attacked the donkey.

<sup>29</sup> So the prophet laid the body upon the donkey and took it back to the city to mourn over it and bury it.

<sup>30</sup> He laid the body in his own grave, exclaiming, "Alas, my

<sup>11</sup> Afterwards he said to his sons, "When I die, bury me in the grave where the prophet is buried. Lay my bones beside his bones." <sup>12</sup> For the Lord told him to shout against the altar in Bethel, and his curse against the shrines in the cities of Samaria shall surely be fulfilled."

<sup>13</sup> Despite the prophet's warning, Jeroboam did not turn away from his evil ways; instead, he made more priests than ever from the common people, to offer sacrifices to idols in the shrines on the hills. Anyone who wanted to could be a priest. <sup>14</sup> This was a great sin, and resulted in the destruction of Jeroboam's kingdom and the death of all of his family.

14 JEROBOAM'S SON ABIJAH now became very sick. <sup>2</sup> Jeroboam told his wife, "Disguise yourself so that no one will recognize you as the queen, and go to Ahijah the prophet at Shiloh—the man who told me that I would become king. <sup>3</sup> Take him a gift of ten loaves of bread, some fig bars, and a jar of honey and ask him whether the boy will recover."

<sup>4</sup> So his wife went to Ahijah's home at Shiloh. He was an old man now, and could no longer see. <sup>5</sup> But the Lord told him that the queen, pretending to be someone else, would come to ask about her son, for he was very sick. And the Lord told him what to tell her.

<sup>6</sup> So when Ahijah heard her at the door, he called out, "Come in, wife of Jeroboam! Why are you pretending to be someone else?" Then he told her, "I have sad news for you. <sup>7</sup> Give your husband this message from the Lord God of Israel: 'I promoted you from the ranks of the common people and made you king of Israel. <sup>8</sup> I ripped the kingdom away from the family of David and gave it to you, but you have not obeyed my commandments as my servant David did. His heart's desire was always to obey me and to do whatever I wanted him to. <sup>9</sup> But you have done more evil than all the other kings before you; you have made other gods and have made me furious with your gold calves. And since you have refused to acknowledge me, <sup>10</sup> I will bring disaster upon your home and will destroy all of your sons—this boy who is sick and all those who are well. <sup>11</sup> I will sweep away your family as a stable hand shovels out manure. <sup>12</sup> I vow that those of your family who die in the city shall be eaten by dogs, and those who die in the field shall be eaten by birds.'"

<sup>13</sup> Then Ahijah said to Jeroboam's wife, "Go on home, and when you step into the city, the child will die. <sup>14</sup> All of Israel will mourn for him and bury him, but he is the only member of your family who will come to a quiet end. For this child is the only good thing which the Lord God of Israel sees in the entire family of Jeroboam. <sup>15</sup> And the Lord will raise up a king over Israel who will destroy the family of Jeroboam. <sup>16</sup> Then the Lord will shake Israel like a reed whipped about in a stream; he will uproot the people of Israel from this good land of their fathers and scatter them beyond the Euphrates River, for they have angered the Lord by worshiping idol-gods. <sup>16</sup> He will abandon Israel because Jeroboam sinned and made all of Israel sin along with him."

<sup>17</sup> So Jeroboam's wife returned to Tirzah; and the child died just as she walked through the door of her home. <sup>18</sup> And there was mourning for him throughout the land, just as the Lord had predicted through Ahijah.

<sup>19</sup> The rest of Jeroboam's activities—his wars and the other events of his reign—are recorded in The Annals of the Kings of Israel. <sup>20</sup> Jeroboam reigned twenty-two years, and when he died, his son Nadab took the throne.

<sup>21</sup> Meanwhile, Rehoboam the son of Solomon was king in Judah. He was forty-one years old when he began to reign, and he was on the throne seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city which, among all the cities of Israel, the Lord had chosen to live in. (Rehoboam's mother was Naamah, an Ammonite woman.) <sup>22</sup> During his reign the people of Judah, like those in Israel, did wrong and angered the Lord with their sin, for it was even worse than that of their ancestors. <sup>23</sup> They built shrines and obelisks and idols on every high hill and under every green tree. <sup>24</sup> There was homosexuality throughout the land, and the people of Judah became as depraved as the heathen nations which the Lord drove out to make room for his people.

Egypt attacked and conquered Jerusalem. <sup>26</sup> He ransacked the Temple and the palace and stole everything, including all the gold shields Solomon had made. <sup>27</sup> Afterwards Rehoboam made bronze shields as substitutes, and the palace guards used these instead. <sup>28</sup> Whenever the king went to the Temple, the guards paraded before him and then took the shields back to the guard chamber.

15 ABIJAM BEGAN HIS three-year reign as king of Judah in Jerusalem during the eighteenth year of Jeroboam's reign in Israel. (Abijam's mother was Maacah, the daughter of Abishalom.) <sup>1</sup> He was as great a sinner as his father was, and his heart was not right with God, as King David's was. <sup>2</sup> But despite Abijam's sin, the Lord remembered David's love<sup>a</sup> and did not end the line of David's royal descendants. <sup>3</sup> For David had obeyed God during his entire life except for the affair concerning Uriah the Hittite. <sup>4</sup> During Abijam's reign there was constant war between Israel and Judah.<sup>b</sup> <sup>5</sup> The rest of Abijam's history is recorded in The Annals of the Kings of Judah. <sup>6</sup> When he died he was buried in Jerusalem, and his son Asa reigned in his place.

<sup>19</sup> "Let us be allies just as our fathers were. I am sending you a present of gold and silver. Now break your alliance with King Baasha of Israel so that he will leave me alone."

armies against some of the cities of Israel; and he destroyed Ijon, Dan, Abel-beth-maacah, all of Chineroth, and all the cities in the land of Naphtali. <sup>21</sup> When Baasha received word of the attack, he discontinued building the city of Ramah and returned to Tirzah. <sup>22</sup> Then King Asa made a proclamation to all Judah, asking every able-bodied man to help demolish Ramah and haul away its stones and timbers. And King Asa used these materials to build the city of Geba in Benjamin and the city of Mizpah.

<sup>23</sup> The rest of Asa's biography—his conquests and deeds and the names of the cities he built—is found in The Annals of the Kings of Judah. In his old age his feet became diseased, <sup>24</sup> and when he died he was buried in the royal cemetery in Jerusalem. Then his son Jehoshaphat became the new king of Judah.

<sup>25</sup> Meanwhile, over in Israel, Nadab the son of Jeroboam had become king. He reigned two years, beginning in the second year of the reign of King Asa of Judah. <sup>26</sup> But he was not a good king; like his father, he worshiped many idols and led all of Israel into sin.

<sup>27</sup> Then Baasha (the son of Ahijah, from the tribe of Issachar) plotted against him and assassinated him while he was with the Israeli army laying siege to the Philistine city of Gibbethon. <sup>28</sup> So Baasha replaced Nadab as the king of Israel in Tirzah, during the third year of the reign of King Asa of Judah.

<sup>29</sup> He immediately killed all of the descendants of King Jeroboam, so that not one of the royal family was left, just as the Lord had said would happen when he spoke through Ahijah, the prophet from Shiloh.

<sup>30</sup> This was done because Jeroboam had angered the Lord God of Israel by sinning and leading the rest of Israel into sin.

<sup>31</sup> Further details of Baasha's reign are recorded in The Annals of the Kings of Israel.<sup>32,33</sup> There was continuous warfare between King Asa of Judah and King Baasha of Israel. Baasha reigned for twenty-four years,<sup>34</sup> but all that time he continually disobeyed the Lord. He followed the evil paths of Jeroboam, for he led the people of Israel into the sin of worshiping idols.

16 A MESSAGE OF condemnation from the Lord was delivered to King Baasha at this time by the prophet Jehu:

<sup>2</sup> "I lifted you out of the dust," the message said, "to make you king of my people Israel; but you have walked in the evil paths of Jeroboam. You have made my people sin, and I am angry!<sup>3</sup> So now I will destroy you and your family, just as I did the descendants of Jeroboam. <sup>4-7</sup> Those of your family who die in the city will be eaten by dogs, and those who die in the fields will be eaten by the birds."

The message was sent to Baasha and his family because he had angered the Lord by all his evil deeds. He was as evil as Jeroboam despite the fact that the Lord had destroyed all of Jeroboam's descendants for their sins.

The rest of Baasha's biography—his deeds and conquests—are written in The Annals of the Kings of Israel.

<sup>8</sup> Elah, Baasha's son, began reigning during the twenty-sixth year of the reign of King Asa of Judah, but he reigned only two years. <sup>9</sup> Then General Zimri, who had charge of half the royal chariot troops, plotted against him. One day King Elah was half drunk at the home of Arza, the superintendent of the palace, in the capital city of Tirzah. <sup>10</sup> Zimri simply walked in and struck him down and killed him. (This occurred during the twenty-seventh year of the reign of King Asa of Judah.) Then Zimri declared himself to be the new king of Israel.

<sup>15,16</sup> But Zimri lasted only seven days; for when the army of Israel, which was then engaged in attacking the Philistine city of Gibbethon, heard that Zimri had assassinated the king, they decided on General Omri, commander-in-chief of the army, as their new ruler. <sup>17</sup> So Omri led the army of Gibbethon to besiege Tirzah, Israel's capital. <sup>18</sup> When Zimri saw that the city had been taken, he went into the palace and burned it over him and died in the flames. <sup>19</sup> For he, too, had sinned like Jeroboam; he had worshiped idols and had led the people of Israel to sin with him. <sup>20</sup> The rest of the story of Zimri and his treason are written in The Annals of the Kings of Israel.

<sup>21</sup> But now the kingdom of Israel was split in two; half the people were loyal to General Omri, and the other half followed Tibni, the son of Ginath. <sup>22</sup> But General Omri won and Tibni was killed; so Omri reigned without opposition.

<sup>23</sup> King Asa of Judah had been on the throne thirty-one years when Omri began his reign over Israel, which lasted twelve years, six of them in Tirzah. <sup>24</sup> Then Omri bought the hill now known as Samaria from its owner, Shemer, for $4,000 and built a city on it, calling it Samaria in honor of Shemer. <sup>25</sup> But Omri was worse than any of the kings before him; <sup>26</sup> he worshiped idols as Jeroboam had, and led Israel into this same sin. So God was very angry. <sup>27</sup> The rest of Omri's history is recorded in The Annals of the Kings of Israel. <sup>28</sup> When Omri died he was buried in Samaria, and his son Ahab became king in his place.

<sup>29</sup> King Asa of Judah had been on the throne thirty-eight years when Ahab became the king of Israel; and Ahab reigned for twenty-two years. <sup>30</sup> But he was even more wicked than his father Omri; he was worse than any other king of Israel! <sup>31</sup> And as though that were not enough, he married Jezebel, the daughter of King Ethbaal of the Sidonians, and then began worshipping Baal. <sup>32</sup> First he built a temple and an altar for Baal in Samaria. <sup>33</sup> Then he made other idols and did more to anger the Lord God of Israel than any of the other kings of Israel before him.

<sup>34</sup> (It was during his reign that Hiel, a man from Bethel, rebuilt Jericho. When he laid the foundations, his oldest son, Abiram, died; and when he finally completed it by setting up the gates, his youngest son, Segub, died. For this was the Lord's curse upon Jericho<sup>a</sup> as declared by Joshua, the son of Nun.)

17 THEN ELIJAH, THE prophet<sup>a</sup> from Tishbe in Gilead, told King Ahab, "As surely as the Lord God of Israel lives—the God whom I worship and serve—there won't be any dew or rain for several years until I say the word!"

<sup>2</sup> Then the Lord said to Elijah, <sup>3</sup> "Go to the east and hide by Cherith Brook at a place east of where it enters the Jordan River. <sup>4</sup> Drink from the brook and eat what the ravens bring you, for I have commanded them to feed you."

<sup>5</sup> So he did as the Lord had told him to, and camped beside the brook. <sup>6</sup> The ravens brought him bread and meat each morning and evening, and he drank from the brook. <sup>7</sup> But after awhile the brook dried up, for there was no rainfall anywhere in the land.

<sup>8,9</sup> Then the Lord said to him, "Go and live in the village of Zarephath, near the city of Sidon. There is a widow there who will feed you. I have given her my instructions.”

<sup>10</sup> So he went to Zarephath. As he arrived at the gates of the city he saw a widow gathering sticks; and he asked her for a cup of water.

<sup>11</sup> As she was going to get it, he called to her, “Bring me a bite of bread, too.”

<sup>12</sup> But she said, “I swear by the Lord your God that I haven’t a single piece of bread in the house. And I have only a handful of flour left and a little cooking oil in the bottom of the jar. I was just gathering a few sticks to cook this last meal, and then my son and I must die of starvation.”

<sup>13</sup> But Elijah said to her, “Don’t be afraid! Go ahead and cook that ‘last meal,’ but bake me a little loaf of bread first; and afterwards there will still be enough food for you and your son. <sup>14</sup> For the Lord God of Israel says that there will always be plenty of flour and oil left in your containers until the time when the Lord sends rain, and the crops grow again!”

<sup>15</sup> So she did as Elijah said, and she and Elijah and her son continued to eat from her supply of flour and oil as long as it was needed. <sup>16</sup> For no matter how much they used, there was always plenty left in the containers, just as the Lord had promised through Elijah!

<sup>17</sup> But one day the woman’s son became sick and died.

<sup>18</sup> “O man of God,” she cried, “what have you done to me? Have you come here to punish my sins by killing my son?”

plied. And he took the boy’s body from her and carried it upstairs to the guest room where he lived, and laid the body on his bed,<sup>20</sup> and then cried out to the Lord, “O Lord my God, why have you killed the son of this widow with whom I am staying?”

<sup>21</sup> And he stretched himself upon the child three times, and cried out to the Lord, “O Lord my God, please let this child’s spirit return to him.”

<sup>22</sup> And the Lord heard Elijah’s prayer; and the spirit of the child returned, and he became alive again! <sup>23</sup> Then Elijah took him downstairs and gave him to his mother.

“See! He’s alive!” he beamed.

<sup>24</sup> “Now I know for sure that you are a prophet,” she told him afterward,<sup>b</sup> “and that whatever you say is from the Lord!”

18 IT WAS THREE years later that the Lord said to Elijah, “Go and tell King Ahab that I will soon send rain again!”

<sup>2</sup> So Elijah went to tell him. Meanwhile the famine had become very severe in Samaria.

<sup>3</sup> The man in charge of Ahab’s household affairs was Obadiah, who was a devoted follower of the Lord. Once when Queen Jezebel had tried to kill all of the Lord’s prophets, Obadiah had hidden one hundred of them in two caves—fifty in each—and had fed them with bread and water.

check every stream and brook to see if we can find enough grass to save at least some of my horses and mules. You go one way and I'll go the other, and we will search the entire land."

<sup>6</sup> So they did, each going alone. <sup>7</sup> Suddenly Obadiah saw Elijah coming toward him! Obadiah recognized him at once and fell to the ground before him.

"Is it really you, my lord Elijah?" he asked.

<sup>8</sup> "Yes, it is," Elijah replied. "Now go and tell the king I am here."

<sup>9</sup> "Oh, sir," Obadiah protested, "what harm have I done to you that you are sending me to my death?"

<sup>10</sup> For I swear by God that the king has searched every nation and kingdom on earth from end to end to find you. And each time when he was told 'Elijah isn't here,' King Ahab forced the king of that nation to swear to the truth of his claim.

<sup>11</sup> And now you say, 'Go and tell him Elijah is here!' <sup>12</sup> But as soon as I leave you, the Spirit of the Lord will carry you away, who knows where, and when Ahab comes and can't find you, he will kill me; yet I have been a true servant of the Lord all my life. <sup>13</sup> Has no one told you about the time when Queen Jezebel was trying to kill the Lord's prophets, and I hid a hundred of them in two caves and fed them with bread and water? <sup>14</sup> And now you say, 'Go tell the king that Elijah is here!' Sir, if I do that, I'm dead!"

<sup>15</sup> But Elijah said, "I swear by the Lord God of the armies of heaven, in whose presence I stand, that I will present myself to Ahab today."

<sup>16</sup> So Obadiah went to tell Ahab that Elijah had come; and Ahab went out to meet him.

<sup>17</sup> "So it's you, is it?—the man who brought this disaster upon Israel!" Ahab exclaimed when he saw him.

<sup>18</sup> "You're talking about yourself," Elijah answered. "For you and your family have refused to obey the Lord, and have worshiped Baal instead. <sup>19</sup> Now bring all the people of Israel to Mount Carmel, with all 450 prophets of Baal and the 400 prophets of Asherah who are supported by Jezebel."

<sup>21</sup> Then Elijah talked to them. "How long are you going to waver between two opinions?" he asked the people. "If the Lord is God, follow him! But if Baal is God, then follow him!"

<sup>22</sup> Then Elijah spoke again. "I am the only prophet of the Lord who is left," he told them, "but Baal has 450 prophets. <sup>23</sup> Now bring two young bulls. The prophets of Baal may choose whichever one they wish and cut it into pieces and lay it on the wood of their altar, but without putting any fire under the wood; and I will prepare the other young bull and lay it on the wood on the Lord's altar, with no fire under it. <sup>24</sup> Then pray to your god, and I will pray to the Lord; and the god who answers by sending fire to light the wood is the true God!" And all the people agreed to this test.

<sup>25</sup> Then Elijah turned to the prophets of Baal. "You first," he said, "for there are many of you; choose one of the bulls and prepare it and call to your god; but don't put any fire under the wood."

<sup>26</sup> So they prepared one of the young bulls and placed it on the altar; and they called to Baal all morning, shouting, "O Baal, hear us!" But there was no reply of any kind. Then they began to dance around the altar. <sup>27</sup> About noon-time, Elijah began mocking them.

"You'll have to shout louder than that," he scoffed, "to catch the attention of your god! Perhaps he is talking to someone, or is out sitting on the toilet, or maybe he is away on a trip, or is asleep and needs to be wakened!"

<sup>28</sup> So they shouted louder and, as was their custom, cut themselves with knives and swords until the blood gushed out. <sup>29</sup> They raved all afternoon until the time of the evening sacrifice, but there was no reply, no voice, no answer.

And they all crowded around him as he repaired the altar of the Lord which had been torn down.

<sup>31</sup> He took twelve stones, one to represent each of the tribes of Israel,<sup>b</sup> and used the stones to rebuild the Lord's altar. Then he dug a trench about three feet wide<sup>c</sup> around the altar. <sup>32</sup> He piled wood upon the altar and cut the young bull into pieces and laid the pieces on the wood.

"Fill four barrels with water," he said, "and pour the water over the carcass and the wood."

After they had done this he said,

"Now, do it once more!" And they did;<sup>35</sup> and the water ran off the altar and filled the trench.

<sup>36</sup> At the customary time for offering the evening sacrifice, Elijah walked up to the altar and prayed, "O Lord God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, prove today that you are the God of Israel and that I am your servant; prove that I have done all this at your command." O Lord, answer me! Answer me so these people will know that you are God and that you have brought them back to yourself."

<sup>39</sup> And when the people saw it, they fell to their faces upon the ground shouting, "Jehovah is God! Jehovah is God!"

<sup>40</sup> Then Elijah told them to grab the prophets of Baal. "Don't let a single one escape," he commanded.

So they seized them all, and Elijah took them to Kishon Brook and killed them there.

<sup>41</sup> Then Elijah said to Ahab, "Go and enjoy a good meal! For I hear a mighty rainstorm coming!"

<sup>42</sup> So Ahab prepared a feast. But Elijah climbed to the top of Mount Carmel and got down on his knees, with his face between his knees, and said to his servant, "Go and look out toward the sea."

He did, but returned to Elijah and told him, "I didn't see anything."

b Literally, "each of the tribes of the sons of Jacob to whom the Lord had said, 'Israel shall be your name.'" c Literally, "as great as would contain two measures of seed."

Then Elijah told him, "Go again, and again, and again, seven times!"

"Finally, the seventh time, his servant told him, 'I saw a little cloud about the size of a man's hand rising from the sea.'"

Then Elijah shouted, "Hurry to Ahab and tell him to get into his chariot and get down the mountain, or he'll be stopped by the rain!"

"And sure enough, the sky was soon black with clouds, and a heavy wind brought a terrific rainstorm. Ahab left hastily for Jezreel, "and the Lord gave special strength to Elijah so that he was able to run ahead of Ahab's chariot to the entrance of the city

19 WHEN AHAB TOLD Queen Jezebel what Elijah had done, and that he had slaughtered the prophets of Baal, <sup>2</sup>she sent this message to Elijah: "You killed my prophets, and now I swear by the gods that I am going to kill you by this time tomorrow night."

<sup>3</sup>So Elijah fled for his life; he went to Beer-sheba, a city of Judah, and left his servant there. <sup>4</sup>Then he went on alone into the wilderness, traveling all day, and sat down under a broom bush and prayed that he might die.

"I've had enough," he told the Lord. "Take away my life. I've got to die sometime, and it might as well be now."<sup>a</sup>

<sup>5</sup>Then he lay down and slept beneath the broom bush. But as he was sleeping, an angel touched him and told him to get up and eat! <sup>6</sup>He looked around and saw some bread baking on hot stones, and a jar of water! So he ate and drank and lay down again.

<sup>7</sup>Then the angel of the Lord came again and touched him and said, "Get up and eat some more, for there is a long journey ahead of you."

<sup>8</sup>So he got up and ate and drank, and the food gave him enough strength to travel forty days and forty nights to Mount Horeb, the mountain of God, <sup>9</sup>where he lived in a cave.

But the Lord said to him, "What are you doing here, Elijah?"

<sup>10</sup>He replied, "I have worked very hard for the Lord God of the heavens; but the people of Israel have broken their covenant with you and torn down your altars and killed your prophets, and only I am left; and now they are trying to kill me, too."

<sup>11</sup>"Go out and stand before me on the mountain," the Lord told him. And as Elijah stood there the Lord passed by, and a mighty windstorm hit the mountain; it was such a terrible blast that the rocks were torn loose, but the Lord was not in the wind. After the wind, there was an earthquake, but the Lord was not in the earthquake. <sup>12</sup>And after the earthquake, there was a fire, but the Lord was not in the fire. And after the fire, there was the sound of a gentle whisper. <sup>13</sup>When Elijah heard it, he wrapped his face in his scarf and went out and stood at the entrance of the cave.

And a voice said, "Why are you here, Elijah?"

<sup>14</sup>He replied again, "I have been working very hard for the Lord God of the armies of heaven, but the people have broken their covenant and have torn down your altars; they have killed every one of your prophets except me; and now they are trying to kill me, too."

<sup>15</sup> Then the Lord told him, "Go back by the desert road to Damascus, and when you arrive, anoint Hazael to be king of Syria. <sup>16</sup> Then anoint Jehu (son of Himshi) to be king of Israel, and anoint Elisha (the son of Shaphat of Abel-meholah) to replace you as my prophet.

<sup>17</sup> "Anyone who escapes from Hazael shall be killed by Jehu, and those who escape Jehu shall be killed by Elisha! <sup>18</sup> And incidentally, there are 7,000 men in Israel who have never bowed to Baal nor kissed him!"

<sup>19</sup> So Elijah went and found Elisha who was plowing a field with eleven other teams ahead of him; he was at the end of the line with the last team. Elijah went over to him and threw his coat across his shoulders and walked away again.<sup>b</sup>

<sup>20</sup> Elisha left the oxen standing there and ran after Elijah and said to him, "First let me go and say good-bye to my father and mother, and then I'll go with you!"

Elijah replied, "Go on back! Why all the excitement?"

<sup>21</sup> Elisha then returned to his oxen, killed them, and used wood from the plow to build a fire to roast their flesh. He passed around the meat to the other plowmen, and they all had a great feast. Then he went with Elijah, as his assistant.

20 KING BEN-HADAD OF Syria now mobilized his army and, with thirty-two allied nations and their hordes of chariots and horses, besieged Samaria, the Israeli capital. <sup>23</sup> He sent this message into the city to King Ahab of Israel: "Your silver and gold are mine, as are your prettiest wives and the best of your children!"

<sup>5</sup> Soon Ben-hadad's messengers returned again with another message: "You must not only give me your silver, gold, wives, and children, but about this time tomorrow I will send my men to search your palace and the homes of your people, and they will take away whatever they like!"

<sup>7</sup> Then Ahab summoned his advisors. "Look what this man is doing," he complained to them. "He is stirring up trouble despite the fact that I have already told him he could have my wives and children and silver and gold, just as he demanded."

<sup>8</sup> "Don't give him anything more," the elders advised.

<sup>9</sup> So he told the messengers from Ben-hadad, "Tell my lord the king, 'I will give you everything you asked for the first time, but your men may not search the palace and the homes of the people.'"<sup>a</sup> So the messengers returned to Ben-hadad.

<sup>10</sup> Then the Syrian king sent this message to Ahab: "May the gods do more to me than I am going to do to you if I don't turn Samaria into handfuls of dust!"

"Don't count your chickens before they hatch!"

<sup>12</sup> This reply of Ahab's reached Ben-hadad and the other kings as they were drinking in their tents.

"Prepare to attack!" Ben-hadad commanded his officers.

<sup>13</sup> Then a prophet came to see King Ahab and gave him this message from the Lord: "Do you see all these enemy forces? I will deliver them all to you today. Then at last you will know that I am the Lord."

<sup>14</sup> Ahab asked, "How will he do it?"

And the prophet replied, "The Lord says, 'By the troops from the provinces.'"

"Shall we attack first?" Ahab asked.

"Yes," the prophet answered.

<sup>15</sup> So he mustered the troops from the provinces, 232 of them, then the rest of his army of 7,000 men. <sup>16</sup> About noontime, as Ben-hadad and the thirty-two allied kings were still drinking themselves drunk, the first of Ahab's troops marched out of the city.

<sup>23</sup> For after their defeat, Ben-hadad's officers said to him, "The Israeli God is a god of the hills; that is why they won. But we can beat them easily on the plains. <sup>24</sup> Only this time replace the kings with generals! <sup>25</sup> Recruit another army like the one you lost; give us the same number of horses, chariots, and men, and we will fight against them in the plains; there's not a shadow of a doubt that we will beat them." So King Ben-hadad did as they suggested. <sup>26</sup> The following year he called up the Syrian army and marched out against Israel again, this time at Aphek. <sup>27</sup> Israel then mustered its army, set up supply lines, and moved into the battle; but the Israeli army looked like two little flocks of baby goats in comparison to the vast Syrian forces that filled the countryside!

<sup>28</sup> Then a prophet went to the king of Israel with this message from the Lord: "Because the Syrians have declared, 'The Lord is a God of the hills and not of the plains,' I will help you defeat this vast army, and you shall know that I am indeed the Lord."

<sup>29</sup> The two armies camped opposite each other for seven days, and on the seventh day the battle began. And the Israelis killed 100,000 Syrian infantrymen that first day. <sup>30</sup> The rest fled behind the walls of Aphek, but the wall fell on them and killed another 27,000. Ben-hadad fled into the city and hid in the inner room of one of the houses.

"we have heard that the kings of Israel are very merciful. Let us wear sackcloth and put ropes on our heads and go out to King Ahab to see if he will let you live."

<sup>32</sup> So they went to the king of Israel and begged, "Your servant Ben-hadad pleads, 'Let me live!'"

"Oh, is he still alive?" the king of Israel asked. "He is my brother!"

<sup>33</sup> The men were quick to grab this straw of hope and hurried to clinch the matter by exclaiming, "Yes, your brother Ben-hadad!"

"Go and get him," the king of Israel told them. And when Ben-hadad arrived, he invited him up into his chariot!

<sup>34</sup> Ben-hadad told him, "I will restore the cities my father took from your father, and you may establish trading posts in Damascus, as my father did in Samaria."

<sup>35</sup> Meanwhile, the Lord instructed one of the prophets to say to another man, "Strike me with your sword!" But the man refused.

<sup>36</sup> Then the prophet told him, "Because you have not obeyed the voice of the Lord, a lion shall kill you as soon as you leave me." And sure enough, as he turned to go a lion attacked and killed him.

<sup>37</sup> Then the prophet turned to another man and said, "Strike me with your sword." And he did, wounding him.

<sup>39</sup> As the king passed by, the prophet called out to him, "Sir, I was in the battle, and a man brought me a prisoner and said, 'Keep this man; if he gets away, you must die,'<sup>40</sup> or else pay me $2,000!" But while I was busy doing something else, the prisoner disappeared!"

"Well, it's your own fault," the king replied. "You'll have to pay."

<sup>41</sup> Then the prophet yanked off the bandage from his eyes, and the king recognized him as one of the prophets. <sup>42</sup> Then the prophet told him, "The Lord says, 'Because you have spared the man I said must die, now you must die in his place, and your people shall perish instead of his.'"

<sup>43</sup> So the king of Israel went home to Samaria angry and sullen.

21 NABOTH, A MAN from Jezreel, had a vineyard on the outskirts of the city near King Ahab's palace. <sup>2</sup> One day the king talked to him about selling him this land.

"I want it for a garden," the king explained, "because it's so convenient to the palace." He offered cash or, if Naboth preferred, a piece of better land in trade.

<sup>3</sup> But Naboth replied, "Not on your life! That land has been in my family for generations."

<sup>5</sup> "What in the world is the matter?" his wife, Jezebel, asked him. "Why aren't you eating? What has made you so upset and angry?"

<sup>6</sup> "I asked Naboth to sell me his vineyard, or to trade it, and he refused!" Ahab told her.

<sup>7</sup> "Are you the king of Israel or not?" Jezebel demanded. "Get up and eat and don't worry about it. I'll get you Naboth's vineyard!"

* So she wrote letters in Ahab's name, sealed them with his seal, and addressed them to the civic leaders of Jezreel, where Naboth lived. <sup>9</sup> In her letter she commanded: "Call the citizens together for fasting and prayer.<sup>a</sup> Then summon Naboth,<sup>10</sup> and find two scoundrels who will accuse him of cursing God and the king. Then take him out and execute him."

<sup>11</sup> The city fathers followed the queen's instructions. <sup>12</sup> They called the meeting and put Naboth on trial. <sup>13</sup> Then two men who had no conscience accused him of cursing God and the king; and he was dragged outside the city and stoned to death. <sup>14</sup> The city officials then sent word to Jezebel that Naboth was dead.

<sup>15</sup> When Jezebel heard the news, she said to Ahab, "You know the vineyard Naboth wouldn't sell you? Well, you can have it now! He's dead!"

<sup>16</sup> So Ahab went down to the vineyard to claim it.

<sup>17</sup> But the Lord said to Elijah, <sup>18</sup> "Go to Samaria to meet King Ahab. He will be at Naboth's vineyard, taking possession of it. <sup>19</sup> Give him this message from me: 'Isn't killing Naboth bad enough? Must you rob him, too? Because you have done this, dogs shall lick your blood outside the city just as they licked the blood of Naboth!'"

<sup>20</sup> "So my enemy has found me!" Ahab exclaimed to Elijah.

"Yes," Elijah answered, "I have come to place God's curse upon you because you have sold yourself to the devil.<sup>b</sup> <sup>21</sup> The Lord is going to bring great harm to you and sweep you away; he will not let a single one of your male descendants survive! <sup>22</sup> He is going to destroy your family as he did the family of King Jeroboam and the family of King Baasha, for you have made him very angry and have led all of Israel into sin. <sup>23</sup> The Lord has also told me that the dogs of Jezreel shall tear apart the body of your wife, Jezebel. <sup>24</sup> The members of your family who die in the city shall be eaten by dogs and those who die in the country shall be eaten by vultures."

<sup>25</sup> No one else was so completely sold out to the devil as Ahab, for his wife Jezebel encouraged him to do every sort of evil. <sup>26</sup> He was especially guilty because he worshiped idols just as the Amorites did—the people whom the Lord had chased out of the land to make room for the people of Israel. <sup>27</sup> When Ahab heard these prophecies, he tore his clothing, put on rags, fasted, slept in sackcloth, and went about in deep humility.

<sup>28</sup> Then another message came to Elijah: <sup>29</sup> "Do you see how Ahab has humbled himself before me? Because he has done this, I will not do what I promised during his lifetime; it will happen to his sons; I will destroy his descendants."

22 FOR THREE YEARS there was no war between Syria and Israel. <sup>2</sup> But during the third year, while King Jehoshaphat of Judah was visiting King Ahab of Israel, <sup>3</sup> Ahab said to his officials, "Do you realize that the Syrians are still occupying our city of Ramoth-gilead? And we're sitting here without doing a thing about it!"

<sup>b</sup> Literally, "I have found you because you have sold yourself to that which is evil in the sight of the Lord."

<sup>4</sup> Then he turned to Jehoshaphat and asked him, "Will you send your army with mine to recover Ramoth-gilead?"

And King Jehoshaphat of Judah replied, "Of course! You and I are brothers; my people are yours to command, and my horses are at your service. <sup>5</sup> But," he added, "we should ask the Lord first, to be sure of what he wants us to do."

And they all said, "Yes, go ahead, for God will help you conquer it."

<sup>7</sup> But Jehoshaphat asked, "Isn't there a prophet of the Lord here? I'd like to ask him, too."

<sup>8</sup> "Well, there's one," King Ahab replied, "but I hate him, for he never prophesies anything good. He always has something gloomy to say. His name is Micaiah, the son of Imlah."

"Oh, come now!" Jehoshaphat replied. "Don't talk like that!"

floor near the city gate. <sup>11</sup> One of the prophets, Zedekiah (son of Chenaanah), made some iron horns and declared, "The Lord promises that you will push the Syrians around with these horns until they are destroyed."

<sup>12</sup> And all the others agreed. "Go ahead and attack Ramoth-gilead," they said, "for the Lord will cause you to triumph!"

<sup>13</sup> The messenger who went to get Micaiah told him what the other prophets were saying, and urged him to say the same thing.

<sup>14</sup> But Micaiah told him, "This I vow, that I will say only what the Lord tells me to!"

<sup>15</sup> When he arrived, the king asked him, "Micaiah, shall we attack Ramoth-gilead, or not?"

"Why, of course! Go right ahead!" Micaiah told him. "You will have a great victory, for the Lord will cause you to conquer!"

<sup>16</sup> "How many times must I tell you to speak only what the Lord tells you to?" the king demanded.

<sup>17</sup> Then Micaiah told him, "I saw all Israel scattered upon the mountains as sheep without a shepherd. And the Lord said, 'Their king is dead; send them to their homes.'" around him.

<sup>20</sup> "Then the Lord said, 'Who will entice Ahab to go and die at Ramoth-gilead?'

"Various suggestions were made,<sup>21</sup> until one angel approached the Lord and said, 'I'll do it!'

"And he replied, 'I will go as a lying spirit in the mouths of all his prophets.'

"And the Lord said, 'That will do it; you will succeed. Go ahead.'

<sup>23</sup> "Don't you see? The Lord has put a lying spirit in the mouths of all these prophets, but the fact of the matter is that the Lord has decreed disaster upon you."

<sup>24</sup> Then Zedekiah (son of Chenaanah) walked over and slapped Micaiah on the face.

"When did the Spirit of the Lord leave me and speak to you?" he demanded.

"Take him to Amon, the mayor of the city, and to my son Joash.

<sup>27</sup> Tell them, 'The king says to put this fellow in jail and feed him with bread and water—and only enough to keep him alive<sup>b</sup>—until I return in peace.'"

<sup>28</sup> "If you return in peace," Micaiah replied, "it will prove that the Lord has not spoken through me." Then he turned to the people standing nearby and said, "Take note of what I've said."

<sup>29</sup> So King Ahab of Israel and King Jehoshaphat of Judah led their armies to Ramoth-gilead.

<sup>30</sup> Ahab said to Jehoshaphat, "You wear your royal robes, but I'll not wear mine!"

So Ahab went into the battle disguised in an ordinary soldier's uniform. <sup>31</sup> For the king of Syria had commanded his thirty-two chariot captains to fight no one except King Ahab himself. <sup>32,33</sup> When they saw King Jehoshaphat in his royal robes, they thought, "That's the man we're after." So they wheeled around to attack him. But when Jehoshaphat shouted out to identify himself,<sup>c</sup> they turned back! <sup>34</sup> However, someone shot an arrow at random and it struck King Ahab between the joints of his armor.

"Take me out of the battle, for I am badly wounded," he groaned to his chariot driver.

<sup>35</sup> The battle became more and more intense as the day wore on, and King Ahab went back in, propped up in his chariot with the blood from his wound running down onto the floorboards. Finally, toward evening, he died. <sup>36,37</sup> Just as the sun was going down the cry ran through his troops. "It's all over—return home! The king is dead!"

And his body was taken to Samaria and buried there. <sup>38</sup> When his chariot and armor were washed beside the pool of Samaria, where the prostitutes bathed, dogs came and licked the king's blood just as the Lord had said would happen.

Kings of Israel. <sup>40</sup> So Ahab was buried among his ancestors, and Ahaziah his son became the new king of Israel.

<sup>41</sup> Meanwhile, over in Judah, Jehoshaphat the son of Asa had become king during the fourth year of the reign of King Ahab of Israel.

<sup>42</sup> Jehoshaphat was thirty-five years old when he ascended the throne, and he reigned in Jerusalem for twenty-five years. His mother was Azubah, the daughter of Shilhi.

<sup>43</sup> He did as his father Asa had done, obeying the Lord in all but one thing: he did not destroy the shrines on the hills, so the people sacrificed and burned incense there. <sup>44</sup> He also made peace with Ahab, the king of Israel. <sup>45</sup> The rest of the deeds of Jehoshaphat and his heroic achievements and his wars are described in The Annals of the Kings of Judah.

<sup>46</sup> He also closed all the houses of male prostitution that still continued from the days of his father

Asa. <sup>47</sup> (There was no king in Edom at that time, only a deputy.)

<sup>51</sup> It was during the seventeenth year of the reign of King Jehoshaphat of Judah that Ahaziah, Ahab's son, began to reign over Israel in Samaria; and he reigned two years. <sup>52,53</sup> But he was not a good king, for he followed in the footsteps of his father and mother and of Jeroboam, who had led Israel into the sin of worshipping idols.

So Ahaziah made the Lord God of Israel very angry.

2 KINGS

1 AFTER KING AHAB'S death the nation of Moab declared its independence and refused to pay tribute to Israel any longer.

<sup>2</sup> Israel's new king, Ahaziah, had fallen off the upstairs porch of his palace at Samaria and was seriously injured. He sent messengers to the temple of the god Baal-zebub at Ekron to ask whether he would recover.

<sup>3</sup> But an angel of the Lord told Elijah the prophet, <sup>a</sup> "Go and meet the messengers and ask them, 'Is it true that there is no God in Israel? Is that why you are going to Baal-zebub, the god of Ekron, to ask whether the king will get well?' <sup>4,5</sup> Because King Ahaziah has done this, the Lord says that he will never leave the bed he is lying on; he will surely die.' "

When Elijah told the messengers this, they returned immediately to the king.

"Why have you returned so soon?" he asked them.

"A man came up to us," they said, "and told us to go back to the king and tell him, 'The Lord wants to know why you are asking questions of Baal-zebub, the god of Ekron. Is it because there is no God in Israel? Now, since you have done this, you will not leave the bed you are lying on; you will surely die.'"

"Who was this fellow?" the king demanded. "What did he look like?"

"He was a hairy man," they replied, "with a wide leather belt."

"It was Elijah the prophet!" the king exclaimed. Then he sent an army captain with fifty soldiers to arrest him. They found him sitting on top of a hill. The captain said to him, "O man of God, the king has commanded you to come along with us."

But Elijah replied, "If I am a man of God, let fire come down from heaven and destroy you and your fifty men!" Then lightning struck them and killed them all!

So the king sent another captain with fifty men to demand, "O man of God, the king says that you must come down right away."

Elijah replied, "If I am a man of God, let fire come down from heaven and destroy you and your fifty men." And again the fire from God burned them up.

Once more the king sent fifty men, but this time the captain fell to his knees before Elijah and pleaded with him, "O man of God, please spare my life and the lives of these, your fifty servants. "Have mercy on us! Don't destroy us as you did the others."

Then the angel of the Lord said to Elijah, "Don't be afraid. Go with him." So Elijah went to the king.

"Why did you send messengers to Baal-zebub, the god of Ekron, to ask about your sickness?" Elijah demanded. "Is it because there is no God in Israel to ask? Because you have done this, you shall not leave this bed; you will surely die."

So Ahaziah died as the Lord had predicted through Elijah, and his brother Jehoram became the new king—for Ahaziah did not have a son to succeed him. This occurred in the second year of the reign of King Jehoram (son of Jehoshaphat) of Judah. The rest of the history of Ahaziah's reign is recorded in The Annals of the Kings of Israel.

NOW THE TIME came for the Lord to take Elijah to heaven—by means of a whirlwind! Elijah said to Elisha as they left Gilgal, "Stay here, for the Lord has told me to go to Bethel."

But Elisha replied, "I swear to God that I won't leave you!"

So they went on together to Bethel. There the young prophets of Bethel Seminary came out to meet them and asked Elisha, "Did you know that the Lord is going to take Elijah away from you today?"

"Quiet!" Elisha snapped. "Of course I know it."

Then Elijah said to Elisha, "Please stay here in Bethel, for the Lord has sent me to Jericho."

But Elisha replied again, "I swear to God that I won't leave you." So they went on together to Jericho.

<sup>7</sup> Then the students at Jericho Seminary came to Elisha and asked him, "Do you know that the Lord is going to take away your master today?"

"Will you please be quiet?" he commanded. "Of course I know it!"

<sup>8</sup> Then Elijah said to Elisha, "Please stay here, for the Lord has sent me to the Jordan River."

But Elisha replied as before, "I swear to God that I won't leave you."

So they went on together and stood beside the Jordan River as fifty of the young prophets watched from a distance. <sup>9</sup> Then Elijah folded his cloak together and struck the water with it; and the river divided and they went across on dry ground!

<sup>9</sup> When they arrived on the other side Elijah said to Elisha, "What wish shall I grant you before I am taken away?"

And Elisha replied, "Please grant me twice as much prophetic power as you have had."

<sup>10</sup> "You have asked a hard thing," Elijah replied. "If you see me when I am taken from you, then you will get your request. But if not, then you won't."

<sup>12</sup> Elisha saw it and cried out,

"My father! My father! The Chariot of Israel and the charioteers!"

As they disappeared from sight he tore his robe. <sup>13,14</sup> Then he picked up Elijah's cloak and returned to the bank of the Jordan River, and struck the water with it.

"Where is the Lord God of Elijah?" he cried out. And the water parted and Elisha went across!

<sup>15</sup> When the young prophets of Jericho saw what had happened, they exclaimed, "The spirit of Elijah rests upon Elisha!" And they went to meet him and greeted him respectfully.

<sup>16</sup> "Sir," they said, "just say the word and fifty of our best athletes will search the wilderness for your master; perhaps the Spirit of the Lord has left him on some mountain or in some ravine."

"No," Elisha said, "don't bother."

<sup>17</sup> But they kept urging until he was embarrassed, and finally said, "All right, go ahead." Then fifty men searched for three days, but didn't find him.

<sup>18</sup> Elisha was still at Jericho when they returned. "Didn't I tell you not to go?" he growled.

<sup>19</sup> Now a delegation of the city officials of Jericho visited Elisha. "We have a problem," they told him. "This city is located in beautiful natural surroundings, as you can see; but the water is bad, and causes our women to have miscarriages."<sup>a</sup>

<sup>20</sup> "Well," he said, "bring me a new bowl filled with salt." So they brought it to him.

<sup>21</sup> Then he went out to the city well and threw the salt in and declared, "The Lord has healed these waters. They shall no longer cause death or miscarriage."

<sup>23</sup> From Jericho he went to Bethel. As he was walking along the road, some young boys from the city began mocking and making fun of him because of his bald head.

<sup>24</sup> He turned around and cursed them in the name of the Lord; and two female bears came out of the woods and killed forty-two of them.

<sup>25</sup> Then he went to Mount Carmel and finally returned to Samaria.

3 AHAB'S SON JEHOAM began his reign over Israel during the eighteenth year of the reign of King Jehoshaphat<sup>a</sup> of Judah; and he reigned twelve years. His capital was Samaria. <sup>2</sup> He was a very evil man, but not as wicked as his father and mother had been, for he at least tore down the pillar to Baal that his father had made. <sup>3</sup> Nevertheless he still clung to the great sin of Jeroboam (the son of Nebat), who had led the people of Israel into the worship of idols.

<sup>4</sup> King Mesha of Moab and his people were sheep ranchers. They paid Israel an annual tribute of 100,000 lambs and the wool of 100,000 rams; <sup>5</sup> but after Ahab's death, the king of Moab rebelled against Israel. <sup>6,7,8</sup> So King Jehoram mustered the Israeli army and sent this message to King Jehoshaphat of Judah:

"The king of Moab has rebelled against me. Will you help me fight him?"

"Of course I will," Jehoshaphat replied. "My people and horses are yours to command. What are your battle plans?"

"We'll attack from the wilderness of Edom," Jehoram replied.

<sup>9</sup> So their two armies, now joined also by troops from Edom, moved along a roundabout route through the wilderness for seven days; but there was no water for the men or their pack animals.

<sup>10</sup> "Oh, what shall we do?" the king of Israel cried out. "The Lord has brought us here to let the king of Moab defeat us."

"But Jehoshaphat, the king of Judah, asked, 'Isn't there a prophet of the Lord with us? If so, we can find out what to do!'"

"Elisha is here," one of the king of Israel's officers replied. Then he added, "He was Elijah's assistant."

<sup>12</sup> "Fine," Jehoshaphat said. "He's just the man we want."<sup>b</sup> So the kings of Israel, Judah, and Edom went to consult Elisha.

<sup>13</sup> "I want no part of you," Elisha snarled at King Jehoram of Israel. "Go to the false prophets of your father and mother!"

But King Jehoram replied, "No! For it is the Lord who has called us here to be destroyed by the king of Moab!"

<sup>14</sup> "I swear by the Lord God that I wouldn't bother with you except for the presence of King Jehoshaphat of Judah," Elisha replied.

<sup>15</sup> "Now bring me someone to play the lute." And as the lute was played, the message of the Lord came to Elisha:

<sup>16</sup> "The Lord says to fill this dry valley with trenches to hold the water he will send. <sup>17</sup> You won't see wind nor rain, but this valley will be filled with water, and you will have plenty for yourselves and for your animals! <sup>18</sup> But this is only the beginning, for the Lord will make you victorious over the army of Moab! <sup>19</sup> You will conquer the best of their cities—even those that are fortified—and ruin all the good land with stones."

<sup>20</sup> And sure enough, the next day at about the time when the morning sacrifice was offered—look! Water! It was flowing from the direction of Edom, and soon there was water everywhere.

<sup>21</sup> Meanwhile, when the people of Moab heard about the three armies marching against them, they mobilized every man who could fight, old and young, and stationed themselves along their frontier. <sup>22</sup> But early the next morning the sun looked red as it shone across the water!

<sup>23</sup> "Blood!" they exclaimed. "The three armies have attacked and killed each other! Let's go and collect the loot!"

<sup>24</sup> But when they arrived at the Israeli camp, the army of Israel rushed out and began killing them; and the army of Moab fled. Then the men of Israel moved forward into the land of Moab, destroying everything as they went. <sup>25</sup> They destroyed the cities, threw stones on every good piece of land, stopped up the wells, and felled the fruit trees; finally, only Fort Kir-hareseth was left, but even that finally fell to them.<sup>c</sup>

<sup>26</sup> When the king of Moab saw that the battle had been lost, he led 700 of his swordsmen in a last desperate attempt to break through to the king of Edom; but he failed. <sup>27</sup> Then he took his oldest son, who was to have been the next king, and to the horror of the Israeli army, killed him and sacrificed him as a burnt offering upon the wall. So the army of Israel turned back in disgust to their own land.

4 ONE DAY THE wife of one of the seminary students came to Elisha to tell him of her husband's death. He was a man who had loved God, she said. But he had owed some money when he died, and now the creditor was demanding it back. If she didn't pay, he said he would take her two sons as his slaves.

<sup>2</sup> "What shall I do?" Elisha asked. "How much food do you have in the house?"

"Nothing at all, except a jar of olive oil," she replied.

<sup>3</sup> "Then borrow many pots and pans from your friends and neighbors!" he instructed. <sup>4</sup> "Go into your house with your sons and shut the door behind you. Then pour olive oil from your jar into the pots and pans, setting them aside as they are filled!"

<sup>5</sup> So she did. Her sons brought the pots and pans to her, and she filled one after another! <sup>6</sup> Soon every container was full to the brim!

"Bring me another jar," she said to her sons.

<sup>c</sup> Literally, "the slingers surrounded and conquered it."

"There aren't any more!" they told her. And then the oil stopped flowing!

<sup>7</sup> When she told the prophet what had happened, he said to her, "Go and sell the oil and pay your debt, and there will be enough money left for you and your sons to live on!"

<sup>8</sup> One day Elisha went to Shunem. A prominent woman of the city invited him in to eat, and afterwards, whenever he passed that way, he stopped for dinner.

<sup>9</sup> She said to her husband, "I'm sure this man who stops in from time to time is a holy prophet. <sup>10</sup> Let's make a little room for him on the roof; we can put in a bed, a table, a chair, and a lamp, and he will have a place to stay whenever he comes by."

<sup>11,12</sup> Once when he was resting in the room he said to his servant Gehazi, "Tell the woman I want to speak to her."

When she came, <sup>13</sup> he said to Gehazi, "Tell her that we appreciate her kindness to us. Now ask her what we can do for her. Does she want me to put in a good word for her to the king or to the general of the army?"

"No," she replied, "I am perfectly content."

"What can we do for her?" he asked Gehazi afterwards.

He suggested, "She doesn't have a son, and her husband is an old man."

When she returned, he talked to her as she stood in the doorway. "Next year at about this time you shall have a son!"

"O man of God," she exclaimed, "don't lie to me like that!"

<sup>17</sup> But it was true; the woman soon conceived and had a baby boy the following year, just as Elisha had predicted.

<sup>18</sup> One day when her child was older, he went out to visit his father, who was working with the reapers.

But she said, "It's important. I must go."

<sup>24</sup> So she saddled the donkey and said to the servant, "Hurry! Don't slow down for my comfort unless I tell you to."

<sup>25</sup> As she approached Mount Carmel, Elisha saw her in the distance and said to Gehazi, "Look, that woman from Shunem is coming. <sup>26</sup> Run and meet her and ask her what the trouble is. See if her husband is all right and if the child is well."

"Yes," she told Gehazi, "everything is fine."

<sup>27</sup> But when she came to Elisha at the mountain she fell to the ground before him and caught hold of his feet. Gehazi began to push her away, but the prophet said, "Let her alone; something is deeply troubling her and the Lord hasn't told me what it is."

<sup>28</sup> Then she said, "It was you who said I'd have a son. And I begged you not to lie to me!"

<sup>29</sup> Then he said to Gehazi, "Quick, take my staff! Don't talk to anyone along the way. Hurry! Lay the staff upon the child's face."

<sup>30</sup> But the boy's mother said, "I swear to God that I won't go home without you." So Elisha returned with her.

<sup>31</sup> Gehazi went on ahead and laid the staff upon the child's face, but nothing happened. There was no sign of life. He returned to meet Elisha and told him, "The child is still dead."

<sup>32</sup> When Elisha arrived, the child was indeed dead, lying there upon the prophet's bed. <sup>33</sup> He went in and shut the door behind him and prayed to the Lord. <sup>34</sup> Then he lay upon the child's body, placing his mouth upon the child's mouth, and his eyes upon the child's eyes, and his hands upon the child's hands. And the child's body began to grow warm again! <sup>35</sup> Then the prophet went down and walked back and forth in the house a few times; returning upstairs, he stretched himself again upon the child. This time the little boy sneezed seven times and opened his eyes!

<sup>36</sup> Then the prophet summoned Gehazi. "Call her!" he said. And when she came in, he said, "Here's your son!"

<sup>37</sup> She fell to the floor at his feet and then picked up her son and went out.

but there was a famine in the land. One day as he was teaching the young prophets, he said to Gehazi, "Make some stew for supper for these men."

<sup>39</sup> One of the young men went out into the field to gather vegetables and came back with some wild gourds. He shredded them and put them into a kettle without realizing that they were poisonous. <sup>40</sup> But after the men had eaten a bite or two they cried out, "Oh, sir, there's poison in this stew!"

<sup>41</sup> "Bring me some meal," Elisha said. He threw it into the kettle and said, "Now it's all right! Go ahead and eat!" And then it didn't harm them.

But Elisha said, "Go ahead, for the Lord says there will be plenty for all, and some will even be left over!"

<sup>44</sup> And sure enough, there was, just as the Lord had said!

5 THE KING OF Syria had high admiration for Naaman, the commander-in-chief of his army, for he had led his troops to many glorious victories. So he was a great hero, but he was a leper. <sup>2</sup> Bands of Syrians had invaded the land of Israel and among their captives was a lit-the girl who had been given to Naaman's wife as a maid.

<sup>1</sup> One day the little girl said to her mistress, "I wish my master would go to see the prophet in Samaria. He would heal him of his leprosy!"

<sup>3</sup> "Go and visit the prophet," the king told him. "I will send a letter of introduction for you to carry to the king of Israel."

So Naaman started out, taking gifts of $20,000 in silver, $60,000 in gold, and ten suits of clothing. <sup>4</sup> The letter to the king of Israel said: "The man bringing this letter is my servant Naaman; I want you to heal him of his leprosy."

<sup>7</sup> When the king of Israel read it, he tore his clothes and said, "This man sends me a leper to heal! Am I God, that I can kill and give life? He is only trying to get an excuse to invade us again."

<sup>8</sup> But when Elisha the prophet heard about the king of Israel's plight, he sent this message to him: "Why are you so upset? Send Naaman to me, and he will learn that there is a true prophet of God here in Israel."

<sup>9</sup> So Naaman arrived with his horses and chariots and stood at the door of Elisha's home. <sup>10</sup> Elisha sent a messenger out to tell him to go and wash in the Jordan River seven times and he would be healed of every trace of his leprosy! <sup>11</sup> But Naaman was angry and stalked away.

"Look," he said, "I thought at least he would come out and talk to me! I expected him to wave his hand over the leprosy and call upon the name of the Lord his God, and heal me! <sup>12</sup> Aren't the Abana River and Pharpar River of Damascus better than all the rivers of Israel put together? If it's rivers I need, I'll wash at home and get rid of my leprosy." So he went away in a rage.

<sup>13</sup> But his officers tried to reason with him and said, "If the prophet had told you to do some great thing, wouldn't you have done it? So you should certainly obey him when he says simply to go and wash and be cured!"

<sup>14</sup> So Naaman went down to the Jordan River and dipped himself seven times, as the prophet had told him to. And his flesh became as healthy as a little child's, and he was healed! <sup>15</sup> Then he and his entire party went back to find the prophet; they stood humbly before him and Naaman said, "I know at last that there is no God in all the world except in Israel; now please accept my gifts."

<sup>16</sup> But Elisha replied, "I swear by Jehovah my God that I will not accept them."

Naaman urged him to take them, but he absolutely refused. <sup>17</sup> "Well," Naaman said, "all right. But please give me two mule-loads of earth to take back with me, for from now on I will never again offer any burnt offerings or sacrifices to any other God except the Lord." <sup>18</sup> However, may the Lord pardon me this one thing—when my master the king goes into the temple of the god Rimmon to worship there and leans on my arm, may the Lord pardon me when I bow too."

<sup>20</sup> But Gehazi, Elisha's servant, said to himself, "My master shouldn't have let this fellow get away without taking his gifts. I will chase after him and get something from him."

<sup>21</sup> So Gehazi caught up with him. When Naaman saw him coming, he jumped down from his chariot and ran to meet him.

"Is everything all right?" he asked.

<sup>22</sup> "Yes," he said, "but my master has sent me to tell you that two young prophets from the hills of Ephraim have just arrived, and he would like $2,000 in silver and two suits to give to them."

<sup>25</sup> When he went in to his master, Elisha asked him, "Where have you been, Gehazi?"

"I haven't been anywhere," he replied.

<sup>26</sup> But Elisha asked him, "Don't you realize that I was there in thought when Naaman stepped down from his chariot to meet you? Is this the time to receive money and clothing and olive farms and vineyards and sheep and oxen and servants? <sup>27</sup> Because you have done this, Naaman's leprosy shall be upon you and upon your children and your children's children forever."

And Gehazi walked from the room a leper, his skin as white as snow.

6 ONE DAY THE seminary students came to Elisha and told him, "As you can see, our dormitory is too small. Tell us, as our president, whether we can build a new one down beside the Jordan River, where there are plenty of logs."

"All right," he told them, "go ahead."

"I will," he said.

"Oh, sir," he cried, "it was borrowed!"

<sup>6</sup> "Where did it fall?" the prophet asked. The youth showed him the place, and Elisha cut a stick and threw it into the water; and the axhead rose to the surface and floated! <sup>7</sup> "Grab it," Elisha said to him; and he did.

<sup>8</sup> Once when the king of Syria was at war with Israel, he said to his officers, "We will mobilize our forces at ____" (naming the place).

<sup>9</sup> Immediately Elisha warned the king of Israel, "Don't go near ____" (naming the same place) "for the Syrians are planning to mobilize their troops there!"

Elisha was right, and sure enough, he had saved him from disaster. This happened several times.

<sup>11</sup> The king of Syria was puzzled. He called together his officers and demanded, "Which of you is the traitor? Who has been informing the king of Israel about my plans?"

<sup>13</sup> "Go and find out where he is, and we'll send troops to seize him," the king exclaimed.

And the report came back, "Elisha is at Dothan."

<sup>14</sup> So one night the king of Syria sent a great army with many chariots and horses to surround the city.

<sup>15</sup> When the prophet's servant got up early the next morning and went outside, there were troops, horses, and chariots everywhere.

"Alas, my master, what shall we do now?" he cried out to Elisha.

<sup>17</sup> Then Elisha prayed, "Lord, open his eyes and let him see!" And the Lord opened the young man's eyes so that he could see horses of fire and chariots of fire everywhere upon the mountain!

<sup>18</sup> As the Syrian army advanced upon them, Elisha prayed, "Lord, please make them blind." And he did.

<sup>19</sup> Then Elisha went out and told them, "You've come the wrong way! This isn't the right city! Follow me and I will take you to the man you're looking for." And he led them to Samaria!

<sup>20</sup> As soon as they arrived Elisha prayed, "Lord, now open their eyes and let them see." And the Lord did, and they discovered that they were in Samaria, the capital city of Israel!

<sup>21</sup> When the king of Israel saw them, he shouted to Elisha, "Oh, sir, shall I kill them? Shall I kill them?"

<sup>22</sup> "Of course not!" Elisha told him. "Do we kill prisoners of war? Give them food and drink and send them home again."

<sup>23</sup> So the king made a great feast for them, and then sent them home to their king. And after that the Syrian raiders stayed away from the land of Israel.

<sup>26-30</sup> One day as the king of Israel was walking along the wall of the city, a woman called to him, "Help, my lord the king!"

"If the Lord doesn't help you, what can I do?" he retorted. "I have neither food nor wine to give you. However, what's the matter?"

She replied, "This woman proposed that we eat my son one day and her son the next. So we boiled my son and ate him, but the next day when I said, 'Kill your son so we can eat him,' she hid him."

When the king heard this he tore his clothes. (The people watching noticed through the rip he tore in them that he was wearing an inner robe made of sackcloth next to his flesh.)

<sup>11</sup> "May God kill me if I don't execute Elisha this very day," the king vowed.

<sup>12</sup> Elisha was sitting in his house at a meeting with the elders of Israel when the king sent a messenger to summon him. But before the messenger arrived Elisha said to the elders, "This murderer has sent a man to kill me. When he arrives, shut the door and keep him out, for his master will soon follow him."

"The Lord has caused this mess," the king stormed. "Why should I expect any help from him?"

7 ELISHA REPLIED, "THE Lord says that by this time tomorrow two gallons of flour or four gallons of barley grain will be sold in the markets of Samaria for a dollar!"

<sup>2</sup> The officer assisting the king said, "That couldn't happen if the Lord made windows in the sky!"

But Elisha replied, "You will see it happen, but you won't be able to buy any of it!"

<sup>3</sup> Now there were four lepers sitting outside the city gates.

"Why sit here until we die?" they asked each other. <sup>4</sup> "We will starve if we stay here and we will starve if we go back into the city; so we might as well go out and surrender to the Syrian army. If they let us live, so much the better; but if they kill us, we would have died anyway."

<sup>5</sup> So that evening they went out to the camp of the Syrians, but there was no one there! <sup>6</sup> (For the Lord had made the whole Syrian army hear the clatter of speeding chariots and a loud galloping of horses and the sounds of a great army approaching. "The king of Israel has hired the Hittites and Egyptians to attack us," they cried out. <sup>7</sup> So they panicked and fled into the night, abandoning their tents, horses, donkeys, and everything else.)

<sup>8</sup> When the lepers arrived at the edge of the camp they went into one tent after another, eating, drinking wine, and carrying out silver and gold and clothing and hiding it. <sup>9</sup> Finally they said to each other, "This isn't right. This is wonderful news, and we aren't sharing it with anyone! Even if we wait until morning, some terrible calamity will certainly fall upon us; come on, let's go back and tell the people at the palace."

<sup>10</sup> So they went back to the city and told the watchmen what had happened—they had gone out to the Syrian camp and no one was there! The horses and donkeys were tethered and the tents were all in order, but there was not a soul around. <sup>11</sup> Then the watchmen shouted the news to those in the palace.

<sup>12</sup> The king got out of bed and told his officers, "I know what has happened. The Syrians know we are starving, so they have left their camp and have hidden in the fields, thinking that we will be lured out of the city. Then they will attack us and make slaves of us and get in."

<sup>13</sup> One of his officers replied, "We'd better send out scouts to see. Let them take five of the remaining horses—if something happens to the animals it won't be any greater loss than if they stay here and die with the rest of us!"

<sup>14</sup> Four chariot-horses were found and the king sent out two charioteers to see where the Syrians had gone. <sup>15</sup> They followed a trail of clothing and equipment all the way to the Jordan River—thrown away by the Syrians in their haste. The scouts returned and told the king, <sup>16</sup> and the people of Samaria rushed out and plundered the camp of the Syrians. So it was true that two gallons of flour and four gallons of barley were sold that day for one dollar, just as the Lord had said!

<sup>17</sup> The king appointed his special assistant to control the traffic at the gate, but he was knocked down and trampled and killed as the people rushed out. This is what Elisha had predicted on the previous day when the king had come to arrest him, <sup>18</sup> and the prophet had told the king that flour and barley would sell for so little on the following day.

<sup>19</sup> The king's officer had replied, "That couldn't happen even if the Lord opened the windows of heaven!"

And the prophet had said, "You will see it happen, but you won't be able to buy any of it!"

<sup>20</sup> And he couldn't, for the people trampled him to death at the gate!

8 ELISHA HAD TOLD the woman whose son he had brought back to life, "Take your family and move to some other country, for the Lord has called down a famine on Israel that will last for seven years."

<sup>2</sup> So the woman took her family and lived in the land of the Philistines for seven years. <sup>3</sup> After the famine ended, she returned to the land of Israel and went to see the king about getting back her house and land. <sup>4</sup> Just as she came in, the king was talking with Gehazi, Elisha's servant, and saying, "Tell me some stories of the great things Elisha has done." <sup>5</sup> And Gehazi was telling the king about the time when Elisha brought a little boy back to life. At that very moment, the mother of the boy walked in!

"Oh, sir!" Gehazi exclaimed. "Here is the woman now, and this is her son—the very one Elisha brought back to life!"

<sup>6</sup> "Is this true?" the king asked her. And she told him that it was. So he directed one of his officials to see to it that everything she had owned was restored to her, plus the value of any crops that had been harvested during her absence.

<sup>7</sup> Afterwards Elisha went to Damascus (the capital of Syria), where King Ben-hadad lay sick. Someone told the king that the prophet had come.

<sup>8</sup> When the king heard the news, he said to Hazael, "Take a present to the man of God and tell him to ask the Lord whether I will get well again."

So Hazael took forty camel-loads of the best produce of the land as presents for Elisha and said to him, "Your son Ben-hadad, the king of Syria, has sent me to ask you whether he will recover."

<sup>10</sup> And Elisha replied, "Tell him, 'Yes.' But the Lord has shown me that he will surely die!"

<sup>11</sup> Elisha stared at Hazeal until he became embarrassed, and then Elisha started crying.

Elisha replied, "I know the terrible things you will do to the people of Israel: you will burn their forts, kill the young men, dash their babies against the rocks, and rip open the bellies of the pregnant women!"

<sup>13</sup> "Am I a dog?" Hazeal asked him. "I would never do that sort of thing."

But Elisha replied, "The Lord has shown me that you are going to be the king of Syria."

<sup>14</sup> When Hazeal went back, the king asked him, "What did he tell you?"

And Hazeal replied, "He told me that you would recover."

<sup>15</sup> But the next day Hazeal took a blanket and dipped it in water and held it over the king's face until he smothered to death. And Hazeal became king instead.

<sup>16</sup> King Jehoram, the son of King Jehoshaphat of Judah, began his reign during the fifth year of the reign of King Joram of Israel, the son of Ahab. <sup>17</sup> Jehoram was thirty-two years old when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem for eight years. <sup>18</sup> But he was as wicked as Ahab and the other kings of Israel; he even married one of Ahab's daughters. <sup>19</sup> Nevertheless, because God had promised his servant David that he would watch over and guide his descendants, he did not destroy Judah.

people in Edom revolted from Judah and appointed their own king. <sup>21</sup> King Jehoram<sup>a</sup> tried unsuccessfully to crush the rebellion: he crossed the Jordan River and attacked the city of Zair, but was quickly surrounded by the army of Edom. Under cover of night he broke through their ranks, but his army deserted him and fled. <sup>22</sup> So Edom has maintained its independence to this day. Libnah also rebelled at that time.

Then his son Ahaziah<sup>b</sup> became the new king during the twelfth year of the reign of King Joram of Israel, the son of Ahab. <sup>26</sup> Ahaziah was twenty-two years old when he began to reign but he reigned only one year, in Jerusalem. His mother was Athaliah, the granddaughter of King Omri of Israel. <sup>27</sup> He was an evil king, just as all of King Ahab's descendants were—for he was related to Ahab by marriage.

<sup>28</sup> He joined King Joram of Israel (son of Ahab) in his war against Hazeal, the king of Syria, at Ramoth-gilead. King Joram was wounded in the battle, <sup>29</sup> so he went to Jezreel to rest and recover from his wounds. While he was there, King Ahaziah of Judah (son of Jehoram) came to visit him.

9 MEANWHILE ELISHA HAD summoned one of the young prophets.

"Get ready to go to Ramoth-gilead," he told him. "Take this vial of oil with you, <sup>2</sup> and find Jehu (the son of Jehoshaphat, the son of Nimshi). Call him into a private room away from his friends, <sup>3</sup> and pour the oil over his head. Tell him that the Lord has anointed him to be the king of Israel; then run for your life!"

<sup>4</sup> So the young prophet did as he was told. When he arrived in Ramoth-gilead, <sup>5</sup> he found Jehu sitting around with the other army officers.

"I have a message for you, sir," he said.

"For which one of us?" Jehu asked.

"For you," he replied.

<sup>6</sup> So Jehu left the others and went into the house, and the young man poured the oil over his head and said, "The Lord God of Israel says, 'I anoint you king of the Lord's people, Israel. <sup>7</sup> You are to destroy the family of Ahab; you will avenge the murder of my prophets and of all my other people who were killed by Jezebel. <sup>8</sup> The entire family of Ahab must be wiped out—every male, no matter who. <sup>9</sup> I will destroy the family of Ahab as I destroyed the families of Jeroboam (son of Nebat) and of Baasha (son of Ahijah). <sup>10</sup> Dogs shall eat Ahab's wife Jezebel at Jezreel, and no one will bury her.'"

Then he opened the door and ran.

<sup>11</sup> Jehu went back to his friends and one of them asked him, "What did that crazy fellow want? Is everything all right?"

"You know very well who he was and what he wanted," Jehu replied.

<sup>12</sup> "No, we don't," they said. "Tell us."

So he told them what the man had said and that he had been anointed king of Israel!

<sup>14</sup> That is how Jehu (son of Jehoshaphat, son of Nimshi) rebelled against King Joram. (King Joram had been with the army at Ramoth-gilead, defending Israel against the forces of King Hazael of Syria. <sup>15</sup> But he had returned to Jezreel to recover from his wounds.)

"Since you want me to be king," Jehu told the men who were with him, "don't let anyone escape to Jezreel to report what we have done."

<sup>16</sup> Then Jehu jumped into a chariot and rode to Jezreel himself to find King Joram, who was lying there wounded. (King Ahaziah of Judah was there too, for he had gone to visit him.) <sup>17</sup> The watchman on the Tower of Jezreel saw Jehu and his company approaching and shouted, "Someone is coming."

"Send out a rider and find out if he is friend or foe," King Joram shouted back. <sup>18</sup> So a soldier rode out to meet Jehu.

"The king wants to know whether you are friend or foe," he demanded. "Do you come in peace?"

Jehu replied, "What do you know about peace? Get behind me!"

The watchman called out to the king that the messenger had met them but was not returning. <sup>19</sup> So the king sent out a second rider. He rode up to them and demanded in the name of the king to know whether their intentions were friendly or not.

Jehu answered, "What do you know about friendliness? Get behind me!"

Then he and King Ahaziah of Judah rode out to meet Jehu. They met him at the field of Naboth, <sup>22</sup> and King Joram demanded, "Do you come as a friend, Jehu?"

Jehu replied, "How can there be friendship as long as the evils of your mother Jezebel are all around us?"

<sup>23</sup> Then King Joram reined the chariot-horses around and fled, shouting to King Ahaziah, "There is treachery, Ahaziah! Treason!"

<sup>25</sup> Jehu said to Bidkar, his assistant, "Throw him into the field of Naboth, for once when you and I were riding along behind his father Ahab, the Lord revealed this prophecy to me: <sup>26</sup> 'I will repay him here on Naboth's property for the murder of Naboth and his sons.' So throw him out on Naboth's field, just as the Lord said."

So they shot him in his chariot at the place where the road climbs to Gur, near Ibleam. He was able to go on as far as Megiddo, but died there. <sup>28</sup> His officials took him by chariot to Jerusalem where they buried him in the royal cemetery. <sup>29</sup> (Ahaziah's reign over Judah had begun in the twelfth<sup>a</sup> year of the reign of King Joram of Israel.)

<sup>30</sup> When Jezebel heard that Jehu had come to Jezreel, she painted her eyelids and fixed her hair and sat at a window. <sup>31</sup> When Jehu entered the gate of the palace, she shouted at him, "How are you today, you murderer! You son of a Zimri who murdered his master!"

<sup>32</sup> He looked up and saw her at the window and shouted, "Who is on my side?" And two or three eunuchs looked out at him.

So they threw her out the window, and her blood splattered against the wall and on the horses; and she was trampled by the horses' hoofs.

<sup>34</sup> Then Jehu went into the palace for lunch. Afterwards he said, "Someone go and bury this cursed woman, for she is the daughter of a king."

<sup>35</sup> But when they went out to bury her, they found only her skull, her feet, and her hands.

<sup>36</sup> When they returned and told him, he remarked, "That is just what the Lord said would happen. He told Elijah the prophet that dogs would eat her flesh and that her body would be scattered like manure upon the field, so that no one could tell whose it was."

10 THEN JEHU WROTE a letter to the city council of Samaria and to the guardians of Ahab's seventy sons—all of whom were living there.

<sup>23</sup> "Upon receipt of this letter, select the best one of Ahab's sons to be your king, and prepare to fight for his throne. For you have chariots and horses and a fortified city and an armory."

<sup>4</sup> But they were too frightened to do it. "Two kings couldn't stand against this man! What can we do?" they said.

<sup>5</sup> So the manager of palace affairs and the city manager, together with the city council and the guardians of Ahab's sons, sent him this message:

"Jehu, we are your servants and will do anything you tell us to. We have decided that you should be our king instead of one of Ahab's sons."

<sup>6</sup> Jehu responded with this message: "If you are on my side and are going to obey me, bring the heads of your master's sons to me at Jezreel at about this time tomorrow."

(These seventy sons of King Ahab were living in the homes of the chief men of the city, where they had been raised since childhood.)

<sup>7</sup> When the letter arrived, all seventy of them were murdered, and their heads were packed into baskets and presented to Jehu at Jezreel. <sup>8</sup> When a messenger told Jehu that the heads of the king's sons had arrived, he said to pile them in two heaps at the entrance of the city gate, and to leave them there until the next morning.

<sup>9,10</sup> In the morning he went out and spoke to the crowd that had gathered around them. "You aren't to blame," he told them. "I conspired against my master and killed him, but I didn't kill his sons! The Lord has done that, for everything he says comes true. He declared through his servant Elijah that this would happen to Ahab's descendants."

<sup>11</sup> Jehu then killed all the rest of the members of the family of Ahab who were in Jezreel, as well as all of his important officials, personal friends, and private chaplains. Finally, no one was left who had been close to him in any way. <sup>12</sup> Then he set out for Samaria, and stayed overnight at a shepherd's inn along the way. <sup>13</sup> While he was there he met the brothers of King Ahaziah of Judah.

"Who are you?" he asked them.

And they replied, "We are brothers<sup>b</sup> of King Ahaziah. We are going to Samaria to visit the sons of King Ahab and of the Queen Mother, Jezebel."

<sup>14</sup> "Grab them!" Jehu shouted to his men. And he took them out to the cistern and killed all forty-two of them.

<sup>15</sup> As he left the inn, he met Jehonadab, the son of Rechab, who was coming to meet him. After they had greeted each other, Jehu said to him, "Are you as loyal to me as I am to you?"

"Yes," Jehonadab replied.

"Then give me your hand," Jehu said, and he helped him into the royal chariot.

a Apparently Jehu in his zeal exceeded the Lord's command in this bloodbath, for he was blamed for it by the prophet Hosea (1:4).
b Literally, "kinsmen."

<sup>16</sup> "Now come along with me," Jehu said, "and see how much I have done for the Lord." So Jehonadab rode along with him. <sup>17</sup> When he arrived in Samaria he butchered all of Ahab's friends and relatives, just as Elijah, speaking for the Lord, had predicted.

Then Jehu called a meeting of all the people of the city and said to them, "Ahab hardly worshiped Baal at all in comparison to the way I am going to! <sup>18,19</sup> Summon all the prophets and priests of Baal, and call together all his worshipers. See to it that every one of them comes, for we worshipers of Baal are going to have a great celebration to praise him. Any of Baal's worshipers who don't come will be put to death."

But Jehu's plan was to exterminate them. <sup>20,21</sup> He sent messengers throughout all Israel summoning those who worshiped Baal; and they all came and filled the temple of Baal from one end to the other. <sup>22</sup> He instructed the head of the robing room, "Be sure that every worshiper wears one of the special robes."

<sup>23</sup> Then Jehu and Jehonadab (son of Rechab) went into the temple to address the people: "Check to be sure that only those who worship Baal are here; don't let anyone in who worships the Lord!"

<sup>24</sup> As the priests of Baal began offering sacrifices and burnt offerings, Jehu surrounded the building with eighty of his men and told them, "If you let anyone escape, you'll pay for it with your own life."

<sup>25</sup> As soon as he had finished sacrificing the burnt offering, Jehu went out and told his officers and men, "Go in and kill the whole bunch of them. Don't let a single one escape."

So they slaughtered them all and dragged their bodies outside. Then Jehu's men went into the inner temple, <sup>26</sup> dragged out the pillar used for the worship of Baal, and burned it. <sup>27</sup> They wrecked the temple and converted it into a public toilet, which it still is today. <sup>28</sup> Thus Jehu destroyed every trace of Baal from Israel. <sup>29</sup> However, he didn't destroy the golden calves at Bethel and Dan—this was the great sin of Jeroboam (son of Nebat), for it resulted in all Israel sinning.

<sup>30</sup> Afterwards the Lord said to Jehu, "You have done well in following my instructions to destroy the dynasty of Ahab. Because of this I will cause your son, your grandson, and your great-grandson to be the kings of Israel."

<sup>31</sup> But Jehu didn't follow the Lord God of Israel with all his heart, for he continued to worship Jeroboam's gold calves that had been the cause of such great sin in Israel.

<sup>32,33</sup> At about that time the Lord began to whittle down the size of Israel. King Hazael conquered several sections of the country east of the Jordan River, as well as all of Gilead, Gad, and Reuben; he also conquered parts of Manasseh from the Aroer River in the valley of the Arnon as far as Gilead and Bashan.

<sup>34</sup> The rest of Jehu's activities are recorded in The Annals of the Kings of Israel. <sup>35</sup> When Jehu died, he was buried in Samaria; and his son Jehoahaz became the new king. <sup>36</sup> In all, Jehu reigned as king of Israel, in Samaria, for twenty-eight years.

11 WHEN ATHALIAH, THE mother of King Ahaziah of Judah, learned that her son was dead, she killed all of his children, <sup>2,3</sup> except for his year-old<sup>a</sup> son Joash. Joash was rescued by his Aunt Jehosheba, who was a sister of King Ahaziah (for she was a daughter of King Jehoram, Ahaziah's father). She stole him away from among the rest of the king's children who were waiting to be slain, and hid him and his nurse in a storeroom of the Temple.<sup>b</sup> They lived there for six years while Athaliah reigned as queen.

<sup>5</sup> Then he gave them their instructions: "A third of those who are on duty on the Sabbath are to guard the palace. <sup>6,7,8</sup> The other two-thirds shall stand guard at the Temple; surround the king, weapons in hand, and kill anyone who tries to break through. Stay with the king at all times."

<sup>9</sup> So the officers followed Jehoiada's instructions. They brought to Jehoiada the men who were going off duty on the Sabbath and those who were coming on duty, <sup>10</sup> and he armed them from the supply of spears and shields in the Temple that had belonged to King David.

which was near Joash's hideaway.

<sup>12</sup> Then Jehoiada brought out the young prince and put the crown upon his head and gave him a copy of the Ten Commandments, and anointed him as king. Then everyone clapped and shouted, "Long live the king!"

<sup>13,14</sup> When Athaliah heard all the noise, she ran into the Temple and saw the new king standing beside the pillar, as was the custom at times of coronation, surrounded by her bodyguard and many trumpeters; and everyone was rejoicing and blowing trumpets.

"Treason! Treason!" she screamed, and began to tear her clothes.

<sup>17</sup> Jehoiada made a treaty between the Lord, the king, and the people, that they would be the Lord's people. He also made a contract between the king and the people. <sup>18</sup> Everyone went over to the temple of Baal and tore it down, breaking the altars and images and killing Mattan, the priest of Baal, in front of the altar. And Jehoiada set guards at the Temple of the Lord. <sup>19</sup> Then he and the officers and the guard and all the people led the king from the Temple, past the guardhouse, and into the palace. And he sat upon the king's throne.

the city settled back into quietness after Athaliah's death. <sup>21</sup> Joash was seven years old when he became king.

12 IT WAS SEVEN years after Jehu had become the king of Israel that Joash became king of Judah. He reigned in Jerusalem for forty years. (His mother was Zibiah, from Beer-sheba.) <sup>2</sup> All his life Joash did what was right because Jehoiada the High Priest instructed him. <sup>3</sup> Yet even so he didn't destroy the shrines on the hills—the people still sacrificed and burned incense there.

<sup>4,5</sup> One day King Joash said to Jehoiada, "The Temple building needs repairing. Whenever anyone brings a contribution to the Lord, whether it is a regular assessment or some special gift, use it to pay for whatever repairs are needed."

<sup>6</sup> But in the twenty-third year of his reign the Temple was still in disrepair. <sup>7</sup> So Joash called for Jehoiada and the other priests and asked them, "Why haven't you done anything about the Temple? Now don't use any more money for your own needs; from now on it must all be spent on getting the Temple into good condition."

<sup>8</sup> So the priests agreed to set up a special repair fund that would not go through their hands, lest it be diverted to care for their personal needs. <sup>9</sup> Jehoiada the priest bored a hole in the lid of a large chest and set it on the right-hand side of the altar at the Temple entrance. The doorkeepers put all of the people's contributions into it. <sup>10</sup> Whenever the chest became full, the king's financial secretary and the High Priest counted it, put it into bags, <sup>11,12</sup> and gave it to the construction superintendents to pay the carpenters, stonemasons, quarrymen, timber dealers, and stone merchants, and to buy the other materials needed to repair the Temple of the Lord. <sup>13,14</sup> It was not used to buy silver cups, gold snuffers, bowls, trumpets, or similar articles, but only for repairs to the building. <sup>15</sup> No accounting was required from the construction superintendents, for they were honest and faithful men. <sup>16</sup> However, the money that was contributed for guilt offerings and sin offerings was given to the priests for their own use. It was not put into the chest.

<sup>17</sup> About this time, King Hazael of Syria went to war against Gath and captured it; then he moved on toward Jerusalem to attack it. <sup>18</sup> King Joash took all the sacred objects that his ancestors—Jehoshaphat, Jehoram, and Ahaziah, the kings of Judah—had dedicated, along with what he himself had dedicated, and all the gold in the treasuries of the Temple and the palace, and sent it to Hazael. So Hazael called off the attack.

Jerusalem, and his son Amaziah became the new king.

13 JEHOAHAZ (THE SON OF Jehu) began a seventeen-year reign over Israel during the twenty-third year of the reign of King Joash of Judah. <sup>2</sup> But he was an evil king, and he followed the wicked paths of Jeroboam, who had caused Israel to sin. <sup>3</sup> So the Lord was very angry with Israel, and he continually allowed King Hazael of Syria and his son Ben-hadad to conquer them. <sup>4</sup> But Jehoahaz prayed for the Lord's help, and the Lord listened to him; for the Lord saw how terribly the king of Syria was oppressing Israel. <sup>5</sup> So the Lord raised up leaders among the Israelis to rescue them from the tyranny of the Syrians; and then Israel lived in safety again as they had in former days. <sup>6</sup> But they continued to sin, following the evil ways of Jeroboam; and they continued to worship the goddess Asherah at Samaria. <sup>7</sup> Finally the Lord reduced Jehoahaz's army to fifty mounted troops, ten chariots, and ten thousand infantry; for the king of Syria had destroyed the others as though they were dust beneath his feet.

<sup>9,10</sup> Jehoahaz died and was buried in Samaria, and his son Joash reigned in Samaria for sixteen years. He came to the throne in the thirty-seventh year of the reign of King Joash of Judah. <sup>11</sup> But he was an evil man, for, like Jeroboam, he encouraged the people to worship idols and led them into sin. <sup>12</sup> The rest of the history of the reign of Joash, including his wars against King Amaziah of Judah, are written in The Annals of the Kings of Israel. <sup>13</sup> Joash died and was buried in Samaria with the other kings of Israel; and Jeroboam II became the new king.

<sup>14</sup> When Elisha was in his last illness, King Joash visited him and wept over him.

"My father! My father! You are the strength of Israel!"<sup>a</sup> he cried.

<sup>15</sup> Elisha told him, "Get a bow and some arrows," and he did.

Then he told the king to put his hand upon the bow, and Elisha laid his own hands upon the king's hands.

"Shoot!" Elisha commanded, and he did.

Then Elisha proclaimed, "This is the Lord's arrow, full of victory over Syria; for you will completely conquer the Syrians at Aphek. <sup>18</sup> Now pick up the other arrows and strike them against the floor."

So the king picked them up and struck the floor three times. <sup>19</sup> But the prophet was angry with him. "You should have struck the floor five or six times," he exclaimed, "for then you would have beaten Syria until they were entirely destroyed; now you will be victorious only three times."

<sup>20,21</sup> So Elisha died and was buried.

In those days bandit gangs of Moabites used to invade the land each spring. Once some men who were burying a friend spied these marauders so they hastily threw his body into the tomb of Elisha. And as soon as the body touched Elisha's bones, the dead man revived and jumped to his feet!

<sup>22</sup> King Hazael of Syria had oppressed Israel during the entire reign of King Jehoahaz. <sup>23</sup> But the Lord was gracious to the people of Israel, and they were not totally destroyed. For God pitied them, and also he was honoring his contract with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. And this is still true. <sup>24</sup> Then King Hazael of Syria died, and his son Ben-hadad reigned in his place. <sup>25</sup> King Joash of Israel<sup>b</sup> (the son of Jehoahaz) was successful on three occasions in reconquering the cities that his father had lost to Ben-hadad.

14 DURING THE SECOND year of the reign of King Joash of Israel, King Amaziah began his reign over Judah. <sup>2</sup> Amaziah was twenty-five years old at the time, and he reigned in Jerusalem for twenty-nine years. (His mother was Jehoadin, a native of Jerusalem.) <sup>3</sup> He was a good king in the Lord's sight, though not quite like his ancestor David; but he was as good a king as his father Joash. <sup>4</sup> However, he didn't destroy the shrines on the hills, so the people still sacrificed and burned incense there.

<sup>5</sup> As soon as he had a firm grip on the kingdom, he killed the men who had assassinated his father; <sup>6</sup> but he didn't kill their children, for the Lord had commanded through the law of Moses that fathers shall not be killed for their children, nor children for the sins of their fathers: everyone must pay the penalty for his own sins. <sup>7</sup> Once Amaziah killed ten thousand Edomites in Salt Valley; he also conquered Sela and changed its name to Jokthe-el, as it is called to this day.

<sup>8</sup> One day he sent a message to King Joash of Israel (the son of Jehoahaz and the grandson of Jehu), daring him to mobilize his army and come out and fight.

<sup>9</sup> But King Joash replied, "The thistle of Lebanon demanded of the mighty cedar tree, 'Give your daughter to be a wife for my son.' But just then a wild animal passed by and stepped on the thistle and trod it into the ground!" <sup>10</sup> You have destroyed Edom and are very proud about it; but my advice to you is, be content with your glory and stay home! Why provoke disaster for both yourself and Judah?"

Judah are recorded in The Annals of the Kings of Israel.<sup>16</sup> When Joash died, he was buried in Samaria with the other kings of Israel. And his son Jeroboam became the new king.

<sup>19</sup> There was a plot against his life in Jerusalem, and he fled to Lachish; but his enemies sent assassins and killed him there. <sup>20</sup> His body was returned on horses, and he was buried in the royal cemetery, in the City of David section of Jerusalem.

<sup>24</sup> But he was as evil as Jeroboam I (the son of Nebat), who had led Israel into the sin of worshipping idols.

<sup>25</sup> Jeroboam II recovered the lost territories of Israel between Hamath and the Dead Sea, just as the Lord God of Israel had predicted through Jonah (son of Amitai) the prophet from Gath-hepher. <sup>26</sup> For the Lord saw the bitter plight of Israel—she had no one to help her. <sup>27</sup> And he had not said that he would blot out the name of Israel, so he used King Jeroboam II to save her.

<sup>28</sup> The rest of Jeroboam's biography—all that he did, and his great power, and his wars, and how he recovered Damascus and Hamath

(which had been captured by Judah)—is recorded in The Annals of the Kings of Israel. <sup>29</sup> When Jeroboam II died he was buried with the other kings of Israel, and his son Zechariah became the new king of Israel.

Father's name: Jabesh

Length of reign: 1 month

Reigning in Judah at that time: King Uzziah, who had been the king there for 39 years

<sup>16</sup> Menahem destroyed the city of Tappuah and the surrounding countryside, for its citizens refused to accept him as their king; he killed the entire population and ripped open the pregnant women.

Length of reign: 10 years, in

Concurrent with: King Azariah of Judah who had been the king there for 39 years

<sup>18</sup> But Menahem was an evil king. He worshiped idols, as King Jeroboam I had done so long before, and he led the people of Israel into grievous sin. <sup>19,20</sup> Then King Pul of Assyria invaded the land; but King Menahem bought him off with a gift of $2,000,000, so he turned around and returned home. Menahem extorted the money from the rich, assessing each one $2,000 in the form of a special tax. <sup>21</sup> The rest of the history of King Menahem is written in The Annals of the Kings of Israel. <sup>22</sup> When he died, his son Pekahiah became the new king.

<sup>24</sup> But Pekahiah was an evil king, and he continued the idol-worship begun by Jeroboam I (son of Nebat) who led Israel down that evil trail.

<sup>25</sup> Then Pekah (son of Remaliah), the commanding general of his army, conspired against him with fifty men from Gilead, and assassinated him in the palace at Samaria (Argob and Arieah were also slain in the revolt). So Pekah became the new king. <sup>26</sup> The rest of the Father's name: Remaliah

Length of reign: 20 years, in Samaria

Concurrent with: King Azariah of Judah, who had been the king there for 52 years

<sup>28</sup> Pekah, too, was an evil king, and he continued in the example of Jeroboam I (son of Nebat), who led all of Israel into the sin of worshipping idols. <sup>29</sup> It was during his reign that King Tiglath-pileser<sup>c</sup> led an attack against Israel. He captured the cities of Ijon, Abel-beth-maacah, Janoah, Kedesh, Hazor, Gilead, Galilee, and all the land of Naphtali; and he took the people away to Assyria as captives. <sup>30</sup> Then Hoshea (the son of Elah) plotted against Pekah and assassinated him; and he took the throne for himself.

New king of Israel: Hoshea
Concurrent with: Jotham (son of Uzziah) king of Judah, who had been the king there for 20 years

His age when he became king: 25 years old

Duration of his reign: 16 years, in Jerusalem

Mother's name: Jerusha (daughter of Zadok)

Reigning in Israel at this time: Pekah (son of Remaliah), who had been the king there for 2 years

<sup>34,35</sup> Generally speaking, Jotham was a good king. Like his father Uzziah,<sup>f</sup> he followed the Lord. But he didn't destroy the shrines on the hills where the people sacrificed and burned incense. It was during King Jotham's reign that the upper gate of the Temple of the Lord was built.

<sup>36</sup> The rest of Jotham's history is written in The Annals of the Kings of Judah. <sup>37</sup> In those days the Lord caused King Rezin of Syria and King Pekah of Israel to attack Judah. <sup>38</sup> When Jotham died he was buried with the other kings of Judah in the royal cemetery, in the City of David section of Jerusalem. Then his son Ahaz became the new king.

Reigning in Israel at this time: King Pekah (son of Remaliah) who had been the king there for 17 years

<sup>2</sup> But he did not follow the Lord as his ancestor David had; <sup>3</sup> he was as wicked as the kings of Israel. He even killed his own son by offering him as a burnt sacrifice to the gods, following the heathen customs of the nations around Judah—nations which the Lord destroyed when the people of Israel entered the land. <sup>4</sup> He also sacrificed and burned incense at the shrines on the hills and at the numerous altars in the groves of trees.

<sup>5</sup> Then King Rezin of Syria and King Pekah (son of Remaliah) of Israel declared war on Ahaz and besieged Jerusalem; but they did not conquer it. <sup>6</sup> However, at that time King Rezin of Syria recovered the city of Elath for Syria; he drove out the Jews and sent Syrians to live there, as they do to this day. <sup>7</sup> King Ahaz sent a messenger to King Tiglath-pileser of Assyria, begging him to help him fight the attacking armies of Syria and Israel.<sup>a</sup> <sup>8</sup> Ahaz took the silver and gold from the Temple and from the royal vaults and sent it as a payment to the Assyrian king. <sup>9</sup> So the Assyrians attacked Damascus, the capital of Syria. They took away the population of the city as captives, resettling them in Kir, and King Rezin of Syria was killed.

<sup>10</sup> King Ahaz now went to Damascus to meet with King Tiglath-pileser, and while he was there he noticed an unusual altar in a heathen temple.<sup>b</sup> He jotted down its dimensions and made a sketch and sent it back to Uriah the priest with a detailed description. <sup>11,12</sup> Uriah built one just like it by following these directions and had it ready for the king, who, upon his return from Damascus, inaugurated it with an offering. <sup>13</sup> The king presented a burnt offering and a grain offering, poured a drink offering over it, and sprinkled the blood of peace offerings upon it. <sup>14</sup> Then he removed the old bronze altar from the front of the Temple (it had stood between the Temple entrance and the new altar), and placed it on the north side of the new altar. <sup>15</sup> He instructed Uriah the priest to use the new altar for the sacrifices of burnt offering, the evening grain offering, the king's burnt offering and grain offering, and the offerings of the people, including their drink offerings. The blood from the burnt offerings and sacrifices was also to be sprinkled over the new altar. So the old altar was used only for purposes of divination.

"The old bronze altar," he said, "will be only for my personal use."

<sup>19</sup> The rest of the history of the reign of King Ahaz is recorded in The Annals of the Kings of Judah. <sup>20</sup> When Ahaz died he was buried in the royal cemetery, in the City of David sector of Jerusalem, and his son Hezekiah became the new king.

NEW KING OF Israel: Hoshea
 Father's name: Elah
 Length of his reign: 9 years,
 in Samaria
 Character of his reign: evil—but not as bad as some of the other kings of Israel a Literally, "saying, 'I am your servant and your son. Come and rescue me.'" b Literally, "he saw the altar that was at Damascus."

c The Hebrew is unclear.

Reigning in Judah at this time: King Ahaz, who had been the king there for 12 years <sup>3</sup> King Shalmaneser of Assyria attacked and defeated King Hoshea, so Israel had to pay heavy annual taxes to Assyria. <sup>4</sup> Then Hoshea conspired against the king of Assyria by asking King So of Egypt to help him shake free of Assyria's power, but this treachery was discovered. At the same time he refused to pay the annual tribute to Assyria. So the king of Assyria put him in prison and in chains for his rebellion.

<sup>5</sup> Now the land of Israel was filled with Assyrian troops for three years besieging Samaria, the capital city of Israel.

<sup>6</sup> Finally, in the ninth year of King Hoshea's reign, Samaria fell and the people of Israel were exiled to Assyria. They were placed in colonies in the city of Halah and along the banks of the Habor River in Gozan, and among the cities of the Medes.

<sup>7</sup> This disaster came upon the nation of Israel because the people worshiped other gods, thus sinning against the Lord their God who had brought them safely out of their slavery in Egypt. <sup>8</sup> They had followed the evil customs of the nations which the Lord had cast out from before them.

<sup>9</sup> The people of Israel had also secretly done many things that were wrong, and they had built altars to other gods throughout the land.<sup>a</sup>

<sup>10</sup> They had placed obelisks and idols at the top of every hill and under every green tree; <sup>11</sup> and they had burned incense to the gods of the very nations which the Lord had cleared out of the land when Israel came in. So the people of Israel had done many evil things, and the Lord was very angry. <sup>12</sup> Yes, they worshiped idols, despite the Lord's specific and repeated warnings.

<sup>13</sup> Again and again the Lord had sent prophets to warn both Israel and Judah to turn from their evil ways; he had warned them to obey his commandments which he had given to their ancestors through these prophets, <sup>14</sup> but Israel wouldn't listen. The people were as stubborn as their ancestors and refused to believe in the Lord their God. <sup>15</sup> They rejected his laws and the covenant he had made with their ancestors, and despised all his warnings. In their foolishness they worshiped heathen idols despite the Lord's stern warnings. <sup>16</sup> They defied all the commandments of the Lord their God and made two calves from molten gold. They made detestable, shameful idols and worshiped Baal and the sun, moon, and stars. <sup>17</sup> They even burned their own sons and daughters to death on the altars of Molech;<sup>b</sup> they consulted fortune-tellers and used magic and sold themselves to evil. So the Lord was very angry. <sup>18</sup> He swept them from his sight until only the tribe of Judah remained in the land.

<sup>20</sup> So the Lord rejected all the descendants of Jacob.<sup>c</sup> He punished them by delivering them to their attackers until they were destroyed.

<sup>21</sup> For Israel split off from the kingdom of David and chose Jeroboam I (the son of Nebat) as its king. Then Jeroboam drew Israel away from following the Lord. He made them sin a great sin,<sup>22</sup> and the people of Israel never quit doing the evil things that Jeroboam led them into,<sup>23</sup> until the Lord finally swept them away, just as all his prophets had warned would happen. So Israel was carried off to the land of Assyria where they remain to this day.

<sup>24</sup> And the king of Assyria transported colonies of people from Babylon, Cuthah, Avva, Hamath, and Sepharvaim and resettled them in the cities of Samaria, replacing the people of Israel. So the Assyrians took over Samaria and the other cities of Israel.<sup>25</sup> But since these Assyrian colonists did not worship the Lord when they first arrived, the Lord sent lions among them to kill some of them.

<sup>26</sup> Then they sent a message to the king of Assyria: "We colonists here in Israel don't know the laws of the god of the land, and he has sent lions among us to destroy us because we have not worshiped him."

<sup>27,28</sup> The king of Assyria then decreed that one of the exiled priests from Samaria should return to Israel and teach the new residents the laws of the god of the land. So one of them returned to Bethel and taught the colonists from Babylon how to worship the Lord.

<sup>32</sup> They also worshiped the Lord, and they appointed from among themselves priests to sacrifice to the Lord on the hilltop altars.<sup>33</sup> But they continued to follow the religious customs of the nations from which they came.<sup>34</sup> And this is still going on among them today—they follow their former practices instead of truly worshiping the Lord or obeying the laws he gave to the descendants of Jacob (whose name was later changed to Israel).<sup>35,36</sup> For the Lord had made a contract with them—that they were never to worship or make sacrifices to any heathen gods. They were to worship only the Lord who had brought them out of the land of Egypt with such tremendous miracles and power.<sup>37</sup> The descendants of Jacob were to obey all of God's laws and never worship other gods.

<sup>38</sup> For God had said, "You must never forget the covenant I made with you; never worship other gods."<sup>39</sup> You must worship only the Lord; he will save you from all your enemies."

<sup>40</sup> But Israel didn't listen, and the people continued to worship other gods. <sup>41</sup> These colonists from Babylon worshiped the Lord, yes—but they also worshiped their idols. And to this day their descendants do the same thing.

18 NEW KING OF Judah: Hezekiah

Father's name: Ahaz

Length of his reign: 29 years, in Jerusalem

His age at the beginning of his reign: 25 years old

His mother's name: Abi (daughter of Zechariah)

Character of his reign: good (similar to that of his ancestor David).

Reigning in Israel at this time: King Hoshea (son of Elah), who had been the king there for 3 years

<sup>4</sup> He removed the shrines on the hills, broke down the obelisks, knocked down the shameful idols of Asherah, and broke up the bronze serpent that Moses had made, because the people of Israel had begun to worship it by burning incense to it; even though, as King Hezekiah<sup>a</sup> pointed out to them, it was merely a piece of bronze. <sup>5</sup> He trusted very strongly in the Lord God of Israel. In fact, none of the kings before or after him were as close to God as he was. <sup>6</sup> For he followed the Lord in everything, and carefully obeyed all of God's commands to Moses. <sup>7</sup> So the Lord was with him and prospered everything he did. Then he rebelled against the king of Assyria and refused to pay tribute any longer. <sup>8</sup> He also conquered the Philistines as far distant as Gaza and its suburbs, destroying cities both large and small.<sup>b</sup>

<sup>9</sup> It was during the fourth year of his reign (which was the seventh year of the reign of King Hoshea in Israel) that King Shalmaneser of Assyria attacked Israel and began a siege on the city of Samaria. <sup>10</sup> Three years later (during the sixth year of the reign of King Hezekiah and the ninth year of the reign of King Hoshea of Israel) Samaria fell. <sup>11</sup> It was at that time that the king of Assyria transported the Israelites to Assyria and put them in colonies in the city of Halath and along the banks of the Habor River in Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes. <sup>12</sup> For they had refused to listen to the Lord their God or to do what he wanted them to do. Instead, they had transgressed his covenant and disobeyed all the laws given to them by Moses the servant of the Lord.

<sup>13</sup> Later, during the fourteenth year of the reign of King Hezekiah, King Sennacherib of Assyria besieged and captured all the fortified cities of Judah. <sup>14</sup> King Hezekiah sued for peace and sent this message to the king of Assyria at Lachish: "I have done wrong. I will pay whatever tribute you demand if you will only go away." The king of Assyria then demanded a settlement of $1,500,000. <sup>15</sup> To gather this amount, King Hezekiah used all the silver stored in the Temple and in the palace treasury. <sup>16</sup> He even stripped off the gold from the Temple doors, and from the doorposts he had overlaid with gold, and gave it all to the Assyrian king.

<sup>17</sup> Nevertheless the king of Assyria sent his field marshal, his chief treasurer, and his chief of staff from Lachish with a great army; and they camped along the highway beside the field where cloth was bleached, near the conduit of the upper pool. <sup>18</sup> They demanded that King Hezekiah come out to speak to them, but instead he sent a truce delegation of the following men: Eliakam, his business manager; Shebna, his secretary; and Joah, his royal historian.

<sup>19</sup> Then the Assyrian general sent this message to King Hezekiah: "The great King of Assyria says, 'No one can save you from my power! <sup>20,21</sup> You need more than mere promises of help before rebelling against me. But which of your allies will give you more than words? Egypt? If you lean on Egypt, you will find her to be a stick that breaks beneath your weight and pierces your hand. The Egyptian Pharaoh is totally unreliable! <sup>22</sup> And if you say, 'We're trusting the Lord to rescue us'—just remember that he is the very one whose hilltop altars you've destroyed. For you require everyone to worship at the altar in Jerusalem! <sup>23</sup> I'll tell you what: Make a bet with my master, the king of Assyria! If you have two thousand men left who can ride horses, we'll furnish the horses! <sup>24</sup> And with an army as small as yours,<sup>c</sup> you are no threat to even the least lieutenant in charge of the smallest contingent in my master's army. Even if Egypt supplies you with horses and chariots, it will do no good. <sup>25</sup> And do you think we have come here on our own? No! The Lord sent us and told us, 'Go and destroy this nation!'"

<sup>26</sup> Then Eliakim, Shebna, and Joah said to them, "Please speak in Aramaic, for we understand it. Don't use Hebrew, for the people standing on the walls will hear you."

<sup>27</sup> But the Assyrian general replied, "Has my master sent me to speak only to you and to your master? Hasn't he sent me to the people on the walls too? For they are doomed with you to eat their own excrement and drink their own urine!"

<sup>28</sup> Then the Assyrian ambassador shouted in Hebrew to the people on the wall, "Listen to the great king of Assyria! <sup>29</sup> 'Don't let King Hezekiah fool you. He will never be able to save you from my power. <sup>30</sup> Don't let him fool you into trusting in the Lord to rescue you. <sup>31,32</sup> Don't listen to King Hezekiah. Surrender! You can live in peace here in your own land until I take you to another land just like this one—with plentiful crops, grain, wine, olive trees, and honey. All of this instead of death! Don't listen to King Hezekiah when he tries to persuade you that the Lord will deliver you. <sup>33</sup> Have any of the gods of the other nations ever delivered their people from the king of Assyria? <sup>34</sup> What happened to the gods of Hamath, Arpad, Sepharvaim, Hena, and Ivvah? Did they rescue Samaria? <sup>35</sup> What god has ever been able to save any nation from my power? So what makes you think the Lord can save Jerusalem?" "

<sup>16</sup> But the people on the wall remained silent, for the king had instructed them to say nothing.

<sup>17</sup> Then Eliakim (son of Hilkiah) the business manager, and Shebna the king's secretary, and Joah (son of Asaph) the historian went to King Hezekiah with their clothes torn and told him what the Assyrian general had said.

19 WHEN KING HEZEKIAH heard their report he tore his clothes and put on sackcloth and went into the Temple to pray. <sup>2</sup> Then he told Eliakim, Shebna, and some of the older priests to clothe themselves in sackcloth and to go to Isaiah (son of Amoz), the prophet, with this message:

<sup>3</sup> "King Hezekiah says, 'This is a day of trouble, insult, and dishonor. It is as when a child is ready to be born, but the mother has no strength to deliver it. <sup>4</sup> Yet perhaps the Lord your God has heard the Assyrian general defying the living God, and will rebuke him. Oh, pray for the few of us who are left.' "

<sup>5</sup> Isaiah replied, "The Lord says, 'Tell your master not to be troubled by the sneers these Assyrians have made against me.' <sup>7</sup> For the king of Assyria will receive bad news from home and will decide to return; and the Lord will see to it that he is killed when he arrives there."

<sup>8</sup> Then the Assyrian general returned to his king at Libnah (for he received word that he had left Lachish). <sup>9</sup> Soon afterwards news reached the king that King Tirhakah of Ethiopia was coming to attack him. Before leaving to meet the attack, he sent back this message to King Hezekiah:

<sup>10</sup> "Don't be fooled by that god you trust in. Don't believe it when he says that I won't conquer Jerusalem. <sup>11</sup> You know perfectly well what the kings of Assyria have done wherever they have gone; they have completely destroyed everything. Why would you be any different?

<sup>12</sup> Have the gods of the other nations delivered them—such nations as Gozan, Haran, Rezeph, and Eden in the land of Telassar? The former kings of Assyria destroyed them all! <sup>13</sup> What happened to the king of Hamath and the king of Arpad? What happened to the kings of Sepharvaim, Hena, and Ivvah?"

<sup>14</sup> Hezekiah took the letter from the messengers, read it, and went over to the Temple and spread it out before the Lord. <sup>15</sup> Then he prayed this prayer:

"O Lord God of Israel, sitting on your throne high above the angels,<sup>a</sup> you alone are the God of all the kingdoms of the earth. You created the heavens and the earth. <sup>16</sup> Bend low, O Lord, and listen. Open your eyes, O Lord, and see. Listen to this man's defiance of the living God. <sup>17</sup> Lord, it is true that the kings of Assyria have destroyed all those nations, <sup>18</sup> and have burned their idol-gods. But they weren't gods at all; they were destroyed because they were only things that men had made of wood and stone. <sup>19</sup> O Lord our God, we plead with you to save us from his power; then all the kingdoms of the earth will know that you alone are God."

<sup>20</sup> Then Isaiah sent this message to Hezekiah: "The Lord God of Israel says, 'I have heard you!' <sup>21</sup> And this is my reply to King Sennacherib: The virgin daughter of Zion isn't afraid of you! The daughter of Jerusalem scorns and mocks at you. <sup>22</sup> Whom have you defied and blasphemed? And toward whom have you felt so cocky? It is the Holy One of Israel!"

<sup>23</sup> "You have boasted, 'My chariots have conquered the highest mountains, yes, the peaks of Lebanon. I have cut down the tallest cedars and choicest cypress tree and have conquered the farthest borders. <sup>24</sup> I have been refreshed at many conquered wells, and I destroyed the strength of Egypt just by walking by!'"

<sup>25</sup> "Why haven't you realized long before this that it is I, the Lord, who lets you do these things? I decreed your conquest of all those fortified cities! <sup>26</sup> So of course the nations you conquered had no power against you! They were like grass shriveling beneath the hot sun, and like grain blighted before it is half grown. <sup>27</sup> I know everything about you. I know all your plans and where you are going next; and I also know the evil things you have said about me. <sup>28</sup> And because of your arrogance against me I am going to put a hook in your nose and a bridle in your mouth and turn you back on the road by which you came. <sup>29</sup> And this is the proof that I will do as I have promised: This year my people will eat the volunteer wheat, and use it as seed for next year's crop; and in the third year they will have a bountiful harvest.

<sup>30</sup> "O my people Judah, those of you who have escaped the ravages of the siege shall become a great nation again; you shall be rooted deeply in the soil and bear fruit for God. <sup>31</sup> A remnant of my people shall become strong in Jerusalem. The Lord is eager to cause this to happen.

<sup>35</sup> That very night the angel of the Lord killed 185,000 Assyrian troops, and dead bodies were seen all across the landscape in the morning.

<sup>36</sup> Then King Sennacherib returned to Nineveh; <sup>37</sup> and as he was worshiping in the temple of his god Nisroch, his sons Adrammelech and Sharezer killed him. They escaped into eastern Turkey—the land of Ararat—and his son Esarhaddon became the new king.

20 HEZEKIAH NOW BECAME deathly sick, and Isaiah the prophet went to visit him.

"Set your affairs in order and prepare to die," Isaiah told him. "The Lord says you won't recover."

obey you and to please you in everything I do . . . ." Then he broke down and cried.

<sup>5</sup> "Go back to Hezekiah, the leader of my people, and tell him that the Lord God of his ancestor David has heard his prayer and seen his tears. I will heal him, and three days from now he will be out of bed and at the Temple! <sup>6</sup> I will add fifteen years to his life and save him and this city from the king of Assyria. And it will all be done for the glory of my own name and for the sake of my servant David."

<sup>7</sup> Isaiah then instructed Hezekiah to boil some dried figs and to make a paste of them and spread it on the boil. And he recovered!

<sup>8</sup> Meanwhile, King Hezekiah had said to Isaiah, "Do a miracle to prove to me that the Lord will heal me and that I will be able to go to the Temple again three days from now."

<sup>9</sup> "All right, the Lord will give you a proof," Isaiah told him. "Do you want the shadow on the sundial to go forward ten points or backward ten points?"

greetings and a present to Hezekiah, for he had learned of his sickness.

<sup>13</sup> Hezekiah welcomed them and showed them all his treasures—the silver, gold, spices, aromatic oils, the armory—everything.

<sup>14</sup> Then Isaiah went to King Hezekiah and asked him, "What did these men want? Where are they from?"

"From far away in Babylon," Hezekiah replied.

<sup>15</sup> "What have they seen in your palace?" Isaiah asked.

And Hezekiah replied, "Everything. I showed them all my treasures."

<sup>16</sup> Then Isaiah said to Hezekiah, "Listen to the word of the Lord: <sup>17</sup> The time will come when everything in this palace shall be carried to Babylon. All the treasures of your ancestors will be taken—nothing shall be left. <sup>18</sup> Some of your own sons will be taken away and made into eunuchs who will serve in the palace of the king of Babylon."

<sup>19</sup> "All right," Hezekiah replied, "if this is what the Lord wants, it is good." But he was really thinking, "At least there will be peace and security during the remainder of my own life!"

<sup>20</sup> The rest of the history of Hezekiah and his great deeds—including the pool and conduit he made and how he brought water into the city—are recorded in The Annals of the Kings of Judah.
<sup>21</sup> When he died, his son Manasseh became the new king.

<sup>a</sup> Or, "on the steps of Ahaz." Egyptian sundials in this period were made in the form of miniature staircases, so that the shadow moved up and down the steps.

Character of his reign: evil.

He did the same things the nations had done that were thrown out of the land to make room for the people of Israel

<sup>3,4,5</sup> He rebuilt the hilltop shrines which his father Hezekiah had destroyed. He built altars for Baal and made a shameful Asherah idol, just as Ahab the king of Israel had done. Heathen altars to the sun god, moon god, and the gods of the stars were placed even in the Temple of the Lord—in the very city and building which the Lord had selected to honor his own name.

<sup>6</sup> And he sacrificed one of his sons as a burnt offering on a heathen altar. He practiced black magic and used fortune-telling, and patronized mediums and wizards. So the Lord was very angry, for Manasseh was an evil man, in God's opinion.

<sup>7</sup> Manasseh even set up a shameful Asherah-idol in the Temple—the very place which the Lord had spoken to David and Solomon about when he said, "I will place my name forever in this Temple, and in Jerusalem—the city I have chosen from among all the cities of the tribes of Israel. <sup>8</sup> If the people of Israel will only follow the instructions I gave them through Moses, I will never again expel them from this land of their fathers."

<sup>9</sup> But the people did not listen to the Lord, and Manasseh enticed them to do even more evil than the surrounding nations had done, even though Jehovah had destroyed those nations for their evil ways when the people of Israel entered the land.

<sup>10</sup> Then the Lord declared through the prophets, <sup>11</sup> "Because King Manasseh has done these evil things and is even more wicked than the Amorites who were in this land long ago, and because he has led the people of Judah into idolatry: <sup>12</sup> I will bring such evil upon Jerusalem and Judah that the ears of those who hear about it will tingle with horror. <sup>13</sup> I will cause the kings of Israel to conquer Jerusalem, and I will wipe Jerusalem as a man wipes a dish and turns it upside down to dry.

<sup>14</sup> Then I will reject even those few of my people who are left, and I will hand them over to their enemies.

<sup>15</sup> For they have done great evil and have angered me ever since I brought their ancestors from Egypt."

<sup>16</sup> In addition to the idolatry which God hated and into which Manasseh led the people of Judah, he murdered great numbers of innocent people. And Jerusalem was filled from one end to the other with the bodies of his victims.

<sup>19,20</sup> Name of the new king of Judah: Amon

His age at the beginning of his reign: 22 years old

Length of his reign: 2 years,
in Jerusalem

His mother's name: Meshul-lemeth (daughter of Haruz, of Jotbah)

Character of his reign: evil

22 NEW KING OF Judah: Josiah
His age at the beginning of his reign: 8 years old

Duration of his reign: 31 years in Jerusalem

Name of his mother: Jedidah (daughter of Adaiah of Bozkath)

Character of his reign: good; for he followed in the steps of his ancestor King David, obeying the Lord completely

<sup>34</sup> In the eighteenth year of his reign, King Josiah sent his secretary Shaphan (son of Azaliah, son of Meshullam) to the Temple to give instruction to Hilkiah, the High Priest:

"Collect the money given to the priests at the door of the Temple when the people come to worship.

<sup>36</sup> Give this money to the building superintendents so that they can hire carpenters and masons to repair the Temple, and to buy lumber and stone."

<sup>7</sup> (The building superintendents were not required to keep account of their expenditures, for they were honest men.)

<sup>8</sup> One day Hilkiah the High Priest went to Shaphan the secretary and exclaimed, "I have discovered a scroll in the Temple, with God's laws written on it!"

He gave the scroll to Shaphan to read. <sup>9,10</sup> When Shaphan reported to the king about the progress of the repairs at the Temple, he also mentioned the scroll found by Hilkiah. Then Shaphan read it to the king. <sup>11</sup> When the king heard what was written in it, he tore his clothes in terror. <sup>12,13</sup> He commanded Hilkiah the priest, and Shaphan, and Asaiah, the king's assistant, and Ahikam (Shaphan's son), and Achbor (Michaiah's son) to ask the Lord, "What shall we do? For we have not been following the instructions of this book: you must be very angry with us, for neither we nor our ancestors have followed your commands."

<sup>14</sup> So Hilkiah the priest, and Ahikam, and Achbor, and Shaphan, and Asaiah went to the Mishneh section of Jerusalem to find Huldah the prophetess. (She was the wife of Shallum—son of Tikvah, son of Harhas—who was in charge of the palace tailor shop.) <sup>15,16</sup> She gave them this message from the Lord God of Israel:

"Tell the man who sent you to me, that I am going to destroy this city and its people, just as I stated in that book you read.<sup>17</sup> For the people of Judah have thrown me aside and have worshiped other gods and have made me very angry; and my anger can't be stopped.<sup>18,19</sup> But because you were sorry and concerned and humbled yourself before the Lord when you read the book and its warnings that this land would be cursed and become desolate, and because you have torn your clothing and wept before me in contrition, I will listen to your plea.<sup>20</sup> The death of this nation will not occur until after you die—you will not see the evil which I will bring upon this place."

So they took the message to the king.

23 THEN THE KING sent for the elders and other leaders of Judah and Jerusalem to go to the Temple with him. So all the priests and prophets and the people, small and great, of Jerusalem and Judah gathered there at the Temple so that the king could read to them the entire book of God's laws which had been discovered in the Temple.<sup>1</sup> He stood beside the pillar in front of the people, and he and they made a solemn promise to the Lord to obey him at all times and to do everything the book commanded.

<sup>2</sup> Then the king instructed Hilkiah the High Priest and the rest of the priests and the guards of the Temple to destroy all the equipment used in the worship of Baal, Asherah, and the sun, moon, and stars. The king had it all burned in the fields of the Kidron Valley outside Jerusalem, and he carried the ashes to Bethel.<sup>3</sup> He killed the heathen priests who had been appointed by the previous kings of Judah, for they had burned incense in the shrines on the hills throughout Judah and even in Jerusalem. They had also offered incense to Baal and to the sun, moon, stars, and planets.<sup>4</sup> He removed the shameful idol of Asherah from the Temple and took it outside Jerusalem to Kidron Brook; there he burned it and beat it to dust and threw the dust on the graves of the common people.<sup>5</sup> He also tore down the houses of male prostitution around the Temple, where the women wore robes for the Asherah-idol.

<sup>6</sup> He brought back to Jerusalem the priests of the Lord, who were living in other cities of Judah, and tore down all the shrines on the hills where they had burned incense, even those as far away as Geba and Beersheba. He also destroyed the shrines at the entrance of the palace of Joshua, the former mayor of Jerusalem, located on the left side as one enters the city gate.<sup>7</sup> However, these priests<sup>a</sup> did not serve at the altar of the Lord in Jerusalem, even though they ate with the other priests.

<sup>8</sup> Then the king destroyed the altar of Topheth in the Valley of the Sons of Hinnom, so that no one could ever again use it to burn his son or daughter to death as a sacrifice to Molech.<sup>9</sup> He tore down the statues of horses and chariots located near the entrance of the Temple, next to the quarters of Nathan-melech the eunuch. These had been dedicated by former kings of Judah to the sun god. <sup>12</sup> Then he tore down the altars which the kings of Judah had built on the palace roof above the Ahaz Room. He also destroyed the altars which Manasseh had built in the two courts of the Temple; he smashed them to bits and scattered the pieces in Kidron Valley.

<sup>13</sup> Next he removed the shrines on the hills east of Jerusalem and south of Destruction Mountain. (Solomon had built these shrines for Ashtoreth, the evil goddess of the Sidonians; and for Chemosh, the evil god of Moab; and for Milcom, the evil god of the Ammonites.) <sup>14</sup> He smashed the obelisks and cut down the shameful idols of Asherah; then he defiled these places by scattering human bones over them. <sup>15</sup> He also tore down the altar and shrine at Bethel which Jeroboam I had made when he led Israel into sin. He crushed the stones to dust and burned the shameful idol of Asherah.

<sup>16</sup> As Josiah was looking around, he noticed several graves in the side of the mountain. He ordered his men to bring out the bones in them and to burn them there upon the altar at Bethel to defile it, just as the Lord's prophet had declared would happen to Jeroboam's altar.<sup>b</sup>

<sup>17</sup> "What is that monument over there?" he asked.

And the men of the city told him, "It is the grave of the prophet who came from Judah and proclaimed that what you have just done would happen here at the altar at Bethel!"

So they didn't burn his bones or those of the prophet from Samaria.<sup>c</sup>

<sup>19</sup> Josiah demolished the shrines on the hills in all of Samaria. They had been built by the various kings of Israel and had made the Lord very angry. But now he crushed them into dust, just as he had done at Bethel. <sup>20</sup> He executed the priests of the heathen shrines upon their own altars, and he burned human bones upon the altars to defile them. Finally he returned to Jerusalem.

<sup>21</sup> The king then issued orders for his people to observe the Passover ceremonies as recorded by the Lord their God in The Book of the Covenant. <sup>22</sup> There had not been a Passover celebration like that since the days of the judges of Israel, and there was never another like it in all the years of the kings of Israel and Judah. <sup>23</sup> This Passover was in the eighteenth year of the reign of King Josiah, and it was celebrated in Jerusalem.

<sup>24</sup> Josiah also exterminated the mediums and wizards, and every kind of idol worship, both in Jerusalem and throughout the land. For Josiah wanted to follow all the laws which were written in the book that Hilkiah the priest had found in the Temple. <sup>25</sup> There was no other king who so completely turned to the Lord and followed all the laws of Moses; and no king since the time of Josiah has approached his record of obedience.

<sup>26</sup> But the Lord still did not hold b See 1 Kings 13:20.

c See 1 Kings 13:31, 32.

back his great anger against Judah, caused by the evils of King Manasseh. <sup>27</sup> For the Lord had said, "I will destroy Judah just as I have destroyed Israel; and I will discard my chosen city of Jerusalem and the Temple that I said was mine."

Jehoahaz

His age when he became king: 23 years old

Length of his reign: 3 months, in Jerusalem

His mother's name: Hamutal (the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah)

Character of his reign: evil, like the other kings who had preceded him

<sup>33</sup> Pharaoh-Neco jailed him at Riblah in Hamath to prevent his reigning in Jerusalem, and he levied a tax against Judah totaling $230,000. <sup>34</sup> The Egyptian king then chose Eliakim, another of Josiah's sons, to reign in Jerusalem; and he changed his name to Jehoiakim. Then he took King Jehoahaz to Egypt, where he died. <sup>35</sup> Jehoiakim taxed the people to get the money that the Pharaoh had demanded.

<sup>36,37</sup> New king of Judah:

Jehoiakim

His age when he became king: 25 years old

Length of his reign: 11 years, in Jerusalem

His mother's name: Zebidah (daughter of Pedaiiah of Rumah)

Character of his reign: evil, like the other kings preceding him

24 DURING THE REIGN of King Jehoiakim, King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon attacked Jerusalem. Jehoiakim surrendered and paid him tribute for three years, but then rebelled. <sup>2</sup> And the Lord sent bands of Chaldeans, Syrians, Moabites, and Ammonites against Judah in order to destroy the nation, just as the Lord had warned through his prophets that he would. <sup>3,4</sup> It is clear that these disasters befell Judah at the direct command of the Lord. He had decided to wipe Judah out of his sight because of the many sins of Manasseh, for he had filled Jerusalem with blood, and the Lord would not pardon it.

Jehoiachin

His age at the beginning of his reign: 18 years old

Length of his reign: 3 months, in Jerusalem

Name of his mother: Nehushta (daughter of Elnathan, a citizen of Jerusalem)

<sup>13</sup> The Babylonians carried home all the treasures from the Temple and the royal palace; and they cut apart all the gold bowls which King Solomon of Israel had placed in the Temple at the Lord's directions.

<sup>16</sup> He also took seven thousand of the best troops and one thousand craftsmen and smiths, all of whom were strong and fit for war. <sup>17</sup> Then the king of Babylon appointed King Jehoiachin's great-uncle,<sup>a</sup> Mattaniah, to be the next king; and he changed his name to Zedekiah.

<sup>18,19</sup> New king of Judah: Zedekiah

His age when he became king: 21 years old

Length of his reign: 11 years,

in Jerusalem

His mother's name: Hamutal (daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah)

Character of his reign: evil, like that of Jehoiakim

<sup>20</sup> So the Lord finally, in his anger, destroyed the people of Jerusalem and Judah. But now King Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babylon.

palace, and all the other houses of any worth. <sup>10</sup> He then supervised the Babylonian army in tearing down the walls of Jerusalem. <sup>11</sup> The remainder of the people in the city and the Jewish deserters who had declared their allegiance to the king of Babylon were all taken as exiles to Babylon. <sup>12</sup> But the poorest of the people were left to farm the land.

<sup>13</sup> The Babylonians broke up the bronze pillars of the Temple and the bronze tank and its bases and carried all the bronze to Babylon.

<sup>14,15</sup> They also took all the pots, shovels, firepans, snuffers, spoons, and other bronze instruments used for the sacrifices. The gold and silver bowls, with all the rest of the gold and silver, were melted down to bullion. <sup>16</sup> It was impossible to estimate the weight of the two pillars and the great tank and its bases—all made for the Temple by King Solomon—because they were so heavy. <sup>17</sup> Each pillar was twenty-seven feet high, with an intricate bronze network of pomegranates decorating the 4½-foot capitals at the tops of the pillars.

So Judah was exiled from its land.

appointed Gedaliah (the son of Ahikam and grandson of Shaphan) as governor over the people left in Judah. <sup>23</sup> When the Israeli guerrilla forces learned that the king of Babylon had appointed Gedaliah as governor, some of these underground leaders and their men joined him at Mizpah. These included Ishmael, the son of Nethaniah; Johanan, the son of Kareah; Seraiah, the son of Tanhumeth the Netophathite; and Ja-azaniah, son of Maachathite, and their men.

<sup>24</sup> Gedaliah vowed that if they would give themselves up and submit to the Babylonians, they would be allowed to live in the land and would not be exiled. <sup>25</sup> But seven months later, Ishmael, who was a member of the royal line, went to Mizpah with ten men and killed Gedaliah and his court—both the Jews and the Babylonians. <sup>26</sup> Then all the men of Judah and the guerrilla leaders fled in panic to Egypt, for they were afraid of what the Babylonians would do to them.

<sup>27</sup> King Jehoiachin was released from prison on the twenty-seventh day of the last month of the thirty-seventh year of his captivity.

This occurred during the first year of the reign of King Evilmerodach of Babylon. <sup>28</sup> He treated Jehoiachin kindly and gave him preferential treatment over all the other kings who were being held as prisoners in Babylon. <sup>29</sup> Jehoiachin was given civilian clothing to replace his prison garb, and for as long as he lived, he ate regularly at the king's table. <sup>30</sup> The king also gave him a daily cash allowance for the rest of his life.

son of Haggith.

The sixth was Ithream, the son of his wife Egla.

<sup>4</sup> These six were born to him in Hebron, where he reigned seven and one-half years. Then he moved the capital to Jerusalem, where he reigned another thirty-three years.

<sup>6-8</sup> David also had nine other sons:

Ibhar, Elishama,
Eliphelet, Nogah, Nepheg,
Japhia, Elishama,
Eliada, and Eliphelet.

<sup>9</sup> (This list does not include the sons of his concubines.) David also had a daughter Tamar.

<sup>10-14</sup> These are the descendants of King Solomon:

Rehoboam, Abijah, Asa,
Jehoshaphat, Joram,<sup>b</sup>
Ahaziah, Joash, Amaziah, Azariah,<sup>c</sup> Jotham, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Manasseh,

<sup>15</sup> The sons of Josiah were:
Johanan,<sup>d</sup> Jehoiakim, Zedekiah, Shallum.

<sup>16</sup> The sons of Jehoiakim:<sup>e</sup>
Jeconiah, Zedekiah.

<sup>17,18</sup> These are the sons who were born to King Jeconiah during the years that he was under house arrest:

She-altiel, Malchiram, Pedaliah, Shenazzar,

Jekamiah, Hoshama, Nedabiah.

<sup>19,20</sup> Pedaiah was the father of Zerubbabel and Shime-i.

Zerubbabel's children were:

Meshullam, Hananiah, Hashubah, Ohel,
Berechiah, Hasadiah,
Jushab-hesed, Shelomith
(a daughter).

<sup>21,22</sup> Hananiah's sons were Pelatiah and Jeshaiah; Jeshaiah's son was Rephaiah;
Rephaiah's son was Arnan;
Arnan's son was Obadiah;
Obadiah's son was Shecaniah.

Shecaniah's son was Shemaiah;

Shemaiah had six sons, including Hattush, Igal, Bariah, Neariah, and Shaphat.

<sup>23</sup> Neariah had three sons:
Eli-o-enai, Hizkiah, Azrikam.

<sup>24</sup> Eli-o-enai had seven sons:

Akkub, Johanan,
Delaiah, Anani.

4 THESE ARE THE sons of Judah: Perez, Hezron, Carmi, Hur, Shobal.

<sup>2</sup> Shobal's son Re-aiah was the father of Jahath, the ancestor of Ahumai and Lahad. These were known as the Zorathite clans.

<sup>3-4</sup> The descendants of Etam:
Jezreel, Ishma, Idbash, Hazzelelponi (his daughter),
Penuel (the ancestor of Gedor),

<sup>d</sup> Or, "Jehoahaz" (see 2 Kings 23:30 f.).

<sup>e</sup> Also known as Jehoiachin or Coniah.

Ezer (the ancestor of Hushah),

The son of Hur, the oldest son of Ephrathah, who was the father of Bethlehem.

<sup>8</sup> Koz was the father of Anub and Zobebah; he was also the ancestor of the clan named after Aharhel, the son of Harum.

<sup>10</sup> He was the one who prayed to the God of Israel, "Oh, that you would wonderfully bless me and help me in my work; please be with me in all that I do, and keep me from all evil and disaster!" And God granted him his request.

<sup>11,12</sup> The descendants of Recah were:

Chelub (the brother of Shuhah), whose son was Mahir, the father of Eshton;

Eshton was the father of Bethrapha, Paseah, and Tehinnah;

Tehinnah was the father of Irnahash.

<sup>13</sup> The sons of Kenaz were Othniel and Seraiah.

Othniel's sons were Hathath and Meonothai;

<sup>14</sup> Meonothai was the father of Ophrah;

Seraiah was the father of Joab, the ancestor of the inhabitants of Craftsman Valley (called that because many craftsmen lived there).

<sup>15</sup> The sons of Caleb (the son of Jephunneh):

Iru, Elah, Naam.

The sons of Elah included Kenaz.

<sup>16</sup> Jehallelel's sons were:

Ziph, Ziphah,
Tiri-a, Asarel.

Jether, Mered, Ephraim, Jalon.

Mered married Bithiah, an Egyptian princess. She was the mother of Miriam, Shammai, and Ishbah—an ancestor of Eshtemoa.

<sup>18</sup> Eshtemoa's wife was a Jewess; she was the mother of Jered, Heber, and Jekuthiel, who were, respectively, the ancestors of the Gedorites, Socothites, and Zanoahites.

<sup>19</sup> Hodia's wife was the sister of Naham. One of her sons was the father of Keilah the Garmite, and another was the father of Eshtemoa the Maacathite.

<sup>20</sup> The sons of Shimon:

Amnon, Rinnah,
Ben-hanan, Tilon.

The sons of Ishi:

Zoheth, Ben-zoheth.

<sup>21-22</sup> The sons of Shelah (the son of Judah):

Er (the father of Lecah),
Laadah (the father of Mare-shah),

The families of the linen workers who worked at <sup>a</sup> A play on words. Jabez sounds like ozeb, the Hebrew word meaning "distress."

Beth-ashbea, Jokim,
The clans of Cozebea,
Joash,
Saraph (who was a ruler in Moab before he returned to Lehem).

These names all come from very ancient records.

<sup>23</sup> These clans were noted for their pottery, gardening, and planting; they all worked for the king:

<sup>24</sup> The sons of Simeon:
Nemu-el, Jamin, Jarib, Zerah, Shaul.

<sup>25</sup> Shaul's son was Shallum, his grandson was Mibsam, and his great-grandson was Mishma.

<sup>26</sup> Mishma's sons included Ham-mu-el (the father of Zaccur and grandfather of Shime-i).

<sup>27</sup> Shime-i had sixteen sons and six daughters, but none of his brothers had large families—they all had fewer children than was normal in Judah.

<sup>28</sup> They lived at Beer-sheba,
Moladah, Hazar-shual, <sup>29</sup> Bilhah,
Ezem, Tolad, <sup>30</sup> Bethuel, Hormah, Ziklag, <sup>31</sup> Beth-marcaboth, Hazarsusim, Beth-biri, and Sha-araim.
These cities were under their control until the time of David.

<sup>32,33</sup> Their descendants also lived in or near Etam, Ain, Rimmon, Tochen, and Ashan; some were as far away as Baal. (These facts are recorded in their genealogies.)

<sup>34-39</sup> These are the names of some of the princes of wealthy clans who traveled to the east side of Gedor Valley in search of pasture for their flocks:

Meshobab, Jamlech,
Joshah, Joel, Jehu,
Eli-o-enai, Ja-akobah,

Jeshohaiah, Asaiah, Adi-el, Jesimi-el, Benaiah, Ziza (the son of Shiphi, son of Allon, son of Jedaiah, son of Shimri, son of Shemaiah).

<sup>40,41</sup> They found good pastures, and everything was quiet and peaceful; but the land belonged to the descendants of Ham. So during the reign of King Hezekiah of Judah these princes invaded the land and struck down the tents and houses of the descendants of Ham; they killed the inhabitants of the land and took possession of it for themselves.

<sup>42</sup> Later, five hundred of these invaders from the tribe of Simeon went to Mount Seir. (Their leaders were Pelatiah, Ne-ariah, Rephaiah, and Uzziel—all sons of Ishi.)

<sup>43</sup> There they destroyed the few surviving members of the tribe of Amalek. And they have lived there ever since.

5 THE OLDEST SON of Israel was Reuben, but since he dishonored his father by sleeping with one of his father's wives, his birthright was given to his half brother, Joseph. So the official genealogy doesn't name Reuben as the oldest son.

<sup>2</sup> Although Joseph received the birthright, yet Judah was a powerful and influential tribe in Israel, and from Judah came a Prince.

<sup>3</sup> The sons of Reuben, Israel's son, were:

Hanoch, Pallu, Hezron, Carmi.

<sup>4</sup> Joel's descendants were his son Shemaiah, his grandson Gog, and his great-grandson Shime-i.

<sup>5</sup> Shime-i's son was Micah; his grandson was Reaiah; and his great-grandson was Baal.

<sup>7,8</sup> His relatives became heads of clans and were included in the official genealogy:

Je-iel, Zechariah, Bela (the son of Azaz, grandson of Shema, and great-grandson of Joel).

These Reubenites<sup>a</sup> lived in Aroer and as far distant as Mount Nebo and Baal-meon.

<sup>9</sup> Joel was a cattle man, and he pastured his animals eastward to the edge of the desert and to the Euphrates River, for there were many cattle in the land of Gilead.

<sup>10</sup> During the reign of King Saul, the men of Reuben defeated the Hagrites in war and moved into their tents on the eastern edge of Gilead.

<sup>11</sup> Across from them, in the land of Bashan, lived the descendants of Gad, who were spread as far as Salecah.

<sup>12</sup> Joel was the greatest and was followed by Shapham, also Janai and Shaphat. <sup>13</sup> Their relatives, the heads of the seven clans, were Michael, Meshullam, Sheba, Jorai, Jacan, Zia, and Eber.

<sup>14</sup> The descendants of Buz, in the order of their generations, were:

Jahdo, Jeshishai,
Michael, Gilead, Jaroah, Huri, Abihail.

<sup>15</sup> Ahi, the son of Abdi-el and grandson of Guni, was the leader of the clan. <sup>16</sup> The clan lived in and around Gilead (in the land of Bashan) and throughout the entire pasture country of Sharon. <sup>17</sup> All were included in the official genealogy at the time of King Jotham of Judah and King Jeroboam of Israel.

<sup>18</sup> There were -44,760 armed, trained, and brave troops in the army of Reuben, Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh. <sup>19</sup> They declared war on the Hagrites, the Jeturites, the Naphishites, and the Nodabites. <sup>20</sup> They cried out to God to help them, and he did, for they trusted in him. So the Hagrites and all their allies were defeated. <sup>21</sup> The booty included 50,000 camels, 250,000 sheep, 2,000 donkeys, and 100,000 captives. <sup>22</sup> A great number of the enemy also died in the battle, for God was fighting against them. So the Reubenites lived in the territory of the Hagrites until the time of the exile.

<sup>23</sup> The half-tribe of Manasseh spread through the land from Bashan to Baal-hermon, Senir, and Mount Hermon. They too were very numerous.

<sup>24</sup> The chiefs of their clans were the following:

Epher, Ishi, Eliel, Azri-el, Jeremiah, Hodaviah, Jahdi-el.

Each of these men had a great reputation as a warrior and leader.

<sup>25</sup> But they were not true to the God of their fathers; instead they worshiped the idols of the people whom God had destroyed. <sup>26</sup> So God caused King Pul of Assyria (also known as Tilgath-pilneser III) to invade the land and deport the men of Reuben, Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh. They took them to mon built the Temple at Jerusalem, the choirs carried on their work there.

<sup>33-38</sup> These are the names and ancestries<sup>c</sup> of choir leaders: Heman the Cantor was from the clan of Kohath; his genealogy was traced back through:

Joel, Samuel, Elkanah III,
Jeroham, Eliel, Toah, Zuph,
Elkanah II, Mahath,
Amasai, Elkanah I, Joel,
Azariah, Zephaniah,
Tahath, Assir, Ebiasaph,
Korah, Izhar, Kohath, Levi, Israel.

<sup>39-43</sup> Heman's assistant<sup>d</sup> was his colleague Asaph, whose genealogy was traced back through:

Berechiah, Shime-a,
Michael, Ba-aseiah,
Malchijah, Ethni, Zerah,
Adaiah, Ethan, Zimmah,
Shime-i, Jahath, Gershom, Levi.

<sup>44-47</sup> Heman's second assistant was Ethan, a representative from the clan of Merari, who stood on his left. Merari's ancestry was traced back through:

Kishi, Abdi, Malluch, Hashabiah, Amaziah,
Hilkiah, Amzi, Bani,
Shemer, Mahli, Mushi, Merari, Levi.

<sup>48</sup> Their relatives—all the other Levites—were appointed to various other tasks in the Tabernacle. <sup>49</sup> But only Aaron and his descendants were the priests. Their duties included sacrificing burnt offerings and incense, handling all the tasks relating to the inner sanctuary—the Holy of Holies—and the tasks relating to the annual Day of Atonement for Israel. They saw to it that all the details commanded by Moses the servant of God were strictly followed.

<sup>50-53</sup> The descendants of Aaron were:

Eleazar, Phinehas,
Abishua, Bukki, Uzzi,
Zerahiah, Meraioth,
Amariah, Ahitub,
Zadok, Ahima-az.

<sup>54</sup> This is a record of the cities and land assigned by lot to the descendants of Aaron, all of whom were members of the Kohath clan:

Libnah, Jattir,
Eshtemoa, Hilen, Debir, Ashan, Beth-shemesh.

<sup>60</sup> Thirteen other cities with surrounding pastures—including Geba, Alemeth, and Anathoth—were given to the priests by the tribe of Benjamin. <sup>61</sup> Lots were then drawn to assign land to the remaining descendants of Kohath, and they received ten cities in the territory of the half-tribe of Manasseh.

<sup>64,65</sup> Cities and pasturelands were also assigned by lot to the Levites (and then renamed) from the tribes of Judah, Simeon, and Benjamin.

<sup>66,69</sup> The tribe of Ephraim gave these Cities of Refuge with the surrounding pasturelands to the subclans of Kohath:

Shechem, in Mount Ephraim; Gezer; Jokme-am;
Beth-horon; Aijalon;
Gath-rimmon.

<sup>70</sup> The following Cities of Refuge and their pasturelands were given to the subclans of the Kohathites by the half-tribe of Manasseh:

Aner, Bile-am.

<sup>71</sup> Cities of Refuge and pastureland given to the clan of Gershom by the half-tribe of Manasseh were:

Golan, in Bashan; Ashtaroth.

7 THE SONS OF Issachar:

Tola, Puah,
Jashub, Shimron.

<sup>2</sup> The sons of Tola, each of whom was the head of a subclan:

Uzzi, Rephaiah, Jeri-el, Jahmai, Ibsam, Shemuel.

At the time of King David, the total number of men of war from these families totaled 22,600.

<sup>3</sup> Uzzi's son was Izrahiah among whose five sons were Michael, Obadiah, Joel, and Isshiah, all chiefs of subclans. <sup>4</sup> Their descendants, at the time of King David, numbered 36,000 troops; for all five of them had several wives and many sons.

<sup>5</sup> The total number of men available for military service from all the clans of the tribe of Issachar numbered 87,000 stouthearted warriors, all included in the official genealogy.

<sup>6</sup> The sons of Benjamin were:
Bela, Becher, Jedia-el.

<sup>7</sup> The sons of Bela:
Ezbon, Uzzi, Uzziel, Jerimoth, Iri.

These five mighty warriors were chiefs of subclans and were the leaders of 22,034 troops (all of whom were recorded in the official genealogies).

<sup>8</sup> The sons of Becher were:
Zemirah, Joash, Eliezer,
Eli-o-enai, Omri, Jeremoth, Abijah, Anathoth, Alemeth.

<sup>9</sup> At the time of David there were 22,200 mighty warriors among their descendants; and they were led by their clan chiefs.

<sup>10</sup> The son of Jedia-el was Bilhan.

The sons of Bilhan were:
Jeush, Benjamin, Ehud,
Chenaanah, Zethan,

Tarshish, Ahishahar.

Jahzi-el, Guni, Jezer, Shallum.

<sup>14</sup> The sons of Manasseh, born to his Aramaean concubine, were Asri-el and Machir (who became the father of Gilead).

<sup>16</sup> Machir's wife, also named Maacah, bore him a son whom she named Peresh; his brother's name was Sheresh, and he had sons named Ulam and Rakem.

<sup>17</sup> Ulam's son was Bedan. So these were the sons of Gilead, the grandsons of Machir, and the great-grandsons of Manasseh.

Shuthelah, Bered, Tahath,
Eleadah, Tahath,
Zabad, Shuthelah,
Ezer, Ele-ad.

Ele-ad and Ezer attempted to rustle cattle at Gath, but they were killed by the local farmers. <sup>22</sup> Their father Ephraim mourned for them a long time, and his brothers tried to comfort him. <sup>23</sup> Afterwards, his wife conceived and bore a son whom he called Beriah (meaning "a tragedy") because of what had happened.

Rephah, the father of Resheph, the father of Telah, the father of Tahan, the father of Ladan, the father of Ammihud, the father of <sup>29</sup> Je-iel, the father of Gibeon, lived at Gibeon; and his wife's name was Maacah. <sup>30,31,32</sup> His oldest son was named Abdon, followed by:

Zur, Kish, Baal, Nadab, Gedor, Ahio, Zecher, Mikloth who was the father of Shimeah.

All of these families lived together near Jerusalem.

<sup>33</sup> Ner was the father of Kish, and Kish was the father of Saul; Saul's sons included:

Jonathan, Malchishua, Abinadab, Eshbaal.

<sup>39</sup> Azel's brother Eshek had three sons:

Ulam, the first,
Jeush, the second,
Eliphelet, the third.

<sup>40</sup> Ulam's sons were prominent warriors who were expert marksmen with their bows. These men had 150 sons and grandsons, and they were all from the tribe of Benjamin.

9 THE FAMILY TREE of every person in Israel was carefully recorded in The Annals of the Kings of Israel.

Judah was exiled to Babylon because the people worshiped idols.

<sup>2</sup> The first to return and live again in their former cities were families from the tribes of Israel, and also the priests, the Levites, and the Temple assistants.

<sup>3</sup> Then some families from the tribes of Judah, Benjamin, Ephraim, and Manasseh arrived in Jerusalem:

<sup>4</sup> One family was that of Uthai (the son of Ammihud, son of Omri; son of Imri, son of Bani) of the clan of Perez (son of Judah).

<sup>5</sup> The Shilonites were another family to return, including Asaiah (Shilon's oldest son) and his sons; <sup>6</sup> there were also the sons of Zerah, including Jeuel and his relatives: 690 in all.

<sup>7,8</sup> Among the members of the tribe of Benjamin who returned were these:

Sallu (the son of Meshullam, the son of Hodaviah, the son of Hassenuah);

Ibneiah (the son of Jeroham); Elah (the son of Uzzi, the son of Michri);

Meshullam (the son of Shephatiah, the son of Reuel, the son of Ibniyah).

<sup>9</sup> These men were all chiefs of subclans. A total of 956 Benjaminites returned.

were:

Jedaiah, Jehoiarib, Jachin, Azariah (the son of Hilkiah, son of Meshullam, son of Zadok, son of Meraioth, son of Ahitub). He was the chief custodian of the Temple.

<sup>18</sup> Another of the returning priests was Adaiah (son of Jeroham, son of Pashhur, son of Malchijah).

Another priest was Maasai (son of Adi-el, son of Jahzerah, son of Meshullam, son of Meshillemith, son of Immer).

<sup>19</sup> In all, 1,760 priests returned.

<sup>14</sup> Among the Levites who returned was Shemaiah (son of Hashub, son of Azrikam, son of Hashabiah, who was a descendant of Merari).

<sup>15,16</sup> Other Levites who returned included:

Bakbakkar, Heresh, Galal, Mattaniah (the son of Mica, who was the son of Zichri, who was the son of Asaph).

Obadiah (the son of Shemaiah, son of Galal, son of Jeduthun).

Berechiah (the son of Asa, son of El-kanah, who lived in the area of the Netophathites).

<sup>17,18</sup> The gatekeepers were Shalum (the chief gatekeeper), Akkub, Talmon, and Ahiman—all Levites. They are still responsible for the eastern royal gate. <sup>19</sup> Shallum's ancestry went back through Kore and Ebiasaph to Korah. He and his close relatives the Korahites were in charge of the sacrifices and the protection of the sanctuary, just as their ancestors had supervised and guarded the Tabernacle. <sup>20</sup> Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, was the first director of this division in ancient times. And the Lord was with him.

<sup>21</sup> At that time Zechariah, the son of Meshelemiah, had been responsible for the protection of the entrance to the Tabernacle. <sup>22</sup> There were 212 doorkeepers in those days. They were chosen from their villages on the basis of their genealogies, and they were appointed by David and Samuel because of their reliability. <sup>23</sup> They and their descendants were in charge of the Lord's Tabernacle. <sup>24</sup> They were assigned to each of the four sides: east, west, north, and south. <sup>25</sup> And their relatives in the villages were assigned to them from time to time, for seven days at a time.

<sup>26</sup> The four head gatekeepers, all Levites, were in an office of great trust, for they were responsible for the rooms and treasuries in the Tabernacle of God. <sup>27</sup> Because of their important positions they lived near the Tabernacle, and they opened the gates each morning. <sup>28</sup> Some of them were assigned to care for the various vessels used in the sacrifices and worship; they checked them in and out to avoid loss. <sup>29</sup> Others were responsible for the furniture, the items in the sanctuary, and the supplies such as fine flour, wine, incense, and spices.

tion of the special bread<sup>a</sup> each Sabbath.

<sup>33,34</sup> The cantors were all prominent Levites. They lived in Jerusalem at the Temple and were on duty at all hours. They were free from other responsibilities and were selected by their genealogies.

<sup>35,36,37</sup> Jeiel (whose wife was Maacah) lived in Gibeon. He had many<sup>b</sup> sons, including:

Gibeon, Abdon (the oldest),
Zur, Kish, Baal, Ner,
Nadab, Gedor, Ahio,
Zechariah, Mikloth.

<sup>39</sup> Ner was the father of Kish,

Kish was the father of Saul,

Saul was the father of Jonathan, Malchishua, Abinadab, and Eshbaal.

<sup>40</sup> Jonathan was the father of Mephibosheth;<sup>c</sup>

Mephibosheth<sup>c</sup> was the father of Micah;

<sup>42</sup> Ahaz was the father of Jarah;

Jarah was the father of Alemeth, Azmaveth, and Zimri;

Zimri was the father of Moza.

<sup>43</sup> Moza was the father of Bine-a, Rephaiah, Eleasah, and Azel.

<sup>44</sup> Azel had six sons:

Azrikam, Bocheru, Ishmael,
She-ariah, Obadiah, Hanan.

10<sup>a</sup> THE PHILISTINES ATTACKED and defeated the Israeli troops, who turned and fled and were slaughtered on the slopes of Mount Gilboa. <sup>2</sup> They caught up with Saul and his three sons, Jonathan, Abinadab, and Malchishua, and killed them all. <sup>3</sup> Saul had been hard pressed with heavy fighting all around him, when the Philistine archers shot and wounded him.

<sup>4</sup> He cried out to his bodyguard, "Quick, kill me with your sword before these uncircumcised heathen capture and torture me."

But the man was afraid to do it, so Saul took his own sword and fell against its point; and it pierced his body. <sup>5</sup> Then his bodyguard, seeing that Saul was dead, killed himself in the same way. <sup>6</sup> So Saul and his three sons died together; the entire family was wiped out in one day.

<sup>7</sup> When the Israelis in the valley below the mountain heard that their troops had been routed and that Saul and his sons were dead, they abandoned their cities and fled. And the Philistines came and lived in them. <sup>8</sup> When the Philistines went back the next day to strip the bodies of the men killed in action and to gather the booty from the battlefield, they found the bodies of Saul and his sons. <sup>9</sup> So they stripped off Saul's armor and cut off his head; then they displayed them throughout the nation and celebrated the wonderful news before their idols. <sup>10</sup> They fastened his armor to the walls of the Temple of the Gods and nailed his head to the wall of Dagon's temple.

tlefield<sup>b</sup> and brought back his body and the bodies of his three sons. Then they buried them beneath the oak tree at Jabesh and mourned and fasted for seven days.

<sup>11</sup> Saul died for his disobedience to the Lord and because he had consulted a medium,<sup>c</sup> and did not ask the Lord for guidance. So the Lord killed him and gave the kingdom to David, the son of Jesse.

11 THEN THE LEADERS of Israel went to David at Hebron and told him, "We are your relatives,<sup>a</sup> and even when Saul was king, you were the one who led our armies to battle and brought them safely back again. And the Lord your God has told you, 'You shall be the shepherd of my people Israel. You shall be their king.'"

<sup>3</sup> So David made a contract with them before the Lord, and they anointed him as king of Israel, just as the Lord had told Samuel. <sup>4</sup> Then David and the leaders went to Jerusalem (or Jebus, as it used to be called) where the Jebusites—the original inhabitants of the land—lived. <sup>5,6</sup> But the people of Jebus refused to let them enter the city. So David captured the fortress of Zion, later called the City of David, and said to his men, "The first man to kill a Jebusite shall be made commander-in-chief!" Joab, the son of Zeruiah, was the first, so he became the general of David's army. <sup>7</sup> David lived in the fortress and that is why that area of Jerusalem is called the City of David. <sup>8</sup> He extended the city out around the fortress while Joab rebuilt the rest of Jerusalem. <sup>9</sup> And David became more and more famous and powerful, for the Lord of the heavens was with him.

<sup>10</sup> These are the names of some of the bravest of David's warriors (who also encouraged the leaders of Israel to make David their king, as the Lord had said would happen):

<sup>12</sup> The second of The Top Three was Eleazar, the son of Dodo, a member of the subclan of Ahoh. <sup>13</sup> He was with David in the battle against the Philistines at Pas-dammim. The Israeli army was in a barley field and had begun to run away, <sup>14</sup> but he held his ground in the middle of the field, and recovered it and slaughtered the Philistines; and the Lord saved them with a great victory.

should drink it! It is the very blood of these men who risked their lives to get it."

<sup>20</sup> Abishai, Joab's brother, was commander of The Thirty. He had gained his place among The Thirty by killing 300 men at one time with his spear. <sup>21</sup> He was the chief and the most famous of The Thirty, but he was not as great as The Three.

<sup>22</sup> Benaiah, whose father was a mighty warrior from Kabzeel, killed the two famous giants<sup>c</sup> from Moab. He also killed a lion in a slippery pit when there was snow on the ground. <sup>23</sup> Once he killed an Egyptian who was seven and one-half feet tall, whose spear was as thick as a weaver's beam. But Benaiah went up to him with only a club in his hand and pulled the spear away from him and used it to kill him. <sup>24,25</sup> He was nearly as great as The Three, and he was very famous among The Thirty. David made him captain of his bodyguard.

<sup>26-47</sup> Other famous warriors among David's men were:

Asahel (Joab's brother);
Elhanan, the son of Dodo from Bethlehem;
Shammoth from Harod;
Helez from Pelon;
Ira (son of Ikkesh) from Tekoa;
Abi-ezer from Anathoth;
Sibbecai from Hushath;
Ilai from Ahoh;
Maharai from Netophah;
Heled (son of Baanah) from Netophah;
Ithai (son of Ribai) a Benjaminite from Gibe-ah;

<sup>3-7</sup> Their chief was Ahi-ezer, son of Shemaah from Gibe-ah. The others were:

His brother Joash; Jeziel and Pelet, sons of Azmaveth; Beracah; Jehu from Anathoth; Ishmaiah from Gibeon (a brave warrior rated as high or higher than The Thirty); Jereniah; Jahaziel; Johanan; Jozabad from Gederah; Eluzai; Jerimoth; Bealiah; Shemariah; Shephatiah from Haruph; Elkanah, Isshiah, Azarel, Jo-ezer, Jashobe-am—all Korahites; Jo-elah and Zebadiah (sons of Jeroham from Gedor).

<sup>8-13</sup> Great and brave warriors from the tribe of Gad also went to David in the wilderness. They were experts with both shield and spear and were "lion-faced men, swift as deer upon the mountains."

Ezer was the chief;
Obadiah was second in command;
Eliab was third in command;
Mishmannah was fourth in command;

Jeremiah was fifth in command;
Attai was sixth in command;
Eliel was seventh in command;
Johanan was eighth in command;
Elzabad was ninth in command;
Jeremiah was tenth in command;
Machbannai was eleventh in command.

<sup>14</sup> These men were army officers; the weakest was worth a hundred normal troops, and the greatest was worth a thousand! <sup>15</sup> They crossed the Jordan River during its seasonal flooding and conquered the lowlands on both the east and west banks.

<sup>16</sup> Others came to David from Benjamin and Judah. <sup>17</sup> David went out to meet them and said, "If you have come to help me, we are friends; but if you have come to betray me to my enemies when I am innocent, then may the God of our fathers see and judge you."

<sup>18</sup> Then the Holy Spirit came upon them, and Amasai, a leader of The Thirty, replied,

"We are yours, David;
We are on your side, son of Jesse.

Peace, peace be unto you,
And peace to all who aid you;
For your God is with you."

So David let them join him, and he made them captains of his army.

<sup>19</sup> Some men from Manasse deserted the Israeli army and joined David just as he was going into battle with the Philistines against King

Saul. But as it turned out, the Philistine generals refused to let David and his men go with them. After much discussion they sent them back, for they were afraid that David and his men would imperil them by deserting to King Saul.

<sup>20</sup> Here is a list of the men from Manasseh who deserted to David as he was en route to Ziklag:

Adnah, Jozabad, Jedia-el,
Michael, Jozabad,
Elihu, Zillethai.

Each was a high-ranking officer of Manasseh's troops. <sup>21</sup> They were brave and able warriors, and they assisted David when he fought against the Amalek raiders at Ziklag.<sup>b</sup>

<sup>22</sup> More men joined David almost every day until he had a tremendous army—the army of God.

<sup>23</sup> Here is the registry of recruits who joined David at Hebron. They were all anxious to see David become king instead of Saul, just as the Lord had said would happen.

<sup>24-27</sup> From Judah, 6,800 troops armed with shields and spears.

From the tribe of Simeon, 7,100 outstanding warriors.

From the Levites, 4,600.

From the priests—descendants of Aaron—there were 3,700 troops under the command of Zadok, a young man of unusual courage, and Jehoiada. (He and twenty-two members of his family were officers of the fighting priests.)

David's recruits at Hebron

From the tribe of Benjamin, the same tribe Saul was from, there were 3,000. (Most of that tribe retained its allegiance to Saul.)

From the tribe of Ephraim, 20,800 mighty warriors, each famous in his respective clan.

From the half-tribe of Manasseh, 18,000 were sent for the express purpose of helping David become king.

From the tribe of Issachar there were 200 leaders of the tribe with their relatives—all men who understood the temper of the times and knew the best course for Israel to take.

From the tribe of Zebulun there were 50,000 trained warriors; they were fully armed and totally loyal to David.

From Naphtali there were 1,000 officers and 37,000 troops equipped with shields and spears.

From the tribe of Dan there were 28,600 troops, all of them prepared for war.

From the tribe of Asher, there were 40,000 trained and ready troops.

From the other side of the Jordan River—where the tribes of Reuben and Gad and the half-tribe of Manasseh lived—there were 120,000 troops equipped with every kind

<sup>38</sup> All these men came in battle array to Hebron with the single purpose of making David the king of Israel. In fact, all of Israel was ready for this change. <sup>39</sup> They feasted and drank with David for three days, for preparations had been made for their arrival. <sup>40</sup> People from nearby and from as far away as Issachar, Zebulun, and Naphtali brought food on donkeys, camels, mules, and oxen. Vast supplies of flour, fig cakes, raisins, wine, oil, cattle, and sheep were brought to the celebration, for joy had spread throughout the land.

13 AFTER DAVID HAD consulted with all of his army officers, <sup>2</sup> he addressed the assembled men of Israel as follows:

"Since you think that I should be your king, and since the Lord our God has given his approval, let us send messages to our brothers throughout the land of Israel, including the priests and Levites, inviting them to come and join us. <sup>3</sup> And let us bring back the Ark of our God, for we have been neglecting it ever since Saul became king."

<sup>4</sup> There was unanimous consent, for everyone agreed with him. <sup>5</sup> So David summoned the people of Israel from all across the nation<sup>a</sup> so that they could be present when the Ark of God was brought from Kiriath-jearim.

<sup>6</sup> Then David and all Israel went to Baalah (i.e., Kiriath-jearim) in Judah to bring back the Ark of the Lord God enthroned above the angels.<sup>b</sup> <sup>7</sup> It was taken from the house of Abinadab on a new cart. Uzza and Ahio drove the oxen. <sup>8</sup> Then David and all the people danced before the Lord with great enthusiasm, accompanied by singing and by zithers, harps, tambourines, cymbals, and trumpets. <sup>9</sup> But as they arrived at the threshing-floor of Chidon, the oxen stumbled and Uzza reached out his hand to steady the Ark. <sup>10</sup> Then the anger of the Lord blazed out against Uzza, and killed him because he had touched the Ark. And so he died there before God. <sup>11</sup> David was angry at the Lord for what he had done to Uzza, and he named the place "The Outbreak Against Uzza." And it is still called that today.

<sup>12</sup> Now David was afraid of God and asked, "How shall I ever get the Ark of God home?"

<sup>13</sup> Finally he decided to take it to the home of Obed-edom the Gittite instead of bringing it to the City of David. <sup>14</sup> The Ark remained there with the family of Obed-edom for three months, and the Lord blessed him and his family.

14 KING HIRAM OF Tyre sent masons and carpenters to help build David's palace and he supplied him with much cedar lumber. <sup>2</sup> David now realized why the Lord had made him king and why he had made his kingdom so great; it was for a special reason—to give joy to God's people!

and became the father of many sons and daughters.

<sup>4-7</sup> These are the names of the sons born to him in Jerusalem:

Shammua, Shobab, Nathan,
Solomon, Ibhah, Elishu-a, Elpelet, Nogah, Nepheg,
Japhia, Elishama,
Beeliada, Eliphelet.

<sup>8</sup> When the Philistines heard that David was Israel's new king, they mobilized their forces to capture him. But David learned that they were on the way, so he called together his army. <sup>9</sup> The Philistines were raiding the Valley of Rephaim, <sup>10</sup> and David asked the Lord, "If I go out and fight them, will you give me the victory?"

And the Lord replied, "Yes, I will."

<sup>11</sup> So he attacked them at Baal-perazim and wiped them out. He exulted, "God has used me to sweep away my enemies like water bursting through a dam!" That is why the place has been known as Baal-perazim ever since (meaning, "The Place of Breaking Through").

<sup>13</sup> Later the Philistines raided the valley again, <sup>14</sup> and again David asked God what to do.

The Lord replied, "Go around by the mulberry trees and attack from there. <sup>15</sup> When you hear a sound like marching in the tops of the mulberry trees, that is your signal to attack, for God will go before you and destroy the enemy."

manded him; and he cut down the army of the Philistines all the way from Gibeon to Gezer. <sup>17</sup> David's fame spread everywhere, and the Lord caused all the nations to fear him.

15 DAVID NOW BUILT several palaces for himself in Jerusalem, and he also built a new Tabernacle to house the Ark of God, <sup>2</sup> and issued these instructions: [When we transfer the Ark to its new home<sup>a</sup>], no one except the Levites may carry it, for God has chosen them for this purpose; they are to minister to him forever."

120 from the clan of Kohath;
with Uriel as their leader;

220 from the clan of Merari; with Asaiah as their
leader;

130 from the clan of Gershon; with Joel as their
leader;

200 from the subclan of Elizaphan; with Shemaiah as their leader;

80 from the subclan of Hebron; with Eliel as their
leader;

112 from the subclan of Uzziel; with Amminadab as their leader.

<sup>11</sup> Then David called for Zadok and Abiathar, the High Priests, and for the Levite leaders: Uriel, Asaiah, Joel, Shemaiah, Eliel, and Amminadab.

<sup>12</sup> "You are the leaders of the clans of the Levites," he told them. "Now sanctify yourselves with all your brothers so that you may bring the Ark of Jehovah, the God of Israel, to the place I have prepared for it. <sup>13</sup> The Lord destroyed us before because we handled the matter improperly—you were not carrying it."

<sup>14</sup> So the priests and the Levites underwent the ceremonies of sanctification in preparation for bringing home the Ark of Jehovah, the God of Israel. <sup>15</sup> Then the Levites carried the Ark on their shoulders with its carrying poles, just as the Lord had instructed Moses.

<sup>16</sup> King David also ordered the Levite leaders to organize the singers into an orchestra, and they played loudly and joyously upon psalteries, harps, and cymbals. <sup>17</sup> Heman (son of Joel), Asaph (son of Berechiah), and Ethan (son of Kushaiah) from the clan of Merari were the heads of the musicians.

<sup>18</sup> The following men were chosen as their assistants:

Zechariah, Ja-aziel,
Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Unni,
Eliab, Benaiah, Ma-asseiah,
Mattithiah, Eliphelehu, Mikneiah, Obed-edom and Jeiel, the door keepers.

neiah, Obed-edom, Jeiel, and Azaziah were the harpists.<sup>c</sup> <sup>22</sup> The song leader was Chenaniah, the chief of the Levites, who was selected for his skill. <sup>23</sup> Berechiah and Elkanah were guards for the Ark. <sup>24</sup> Shebaniah, Joshaphat, Neithanel, Amasai, Zechariah, Benaiah, and Eliezer—all of whom were priests—formed a bugle corps to march at the head of the procession. And Obed-edom and Jehiah guarded the Ark.

<sup>25</sup> Then David and the elders of Israel and the high officers of the army went with great joy to the home of Obed-edom to take the Ark to Jerusalem. <sup>26</sup> And because God didn't destroy the Levites who were carrying the Ark, they sacrificed seven bulls and seven lambs. <sup>27</sup> David, the Levites carrying the Ark, the singers, and Chenaniah the song leader were all dressed in linen robes. David also wore a linen ephod. <sup>28</sup> So the leaders of Israel took the Ark to Jerusalem with shouts of joy, the blowing of horns and trumpets, the crashing of cymbals, and loud playing on the harps and zithers.

<sup>29</sup> (But as the Ark arrived in Jerusalem, David's wife Michal, the daughter of King Saul, felt a deep disgust for David as she watched from the window and saw him dancing like a madman.)

16 SO THE ARK of God was brought into the Tabernacle. David had prepared for it, and the leaders of Israel sacrificed burnt offerings and peace offerings before God.

<sup>4</sup> He appointed certain of the Levites to minister before the Ark by giving constant praise and thanks to the Lord God of Israel and by asking for his blessings upon his people.

These are the names of those given this assignment: <sup>5</sup> Asaph, the leader of this detail, sounded the cymbals. His associates were Zechariah, Jeiel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Mattithiah, Eliab, Benaiah, Obededom, and Jeiel; they played the harps and zithers. <sup>6</sup> The priests Benaiah and Jahaziel played their trumpets regularly before the Ark.

<sup>7</sup> At that time David began the custom of using choirs in the Tabernacle to sing thanksgiving to the Lord. Asaph was the director of this choral group of priests.

<sup>8</sup> "Oh, give thanks to the Lord and pray to him," they sang.

"Tell the peoples of the world
About his mighty doings.

<sup>9</sup> Sing to him; yes, sing his praises

And tell of his marvelous works.

<sup>10</sup> Glory in his holy name;
Let all rejoice who seek the Lord.

<sup>11</sup> Seek the Lord; yes, seek his strength

And seek his face untiringly.

<sup>12,13</sup> O descendants of his servant Abraham,
O chosen sons of Jacob,
Remember his mighty miracles

And his marvelous miracles
And his authority:

<sup>14</sup> He is the Lord our God!
His authority is seen throughout the earth.

<sup>15</sup> Remember his covenant forever—

The words he commanded
To a thousand generations:

<sup>16</sup> His agreement with Abraham,

And his oath to Isaac,

<sup>17</sup> And his confirmation to Jacob.

He promised Israel
With an everlasting promise:

<sup>18</sup> 'I will give you the land of Canaan

As your inheritance.'

<sup>19</sup> When Israel was few in number—oh, so few—

And merely strangers in the Promised Land;

<sup>20</sup> When they wandered from country to country,
From one kingdom to another—

<sup>21</sup> God didn't let anyone harm them.

Even kings were killed who sought to hurt them.

<sup>22</sup> 'Don't harm my chosen people,' he declared.

'These are my prophets—touch them not.'

<sup>23</sup> Sing to the Lord, O earth, Declare each day that he is the one who saves!

<sup>24</sup> Show his glory to the nations!
Tell everyone about his miracles.
<sup>25</sup> For the Lord is great, and should be highly praised;
He is to be held in awe above all gods.
<sup>26</sup> The other so-called gods are demons,
But the Lord made the heavens.
<sup>27</sup> Majesty and honor march before him,
Strength and gladness walk beside him.
<sup>28</sup> O people of all nations of the earth,
Ascribe great strength and glory to his name!
<sup>29</sup> Yes, ascribe to the Lord The glory due his name!
Bring an offering and come before him;
Worship the Lord when clothed with holiness!
<sup>30</sup> Tremble before him, all the earth!
The world stands unmoved.
<sup>31</sup> Let the heavens be glad, the earth rejoice;
Let all the nations say, 'It is the Lord who reigns.'
<sup>32</sup> Let the vast seas roar,
Let the countryside and everything in it rejoice!
<sup>33</sup> Let the trees in the woods sing for joy before the Lord,
For he comes to judge the earth.
<sup>34</sup> Oh, give thanks to the Lord, for he is good;
His love and his kindness go on forever.

<sup>35</sup> Cry out to him, 'Oh, save us, God of our salvation;
Bring us safely back from among the nations.
Then we will thank your holy name,
And triumph in your praise.'
<sup>36</sup> Blessed be Jehovah, God of Israel, Forever and forevermore."
And all the people shouted "Amen!" and praised the Lord.
<sup>38</sup> This group included Obed-edom (the son of Jeduthun), Hosah and sixty-eight of their colleagues as guards.
<sup>40</sup> They sacrificed burnt offerings to the Lord each morning and evening upon the altar set aside for that purpose, just as the Lord had commanded Israel.
<sup>41</sup> David also appointed Heman, Jeduthun, and several others who were chosen by name to give thanks to the Lord for his constant love and mercy.
<sup>42</sup> They used their trumpets and cymbals to accompany the singers with loud praises to God. And Jeduthun's sons were appointed as guards.
<sup>43</sup> At last the celebration ended and the people returned to their homes, and David returned to bless his own household.

17 AFTER DAVID HAD been living in his new palace for some time he said to Nathan the prophet, "Look! I'm living here in a cedar-paneled home while the Ark of the Covenant of God is out there in a tent!"

<sup>2</sup> And Nathan replied, "Carry out your plan in every detail, for it is the will of the Lord."

<sup>3</sup> But that same night God said to Nathan, <sup>4</sup> "Go and give my servant David this message: 'You are not to build my temple! <sup>5</sup> I've gone from tent to tent as my home from the time I brought Israel out of Egypt. <sup>6</sup> In all that time I never suggested to any of the leaders of Israel—the shepherds I appointed to care for my people—that they should build me a cedar-lined temple.'

<sup>7</sup> "Tell my servant David, 'The Lord of heaven says to you, I took you from being a shepherd and made you the king of my people. <sup>8</sup> And I have been with you everywhere you've gone; I have destroyed your enemies, and I will make your name as great as the greatest of the earth. <sup>9</sup> And I will give a permanent home to my people Israel, and will plant them in their land. They will not be disturbed again; the wicked nations won't conquer them as they did before, <sup>10</sup> when the judges ruled them. I will subdue all of your enemies. And I now declare that I will cause your descendants to be kings of Israel just as you are.

<sup>11</sup> " 'When your time here on earth is over and you die, I will place one of your sons upon your throne; and I will make his kingdom strong. <sup>12</sup> He is the one who shall build me a temple, and I will establish his royal line of descent forever. <sup>13</sup> I will be his father, and he shall be my son; I will never remove my mercy and love from him as I did from Saul. <sup>14</sup> I will place him over my people and over the kingdom of Israel forever—and his descendants will always be kings.'

<sup>15</sup> So Nathan told King David everything the Lord had said.

<sup>16</sup> Then King David went in and sat before the Lord and said, "Who am I, O Lord God, and what is my family that you have given me all this? <sup>17</sup> For all the great things you have already done for me are nothing in comparison to what you have promised to do in the future! For now, O Lord God, you are speaking of future generations of my children being kings too! You speak as though I were someone very great. <sup>18</sup> What else can I say? You know that I am but a dog, yet you have decided to honor me! <sup>19</sup> O Lord, you have given me these wonderful promises just because you want to be kind to me, because of your own great heart. <sup>20</sup> O Lord, there is no one like you—there is no other God. In fact, we have never even heard of another god like you!"

<sup>21</sup> "And what other nation in all the earth is like Israel? You have made a unique nation and have redeemed it from Egypt so that the people could be your people. And you made a great name for yourself when you did glorious miracles in driving out the nations from before your people. <sup>22</sup> You have declared that your people Israel belong to you forever, and you have become their God.

<sup>23</sup> "And now I accept your promise, Lord, that I and my children will always rule this nation. <sup>24</sup> And may this bring eternal honor to your name as everyone realizes that you always do what you say. They will exclaim, 'The Lord of heaven is indeed the God of Israel!' And Israel shall always be ruled by my children and their posterity!" <sup>25</sup> Now I have the courage to pray to you, for you have revealed this to me. <sup>26</sup> God himself has promised this good thing to me! <sup>27</sup> May this blessing rest upon my children forever, for when you grant a blessing, Lord, it is an eternal blessing!"

18 DAVID FINALLY SUBDUED the Philistines and conquered Gath and its surrounding towns. <sup>2</sup> He also conquered Moab and required its people to send him a large sum of money every year. <sup>3</sup> He conquered the dominion of King Hadadezer of Zobah (as far as Hamath) at the time Hadadezer went to tighten his grip along the Euphrates River. <sup>4</sup> David captured a thousand of his chariots, seven thousand cavalry, and twenty thousand troops. He crippled all the chariot teams except a hundred that he kept for his own use.

<sup>5</sup> When the Syrians arrived from Damascus to help King Hadadezer, David killed twenty-two thousand of them; <sup>6</sup> then he placed a garrison of his troops in Damascus, the Syrian capital. So the Syrians, too, were forced to send him large amounts of money every year. And the Lord gave David victory everywhere he went. <sup>7</sup> He brought the gold shields of King Hadadezer's officers to Jerusalem, <sup>8</sup> as well as a great amount of bronze from Hadadezer's cities of Tibhath and Cun. (King Solomon later melted the bronze and used it for the Temple. He molded it into the bronze tank, the pillars, and the instruments used in offering sacrifices on the altar.)

<sup>9</sup> When King Tou of Hamath learned that King David had destroyed Hadadezer's army, <sup>10</sup> he sent his son Hadoram to greet and congratulate King David on his success and to present him with many gifts of gold, silver, and bronze, seeking an alliance. For Hadadezer and Tou had been enemies and there had been many wars between them. <sup>11</sup> King David dedicated these gifts to the Lord, as he did the silver and gold he took from the nations of Edom, Moab, Ammon, Amalek, and the Philistines.

the Cherethites and Pelethites—and David's sons were his chief aides.

19 WHEN KING NAHASH of Ammon died, his son Hanun became the new king.

<sup>23</sup> Then David declared, "I am going to show friendship to Hanun because of all the kind things his father did for me."

So David sent a message of sympathy to Hanun for the death of his father. But when David's ambassadors arrived, King Hanun's counselors warned him, "Don't fool yourself that David has sent these men to honor your father! They are here to spy out the land so that they can come in and conquer it!"

<sup>8</sup> When David learned of this, he sent Joab and the mightiest warriors of Israel. <sup>9</sup> The army of Ammon went out to meet them and began the battle at the gates of the city of Medeba. Meanwhile, the mercenary forces were out in the field. <sup>10</sup> When Joab realized that the enemy forces were both in front and behind him, he divided his army and sent one group to engage the Syrians. <sup>11</sup> The other group, under the command of his brother Abishai, moved against the Ammonites.

<sup>12</sup> "If the Syrians are too strong for me, come and help me," Joab told his brother; "and if the Ammonites are too strong for you, I'll come and help you. <sup>13</sup> Be courageous and let us act like men to save our people and the cities of our God. And may the Lord do what is best."

<sup>14</sup> So Joab and his troops attacked the Syrians, and the Syrians turned and fled. <sup>15</sup> When the Ammonites, under attack by Abishai's troops, saw that the Syrians were retreating, they fled into the city. Then Joab returned to Jerusalem.

<sup>16</sup> After their defeat, the Syrians summoned additional troops from east of the Euphrates River, led personally by Shophach, King Hadadezer's commander-in-chief. <sup>17,18</sup> When this news reached David, he mobilized all Israel, crossed the Jordan River, and engaged the enemy troops in battle. But the Syrians again fled from David, and he killed seven thousand charioteers and forty thousand of their troops. He also killed Shophach, the commander-in-chief of the Syrian army. <sup>19</sup> Then King Hadadezer's troops surrendered to King David and became his subjects. And never again did the Syrians aid the Ammonites in their battles.

20 THE FOLLOWING SPRING (spring was the season when wars usually began) Joab led the Israeli army in successful attacks against the cities and villages of the people of Ammon. After destroying them, he laid siege to Rabbah and conquered it. Meanwhile, David had stayed in Jerusalem. <sup>2</sup> When David arrived on the scene, he removed the crown from the head of King Milcom<sup>a</sup> of Rabbah and placed it upon his own head. It was made of gold inlaid with gems and weighed seventy-five pounds! David also took great amounts of plunder from the city. <sup>3</sup> He drove the people from the city and set them to work with saws, iron picks, and axes,<sup>b</sup> as was his custom with all the conquered Ammonite peoples. Then David and all his army returned to Jerusalem.

<sup>4</sup> The next war was against the Philistines again, at Gezer. But Sibbecai, a man from Hushath, killed one of the sons of the giant, Sippai, and so the Philistines surrendered. <sup>5</sup> During another war with the Philistines, Elhanan (the son of Jair) killed Lahmi, the brother of Goliath the giant; the handle of his spear was like a weaver's beam! <sup>6</sup> During another battle, at Gath, a giant with six fingers on each hand and six toes on each foot (his father was also a giant) defied and taunted Israel; but he was killed by David's nephew Jonathan, the son of David's brother Shimea. <sup>8</sup> These giants were descendants of the giants of Gath, and they were killed by David and his soldiers.

21 THEN SATAN BROUGHT disaster upon Israel, for he made David decide to take a census.

<sup>2</sup> "Take a complete census throughout the land<sup>a</sup> and bring me the totals," he told Joab and the other leaders.

<sup>3</sup> But Joab objected. "If the Lord were to multiply his people a hundred times, would they not all be yours? So why are you asking us to do this? Why must you cause Israel to sin?"

<sup>4</sup> But the king won the argument, and Joab did as he was told; he traveled all through Israel and returned to Jerusalem. <sup>5</sup> The total population figure which he gave came to 1,100,000 men of military age in Israel and 470,000 in Judah. <sup>6</sup> But he didn't include the tribes of Levi and Benjamin in his figures because he was so distressed at what the king had made him do. <sup>7</sup> And God, too, was displeased with the census and punished Israel for it.

<sup>8</sup> But David said to God, "I am the one who has sinned. Please forgive me, for I realize now how wrong I was to do this."

<sup>9</sup> Then the Lord said to Gad, David's personal prophet, <sup>10,11</sup> "Go and tell David, 'The Lord has of-

<sup>b</sup> Literally, "he conducted them to the saw." Whether this means that he made them labor with saws or that he sawed them to pieces is uncertain.

ferred you three choices. Which will you choose? <sup>12</sup> You may have three years of famine, or three months of destruction by the enemies of Israel, or three days of deadly plague as the angel of the Lord brings destruction to the land. Think it over and let me know what answer to return to the one who sent me."

<sup>13</sup> "This is a terrible decision to make," David replied, "but let me fall into the hands of the Lord rather than into the power of men, for God's mercies are very great."

<sup>14</sup> So the Lord sent a plague upon Israel and 70,000 men died as a result. <sup>15</sup> During the plague God sent an angel to destroy Jerusalem; but then he felt such compassion that he changed his mind and commanded the destroying angel, "Stop! It is enough!" (The angel of the Lord was standing at the time by the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite.) <sup>16</sup> When David saw the angel of the Lord standing between heaven and earth with his sword drawn, pointing toward Jerusalem, he and the elders of Israel clothed themselves in sackcloth and fell to the ground before the Lord.

<sup>17</sup> And David said to God, "I am the one who sinned by ordering the census. But what have these sheep done? O Lord my God, destroy me and my family, but do not destroy your people."

<sup>18</sup> Then the angel of the Lord told Gad to instruct David to build an altar to the Lord at the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite. <sup>19,20</sup> So David went to see Ornan, who was threshing wheat at the time. Ornan saw the angel as he turned, and his four sons ran and hid. <sup>21</sup> Then Ornan saw the king approaching. So he left the threshing-floor and bowed to the ground before King David.

<sup>22</sup> David said to Ornan, "Let me buy this threshing-floor from you at its full price; then I will build an altar to the Lord and the plague will stop."

<sup>23</sup> "Take it, my lord, and use it as you wish," Ornan said to David. "Take the oxen, too, for burnt offerings; use the threshing instruments for wood for the fire and use the wheat for the grain offering. I give it all to you."

<sup>24</sup> "No," the king replied, "I will buy it for the full price; I cannot take what is yours and give it to the Lord. I will not offer a burnt offering that has cost me nothing!"

floor is the place where I'll build the Temple of the Lord and construct the altar for Israel's burnt offering!"

<sup>2</sup> David now drafted all the resident aliens in Israel to prepare blocks of squared stone for the Temple. <sup>3</sup> They also manufactured iron into the great quantity of nails needed for the doors in the gates and for the clamps; and they smelted so much bronze that it was too much to weigh.

<sup>5</sup> "Solomon my son is young and tender," David said, "and the Temple of the Lord must be a marvelous structure, famous and glorious throughout the world; so I will begin the preparations for it now."

So David collected the construction materials before his death. <sup>6</sup> He now commanded his son Solomon to build a temple for the Lord God of Israel.

<sup>7</sup> "I wanted to build it myself," David told him, <sup>8</sup> "but the Lord said not to do it. 'You have killed too many men in great wars,' he told me. 'You have reddened the ground before me with blood: so you are not to build my Temple. <sup>9</sup> But I will give you a son,' he told me, 'who will be a man of peace, for I will give him peace with his enemies in the surrounding lands. His name shall be Solomon (meaning "Peaceful"), and I will give peace and quietness to Israel during his reign. <sup>10</sup> He shall build my temple, and he shall be as my own son and I will be his father; and I will cause his sons and his descendants to reign over every generation of Israel."

<sup>11</sup> "So now, my son, may the Lord be with you and prosper you as you do what he told you to do and build the Temple of the Lord.

<sup>12</sup> And may the Lord give you the good judgment to follow all his laws when he makes you king of Israel.

<sup>13</sup> "For if you carefully obey the rules and regulations which he gave to Israel through Moses, you will prosper. Be strong and courageous, fearless and enthusiastic!

<sup>14</sup> "By hard work I have collected $3,000,000,000 worth of gold bullion, $2,000,000 worth of silver,<sup>a</sup> and so much iron and bronze that I haven't even weighed it; I have also gathered timber and stone for the walls. This is at least a beginning, something with which to start. <sup>15</sup> And you have many skilled stonemasons and carpenters and craftsmen of every kind. <sup>16</sup> They are expert gold and silver smiths and bronze and iron workers. So get to work, and may the Lord be with you!"

<sup>18</sup> "The Lord your God is with you," he declared. "He has given you peace with the surrounding nations, for I have conquered them in the name of the Lord and for his people. <sup>19</sup> Now try with every fiber of your being to obey the Lord your God, and you will soon be bringing the Ark and the other holy articles of worship into the Temple of the Lord!"

23 BY THIS TIME David was an old, old man, so he stepped down from the throne and appointed his son Solomon as the new king of Israel. <sup>2</sup> He summoned all the political and religious leaders of Israel for the coronation ceremony. <sup>3</sup> At this time a census was taken of the men of the tribe of Levi who were thirty years or older. The total came to 38,000.

<sup>4,5</sup> "Twenty-four thousand of them will supervise the work at the Temple," David instructed, "six thousand are to be bailiffs and judges, four thousand will be temple guards, and four thousand will praise the Lord with the musical instruments I have made."

<sup>6</sup> Then David divided them into three main divisions named after the sons of Levi—the Gershon division, the Kohath division and the Merari division.

<sup>7</sup> Subdivisions of the Gershon corps were named after his sons Ladan and Shime-i. <sup>8,9</sup> These subdivisions were still further divided into six groups named after the sons of Ladan: Jehiel the leader, Zetham, Joel; and the sons of Shime-i<sup>a</sup>—Shelomoth, Haziel, and Haran.

<sup>10,11</sup> The subclans of Shime-i were named after his four sons: Jahath was greatest, Zizah<sup>b</sup> was next, and Jeush and Beriah were combined into a single subclan because neither had many sons.

Aaron and Moses.<sup>c</sup> Aaron and his sons were set apart for the holy service of sacrificing the people's offerings to the Lord. He served the Lord constantly and pronounced blessings in his name at all times.

<sup>14,15</sup> As for Moses, the man of God, his sons Gershom and Eliezer were included with the tribe of Levi. <sup>16</sup> Gershom's sons were led by Shebuel, <sup>17</sup> and Eliezer's only son, Rehabiah, was the leader of his clan, for he had many children.

<sup>19</sup> The sons of Hebron were led by Jeriah. Amariah was second in command, Jahaziel was third, and Jekameam was fourth.

<sup>20</sup> The sons of Uzziel were led by Micah, and Isshiah was the second in command.

<sup>21</sup> The sons of Merari were Mahli and Mushi. The sons of Mahli were Eleazar and Kish.

<sup>24</sup> In the census, all the men of Levi who were twenty years old or older were classified under the names of these clans and subclans; and they were all assigned to the ministry at the Temple. <sup>25</sup> For David said, "The Lord God of Israel has given us peace, and he will always live in Jerusalem. <sup>26</sup> Now the Levites will no longer need to carry the Tabernacle and its instruments from place to place."

Levi was one of the last things David did before his death.) <sup>24</sup> The work of the Levites was to assist the priests—the descendants of Aaron—in the sacrifices at the Temple; they also did the custodial work and helped perform the ceremonies of purification. <sup>25</sup> They provided the Bread of the Presence, the flour for the grain offerings, and the wafers made without yeast (either fried or mixed with olive oil); they also checked all the weights and measures. <sup>26</sup> Each morning and evening they stood before the Lord to sing thanks and praise to him. <sup>27</sup> They assisted in the special sacrifices of burnt offerings, the Sabbath sacrifices, the new moon celebrations, and at all the festivals. There were always as many Levites present as were required for the occasion. <sup>28</sup> And they took care of the Tabernacle and the Temple and assisted the priests in whatever way they were needed.

24 THE PRIESTS (THE descendants of Aaron) were placed into two divisions named after Aaron's sons, Eleazar and Ithamar.

Nadab and Abihu were also sons of Aaron, but they died before their father did and had no children; so only Eleazar and Ithamar were left to carry on. <sup>3</sup> David consulted with Zadok, who represented the Eleazar clan, and with Ahimelech, who represented the Ithamar clan; then he divided Aaron's descendants into many groups to serve at various times. <sup>4</sup> Eleazar's descendants were divided into sixteen groups and Ithamar's into eight (for there was more leadership ability among the descendants of Eleazar).

<sup>5</sup> All tasks were assigned to the various groups by coin-toss<sup>a</sup> so that there would be no preference, for there were many famous men and high officials of the Temple in each division. <sup>6</sup> Shemaiah, a Levite and the son of Nethanel, acted as recording secretary and wrote down the names and assignments in the presence of the king and of these leaders: Zadok the priest, Ahimelech the son of Abiathar, and the heads of the priests and Levites. Two groups from the division of Eleazar and one from the division of Ithamar were assigned to each task.

<sup>7-11</sup> The work was assigned (by coin-toss) in this order:

First, the group led by Jehoiarib;

Second, the group led by Jedaiiah;

Third, the group led by Harim;

Fourth, the group led by Seorim;

Fifth, the group led by Malchijah;

Sixth, the group led by Mijamin;

Seventh, the group led by Hakkoz;

Eighth, the group led by Ahijah;

Ninth, the group led by Jeshua;

Tenth, the group led by Shecaniah;

Eleventh, the group led by Eliashib;

Twelfth, the group led by <sup>a</sup> Literally, "by lot."

- Jakim;
- Thirteenth, the group led by Huppah;
- Fourteenth, the group led by Jeshebe-ab;
- Fifteenth, the group led by Bilgah;
- Sixteenth, the group led by Immer;
- Seventeenth, the group led by Hezir;
- Eighteenth, the group led by Happizzaz;
- Nineteenth, the group led by Pethahiah;
- Twentieth, the group led by Jehezkel;
- Twenty-first, the group led by Jachin;
- Twenty-second, the group led by Gamul;
- Twenty-third, the group led by Delaiah;
- Twenty-fourth, the group led by Maaziah.

- Jeriah, Hebron's oldest son;
- Amariah, his second son;
- Jahaziel, his third son;
- Jekameam, his fourth son.

<sup>24,25</sup> The Uzziel group was led by his son Micah and his grandsons Shamir and Isshiah, and by Isshiah's son Zechariah.

<sup>26,27</sup> The Merari group was led by his sons: Mahli and Mushi. (Jaaziah's group, led by his son Beno, included his brothers Shoham, Zaccur, and Ibri.) <sup>28</sup> Mahli's descendants were Eleazar, who had no sons, <sup>29</sup> and Kish, among whose sons was Jerahmeel. <sup>30</sup> The sons of Mushi were Mahli, Eder, and Jerimoth.

These were the descendants of Levi in their various clans. <sup>31</sup> Like the descendants of Aaron, they were assigned to their duties by coin-toss without distinction as to age or rank. It was done in the presence of King David, Zadok, Ahimelech, and the leaders of the priests and the Levites.

25 DAVID AND THE officials of the Tabernacle then appointed men to prophesy to the accompaniment of zithers, harps, and cymbals. These men were from the groups of Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun. Here is a list of their names and their work:

<sup>4,5</sup> Under the direction of Heman, the king's private chaplain, were his sons: Bukkiah, Mattaniah, Uzziel, Shebuel, Jerimoth, Haniah, Hanani, Eliathah, Gedalti, Romamti-ezer, Joshbekashah, Mallothi, Hothir, and Mahazi-oth. (For God had honored him with fourteen sons and three daughters.)

zithers; all were under the direction of their father as they performed this ministry in the Tabernacle.

Asaph, Jeduthun, and Heman reported directly to the king. They and their families were all trained in singing praises to the Lord; each one—288 of them in all—was a master musician.

<sup>1</sup> The singers were appointed to their particular term of service by coin-toss, without regard to age or reputation.

- <sup>2-11</sup> The first toss indicated Joseph of the Asaph clan;
- The second, Gedaliah, along with twelve of his sons and brothers;
- The third, Zaccur and twelve of his sons and brothers;
- The fourth, Izri and twelve of his sons and brothers;
- Fifth, Nathaniah and twelve of his sons and brothers;
- Sixth, Bukkiah and twelve of his sons and brothers;
- Seventh, Jesharelah and twelve of his sons and brothers;
- Eighth, Jeshaiiah and twelve of his sons and brothers;
- Ninth, Mattaniah and twelve of his sons and brothers;
- Tenth, Shime-i and twelve of his sons and brothers;
- Eleventh, Azarel and twelve of his sons and brothers;
- Twelfth, Hashabiah and twelve of his sons and brothers;
- Thirteenth, Shuba-el and twelve of his sons and brothers;
- Fourteenth, Mattithiah and twelve of his sons and brothers;

- Fifteenth, Jeremoth and twelve of his sons and brothers;
- Sixteenth, Hananiah and twelve of his sons and brothers;
- Seventeenth, Joshbekasha and twelve of his sons and brothers;
- Eighteenth, Hanani and twelve of his sons and brothers;
- Nineteenth, Mallothi and twelve of his sons and brothers;
- Twentieth, Eliathah and twelve of his sons and brothers;
- Twenty-first, Hothir and twelve of his sons and brothers;
- Twenty-second, Giddalti and twelve of his sons and brothers;
- Twenty-third, Mahazi-oth and twelve of his sons and brothers;
- Twenty-fourth, Romamtizer and twelve of his sons and brothers.

26 THE TEMPLE GUARDS were from the Asaph division of the Korah clan. The captain of the guard was Meshelemiah, the son of Kore.

- <sup>2,1</sup> His sergeants were his sons: Zechariah (the oldest), Jedia-el (the second), Zebadiah (the third), Jathni-el (the fourth), Elam (the fifth), Jeho-hanan (the sixth), Elie-ho-enai (the seventh).

<sup>4,5</sup> The sons of Obed-edom were also appointed as Temple guards:

Shemaiah (the oldest),
 Jehozabad (the second),
 Joah (the third),
 Sacar (the fourth),
 Nathanel (the fifth),
 Ammi-el (the sixth),
 Issachar (the seventh),
 Pe-ulleshai (the eighth).

What a blessing God gave him with all those sons!

<sup>6,7</sup> Shemaiah's sons were all outstanding men, and had positions of great authority in their clan. Their names were:

Othni, Repha-el,
 Obed, Elzabad.

Their brave brothers, Elihu and Semachiah, were also very able men.

<sup>8</sup> All of these sons and grandsons of Obed-edom—all sixty-two of them—were outstanding men who were particularly well qualified for their work. <sup>9</sup> Meshelemiah's eighteen sons and brothers, too, were real leaders.

<sup>10</sup> Hosah, one of the Merari group, appointed Shimri as the leader among his sons, though he was not the oldest. <sup>11</sup> The names of some of his other sons were:

Hilkiah, the second;
 Tebaliah, the third;
 Zechariah, the fourth.

Hosah's sons and brothers numbered thirteen in all.

<sup>12</sup> The divisions of the Temple guards were named after the leaders. Like the other Levites, they were responsible to minister at the Temple. <sup>13</sup> They were assigned guard duty at the various gates without regard to the reputation of their families, for it was all done by coin-toss. <sup>14,15</sup> The responsibility of the east gate went to Shelemiah and his group; of the north gate to his son Zechariah, a man of unusual wisdom; of the south gate to Obed-edom and his group (his sons were given charge of the storehouses); <sup>16</sup> of the west gate and the Shallecheth Gate on the upper road, to Shuppim and Hosah. <sup>17</sup> Six guards were assigned daily to the east gate, four to the north gate, four to the south gate, and two to each of the storehouses.

<sup>18</sup> Six guards were assigned each day to the west gate, four to the upper road, and two to the nearby areas. <sup>19</sup> The Temple guards were chosen from the clans of Korah and Merari.

<sup>20,21,22</sup> Other Levites, led by Ahijah, were given the care of the gifts brought to the Lord and placed in the Temple treasury. These men of the Ladan subclan from the clan of Gershon included Zetham and Joel, the sons of Jehieli. <sup>23,24</sup> Shebuel, son of Gershon and grandson of Moses, was the chief officer of the treasury. He was in charge of the divisions named after Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel.

<sup>25</sup> The line of descendants from Eliezer went through Rehabiah, Jeshaiyah, Joram, Zichri, and Shelomoth. <sup>26</sup> Shelomoth and his brothers were appointed to care for the gifts given to the Lord by King David and the other leaders of the nation such as the officers and generals of the army. <sup>27</sup> For these men dedicated their war loot to support the operating expenses of the Temple.

<sup>28</sup> Shelomoth and his brothers were also responsible for the care of the items dedicated to the Lord by Samuel the prophet, Saul the son of Kish, Abner the son of Ner, Joab the son of Zeruiah, and anyone else of distinction<sup>a</sup> who brought gifts to the Lord.

<sup>29</sup> Chenaniah and his sons (from the subclan of Izhar) were appointed public administrators and judges. <sup>30</sup> Hashabiah and 1,700 of his clansmen from Hebron, all outstanding men, were placed in charge of the territory of Israel west of the Jordan River; they were responsible for the religious affairs and public administration of that area.

<sup>31,32</sup> Twenty-seven hundred outstanding men of the clan of the Hebronites, under the supervision of Jerijah, were appointed to control the religious and public affairs of the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh. These men, all of whom had excellent qualifications, were appointed on the basis of their ancestry and ability at Jazer in Gilead in the fortieth year of King David's reign.

27 THE ISRAELI ARMY was divided into twelve regiments, each with 24,000 troops, including officers and administrative staff. These units were called up for active duty one month each year. Here is the list of the units and their regimental commanders:

<sup>2</sup> The commander of the Second Division was Dodai (a descendant of Ahohi). He had charge of 24,000 troops who were on duty the second month of each year. Mikloth was his executive officer.

<sup>3</sup> The commander of the Third Division was Benaiah. His 24,000 men were on duty the third month of each year. (He was the son of Jehoiada the High Priest, and was the chief of the thirty highest-ranking officers in David's army.) His son Ammizabad succeeded him as division commander.

<sup>4</sup> The commander of the Fourth Division was Asahel (the brother of Joab), who was later replaced by his son Zebadiah. He had 24,000 men on duty the fourth month of each year.

<sup>5</sup> The commander of the Fifth Division was Shamuth from Izrah, with 24,000 men on duty the fifth month of each year.

<sup>7</sup> The commander of the Seventh Division was Helez from Pelona in Ephraim, with 24,000 men on duty the seventh month of each year.

tophah in Zerah, with 24,000 men on duty the tenth month of each year.

<sup>16-22</sup> The top political officers of the tribes of Israel were as follows:

Over Reuben, Eliezer (son of Zichri);

Over Simeon, Shephatiah (son of Maacah);

Over Levi, Hashabiah (son of Kemuel);

Over the descendants of Aaron, Zadok;

Over Judah, Elihu (a brother of King David);

Over Issachar, Omri (son of Michael);

Over Zebulun, Ishmaiah (son of Obadiah);

Over Naphtali, Jeremoth (son of Azriel);

Over Ephraim, Hoshea (son of Azaziah);

Over the half-tribe of Manasseh, Joel (son of Pedai-ah);

Over the other half of Manasseh, in Gilead, Iddo (son of Zechariah);

Over Benjamin, Ja-asiel (son of Abner);

Over Dan, Azarel (son of Jeroham).

<sup>23</sup> When David took his census he didn't include the twenty-year-olds, or those younger, for the Lord had promised a population explosion for his people.<sup>a</sup> <sup>24</sup> Joab began the census, but he never finished it, for the anger of God broke out upon Israel; the final total was never put into the annals of King David.

<sup>25</sup> Azmaveth (son of Adi-el) was the chief financial officer in charge of the palace treasuries, and Jonathan (son of Uzziah) was chief of the regional treasuries throughout the cities, villages, and fortresses of Israel.

<sup>26</sup> Ezri (son of Chelub) was manager of the laborers on the king's estates. <sup>27</sup> And Shime-i from Ramath had the oversight of the king's vineyards; and Zabdi from Shiphma was responsible for his wine production and storage.

<sup>29</sup> Shitrai from Sharon was in charge of the cattle on the Plains of Sharon, and Shaphat (son of Adlai) had charge of those in the valleys.

<sup>14</sup> Ahithophel was assisted by Jehoiada (the son of Benaiah) and by Abiathar. Joab was commander-in-chief of the Israeli army.

28 DAVID NOW SUMMONED all of his officials to Jerusalem—the political leaders, the commanders of the twelve army divisions, the other army officers, those in charge of his property and livestock and all the other men of authority in his kingdom. <sup>2</sup> He rose and stood before them and addressed them as follows:

"My brothers and my people! It was my desire to build a temple in which the Ark of the Covenant of the Lord could rest—a place for our God to live in.<sup>a</sup>

"I have now collected everything that is necessary for the building,<sup>1</sup> but God has told me, 'You are not to build my temple, for you are a warrior and have shed much blood.'

<sup>4</sup> "Nevertheless, the Lord God of Israel has chosen me from among all my father's family to begin a dynasty that will rule Israel forever; he has chosen the tribe of Judah, and from among the families of Judah, my father's family; and from among his sons, the Lord took pleasure in me and has made me king over all Israel. <sup>5</sup> And from among my sons—the Lord has given me many children—he has chosen Solomon to succeed me on the throne of his Kingdom of Israel.

<sup>6</sup> He has told me, 'Your son Solomon shall build my temple; for I have chosen him as my son and I will be his father.' <sup>7</sup> And if he continues to obey my commandments and instructions as he has until now, I will make his kingdom last forever.'"

"Here before the leaders of Israel, the people of God, and in the sight of our God, I am instructing you to search out every commandment of the Lord so that you may continue to rule this good land and leave it to your children to rule forever.

<sup>9</sup> "Solomon, my son, get to know the God of your fathers. Worship and serve him with a clean heart and a willing mind, for the Lord sees every heart and understands and knows every thought. If you seek him, you will find him; but if you forsake him, he will permanently throw you aside.

<sup>10</sup> "So be very careful, for the Lord has chosen you to build his holy temple. Be strong and do as he commands."

<sup>11</sup> Then David gave Solomon the blueprint of the Temple and its surroundings—the treasuries, the upstairs rooms, the inside rooms, and the sanctuary for the place of mercy. <sup>12</sup> He also gave Solomon his plans for the outer court, the outside rooms, the Temple storage areas, and the treasuries for the gifts dedicated by famous persons. For the Holy Spirit had given David all these plans.<sup>c</sup> <sup>11</sup> The king also passed on to Solomon the instructions concerning the work of the various groups of priests and Levites; and he gave specifications for each item in the Temple which was to be used for worship and sacrifice.

<sup>14</sup> David weighed out enough gold and silver to make these various items, <sup>15</sup> as well as the specific amount of gold needed for the lampstands and lamps. He also weighed out enough silver for the silver candlesticks and lamps, each according to its use. <sup>16</sup> He weighed out the gold for the table on which the Bread of the Presence would be placed and for the other gold tables, and he weighed the silver for the silver tables. <sup>17</sup> Then he weighed out the gold for the solid gold hooks used in handling the sacrificial meat and for the basins, cups, and bowls of gold and silver. <sup>18</sup> Finally, he weighed out the refined gold for the altar of incense and for the gold angels whose wings were stretched over the Ark of the Covenant of the Lord.

<sup>19</sup> "Every part of this blueprint," David told Solomon, "was given to me in writing from the hand of the Lord." <sup>20</sup> Then he continued, "Be strong and courageous and get to work. Don't be frightened by the size of the task, for the Lord my God is with you; he will not forsake you. He will see to it that everything is finished correctly. <sup>21</sup> And these various groups of priests and Levites will serve in the Temple. Others with skills of every kind will volunteer, and the army and the entire nation are at your command."

29 THEN KING DAVID turned to the entire assembly and said: "My son Solomon, whom God has chosen to be the next king of Israel, is still young and inexperienced, and the work ahead of him is enormous; for the temple he will build is not just another building—it is for the Lord God himself! <sup>2</sup> Using every resource at my command, I have gathered as much as I could for building it—enough gold, silver, bronze, iron, wood, and great quantities of onyx, other precious stones, costly jewels, and marble. <sup>3</sup> And now, because of my devotion to the Temple of God, I am giving all of my own private treasures to aid in the construction. This is in addition to the building materials I have already collected.

<sup>4,5</sup> "These personal contributions consist of $85,000,000 worth of gold from Ophir and $20,000,000 worth of purest silver to be used for overlaying the walls of the buildings. This will be used for the articles made of gold and silver and for the artistic decorations. Now then, who will follow my example? Who will give himself and all that he has to the Lord?"

<sup>6,7</sup> Then the clan leaders, the heads of the tribes, the army officers, and the administrative officers of the king pledged $145,000,000 in gold; $50,000 in foreign currency; $30,000,000 in silver; 800 tons of bronze; and 4,600 tons of iron. <sup>8</sup> They also contributed great amounts of jewelry, which were deposited at the Temple treasury with Jehiel (a descendant of Gershon).<sup>9</sup> Everyone was excited and happy for this opportunity of service, and King David was moved with deep joy.

<sup>10</sup> While still in the presence of the whole assembly, David expressed his praises to the Lord: "O Lord God of our father Israel, praise your name for ever and ever!

<sup>11</sup> Yours is the mighty power and glory and victory and majesty. Everything in the heavens and earth is yours, O Lord, and this is your kingdom. We adore you as being in control of everything. <sup>12</sup> Riches and honor come from you alone, and you are the Ruler of all mankind; your hand controls power and might, and it is at your discretion that men are made great and given strength. <sup>13</sup> O our God, we thank you and praise your glorious name, <sup>14</sup> but who am I and who are my people that we should be permitted to give anything to you? Everything we have has come from you, and we only give you what is yours already!

<sup>15</sup> For we are here for but a moment, strangers in the land as our fathers were before us; our days on earth are like a shadow, gone so soon, without a trace. <sup>16</sup> O Lord our God, all of this material that we have gathered to build a temple for your holy name comes from you! It all belongs to you! <sup>17</sup> I know, my God, that you test men to see if they are good; for you enjoy good men. I have done all this with good motives, and I have watched your people offer their gifts willingly and joyously.

<sup>18</sup> "O Lord God of our fathers: Abraham, Isaac, and Israel! Make your people always want to obey you, and see to it that their love for you never changes. <sup>19</sup> Give my son Solomon a good heart toward God, so that he will want to obey you in the smallest detail, and will look forward eagerly to finishing the building of your temple, for which I have made all of these preparations."

<sup>20</sup> Then David said to all the people, "Give praise to the Lord your God!" And they did, bowing low before the Lord and the king.

<sup>21</sup> The next day they brought a thousand young bulls, a thousand rams, and a thousand lambs as burnt offerings to the Lord; they also offered drink offerings and many other sacrifices on behalf of all Israel. <sup>22</sup> Then they feasted and drank before the Lord with great joy.

And again<sup>a</sup> they crowned King David's son Solomon as their king. They anointed him before the Lord as their leader, and they anointed Zadok as their priest. <sup>23</sup> So God appointed Solomon to take the throne of his father David; and he prospered greatly, and all Israel obeyed him. <sup>24</sup> The national leaders, the army officers, and his brothers all pledged their allegiance to King Solomon. <sup>25</sup> And the Lord gave him great popularity with all the people of Israel, and he amassed even greater wealth and honor than his father.

<sup>26,27</sup> David was king of the land of Israel for forty years; seven of them during his reign in Hebron and thirty-three in Jerusalem. <sup>28</sup> He died at an old age, wealthy and honored; and his son Solomon reigned in his place.

<sup>29</sup> Detailed biographies of King David have been written in the history of Samuel the prophet, the history written by Nathan the prophet, and in the history written by the prophet Gad. <sup>30</sup> These accounts tell of his reign and of his might and all that happened to him and to Israel and to the kings of the nearby nations.

2 CHRONICLES

1 KING DAVID'S SON Solomon was now the undisputed ruler of Israel, for the Lord his God had made him a powerful monarch. <sup>2,3</sup> He summoned all the army officers and judges to Gibeon<sup>a</sup> as well as all the political and religious leaders of Israel. He led them up to the hill to the old<sup>b</sup> Tabernacle constructed by Moses, the Lord's assistant, while he was in the wilderness. <sup>4</sup> (There was a later Tabernacle in Jerusalem, built by King David for the Ark of God when he removed it from Kiriath-jearim.) <sup>5,6</sup> The bronze altar made by Bezalel (son of Uri, son of Hur) still stood in front of the old Tabernacle, and now Solomon and those he had invited assembled themselves before it, as he sacrificed upon it 1,000 burnt offerings to the Lord.

<sup>7</sup> That night God appeared to Solomon and told him, "Ask me for anything, and I will give it to you!"

<sup>8</sup> Solomon replied, "O God, you have been so kind and good to my father David, and now you have given me the kingdom—<sup>9</sup> this is all

I want! For you have fulfilled your promise to David my father and have made me king over a nation as full of people as the earth is full of dust! <sup>10</sup> Now give me wisdom and knowledge to rule them properly, for who is able to govern by himself such a great nation as this one of yours?"

<sup>11</sup> God replied, "Because your greatest desire is to help your people, and you haven't asked for personal wealth and honor, and you haven't asked me to curse your enemies, and you haven't asked for a long life, but for wisdom and knowledge to properly guide my people—<sup>12</sup> yes, I am giving you the wisdom and knowledge you asked for! And I am also giving you such riches, wealth, and honor as no other king has ever had before you! And there will never again be so great a king in all the world!"

the chariots were garaged, though some, of course, were stationed at Jerusalem near the king. <sup>13</sup> During Solomon's reign, silver and gold were as plentiful in Jerusalem as rocks on the road! And expensive cedar lumber was used like common sycamore! <sup>14</sup> Solomon sent horse-traders to Egypt to purchase entire herds at wholesale prices. <sup>15</sup> At that time Egyptian chariots sold for $400 each and horses for $100, delivered at Jerusalem. Many of these were then resold to the kings of the Hittites and Syria.

2 SOLOMON NOW DECIDED that the time had come to build a temple for the Lord and a palace for himself. <sup>2</sup> This required a force of 70,000 laborers, 80,000 stonecutters in the hills, and 3,600 foremen. <sup>3</sup> Solomon sent an ambassador to King Hiram at Tyre, requesting shipments of cedar lumber such as Hiram had supplied to David when he was building his palace.

<sup>4</sup> "I am about to build a temple for the Lord my God," Solomon told Hiram. "It will be a place where I can burn incense and sweet spices before God, and display the special sacrificial bread,<sup>a</sup> and sacrifice burnt offerings each morning and evening, and on the Sabbaths, and at the new moon celebration and other regular festivals of the Lord our God. For God wants Israel always to celebrate these special occasions. <sup>5</sup> It is going to be a wonderful temple because he is a great God, greater than any other. <sup>6</sup> But who can ever build him a worthy home? Not even the highest heaven would be beautiful enough! And who am I to be allowed to build a temple for God? But it will be a place to worship<sup>b</sup> him.

<sup>7</sup> "So send me skilled craftsmen—goldsmiths and silversmiths, brass and iron workers; and send me weavers to make purple, crimson, and blue cloth; and skilled engravers to work beside the craftsmen of Judah and Jerusalem who were selected by my father David. <sup>8</sup> Also send me cedar trees, fir trees, and algum trees from the Forests of Lebanon, for your men are without equal as lumbermen, and I will send my men to help them. <sup>9</sup> An immense amount of lumber will be needed, for the temple I am going to build will be huge and incredibly beautiful. <sup>10</sup> As to the financial arrangements, I will pay your men 20,000 sacks of crushed wheat, 20,000 barrels of barley, 20,000 barrels of wine, and 20,000 barrels of olive oil."

<sup>11</sup> King Hiram replied to King Solomon: "It is because the Lord loves his people that he has made you their king! <sup>12</sup> Blessed be the Lord God of Israel who made the heavens and the earth and who has given to David such a wise, intelligent, and understanding son to build God's Temple, and a royal palace for himself.

<sup>13</sup> "I am sending you a master craftsman—my famous Huramabi! He is a brilliant man, <sup>14</sup> the son of a Jewish woman from Dan in Israel; his father is from here in Tyre. He is a skillful goldsmith and silversmith, and also does exquisite work with brass and iron, and knows all about stonework, carpentry, and weaving; and he is an expert in the dying of purple and blue linen and crimson cloth. He is an engraver besides, and an inventor! He will work with your craftsmen and those appointed by my lord David, your father. <sup>15</sup> So send along the wheat, barley, olive oil, and wine you mentioned, <sup>16</sup> and we will begin cutting wood from the Lebanon mountains, as much as you need, and bring it to you in log floats across the sea to Joppa, and from there you can take them inland to Jerusalem."

<sup>17</sup> Solomon now took a census of all foreigners in the country (just as his father David had done) and found that there were 153,600 of them. <sup>18</sup> He indentured 70,000 as common laborers, 80,000 as loggers and 3,600 as foremen.

3 FINALLY THE ACTUAL construction of the Temple began. Its location was in Jerusalem at the top of Mount Moriah, where the Lord had appeared to Solomon's father, King David, and where the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite had been. David had selected it as the site for the Temple. <sup>2</sup> The actual construction began on the seventeenth day of April in the fourth year of King Solomon's reign.

<sup>3</sup> The foundation was ninety feet long and thirty feet wide. <sup>4</sup> A covered porch ran along the entire thirty-foot width of the house, with the inner walls and ceiling overlaid with pure gold! The roof was 180 feet high.

<sup>5</sup> The main part of the Temple was paneled with cypress wood, plated with pure gold, and engraved with palm trees and chains. <sup>6</sup> Beautiful jewels were inlaid into the walls to add to the beauty; the gold, by the way, was of the best, from Parvaim. <sup>7</sup> All the walls, beams, doors, and thresholds throughout the Temple were plated with gold, with angels engraved on the walls.

<sup>8</sup> Within the Temple, at one end, was the most sacred room—the Holy of Holies—thirty feet square. This too was overlaid with the finest gold, valued at $18,000,000. <sup>9</sup> Twenty-six-ounce gold nails were used. The upper rooms were also plated with gold. <sup>10</sup> Within the innermost room, the Holy of Holies, Solomon placed two sculptured statues of angels, and plated them with gold. <sup>11,12,13</sup> They stood on the floor facing the outer room, with wings stretched wingtip to wingtip across the room, from wall to wall. <sup>14</sup> Across the entrance to this room he placed a veil of blue and crimson fine-spun linen, decorated with angels.

4 HE ALSO MADE a bronze altar thirty feet long, thirty feet wide, and fifteen feet high. <sup>2</sup> Then he forged a huge round tank fifteen feet across from rim to rim. The rim stood 7½ feet above the floor, and was forty-five feet around. <sup>3</sup> This tank was set on the backs of two rows of metal oxen. The tank and oxen were cast as one piece. <sup>4</sup> There were twelve of these oxen standing tail to tail, three facing north, three west, three south, and three east. <sup>5</sup> The walls of the tank were five inches thick, flaring out like the cup of a lily. It held 3,000 barrels of water.

So at last he completed the work assigned to him by King Solomon:

<sup>12-16</sup> The construction of the two pillars,
The two flared capitals on the tops of the pillars,
The two sets of chains on the capitals,
The 400 pomegranates hanging from the two sets of chains on the capitals,
The bases for the vats, and the vats themselves,
The huge tank and the twelve oxen under it,
The pots, shovels, and flesh-hooks.

This skillful craftsman, Huramabi, made all of the above-mentioned items for King Solomon, using polished bronze. <sup>17,18</sup> The king did the casting at the claybanks of the Jordan valley between Succoth and Zeredah. Great quantities of bronze were used, too heavy to weigh.

<sup>19</sup> But in the Temple only gold was used. For Solomon commanded that all of the utensils, the altar, and the table for the Bread of the Presence must be made of gold; <sup>20</sup> also the lamps and lampstands, <sup>21</sup> the floral decorations, tongs, <sup>22</sup> lamp snuffers, basins, spoons, and firepans—all were made of pure gold. Even the doorway of the Temple, the main door, and the inner doors to the Holy of Holies were of gold.

5 SO THE TEMPLE was finally finished. Then Solomon brought in the gifts dedicated to the Lord by his father, King David. They were stored in the Temple treasuries.

<sup>2</sup> Solomon now summoned to Jerusalem all of the leaders of Israel—the heads of the tribes and clans—for the ceremony of transferring the Ark from the [Tabernacle in the<sup>a</sup>] City of David, also known as Zion, [to its new home in the Temple<sup>a</sup>]. <sup>3</sup>This celebration took place in October at the annual Festival of Tabernacles. <sup>4,5</sup>As the leaders of Israel watched, the Levites lifted the Ark and carried it out of the Tabernacle, along with all the other sacred vessels. <sup>6</sup>King Solomon and the others sacrificed sheep and oxen before the Ark in such numbers that no one tried to keep count!

<sup>7,8</sup>Then the priests carried the Ark into the inner room of the Temple—the Holy of Holies—and placed it beneath the angels' wings; their wings spread over the Ark and its carrying poles. <sup>9</sup>These carrying poles were so long that their ends could be seen from the outer room, but not from the outside doorway.

The Ark is still there at the time of this writing. <sup>10</sup>Nothing was in the Ark except the two stone tablets which Moses had put there at Mount Horeb, when the Lord made a covenant with the people of Israel as they were leaving Egypt.

<sup>11,12</sup>When the priests had undergone the purification rites for themselves, they all took part in the ceremonies without regard to their normal duties. And how the Levites were praising the Lord as the priests came out of the Holy of Holies! The singers were Asaph, Heman, Jeduthun and all their sons and brothers, dressed in finespun linen robes and standing at the east side of the altar. The choir was accompanied by 120 priests who were trumpeters, while others played the cymbals, lyres, and harps. <sup>13,14</sup>The band and chorus united as one to praise and thank the Lord; their selections were interspersed with trumpet obbligatos, the clashing of cymbals, and the loud playing of other musical instruments—all praising and thanking the Lord. Their theme was "He is so good! His lovingkindness lasts forever!" And at that moment the glory of the Lord, coming as a bright cloud, filled the Temple so that the priests could not continue their work.

6 THIS IS THE prayer prayed by Solomon on that occasion:

"The Lord has said that he would live in the thick darkness,

But I have made a Temple for you, O Lord, to live in forever!"

<sup>3</sup>Then the king turned around to the people and they stood to receive his blessing:

<sup>4</sup>"Blessed be the Lord God of Israel," he said to them, "—the God who talked personally to my father David and has now fulfilled the promise he made to him. For he told him, <sup>5,6</sup>'I have never before, since bringing my people from the land of Egypt, chosen a city anywhere in Israel as the location of my Temple where my name will be glorified; and never before have I chosen a king for my people Israel. But now I have chosen Jerusalem as that city, and David as that king.'

<sup>7</sup>"My father David wanted to build this Temple, <sup>8</sup>but the Lord said not to. It was good to have the desire, the Lord told him, <sup>9</sup> but he was not the one to build it: his son was chosen for that task. <sup>10</sup> And now the Lord has done what he promised, for I have become king in my father's place, and I have built the Temple for the Name of the Lord God of Israel, <sup>11</sup> and placed the Ark there. And in the Ark is the Covenant between the Lord and his people Israel."

<sup>12,13</sup> As he spoke, Solomon was standing before the people on a platform in the center of the outer court, in front of the altar of the Lord. The platform was made of bronze, 7½ feet square and 4½ feet high. Now, as all the people watched, he knelt down, reached out his arms toward heaven, and prayed this prayer:

<sup>14</sup> "O Lord God of Israel, there is no God like you in all of heaven and earth. You are the God who keeps his kind promises to all those who obey you, and who are anxious to do your will. <sup>15</sup> And you have kept your promise to my father David,<sup>a</sup> as is evident today. <sup>16</sup> And now, O God of Israel, carry out your further promise to him that 'your descendants shall always reign over Israel if they will obey my laws as you have.' <sup>17</sup> Yes, Lord God of Israel, please fulfill this promise too. <sup>18</sup> But will God really live upon the earth with men? Why, even the heaven and the heaven of heavens cannot contain you—how much less this Temple which I have built!

<sup>19</sup> "How I pray that you will heed my prayers, O Lord my God! Listen to my prayer that I am praying to you now! <sup>20,21</sup> Look down with favor day and night upon this Temple—upon this place where you have said that you would put your name. May you always hear and answer the prayers I will pray to you as I face toward this place. Listen to my prayers and to those of your people Israel when they pray toward this Temple; yes, hear us from heaven, and when you hear, forgive.

<sup>22</sup> "Whenever someone commits a crime, and is required to swear to his innocence before this altar, <sup>23</sup> then hear from heaven and punish him if he is lying, or else declare him innocent.

<sup>24</sup> "If your people Israel are destroyed before their enemies because they have sinned against you, and if they turn to you and call themselves your people, and pray to you here in this Temple, <sup>25</sup> then listen to them from heaven and forgive their sins and give them back this land you gave to their fathers.

<sup>26</sup> "When the skies are shut and there is no rain because of our sins, and then we pray toward this Temple and claim you as our God, and turn from our sins because you have punished us, <sup>27</sup> then listen from heaven and forgive the sins of your people, and teach them what is right; and send rain upon this land which you have given to your people as their own property.

<sup>28</sup> "If there is a famine in the land, or plagues, or crop disease, or attacks of locusts or caterpillars, or if your people's enemies are in the land besieging our cities—whatever the trouble is—<sup>29</sup> listen to every individual's prayer concerning his private sorrow, as well as all the public prayers. <sup>30</sup> Hear from heaven where you live, and forgive, and give each one whatever he deserves, for you know the hearts of all mankind. <sup>31</sup> Then they will reverence you forever, and will continually walk where you tell them to go.<sup>b</sup>

<sup>32</sup> "And when foreigners hear of your power, and come from distant lands to worship your great name, and to pray toward this Temple, <sup>33</sup> hear them from heaven where you live, and do what they request of you. Then all the peoples of the earth will hear of your fame and will reverence you, just as your people Israel do; and they too will know that this Temple I have built is truly yours.

<sup>34</sup> "If your people go out at your command to fight their enemies, and they pray toward this city of Jerusalem which you have chosen, and this Temple which I have built for your name, <sup>35</sup> then hear their prayers from heaven and give them success.

<sup>36</sup> "If they sin against you (and who has never sinned?) and you become angry with them, and you let their enemies defeat them and take them away as captives to some foreign nation near or far, <sup>37,38</sup> and if in that land of exile they turn to you again, and face toward this land you gave their fathers, and this city and your Temple I have built, and plead with you with all their hearts to forgive them, <sup>39</sup> then hear from heaven where you live and help them and forgive your people who have sinned against you.

<sup>40</sup> "Yes, O my God, be wide awake and attentive to all the prayers made to you in this place. <sup>41</sup> And now, O Lord God, arise and enter this resting place of yours where the Ark of your strength has been placed. Let your priests, O Lord God, be clothed with salvation, and let your saints rejoice in your kind deeds. <sup>42</sup> O Lord God, do not ignore me—do not turn your face away from me, your anointed one. Oh, remember your love for David and your kindness to him."

7 AS SOLOMON FINISHED praying, fire flashed down from heaven and burned up the sacrifices! And the glory of the Lord filled the Temple, so that the priests couldn't enter! <sup>3</sup> All the people had been watching and now they fell flat on the pavement, and worshiped and thanked the Lord.

"How good he is!" they exclaimed. "He is always so loving and kind."

<sup>43</sup> Then the king and all the people dedicated the Temple by sacrificing burnt offerings to the Lord. King Solomon's contribution for this purpose was 22,000 oxen and 120,000 sheep. <sup>6</sup> The priests were standing at their posts of duty, and the Levites were playing their thanksgiving song, "His Loving-kindness Is Forever," using the musical instruments that King David himself had made and had used to praise the Lord. Then, when the priests blew the trumpets, all the people stood again. <sup>7</sup> Solomon consecrated the inner court of the Temple for use that day as a place of sacrifice, for there were too many sacrifices for the bronze altar to accommodate.

<sup>8</sup> For the next seven days, they celebrated the Tabernacle Festival, with large crowds coming in from all over Israel; they arrived from as far away as Hamath at one end of the country to the brook of Egypt at the other. <sup>9</sup> A final religious service was held on the eighth day. <sup>10</sup> Then, on October 7, he sent the people home, joyful and happy because the Lord had been so good to David and Solomon and to his people Israel.

<sup>11</sup> So Solomon finished building the Temple as well as his own palace. He completed what he had planned to do.

<sup>12</sup> One night the Lord appeared to Solomon and told him, "I have heard your prayer and have chosen this Temple as the place where I want you to sacrifice to me. <sup>13</sup> If I shut up the heavens so that there is no rain, or if I command the locust swarms to eat up all of your crops, or if I send an epidemic among you, <sup>14</sup> then if my people will humble themselves and pray, and search for me, and turn from their wicked ways, I will hear them from heaven and forgive their sins and heal their land. <sup>15</sup> I will listen, wide awake, to every prayer made in this place. <sup>16</sup> For I have chosen this Temple and sanctified it to be my home forever; my eyes and my heart shall always be here.

<sup>17</sup> "As for yourself, if you follow me as your father David did, <sup>18</sup> then I will see to it that you and your descendants will always be the kings of Israel; <sup>19</sup> but if you don't follow me, if you refuse the laws I have given you, and worship idols, <sup>20</sup> then I will destroy my people from this land of mine which I have given them, and this Temple shall be destroyed even though I have sanctified it for myself. Instead, I will make it a public horror and disgrace. <sup>21</sup> Instead of its being famous, all who pass by will be incredulous.

"Why has the Lord done such a terrible thing to this land and to this Temple?" they will ask.

<sup>22</sup> "And the answer will be, 'Because his people abandoned the Lord God of their fathers, the God who brought them out of the land of Egypt, and they worshiped other gods instead. That is why he has done all this to them.'"

8 IT WAS NOW twenty years since Solomon had become king, and the great building projects of the Lord's Temple and his own royal palace were completed. <sup>2</sup> He now turned his energies to rebuilding the cities which King Hiram of Tyre had given to him, and he relocated some of the people of Israel into them. <sup>3</sup> It was at this time, too, that Solomon fought against the city of Hamath-zobah and conquered it. <sup>4</sup> He built Tadmor in the desert, and built cities in Hamath as supply centers. <sup>5</sup> He fortified the cities of upper Beth-horon and lower Beth-horon, both being supply centers, building their walls and installing barred gates. <sup>6</sup> He also built Baalath and other supply centers at this time, and constructed cities where his chariots and horses were kept. He built to his heart's desire in Jerusalem and Lebanon and throughout the entire realm.

<sup>7</sup> He began the practice that still continues of conscripting as slave laborers the Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites—the descendants of those nations which the Israelis had not completely wiped out. <sup>9</sup> However, he didn't make slaves of any of the Israeli citizens, but used them as soldiers, officers, charioteers, and cavalymen; <sup>10</sup> also, two hundred fifty of them were government officials who administered all public affairs.

<sup>11</sup> Solomon now moved his wife (she was Pharaoh's daughter) from the City of David sector of Jerusalem to the new palace he had built for her. For he said, "She must not live in King David's palace, for the Ark of the Lord was there and it is holy ground."

<sup>12</sup> Then Solomon sacrificed burnt offerings to the Lord on the altar he had built in front of the porch of the Temple. <sup>13</sup> The number of sacrifices differed from day to day in accordance with the instructions Moses had given; there were extra sacrifices on the Sabbaths, on new moon festivals, and at the three annual festivals—the Passover celebration, the Festival of Weeks, and the Festival of Tabernacles. <sup>14</sup> In assigning the priests to their posts of duty he followed the organizational chart prepared by his father David; he also assigned the Levites to their work of praise and of helping the priests in each day's duties; and he assigned the gatekeepers to their gates. <sup>15</sup> Solomon did not deviate in any way from David's instructions concerning these matters and concerning the treasury personnel. <sup>16</sup> Thus Solomon successfully completed the construction of the Temple.

<sup>17,18</sup> Then he went to the seaport towns of Ezion-geber and Eloth, in Edom, to launch a fleet presented to him by King Hiram. These ships, with King Hiram's experienced crews working alongside Solomon's men, went to Ophir and brought back $13,000,000 worth of gold to him!

9 WHEN THE QUEEN of Sheba heard of Solomon's fabled wisdom, she came to Jerusalem to test him with hard questions. A very great retinue of aides and servants accompanied her, including camelloads of spices, gold, and jewels. <sup>2</sup> And Solomon answered all her problems. Nothing was hidden from him; he could explain everything to her. <sup>3</sup> When she discovered how wise he really was, and how breathtaking the beauty of his palace, <sup>4</sup> and how wonderful the food at his tables, and how many servants and aides he had, and when she saw their spectacular uniforms and his stewards in full regalia, and saw the size of the men in his bodyguard, she could scarcely believe it!

<sup>5</sup> Finally she exclaimed to the king, "Everything I heard about you in my own country is true! <sup>6</sup> I didn't believe it until I got here and saw it with my own eyes. Your wisdom is far greater than I could ever have imagined. <sup>7</sup> What a privilege for these men of yours to stand here and listen to you talk! <sup>8</sup> Blessed be the Lord your God! How he must love Israel to give them a just king like you! He wants them to be a great, strong nation forever."

<sup>9</sup> She gave the king a gift of over a million dollars in gold, and great quantities of spices of incomparable quality, and many, many jewels.

<sup>10</sup> King Hiram's and King Solomon's crews brought gold from Ophir, also sandalwood and jewels.

<sup>11</sup> The king used the sandalwood to make terraced steps for the Temple and the palace, and to construct harps and lyres for the choir. Never before had there been such beautiful instruments in all the land of Judah.

<sup>12</sup> King Solomon gave the Queen of Sheba gifts of the same value as she had brought to him, plus everything else she asked for! Then she and her retinue returned to their own land.

<sup>13,14</sup> Solomon received a billion dollars worth of gold each year from the kings of Arabia and many other lands that paid annual tribute to him. In addition, there was a trade balance from the exports of his merchants. <sup>15</sup> He used some of the gold to make 200 large shields, each worth $280,000, <sup>16</sup> and 300 smaller shields, each worth $140,000. The king placed these in the Forest of Lebanon Room in his palace. <sup>17</sup> He also made a huge ivory throne overlaid with pure gold. <sup>18</sup> It had six gold steps and a footstool of gold; also gold armrests, each flanked by a gold lion. <sup>19</sup> Gold lions also stood at each side of each step. No other throne in all the world could be compared with it! <sup>20</sup> All of King Solomon's cups were solid gold, as were all the furnishings in the Forest of Lebanon Room. Silver was too cheap to count for much in those days! <sup>21</sup> Every three years the king sent his ships to Tarshish, using sailors supplied by King Hiram, to bring back gold, silver, ivory, apes, and peacocks.

<sup>22</sup> So King Solomon was richer and wiser than any other king in all the earth. <sup>23</sup> Kings from every nation came to visit him, and to hear the wisdom God had put into his heart. <sup>24</sup> Each brought him annual tribute of silver and gold bowls, clothing, armor, spices, horses, and mules.

<sup>25</sup> In addition, Solomon had 4,000 stalls of horses and chariots, and 12,000 cavalrymen stationed in the chariot cities, as well as in Jerusalem to protect the king. <sup>26</sup> He ruled over all kings and kingdoms from the Euphrates River to the land of the Philistines and as far away as the border of Egypt. <sup>27</sup> He made silver become as plentiful in Jerusalem as stones in the road! And cedar was used as though it were common sycamore. <sup>28</sup> Horses were brought to him from Egypt and other countries.

<sup>29</sup> The rest of Solomon's biography is written in the history of Nathan the prophet and in the prophecy of Ahijah the Shilonite, and also in the visions of Iddo the seer concerning Jeroboam the son of Nebat.

<sup>30</sup> So Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all of Israel for forty years. <sup>31</sup> Then he died and was buried in Jerusalem, and his son Rehoboam became the new king.

10 ALL THE LEADERS of Israel came to Shechem for Rehoboam's coronation. <sup>2,3</sup> Meanwhile, friends of Jeroboam (son of Nebat) sent word to him of Solomon's death. He was in Egypt at the time, where he had gone to escape from King Solomon. He now quickly returned, and was present at the coronation, and led the people's demands on Rehoboam:

<sup>4</sup> "Your father was a hard master," they said. "Be easier on us than he was, and we will let you be our king!"

<sup>5</sup> Rehoboam told them to return in three days for his decision. <sup>6</sup> He discussed their demand with the old men who had counseled his father Solomon.

"What shall I tell them?" he asked.

<sup>7</sup> "If you want to be their king," they replied, "you will have to give them a favorable reply and treat them with kindness."

<sup>8</sup> But he rejected their advice and asked the opinion of the young men who had grown up with him. "What do you fellows think I should do?" he asked. "Shall I be easier on them than my father was?"

<sup>9</sup> "No!" they replied. "Tell them, 'If you think my father was hard on you, just wait and see what I'll be like!' Tell them, 'My little finger is thicker than my father's loins! I am going to be tougher on you, not easier! My father used whips on you, but I'll use scorpions!'"

<sup>12</sup> So when Jeroboam and the people returned in three days to hear King Rehoboam's decision, <sup>13</sup> he spoke roughly to them; for he refused the advice of the old men, <sup>14</sup> and followed the counsel of the younger ones.

"My father gave you heavy burdens but I will give you heavier!" he told them. "My father punished you with whips, but I will punish you with scorpions!"

<sup>15</sup> So the king turned down the people's demands. (God caused him to do it in order to fulfill his prediction<sup>a</sup> spoken to Jeroboam by Ahijah, the Shilonite.) <sup>16</sup> When the people realized what the king was saying they turned around and deserted him.

"Forget David and his dynasty!" they shouted angrily. "We'll get someone else to be our king. Let Rehoboam rule his own tribe of Judah! Let's go home!" So they did.

<sup>17</sup> The people of the tribe of Judah, however, remained loyal to Rehoboam. <sup>18</sup> Afterwards, when King Rehoboam sent Hadoram to draft forced labor from the other tribes of Israel, the people stoned him to death. When this news reached King Rehoboam he jumped into his chariot and fled to Jerusalem. <sup>19</sup> And Israel has refused to be ruled by a descendant of David to this day.

11 UPON ARRIVAL AT Jerusalem, Rehoboam mobilized the armies of Judah and Benjamin, 180,000 strong, and declared war against the rest of Israel in an attempt to reunite the kingdom.

<sup>3</sup> "Go and say to King Rehoboam of Judah, Solomon's son, and to the people of Judah and of Benjamin:

<sup>4</sup> "The Lord says, Do not fight against your brothers. Go home, for I am behind their rebellion." So they obeyed the Lord and refused to fight against Jeroboam.

<sup>9-10</sup> Rehoboam stayed in Jerusalem and fortified these cities of Judah with walls and gates to protect himself:

Bethlehem, Etam, Tekoa,
Beth-zur, Soco, Adullam,
Gath, Mareshah, Ziph,
Adoraim, Lachish,
Azekah, Zorah,
Aijalon, and Hebron.

<sup>11</sup> He also rebuilt and strengthened the forts, and manned them with companies of soldiers under their officers, and stored them with food, olive oil, and wine. <sup>12</sup> Shields and spears were placed in armories in every city as a further safety measure. For only Judah and Benjamin remained loyal to him.

<sup>13,14</sup> However, the priests and Levites from the other tribes now abandoned their homes and moved to Judah and Jerusalem, for King Jeroboam had fired them, telling them to stop being priests of the Lord. <sup>15</sup> He had appointed other priests instead who encouraged the people to worship idols instead of God, and to sacrifice to carved statues of goats and calves which he placed on the hills. <sup>16</sup> Laymen, too, from all over Israel began moving to Jerusalem where they could freely worship the Lord God of their fathers, and sacrifice to him. <sup>17</sup> This strengthened the kingdom of Judah, so King Rehoboam survived for three years without difficulty; for during those years there was an earnest effort to obey the Lord as King David and King Solomon had done.<sup>a</sup>

<sup>20</sup> Later he married Maacah, the daughter of Absalom. The children she bore him were Abijah, Attai, Ziza, and Shelomith. <sup>21</sup> He loved Maacah more than any of his other wives and concubines (he had eighteen wives and sixty concubines—with twenty-eight sons and sixty daughters). <sup>22</sup> Maacah's son Abijah was his favorite, and he intended to make him the next king. <sup>23</sup> He very wisely scattered his other sons in the fortified cities throughout the land of Judah and Benjamin, and gave them large allowances and arranged for them to have several wives apiece.

12 BUT JUST WHEN Rehoboam was at the height of his popularity and power he abandoned the Lord, and the people followed him in this sin. <sup>2</sup> As a result, King Shishak of Egypt attacked Jerusalem in the fifth year of King Rehoboam's reign, <sup>3</sup> with twelve hundred chariots, sixty thousand cavalymen and an unnumbered host of infantrymen—Egyptians, Libyans, Sukkiim, and Ethiopians. <sup>4</sup> He quickly conquered Judah's fortified cities and soon arrived at Jerusalem.

for safety), and told them, "The Lord says, 'You have forsaken me, so I have forsaken you and abandoned you to Shishak.'"

<sup>6</sup> Then the king and the leaders of Israel confessed their sins and exclaimed, "The Lord is right in doing this to us!"

<sup>7</sup> And when the Lord saw them humble themselves he sent Shemaiah to tell them, "Because you have humbled yourselves, I will not completely destroy you; some will escape. I will not use Shishak to pour out my anger upon Jerusalem. <sup>8</sup> But you must pay annual tribute to him. Then you will realize how much better it is to serve me than to serve him!"

<sup>9</sup> So King Shishak of Egypt conquered Jerusalem and took away all the treasures of the Temple and of the palace, also all of Solomon's gold shields. <sup>10</sup> King Rehoboam replaced them with bronze shields and committed them to the care of the captain of his bodyguard. <sup>11</sup> Whenever the king went to the Temple, the guards would carry them, and afterwards return them to the armory. <sup>12</sup> When the king humbled himself, the Lord's anger was turned aside and he didn't send total destruction; in fact, even after Shishak's invasion, the economy of Judah remained strong.

<sup>13</sup> King Rehoboam reigned seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city God had chosen as his residence after considering all the other cities of Israel. He had become king at the age of forty-one, and his mother's name was Naamah the Ammonitess. <sup>14</sup> But he was an evil king, for he never did decide really to please the Lord. <sup>15</sup> The complete biography of Rehoboam is recorded in the histories written by Shemaiah the prophet and by Iddo the seer, and in The Genealogical Register.

There were continual wars between Rehoboam and Jeroboam. <sup>16</sup> When Rehoboam died he was buried in Jerusalem, and his son Abijah became the new king.

13 ABIJAH BECAME THE new king of Judah, in Jerusalem, in the eighteenth year of the reign of King Jeroboam of Israel. He lasted three years. His mother's name was Micaiah (daughter of Uriel of Gibeah).

Early in his reign war broke out between Judah and Israel. <sup>1</sup> Judah, led by King Abijah, fielded 400,000 seasoned warriors against twice as many Israeli troops—strong, courageous men led by King Jeroboam. <sup>2</sup> When the army of Judah arrived at Mount Zemaraim, in the hill country of Ephraim, King Abijah shouted to King Jeroboam and the Israeli army:

<sup>3</sup> "Listen! Don't you realize that the Lord God of Israel swore that David's descendants would always be the kings of Israel? <sup>4</sup> Your King Jeroboam is a mere servant of David's son, and was a traitor to his master. <sup>5</sup> Then a whole gang of worthless rebels joined him, defying Solomon's son Rehoboam, for he was young and frightened and couldn't stand up to them. <sup>6</sup> Do you really think you can defeat the kingdom of the Lord that is led by a descendant of David? Your army is twice as large as mine, but you are cursed with those gold calves you have with you, that Jeroboam made for you—he calls them your gods!

<sup>9</sup> And you have driven away the priests of the Lord and the Levites, and have appointed heathen priests instead. Just like the people of other lands, you accept as priests anybody who comes along with a young bullock and seven rams for consecration. Anyone at all can be a priest of these no-gods of yours!

<sup>10</sup> "But as for us, the Lord is our God and we have not forsaken him. Only the descendants of Aaron are our priests, and the Levites alone may help them in their work.

<sup>11</sup> They burn sacrifices to the Lord every morning and evening—burnt offerings and sweet incense; and they place the Bread of the Presence upon the holy table. The golden lampstand is lighted every night, for we are careful to follow the instructions of the Lord our God; but you have forsaken him. <sup>12</sup> So you see, God is with us; he is our Leader. His priests, trumpeting as they go, will lead us into battle against you. O people of Israel, do not fight against the Lord God of your fathers, for you will not succeed!"

<sup>13,14</sup> Meanwhile, Jeroboam had secretly sent part of his army around behind the men of Judah to ambush them; so Judah was surrounded, with the enemy before and behind them. Then they cried out to the Lord for mercy, and the priests blew the trumpets. <sup>15,16</sup> The men of Judah began to shout. And as they shouted, God used King Abijah and the men of Judah to turn the tide of battle against King Jeroboam and the army of Israel, <sup>17</sup> and they slaughtered 500,000 elite troops of Israel that day.

<sup>18,19</sup> So Judah, depending upon the Lord God of their fathers, defeated Israel, and chased King Jeroboam's troops, and captured some of his cities—Bethel, Jeshanah, Ephron, and their suburbs. <sup>20</sup> King Jeroboam of Israel never regained his power during Abijah's lifetime, and eventually the Lord struck him and he died.

<sup>21</sup> Meanwhile, King Abijah of Judah became very strong. He married fourteen wives and had twenty-two sons and sixteen daughters. <sup>22</sup> His complete biography and speeches are recorded in the prophet Iddo's History of Judah.

14 KING ABIJAH WAS buried in Jerusalem. Then his son Asa became the new king of Judah, and there was peace in the land for the first ten years of his reign, <sup>2</sup> for Asa was careful to obey the Lord his God. <sup>3</sup> He demolished the heathen altars on the hills, and broke down the obelisks, and chopped down the shameful Asherim-idols, <sup>4</sup> and demanded that the entire nation obey the commandments of the Lord God of their ancestors. <sup>5</sup> Also, he removed the sun-images from the hills, and the incense altars from every one of Judah's cities. That is why God gave his kingdom peace. <sup>6</sup> This made it possible for him to build walled cities throughout Judah.

<sup>7</sup> "Now is the time to do it, while the Lord is blessing us with peace because of our obedience to him," he told his people. "Let us build and fortify cities now, with walls, towers, gates, and bars." So they went ahead with these projects very successfully.

300,000 strong, equipped with light shields and spears. His army of Benjaminites numbered 280,000, armed with large shields and bows. Both armies were composed of well-trained, brave men. <sup>9,10</sup> But now he was attacked by an army of 1,000,000 troops from Ethiopia with 300 chariots, under the leadership of General Zerah. They advanced to the city of Mareshah, in the valley of Zephathah, and King Asa sent his troops to meet them there.

<sup>11</sup> "O Lord," he cried out to God, "no one else can help us! Here we are, powerless against this mighty army. Oh, help us, Lord our God! For we trust in you alone to rescue us, and in your name we attack this vast horde. Don't let mere men defeat you!"

<sup>12</sup> Then the Lord defeated the Ethiopians, and Asa and the army of Judah triumphed as the Ethiopians fled. <sup>13</sup> They chased them as far as Gerar, and the entire Ethiopian army was wiped out so that not one man remained; for the Lord and his army destroyed them all. Then the army of Judah carried off vast quantities of plunder. <sup>14</sup> While they were at Gerar they attacked all the cities in that area, and terror from the Lord came upon the residents. As a result, additional vast quantities of plunder were collected from these cities too. <sup>15</sup> They not only plundered the cities, but destroyed the cattle tents and captured great herds of sheep and camels before finally returning to Jerusalem.

15 THEN THE SPIRIT of God came upon Azariah (son of Oded), <sup>2</sup> and he went out to meet

King Asa as he was returning from the battle.

"Listen to me, Asa! Listen, armies of Judah and Benjamin!" he shouted. "The Lord will stay with you as long as you stay with him! Whenever you look for him, you will find him. But if you forsake him, he will forsake you. <sup>3</sup> For a long time now, over in Israel, the people haven't worshiped the true God, and have not had a true priest to teach them. They have lived without God's laws. <sup>4</sup> But whenever they have turned again to the Lord God of Israel in their distress, and searched for him, he has helped them. <sup>5</sup> In their times of rebellion against God there was no peace. Problems troubled the nation on every hand. Crime was on the increase everywhere. <sup>6</sup> There were external wars, and internal fighting of city against city, for God was plaguing them with all sorts of trouble. <sup>7</sup> But you men of Judah, keep up the good work and don't get discouraged, for you will be rewarded."

<sup>8</sup> When King Asa heard this message from God, he took courage and destroyed all the idols in the land of Judah and Benjamin, and in the cities he had captured in the hill country of Ephraim, and he rebuilt the altar of the Lord in front of the Temple.

<sup>9</sup> Then he summoned all the people of Judah and Benjamin, and the immigrants from Israel (for many had come from the territories of Ephraim, Manasseh, and Simeon, in Israel, when they saw that the Lord God was with King Asa). <sup>10</sup> They all came to Jerusalem in June of the fifteenth year of King

Asa's reign, <sup>11</sup> and sacrificed to the Lord seven hundred oxen and seven thousand sheep—it was part of the plunder they had captured in the battle. <sup>12</sup> Then they entered into a contract to worship only the Lord God of their fathers, <sup>13</sup> and agreed that anyone who refused to do this must die—whether old or young, man or woman. <sup>14</sup> They shouted out their oath of loyalty to God with trumpets blaring and horns sounding. <sup>15</sup> All were happy for this covenant with God, for they had entered into it with all their hearts and wills, and wanted him above everything else, and they found him! And he gave them peace throughout the nation.

<sup>16</sup> King Asa even removed his mother Maacah from being the queen mother because she made an Asherah-idol; he cut down the idol and crushed and burned it at Kidron Brook. <sup>17</sup> Over in Israel the idol-temples were not removed. But here in Judah and Benjamin the heart of King Asa was perfect before God throughout his lifetime. <sup>18</sup> He brought back into the Temple the silver and gold bowls which he and his father had dedicated to the Lord. <sup>19</sup> So there was no more war until the thirty-fifth year of King Asa's reign.

16 IN THE THIRTY-SIXTH year of King Asa's reign, King Baasha of Israel declared war on him and built the fortress<sup>a</sup> of Ramah in order to control the road to Judah. <sup>2</sup> Asa's response was to take the silver and gold from the Temple and from the palace, and to send it to King Ben-hadad of Syria, at Damascus, with this message:

<sup>3</sup> "Let us renew the mutual security pact that there was between your father and my father. See, here is silver and gold to induce you to break your alliance with King Baasha of Israel, so that he will leave me alone."

<sup>4</sup> Ben-hadad agreed to King Asa's request and mobilized his armies to attack Israel. They destroyed the cities of Ijon, Dan, Abel-maim and all of the supply centers in Naphtali. <sup>5</sup> As soon as King Baasha of Israel heard what was happening, he discontinued building Ramah and gave up his plan to attack Judah. <sup>6</sup> Then King Asa and the people of Judah went out to Ramah and carried away the building stones and timbers and used them to build Geba and Mizpah instead.

<sup>7</sup> About that time the prophet Hanani came to King Asa and told him, "Because you have put your trust in the king of Syria instead of in the Lord your God, the army of the king of Syria has escaped from you. <sup>8</sup> Don't you remember what happened to the Ethiopians and Libyans and their vast army, with all of their chariots and cavalrymen? But you relied then on the Lord, and he delivered them all into your hand. <sup>9</sup> For the eyes of the Lord search back and forth across the whole earth, looking for people whose hearts are perfect toward him, so that he can show his great power in helping them. What a fool you have been! From now on you shall have wars."

<sup>10</sup> Asa was so angry with the prophet for saying this that he threw him into jail. And Asa oppressed all the people at that time.

<sup>11</sup> The rest of the biography of Asa is written in The Annals of the Kings of Israel and Judah. <sup>12</sup> In the thirty-ninth year of his reign, Asa became seriously diseased in his feet but he didn't go to the Lord with the problem, but to the doctors. <sup>13,14</sup> So he died in the forty-first year of his reign, and was buried in his own vault that he had hewn out for himself in Jerusalem. He was laid on a bed perfumed with sweet spices and ointments, and his people made a very great burning of incense for him at his funeral.

17 THEN HIS SON Jehoshaphat became the king and mobilized for war against Israel. <sup>2</sup> He placed garrisons in all of the fortified cities of Judah, in various other places throughout the country, and in the cities of Ephraim that his father had conquered.

<sup>3</sup> The Lord was with Jehoshaphat because he followed in the good footsteps of his father's early years, and did not worship idols. <sup>4</sup> He obeyed the commandments of his father's God—quite unlike the people across the border in the land of Israel. <sup>5</sup> So the Lord strengthened his position as king of Judah. All the people of Judah cooperated by paying their taxes, so he became very wealthy as well as being very popular. <sup>6</sup> He boldly followed the paths of God—even knocking down the heathen altars on the hills, and destroying the Asherim idols.

<sup>7,8,9</sup> In the third year of his reign he began a nationwide religious education program. He sent out top government officials as teachers in all the cities of Judah. These men included Ben-hail, Obadiah, Zechariah, Nethanel, and Micaiah. He also used the Levites for this purpose, including Shemaiah, Nethaniah, Zebadiah, Asahel, Shemiramoth, Jehonathan, Adonijah, Tobijah, and Tobadonijah; also the priests, Elishama and Jehoram. They took copies of The Book of the Law of the Lord to all the cities of Judah, to teach the Scriptures to the people.

<sup>10</sup> Then the fear of the Lord fell upon all the surrounding kingdoms so that none of them declared war on King Jehoshaphat. <sup>11</sup> Even some of the Philistines brought him presents and annual tribute, and the Arabs donated 7,700 rams and 7,700 male goats. <sup>12</sup> So Jehoshaphat became very strong, and built fortresses and supply cities throughout Judah.

<sup>13</sup> His public works program was also extensive, and he had a huge army stationed at Jerusalem, his capital. <sup>14,15</sup> Three hundred thousand Judean troops were there under General Adnah. Next in command was Jeho-hanan with an army of 280,000 men. <sup>16</sup> Next was Amasiah (son of Zichri), a man of unusual piety, with 200,000 troops. <sup>17</sup> Benjamin supplied 200,000 men equipped with bows and shields under the command of Eliada, a great general. <sup>18</sup> His second in command was Jehozabad, with 180,000 trained men. <sup>19</sup> These were the troops in Jerusalem in addition to those placed by the king in the fortified cities throughout the nation.

18 BUT RICH, POPULAR King Jehoshaphat of Judah made a marriage alliance [for his son<sup>a</sup>] with [the daughter of<sup>a</sup>] King Ahab of Israel. <sup>2</sup> A few years later he went down to Samaria to visit King Ahab, and King Ahab gave a great party for him and his aides, butchering great numbers of sheep and oxen for the feast. Then he asked King Jehoshaphat to join forces with him against Ramoth-gilead.

<sup>3,4</sup> "Why, of course!" King Jehoshaphat replied, "I'm with you all the way. My troops are at your command! However, let's check with the Lord first."

So King Ahab summoned 400 of his heathen prophets and asked them, "Shall we go to war with Ramoth-gilead or not?"

And they replied, "Go ahead, for God will give you a great victory!"

<sup>6</sup> But Jehoshaphat wasn't satisfied. "Isn't there some prophet of the Lord around here too?" he asked. "I'd like to ask him the same question."

"Well," Ahab told him, "there is one, but I hate him, for he never prophesies anything but evil! His name is Micaiah (son of Imlah)."

"Oh, come now, don't talk like that!" Jehoshaphat exclaimed. "Let's hear what he has to say."

<sup>8</sup> So the king of Israel called one of his aides. "Quick! Go and get Micaiah (son of Imlah)," he ordered.

kiah (son of Chenaanah), made some iron horns for the occasion and proclaimed, "The Lord says you will gore the Syrians to death with these!"

<sup>11</sup> And all the others agreed. "Yes," they chorused, "go up to Ramoth-gilead and prosper, for the Lord will cause you to conquer."

<sup>12</sup> The man who went to get Micaiah told him what was happening, and what all the prophets were saying—that the war would end in triumph for the king.

"I hope you will agree with them and give the king a favorable reading," the man ventured.

<sup>13</sup> But Micaiah replied, "I vow by God that whatever God says is what I will say."

<sup>14</sup> When he arrived before the king, the king asked him, "Micaiah, shall we go to war against Ramoth-gilead or not?"

And Micaiah replied, "Sure, go ahead! It will be a glorious victory!"

<sup>15</sup> "Look here," the king said sharply, "how many times must I tell you to speak nothing except what the Lord tells you to?"

<sup>16</sup> Then Micaiah told him, "In my vision I saw all Israel scattered upon the mountain as sheep without a shepherd. And the Lord said, 'Their master has been killed. Send them home.'"

<sup>17</sup> "Didn't I tell you?" the king of Israel exclaimed to Jehoshaphat. "He does it every time. He never prophesies anything but evil against me."

<sup>18</sup> "Listen to what else the Lord has told me," Micaiah continued. "I saw him upon his throne surrounded by vast throngs of angels.

<sup>19,20</sup> "And the Lord said, 'Who can get King Ahab to go to battle against Ramoth-gilead and be killed there?'"

"There were many suggestions, but finally a spirit stepped forward before the Lord and said, 'I can do it!'"

"How?" the Lord asked him.

<sup>21</sup> "He replied, 'I will be a lying spirit in the mouth of all of the king's prophets!'"

"It will work," the Lord said; 'go and do it.'

<sup>22</sup> "So you see, the Lord has put a lying spirit in the mouth of these prophets of yours, when actually he has determined just the opposite of what they are telling you!"

<sup>23</sup> Then Zedekiah (son of Chenaanah) walked up to Micaiah and slapped him across the face. "You liar!" he yelled. "When did the Spirit of the Lord leave me and enter you?"

<sup>25</sup> "Arrest this man and take him back to Governor Amon and to my son Joash," the king of Israel ordered. <sup>26</sup> "Tell them, 'The king says to put this fellow in prison and feed him with bread and water until I return safely from the battle!'"

<sup>27</sup> Micaiah replied, "If you return safely, the Lord has not spoken through me." Then, turning to those around them, he remarked, "Take note of what I have said."

<sup>28</sup> So the king of Israel and the king of Judah led their armies to Ramoth-gilead.

<sup>29</sup> The king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, "I'll disguise myself so that no one will recognize me, but you put on your royal robes!" So that is what they did.

<sup>30</sup> Now the king of Syria had issued these instructions to his charioteers: "Ignore everyone but the king of Israel!"

<sup>31</sup> So when the Syrian charioteers saw King Jehoshaphat of Judah in his royal robes, they went for him, supposing that he was the man they were after. But Jehoshaphat cried out to the Lord to save him, and the Lord made the charioteers see their mistake and leave him. <sup>32</sup> For as soon as they realized he was not the king of Israel, they stopped chasing him. <sup>33</sup> But one of the Syrian soldiers shot an arrow haphazardly at the Israeli troops, and it struck the king of Israel at the opening where the lower armor and the breastplate meet. "Get me out of here," he groaned to the driver of his chariot, "for I am badly wounded." <sup>34</sup> The battle grew hotter and hotter all that day, and King Ahab went back in, propped up in his chariot, to fight the Syrians, but just as the sun sank into the western skies, he died.

19 AS KING JEHOSEPHAT of Judah returned home, uninjured, <sup>2</sup> the prophet Jehu (son of Hanani) went out to meet him.

"Should you be helping the wicked, and loving those who hate the Lord?" he asked him. "Because of what you have done, God's wrath is upon you. <sup>3</sup> But there are some good things about you, in that you got rid of the shame-idols throughout the land, and you have tried to be faithful to God."

trips to Israel after that, but remained quietly at Jerusalem. Later he went out again among the people, traveling from Beer-sheba to the hill country of Ephraim to encourage them to worship the God of their ancestors. <sup>1</sup> He appointed judges throughout the nation in all the larger cities, <sup>4</sup> and instructed them:

"Watch your step—I have not appointed you—God has; and he will stand beside you and help you give justice in each case that comes before you. <sup>7</sup> Be very much afraid to give any other decision than what God tells you to. For there must be no injustice among God's judges, no partiality, no taking of bribes."

<sup>1</sup> Jehoshaphat set up courts in Jerusalem, too, with the Levites and priests and clan leaders and judges. <sup>7</sup> These were his instructions to them: "You are to act always in the fear of God, with honest hearts. <sup>10</sup> Whenever a case is referred to you by the judges out in the provinces, whether murder cases or other violations of the laws and ordinances of God, you are to clarify the evidence for them and help them to decide justly, lest the wrath of God come down upon you and them; if you do this, you will discharge your responsibility."

<sup>11</sup> Then he appointed Amariah, the High Priest, to be the court of final appeal in cases involving violation of sacred affairs; and Zebadiah (son of Ishmael), a ruler in Judah, as the court of final appeal in all civil cases; with the Levites as their assistants. "Be fearless in your stand for truth and honesty. And may God use you to defend the innocent," was his final word to them.

20 LATER ON, THE armies of the kings of Moab, Ammon, and of the Meunites declared war on Jehoshaphat and the people of Judah. <sup>2</sup> Word reached Jehoshaphat that "a vast army is marching against you from beyond the Salt Sea, from Syria. It is already at Hazazon-tamar" (also called Engedi). <sup>3</sup> Jehoshaphat was badly shaken by this news and determined to beg for help from the Lord; so he announced that all the people of Judah should go without food for a time, in penitence and intercession before God. <sup>4</sup> People from all across the nation came to Jerusalem to plead unitedly with him. <sup>5</sup> Jehoshaphat stood among them as they gathered at the new court of the Temple, and prayed this prayer: <sup>6</sup> "O Lord God of our fathers—the only God in all the heavens, the Ruler of all the kingdoms of the earth—you are so powerful, so mighty. Who can stand against you? <sup>7</sup> O our God, didn't you drive out the heathen who lived in this land when your people arrived? And didn't you give this land forever to the descendants of your friend Abraham? <sup>8</sup> Your people settled here and built this Temple for you, <sup>9</sup> truly believing that in a time like this—whenever we are faced with any calamity such as war, disease, or famine—we can stand here before this Temple and before you—for you are here in this Temple—and cry out to you to save us; and that you will hear us and rescue us.

are doing. You wouldn't let our ancestors invade those nations when Israel left Egypt, so we went around and didn't destroy them. <sup>11</sup> Now see how they reward us! For they have come to throw us out of your land which you have given us. <sup>12</sup> O our God, won't you stop them? We have no way to protect ourselves against this mighty army. We don't know what to do, but we are looking to you."

<sup>13</sup> As the people from every part of Judah stood before the Lord with their little ones, wives, and children, <sup>14</sup> the Spirit of the Lord came upon one of the men standing there—Jahaziel (son of Zechariah, son of Benaiah, son of Je-iel, son of Mattaniah the Levite, who was one of the sons of Asaph).

<sup>15</sup> "Listen to me, all you people of Judah and Jerusalem, and you, O king Jehoshaphat!" he exclaimed. "The Lord says, 'Don't be afraid! Don't be paralyzed by this mighty army! For the battle is not yours, but God's! <sup>16</sup> Tomorrow, go down and attack them! You will find them coming up the slopes of Ziz at the end of the valley that opens into the wilderness of Jeruel. <sup>17</sup> But you will not need to fight! Take your places; stand quietly and see the incredible rescue operation God will perform for you, O people of Judah and Jerusalem! Don't be afraid or discouraged! Go out there tomorrow, for the Lord is with you!'"

<sup>18</sup> Then King Jehoshaphat fell to the ground with his face to the earth, and all the people of Judah and the people of Jerusalem did the same, worshipping the Lord. <sup>19</sup> Then the Levites of the Kohath clan and the Korah clan stood to praise the Lord, God of Israel with songs of praise that rang out strong and clear.

<sup>20</sup> Early the next morning the army of Judah went out into the wilderness of Tekoa. On the way Jehoshaphat stopped and called them to attention. "Listen to me, O people of Judah and Jerusalem," he said. "Believe in the Lord your God, and you shall have success! Believe his prophets, and everything will be all right!"

<sup>21</sup> After consultation with the leaders of the people, he determined that there should be a choir leading the march, clothed in sanctified garments and singing the song "His Lovingkindness Is Forever" as they walked along praising and thanking the Lord! <sup>22</sup> And at the moment they began to sing and to praise, the Lord caused the armies of Ammon, Moab, and Mount Seir to begin fighting among themselves, and they destroyed each other! <sup>23</sup> For the Ammonites and Moabites turned against their allies from Mount Seir and killed every one of them. And when they had finished that job, they turned against each other! <sup>24</sup> So, when the army of Judah arrived at the watchtower that looks out over the wilderness, as far as they could look there were dead bodies lying on the ground—not a single one of the enemy had escaped. <sup>25</sup> King Jehoshaphat and his people went out to plunder the bodies and came away loaded with money, garments, and jewels stripped from the corpses—so much that it took them three days to cart it all away! <sup>26</sup> On the fourth day they gathered in the Valley of Blessing, as it is called today, and how they praised the Lord!

<sup>27</sup> Then they returned to Jerusalem, with Jehoshaphat leading them, full of joy that the Lord had given them this marvelous rescue from their enemies. <sup>28</sup> They marched into Jerusalem accompanied by a band of harps, lyres, and trumpets and proceeded to the Temple. <sup>29</sup> And as had happened before, when the surrounding kingdoms heard that the Lord himself had fought against the enemies of Israel, the fear of God fell upon them. <sup>30</sup> So Jehoshaphat's kingdom was quiet, for his God had given him rest.

<sup>31</sup> A thumbnail sketch of King Jehoshaphat: He became king of Judah when he was thirty-five years old, and reigned twenty-five years, in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Azubah, the daughter of Shilhi. <sup>32</sup> He was a good king, just as his father Asa was. He continually tried to follow the Lord, <sup>33</sup> with the exception that he did not destroy the idol shrines on the hills, nor had the people as yet really decided to follow the God of their ancestors.

<sup>35</sup> But at the close of his life, Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, went into partnership with Ahaziah, king of Israel, who was a very wicked man. <sup>36</sup> They made ships in Ezion-geber to sail to Tarshish. <sup>37</sup> Then Eliezer, son of Dodavahu from Mareshah, prophesied against Jehoshaphat, telling him, "Because you have allied yourself with King Ahaziah, the Lord has destroyed your work." So the ships met disaster and never arrived at Tarshish.

21 WHEN JEHOSEPHAT DIED, he was buried in the cemetery of the kings in Jerusalem, and his son Jehoram became the new ruler of Judah. <sup>2</sup> His brothers—other sons of Jehoshaphat—were Azariah, Jehiel, Zechariah, Azariah, Michael, and Shephatiah. <sup>3</sup> Their father had given each of them valuable gifts of money and jewels, also the ownership of some of the fortified cities of Judah. However, he gave the kingship to Jehoram because he was the oldest. But when Jehoram had become solidly established as king, he killed all of his brothers and many other leaders of Israel. <sup>4</sup> He was thirty-two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eight years, in Jerusalem. <sup>5</sup> But he was as wicked as the kings who were over in Israel. Yes, as wicked as Ahab, for Jehoram had married one of the daughters of Ahab, and his whole life was one constant binge of doing evil. <sup>6</sup> However, the Lord was unwilling to end the dynasty of David, for he had made a covenant with David always to have one of his descendants upon the throne.

him. <sup>10</sup> But to this day Edom has been successful in throwing off the yoke of Judah. Libnah revolted too, because Jehoram had turned away from the Lord God of his fathers.

<sup>11</sup> What's more, Jehoram constructed idol shrines in the mountains of Judah, and led the people of Jerusalem in worshiping idols; in fact, he compelled his people to worship them.

<sup>12</sup> Then Elijah the prophet wrote him this letter: "The Lord God of your ancestor David says that because you have not followed in the good ways of your father Jehoshaphat, nor the good ways of King Asa, <sup>13</sup> but you have been as evil as the kings over in Israel, and have made the people of Jerusalem and Judah worship idols just as in the times of King Ahab, and because you have killed your brothers who were better than you, <sup>14</sup> now the Lord will destroy your nation with a great plague. You, your children, your wives, and all that you have will be struck down. <sup>15</sup> You will be stricken with an intestinal disease and your bowels will rot away."

<sup>18</sup> It was after this that Jehovah struck him down with the incurable bowel disease. <sup>19</sup> In the process of time, at the end of two years, his intestines came out and he died in terrible suffering. (The customary pomp and ceremony was omitted at his funeral.) <sup>20</sup> He was thirty-two years old when he began to reign and he reigned in Jerusalem eight years, and died unmourned. He was buried in Jerusalem, but not in the royal cemetery.

22 THEN THE PEOPLE of Jerusalem chose Ahaziah,<sup>a</sup> his youngest son, as their new king (for the marauding bands of Arabs had killed his older sons). <sup>2</sup> Ahaziah was twenty-two years old<sup>b</sup> when he began to reign, and he reigned one year, in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Athaliah, granddaughter of Omri. <sup>3</sup> He, too, walked in the evil ways of Ahab, for his mother encouraged him in doing wrong. <sup>4</sup> Yes, he was as evil as Ahab, for Ahab's family became his advisors after his father's death, and they led him on to ruin.

<sup>5</sup> Following their evil advice, Ahaziah made an alliance with King Jehoram of Israel (the son of Ahab), who was at war with King Hazael of Syria at Ramoth-gilead. Ahaziah led his army there to join the battle. King Jehoram of Israel was wounded, <sup>6</sup> and returned to Jezreel to recover. Ahaziah went to visit him, <sup>7</sup> but this turned out to be a fatal mistake; for God had decided to punish Ahaziah for his alliance with Jehoram. It was during this visit that Ahaziah went out with Jehoram to challenge Jehu (son of Nimshi), whom the Lord had appointed to end the dynasty of Ahab.

<sup>8</sup> While Jehu was hunting down and killing the family and friends of Ahab, he met King Ahaziah's nephews, the princes of Judah, and killed them. <sup>9</sup> As he and his men were searching for Ahaziah, they found him hiding in the city of Samaria, and brought him to Jehu, who killed him. Even so, Ahaziah was given a royal burial because he was the grandson of King Jehoshaphat—a man who enthusiastically served the Lord. None of his sons, however, except for Joash, lived to succeed him as king, <sup>10</sup> for their grandmother Athaliah killed them when she heard the news of her son Ahaziah's death.

<sup>11</sup> Joash was rescued by his Aunt Jehoshabeath, who was King Ahaziah's sister, and was hidden away in a storage room in the Temple. She was a daughter of King Jehoram, and the wife of Jehoiada the priest. <sup>12</sup> Joash remained hidden in the Temple for six years while Athaliah reigned as queen. He was cared for by his nurse and by his aunt and uncle.

23 IN THE SEVENTH year of the reign of Queen Athaliah, Jehoiada the priest got up his courage and took some of the army officers into his confidence: Azariah (son of Jeroham), Ishmael (son of Jehohanan), Azariah (son of Obed), Maaseiah (son of Adaiah), and Elishaphat (son of Zichri). <sup>23</sup> These men traveled out across the nation secretly, to tell the Levites and clan leaders about his plans and to summon them to Jerusalem. On arrival they swore allegiance to the young king, who was still in hiding at the Temple.

"At last the time has come for the king's son to reign!" Jehoiada exclaimed. "The Lord's promise—that a descendant of King David shall be our king—will be true again. <sup>4</sup> This is how we'll proceed: A third of you priests and Levites who come off duty on the Sabbath will stay at the entrance as guards. <sup>5,6</sup> Another third will go over to the palace, and a third will be at the Lower Gate. Everyone else must stay in the outer courts of the Temple, as required by God's laws. For only the priests and Levites on duty may enter the Temple itself, for they are sanctified. <sup>7</sup> You Levites, form a bodyguard for the king, weapons in hand, and kill any unauthorized person entering the Temple. Stay right beside the king."

<sup>8</sup> So all the arrangements were made. Each of the three leaders led a third of the priests arriving for duty that Sabbath, and a third of those whose week's work was done and were going off duty—for Jehoiada the chief priest didn't release them to go home. <sup>9</sup> Then Jehoiada issued spears and shields to all the army officers. These had once belonged to King David and were stored in the Temple. <sup>10</sup> These officers, fully armed, formed a line from one side to the other in front of the Temple and around the altar in the outer court. <sup>11</sup> Then they brought out the little prince and placed the crown upon his head and handed him a copy of the law of God, and proclaimed him king.

A great shout went up, "Long live the king!" as Jehoiada and his sons anointed him.

c Literally, "the king's daughter," i.e., King Jehoram's daughter, verse 11.

<sup>12</sup> When Queen Athaliah heard all the noise and commotion, and the shouts of praise to the king, she rushed over to the Temple to see what was going on—and there stood the king by his pillar at the entrance, with the army officers and the trumpeters surrounding him, and people from all over the land rejoicing and blowing trumpets, and the singers singing, accompanied by an orchestra leading the people in a great psalm of praise.

Athaliah ripped her clothes and screamed, "Treason! Treason!"

Then Jehoiada made a solemn contract that he and the king and the people would be the Lord's. And all the people rushed over to the temple of Baal and knocked it down, and broke up the altars and knocked down the idols, and killed Mattan the priest of Baal before his altar. <sup>18</sup> Jehoiada now appointed the Levite priests as guards, and to sacrifice the burnt offering to the Lord as prescribed in the law of Moses. He made the identical assignments of the Levite clans that King David had. They sang with joy as they worked. <sup>19</sup> The guards at the Temple gates kept out everything that was not consecrated and all unauthorized personnel.

<sup>20</sup> Then the army officers, nobles, governors, and all the people escorted the king from the Temple, wending their way from the Upper Gate to the palace, and seated the king upon his throne. <sup>21</sup> So all the people of the land rejoiced, and the city was quiet and peaceful because Queen Athaliah was dead.

24 JOASH WAS SEVEN years old when he became king, and he reigned forty years, in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Zibiah, from Beer-sheba. <sup>2</sup> Joash tried hard to please the Lord all during the lifetime of Jehoiada the priest. <sup>3</sup> Jehoiada arranged two marriages for him, and he had sons and daughters.

<sup>4</sup> Later on, Joash decided to repair and recondition the Temple. <sup>5</sup> He summoned the priests and Levites and gave them these instructions:

"Go to all the cities of Judah and collect offerings for the building fund, so that we can maintain the Temple in good repair. Get at it right away. Don't delay." But the Levites took their time.

<sup>6</sup> So the king called for Jehoiada, the High Priest, and asked him, "Why haven't you demanded that the Levites go out and collect the Temple taxes from the cities of Judah, and from Jerusalem? The tax law enacted by Moses the servant of the Lord must be enforced so that the Temple can be repaired."

<sup>7,8</sup> (The followers of wicked Athaliah had ravaged the Temple, and everything dedicated to the worship of God had been removed to the temple of Baalam.) So now the king instructed that a chest be made and set outside the Temple gate. <sup>9</sup> Then a proclamation was sent to all the cities of Judah and throughout Jerusalem telling the people to bring to the Lord the tax that Moses the servant of God had assessed upon Israel. <sup>10</sup> And all the leaders and the people were glad, and brought the money and placed it in the chest until it was full.

<sup>11</sup> Then the Levites carried the chest to the king's accounting office where the recording secretary and the representative of the High Priest counted the money, and took the chest back to the Temple again. This went on day after day, and money continued to pour in. <sup>12</sup> The king and Jehoiada gave the money to the building superintendents, who hired masons and carpenters to restore the Temple; and to foundrymen who made articles of iron and brass. <sup>13</sup> So the work went forward, and finally the Temple was in much better condition than before. <sup>14</sup> When all was finished, the remaining money was brought to the king and Jehoiada, and it was agreed to use it for making the gold and silver spoons and bowls used for incense, and for making the instruments used in the sacrifices and offerings.

Burnt offerings were sacrificed continually during the lifetime of Jehoiada the priest. <sup>15</sup> He lived to a very old age, finally dying at 130. <sup>16</sup> He was buried in the City of David among the kings, because he had done so much good for Israel, for God, and for the Temple.

<sup>17,18</sup> But after his death the leaders of Judah came to King Joash and induced him to abandon the Temple of the God of their ancestors, and to worship shame-idols instead! So the wrath of God came down upon Judah and Jerusalem again. <sup>19</sup> God sent prophets to bring them back to the Lord, but the people wouldn't listen.

<sup>20</sup> Then the Spirit of God came upon Zechariah, Jehoiada's son. He called a meeting of all the people. Standing before them upon a platform, he said to them, "God wants to know why you are disobeying his commandments. For when you do, everything you try fails. You have forsaken the Lord, and now he has forsaken you."

<sup>21</sup> Then the leaders plotted to kill Zechariah, and finally King Joash himself ordered him executed in the court of the Temple. <sup>22</sup> That was how King Joash repaid Jehoiada for his love and loyalty—by killing his son. Zechariah's last words as he died were "Lord, see what they are doing and pay them back."

<sup>23</sup> A few months later the Syrian army arrived and conquered Judah and Jerusalem, killing all the leaders of the nation and sending back great quantities of booty to the king of Damascus. <sup>24</sup> It was a great triumph for the tiny Syrian army, but the Lord let the great army of Judah be-conquered by them because they had forsaken the Lord God of their ancestors. In that way God executed judgment upon Joash. <sup>25</sup> When the Syrians left—leaving Joash severely wounded—his own officials decided to kill him for murdering the son of Jehoiada the priest. They assassinated him as he lay in bed, and buried him in the City of David, but not in the cemetery of the kings. <sup>26</sup> The conspirators were Zabad, whose mother was Shime-ath, a woman from Ammon; and Jehoza-bad, whose mother was Shimrith, a woman from Moab.

<sup>27</sup> If you want to read about the sons of Joash, and the curses laid upon Joash, and about the restoration of the Temple, see The Annals of the Kings.

When Joash died, his son Amaziah became the new king.

25 AMAZIAH WAS TWENTY-FIVE years old when he became king, and he reigned twenty-nine years, in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jeho-addan, a native of Jerusalem. <sup>2</sup> He did what was right, but sometimes resented it! <sup>3</sup> When he was well established as the new king, he executed the men who had assassinated his father. <sup>4</sup> However, he didn't kill their children but followed the command of the Lord written in the law of Moses, that the fathers shall not die for the children's sins, nor the children for the father's sins. No, everyone must pay for his own sins.

<sup>5,6</sup> Another thing Amaziah did was to organize the army, assigning leaders to each clan from Judah and Benjamin. Then he took a census and found that he had an army of 300,000 men twenty years old and older, all trained and highly skilled in the use of spear and sword. He also paid $200,000 to hire 100,000 experienced mercenaries from Israel.

<sup>7</sup> But a prophet arrived with this message from the Lord: "Sir, do not hire troops from Israel, for the Lord is not with them. <sup>8</sup> If you let them go with your troops to battle, you will be defeated no matter how well you fight; for God has power to help or to frustrate."

whined. "What shall I do about that?"

And the prophet replied, "The Lord is able to give you much more than this!"

<sup>10</sup> So Amaziah sent them home again to Ephraim, which made them very angry and insulted.

<sup>11</sup> Then Amaziah took courage and led his army to the Valley of Salt, and there killed 10,000 men from Seir. <sup>12</sup> Another 10,000 were taken alive to the top of a cliff and thrown over, so that they were crushed upon the rocks below.

<sup>13</sup> Meanwhile, the army of Israel that had been sent home raided several of the cities of Judah in the vicinity of Beth-horon, toward Samaria, killing 3,000 people and carrying off great quantities of booty.

<sup>14</sup> When King Amaziah returned from this slaughter of the Edomites, he brought with him idols taken from the people of Seir, and set them up as gods, and bowed before them, and burned incense to them! <sup>15</sup> This made the Lord very angry and he sent a prophet to demand, "Why have you worshiped gods who couldn't even save their own people from you?"

<sup>16</sup> "Since when have I asked your advice?" the king retorted. "Be quiet now, before I have you killed."

The prophet left with this parting warning: "I know that God has determined to destroy you because you have worshiped these idols, and have not accepted my counsel."

<sup>17</sup> King Amaziah of Judah now took the advice of his counselors and declared war on King Joash of Israel (son of Jehoahaz, grandson of Jehu).

<sup>18</sup> King Joash replied with this parable: "Out in the Lebanon mountains a thistle demanded of a cedar tree, 'Give your daughter in marriage to my son.' Just then a wild animal came by and stepped on the thistle, crushing it!" <sup>19</sup> You are very proud about your conquest of Edom, but my advice is to stay home and don't meddle with me, lest you and all Judah get badly hurt."

<sup>25</sup> However, King Amaziah of Judah lived on for fifteen years after the death of King Joash of Israel.

<sup>27</sup> This account includes a report of Amaziah's turning away from God, and how his people conspired against him in Jerusalem, and how he fled to Lachish—but they went after him and killed him there.

<sup>28</sup> And they brought him back on horses to Jerusalem and buried him in the royal cemetery.

26 THE PEOPLE OF Judah now crowned sixteen-year-old Uzziah as their new king. <sup>2</sup> After his father's death, he rebuilt the city of Elath and restored it to Judah. <sup>3</sup> In all, he reigned fifty-two years, in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jecoliah, from Jerusalem. <sup>4</sup> He followed in the footsteps of his father Amaziah, and was, in general, a good king so far as the Lord's opinion of him was concerned.

<sup>5</sup> While Zechariah was alive Uzziah was always eager to please God. Zechariah was a man who had special revelations from God. And as long as the king followed the paths of God, he prospered, for God blessed him. <sup>6</sup> He declared war on the Philistines and captured the city of Gath and broke down its walls, also those of Jabneh and Ashdod. Then he built new cities in the Ashdod area and in other parts of the Philistine country. <sup>7</sup> God helped him not only with his wars against the Philistines but also in his battles with the Arabs of Gurbal and in his wars with the Meunites. <sup>8</sup> The Ammonites paid annual tribute to him, and his fame spread even to Egypt, for he was very powerful.

<sup>9</sup> He built fortified towers in Jerusalem at the Corner Gate, and the Valley Gate, and at the turning of the wall. <sup>10</sup> He also constructed forts in the Negeb, and made many water reservoirs, for he had great herds of cattle out in the valleys and on the plains. He was a man who loved the soil and had many farms and vineyards, both on the hillsides and in the fertile valleys.

regiments to which men were drafted under quotas set by Je-iel, the secretary of the army, and his assistant, Ma-aseiah. The commander-in-chief was General Hanaiah. <sup>12</sup> Twenty-six hundred brave clan leaders commanded these regiments. <sup>13</sup> The army consisted of 307,500 men, all elite troops. <sup>14</sup> Uzziah issued to them shields, spears, helmets, coats of mail, bows, and slingstones. <sup>15</sup> And he produced engines of war manufactured in Jerusalem, invented by brilliant men to shoot arrows and huge stones from the towers and battlements. So he became very famous, for the Lord helped him wonderfully until he was very powerful.

<sup>16</sup> But at that point he became proud—and corrupt. He sinned against the Lord his God by entering the forbidden sanctuary of the Temple and personally burning incense upon the altar. <sup>17,18</sup> Azariah the High Priest went in after him with eighty other priests, all brave men, and demanded that he get out.

"It is not for you, Uzziah, to burn incense," they declared. "That is the work of the priests alone, the sons of Aaron who are consecrated to this work. Get out, for you have trespassed, and the Lord is not going to honor you for this!"

<sup>19</sup> Uzziah was furious, and refused to set down the incense burner he was holding. But look! Suddenly—leprosy appeared in his forehead! <sup>20</sup> When Azariah and the others saw it, they rushed him out; in fact, he himself was as anxious to get out as they were to get him out, because the Lord had struck him.

until the day of his death and lived in isolation, cut off from his people and from the Temple. His son Jotham became vice-regent, in charge of the king's affairs and of the judging of the people of the land.

<sup>22</sup> The other details of Uzziah's reign from first to last are recorded by the prophet Isaiah (son of Amoz). <sup>23</sup> When Uzziah died, he was buried in the royal cemetery even though he was a leper, and his son Jotham became the new king.

27 JOTHAM WAS TWENTY-FIVE years old at the time he became king, and he reigned sixteen years, in Jerusalem. His mother was Jerushah, daughter of Zadok. <sup>2</sup> He followed the generally good example of his father Uzziah—who had, however, sinned by invading the Temple—but even so his people became very corrupt.

<sup>3</sup> He built the Upper Gate of the Temple, and also did extensive rebuilding of the walls on the hill where the Temple was situated. <sup>4</sup> And he built cities in the hill country of Judah, and erected fortresses and towers on the wooded hills.

<sup>5</sup> His war against the Ammonites was successful, so that for the next three years he received from them an annual tribute of $200,000 in silver, 10,000 sacks of wheat, and 10,000 sacks of barley. <sup>6</sup> King Jotham became powerful because he was careful to follow the path of the Lord his God.

<sup>7</sup> The remainder of his history, including his wars and other activities, is written in The Annals of the Kings of Israel and Judah. <sup>8</sup> In summary, then, he was twenty-five years old when he began to reign and he reigned sixteen years, in Jerusalem. <sup>9</sup> When he died, he was buried in Jerusalem, and his son Ahaz became the new king.

28 AHAZ WAS TWENTY years old when he became king and he reigned sixteen years, in Jerusalem. But he was an evil king, unlike his ancestor King David. <sup>2</sup> For he followed the example of the kings over in Israel and worshiped the idols of Baal. <sup>3</sup> He even went out to the Valley of Hinnom, and it was not just to burn incense to the idols, for he even sacrificed his own children in the fire, just like the heathen nations that were thrown out of the land by the Lord to make room for Israel. <sup>4</sup> Yes, he sacrificed and burned incense at the idol shrines on the hills and under every green tree.

<sup>5</sup> That is why the Lord God allowed the king of Syria to defeat him and deport large numbers of his people to Damascus. The armies from Israel also slaughtered great numbers of his troops. <sup>6</sup> On a single day, Pekah, the son of Remaliah, killed 120,000 of his bravest soldiers because they had turned away from the Lord God of their fathers. <sup>7</sup> Then Zichri, a great warrior from Ephraim, killed the king's son Maseiah, and the king's administrator Azrikam, and the king's second-in-command Elkanah. <sup>8</sup> The armies from Israel also captured 200,000 Judean women and children, and tremendous amounts of booty which they took to Samaria.

<sup>9</sup> But Oded, a prophet of the Lord, was there in Samaria and he went out to meet the returning army.

"Look!" he exclaimed. "The Lord God of your fathers was angry with Judah and let you capture them, but you have butchered them without mercy, and all heaven is disturbed. <sup>10</sup> And now are you going to make slaves of these people from Judah and Jerusalem? What about your own sins against the Lord your God? <sup>11</sup> Listen to me and return these relatives of yours to their homes, for now the fierce anger of the Lord is upon you."

<sup>12</sup> Some of the top leaders of Ephraim also added their opposition. These men were Azariah the son of Johanan, Berechiah the son of Meshillemoth, Jehizkiah the son of Shallum, and Amasa the son of Hadlai.

<sup>13</sup> "You must not bring the captives here!" they declared. "If you do, the Lord will be angry, and this sin will be added to our many others. We are in enough trouble with God as it is."

<sup>14</sup> So the army officers turned over the captives and booty to the political leaders to decide what to do. <sup>15</sup> Then the four men already mentioned distributed captured stores of clothing to the women and children who needed it, and gave them shoes, food, and wine, and put those who were sick and old on donkeys, and took them back to their families in Jericho, the City of Palm Trees. Then their escorts returned to Samaria.

<sup>16</sup> About that time King Ahaz of Judah asked the king of Assyria to be his ally in his war against the armies of Edom. For Edom was invading Judah and capturing many people as slaves. <sup>17,18</sup> Meanwhile, the Philistines had invaded the lowland cities and the Negeb and had already captured Beth-shemesh, Aijalon, Gederoth, Soco, Timnah, and Gimzo with their surrounding villages, and were living there.<sup>19</sup> For the Lord brought Judah very low on account of the evil deeds of King Ahaz of Israel,<sup>a</sup> for he had destroyed the spiritual fiber of Judah and had been faithless to the Lord.<sup>20</sup> But when Tilgath-pilneser, king of Assyria, arrived, he caused trouble for King Ahaz instead of helping him.<sup>21</sup> So even though Ahaz had given him the Temple gold and the palace treasures, it did no good.

<sup>22</sup> In this time of deep trial, King Ahaz collapsed spiritually.<sup>23</sup> He sacrificed to the gods of the people of Damascus who had defeated him, for he felt that since these gods had helped the kings of Syria, they would help him too if he sacrificed to them. But instead, they were his ruin, and that of all his people.<sup>24</sup> The king took the gold bowls from the Temple and slashed them to pieces, and nailed the door of the Temple shut so that no one could worship there, and made altars to the heathen gods in every corner of Jerusalem.<sup>25</sup> And he did the same in every city of Judah, thus angering the Lord God of his fathers.

<sup>26</sup> The other details of his life and activities are recorded in The Annals of the Kings of Judah and Israel.<sup>27</sup> When King Ahaz died, he was buried in Jerusalem but not in the royal tombs, and his son Hezekiah became the new king.

29 HEZEKIAH WAS TWENTY-FIVE years old when he became the king of Judah, and he reigned twenty-nine years, in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Abijah, the daughter of Zechariah.<sup>2</sup> His reign was a good one in the Lord's opinion, just as his ancestor David's had been.

<sup>3</sup> In the very first month of the first year of his reign, he reopened the doors of the Temple and repaired them.<sup>4</sup> He summoned the priests and Levites to meet him at the open space east of the Temple, and addressed them thus:

"Listen to me, you Levites. Sanctify yourselves and sanctify the Temple of the Lord God of your ancestors—clean all the debris from the holy place.<sup>6</sup> For our fathers have committed a deep sin before the Lord our God; they abandoned the Lord and his Temple and turned their backs on it.<sup>7</sup> The doors have been shut tight, the perpetual flame has been put out, and the incense and burnt offerings have not been offered.<sup>8</sup> Therefore the wrath of the Lord has been upon Judah and Jerusalem. He has caused us to be objects of horror, amazement, and contempt, as you see us today.<sup>9</sup> Our fathers have been killed in war, and our sons and daughters and wives are in captivity because of this.

<sup>10</sup> "But now I want to make a covenant with the Lord God of Israel so that his fierce anger will turn away from us.<sup>11</sup> My children, don't neglect your duties any longer, for the Lord has chosen you to minister to him and to burn incense."

<sup>12,13,14</sup> Then the Levites went into action:

From the Kohath clan, Mahath (son of Amasai)
and Joel (son of Azariah);

From the Merari clan, Kish
(son of Abdi) and Azariah (son of Jehallelel);

From the Gershon clan, Joah (son of Zimmah) and Eden (son of Joah).

From the Elizaphan clan, Shimri and Jeuel;

From the Asaph clan, Zechariah and Mattaniah;

From the Hemanite clan,
Jehuel and Shime-i;

From the Jeduthun clan, Shemaiah and Uzziel.

<sup>15</sup> They in turn summoned their fellow Levites and sanctified themselves, and began to clean up and sanctify the Temple, as the king (who was speaking for the Lord) had commanded them. <sup>16</sup> The priests cleaned up the inner room of the Temple, and brought out into the court all the filth and decay they found there. The Levites then carted it out to the brook Kidron.

<sup>17</sup> This all began on the first day of April, and by the eighth day they had reached the outer court, which took eight days to clean up, so the entire job was completed in sixteen days.

<sup>18</sup> Then they went back to the palace and reported to King Hezekiah, "We have completed the cleansing of the Temple and of the altar of burnt offerings and of its accessories, also the table of the Bread of the Presence and its equipment. <sup>19</sup> What's more, we have recovered and sanctified all the utensils thrown away by King Ahaz when he closed the Temple. They are beside the altar of the Lord."

<sup>20</sup> Early the next morning, King Hezekiah went to the Temple with the city officials, <sup>21</sup> taking seven young bulls, seven rams, seven lambs, and seven male goats for a sin offering for the nation and for the Temple.

He instructed the priests, the sons of Aaron, to sacrifice them on the altar of the Lord. <sup>22</sup> So they killed the young bulls, and the priests took the blood and sprinkled it on the altar, and they killed the rams and sprinkled their blood upon the altar, and did the same with the lambs. <sup>23</sup> The male goats for the sin offering were then brought before the king and his officials, who laid their hands upon them.

<sup>24</sup> Then the priests killed the animals and made a sin offering with their blood upon the altar, to make atonement for all Israel as the king had commanded—for the king had specified that the burnt offering and sin offering must be sacrificed for the entire nation.

<sup>25,26</sup> He organized Levites at the Temple into an orchestral group, using cymbals, psalteries, and harps. This was in accordance with the directions of David and the prophets Gad and Nathan—who had received their instructions from the Lord. The priests formed a trumpet corps. <sup>27</sup> Then Hezekiah ordered the burnt offering to be placed upon the altar, and as the sacrifice began, the instruments of music began to play the songs of the Lord, accompanied by the trumpets. <sup>28</sup> Throughout the entire ceremony everyone worshiped the Lord as the singers sang and the trumpets blew.<sup>29</sup> Afterwards the king and his aides bowed low before the Lord in worship.<sup>30</sup> Then King Hezekiah ordered the Levites to sing before the Lord some of the psalms of David and of the prophet Asaph, which they gladly did, and bowed their heads and worshiped.

<sup>31</sup> "The consecration ceremony is now ended," Hezekiah said. "Now bring your sacrifices and thank offerings." So the people from every part of the nation brought their sacrifices and thank offerings, and those who wished to, brought burnt offerings too.<sup>32,33</sup> In all, there were 70 young bulls for burnt offerings, 100 rams, and 200 lambs. In addition, 600 oxen and 3,000 sheep were brought as holy gifts.<sup>34</sup> But there were too few priests to prepare the burnt offerings, so their brothers the Levites helped them until the work was finished—and until more priests had reported to work—for the Levites were much more ready to sanctify themselves than the priests were.<sup>35</sup> There was an abundance of burnt offerings, and the usual drink offering with each, and many peace offerings. So it was that the Temple was restored to service, and the sacrifices offered again.<sup>36</sup> And Hezekiah and all the people were very happy because of what God had accomplished so quickly.

30 KING HEZEKIAH NOW sent letters throughout all of Israel, Judah, Ephraim, and Manasseh, inviting everyone to come to the Temple at Jerusalem for the annual Passover celebration.<sup>23</sup> The king, his aides, and all the assembly of Jerusalem had voted to celebrate the Passover in May this time, rather than at the normal time in April, because not enough priests were sanctified at the earlier date, and there wasn't enough time to get notices out.<sup>4</sup> The king and his advisors were in complete agreement in this matter,<sup>5</sup> so they sent a Passover proclamation throughout Israel, from Dan to Beer-sheba, inviting everyone. They had not kept it in great numbers as prescribed.<sup>6</sup>

<sup>6</sup> "Come back to the Lord God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel," the king's letter said, "so that he will return to us who have escaped from the power of the kings of Assyria.<sup>7</sup> Do not be like your fathers and brothers who sinned against the Lord God of their fathers and were destroyed.<sup>8</sup> Do not be stubborn, as they were, but yield yourselves to the Lord and come to his Temple which he has sanctified forever, and worship the Lord your God so that his fierce anger will turn away from you.<sup>9</sup> For if you turn to the Lord again, your brothers and your children will be treated mercifully by their captors, and they will be able to return to this land. For the Lord your God is full of kindness and mercy and will not continue to turn away his face from you if you return to him."

<sup>10</sup> So the messengers went from city to city throughout Ephraim a Or, "The Passover had not been celebrated by the northern tribe of Israel for a long time; only a faithful few had been doing it in the proper way."

and Manasseh and as far as Zebulun. But for the most part they were received with laughter and scorn!

<sup>11</sup> However, some from the tribes of Asher, Manasseh, and Zebulun turned to God and came to Jerusalem. <sup>12</sup> But in Judah the entire nation felt a strong, God-given desire to obey the Lord's direction as commanded by the king and his officers. <sup>13</sup> And so it was that a very large crowd assembled at Jerusalem in the month of May for the Passover celebration. <sup>14</sup> They set to work and destroyed the heathen altars in Jerusalem, and knocked down all the incense altars, and threw them into Kidron Brook.

<sup>15</sup> On the first day of May the people killed their Passover lambs. Then the priests and Levites became ashamed of themselves for not taking a more active part, so they sanctified themselves and brought burnt offerings into the Temple. <sup>16</sup> They stood at their posts as instructed by the law of Moses the man of God; and the priests sprinkled the blood received from the Levites.

<sup>17,18,19</sup> Since many of the people arriving from Ephraim, Manasseh, Issachar, and Zebulun were ceremonially impure because they had not undergone the purification rites, the Levites killed their Passover lambs for them, to sanctify them. Then King Hezekiah prayed for them and they were permitted to eat the Passover anyway, even though this was contrary to God's rules. But Hezekiah said, "May the good Lord pardon everyone who determines to follow the Lord God of his fathers, even though he is not properly sanctified for the ceremony." <sup>20</sup> And the Lord listened to Hezekiah's prayer and did not destroy them.

<sup>21</sup> So the people of Israel celebrated the Passover at Jerusalem for seven days with great joy.

Meanwhile the Levites and priests praised the Lord with music and cymbals day after day. <sup>22</sup> (King Hezekiah spoke very appreciatively to the Levites of their excellent music.)

So, for seven days the observance continued, and peace offerings were sacrificed, and the people confessed their sins to the Lord God of their fathers. <sup>23</sup> The enthusiasm continued, so it was unanimously decided to continue the observance for another seven days. <sup>24</sup> King Hezekiah gave the people 1,000 young bulls for offerings, and 7,000 sheep; and the princes donated 1,000 young bulls and 10,000 sheep. And at this time another large group of priests stepped forward and sanctified themselves.

<sup>25</sup> Then the people of Judah, together with the priests, the Levites, the foreign residents, and the visitors from Israel, were filled with deep joy. <sup>26</sup> For Jerusalem hadn't seen a celebration like this one since the days of King David's son Solomon. <sup>27</sup> Then the priests and Levites stood and blessed the people, and the Lord heard their prayers from his holy temple in heaven.

31 AFTERWARDS A MASSIVE campaign against idol worship was begun. Those who were at Jerusalem for the Passover went out to the cities of Judah, Benjamin, Ephraim, and Manasseh and tore down the idol altars, the obelisks, shame-images, and other heathen centers of worship. Then the people who had come to the Passover from the northern tribes returned again to their own homes.

<sup>2</sup> Hezekiah now organized the priests and Levites into service corps to offer the burnt offerings and peace offerings, and to worship and give thanks and praise to the Lord. <sup>3</sup> He also made a personal contribution of animals for the daily morning and evening burnt offerings, as well as for the weekly Sabbath and monthly new moon festivals, and for the other annual feasts as required in the law of God.

<sup>4</sup> In addition, he required the people in Jerusalem to bring their tithes to the priests and Levites, so that they wouldn't need other employment but could apply themselves fully to their duties as required in the law of God. <sup>5,6</sup> The people responded immediately and generously with the first of their crops and grain, new wine, olive oil, money, and everything else—a tithe of all they owned, as required by law to be given to the Lord their God. Everything was laid out in great piles. The people who had moved to Judah from the northern tribes and the people of Judah living in the provinces also brought in the tithes of their cattle and sheep, and brought a tithe of the dedicated things to give to the Lord and piled them up in great heaps. <sup>7,8</sup> The first of these tithes arrived in June, and the piles continued to grow until October. When Hezekiah and his officials came and saw these huge piles, how they blessed the Lord and praised his people!

<sup>9</sup> "Where did all this come from?" Hezekiah asked the priests and Levites.

<sup>10</sup> And Azariah the High Priest from the clan of Zadok replied, "These are tithes! We have been eating from these stores of food for many weeks, but all this is left over, for the Lord has blessed his people."

<sup>11</sup> Hezekiah decided to prepare storerooms in the Temple. <sup>12,13</sup> All the dedicated supplies were brought into the Lord's house. Conaniah, the Levite, was put in charge, assisted by his brother Shime-i and the following aides:

Jehiel, Azariah, Nahath,
Asahel, Jerimoth, Jozabad,
Eliel, Ismachiah, Mahath, Benaiah.

These appointments were made by King Hezekiah and Azariah the High Priest.

<sup>14,15</sup> Kore (son of Imnah, the Levite), who was the gatekeeper at the East Gate, was put in charge of distributing the offerings to the priests. His faithful assistants were Eden, Miniamin, Jeshua, Shemaiah, Amariah, and Shecaniah. They distributed the gifts to the clans of priests in their cities, dividing it to young and old alike. <sup>16</sup> However, the priests on duty at the Temple and their families<sup>a</sup> were supplied directly from there, so they were not included in this distribution. <sup>17,18</sup> The priests were listed in the genealogical register by clans, and the Levites twenty years old and older were listed under the names of their work corps. A regular food allotment was given to all families of properly registered priests, for they had no other source of income because their time and energies were devoted to the service of the Temple. <sup>19</sup> One of the priests was appointed in each of the cities of the priests to issue food and other supplies to all priests in the area, and to all registered Levites.

<sup>20</sup> In this way King Hezekiah handled the distribution throughout all Judah, doing what was just and fair in the sight of the Lord his God. <sup>21</sup> He worked very hard to encourage respect for the Temple, the law, and godly living, and was very successful.

32 SOME TIME LATER, after this good work of King Hezekiah, King Sennacherib of Assyria invaded Judah and laid siege to the fortified cities, planning to place them under tribute. <sup>1</sup> When it was clear that Sennacherib was intending to attack Jerusalem, <sup>2</sup> Hezekiah summoned his princes and officers for a council of war, and it was decided to plug the springs outside the city. <sup>3</sup> They organized a huge work crew to block them, and to cut off the brook running through the fields.

"Why should the king of Assyria come and find water?" they asked.

<sup>4</sup> Then Hezekiah further strengthened his defenses by repairing the wall wherever it was broken down and by adding to the fortifications, and constructing a second wall outside it. He also reinforced Fort Millo in the City of David, and manufactured large numbers of weapons and shields. <sup>5</sup> He recruited an army and appointed officers and summoned them to the plains before the city, and encouraged them with this address:

<sup>7</sup> "Be strong, be brave, and do not be afraid of the king of Assyria or his mighty army, for there is someone with us who is far greater than he is! <sup>8</sup> He has a great army, but they are all mere men, while we have the Lord our God to fight our battles for us!" This greatly encouraged them.

<sup>9</sup> Then King Sennacherib of Assyria, while still besieging the city of Lachish, sent ambassadors with this message to King Hezekiah and the citizens of Jerusalem:

<sup>10</sup> "King Sennacherib of Assyria asks, 'Do you think you can survive my siege of Jerusalem? <sup>11</sup> King Hezekiah is trying to persuade you to commit suicide by staying there—to die by famine and thirst—while he promises that "the Lord our God will deliver us from the king of Assyria"! <sup>12</sup> Don't you realize that Hezekiah is the very person who destroyed all the idols, and commanded Judah and Jerusalem to use only the one altar at the Temple, and to burn incense upon it alone? <sup>13</sup> Don't you realize that I and the other kings of Assyria before me have never yet failed to conquer a nation we attacked? The gods of those nations weren't able to do a thing to save their lands! <sup>14</sup> Name just one time when anyone, anywhere, was able to resist us successfully. What makes you think your God can do any better? <sup>15</sup> Don't let Hezekiah fool you! Don't believe him. I say it again—no god of any nation has ever yet been able to rescue his people from me or my ancestors; how much less your God!" "16 Thus the ambassador mocked the Lord God and God's servant Hezekiah, heaping up insults.

17 King Sennacherib also sent letters scorning the Lord God of Israel.

"The gods of all the other nations failed to save their people from my hand, and the God of Hezekiah will fail, too," he wrote.

18 The messengers who brought the letters shouted threats in the Jewish language to the people gathered on the walls of the city, trying to frighten and dishearten them.

19 These messengers talked about the God of Jerusalem just as though he were one of the heathen gods—a handmade idol!

20 Then King Hezekiah and Isaiah the prophet (son of Amoz) cried out in prayer to God in heaven, 21 and the Lord sent an angel who destroyed the Assyrian army with all its officers and generals! So Sennacherib returned home in deep shame to his own land. And when he arrived at the temple of his god, some of his own sons killed him there. 22 That is how the Lord saved Hezekiah and the people of Jerusalem. And now there was peace at last throughout his realm.

23 From then on King Hezekiah became immensely respected among the surrounding nations, and many gifts for the Lord arrived at Jerusalem, with valuable presents for King Hezekiah, too.

24 But about that time Hezekiah became deathly sick, and he prayed to the Lord, and the Lord replied with a miracle. 25 However, Hezekiah didn't respond with true thanksgiving and praise, for he had become proud, and so the anger of God was upon him and upon Judah and Jerusalem.

26 But finally Hezekiah and the residents of Jerusalem humbled themselves, so the wrath of the Lord did not fall upon them during Hezekiah's lifetime.

27 So Hezekiah became very wealthy and was highly honored. He had to construct special treasury buildings for his silver, gold, precious stones, and spices, and for his shields and gold bowls. 28,29 He also built many storehouses for his grain, new wine, and olive oil, with many stalls for his animals, and folds for the great flocks of sheep and goats he purchased; and he acquired many towns, for God had given him great wealth. 30 He dammed up the Upper Spring of Gihon and brought the water down through an aqueduct to the west side of the City of David sector in Jerusalem. He prospered in everything he did.

31 However, when ambassadors arrived from Babylon to find out about the miracle of his being healed, God left him to himself in order to test him and to see what he was really like.

32 The rest of the story of Hezekiah and all of the good things he did are written in The Book of Isaiah (the prophet, the son of Amoz), and in The Annals of the Kings of Judah and Israel. 33 When Hezekiah died he was buried in the royal hillside cemetery among the other kings, and all Judah and Jerusalem honored him at his death. Then his son Manasseh became the new king.

33 MANASSEH WAS ONLY twelve years old when he became king, and he reigned fifty-five years, in Jerusalem. <sup>2</sup> But it was an evil reign, for he encouraged his people to worship the idols of the heathen nations destroyed by the Lord when the people of Israel entered the land. <sup>3</sup> He rebuilt the heathen altars his father Hezekiah had destroyed—the altars of Baal, and of the shame-images, and of the sun, moon, and stars. <sup>4</sup> He even constructed heathen altars in both courts of the Temple of the Lord, for worshiping the sun, moon and stars—in the very place where the Lord had said that he would be honored forever. <sup>5</sup> And Manasseh sacrificed his own children as burnt offerings in the Valley of Hinnom. He consulted spirit-mediums, too, and fortune-tellers and sorcerers, and encouraged every sort of evil, making the Lord very angry.

<sup>7</sup> Think of it! He placed an idol in the very Temple of God, where God had told David and his son Solomon, "I will be honored here in this Temple, and in Jerusalem—the city I have chosen to be honored forever above all the other cities of Israel. <sup>8</sup> And if you will only obey my commands—all the laws and instructions given to you by Moses—I won't ever again exile Israel from this land which I gave your ancestors."

<sup>9</sup> But Manasseh encouraged the people of Judah and Jerusalem to do even more evil than the nations the Lord destroyed when Israel entered the land. <sup>10</sup> Warnings from the Lord were ignored by both Manasseh and his people. <sup>11</sup> So God sent the Assyrian armies, and they seized him with hooks and bound him with bronze chains and carted him away to Babylon. <sup>12</sup> Then at last he came to his senses and cried out humbly to God for help. <sup>13</sup> And the Lord listened, and answered his plea by returning him to Jerusalem and to his kingdom! At that point Manasseh finally realized that the Lord was really God!

<sup>14</sup> It was after this that he rebuilt the outer wall of the City of David and the wall from west of the Spring of Gihon in the Kidron Valley, and then to the Fish Gate, and around Citadel Hill, where it was built very high. And he stationed his army generals in all of the fortified cities of Judah. <sup>15</sup> He also removed the foreign gods from the hills and took his idol from the Temple and tore down the altars he had built on the mountain where the Temple stood, and the altars that were in Jerusalem, and dumped them outside the city. <sup>16</sup> Then he rebuilt the altar of the Lord and offered sacrifices upon it—peace offerings and thanksgiving offerings—and demanded that the people of Judah worship the Lord God of Israel. <sup>17</sup> However, the people still sacrificed upon the altars on the hills, but only to the Lord their God.

<sup>18</sup> The rest of Manasseh's deeds, and his prayer to God, and God's reply through the prophets—this is all written in The Annals of the Kings of Israel. <sup>19</sup> His prayer, and the way God answered, and a frank account of his sins and errors, including a list of the locations where he built idols on the hills and set up shame-idols and graven images (this of course was before the great change in his attitude) is recorded in The Annals of the Prophets.

<sup>20,21</sup> When Manasseh died he was buried beneath his own palace, and his son Amon became the new king. Amon was twenty-two years old when he began to reign in Jerusalem, but he lasted for only two years. <sup>22</sup> It was an evil reign like the early years of his father Manasseh; for Amon sacrificed to all the idols just as his father had. <sup>23</sup> But he didn't change as his father did; instead he sinned more and more. <sup>24</sup> At last his own officers assassinated him in his palace. <sup>25</sup> But some public-spirited citizens killed all of those who assassinated him, and declared his son Josiah to be the new king.

34 JOSIAH WAS ONLY eight years old when he became king. He reigned thirty-one years, in Jerusalem. <sup>2</sup> His was a good reign, as he carefully followed the good example of his ancestor King David. <sup>3</sup> For when he was sixteen years old, in the eighth year of his reign, he began to search for the God of his ancestor David; and four years later he began to clean up Judah and Jerusalem, destroying the heathen altars and the shame-idols on the hills. <sup>4</sup> He went out personally to watch as the altars of Baal were knocked apart, the obelisks above the altars chopped down, and the shame-idols ground into dust and scattered over the graves of those who had sacrificed to them. <sup>5</sup> Then he burned the bones of the heathen priests upon their own altars, feeling that this action would clear the people of Judah and Jerusalem from the guilt of their sin of idol-worship.

<sup>6</sup> Then he went to the cities of Manasseh, Ephraim, and Simeon, even to distant Naphtali, and did the same thing there. <sup>7</sup> He broke down the heathen altars, ground to powder the shame-idols, and chopped down the obelisks. He did this everywhere throughout the whole land of Israel before returning to Jerusalem.

<sup>8</sup> During the eighteenth year of his reign, after he had purged the land and cleaned up the situation at the Temple, he appointed Shaphan (son of Azaliah) and Ma-aseiah, governor of Jerusalem, and Joah (son of Joahaz), the city treasurer, to repair the Temple. <sup>9</sup> They set up a collection system for gifts for the Temple. The money was collected at the Temple gates by the Levites on guard duty there. Gifts were brought by the people coming from Manasseh, Ephraim, and other parts of the remnant of Israel, as well as from the people of Jerusalem. The money was taken to Hilkiah the High Priest for accounting, <sup>10,11</sup> and then used by the Levites to pay the carpenters and stonemasons, and to purchase building materials—stone building blocks, timber, lumber, and beams. He now rebuilt what earlier kings of Judah had torn down.

<sup>12</sup> The workmen were energetic under the leadership of Jahath and Obadiah, Levites of the subclan of Merari. Zechariah and Meshullam, of the subclan of Kohath, were the building superintendents. The Levites who were skilled musicians played background music while the work progressed. <sup>13</sup> Other Levites superintended the unskilled laborers who carried in the materials to the workmen. Still others assisted as accountants, supervisors, and carriers.

<sup>14</sup> One day when Hilkiyah, the High Priest, was at the Temple recording the money collected at the gates, he found an old scroll which turned out to be the laws of God as given to Moses!

<sup>15,16</sup> "Look!" Hilkiyah exclaimed to Shaphan, the king's secretary. "See what I have found in the Temple! These are the laws of God!" Hilkiyah gave the scroll to Shaphan, and Shaphan took it to the king, along with his report that there was good progress being made in the reconstruction of the Temple.

<sup>17</sup> "The money chests have been opened and counted, and the money has been put into the hand of the overseers and workmen," he said to the king.

<sup>18</sup> Then he mentioned the scroll, and how Hilkiyah had discovered it. So he read it to the king. <sup>19</sup> When the king heard what these laws required of God's people, he ripped his clothing in despair, <sup>20</sup> and summoned Hilkiyah, Ahikam (son of Shaphan), Abdon (son of Micah), Shaphan the treasurer, and Asaiah, the king's personal aide.

<sup>21</sup> "Go to the Temple and plead with the Lord for me!" the king told them. "Pray for all the remnant of Israel and Judah! For this scroll says that the reason the Lord's great anger has been poured out upon us is that our ancestors have not obeyed these laws that are written here."

<sup>22</sup> So the men went to Huldah the prophetess, the wife of Shallum (son of Tokhath, son of Hasrah). (Shallum was the king's tailor, living in the second ward.) When they told her of the king's trouble, <sup>23</sup> she replied, "The Lord God of Israel says, Tell the man who sent you,

<sup>24</sup> "Yes, the Lord will destroy this city and its people. All the curses written in the scroll will come true. <sup>25</sup> For my people have forsaken me and have worshiped heathen gods, and I am very angry with them for their deeds. Therefore, my unquenchable wrath is poured out upon this place."

<sup>26</sup> "But the Lord also says this to the king of Judah who sent you to ask me about this: Tell him, the Lord God of Israel says, <sup>27</sup> 'Because you are sorry and have humbled yourself before God when you heard my words against this city and its people, and have ripped your clothing in despair and wept before me—I have heard you, says the Lord, <sup>28</sup> and I will not send the promised evil upon this city and its people until after your death.' " So they brought back to the king this word from the Lord. <sup>29</sup> Then the king summoned all the elders of Judah and Jerusalem, <sup>30</sup> and the priests and Levites and all the people great and small, to accompany him to the Temple. There the king read the scroll to them—the covenant of God that was found in the Temple. <sup>31</sup> As the king stood before them, he made a pledge to the Lord to follow his commandments with all his heart and soul, and to do what was written in the scroll. <sup>32</sup> And he required everyone in Jerusalem and Benjamin to subscribe to this pact with God, and all of them did.

Jews, and required all of them to worship Jehovah their God. And throughout the remainder of his lifetime they continued serving Jehovah, the God of their ancestors.

35 THEN JOSIAH ANNOUNCED that the Passover would be celebrated on the first day of April, in Jerusalem. The Passover lambs were slain that evening. <sup>1</sup> He also reestablished the priests in their duties, and encouraged them to begin their work at the Temple again. <sup>2</sup> He issued this order to the sanctified Levites, the religious teachers in Israel:

"Since the Ark is now in Solomon's Temple and you don't need to carry it back and forth upon your shoulders, spend your time ministering to the Lord and to his people. <sup>3</sup> Form yourselves into the traditional service corps of your ancestors, as first organized by King David of Israel and by his son Solomon. Each corps will assist particular clans of the people who bring in their offerings to the Temple. <sup>4</sup> Kill the Passover lambs and sanctify yourselves and prepare to assist the people who come. Follow all of the instructions of the Lord through Moses."

<sup>5</sup> Then the king contributed 30,000 lambs and young goats for the people's Passover offerings, and 3,000 young bulls. <sup>6</sup> The king's officials made willing contributions to the priests and Levites. Hilkiah, Zechariah, and Jehiel, the overseers of the Temple, gave the priests 2,600 sheep and goats, and 300 oxen as Passover offerings. <sup>7</sup> The Levite leaders—Conaniah, Shem-ariah, and Nethanel, and his brothers Hashabiah, Je-iel, and Jozabad—gave 5,000 sheep and goats and 500 oxen to the Levites for their Passover offerings.

<sup>10</sup> When everything was organized, and the priests were standing in their places, and the Levites were formed into service corps as the king had instructed, <sup>11</sup> then the Levites killed the Passover lambs and presented the blood to the priests, who sprinkled it upon the altar as the Levites removed the skins. <sup>12</sup> They piled up the carcasses for each tribe to present its own burnt sacrifices to the Lord, as it is written in the law of Moses. They did the same with the oxen. <sup>13</sup> Then, as directed by the laws of Moses, they roasted the Passover lambs and boiled the holy offerings in pots, kettles, and pans, and hurried them out to the people to eat. <sup>14</sup> Afterwards the Levites prepared a meal for themselves and for the priests, for they had been busy from morning till night offering the fat of the burnt offerings.

<sup>17</sup> Everyone present in Jerusalem took part in the Passover observance, and this was followed by the Feast of Unleavened Bread for the next seven days.<sup>18</sup> Never since the time of Samuel the prophet had there been such a Passover—not one of the kings of Israel could vie with King Josiah in this respect, involving so many of the priests, Levites, and people from Jerusalem and from all parts of Judah, and from over in Israel.<sup>19</sup> This all happened in the eighteenth year of the reign of Josiah.<sup>20</sup> Afterwards King Neco of Egypt led his army [against the Assyrians<sup>a</sup>] at Carchemish on the Euphrates River, and Josiah declared war on him.

<sup>21</sup> But King Neco sent ambassadors to Josiah with this message: "I don't want a fight with you, O king of Judah! I have come only to fight the king of Assyria<sup>b</sup>. Leave me alone! God has told me to hurry! Don't meddle with God or he will destroy you, for he is with me."

<sup>22</sup> But Josiah refused to turn back. Instead he led his army into the battle at the Valley of Megiddo. (He laid aside his royal robes so that the enemy wouldn't recognize him.) Josiah refused to believe that Neco's message was from God.<sup>23</sup> The enemy archers struck King Josiah with their arrows and fatally wounded him.

"Take me out of the battle," he exclaimed to his aides.

<sup>24,25</sup> So they lifted him out of his chariot and placed him in his second chariot and brought him back to Jerusalem where he died. He was buried there, in the royal cemetery. And all Judah and Jerusalem, including even Jeremiah the prophet, mourned for him, as did the Temple choirs.

To this day they still sing sad songs about his death, for these songs of sorrow were recorded among the official lamentations.

<sup>26</sup> The other activities of Josiah, and his good deeds, and how he followed the laws of the Lord,<sup>27</sup> all are written in The Annals of the Kings of Israel and Judah.

36 JOSIAH'S SON JEHOAHAZ was selected as the new king.<sup>2</sup> He was twenty-three years old when he began to reign, but lasted only three months.<sup>3</sup> Then he was deposed by the king of Egypt, who demanded an annual tribute from Judah of $250,000.

<sup>4</sup> The king of Egypt now appointed Eliakim, the brother of Jehoahaz, as the new king of Judah. (Eliakim's name was changed to Jehoiakim.) Jehoahaz was taken to Egypt as a prisoner.<sup>5</sup> Jehoiakim was twenty-five years old when he became king, and he reigned eleven years, in Jerusalem; but his reign was an evil one.<sup>6</sup> Finally Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon conquered Jerusalem, and took away the king in chains to Babylon.<sup>7</sup> Nebuchadnezzar also took some of the golden bowls and other items from the Temple, placing them in his own temple in Babylon.<sup>8</sup> The rest of the deeds of Jehoiakim, and all the evil he did, are written in The Annals of the Kings of Judah; and his son Jehoiachin became the new king.

when he ascended the throne. But he lasted only three months and ten days, and it was an evil reign as far as the Lord was concerned. <sup>10</sup> The following spring he was summoned to Babylon by King Nebuchadnezzar. Many treasures from the Temple were taken away to Babylon at that time, and King Nebuchadnezzar appointed Jehoiachin's brother Zedekiah as the new king of Judah and Jerusalem.

<sup>11</sup> Zedekiah was twenty-one years old when he became king and he reigned eleven years, in Jerusalem. <sup>12</sup> His reign, too, was evil so far as the Lord was concerned, for he refused to take the counsel of Jeremiah the prophet, who gave him messages from the Lord. <sup>13</sup> He rebelled against King Nebuchadnezzar, even though he had taken an oath of loyalty. Zedekiah was a hard and stubborn man so far as obeying the Lord God of Israel was concerned, for he refused to follow him.

<sup>17</sup> Then the Lord brought the king of Babylon against them and killed their young men, even going after them right into the Temple, and had no pity upon them, killing even young girls and old men. The Lord used the king of Babylon to destroy them completely. <sup>18</sup> He also took home with him all the items, great and small, used in the Temple, and treasures from both the Temple and the palace, and took with him all the royal princes. <sup>19</sup> Then his army burned the Temple and broke down the walls of Jerusalem and burned all the palaces and destroyed all the valuable Temple utensils. <sup>20</sup> Those who survived were taken away to Babylon as slaves to the king and his sons until the kingdom of Persia conquered Babylon.

<sup>21</sup> Thus the word of the Lord spoken through Jeremiah came true, that the land must rest for seventy years to make up for the years when the people refused to observe the Sabbath.

<sup>22,23</sup> But in the first year of King Cyrus of Persia, the Lord stirred up the spirit of Cyrus to make this proclamation throughout his kingdom, putting it into writing:

"All the kingdoms of the earth have been given to me by the Lord God of heaven, and he has instructed me to build him a Temple in Jerusalem, in the land of Judah. All among you who are the Lord's people, return to Israel for this task, and the Lord be with you."

This also fulfilled the prediction of Jeremiah the prophet.

EZRA

1 DURING THE FIRST year of the reign of King Cyrus of Persia, the Lord fulfilled Jeremiah's prophecy<sup>a</sup> by giving King Cyrus the desire to send this proclamation throughout his empire (he also put it into the permanent records of the realm):

<sup>2</sup> "Cyrus, king of Persia, hereby announces that Jehovah, the God of heaven who gave me my vast empire, has now given me the responsibility of building him a Temple in Jerusalem, in the land of Judah. <sup>3</sup> All Jews throughout the kingdom may now return to Jerusalem to rebuild this Temple of Jehovah, who is the God of Israel and of Jerusalem. May his blessings rest upon you. <sup>4</sup> Those Jews<sup>b</sup> who do not go should contribute toward the expenses of those who do, and also supply them with clothing, transportation, supplies for the journey, and a freewill offering for the Temple."

<sup>5</sup> Then God gave a great desire to the leaders of the tribes of Judah and Benjamin, and to the priests and Levites, to return to Jerusalem at once to rebuild the Temple. <sup>6</sup> And all the Jewish exiles<sup>b</sup> who chose to remain in Persia gave them whatever assistance they could, as well as gifts for the Temple.

<sup>7</sup> King Cyrus himself donated the gold bowls and other valuable items which King Nebuchadnezzar had taken from the Temple at Jerusalem and had placed in the temple of his own gods. <sup>8</sup> He instructed Mithredath, the treasurer of Persia, to present these gifts to Shesh-bazzar, the leader of the exiles returning to Judah.

<sup>9,10</sup> The items Cyrus donated included:

- 1,000 gold trays,
- 1,000 silver trays,
- 29 censers,
- 30 bowls of solid gold,
- 2,410 silver bowls (of various designs),
- 1,000 miscellaneous items.

<sup>11</sup> In all there were 5,469 gold and silver items turned over to Shesh-bazzar to take back to Jerusalem.

 clan of Hodaviah, 74;
 The choir members from the clan of Asaph, 128;
 From the descendants of the gatekeepers (the families of Shallum, Ater, Tal-mon, Akkub, Hatita, and Shobai), 139.

<sup>43-54</sup> The following families of the Temple assistants were represented:

Ziha, Hasupha, Tabbaoth, Keros, Siaha, Padon,
 Lebanah, Hagabah, Akkub,
 Hagab, Shamlai, Hanan,
 Giddel, Gahar, Re-aiah,

Nephisim, Bakbuk,
Hakupha, Harhur, Bazluth,
Mehida, Harsha, Barkos,
Sisera, Temah,
Neziah, Hatipha.

<sup>33,34,37</sup> Those who made the trip also included the descendants of King Solomon's officials:

Sotai, Hassophereth,
Peruda, Jaalah, Darkon,
Giddel, Shephatiah, Hattil, Pochereth-hazzebaim, Ami.

<sup>39</sup> Another group returned to Jerusalem at this time from the Persian cities of Tel-melah, Tel-harsha, Cherub, Addan, and Immer. However, they had lost their genealogies and could not prove that they were really Israelites. <sup>40</sup> This group included the subclans of Delaiah, Tobiah, and Nekoda—a total of 652.

<sup>41</sup> Three subclans of priests—Habaiah, Hakkoz, and Barzillai (he married one of the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite and took her family name)—also returned to Jerusalem. <sup>42,43</sup> But they too had lost their genealogies, so the leaders refused to allow them to continue as priests; they would not even allow them to eat the priests' share of food from the sacrifices until the Urim and Thummim could be consulted, to find out from God whether they actually were descendants of priests or not.

<sup>44,45</sup> So a total of 42,360 persons returned to Judah; in addition to 7,337 slaves and 200 choir members, both men and women.

<sup>48</sup> Some of the leaders were able to give generously toward the rebuilding of the Temple, <sup>49</sup> and each gave as much as he could. The total value of their gifts amounted to $300,000 of gold, $170,000 of silver, and 100 robes for the priests.

<sup>50</sup> So the priests and Levites and some of the common people settled in Jerusalem and its nearby villages; and the singers, the gatekeepers, the Temple workers, and the rest of the people returned to the other cities of Judah from which they had come.

3 DURING THE MONTH of September everyone who had returned to Judah came to Jerusalem from their homes in the other towns. Then Jeshua (son of Jozadak) with his fellow priests, and Zerubbabel (son of She-alti-el) and his clan, rebuilt the altar of the God of Israel; and sacrificed burnt offerings upon it, as instructed in the laws of Moses, the man of God. <sup>1</sup> The altar was rebuilt on its old site, and it was used immediately to sacrifice morning and evening burnt offerings to the Lord; for the people were fearful of attack.

<sup>2</sup> And they celebrated the Feast of Tabernacles as prescribed in the laws of Moses, sacrificing the burnt offerings specified for each day of the feast. <sup>3</sup> They also offered the special sacrifices required for the Sabbaths, the new moon celebrations, and the other regular annual feasts of the Lord. Voluntary offerings of the people were also sacrificed. <sup>4</sup> It was on the fifteenth day of September<sup>a</sup> that the priests began sacrificing the burnt offerings to the Lord. (This was before they began building the foundation of the Temple.)

<sup>7</sup> Then they hired masons and carpenters, and bought cedar logs from the people of Tyre and Sidon, paying for them with food, wine, and olive oil. The logs were brought down from the Lebanon mountains and floated along the coast of the Mediterranean Sea to Joppa, for King Cyrus had included this provision in his grant.

<sup>8</sup> The actual construction of the Temple began in June of the second year of their arrival at Jerusalem. The work force was made up of all those who had returned, and they were under the direction of Zerubbabel (son of She-alti-el), Jeshua (son of Jozadak), and their fellow priests and the Levites. The Levites who were twenty years old or older were appointed to supervise the workmen. <sup>9</sup> The supervision of the entire project was given to Jeshua, Kadmi-el, Henadad, and their sons and relatives, all of whom were Levites.

<sup>10</sup> When the builders completed the foundation of the Temple, the priests put on their priestly robes and blew their trumpets; and the descendants of Asaph crashed their cymbals to praise the Lord in the manner ordained by King David.

<sup>11</sup> They sang rounds of praise and thanks to God, singing this song: "He is good, and his love and mercy toward Israel will last forever." Then all the people gave a great shout, praising God because the foundation of the Temple had been laid.

<sup>12</sup> But many of the priests and Levites and other leaders—the old men who remembered Solomon's beautiful Temple—wept aloud, while others were shouting for joy! <sup>13</sup> So the shouting and the weeping mingled together in a loud commotion that could be heard from far away!

4 WHEN THE ENEMIES of Judah and Benjamin heard that the exiles had returned and were rebuilding the Temple, <sup>2</sup> they approached Zerubbabel and the other leaders and suggested, "Let us work with you, for we are just as interested in your God as you are; we have sacrificed to him ever since King Esar-haddon of Assyria brought us here."

<sup>3</sup> But Zerubbabel and Jeshua and the other Jewish leaders replied, "No, you may have no part in this work. The Temple of the God of Israel must be built by the Israelis, just as King Cyrus has commanded."

<sup>4</sup> Then the local residents tried to discourage and frighten them by sending agents to tell lies about them to King Cyrus. This went on during his entire reign and lasted until King Darius took the throne.

<sup>5</sup> And afterwards, when King Ahasu-erus began to reign, they wrote him a letter of accusation against the people of Judah and Jerusalem, <sup>7</sup> and did the same thing during the reign of Ar-ta-xerxes. Bishlam, Mithredath, and Tabe-el and their associates wrote a letter to him in the Aramaic language, and it was translated to him. <sup>9</sup> Others who participated were Governor Rehum, Shimshai (a scribe), several judges and other local leaders, the Persians, the Babylonians, the men of Erech and Susa, <sup>10</sup> and men from several other nations. (They had been taken from their own lands by the great and noble Osnappar and relocated in Jerusalem, Samaria, and throughout the neighboring lands west of the Euphrates River.)

"Sir: Greetings from your loyal subjects west of the Euphrates River. <sup>12</sup> Please be informed that the Jews sent to Jerusalem from Babylon are rebuilding this historically rebellious and evil city; they have already rebuilt its walls and have repaired the foundations of the Temple. <sup>13</sup> But we wish you to know that if this city is rebuilt, it will be much to your disadvantage, for the Jews will then refuse to pay their taxes to you. <sup>14</sup> Since we are grateful to you as our patron, and we do not want to see you taken advantage of and dishonored in this way, we have decided to send you this information. <sup>15</sup> We suggest that you search the ancient records to discover what a rebellious city this has been in the past; in fact, it was destroyed because of its long history of sedition against the kings and countries who attempted to control it. <sup>16</sup> We wish to declare that if this city is rebuilt and the walls finished, you might as well forget about this part of your empire beyond the Euphrates, for it will be lost to you."

<sup>17</sup> Then the king made this reply to Governor Rehum and Shimshai the scribe, and to their companions living in Samaria and throughout the area west of the Euphrates River:

<sup>18</sup> "Gentlemen: Greetings! The letter you sent has been translated and read to me. <sup>19</sup> I have ordered a search made of the records and have indeed found that Jerusalem has in times past been a hotbed of insurrection against many kings; in fact, rebellion and sedition are normal there! <sup>20</sup> I find, moreover, that there have been some very great kings in Jerusalem who have ruled the entire land beyond the Euphrates River and have received vast tribute, custom, and toll. <sup>21</sup> Therefore, I command that these men must stop building the Temple until I have investigated the matter more thoroughly. <sup>22</sup> Do not delay, for we must not permit the situation to get out of control!"

<sup>23</sup> When this letter from King Ar-ta-xerxes was read to Rehum and Shimshai, they hurried to Jerusalem, and forced the Jews to stop building. <sup>24</sup> So the work ended until the second year of the reign of King Darius of Persia.

5 BUT THERE WERE prophets in Jerusalem and Judah at that time—Haggai, and Zechariah (the son of Iddo)—who brought messages from the God of Israel to Zerubbabel (son of She-alti-el) and Jeshua (son of Jozadak), encouraging them to begin building again! So they did and the prophets helped them.

the lands west of the Euphrates, and Shethar-bozenai, and their companions soon arrived in Jerusalem and demanded, "Who gave you permission to rebuild this Temple and finish these walls?"

<sup>4</sup> They also asked for a list of the names of all the men who were working on the Temple. <sup>5</sup> But because the Lord was overseeing the entire situation, our enemies did not force us to stop building, but let us continue while King Darius looked into the matter and returned his decision.

<sup>7</sup> "To King Darius:

"Greetings!

<sup>8</sup> "We wish to inform you that we went to the construction site of the Temple of the great God of Judah. It is being built with huge stones, and timber is being laid in the city walls. The work is going forward with great energy and success. <sup>9</sup> We asked the leaders, 'Who has given you permission to do this?' <sup>10</sup> And we demanded their names so that we could notify you. <sup>11</sup> Their answer was, 'We are the servants of the God of heaven and earth and we are rebuilding the Temple that was constructed here many centuries ago by a great king of Israel. <sup>12</sup> But afterwards our ancestors angered the God of heaven, and he abandoned them and let King Nebuchadnezzar destroy this Temple and exile the people to Babylonia.'

that the Temple should be rebuilt, <sup>14</sup> and they say King Cyrus returned the gold and silver bowls which Nebuchadnezzar had taken from the Temple in Jerusalem and had placed in the temple of Babylon. They say these items were delivered into the safekeeping of a man named Shesh-bazzar, whom King Cyrus appointed as governor of Judah. <sup>15</sup> The king instructed him to return the bowls to Jerusalem and to let the Temple of God be built there as before. <sup>16</sup> So Shesh-bazzar came and laid the foundations of the Temple at Jerusalem; and the people have been working on it ever since, though it is not yet completed. <sup>17</sup> We request that you search in the royal library of Babylon to discover whether King Cyrus ever made such a decree; and then let us know your pleasure in this matter."

6 SO KING DARIUS issued orders that a search be made in the Babylonian archives, where documents were stored.

<sup>3</sup> "In this first year of the reign of King Cyrus, a decree has been sent out concerning the Temple of God at Jerusalem where the Jews offer sacrifices. It is to be rebuilt, and the foundations are to be strongly laid. The height will be ninety feet and the width will be ninety feet. <sup>4</sup> There will be three layers of huge stones in the foundation, topped with a layer of new timber. All expenses will be paid by the king. <sup>3</sup> And the gold and silver bowls which were taken from the Temple of God by Nebuchadnezzar shall be taken back to Jerusalem and put into the Temple as they were before."

<sup>4</sup> So King Darius sent this message<sup>a</sup> to Governor Shethar-bozenai, and the other officials west of the Euphrates:

"Do not disturb the construction of the Temple. Let it be rebuilt on its former site, <sup>7</sup> and don't molest the governor of Judah and the other leaders in their work. <sup>8</sup> Moreover, I decree that you are to pay the full construction costs without delay from my taxes collected in your territory. <sup>9</sup> Give the priests in Jerusalem young bulls, rams, and lambs for burnt offerings to the God of heaven; and give them wheat, wine, salt, and olive oil each day without fail. <sup>10</sup> Then they will be able to offer acceptable sacrifices to the God of heaven, and to pray for me and my sons. <sup>11</sup> Anyone who attempts to change this message in any way shall have the beams pulled from his house and built into a gallows on which he will be hanged;<sup>b</sup> and his house shall be reduced to a pile of rubble. <sup>12</sup> The God who has chosen the city of Jerusalem will destroy any king and any nation that alters this commandment and destroys this Temple. I, Darius, have issued this decree; let it be obeyed with all diligence."

<sup>13</sup> Governor Tattenai, Shethar-bozenai, and their companions complied at once with the command of King Darius.

<sup>14</sup> So the Jewish leaders continued in their work, and they were greatly encouraged by the preaching of the prophets Haggai and Zechariah (son of Iddo).

The Temple was finally finished, as had been commanded by God and decreed by Cyrus, Darius, and Ar-ta-xerxes, the kings of Persia.

<sup>16</sup> The Temple was then dedicated with great joy by the priests, the Levites, and all the people.

<sup>17</sup> During the dedication celebration 100 young bulls, 200 rams, and 400 lambs were sacrificed; and twelve male goats were presented as a sin offering for the twelve tribes of Israel. <sup>18</sup> Then the priests and Levites were divided into their various service corps, to do the work of God as instructed in the laws of Moses.

Abishu-a was the son of Phinehas was the son of Eleazar;

Eleazar was the son of Aaron, the chief priest.

<sup>6</sup> As a Jewish religious leader, Ezra was well versed in Jehovah's laws which Moses had given to the people of Israel. He asked to be allowed to return to Jerusalem, and the king granted his request; for the Lord his God was blessing him.

<sup>7,8,9</sup> Many ordinary people as well as priests, Levites, singers, gatekeepers, and Temple workers traveled with him. They left Babylon in the middle of March in the seventh year of the reign of Ar-ta-xerxes and arrived at Jerusalem in the month of August; for the Lord gave them a good trip. <sup>10</sup> This was because Ezra had determined to study and obey the laws of the Lord and to become a Bible teacher, teaching those laws to the people of Israel.

"To: Ezra, the priest, the teacher of the laws of the God of heaven.

<sup>13</sup> "I decree that any Jew in my realm, including the priests and Levites, may return to Jerusalem with you. <sup>14</sup> I and my Council of Seven hereby instruct you to take a copy of God's laws to Judah and Jerusalem and to send back a report of the religious progress being made there.

<sup>15</sup> We also commission you to take with you to Jerusalem the silver and gold which we are presenting as an offering to the God of Israel.

<sup>16</sup> Moreover, you are to collect voluntary Temple offerings of silver and gold from the Jews and their priests in all of the provinces of Babylon. <sup>17</sup> These funds are to be used primarily for the purchase of oxen, rams, lambs, grain offerings, and drink offerings, all of which will be offered upon the altar of your Temple when you arrive in Jerusalem.

<sup>18</sup> "The money that is left over may be used in whatever way you and your brothers feel is the will of your God. <sup>19</sup> And take with you the gold bowls and other items we are giving you for the Temple of your God at Jerusalem. <sup>20</sup> If you run short of money for the construction of the Temple or for any similar needs, you may requisition funds from the royal treasury.

<sup>21</sup> "I, Ar-ta-xerxes the king, send this decree to all the treasurers in the provinces west of the Euphrates River: 'You are to give Ezra whatever he requests of you (for he is a priest and teacher of the laws of the God of heaven), <sup>22</sup> up to $200,000 in silver; 1,225 bushels of wheat; 990 gallons of wine; any amount of salt; <sup>23</sup> and whatever else the God of heaven demands for his Temple; for why should we risk God's wrath against the king and his sons? <sup>24</sup> I also decree that no priest, Levite, choir member, gatekeeper, Temple attendant, or other worker in the Temple shall be required to pay taxes of any kind.'

<sup>25</sup> "And you, Ezra, are to use the wisdom God has given you to select and appoint judges and other officials to govern all the people west of the Euphrates River; if they are not familiar with the laws of your God, you are to teach them. <sup>26</sup> Anyone refusing to obey the law of your God and the law of the king shall be punished immediately by death, banishment, confiscation of goods, or imprisonment."

<sup>27</sup> Well, praise the Lord God of our ancestors, who made the king want to beautify the Temple of the Lord in Jerusalem! <sup>28</sup> And praise God for demonstrating such loving-kindness to me<sup>b</sup> by honoring me before the king and his Council of Seven and before all of his mighty princes! I was given great status because the Lord my God was with me; and I persuaded some of the leaders of Israel to return with me to Jerusalem.

8 THESE ARE THE names and genealogies of the leaders who accompanied me from Babylon during the reign of King Ar-ta-xerxes:

From the clan of Pahath-moab—Eli-e-ho-enai (son of Zerahiah), and 200 other men;

From the clan of Shecaniah—the son of Jahaziel, and 300 other men;

From the clan of Adin—Ebed (son of Jonathan), and 50 other men;

From the clan of Elam—Jessaiah (son of Athaliah), and 70 other men;

From the clan of Sheph-atiah—Zebadiah (son of Michael), and 80 other men;

From the clan of Joab—Obadiah (son of Jehiel), and 218 other men;

From the clan of Bani—Shelomith (son of Josi-phiah), and 160 other men;

From the clan of Bebai—Zechariah (son of Bebai), and 28 other men;

From the clan of Azgad—Johanan (son of Hakka-tan), and 110 other men;

From the clan of Adonikam
—Eliphelet, Jeuel, Shemaiah, and 60 other men (they arrived at a later time);

From the clan of Bigvai—Uthai, Zaccur, and 70 other men.

<sup>13</sup> We assembled at the Ahava River and camped there for three days while I went over the lists of the people and the priests who had arrived; and I found that not one Levite had volunteered! <sup>14</sup> So I sent for Eliezer, Ari-el, Shemaiah, Elnathan, Jarib, Elnathan, Nathan, Zechariah, and Meshullam, the Levite leaders; I also sent for Joiarib and Elnathan, who were very wise men. <sup>15</sup> I sent them to Iddo, the leader of the Jews at Casiphia, to ask him and his brothers and the Temple attendants to send us priests for the Temple of God at Jerusalem. <sup>16</sup> And God was good! He sent us an outstanding man named Sherebiah, along with eighteen of his sons and brothers; he was a very astute man and a descendant of Mahli, the son of Levi and grandson of Israel. <sup>17</sup> God also sent Hashabiah; and Jeshaiah (the son of Merari), with twenty of his sons and brothers; <sup>20</sup> and 220 Temple attendants. (The Temple attendants were assistants to the Levites—a job classification of Temple employees first instituted by King David.) These 220 men were all listed by name.

<sup>21</sup> Then I declared a fast while we were at the Ahava River so that we would humble ourselves before our God; and we prayed that he would give us a good journey and protect us, our children, and our goods as we traveled. <sup>22</sup> For I was ashamed to ask the king for soldiers and cavalry to accompany us and protect us from the enemies along the way. After all, we had told the king that our God would protect all those who worshiped him, and that disaster could come only to those who had forsaken him! <sup>23</sup> So we fasted and begged God to take care of us. And he did.

<sup>24</sup> I appointed twelve leaders of the priests—Sherebiah, Hashabiah, and ten other priests— <sup>25</sup> to be in charge of transporting the silver, gold, the golden bowls, and the other items which the king and his council and the leaders and people of Israel had presented to the Temple of God. <sup>26,27</sup> I weighed the money as I gave it to them and found it to total $1,300,000 in silver; $200,000 in silver utensils; $3,000,000 in gold; and twenty gold bowls worth a total of $5,000. There were also two beautiful pieces of brass which were as precious as gold. <sup>28</sup> I consecrated these men to the Lord, and then consecrated the treasures—the equipment and money and bowls which had been given as free-will offerings to the Lord God of our fathers.

<sup>29</sup> “Guard these treasures well!” I told them; “present them without a penny lost to the priests and the Levite leaders and the elders of Israel at Jerusalem, where they are to be placed in the treasury of the Temple."

<sup>10</sup> So the priests and the Levites accepted the responsibility of taking it to God's Temple in Jerusalem. <sup>11</sup> We broke camp at the Ahava River at the end of March<sup>a</sup> and started off to Jerusalem; and God protected us and saved us from enemies and bandits along the way. <sup>12</sup> So at last we arrived safely at Jerusalem.

<sup>13</sup> On the fourth day after our arrival the silver, gold, and other valuables were weighed in the Temple by Meremoth (the son of Uriah the priest), Eleazar (son of Phinehas), Jozabad (son of Jeshua), and Noadiah (son of Binnui)—all of whom were Levites. <sup>14</sup> A receipt was given for each item, and the weight of the gold and silver was noted.

<sup>15</sup> Then everyone in our party sacrificed burnt offerings to the God of Israel—twelve oxen for the nation of Israel; ninety-six rams; seventy-seven lambs; and twelve goats as a sin offering. <sup>16</sup> The king's decrees were delivered to his lieutenants and the governors of all the provinces west of the Euphrates River, and of course they then cooperated in the rebuilding of the Temple of God.

9 BUT THEN THE Jewish leaders came to tell me that many of the Jewish people and even some of the priests and Levites had taken up the horrible customs of the heathen people who lived in the land—the Canaanites, Hittites, Perizzites, Jebusites, Ammonites, Moabites, Egyptians, and Amorites. <sup>2</sup> The men of Israel had married girls from these heathen nations, and had taken them as wives for their sons. So the holy people of God were being polluted by these mixed marriages, and the political leaders were some of the worst offenders.

<sup>3</sup> When I heard this, I tore my clothing and pulled hair from my head and beard and sat down utterly baffled. <sup>4</sup> Then many who feared the God of Israel because of this sin of his people came and sat with me until the time of the evening burnt offering.

<sup>5</sup> Finally I stood before the Lord in great embarrassment; then I fell to my knees and lifted my hands to the Lord, <sup>6</sup> and cried out, "O my God, I am ashamed; I blush to lift up my face to you, for our sins are piled higher than our heads and our guilt is as boundless as the heavens. <sup>7</sup> Our whole history has been one of sin; that is why we and our kings and our priests were slain by the heathen kings—we were captured, robbed, and disgraced, just as we are today. <sup>8</sup> But now we have been given a moment of peace, for you have permitted a few of us to return to Jerusalem from our exile. You have given us a moment of joy and new life in our slavery. <sup>9</sup> For we were slaves, but in your love and mercy you did not abandon us to slavery; instead you caused the kings of Persia to be favorable to us. They have even given us their assistance in rebuilding the Temple of our God and in giving us Jerusalem as a walled city in Judah.

we say after all of this? For once again we have abandoned you and broken your laws! <sup>11</sup> The prophets warned us that the land we would possess was totally defiled by the horrible practices of the people living there. From one end to the other it is filled with corruption. <sup>12</sup> You told us not to let our daughters marry their sons, and not to let our sons marry their daughters, and not to help those nations in any way. You warned us that only if we followed this rule could we become a prosperous nation and forever leave that prosperity to our children as an inheritance. <sup>13</sup> And now, even after our punishment in exile because of our wickedness (and we have been punished far less than we deserved), and even though you have let some of us return, <sup>14</sup> we have broken your commandments again and intermarried with people who do these awful things. Surely your anger will destroy us now until not even this little remnant escapes. <sup>15</sup> O Lord God of Israel, you are a just God; what hope can we have if you give us justice as we stand here before you in our wickedness?"

10 AS I LAY on the ground in front of the Temple, weeping and praying and making this confession, a large crowd of men, women, and children gathered around and cried with me.

<sup>2</sup> Then Shecaniah (the son of Jehiel of the clan of Elam) said to me, "We acknowledge our sin against our God, for we have married these heathen women. But there is hope for Israel in spite of this. <sup>3</sup> For we agree before our God to divorce our heathen wives and to send them away with our children; we will follow your commands, and the commands of the others who fear our God. We will obey the laws of God. <sup>4</sup> Take courage and tell us how to proceed in setting things straight, and we will fully cooperate."

<sup>5</sup> So I stood up and demanded that the leaders of the priests and the Levites and all the people of Israel swear that they would do as Shecaniah had said; and they all agreed. <sup>6</sup> Then I went into the room of Jeho-hanan in the Temple and refused all food and drink; for I was mourning because of the sin of the returned exiles.

<sup>7</sup> Then a proclamation was made throughout Judah and Jerusalem that everyone should appear at Jerusalem within three days and that the leaders and elders had decided that anyone who refused to come would be disinherited and excommunicated from Israel. <sup>9</sup> Within three days, on the fifth day of December,<sup>a</sup> all the men of Judah and Benjamin had arrived and were sitting in the open space before the Temple; and they were trembling because of the seriousness of the matter and because of the heavy rainfall. <sup>10</sup> Then I, Ezra the priest, arose and addressed them:

"You have sinned, for you have married heathen women; now we are even more deeply under God's condemnation than we were before. <sup>11</sup> Confess your sin to the Lord God of your fathers and do what he demands: separate yourselves from the heathen people about you and from these women."

<sup>12</sup> Then all the men spoke up and said, "We will do what you have said." But this isn't something that can be done in a day or two, for there are many of us involved in this sinful affair. And it is raining so hard that we can't stay out here much longer. "Let our leaders arrange trials for us. Everyone who has a heathen wife will come at the scheduled time with the elders and judges of his city; then each case will be decided and the situation will be cleared up and the fierce wrath of our God will be turned away from us."

<sup>14-15</sup> So this was the plan that was followed: Some of the clan leaders and I were designated as judges; we began our work on December 15, and finished by March 15.

NEHEMIAH

1 THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF Nehe- miah, the son of Hecaliah:

In December of the twentieth year of the reign of King Artaxerxes of Persia,<sup>a</sup> when I was at the palace at Shushan, <sup>2</sup> one of my fellow Jews named Hanani came to visit me with some men who had arrived from Judah. I took the opportunity to inquire about how things were going in Jerusalem.

"How are they getting along?"
I asked. "—the Jews who returned to Jerusalem from their exile here?"

<sup>3</sup> "Well," they replied, "things are not good; the wall of Jerusalem is still torn down, and the gates are burned."

<sup>4</sup> When I heard this, I sat down and cried. In fact, I refused to eat for several days, for I spent the time in prayer to the God of heaven.

<sup>5</sup> "O Lord God," I cried out; "O great and awesome God who keeps his promises and is so loving and kind to those who love and obey him! Hear my prayer! <sup>6</sup> Listen carefully to what I say! Look down and see me praying night and day for your people Israel. I confess that we have sinned against you; yes, I and my people have committed the horrible sin of not obeying the commandments you gave us through your servant Moses. <sup>7</sup> Oh, please remember what you told Moses!

You said,

"If you sin, I will scatter you among the nations; <sup>8</sup> but if you return to me and obey my laws, even though you are exiled to the farthest corners of the universe, I will bring you back to Jerusalem. For Jerusalem is the place in which I have chosen to live."

<sup>10</sup> "We are your servants, the people you rescued by your great power. <sup>11</sup> O Lord, please hear my prayer! Heed the prayers of those of us who delight to honor you. Please help me now as I go in and ask the king for a great favor—put it into his heart to be kind to me." (I was the king's cupbearer.)

2 ONE DAY IN April four months later, as I was serving the king his wine he asked me, "Why so sad?
You aren't sick, are you? You look like a man with deep troubles."
(For until then I had always been cheerful when I was with him.) I was badly frightened, <sup>3</sup> but I replied, "Sir,<sup>a</sup> why shouldn't I be sad? For the city where my ancestors are buried is in ruins, and the gates have been burned down."

<sup>4</sup> "Well, what should be done?" the king asked.

With a quick prayer to the God of heaven, I replied, "If it please Your Majesty and if you look upon me with your royal favor, send me to Judah to rebuild the city of my fathers!"

<sup>5</sup> The king replied, with the queen sitting beside him, "How long will you be gone? When will you return?"

So it was agreed! And I set a time for my departure!

<sup>7</sup> Then I added this to my request: "If it please the king, give me letters to the governors west of the Euphrates River instructing them to let me travel through their countries on my way to Judah; <sup>8</sup> also a letter to Asaph, the manager of the king's forest, instructing him to give me timber for the beams and for the gates of the fortress near the Temple, and for the city walls, and for a house for myself."

And the king granted these requests, for God was being gracious to me.

<sup>9</sup> When I arrived in the provinces west of the Euphrates River, I delivered the king's letters to the governors there. (The king, I should add, had sent along army officers and troops to protect me!) <sup>10</sup> But when Sanballat (the Horeonite) and Tobiah (an Ammonite who was a government official) heard of my arrival, they were very angry that anyone was interested in helping Israel.

<sup>11,12</sup> Three days after my arrival at Jerusalem I stole out during the night, taking only a few men with me; for I hadn't told a soul about the plans for Jerusalem which God had put into my heart. I was mounted on my donkey and the others were on foot, <sup>13</sup> and we went out through the Valley Gate toward the Jackal's Well and over to the Dung Gate to see the broken walls and burned gates. <sup>14,15</sup> Then we went to the Fountain Gate and to the King's Pool, but my donkey couldn't get through the rubble. So we circled the city, and I followed the brook, inspecting the wall, and entered again at the Valley Gate.

<sup>16</sup> The city officials did not know I had been out there, or why, for as yet I had said nothing to anyone about my plans—not to the political or religious leaders, or even to those who would be doing the work.

<sup>17</sup> But now I told them, "You know full well the tragedy of our city; it lies in ruins and its gates are burned. Let us rebuild the wall of Jerusalem and rid ourselves of this disgrace!"

<sup>18</sup> Then I told them about the desire God had put into my heart, and of my conversation with the king, and the plan to which he had agreed.

They replied at once, "Good! Let's rebuild the wall!" And so the work began.

<sup>19</sup> But when Sanballat and Tobiah and Geshem the Arab heard of our plan, they scoffed and said,

<sup>a</sup> Literally, "Let the king live forever."

"What are you doing, rebelling against the king like this?"

<sup>20</sup> But I replied, "The God of heaven will help us, and we, his servants, will rebuild this wall; but you may have no part in this affair."

3 THEN ELIASHIB THE High Priest and the other priests rebuilt the wall as far as the Tower of the Hundred and the Tower of Hananel; then they rebuilt the Sheep Gate, hung its doors, and dedicated it. <sup>2</sup> Men from the city of Jericho worked next to them, and beyond them was the work crew led by Zaccur (son of Imri).

<sup>3</sup> The Fish Gate was built by the sons of Hassenaah; they did the whole thing—cut the beams, hung the doors, and made the bolts and bars. <sup>4</sup> Meremoth (son of Uriah, son of Hakkoz) repaired the next section of wall, and beyond him were Meshullam (son of Berechiah, son of Meshezabel) and Zadok (son of Baana). <sup>5</sup> Next were the men from Tekoa, but their leaders were lazy and didn't help.

<sup>6</sup> The Old Gate was repaired by Joiada (son of Paseah) and Meshullam (son of Besodeiah). They laid the beams, set up the doors, and installed the bolts and bars. <sup>7</sup> Next to them were Melatiah from Gibeon; Jadon from Meronoth; and men from Gibeon and Mizpah, who were citizens of the province. <sup>8</sup> Uzziel (son of Harhaiah) was a goldsmith by trade, but he too worked on the wall. Beyond him was Haniah, a manufacturer of perfumes. Repairs were not needed from there to the Broad Wall.

<sup>9</sup> Rephaiah (son of Hur), the mayor of half of Jerusalem, was next down the wall from them. <sup>10</sup> Jedaiah (son of Harumaph) repaired the wall beside his own house, and next to him was Hattush (son of Hashabneiah). <sup>11</sup> Then came Malchijah (son of Harim) and Hashub (son of Pahath-moab), who repaired the Furnace Tower in addition to a section of the wall. <sup>12</sup> Shallum (son of Halloresh) and his daughters repaired the next section. He was the mayor of the other half of Jerusalem.

<sup>13</sup> The people from Zanoah, led by Hanun, built the Valley Gate, hung the doors, and installed the bolts and bars; then they repaired the 1,500 feet of wall to the Dung Gate.

<sup>14</sup> The Dung Gate was repaired by Malchijah (son of Rechab), the mayor of the Beth-haccherem area; and after building it, he hung the doors and installed the bolts and bars.

<sup>15</sup> Shallum (son of Colhozeh), the mayor of the Mizpah district, repaired the Fountain Gate. He rebuilt it, roofed it, hung its doors, and installed its locks and bars. Then he repaired the wall from the Pool of Siloam to the king's garden and the stairs that descend from the City of David section of Jerusalem. <sup>16</sup> Next to him was Nehemiah (son of Azbuk), the mayor of half the Beth-zur district; he built as far as the royal cemetery, the water reservoir, and the old Officers' Club building.<sup>a</sup> <sup>17</sup> Next was a group of Levites working under the supervision of Rehum (son of Bani). Then came Hashabiah, the mayor of half the Keilah district, who supervised the building of the wall in his own district. <sup>18</sup> Next down the line were his clan brothers led by Bavvai (son of Henadad), the mayor of the other half of the Keilah district.

<sup>19</sup> Next to them the workers were led by Ezer (son of Jeshua), the mayor of another part of Mizpah; they also worked on the section of wall across from the Armory, where the wall turns. <sup>20</sup> Next to him was Baruch (son of Zabbai), who built from the turn in the wall to the home of Eliashib the High Priest. <sup>21</sup> Meremoth (son of Uriah, son of Hakkoz) built a section of the wall extending from a point opposite the door of Eliashib's house to the side of the house.

immediately opposite his own house.

<sup>29</sup> Zadok (son of Immer) also rebuilt the wall next to his own house, and beyond him was Shemaiah (son of Shecaniah), the gatekeeper of the East Gate. <sup>30</sup> Next was Hananiah (son of Shelemiah); Hanun (the sixth son of Zalaph); and Meshullam (son of Berechiah), who built next to his own house. <sup>31</sup> Malchijah, one of the goldsmiths, repaired as far as the Temple attendants' and merchants' Guild Hall, opposite the Muster Gate; then to the upper room at the corner. <sup>32</sup> The other goldsmiths and merchants completed the wall from that corner to the Sheep Gate.

4 SANBALLAT WAS VERY angry when he learned that we were rebuilding the wall. He flew into a rage, and insulted and mocked us and laughed at us, and so did his friends and the Samaritan army officers. "What does this bunch of poor, feeble Jews think they are doing?" he scoffed. "Do they think they can build the wall in a day if they offer enough sacrifices? And look at those charred stones they are pulling out of the rubbish and using again!"

<sup>2</sup> Then I prayed, "Hear us, O Lord God, for we are being mocked. May their scoffing fall back upon their own heads, and may they themselves become captives in a foreign land! <sup>3</sup> Do not ignore their sin. Do not blot it out, for they have despised you in despising us who are building your wall."

<sup>6</sup> At last the wall was completed to half its original height around the entire city—for the workers worked hard.

<sup>7</sup> But when Sanballat and Tobiah and the Arabians, Ammonites, and Ashdodites heard that the work was going right ahead and that the breaks in the wall were being repaired, they became furious.

<sup>8</sup> They plotted to lead an army against Jerusalem to bring about riots and confusion. <sup>9</sup> But we prayed to our God and guarded the city day and night to protect ourselves.

<sup>10</sup> Then some of the leaders began complaining that the workmen were becoming tired; and there was so much rubble to be removed that we could never get it done by ourselves. <sup>11</sup> Meanwhile, our enemies were planning to swoop down upon us and kill us, thus ending our work. <sup>12</sup> And whenever the workers who lived in the nearby cities went home for a visit, our enemies tried to talk them out of returning to Jerusalem. <sup>13</sup> So I placed armed guards from each family in the cleared spaces behind the walls.

<sup>14</sup> Then as I looked over the situation, I called together the leaders and the people and said to them, "Don't be afraid! Remember the Lord who is great and glorious; fight for your friends, your families, and your homes!"

<sup>15</sup> Our enemies learned that we knew of their plot, and that God had exposed and frustrated their plan. Now we all returned to our work on the wall; <sup>16</sup> but from then on, only half worked while the other half stood guard behind them. <sup>17</sup> And the masons and laborers worked with weapons within easy reach beside them, <sup>18</sup> or with swords belted to their sides. The trumpeter stayed with me to sound the alarm.

<sup>19</sup> "The work is so spread out," I explained to them, "and we are separated so widely from each other, that when you hear the trumpet blow you must rush to where I am; and God will fight for us."

<sup>20,21</sup> We worked early and late, from sunrise to sunset; and half the men were always on guard. <sup>22</sup> I told everyone living outside the walls to move into Jerusalem so that their servants could go on guard duty as well as work during the day. <sup>23</sup> During this period none of us—I, nor my brothers, nor the servants, nor the guards who were with me—ever took off our clothes. And we carried our weapons with us at all times.

5 ABOUT THIS TIME there was a great outcry of protest from parents against some of the rich Jews who were profiteering on them. <sup>2,3,4</sup> What was happening was that families who ran out of money for food had to sell their children or mortgage their fields, vineyards, and homes to these rich men; and some couldn't even do that, for they already had borrowed to the limit to pay their taxes.

<sup>5</sup> "We are their brothers, and our children are just like theirs," the people protested. "Yet we must sell our children into slavery to get enough money to live. We have already sold some of our daughters, and we are helpless to redeem them, for our fields, too, are mortgaged to these men."

<sup>6</sup> I was very angry when I heard this; <sup>7</sup> so after thinking about it I spoke out against these rich government officials.

"What is this you are doing?" I demanded. "How dare you demand a mortgage as a condition for helping another Israelite?"

Then I called a public trial to deal with them.

<sup>8</sup> At the trial I shouted at them, "The rest of us are doing all we can to help our Jewish brothers who have returned from exile as slaves in distant lands, but you are forcing them right back into slavery again. How often must we redeem them?"

And they had nothing to say in their own defense.

<sup>9</sup> Then I pressed further. "What you are doing is very evil," I exclaimed. "Should you not walk in the fear of our God? Don't we have enough enemies among the nations around us who are trying to destroy us?"

<sup>10</sup> "The rest of us are lending money and grain to our fellow-Jews without any interest. I beg you, gentlemen, stop this business of usury.

<sup>11</sup> Restore their fields, vineyards, oliveyards, and homes to them this very day and drop your claims against them."

<sup>12</sup> So they agreed to do it and said that they would assist their brothers without requiring them to mortgage their lands and sell them their children. Then I summoned the priests and made these men formally vow to carry out their promises. <sup>13</sup> And I invoked the curse of God upon any of them who refused.<sup>a</sup>

"May God destroy your homes and livelihood if you fail to keep this promise," I declared.

And all the people shouted, "Amen," and praised the Lord. And the rich men did as they had promised.

<sup>14</sup> I would like to mention that for the entire twelve years that I was governor of Judah—from the twentieth until the thirty-second year of the reign of King Artaxerxes—my aides and I accepted no salaries or other assistance from the people of Israel. <sup>15</sup> This was quite a contrast to the former governors who had demanded food and wine and $100 a day in cash, and had put the population at the mercy of their aides, who tyrannized them; but I obeyed God and did not act that way.

<sup>16</sup> I stayed at work on the wall and refused to speculate in land; I also required my officials to spend time on the wall. <sup>17</sup> All this despite the fact that I regularly fed 150 Jewish officials at my table, besides visitors from other countries! <sup>18</sup> The provisions required for each day were one ox, six fat sheep, and a large number of domestic fowls; and we needed a huge supply of all kinds of wines every ten days. Yet I refused to make a special levy against the people, for they were already having a difficult time. <sup>19</sup> O my God, please keep in mind all that I've done for these people and bless me for it.

6 WHEN SANBALLAT, TOBIAH, Geshem the Arab, and the rest of our enemies found out that we had almost completed the rebuilding of the wall—though we had not yet hung all the doors of the gates—<sup>2</sup> they sent me a message asking me to meet them in one of the villages in the Plain of Ono. But I realized they were plotting to kill me, <sup>3</sup> so I replied by sending back this message to them:

"I am doing a great work! Why should I stop to come and visit with you?"

<sup>4</sup> Four times they sent the same message, and each time I gave the same reply. <sup>5,6</sup> The fifth time, Sanballat's servant came with an open letter in his hand and this is what it said:

"Geshem tells me that everywhere he goes he hears that the Jews are planning to rebel, and that is why you are building the wall. He claims you plan to be their king—that is what is being said. <sup>7</sup> He also reports that you have appointed prophets to campaign for you at Jerusalem by saying, 'Look! Nehemiah is just the man we need!'"

"You can be very sure that I am going to pass these interesting comments on to King Ar-ta-xerxes! I suggest that you come and talk it over with me—for that is the only way you can save yourself!"

<sup>8</sup> My reply was, "You know you are lying. There isn't one bit of truth to the whole story. <sup>9</sup> You're just trying to scare us into stopping our work." (O Lord God, please strengthen me!)

<sup>10</sup> A few days later I went to visit Shemaiah (son of Delaiah, who was the son of Mehetabel), for he said he was receiving a message from God.

"Let us hide in the Temple and bolt the door," he exclaimed, "for they are coming tonight to kill you."

<sup>11</sup> But I replied, "Should I, the governor, run away from danger? And if I go into the Temple, not being a priest, I would forfeit my life. No, I won't do it!"

<sup>12,13</sup> Then I realized that God had not spoken to him, but Tobiah and Sanballat had hired him to scare me and make me sin by fleeing to the Temple; and then they would be able to accuse me.

<sup>14</sup> "O my God," I prayed, "don't forget all the evil of Tobiah, Sanballat, No-adiah the prophetess, and all the other prophets who have tried to discourage me."

<sup>15</sup> The wall was finally finished in early September<sup>a</sup>—just fifty-two days after we had begun!

<sup>16</sup> When our enemies and the surrounding nations heard about it, they were frightened and humiliated, and they realized that the work had been done with the help of our God. <sup>17</sup> During those fifty-two days many letters went back and forth between Tobiah and the wealthy politicians of Judah. <sup>18</sup> For many in Judah had sworn allegiance to him because his father-in-law was Shecaniah (son of Arah) and because his son Jehohanan was married to the daughter of Meshullam (son of Berechiah). <sup>19</sup> They all told me what a wonderful man Tobiah was, and then they told him everything I had said; and Tobiah sent many threatening letters to frighten me.

7 AFTER THE WALL was finished and we had hung the doors in the gates and had appointed the gatekeepers, singers, and Levites, <sup>1</sup> I gave the responsibility of governing Jerusalem to my brother Hanani and to Hananiah, the commander of the fortress—a very faithful man who revered God more than most people do. <sup>2</sup> I issued instructions to them not to open the Jerusalem gates until well after sunrise, and to close and lock them while the guards were still on duty. I also directed that the guards be residents of Jerusalem, and that they must be on duty at regular times, and that each homeowner who lived near the wall must guard the section of wall next to his own home. <sup>4</sup> For the city was large, but the population was small; and only a few houses were scattered throughout the city.

<sup>5</sup> Then the Lord told me to call together all the leaders of the city, along with the ordinary citizens, for registration. For I had found the record of the genealogies of those who had returned to Judah before, and this is what was written in it:

Zerubbabel, Jeshua,
Nehemiah, Azariah,
Ra-amiah, Nahamani,
Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispereth, Bigvai, keepers), 138.

<sup>46-56</sup> "Of the Temple assistants, sented:

Ziha, Hasupha,
Tabbaoth, Keros,

<sup>57,58,59</sup> "Following is a list of the descendants of Solomon's officials who returned to Judah:

Sotai, Sophereth, Perida,
Jaala, Darkon, Giddel, Shephatiah, Hattil, Pochereth-hazzebaim, Amon.

<sup>60</sup> "In all, the Temple assistants and the descendants of Solomon's officers numbered 392."

<sup>61</sup> Another group returned to Jerusalem at that time from the Persian cities of Tel-melah, Tel-harsha, Cherub, Addon, and Immer.
But they had lost their genealogies and could not prove their Jewish ancestry; <sup>62</sup> these were the subclans of Delaiah, Tobiah, and Nekoda—a total of 642.

<sup>63</sup> There were also several subclans of priests named after Habaiah, Hakkoz, and Barzillai (he married one of the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite and took her family name), <sup>64,65</sup> whose genealogies had been lost. So they were not allowed to continue as priests or even to receive the priests' share of food from the sacrifices until the Urim and Thummim had been consulted to find out from God whether or not they actually were descendants of priests.

<sup>66</sup> There was a total of 42,360 citizens who returned to Judah at that time; <sup>67</sup> also, 7,337 slaves and 245 choir members, both men and women. <sup>68,69</sup> They took with them 736 horses, 245 mules, 435 camels, and 6,720 donkeys.

<sup>70</sup> Some of their leaders gave gifts for the work. The governor gave $5,000 in gold, 50 golden bowls, and 530 sets of clothing for the priests. <sup>71</sup> The other leaders gave a total of $100,000 in gold and $77,000 in silver; <sup>72</sup> and the common people gave $100,000 in gold, $70,000 in silver, and sixty-seven sets of clothing for the priests.

<sup>73</sup> The priests, the Levites, the gatekeepers, the choir members, the Temple attendants, and the rest of the people now returned home to their own towns and villages throughout Judah. But during the month of September, they came back to Jerusalem.

8 NOW, IN MID-SEPTEMBER, all the people assembled at the plaza in front of the Water Gate and requested Ezra, their religious leader, to read to them the law of God which he had given to Moses.

So Ezra the priest brought out to them the scroll of Moses' laws. He stood on a wooden stand made especially for the occasion so that everyone could see him as he read. He faced the square in front of the Water Gate, and read from early morning until noon. Everyone stood up as he opened the scroll. And all who were old enough to understand paid close attention. To his right stood Mattithiah, Shema, Anaiiah, Uriah, Hilkiah, and Maseiah. To his left were Pedaiah, Misha-el, Malchijah, Hashum, Hash-baddenah, Zechariah, and Meshullam.

<sup>6</sup> Then Ezra blessed the Lord, the great God, and all the people said, "Amen," and lifted their hands toward heaven; then they bowed and worshiped the Lord with their faces toward the ground.

<sup>7,8</sup> As Ezra read from the scroll, Jeshua, Bani, Sherebiah, Jamin, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodiah, Maseiah, Kelita, Azariah, Jozabad, Hanan, Pelaiah, and the Levites went among the people<sup>a</sup> and explained the meaning of the passage that was being read. <sup>9</sup> All the people began sobbing when they heard the commands of the law.

Then Ezra the priest, and I as governor, and the Levites who were assisting me, said to them, "Don't cry on such a day as this! For today is a sacred day before the Lord your God— <sup>10</sup> it is a time to celebrate with a hearty meal, and to send presents to those in need, for the joy of the Lord is your strength. You must not be dejected and sad!"

<sup>11</sup> And the Levites, too, quieted the people, telling them, "That's right! Don't weep! For this is a day of holy joy, not of sadness."

<sup>12</sup> So the people went away to eat a festive meal and to send presents; it was a time of great and joyful celebration because they could hear and understand God's words.

<sup>13</sup> The next day the clan leaders and the priests and Levites met with Ezra to go over the law in greater detail. <sup>14</sup> As they studied it, they noted that Jehovah had told Moses that the people of Israel should live in tents during the Festival of Tabernacles to be held that month. <sup>15</sup> He had said also that a proclamation should be made throughout the cities of the land, especially in Jerusalem, telling the people to go to the hills to get branches from olive, myrtle, palm, and fig trees and to make huts in which to live for the duration of the feast.

<sup>16</sup> So the people went out and cut branches and used them to build huts on the roofs of their houses, or in their courtyards, or in the court of the Temple, or on the plaza beside the Water Gate, or at the Ephraim Gate Plaza. <sup>17</sup> They lived in these huts for the seven days of the feast, and everyone was filled with joy! (This procedure had not been carried out since the days of Joshua.) <sup>18</sup> Ezra read from the scroll on each of the seven days of the feast, and on the eighth day there was a solemn closing service as required by the laws of Moses.

9 ON OCTOBER 10<sup>a</sup> the people returned for another observance; this time they fasted and clothed themselves with sackcloth and sprinkled dirt in their hair. And the Israelis separated themselves from all foreigners. <sup>1</sup> The laws of God were read aloud to them for two or three hours, and for several more hours they took turns confessing their own sins and those of their ancestors. And everyone worshiped the Lord their God. <sup>2</sup> Some of the Levites were on the platform praising the Lord God with songs of joy. These men were Jeshua, Kadmi-el, Bani, Shebaniah, Bunni, Sherebiah, Bani, and Chenani.

<sup>3</sup> Then the Levite leaders called out to the people, "Stand up and praise the Lord your God, for he lives from everlasting to everlasting. Praise his glorious name! It is far greater than we can think or say."

The leaders in this part of the service were Jeshua, Kadmi-el, Bani, Hashabneiah, Sherebiah, Hodiah, Shebaniah, and Pethahiah.

<sup>6</sup> Then Ezra prayed, "You alone are God. You have made the skies and the heavens, the earth and the seas, and everything in them. You preserve it all; and all the angels of heaven worship you.

<sup>7</sup> "You are the Lord God who chose Abram and brought him from Ur of the Chaldeans and renamed him Abraham. <sup>8</sup> When he was faithful to you, you made a contract with him to forever give him and his descendants the land of the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Jebusites, and Girgashites; and now you have done what you promised, for you are always true to your word.

<sup>9</sup> "You saw the troubles and sorrows of our ancestors in Egypt, and you heard their cries from beside the Red Sea. <sup>10</sup> You displayed great miracles against Pharaoh and his people, for you knew how brutally the Egyptians were treating them; you have a glorious reputation because of those never-to-be-forgotten deeds. <sup>11</sup> You divided the sea for your people so they could go through on dry land! And then you destroyed their enemies in the depths of the sea; they sank like stones beneath the mighty waters.

<sup>12</sup> You led our ancestors by a pillar of cloud during the day and a pillar of fire at night so that they could find their way.

<sup>13</sup> "You came down upon Mount Sinai and spoke with them from heaven and gave them good laws and true commandments, <sup>14</sup> including the laws about the holy Sabbath; and you commanded them, through Moses your servant, to obey them all.

<sup>15</sup> "You gave them bread from heaven when they were hungry and water from the rock when they were thirsty. You commanded them to go in and conquer the land you had sworn to give them; <sup>16</sup> but our ancestors were a proud and stubborn lot, and they refused to listen to your commandments.

<sup>17</sup> "They refused to obey and didn't pay any attention to the miracles you did for them; instead, they rebelled and appointed a leader to take them back into slavery in Egypt! But you are a God of forgiveness, always ready to pardon, gracious and merciful, slow to become angry, and full of love and mercy; you didn't abandon them, <sup>18</sup> even though they made a calf-idol and proclaimed, 'This is our God! He brought us out of Egypt!' They sinned in so many ways, <sup>19</sup> but in your great mercy you didn't abandon them to die in the wilderness! The pillar of cloud led them forward day by day, and the pillar of fire showed them the way through the night. <sup>20</sup> You sent your good Spirit to instruct them, and you did not stop giving them bread from heaven or water for their thirst. <sup>21</sup> For forty years you sustained them in the wilderness; they lacked nothing in all that time. Their clothes didn't wear out and their feet didn't swell!

<sup>22</sup> "Then you helped them conquer great kingdoms and many nations, and you placed your people in every corner of the land; they completely took over the land of King Sihon of Heshbon and King Og of Bashan. <sup>23</sup> You caused a population explosion among the Israelis and brought them into the land you had promised to their ancestors. <sup>24</sup> You subdued whole nations before them—even the kings and the people of the Canaanites were powerless! <sup>25</sup> Your people captured fortified cities and fertile land; they took over houses full of good things, with cisterns and vineyards and oliveyards and many, many fruit trees; so they ate and were full and enjoyed themselves in all your blessings.

<sup>26</sup> "But despite all this they were disobedient and rebelled against you. They threw away your law, killed the prophets who told them to return to you, and they did many other terrible things. <sup>27</sup> So you gave them to their enemies. But in their time of trouble they cried to you and you heard them from heaven, and in great mercy you sent them saviors who delivered them from their enemies. <sup>28</sup> But when all was going well, your people turned to sin again, and once more you let their enemies conquer them. Yet whenever your people returned to you and cried to you for help, once more you listened from heaven, and in your wonderful mercy delivered them! <sup>29</sup> You punished them in order to turn them toward your laws; but even though they should have obeyed them,<sup>b</sup> they were proud and wouldn't listen, and continued to sin.<sup>30</sup> You were patient with them for many years. You sent your prophets to warn them about their sins, but still they wouldn't listen. So once again you allowed the heathen nations to conquer them.<sup>31</sup> But in your great mercy you did not destroy them completely or abandon them forever. What a gracious and merciful God you are!

<sup>32</sup> "And now, O great and awesome God, you who keep your promises of love and kindness—do not let all the hardships we have gone through become as nothing to you. Great trouble has come upon us and upon our kings and princes and priests and prophets and ancestors from the days when the kings of Assyria first triumphed over us until now.<sup>33</sup> Every time you punished us you were being perfectly fair; we have sinned so greatly that you gave us only what we deserved.<sup>34</sup> Our kings, princes, priests, and ancestors didn't obey your laws or listen to your warnings.<sup>35</sup> They did not worship you despite the wonderful things you did for them and the great goodness you showered upon them. You gave them a large, fat land, but they refused to turn from their wickedness.

<sup>36</sup> "So now we are slaves here in the land of plenty which you gave to our ancestors! Slaves among all this abundance! <sup>37</sup> The lush yield of this land passes into the hands of the kings whom you have allowed to conquer us because of our sins. They have power over our bodies and our cattle, and we serve them at their pleasure and are in great misery.<sup>38</sup> Because of all this, we again promise to serve the Lord! And we and our princes and Levites and priests put our names to this covenant."

10 I, NEHEMIAH THE governor, signed the covenant. The others who signed it were:

Zedekiah, Seraiah, Azariah, Jeremiah, Pashhur, Amariah,
Malchijah, Hattush,
Shebaniah,
Malluch, Harim,
Meremoth,
Obadiah, Daniel,
Ginnethon,
Baruch, Meshullam,
Abijah,
Mija-min, Ma-aziah, Bilgai, Shemaiah. (All those listed above were priests.)

<sup>9-13</sup> These were the Levites who signed:

Jeshua (son of Azaniah), Binnui
(son of Henadad), Kadmi-el,
Shebaniah, Hodiah, Kelita,
Pelaiah, Hanan, Mica, Rehob,
Hashabiah, Zaccur, Sherebiah,
Shebaniah, Hodiah,
Bani, Beninu.

<sup>14-27</sup> The political leaders who signed:

Parosh, Pahath-moab,
Elam, Zattu,
Bani, Bunni, Azgad, Bebai,
Adonijah, Bigvai, Adin,
Ater, Hezekiah, Azzur,

<sup>b</sup> Literally, "by the observance of which a man shall live."

Hodiah,
Hashum, Bezai, Hariph,
Anathoth, Nebai,
Magpiash,
Meshullam, Hezir, Meshezabel,
Zadok, Jaddu-a, Pelatiah,
Hanan, Anaiah, Hoshea,
Hananiah, Hasshub,
Hollohesh,
Pilha, Shobek, Rehum,
Hashabnah, Ma-aseiah,
Ahiah, Hanan,
Anan, Malluch,
Har Baana.

<sup>28</sup> These men signed on behalf of the entire nation—for the common people; the priests; the Levites; the gatekeepers; the choir members; the Temple servants; and all the rest who, with their wives and sons and daughters who were old enough to understand, had separated themselves from the heathen people of the land in order to serve God. <sup>29</sup> For we all heartily agreed to this oath and vowed to accept the curse of God unless we obeyed God's laws as issued by his servant Moses.

<sup>30</sup> We also agreed not to let our daughters marry non-Jewish men and not to let our sons marry non-Jewish girls.

<sup>31</sup> We further agreed that if the heathen people in the land should bring any grain or other produce to be sold on the Sabbath or on any other holy day, we would refuse to buy it. And we agreed not to do any work every seventh year and to forgive and cancel the debts of our brother Jews.

<sup>32</sup> We also agreed to charge ourselves annually with a Temple tax so that there would be enough money to care for the Temple of our God; <sup>33</sup> for we needed supplies of the special Bread of the Presence, as well as grain offerings and burnt offerings for the Sabbaths, the new moon feasts, and the annual feasts. We also needed to purchase the other items necessary for the work of the Temple and for the atonement of Israel.

<sup>34</sup> Then we tossed a coin<sup>a</sup> to determine when—at regular times each year—the families of the priests, Levites, and leaders should supply the wood for the burnt offerings at the Temple as required in the law.

<sup>35</sup> We also agreed always to bring the first part of every crop to the Temple—whether it be a ground crop or from our fruit and olive trees.

<sup>36</sup> We agreed to give to God our oldest sons and the firstborn of all our cattle, herds, and flocks, just as the law requires; we presented them to the priests who minister in the Temple of our God. <sup>37</sup> They stored the produce in the Temple of our God—the best of our grain crops, and other contributions, the first of our fruit, and the first of the new wine and olive oil. And we promised to bring to the Levites a tenth of everything our land produced, for the Levites were responsible to collect the tithes in all our rural towns. <sup>38</sup> A priest—a descendant of Aaron—would be with the Levites as they received these tithes, and a tenth of all that was collected as tithes was delivered to the Temple and placed in the storage areas.

<sup>39,40</sup> The people and the Levites were required by law to bring these offerings of grain, new wine, and olive oil to the Temple and place them in the sacred containers for use by the ministering priests, the gatekeepers, and the choir singers.

So we agreed together not to neglect the Temple of our God.

11 THE ISRAELI OFFICIALS were living in Jerusalem, the Holy City, at this time; but now a tenth of the people from the other cities and towns of Judah and Benjamin were selected by lot to live there too. <sup>2</sup> Some who moved to Jerusalem at this time were volunteers, and they were highly honored.

<sup>3</sup> Following is a list of the names of the provincial officials who came to Jerusalem (though most of the leaders, the priests, the Levites, the Temple assistants, and the descendants of Solomon's servants continued to live in their own homes in the various cities of Judah).

Athaiah (son of Uziah, son of Zechariah, son of Amariah, son of Shephatiah, son of Mahalelel, a descendant of Perez);

Ma-aseiah (son of Baruch, son of Col-hozeh, son of Hazaiah, son of Adaiah, son of Joiarib, son of Zechariah, son of the Shilonite).

These were the 468 stalwart descendants of Perez who lived in Jerusalem.

<sup>7,8,9</sup> Leaders from the tribe of Benjamin:

Sallu (son of Meshullam, son of Joed, son of Pedaiah, son of Kolaiah, son of Ma-aseiah, son of Ithiel, son of Jeshaiiah).

The 968 descendants of Gabbai and Sallai. Their chief was Joel, son of Zichri, who was assisted by Judah, son of Hassenuah.

<sup>10-14</sup> Leaders from among the priests:

Jedaiah (son of Joiarib);

Jachin;

Seraiah (son of Hilkiah, son of Meshullam, son of Zadok, son of Meraioth, son of Ahitub the chief priest).

In all, there were 822 priests doing the work at the Temple under the leadership of these men. And there were 242 priests under the leadership of Adaiah (son of Jeroham, son of Pelaliah, son of Amzi, son of Zechariah, son of Pashhur, son of Malchijah).

There were also 128 stalwart men under the leadership of Amashsai (son of Azarel, son of Ahzai, son of Meshillemoth, son of Immer); who was assisted by Zabdiel (son of Hagedolim).

<sup>15,16,17</sup> Levite leaders:

Shemaiah (son of Hasshub, son of Azrikam, son of Hashabiah, son of Bunni);

Shabbethai and Jozabad, who were in charge of the work outside the Temple;

Mattaniah (son of Mica, son of Zabdi, son of Asaph) was the one who began the thanksgiving services with prayer;

Bakbukiah and Abda (son of Shammua, son of Galal, son of Jeduthun) were his assistants.

<sup>18</sup> In all, there were 284 Levites in Jerusalem.

<sup>19</sup> There were also 172 gatekeepers, led by Akkub, Talmon, and others of their clan. <sup>20</sup> The other priests, Levites, and people lived wherever their family inheritance was located.

<sup>21</sup> However, the Temple workers (whose leaders were Ziha and Gishpa) all lived in Ophel.

<sup>21,22</sup> The supervisor of the Levites in Jerusalem and of those serving at the Temple was Uzzi (son of Bani, son of Hashabiah, son of Matthanah, son of Mica), a descendant of Asaph, whose clan became the Tabernacle singers. He was appointed by King David,<sup>a</sup> who also set the pay scale of the singers.

<sup>24</sup> Pethahiah (son of Meshezabel, a descendant of Zerah, a son of Judah) assisted in all matters of public administration.

<sup>25-30</sup> Some of the towns where the people of Judah lived were:

Kiriath-arba, Dibon,
Jekabzeel (and their surrounding villages),
Jeshua, Moladah,
Beth-pelet,
Hazar-shual, Beer-sheba (and its surrounding villages),
Ziklag,
Meconah and its villages,
En-rimmon, Zorah,
Jarmuth,
Zanoah, Adullam (and their surrounding villages),
Lachish and its nearby fields,

Azekah and its towns.

So the people spread from Beer-sheba to the valley of Hinnom.

<sup>31-33</sup> The people of the tribe of Benjamin lived at:

Geba, Michmash, Aija,
Bethel (and its surrounding villages),
Anathoth, Nob, Ananiah,
Hazor, Ramah, Gittaim,
Hadid, Zeboim, Neballat,
Lod, Ono (the Valley of the Craftsmen).

<sup>36</sup> Some of the Levites who lived in Judah were sent to live with the tribe of Benjamin.

12 HERE IS A list of the priests who accompanied Zerubbabel (son of She-altiel) and Jeshua:

Seraiah, Jeremiah,
Ezra, Amariah,
Malluch, Hattush,
Shecaniah,
Rehum, Meremoth, Iddo,
Ginnethoi, Abijah,
Mijamin,
Ma-adiah, Bilgah,
Shemaiah,
Joiarib, Jedaiah,
Sallu, Amok,
Hilkiah, Jedaiah.

<sup>9</sup> The Levites who went with them were:

Jeshua, Binnui, Kadmi-el, Sherebiah, Judah,
Mattaniah—who was the one in charge of the thanksgiving service.

<sup>9</sup> Bakbukiah and Unno, their fellow clansmen, helped them during the service.

Joiakim was the father of Eliashib;
Eliashib was the father of Joiada;
Joiada was the father of Jonathan;
Jonathan was the father of Jaddu-a.

<sup>12-21</sup> The following were the clan leaders of the priests who served under the High Priest Joiakim:

Meraiah, leader of the Seraiah clan;

Hananiah, leader of the Jeremiah clan;

Meshullam, leader of the Ezra clan;

Jehohanan, leader of the Amariah clan;

Jonathan, leader of the Mal-luchi clan;

Joseph, leader of the Sheba-niah clan;

Adna, leader of the Harim
clan;

Helkai, leader of the Meraioth clan;

Zechariah, leader of the Iddo
clan;

Meshullam, leader of the Ginnethon clan;

clan;

gah clan;

rib clan;

clan;

Kallai, leader of the Sallai
clan;

Eber, leader of the Amok

clan;

Hashabiah, leader of the Hilkiah clan;

Nethanel, leader of the Je-daiah clan.

<sup>22</sup> A genealogical record of the heads of the clans of the priests and Levites was compiled during the reign of King Darius of Persia, in the days of Eliashib, Joiada, Joha-nan, and Jaddu-a—all of whom were Levites.

<sup>23</sup> In The Book of the Chronicles the Levite names were recorded down to the days of Johanan, the son of Eliashib.

<sup>24</sup> These were the chiefs of the Levites at that time:

Hashabiah, Sherebiah, and Jeshua (son of Kadmi-el).

Their fellow-clansmen helped them during the ceremonies of praise and thanksgiving, just as commanded by David, the man of God.

<sup>25</sup> The gatekeepers who had charge of the collection centers at the gates were:

Mattaniah, Bakbukiah, Obadiah,
Meshullam, Talmon, Akkub.

<sup>26</sup> These were the men who were active in the time of Joiakim (son of Jeshua, son of Jozadak), and when I was the governor, and when Ezra was the priest and teacher of religion.

<sup>27</sup> During the dedication of the new Jerusalem wall, all the Levites throughout the land came to Jerusalem to assist in the ceremonies and to take part in the joyous occasion with their thanksgiving, cymbals, psalties, and harps. <sup>28</sup> The choir members also came to Jerusalem from the surrounding villages and from the villages of the Ne-tophathites; <sup>29</sup> they also came from Beth-gilgal and the area of Geba and Azmaveth, for the singers had built their own villages as suburbs of Jerusalem. <sup>30</sup> The priests and Levites first dedicated themselves, then the people, the gates, and the wall.

<sup>31,32</sup> I led the Judean leaders to the top of the wall and divided them into two long lines to walk in opposite directions along the top of the wall, giving thanks as they went. The group which went to the right toward the Dung Gate consisted of half of the leaders of Judah, <sup>33</sup> including Hoshaiiah, Azariah, Ezra, Meshullam, <sup>34</sup> Judah, Benjamin, Shemaiah, and Jeremiah.

<sup>35,36</sup> The priests who played the trumpets were Zechariah (son of Jonathan, son of Shemaiah, son of Mattaniah, son of Micaiah, son of Zaccur, son of Asaph), Shemaiah, Azarel, Milalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nethanel, Judah, and Hanani.

(They used the original musical instruments of King David.) Ezra the priest led this procession. <sup>37</sup> When they arrived at the Fountain Gate they went straight ahead and climbed the stairs which go up beside the castle to the old City of David; then they went to the Water Gate on the east.

<sup>38</sup> The other group, of which I was a member, went around the other way to meet them. We walked from the Tower of Furnaces to the Broad Wall, <sup>39</sup> then from the Ephraim Gate to the Old Gate, passed the Fish Gate and the Tower of Hananel, and went on to the gate of the Tower of the Hundred; then we continued on to the Sheep Gate and stopped at the Prison Gate.

<sup>40,41</sup> Both choirs then proceeded to the Temple. Those with me were joined by the trumpet-playing priests—

Eliakim, Ma-aseiah, Miniamin,
Micaiah, Eli-o-enai,
Zechariah, and Hananiah,

<sup>42</sup> and by the singers—
Ma-aseiah, Shemaiah, Eleazar,
Uzzi, Jehohanan, Malchijah,
Elam and Ezer.

They sang loudly and clearly under the direction of Jezrahiah the choirmaster.

<sup>43</sup> Many sacrifices were offered on that joyous day, for God had given us cause for great joy. The women and children rejoiced too, and the joy of the people of Jerusalem was heard far away!

<sup>44</sup> On that day men were appointed to be in charge of the treasuries, the wave offerings, the tithes, and first-of-the-harvest offerings, and to collect these from the farms as decreed by the laws of Moses. These offerings were assigned to the priests and Levites, for the people of Judah appreciated the priests and Levites and their ministry. <sup>45</sup> They also appreciated the work of the singers and gatekeepers, who assisted them in worshipping God and performing the purification ceremonies as required by the laws of David and his son Solomon. <sup>46</sup> (It was in the days of David and Asaph that the custom began of having choir directors to lead the choirs in hymns of praise and thanks to God.) "So now, in the days of Zerubbabel and Nehemiah, the people brought a daily supply of food for the members of the choir, the gatekeepers, and the Levites. The Levites, in turn, gave a portion of what they received to the priests.<sup>a</sup>

13 ON THAT SAME day, as the laws of Moses were being read, the people found a statement which said that the Ammonites and Moabites should never be permitted to worship at the Temple.<sup>a</sup> For they had not been friendly to the people of Israel. Instead, they had hired Balaam to curse them—although God turned the curse into a blessing. When this rule was read, all the foreigners were immediately expelled from the assembly.

<sup>4</sup> Before this had happened, Eliashib the priest, who had been appointed as custodian of the Temple storerooms and who was also a good friend of Tobiah, had converted a storage room into a beautiful guest room for Tobiah. The room had previously been used for storing the grain offerings, frankincense, bowls, and tithes of grain, new wine, and olive oil. Moses had decreed that these offerings belonged to the Levites, the members of the choir, and the gatekeepers. (The wave offerings were for the priests.)

<sup>6</sup> I was not in Jerusalem at the time, for I had returned to Babylon in the thirty-second year of the reign of King Ar-ta-xerxes (though I later received his permission to go back again to Jerusalem). When I arrived back in Jerusalem and learned of this evil deed of Eliashib—that he had prepared a guest room in the Temple for Tobiah—I was very upset and threw out all of his belongings from the room. Then I demanded that the room be thoroughly cleaned, and I brought back the Temple bowls, the grain offerings, and frankincense.

<sup>10</sup> I also learned that the Levites had not been given what was due them, so they and the choir singers who were supposed to conduct the worship services had returned to their farms. I immediately confronted the leaders and demanded, "Why has the Temple been forsaken?" Then I called all the Levites back again and restored them to their proper duties. And once more all the people of Judah began bringing their tithes of grain, new wine, and olive oil to the Temple treasury.

<sup>11</sup> I put Shelemiah the priest, Zadok the scribe, and Pedaiah the Levite in charge of the administration of the storehouses; and I appointed Hanan (son of Zaccur, son of Mattaniah) as their assistant. These men had an excellent reputation, and their job was to make an honest distribution to their fellow-Levites.

<sup>14</sup> O my God, remember this good deed and do not forget all that I have done for the Temple.

produce which they took that day into Jerusalem. So I opposed them publicly. <sup>16</sup> There were also some men from Tyre bringing in fish and all sorts of wares and selling them on the Sabbath to the people of Jerusalem.

<sup>17</sup> Then I asked the leaders of Judah, "Why are you profaning the Sabbath? <sup>18</sup> Wasn't it enough that your fathers did this sort of thing and brought the present evil days upon us and upon our city? And now you are bringing more wrath upon the people of Israel by permitting the Sabbath to be desecrated in this way."

<sup>19</sup> So from then on I commanded that the gates of the city be shut as darkness fell on Friday evenings and not be opened until the Sabbath had ended; and I sent some of my servants to guard the gates so that no merchandise could be brought in on the Sabbath day. <sup>20</sup> The merchants and tradesmen camped outside Jerusalem once or twice, <sup>21</sup> but I spoke sharply to them and said, "What are you doing out here, camping around the wall? If you do this again, I will arrest you." And that was the last time they came on the Sabbath.

<sup>22</sup> Then I commanded the Levites to purify themselves and to guard the gates in order to preserve the sanctity of the Sabbath. Remember this good deed, O my God! Have compassion upon me in accordance with your great goodness.

<sup>23</sup> About the same time I realized that some of the Jews had married women from Ashdod, Ammon, and Moab, <sup>24</sup> and that many of their children spoke in the language of Ashdod and couldn't speak the language of Judah at all. <sup>25</sup> So I argued with these parents and cursed them and punched a few of them and knocked them around and pulled out their hair; and they vowed before God that they would not let their children intermarry with non-Jews.

<sup>26</sup> "Wasn't this exactly King Solomon's problem?" I demanded. "There was no king who could compare with him, and God loved him and made him the king over all Israel; but even so he was led into idolatry by foreign women. <sup>27</sup> Do you think that we will let you get away with this sinful deed?"

<sup>28</sup> One of the sons of Jehoiada (the son of Eliashib the High Priest) was a son-in-law of Sanballat the Horonite, so I chased him out of the Temple. <sup>29</sup> Remember them, O my God, for they have defiled the priesthood and the promises and vows of the priests and Levites. <sup>30</sup> So I purged out the foreigners, and assigned tasks to the priests and Levites, making certain that each knew his work. <sup>31</sup> They supplied wood for the altar at the proper times and cared for the sacrifices and the first offerings of every harvest.

Remember me, my God, with your kindness.

ESTHER

1 IT WAS THE third year of the reign of King Ahasuerus, emperor of vast Media-Persia, with its 127 provinces stretching from India to Ethiopia. This was the year of the great celebration at Shushan Palace, to which the emperor invited all his governors, aides, and army officers, bringing them in from every part of Media-Persia for the occasion. <sup>4</sup> The celebration lasted six months, a tremendous display of the wealth and glory of his empire.

<sup>5</sup> When it was all over, the king gave a special party for the palace servants and officials—janitors and cabinet officials alike—for seven days of revelry, held in the courtyard of the palace garden. <sup>6</sup> The decorations were green, white, and blue, fastened with purple ribbons<sup>a</sup> tied to silver rings imbedded in marble pillars. Gold and silver benches stood on pavements of black, red, white, and yellow marble. <sup>7</sup> Drinks were served in golden goblets of many designs, and there was an abundance of royal wine, for the king was feeling very generous. <sup>8</sup> The only restriction on the drinking was that no one should be compelled to take more than he wanted, but those who wished could have as much as they pleased. For the king had instructed his officers to let everyone decide this matter for himself. <sup>9</sup> Queen Vashti gave a party for the women of the palace at the same time.

<sup>10</sup> On the final day, when the king was feeling high, half drunk from wine, he told the seven eunuchs who were his personal aides—Mehuman, Biztha, Harbona, Bigtha, Abagtha, Zethar, and Carakas—<sup>11</sup> to bring Queen Vashti to him with the royal crown upon her head so that all the men could gaze upon her beauty—for she was a very beautiful woman. <sup>12</sup> But when they conveyed the emperor's order to Queen Vashti, she refused to come. The king was furious, <sup>13,14,15</sup> but first consulted his lawyers, for he did nothing without their advice. They were men of wisdom who knew the temper of the times as well as Persian law and justice, and the king trusted their judgment. These men were Carshena, Shethar, Admatha, Tarshish, Meres, Marsena, and Memucan—seven high officials of Media-Persia. They were his personal friends as well as being the chief officers of the government.

“What shall we do about this situation?” he asked them. “What penalty does the law provide for a queen who refuses to obey the king's orders, properly sent through his aides?”

what the queen did and will start talking to us husbands the same way, and there will be contempt and anger throughout your realm. <sup>19</sup> We suggest that, subject to your agreement, you issue a royal edict, a law of the Medes and Persians that can never be changed, that Queen Vashti be forever banished from your presence and that you choose another queen more worthy than she. <sup>20</sup> When this decree is published throughout your great kingdom, husbands everywhere, whatever their rank, will be respected by their wives!"

<sup>21</sup> The king and all his aides thought this made good sense, so he followed Memucan's counsel, <sup>22</sup> and sent letters to all of his provinces, in all the local languages, stressing that every man should rule his home, and should assert his authority.

2 BUT AFTER KING Ahasuerus' anger had cooled, he began brooding over the loss of Vashti, realizing that he would never see her again.

<sup>2</sup> So his aides suggested, "Let us go and find the most beautiful girls in the empire and bring them to the king for his pleasure. <sup>3</sup> We will appoint agents in each province to select young lovelies for the royal harem. Hegai, the eunuch in charge, will see that they are given beauty treatments, <sup>4</sup> and after that, the girl who pleases you most shall be the queen instead of Vashti."

This suggestion naturally pleased the king very much, and he put the plan into immediate effect.

<sup>5</sup> Now there was a certain Jew at the palace named Mordecai (son of Jair, son of Shime-i, son of Kish, a Benjaminite). <sup>6</sup> He had been captured when Jerusalem was destroyed by King Nebuchadnezzar, and had been exiled to Babylon along with King Jeconiah of Judah and many others. <sup>7</sup> This man had a beautiful and lovely young cousin,<sup>a</sup> Hadassah (also called Esther), whose father and mother were dead, and whom he had adopted into his family and raised as his own daughter. <sup>8</sup> So now, as a result of the king's decree, Esther was brought to the king's harem at Shushan Palace, along with many other young girls. <sup>9</sup> Hegai, who was responsible for the harem, was very much impressed with her, and did his best to make her happy; he ordered a special menu for her, favored her for the beauty treatments, gave her seven girls from the palace as her maids, and gave her the most luxurious apartment in the harem. <sup>10</sup> Esther hadn't told anyone that she was a Jewess, for Mordecai had said not to. <sup>11</sup> He came daily to the court of the harem to ask about Esther and to find out what was happening to her.

<sup>12,13,14</sup> The instructions concerning these girls were that before being taken to the king's bed, each would be given six months of beauty treatments with oil of myrrh, followed by six months with special perfumes and ointments. Then, as each girl's turn came for spending the night with King Ahasuerus, she was given her choice of clothing or jewelry she wished, to enhance her beauty. She was taken to the king's apartment in the evening and the next morning returned to the second harem where the king's wives lived. There she was under the care of Shaashgaz, another of the king's eunuchs, and lived there the rest of her life, never seeing the king again unless he had especially enjoyed her, and called for her by name.

<sup>20</sup> Esther still hadn't told anyone she was a Jewess, for she was still following Mordecai's orders, just as she had in his home.

<sup>21</sup> One day, as Mordecai was on duty at the palace, two of the king's eunuchs, Bigthan and Teresh—who were guards at the palace gate—became angry at the king and plotted to assassinate him. <sup>22</sup> Mordecai heard about it and passed on the information to Queen Esther, who told the king, crediting Mordecai with the information. <sup>23</sup> An investigation was made, the two men found guilty, and impaled alive.<sup>d</sup> This was all duly recorded in the book of the history of King Ahasuerus' reign.

3 SOON AFTERWARDS KING Ahasuerus appointed Haman (son of Hammedatha the Agagite), as prime minister. He was the most powerful official in the empire next to the king himself. <sup>2</sup> Now all the king's officials bowed before him in deep reverence whenever he passed by, for so the king had commanded. But Mordecai refused to bow.

<sup>3,4</sup> "Why are you disobeying the king's commandment?" the others demanded day after day, but he still refused. Finally they spoke to Haman about it, to see whether Mordecai could get away with it because of his being a Jew, which was the excuse he had given them. <sup>5,6</sup> Haman was furious, but decided not to lay hands on Mordecai alone, but to move against all of Mordecai's people, the Jews, and destroy all of them throughout the whole kingdom of Ahasuerus. <sup>7</sup> The most propitious time for this action was determined by throwing dice. This was done in April of the twelfth year of the reign of Ahasuerus, and b Literally, "Esther, the daughter of Abihail who was Mordecai's uncle, who had adopted her."

c Or, "When Esther and the other girls had been transferred to the second harem."

February of the following year was the date indicated.

<sup>9</sup> Haman now approached the king about the matter. "There is a certain race of people scattered through all the provinces of your kingdom," he began, "and their laws are different from those of any other nation, and they refuse to obey the king's laws; therefore, it is not in the king's interest to let them live. <sup>10</sup> If it please the king, issue a decree that they be destroyed, and I will pay $20,000,000 into the royal treasury for the expenses involved in this purge."

<sup>12</sup> Two or three weeks later,<sup>b</sup> Haman called in the king's secretaries and dictated letters to the governors and officials throughout the empire, to each province in its own languages and dialects; these letters were signed in the name of King Ahasuerus and sealed with his ring.

<sup>11</sup> They were then sent by messengers into all the provinces of the empire, decreeing that the Jews—young and old, women and children—must all be killed on the 28th day of February of the following year, and their property given to those who killed them. "A copy of this edict," the letter stated, "must be proclaimed as law in every province, and made known to all your people, so that they will be ready to do their duty on the appointed day." <sup>12</sup> The edict went out by the king's speediest couriers, after being first proclaimed in the city of Shushan. Then the king and Haman sat down for a drinking spree as the city fell into confusion and panic.

4 WHEN MORDECAI LEARNED

what had been done, he tore his clothes and put on sackcloth and ashes, and went out into the city, crying with a loud and bitter wail.

<sup>1</sup> Then he stood outside the gate of the palace, for no one was permitted to enter in mourning clothes.

<sup>2</sup> And throughout all the provinces there was great mourning among the Jews, fasting, weeping, and despair at the king's decree; and many lay in sackcloth and ashes.

<sup>3</sup> When Esther's maids and eunuchs came and told her about Mordecai, she was deeply distressed and sent clothing to him to replace the sackcloth, but he refused it.

<sup>4</sup> Then Esther sent for Hathach, one of the king's eunuchs who had been appointed as her attendant, and told him to go out to Mordecai and find out what the trouble was, and why he was acting like that. <sup>5</sup> So Hathach went out to the city square, and found Mordecai just outside the palace gates, <sup>6</sup> and heard the whole story from him; and about the $20,000,000 Haman had promised to pay into the king's treasury for the destruction of the Jews. <sup>7</sup> Mordecai also gave Hathach a copy of the king's decree dooming all Jews, and told him to show it to

Esther and to tell her what was happening, and that she should go to the king to plead for her people.<sup>9</sup> So Hathach returned to Esther with Mordecai's message.<sup>10</sup> Esther told Hathach to go back and say to Mordecai,

<sup>11</sup> "All the world knows that anyone, whether man or woman, who goes into the king's inner court without his summons is doomed to die unless the king holds out his golden scepter; and the king has not called for me to come to him in more than a month."

<sup>13</sup> This was Mordecai's reply to Esther: "Do you think you will escape there in the palace, when all other Jews are killed? <sup>14</sup> If you keep quiet at a time like this, God will deliver the Jews from some other source, but you and your relatives will die; what's more, who can say but that God has brought you into the palace for just such a time as this?"

<sup>15</sup> Then Esther said to tell Mordecai:

<sup>16</sup> "Go and gather together all the Jews of Shushan and fast for me; do not eat or drink for three days, night or day; and I and my maids will do the same; and then, though it is strictly forbidden, I will go in to see the king; and if I perish, I perish."

<sup>17</sup> So Mordecai did as Esther told him to.

5 THREE DAYS LATER Esther put on her royal robes and entered the inner court just beyond the royal hall of the palace, where the king was sitting upon his royal throne.<sup>2</sup> And when he saw Queen Esther standing there in the inner court, he welcomed her, holding out the golden scepter to her. So Esther approached and touched its tip.

<sup>3</sup> Then the king asked her, "What do you wish, Queen Esther? What is your request? I will give it to you, even if it is half the kingdom!"

<sup>4</sup> And Esther replied, "If it please Your Majesty, I want you and Haman to come to a banquet I have prepared for you today."

<sup>5</sup> The king turned to his aides. "Tell Haman to hurry!" he said. So the king and Haman came to Esther's banquet.

<sup>6</sup> During the wine course the king said to Esther, "Now tell me what you really want, and I will give it to you, even if it is half of the kingdom!"

<sup>7,8</sup> Esther replied, "My request, my deepest wish, is that if Your Majesty loves me, and wants to grant my request, that you come again with Haman tomorrow to the banquet I shall prepare for you. And tomorrow I will explain what this is all about."

<sup>9</sup> What a happy man was Haman as he left the banquet! But when he saw Mordecai there at the gate, not standing up or trembling before him, he was furious. <sup>10</sup> However, he restrained himself and went on home and gathered together his friends and Zeresh his wife, <sup>11</sup> and boasted to them about his wealth, and his many children, and promotions the king had given him, and how he had become the greatest man in the kingdom next to the king himself.

<sup>12</sup> Then he delivered his final punch line: "Yes, and Esther the queen invited only me and the king himself to the banquet she prepared for us; and tomorrow we are invited again! <sup>11</sup> But yet," he added, "all this is nothing when I see Mordecai the Jew just sitting there in front of the king's gate, refusing to bow to me."

<sup>14</sup> "Well," suggested Zeresh his wife and all his friends, "get ready a 75-foot-high gallows, and in the morning ask the king to let you hang Mordecai on it; and when this is done you can go on your merry way with the king to the banquet." This pleased Haman immensely and he ordered the gallows built.

6 THAT NIGHT THE king had trouble sleeping and decided to read awhile. He ordered the historical records of his kingdom from the library, and in them he came across the item telling how Mordecai had exposed the plot of Bigthana and Teresh, two of the king's eunuchs, watchmen at the palace gates, who had plotted to assassinate him.

<sup>3</sup> "What reward did we ever give Mordecai for this?" the king asked.

His courtiers replied, "Nothing!"

<sup>4</sup> "Who is on duty in the outer court?" the king inquired. Now, as it happened, Haman had just arrived in the outer court of the palace to ask the king to hang Mordecai from the gallows he was building.

<sup>5</sup> So the courtiers replied to the king, "Haman is out there."

"Bring him in," the king ordered. <sup>6</sup> So Haman came in and the king said to him, "What should I do to honor a man who truly pleases me?"

Haman thought to himself, "Whom would he want to honor more than me?" <sup>7a</sup> So he replied, "Bring out some of the royal robes the king himself has worn, and the king's own horse, and the royal crown, <sup>9</sup> and instruct one of the king's most noble princes to robe the man and to lead him through the streets on the king's own horse, shouting before him, 'This is the way the king honors those who truly please him!'"

<sup>10</sup> "Excellent!" the king said to Haman. "Hurry and take these robes and my horse, and do just as you have said—to Mordecai the Jew, who works at the Chancellery. Follow every detail you have suggested."

<sup>11</sup> So Haman took the robes and put them on Mordecai and mounted him on the king's own steed, and led him through the streets of the city, shouting, "This is the way the king honors those he delights in."

<sup>13</sup> When Haman told Zeresh his wife and all his friends what had happened, they said, "If Mordecai is a Jew, you will never succeed in your plans against him; to continue to oppose him will be fatal."

<sup>14</sup> While they were still discussing it with him, the king's messengers arrived to conduct Haman quickly to the banquet Esther had prepared.

7 SO THE KING and Haman came to Esther's banquet. <sup>2</sup> Again, during the wine course, the king asked her, "What is your petition, Queen Esther? What do you wish? Whatever it is, I will give it to you, even if it is half of my kingdom!"

<sup>1</sup> And at last Queen Esther replied, "If I have won your favor, O king, and if it please Your Majesty, save my life and the lives of my people. 'For I and my people have been sold to those who will destroy us. We are doomed to destruction and slaughter. If we were only to be sold as slaves, perhaps I could remain quiet, though even then there would be incalculable damage to the king that no amount of money could begin to cover.'"

Then Haman grew pale with fright before the king and queen. <sup>4</sup> The king jumped to his feet and went out into the palace garden as Haman stood up to plead for his life to Queen Esther, for he knew that he was doomed. <sup>5</sup> In despair he fell upon the couch where Queen Esther was reclining, just as the king returned from the palace garden.

"Will he even rape the queen right here in the palace, before my very eyes?" the king roared. Instantly the death veil was placed over Haman's face.

sination! It stands in Haman's courtyard."

"Hang Haman on it," the king ordered.

<sup>7</sup> So they did, and the king's wrath was pacified.

8 ON THAT SAME day King Ahasuerus gave the estate of Haman, the Jews' enemy, to Queen Esther. Then Mordecai was brought before the king, for Esther had told the king that he was her cousin and foster father.<sup>a</sup> <sup>2</sup> The king took off his ring—which he had taken back from Haman—and gave it to Mordecai, [appointing him Prime Minister<sup>b</sup>]; and Esther appointed Mordecai to be in charge of Haman's estate.

<sup>3</sup> And now once more Esther came before the king, falling down at his feet and begging him with tears to stop Haman's plot against the Jews. <sup>4</sup> And again the king held out the golden scepter to Esther. So she arose and stood before him, <sup>5</sup> and said, "If I please Your Majesty, and if you love me, send out a decree reversing Haman's order to destroy the Jews throughout the king's provinces. <sup>6</sup> For how can I endure it, to see my people butchered and destroyed?"

<sup>7</sup> Then King Ahasuerus said to Queen Esther and Mordecai the Jew, "I have given Esther the palace of Haman and he has been hanged upon the gallows because he tried to destroy you. <sup>8</sup> Now go ahead and send a message to the Jews, telling them whatever you want to in the king's name, and seal it with the king's ring, so that it can never be reversed.<sup>c</sup>

<sup>9,10</sup> Immediately the king's secretaries were called in—it was now the 23rd day of the month of July—and they wrote as Mordecai dictated—a decree to the Jews and to the officials, governors, and princes of all the provinces from India to Ethiopia, 127 in all; the decree was translated into the languages and dialects of all the people of the kingdom. Mordecai wrote in the name of King Ahasuerus and sealed the message with the king's ring and sent the letters by swift carriers—riders on camels, mules, and young dromedaries used in the king's service. <sup>11</sup> This decree gave the Jews everywhere permission to unite in the defense of their lives and their families, to destroy all the forces opposed to them, and to take their property. <sup>12</sup> The day chosen for this throughout all the provinces of King Ahasuerus was the 28th day of February!<sup>d</sup> <sup>13</sup> It further stated that a copy of this decree, which must be recognized everywhere as law, must be broadcast to all the people so that the Jews would be ready and prepared to overcome their enemies. <sup>14</sup> So the mail went out swiftly, carried by the king's couriers and speeded by the king's commandment. The same decree was also issued at Shushan Palace.

<sup>15</sup> Then Mordecai put on the royal robes of blue and white and the great crown of gold, with an outer cloak of fine linen and purple, and went out from the presence of the king through the city streets filled with shouting people. <sup>16</sup> And the Jews had joy and gladness, and were honored everywhere. <sup>17</sup> And in every city and province, as the king's decree arrived, the Jews were filled with joy and had a great celebration and declared a holiday. And many of the people of the land pretended to be Jews, for they feared what the Jews might do to them.

9 SO ON THE 28th day of February, the day the two decrees of the king were to be put into effect—the day the Jews' enemies had hoped to vanquish them, though it turned out quite to the contrary—the Jews gathered in their cities throughout all the king's provinces to defend themselves against any who might try to harm them; but no one tried, for they were greatly feared. <sup>1</sup> And all the rulers of the provinces—the governors, officials, and aides—helped the Jews for fear of Mordecai; <sup>2</sup> for Mordecai was a mighty name in the king's palace and his fame was known throughout all the provinces, for he had become more and more powerful.

<sup>3</sup> But the Jews went ahead on that appointed day and slaughtered their enemies. <sup>4</sup> They even killed 500 men in Shushan. <sup>7-10</sup> They also killed the ten sons of Haman (son of Hammedatha), the Jews' enemy—

Parshandatha, Dalphon, Aspatha, Poratha, Adalia,

c Haman's message, too, had been sealed with the king's ring and could not be reversed, even by the king. This was part of the famed "law of the Medes and Persians." Now the king is giving permission for whatever other decree Mordecai can devise that will offset the first, without actually canceling it. d This was the same day as was set by Haman for the extermination of the Jews.

Aridatha,
 Parmashta, Arisai,
 Aridai, and Vaizatha.

But they did not try to take Haman's property.

<sup>11</sup> Late that evening, when the king was informed of the number of those slain in Shushan, <sup>12</sup> he called for Queen Esther. "The Jews have killed 500 men in Shushan alone," he exclaimed, "and also Haman's ten sons. If they have done that here, I wonder what has happened in the rest of the provinces! But now, what more do you want? It will be granted to you. Tell me and I will do it."

<sup>13</sup> And Esther said, "If it please Your Majesty, let the Jews who are here at Shushan do again tomorrow as they have done today, and let Haman's ten sons be hanged upon the gallows."

<sup>14</sup> So the king agreed, and the decree was announced at Shushan, and they hung up the bodies of Haman's ten sons. <sup>15</sup> Then the Jews at Shushan gathered together the next day also and killed 300 more men, though again they took no property.

<sup>16</sup> Meanwhile, the other Jews throughout the king's provinces had gathered together and stood for their lives and destroyed all their enemies, killing 75,000 of those who hated them; but they did not take their goods. <sup>17</sup> Throughout the provinces this was done on the 28th day of February, and the next day they rested, celebrating their victory with feasting and gladness. <sup>18</sup> But the Jews at Shushan went on killing their enemies the second day also, and rested the next day, with feasting and gladness. <sup>19</sup> And so it is that the Jews in the unwall'd villages throughout Israel to this day have an annual celebration on the second day, when they rejoice and send gifts to each other.

<sup>20</sup> Mordecai wrote a history of all these events, and sent letters to the Jews near and far, throughout all the king's provinces, <sup>21</sup> encouraging them to declare an annual holiday on the last days of the month, <sup>22</sup> to celebrate with feasting, gladness, and the giving of gifts this historic day when the Jews were saved from their enemies, when their sorrow was turned to gladness and their mourning into happiness.

<sup>23</sup> So the Jews adopted Mordecai's suggestion and began this annual custom, <sup>24,25</sup> as a reminder of the time when Haman (son of Hammedatha the Agagite), the enemy of all the Jews, had plotted to destroy them at the time determined by a throw of the dice; and to remind them that when the matter came before the king, he issued a decree causing Haman's plot to boomerang, and he and his sons were hanged on the gallows. <sup>26</sup> That is why this celebration is called "Purim," because the word for "throwing dice" in Persian is "pur." <sup>27</sup> All the Jews throughout the realm agreed to inaugurate this tradition and to pass it on to their descendants and to all who became Jews; they declared they would never fail to celebrate these two days at the appointed time each year. <sup>28</sup> It would be an annual event from generation to generation, celebrated by every family throughout the countryside and cities of the empire, so that the memory of what had happened would never perish from the Jewish race.

<sup>29-31</sup> Meanwhile, Queen Esther (daughter of Abihail and later adopted by Mordecai the Jew) had written a letter throwing her full support behind Mordecai's letter inaugurating his annual Feast of Purim. In addition, letters were sent to all the Jews throughout the 127 provinces of the kingdom of Ahasuerus with messages of good will, and encouragement to confirm these two days annually as the Feast of Purim, decreed by both Mordecai the Jew and by Queen Esther; indeed, the Jews themselves had decided upon this tradition as a remembrance of the time of their national fasting and prayer. <sup>32</sup> So the commandment of Esther confirmed these dates and it was recorded as law.

10 KING AHASUERUS NOT only laid tribute upon the mainland, but even on the islands of the sea. <sup>2</sup> His great deeds, and also the full account of the greatness of Mordecai and the honors given him by the king, are written in The Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Media and Persia. <sup>3</sup> Mordecai the Jew was the Prime Minister, with authority next to that of King Ahasuerus himself. He was, of course, very great among the Jews, and respected by all his countrymen because he did his best for his people, and was a friend at court for all of them.

JOB

1 THERE LIVED in the land of Uz a man named Job—a good<sup>a</sup> man who feared God and stayed away from evil. <sup>2,3</sup> He had a large family of seven sons and three daughters, and was immensely wealthy,<sup>b</sup> for he owned 7,000 sheep, 3,000 camels, 500 teams of oxen, 500 female donkeys, and employed many servants. He was, in fact, the richest cattleman in that entire area.

<sup>4</sup> Every year when each of Job's sons had a birthday, he invited his brothers and sisters to his home for a celebration. On these occasions they would eat and drink with great merriment. <sup>5</sup> When these birthday parties ended—and sometimes they lasted several days—Job would summon his children to him and sanctify them, getting up early in the morning and offering a burnt offering for each of them. For Job said, "Perhaps my sons have sinned and turned away from God<sup>c</sup> in their hearts." This was Job's regular practice.

And Satan replied, "From patrolling the earth."

<sup>8</sup> Then the Lord asked Satan, "Have you noticed my servant Job? He is the finest man in all the earth—a good<sup>e</sup> man who fears God and will have nothing to do with evil."

<sup>9</sup> "Why shouldn't he, when you pay him so well?" Satan scoffed.

<sup>10</sup> "You have always protected him and his home and his property from all harm. You have prospered everything he does—look how rich he is! No wonder he 'worships' you!"

<sup>11</sup> But just take away his wealth, and you'll see him curse you to your face!"

<sup>12,13</sup> And the Lord replied to Satan, "You may do anything you like with his wealth, but don't harm him physically."

So Satan went away; and sure enough,<sup>c</sup> not long afterwards when Job's sons and daughters were dining at the oldest brother's house, tragedy struck.

<sup>14,15</sup> A messenger rushed to Job's home with this news: "Your oxen were plowing, with the donkeys feeding beside them, when the Sabeans raided us, drove away the animals and killed all the farmhands except me. I am the only one left."

<sup>16</sup> While this messenger was still speaking, another arrived with more bad news: "The fire of God has fallen from heaven and burned up your sheep and all the herdsman, and I alone have escaped to tell you."

<sup>17</sup> Before this man finished, still another messenger rushed in: "Three bands of Chaldeans have driven off your camels and killed your servants, and I alone have escaped to tell you."

<sup>18</sup> As he was still speaking, another arrived to say, "Your sons and daughters were feasting in their oldest brother's home, <sup>19</sup> when suddenly a mighty wind swept in from the desert, and engulfed the house so that the roof fell in on them and all are dead; and I alone escaped to tell you."

<sup>20</sup> Then Job stood up and tore his robe in grief<sup>f</sup> and fell down upon the ground before God. <sup>21</sup> "I came naked from my mother's womb," he said, "and I shall have nothing when I die. The Lord gave me everything I had, and they were his to take away. Blessed be the name of the Lord."

<sup>22</sup> In all of this, Job did not sin or revile God.

2 NOW THE ANGELS<sup>3</sup> came again to present themselves before the Lord, and Satan with them.

<sup>2</sup> "Where have you come from?" the Lord asked Satan.

"From patrolling the earth," Satan replied.

<sup>3</sup> "Well, have you noticed my servant Job?" the Lord asked. "He is the finest man in all the earth—a good man who fears God and turns away from all evil. And he has kept his faith in me despite the fact that you persuaded me to let you harm him without any cause."

<sup>4,5</sup> "Skin for skin," Satan replied. "A man will give anything to save his life. Touch his body with sickness and he will curse you to your face!"

<sup>6</sup> "Do with him as you please," the Lord replied; "only spare his life."

<sup>7</sup> So Satan went out from the presence of the Lord and struck Job with a terrible case of boils from head to foot. <sup>8</sup> Then Job took a broken piece of pottery to scrape himself, and sat among the ashes.

<sup>9</sup> His wife said to him, "Are you still trying to be godly when God has done all this to you? Curse him and die."

<sup>10</sup> But he replied, "You talk like some heathen woman. What? Shall we receive only pleasant things from the hand of God and never anything unpleasant?" So in all this Job said nothing wrong.

<sup>11</sup> When three of Job's friends heard of all the tragedy that had befallen him, they got in touch with each other and traveled from their homes to comfort and console him. Their names were Eliphaz the Temanite, Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite. <sup>12</sup> Job was so changed that they could scarcely recognize him. Wailing loudly in despair, they tore their robes and threw dust into the air and put earth on their heads to demonstrate their sorrow. <sup>13</sup> Then they sat upon the ground with him silently for seven days and nights, no one speaking a word; for they saw that his suffering was too great for words.

cursed," he said, "and the night when I was conceived. <sup>4</sup> Let that day be forever forgotten. <sup>5</sup> Let it be lost even to God, shrouded in eternal darkness. <sup>6</sup> Yes, let the darkness claim it for its own, and may a black cloud overshadow it. <sup>7</sup> May it be blotted off the calendar, never again to be counted among the days of the month of that year. <sup>8</sup> Let that night be bleak and joyless. <sup>9</sup> Let those who are experts at cursing curse it. <sup>10</sup> Let the stars of the night disappear. Let it long for light, but never see it, never see the morning light.

<sup>11</sup> Curse it for its failure to shut my mother's womb, for letting me be born to come to all this trouble.

<sup>13</sup> Why did the midwife let me live? Why did she nurse me at her breasts? <sup>14</sup> For if only I had died at birth, then I would be quiet now, asleep and at rest, <sup>15</sup> along with prime ministers and kings with all their pomp, and wealthy princes whose castles are full of rich treasures. <sup>16</sup> Oh, to have been still-born! —to have never breathed or seen the light, <sup>17</sup> For there in death the wicked cease from troubling, and there the weary are at rest. <sup>18</sup> There even prisoners are at ease, with no brutal jailer to curse them. <sup>19</sup> Both rich and poor alike are there, and the slave is free at last from his master.

<sup>20,21</sup> "Oh, why should light and life be given to those in misery and bitterness, who long for death, and it won't come; who search for death as others search for food or money?

<sup>b</sup> Literally, "Let them who can curse the sea, who know how to rouse the sea monster, curse it."

they die! <sup>23</sup> Why is a man allowed to be born if God is only going to give him a hopeless life of uselessness and frustration? <sup>24</sup> I cannot eat for sighing; my groans pour out like water. <sup>25</sup> What I always feared has happened to me. <sup>26</sup> I was not fat and lazy, yet trouble struck me down."

4 A REPLY TO Job from Eliphaz the Temanite:

<sup>2</sup> "Will you let me say a word? For who could keep from speaking out? <sup>3</sup> In the past<sup>a</sup> you have told many a troubled soul to trust in God<sup>b</sup> and have encouraged those who are weak or falling, or lie crushed upon the ground or are tempted to despair. <sup>4</sup> But now, when trouble strikes, you faint and are broken.

<sup>6</sup> "At such a time as this should not trust in God still be your confidence? Shouldn't you believe that God will care for those who are good?<sup>c</sup> <sup>7</sup> Stop and think! Have you ever known a truly good and innocent person who was punished? Experience teaches that it is those who sow sin and trouble who harvest the same. <sup>8</sup> They die beneath the hand of God. <sup>9</sup> Though they are fierce as young lions, they shall all be broken and destroyed. <sup>10</sup> Like aged, helpless lions they shall starve, and all their children shall be scattered.

<sup>12</sup> "This truth was given me in secret, as though whispered in my ear. <sup>13</sup> It came in a nighttime vision as others slept. <sup>14</sup> Suddenly, fear gripped me; I trembled and shook with terror, <sup>15</sup> as a spirit passed before my face—my hair stood up on end. <sup>16</sup> I felt the spirit's presence, but couldn't see it standing there. Then out of the dreadful silence came this voice:

<sup>18,19</sup> "If God cannot trust his own messengers (for even angels make mistakes), how much less men made of dust, who are crushed to death as easily as moths! <sup>20</sup> They are alive in the morning, but by evening they are dead, gone forever with hardly a thought from anyone. <sup>21</sup> Their candle of life is snuffed out. They die and no one cares.

5 "THEY CRY FOR help but no one listens; they turn to their gods, but none gives them aid. <sup>2</sup> They die in helpless frustration, overcome by their own anger. <sup>3</sup> Those who turn from God may be successful for the moment, but then comes sudden disaster. <sup>4</sup> Their children are cheated, with no one to defend them. <sup>5</sup> Their harvests are stolen and their wealth slakes the thirst of many others, not themselves! <sup>6</sup> Misery comes upon them to punish them for sowing seeds of sin. <sup>7</sup> Mankind heads for sin and misery as predictably as flames shoot upwards from a fire.

<sup>8</sup> "My advice to you is this: Go to God and confess your sins<sup>a</sup> to him. <sup>9</sup> For he does wonderful miracles, marvels without number. <sup>10</sup> He sends the rain upon the earth to water the fields, <sup>11</sup> and gives prosperity to the poor and humble, and takes of your ways, your hope."      a Literally, "I would seek God, and to God would I commit my cause."

sufferers to safety.

<sup>12</sup> "He frustrates the plans of crafty men. <sup>13</sup> They are caught in their own traps; he thwarts their schemes. <sup>14</sup> They grope like blind men in the daylight; they see no better in the daytime than at night.

<sup>15</sup> "God saves the fatherless and the poor from the grasp of these oppressors. <sup>16</sup> And so at last the poor have hope, and the fangs of the wicked are broken.

<sup>17</sup> "How enviable the man whom God corrects! Oh, do not despise the chastening of the Lord when you sin. <sup>18</sup> For though he wounds, he binds and heals again. <sup>19</sup> He will deliver you again and again, so that no evil can touch you.

<sup>20</sup> "He will keep you from death in famine, and from the power of the sword in time of war.

<sup>21</sup> "You will be safe from slander; no need to fear the future.

<sup>25</sup> "Your sons shall become important men; your descendants shall be as numerous as grass! <sup>26</sup> You shall live a long, good life; like standing grain, you'll not be harvested until it's time! <sup>27</sup> I have found from experience that all of this is true. For your own good, listen to my counsel."

6 JOB'S REPLY:

sand seashores. That is why I spoke so rashly. <sup>4</sup> For the Lord has struck me down with his arrows; he has sent his poisoned arrows deep within my heart. All God's terrors are arrayed against me. <sup>5,6,7</sup> When wild donkeys bray, it is because their grass is gone; oxen do not low when they have food; a man complains when there is no salt in his food. And how tasteless is the uncooked white of an egg—my appetite is gone when I look at it; I gag at the thought of eating it!

<sup>8,9</sup> "Oh, that God would grant the thing I long for most—to die beneath his hand, and be freed from his painful grip. <sup>10</sup> This, at least, gives me comfort despite all the pain—that I have not denied the words of the holy God. <sup>11</sup> Oh, why does my strength sustain me? How can I be patient till I die? <sup>12</sup> Am I unfeeling, like stone? Is my flesh made of brass? <sup>13</sup> For I am utterly helpless, without any hope.

<sup>14</sup> "One should be kind to a fainting friend, but you have accused me without the slightest fear of God. <sup>15-18</sup> My brother, you have proved as unreliable as a brook; it floods when there is ice and snow, but in hot weather, disappears. The caravans turn aside to be refreshed, but there is nothing there to drink, and so they perish. <sup>19,20,21</sup> When caravans from Tema and from Sheba stop for water there, their hopes are dashed. And so my hopes in you are dashed—you turn away from me in terror and refuse to help. <sup>22</sup> But why? Have I ever asked you for one slightest thing? Have I begged you for a present? <sup>23</sup> Have I ever asked your help? <sup>24</sup> All I want is a reasonable answer—then I will keep quiet.

Tell me, what have I done wrong?
<sup>25,26</sup> "It is wonderful to speak the truth, but your criticisms are not based on fact. Are you going to condemn me just because I impulsively cried out in desperation? <sup>27</sup> That would be like injuring a helpless orphan, or selling a friend. <sup>28</sup> Look at me! Would I lie to your face? <sup>29</sup> Stop assuming my guilt, for I am righteous. Don't be so unjust. <sup>30</sup> Don't I know the difference between right and wrong? Would I not admit it if I had sinned?

7 "HOW MANKIND MUST struggle. A man's life is long and hard, like that of a slave. <sup>2</sup> How he longs for the day to end. How he grinds on to the end of the week and his wages. <sup>3</sup> And so to me also have been allotted months of frustration, these long and weary nights. <sup>4</sup> When I go to bed I think, 'Oh, that it were morning,' and then I toss till dawn.

<sup>12</sup> "O God, am I some monster, that you never let me alone?
<sup>13,14</sup> Even when I try to forget my misery in sleep, you terrify with nightmares. <sup>15</sup> I would rather die of strangulation than go on and on like this. <sup>16</sup> I hate my life. Oh, let me alone for these few remaining days. <sup>17</sup> What is mere man that you should spend your time persecuting him? <sup>18</sup> Must you be his inquisitor every morning, and test him every moment of the day? <sup>19</sup> Why won't you let me alone—even long enough to spit?

<sup>20</sup> "Has my sin harmed you, O God, Watcher of mankind? Why have you made me your target, and made my life so heavy a burden to me? <sup>21</sup> Why not just pardon my sin and take it all away? For all so soon I'll lie down in the dust and die, and when you look for me, I shall be gone."

8 BILDAD THE SHUHITE replies to Job:

<sup>8</sup> "Read the history books and see—<sup>9</sup> for we were born but yesterday and know so little; our days here on earth are as transient as shadows. <sup>10</sup> But the wisdom of the past will teach you. The experience of others will speak to you, reminding you that <sup>11,12,13</sup> those who forget God have no hope. They are like rushes without any mire to grow in; or grass without water to keep it alive. Suddenly it begins to wither, even before it is cut. <sup>14</sup> A man without God is trusting in a spider's web. Everything he counts on will collapse. <sup>15</sup> If he counts on his home for security, it won't last. <sup>16</sup> At dawn he seems so strong and virile, like a green plant; his branches spread across the garden. <sup>17</sup> His roots are in the stream, down among the stones. <sup>18</sup> But when he disappears, he isn't even missed! <sup>19</sup> That is all he can look forward to! And others spring up from the earth to replace him!

<sup>20</sup> "But look! God will not cast away a good man, nor prosper evil-doers. <sup>21</sup> He will yet fill your mouth with laughter and your lips with shouts of joy. <sup>22</sup> Those who hate you shall be clothed with shame, and the wicked destroyed."

9 JOB'S REPLY:

<sup>1</sup> "Sure, I know all that. You're not telling me anything new. But how can a man be truly good in the eyes of God? <sup>2</sup> If God decides to argue with him, can a man answer even one question of a thousand he asks? <sup>3</sup> For God is so wise and so mighty. Who has ever opposed him successfully?

<sup>9</sup> "He does incredible miracles, too many to count. <sup>10</sup> He passes by, invisible; he moves along, but I don't see him go. <sup>12</sup> When he sends death to snatch a man away,<sup>a</sup> who can stop him? Who dares to ask him, 'What are you doing?'

<sup>13</sup> "And God does not abate his anger. The pride of man<sup>b</sup> collapses before him. <sup>14</sup> And who am I that I should try to argue with Almighty God, or even reason with him? <sup>15</sup> Even if I were sinless I wouldn't say a word. I would only plead for mercy. <sup>16</sup> And even if my prayers were answered I could scarce believe that he had heard my cry. <sup>17</sup> For he is the one who destroys, and multiplies my wounds without a cause. <sup>18</sup> He will not let me breathe, but fills me with bitter sorrows. <sup>19</sup> He alone is strong and just.

<sup>20</sup> "But I? Am I righteous? My own mouth says no. Even if I were perfect, God would prove me wicked. <sup>21</sup> And even if I am utterly innocent, I dare not think of it. I despise what I am. <sup>22</sup> Innocent or evil, it is all the same to him, for he destroys both kinds. <sup>23</sup> He will laugh when calamity crushes the innocent. <sup>24</sup> The whole earth is in the hands of the wicked. God blinds the eyes of the judges and lets them be unfair. If not he, then who?

<sup>25</sup> "My life passes swiftly away, filled with tragedy. <sup>26</sup> My years disappear like swift ships, like the eagle that swoops upon its prey.

<sup>27</sup> "If I decided to forget my complaints against God, to end my sadness and be cheerful, <sup>28</sup> then he would pour even greater sorrows upon me. For I know that you will not hold me innocent, O God, <sup>29</sup> but will condemn me. So what's the use of trying? <sup>30</sup> Even if I were to wash myself with purest water and cleanse my hands with lye to make them utterly clean, <sup>31</sup> even so you would plunge me into the ditch and mud; and even my clothing would be less filthy than you consider me to be!

<sup>32,33</sup> "And I cannot defend myself, for you are no mere man as I am. If you were, then we could discuss it fairly, but there is no umpire between us, no middle man, no mediator to bring us together. <sup>34</sup> Oh, let him stop beating me, so that I need no longer live in terror of his punishment. <sup>35</sup> Then I could speak without fear to him, and tell him boldly that I am not guilty.

10 "I AM WEARY of living. Let me complain freely. I will speak in my sorrow and bitterness. <sup>2</sup> I will say to God, 'Don't just condemn me—tell me why you are doing it.' <sup>3</sup> Does it really seem right to you to oppress and despise me, a man you have made; and to send joy and prosperity to the wicked? <sup>4-7</sup> Are you unjust<sup>a</sup> like men? Is your life so short that you must hound me for sins you know full well I've not committed? Is it because you know no one can save me from your hand?

<sup>8</sup> "You have made me, and yet you destroy me. <sup>9</sup> Oh, please remember that I'm made of dust—will you change me back again to dust so soon? <sup>10</sup> You have already poured me from bottle to bottle like milk, and curdled me like cheese. <sup>11</sup> You gave me skin and flesh and knit together bones and sinews.

<sup>12</sup> You gave me life and were so kind and loving to me, and I was preserved by your care.

<sup>13,14</sup> "Yet all the time your real motive in making me was to destroy me if I sinned; and to refuse to forgive my iniquity. <sup>15</sup> Just the slightest wickedness, and I am done for. And if I'm good, that doesn't count. I am filled with frustration. <sup>16</sup> If I start to get up off the ground, you leap upon me like a lion and quickly finish me off. <sup>17</sup> Again and again you witness against me and pour out an ever-increasing volume of wrath upon me and bring fresh armies against me.

<sup>18</sup> "Why then did you even let me be born? Why didn't you let me die at birth? <sup>19</sup> Then I would have been spared this miserable existence. I would have gone directly from the womb to the grave. <sup>20,21</sup> Can't you see how little time I have left? Oh, let me alone that I may have a little moment of comfort before I leave for the land of darkness and the shadow of death, never to return—<sup>22</sup> a land as dark as midnight, a land of the shadow of death where only confusion reigns, and where the brightest light is dark as midnight."

11 ZOPHAR THE NAAMATHITE replies to Job:

<sup>2</sup> "Shouldn't someone stem this torrent of words? Is a man proved right by all this talk? <sup>3</sup> Should I remain silent while you boast? When you mock God, shouldn't someone make you ashamed? <sup>4</sup> You claim you are pure in the eyes of God! <sup>5</sup> Oh, that God would speak and tell you what he thinks! 'Oh, that he would make you truly see yourself, for he knows everything you've done. Listen! God is doubtless punishing you far less than you deserve!

<sup>7</sup> "Do you know the mind and purposes of God? Will long searching make them known to you? Are you qualified to judge the Almighty? 'He is as faultless as heaven is high—but who are you? His mind is fathomless—what can you know in comparison? 'His Spirit is broader than the earth and wider than the sea. <sup>10</sup> If he rushes in and makes an arrest, and calls the court to order, who is going to stop him? <sup>11</sup> For he knows perfectly all the faults and sins of mankind; he sees all sin without searching.

<sup>12</sup> "Mere man is as likely to be wise as a wild donkey's colt is likely to be born a man!

<sup>13,14</sup> "Before you turn to God and stretch out your hands to him, get rid of your sins and leave all iniquity behind you. <sup>15</sup> Only then, without the spots of sin to defile you, can you walk steadily forward to God without fear. <sup>16</sup> Only then can you forget your misery. It will all be in the past. <sup>17</sup> And your life will be cloudless; any darkness will be as bright as morning!

<sup>18</sup> "You will have courage because you will have hope. You will take your time, and rest in safety. <sup>19</sup> You will lie down unafraid and many will look to you for help. <sup>20</sup> But the wicked shall find no way to escape; their only hope is death."

12 JOB'S REPLY:

erything! All wisdom will die with you! 'Well, I know a few things myself—you are no better than I am. And who doesn't know these things you've been saying? 'I, the man who begged God for help, and God answered him, have become a laughingstock to my neighbors. Yes, I, a righteous man, am now the man they scoff at. 'Meanwhile, the rich mock those in trouble and are quick to despise all those in need. 'For robbers prosper. Go ahead and provoke God—it makes no difference! He will supply your every need anyway!

<sup>7,8,9</sup> "Who doesn't know that the Lord does things like that? Ask the dumbest beast—he knows that it is so; ask the birds—they will tell you; or let the earth teach you, or the fish of the sea. <sup>10</sup> For the soul of every living thing is in the hand of God, and the breath of all mankind. <sup>11</sup> Just as my mouth can taste good food, so my mind tastes truth when I hear it. <sup>12</sup> And as you say, older men like me<sup>a</sup> are wise. They understand. <sup>13</sup> But true wisdom and power are God's. He alone knows what we should do; he understands.

<sup>17</sup> "He makes fools of counselors and judges. <sup>18</sup> He reduces kings to slaves and frees their servants. <sup>19</sup> Priests are led away as slaves. He overthrows the mighty. <sup>20</sup> He takes away the voice of orators, and the insight of the elders. <sup>21</sup> He pours contempt upon princes, and weakens the strong. <sup>22</sup> He floods the darkness with light, even the dark shadow of death. <sup>23</sup> He raises up a nation and then destroys it. He makes it great, and then reduces it to nothing. <sup>24,25</sup> He takes away the understanding of presidents and kings, and leaves them wandering, lost and groping, without a guiding light.

13 "LOOK, I HAVE seen many instances such as you describe. I understand what you are saying. <sup>2</sup> I know as much as you do. I'm not stupid. <sup>3</sup> Oh, how I long to speak directly to the Almighty. I want to talk this over with God himself. <sup>4</sup> For you are misinterpreting the whole thing. You are doctors who don't know what they are doing. <sup>5</sup> Oh, please be quiet! That would be your highest wisdom.

<sup>6</sup> "Listen to me now, to my reasons for what I think, and to my pleadings.

<sup>7</sup> "Must you go on 'speaking for God' when he never once has said the things that you are putting in his mouth? <sup>8</sup> Does God want your help if you are going to twist the truth for him? <sup>9</sup> Be careful that he doesn't find out what you are doing! Or do you think you can fool God as well as men? <sup>10</sup> No, you will be in serious trouble with him if you use lies to try to help him out. <sup>11</sup> Doesn't his majesty strike terror to your heart? How can you do this thing? <sup>12</sup> These tremendous statements you have made have about as much value as ashes. Your defense of God is as fragile as a clay vessel <sup>13</sup> "Be silent now and let me alone, that I may speak—and I am willing to face the consequences.

<sup>14</sup> Yes, I will take my life in my hand and say what I really think. <sup>15</sup> God may kill me for saying this—in fact, I expect him to. Nevertheless I am going to argue my case with him.<sup>a</sup>

<sup>16</sup> This at least will be in my favor, that I am not godless, to be rejected instantly from his presence. <sup>17</sup> Listen closely to what I am about to say. Hear me out.

<sup>18</sup> "This is my case: I know that I am righteous. <sup>19</sup> Who can argue with me over this? If you could prove me wrong I would stop defending myself and die.

<sup>20</sup> "O God, there are two things I beg you not to do to me; only then will I be able to face you. <sup>21</sup> Don't abandon me. And don't terrify me with your awesome presence. <sup>22</sup> Call to me to come—how quickly I will answer! Or let me speak to you, and you reply. <sup>23</sup> Tell me, what have I done wrong? Help me! Point out my sin to me. <sup>24</sup> Why do you turn away from me? Why hand me over to my enemy? <sup>25</sup> Would you blame a leaf that is blown about by the wind? Will you chase dry, useless straws?

<sup>26</sup> "You write bitter things against me and bring up all the follies of my youth. <sup>27,28</sup> You send me to prison and shut me in on every side. I am like a fallen, rotten tree, like a moth-eaten coat.

14 "HOW FRAIL IS man, how few his days, how full of trouble!

a Or, "Though he slay me, yet will I trust in him. I will argue my case before him."

<sup>2</sup> He blossoms for a moment like a flower—and withers; as the shadow of a passing cloud, he quickly disappears. <sup>3</sup> Must you be so harsh with frail men, and demand an accounting from them? <sup>4</sup> How can you demand purity in one born impure? <sup>5</sup> You have set mankind so brief a span of life—months is all you give him! Not one bit longer may he live. <sup>6</sup> So give him a little rest, won't you? Turn away your angry gaze and let him have a few moments of relief before he dies.

<sup>7</sup> "For there is hope for a tree—if it's cut down it sprouts again, and grows tender, new branches. <sup>8,9</sup> Though its roots have grown old in the earth, and its stump decays, it may sprout and bud again at the touch of water, like a new seedling. <sup>10</sup> But when a man dies and is buried, where does his spirit go? <sup>11,12</sup> As water evaporates from a lake, as a river disappears in drought, so a man lies down for the last time, and does not rise again until the heavens are no more; he shall not awaken, nor be roused from his sleep. <sup>13</sup> Oh, that you would hide me with the dead, and forget me there until your anger ends; but mark your calendar to think of me again!

<sup>14</sup> "If a man dies, shall he live again? This thought gives me hope, so that in all my anguish I eagerly await sweet death! <sup>15</sup> You would call and I would come, and you would reward all I do. <sup>16</sup> But now, instead, you give me so few steps upon the stage of life, and notice every mistake I make. <sup>17</sup> You bundle them all together as evidence against me.

to sand. Torrents tear away the soil. So every hope of man is worn away. <sup>20,21</sup> Always you are against him, and then he passes off the scene. You make him old and wrinkled, then send him away. He never knows it if his sons are honored; or they may fail and face disaster, but he knows it not. <sup>22</sup> For him there is only sorrow and pain."

15 THE ANSWER OF Eliphaz the Temanite:

<sup>2</sup> "You are supposed to be a wise man, and yet you give us all this foolish talk. You are nothing but a windbag. <sup>3</sup> It isn't right to speak so foolishly. What good do such words do? <sup>4,5</sup> Have you no fear of God? No reverence for him? Your sins are telling your mouth what to say! Your words are based on clever deception, <sup>6</sup> but why should I condemn you? Your own mouth does!

<sup>7,8</sup> "Are you the wisest man alive? Were you born before the hills were made? Have you heard the secret counsel of God? Are you called into his counsel room? Do you have a monopoly on wisdom? <sup>9</sup> What do you know more than we do? What do you understand that we don't? <sup>10</sup> On our side are aged men much older than your father! <sup>11</sup> Is God's comfort too little for you? Is his gentleness too rough?

<sup>12</sup> "What is this you are doing, getting carried away by your anger, with flashing eyes? <sup>13</sup> And you turn against God and say all these evil things against him. <sup>14</sup> What man in all the earth can be as pure and righteous as you claim to be? <sup>15</sup> Why, God doesn't even trust the angels! Even the heavens can't be absolutely pure compared with him! <sup>16</sup> How much less someone like you, who is corrupt and sinful, drinking in sin as a sponge soaks up water!

<sup>17,18,19</sup> "Listen, and I will answer you from my own experience, confirmed by the experience of wise men who have been told this same thing from their fathers—our ancestors to whom alone the land was given—and they have passed this wisdom to us:

<sup>23,24</sup> He wanders around begging for food. He lives in fear, distress, and anguish. His enemies conquer him as a king defeats his foes.

<sup>27,28</sup> "This wicked man is fat and rich, and has lived in conquered cities after killing off its citizens. <sup>29</sup> But he will not continue to be rich, or to extend his possessions. <sup>30</sup> No, darkness shall overtake him forever; the breath of God shall destroy him; the flames shall burn up all he has.

grape.<sup>b</sup> How little will come of his hopes! <sup>34</sup> For the godless are barren: they can produce nothing truly good. God's fire consumes them with all their possessions. <sup>35</sup> The only thing they can 'conceive' is sin, and their hearts give birth only to wickedness."

16 JOB'S REPLY:

<sup>2</sup> "I have heard all this before. What miserable comforters all of you are. <sup>3</sup> Won't you ever stop your flow of foolish words? What have I said that makes you speak so endlessly? <sup>4</sup> But perhaps I'd sermonize the same as you—if you were I and I were you. I would spout off my criticisms against you and shake my head at you. <sup>5</sup> But no! I would speak in such a way that it would help you. I would try to take away your grief.

<sup>6</sup> "But now my grief remains no matter how I defend myself; nor does it help if I refuse to speak. <sup>7</sup> For God has ground me down, and taken away my family. <sup>8</sup> O God, you have turned me to skin and bones—as a proof, they say, of my sins. <sup>9</sup> God hates me and angrily tears at my flesh; he has gnashed upon me with his teeth, and watched to snuff out any sign of life. <sup>10</sup> These 'comforters' have gaping jaws to swallow me; they slap my cheek. My enemies gather themselves against me. <sup>11</sup> And God has delivered me over to sinners, into the hands of the wicked.

<sup>12</sup> "I was living quietly until he broke me apart. He has taken me by the neck and dashed me to pieces, then hung me up as his target. <sup>11</sup> His archers surround me, letting fly their arrows, so that the ground is wet from my wounds. <sup>12</sup> Again and again he attacks me, running upon me like a giant. <sup>13</sup> Here I sit in sackcloth; and have laid all hope in the dust. <sup>14</sup> My eyes are red with weeping and on my eyelids is the shadow of death.

<sup>15</sup> "Yet I am innocent, and my prayer is pure. <sup>16</sup> O earth, do not conceal my blood. Let it protest on my behalf.

<sup>17</sup> "Yet even now the Witness to my innocence is there in heaven; my Advocate is there on high. <sup>18</sup> My friends scoff at me, but I pour out my tears to God, <sup>19</sup> pleading that he will listen as a man would listen to his neighbor. <sup>20</sup> For all so soon I must go down that road from which I shall never return.

17 "I AM SICK and near to death; the grave is ready to receive me. <sup>1</sup> I am surrounded by mockers. I see them everywhere. <sup>2</sup> Will no one anywhere confirm my innocence? But you, O God, have kept them back from understanding this. Oh, do not let them triumph. <sup>3</sup> If they accept bribes to denounce their friends, their children shall go blind.

<sup>4</sup> "He has made me a mockery among the people; they spit in my face. <sup>5</sup> My eyes are dim with weeping and I am but a shadow of my former self. <sup>6</sup> Fair-minded men are astonished when they see me.

"Yet, finally, the innocent shall come out on top, above the godless; <sup>7</sup> the righteous shall move onward and forward; those with pure hearts shall become stronger and stronger.

<sup>10</sup> "As for you—all of you please go away; for I do not find a wise man among you. <sup>11</sup> My good days are in the past. My hopes have disappeared. My heart's desires are broken. <sup>12</sup> They say that night is day and day is night; how they pervert the truth!

<sup>13,14</sup> "If I die, I go out into darkness, and call the grave my father, and the worm my mother and my sister. <sup>15</sup> Where then is my hope? Can anyone find any? <sup>16</sup> No, my hope will go down with me to the grave. We shall rest together in the dust!"

18 THE FURTHER REPLY of Bil-dad the Shuhite:

<sup>2</sup> "Who are you trying to fool? Speak some sense if you want us to answer! <sup>3</sup> Have we become like animals to you, stupid and dumb? <sup>4</sup> Just because you tear your clothes in anger, is this going to start an earthquake? Shall we all go and hide?

<sup>5</sup> "The truth remains that if you do not prosper, it is because you are wicked. And your bright flame shall be put out. <sup>6</sup> There will be darkness in every home where there is wickedness.

<sup>7</sup> "The confident stride of the wicked man will be shortened; he will realize his failing strength. <sup>8</sup> He walks into traps, and robbers will ambush him. <sup>9</sup> There is a booby-trap in every path he takes. <sup>10</sup> He has good cause for fear—his enemy is close behind him!

<sup>12</sup> "His vigor is depleted by hunger; calamity stands ready to pounce upon him. <sup>13</sup> His skin is eaten by disease. Death shall devour him. <sup>14</sup> The wealth he trusted in shall reject him, and he shall be brought down to the King of Terrors. <sup>13</sup> His home shall disappear beneath a fiery barrage of brimstone. <sup>16</sup> He shall die from the roots up, and all his branches will be lopped off.

19 THE REPLY OF Job:

<sup>1</sup> "How long are you going to trouble me, and try to break me with your words? <sup>2</sup> Ten times now you have declared I am a sinner. Why aren't you ashamed to deal with me so harshly? <sup>4</sup> And if indeed I was wrong, you have yet to prove it. <sup>5</sup> You think yourselves so great? Then prove my guilt!

<sup>6</sup> "The fact of the matter is that God has overthrown me and caught me in his net. <sup>7</sup> I scream for help and no one hears me. I shriek, but get no justice. <sup>8</sup> God has blocked my path and turned my light to darkness. <sup>9</sup> He has stripped me of my glory and removed the crown from my head. <sup>10</sup> He has broken me down on every side, and I am done for. He has destroyed all hope. <sup>11</sup> His fury burns against me; he counts me as an enemy. <sup>12</sup> He sends his troops to surround my tent.

<sup>13</sup> "He has sent away my brothers, and my friends. <sup>14</sup> My relatives have failed me; my friends have all forsaken me. <sup>15</sup> Those living in my home, even my servants, regard me as a stranger. I am like a foreigner to them. <sup>16</sup> I call my servant, but he doesn't come; I even beg him! <sup>17</sup> My own wife and brothers refuse to recognize me. <sup>18</sup> Even young children despise me. When I stand to speak, they mock.

<sup>19</sup> "My best friends abhor me. Those I loved have turned against me. <sup>20</sup> I am skin and bones and have escaped death by the skin of my teeth.

<sup>21</sup> "Oh, my friends, pity me, for the angry hand of God has touched me. <sup>22</sup> Why must you persecute me as God does? Why aren't you satisfied with my anguish? <sup>23,24</sup> Oh, that I could write my plea with an iron pen in the rock forever.

<sup>25</sup> "But as for me, I know that my Redeemer lives, and that he will stand upon the earth at last. <sup>26</sup> And I know that after this body has decayed, this body shall see God!<sup>a</sup> <sup>27</sup> Then he will be on my side! Yes, I shall see him, not as a stranger, but as a friend! What a glorious hope!

<sup>28</sup> "How dare you go on persecuting me, as though I were proven guilty? <sup>29</sup> I warn you, you yourselves are in danger of punishment for your attitude."

20 THE SPEECH OF Zophar the Naamathite:

<sup>1</sup> "I hasten to reply, for I have the answer for you. <sup>2</sup> You have tried to make me feel ashamed of myself for calling you a sinner, but my spirit won't let me stop.

a Or, "then even without my flesh I shall see God."

<sup>14</sup> "But suddenly the food he has eaten turns sour within him. <sup>15</sup> He will vomit the plunder he gorged. God won't let him keep it down. <sup>16</sup> It is like poison and death to him. <sup>17</sup> He shall not enjoy the goods he stole; they will not be butter and honey to him after all. <sup>18</sup> His labors shall not be rewarded; wealth will give him no joy. <sup>19</sup> For he has oppressed the poor and foreclosed their homes; he will never recover. <sup>20</sup> Though he was always greedy, now he has nothing; of all the things he dreamed of—none remain. <sup>21</sup> Because he stole at every opportunity, his prosperity shall not continue.

<sup>22</sup> "He shall run into trouble at the peak of his powers; all the wicked shall destroy him. <sup>23</sup> Just as he is about to fill his belly, God will rain down wrath upon him. <sup>24</sup> He will be chased and struck down. <sup>25</sup> The arrow is pulled from his body—and the glittering point comes out from his gall. The terrors of death are upon him.

21 JOB'S REPLY:

<sup>23</sup> "Listen to me; let me speak, and afterwards, mock on.

<sup>4</sup> "I am complaining about God,<sup>a</sup> not man; no wonder my spirit is so troubled. <sup>5</sup> Look at me in horror, and lay your hand upon your mouth. <sup>6</sup> Even I am frightened when I see myself. Horror takes hold upon me and I shudder.

<sup>7</sup> "The truth is that the wicked live on to a good old age, and become great and powerful. <sup>8</sup> They live to see their children grow to maturity around them, and their grandchildren, too. <sup>9</sup> Their homes are safe from every fear, and God does not punish them. <sup>10</sup> Their cattle are productive, <sup>11</sup> they have many happy children, <sup>12,13</sup> they spend their time singing and dancing. They are wealthy and need deny themselves nothing; they are prosperous to the end. <sup>14</sup> All this despite the fact that they ordered God away and wanted no part of him and his ways.

<sup>15</sup> "Who is Almighty God?" they scoff. "Why should we obey him? What good will it do us?"

<sup>16</sup> "Look, everything the wicked touch has turned to gold! But I refuse even to deal with people like that. <sup>17</sup> Yet the wicked get away with it every time. They never have trouble, and God skips them when he distributes his sorrows and anger. <sup>18</sup> Are they driven before the wind like straw? Are they carried away by the storm? Not at all!

<sup>19</sup> "Well," you say, "at least God will punish their children!" But I say that God should punish the man who sins, not his children! Let him feel the penalty himself. <sup>20</sup> Yes, let him be destroyed for his iniquity. Let him drink deeply of the anger of the Almighty. <sup>21</sup> For when he is dead, then he will never again be able to enjoy his family.

<sup>22</sup> "But who can rebuke God, the supreme Judge? <sup>23,24</sup> He destroys those who are healthy, wealthy, fat, and prosperous; <sup>25</sup> God also destroys those in deep and grinding poverty who have never known anything good. <sup>26</sup> Both alike are buried in the same dust, both eaten by the same worms.

<sup>27</sup> "I know what you are going to say— <sup>28</sup> you will tell me of rich and wicked men who came to disaster because of their sins. <sup>29</sup> But I reply, Ask anyone who has been around and he can tell you the truth, <sup>30,31,32</sup> that the evil man is usually spared in the day of calamity, and allowed to escape. No one rebukes him openly. No one repays him for what he has done. And an honor guard keeps watch at his grave. <sup>33</sup> A great funeral procession precedes and follows him as the soft earth covers him. <sup>34</sup> How can you comfort me when your whole premise is so wrong?"

22 ANOTHER ADDRESS FROM Eliphaz:

<sup>2</sup> "Is mere man of any worth to God? Even the wisest is of value only to himself! <sup>3</sup> Is it any pleasure to the Almighty if you are righteous? Would it be any gain to him if you were perfect? <sup>4</sup> Is it because you are good that he is punishing you? <sup>5</sup> Not at all! It is because of your wickedness! Your sins are endless!

<sup>6</sup> "For instance, you must have refused to loan money to needy friends unless they gave you all their clothing as a pledge—yes, you must have stripped them to the bone. <sup>7</sup> You must have refused water to the thirsty, and bread to the starving. <sup>8</sup> But no doubt you gave men of importance anything they wanted, and let the wealthy live wherever they chose. <sup>9</sup> You sent widows away without helping them, and broke the arms of orphans. <sup>10,11</sup> That is why you are now surrounded by traps and sudden fears, and darkness and waves of horror.

<sup>12</sup> "God is so great—higher than the heavens, higher than the stars. <sup>13</sup> But you reply, 'That is why he can't see what I am doing! How can he judge through the thick darkness?' <sup>14</sup> For thick clouds swirl about him so that he cannot see us. He is way up there, walking on the vault of heaven.'

<sup>15,16</sup> "Don't you realize that those treading the ancient paths of sin are snatched away in youth, and the foundations of their lives washed out forever? <sup>17</sup> For they said to God, 'Go away, God! What can you do for us?' <sup>18</sup> (God forbid that I should say a thing like that.) Yet they forgot that he had filled their homes with good things. <sup>19</sup> And now the righteous shall see them destroyed; the innocent shall laugh the wicked to scorn. <sup>20</sup> 'See,' they will say, 'the last of our enemies have been destroyed in the fire.'

<sup>21</sup> "Quit quarreling with God! Agree with him and you will have peace at last! His favor will surround you if you will only admit that you were wrong. <sup>22</sup> Listen to his instructions and store them in your heart. <sup>23</sup> If you return to God and put right all the wrong in your home, then you will be restored. <sup>24</sup> If you give up your lust for money, and throw your gold away, <sup>25</sup> then the Almighty himself shall be your treasure; he will be your precious silver!

<sup>26</sup> "Then you will delight yourself in the Lord, and look up to God. <sup>27</sup> You will pray to him, and he will hear you, and you will fulfill all your promises to him. <sup>28</sup> Whatever you wish will happen! And the light of heaven will shine upon the road ahead of you. <sup>29</sup> If you are attacked and knocked down, you will know that there is someone who will lift you up again. Yes, he will save the humble, <sup>30</sup> and help even sinners by your pure hands."

23 THE REPLY OF Job:

<sup>2</sup> "My complaint today is still a bitter one, and my punishment far more severe than my fault deserves. <sup>3</sup> Oh, that I knew where to find

God—that I could go to his throne and talk with him there. <sup>4</sup> I would tell him all about my side of this argument, and listen to his reply, and understand what he wants. <sup>5</sup> Would he merely overpower me with his greatness? No, he would listen with sympathy. <sup>6</sup> Fair and honest men could reason with him, and be acquitted by my Judge.

<sup>7</sup> "But I search in vain. I seek him here, I seek him there, and cannot find him. <sup>8</sup> I seek him in his workshop in the North, but cannot find him there; nor can I find him in the South; there, too, he hides himself. <sup>9</sup> But he knows every detail of what is happening to me; and when he has examined me, he will pronounce me completely innocent—as pure as solid gold!

<sup>11</sup> "I have stayed in God's paths, following his steps. I have not turned aside. <sup>12</sup> I have not refused his commandments but have enjoyed them more than my daily food. <sup>13</sup> Nevertheless, his mind concerning me remains unchanged, and who can turn him from his purposes? Whatever he wants to do, he does. <sup>14</sup> So he will do to me all he has planned, and there is more ahead.<sup>a</sup>

<sup>15</sup> "No wonder I am so terrified in his presence. When I think of it, terror grips me. <sup>16,17</sup> God has given me a fainting heart; he, the Almighty, has terrified me with darkness all around me, thick, impenetrable darkness everywhere.

24 "WHY DOESN'T GOD open the court and listen to my case? Why must the godly wait for him in vain? <sup>2</sup> For a crime wave has engulfed us—landmarks are moved, flocks of sheep are stolen, <sup>3</sup> and even the donkeys of the poor and fatherless are taken. Poor widows must surrender the little they have as a pledge to get a loan. <sup>4</sup> The needy are kicked aside; they must get out of the way. <sup>5</sup> Like the wild donkeys in the desert, the poor must spend all their time just getting barely enough to keep soul and body together. They are sent into the desert to search for food for their children. <sup>6</sup> They eat what they find that grows wild, and must even glean the vineyards of the wicked. <sup>7</sup> All night they lie naked in the cold, without clothing or covering. <sup>8</sup> They are wet with the showers of the mountains and live in caves for want of a home.

<sup>9</sup> "The wicked snatch fatherless children from their mother's breasts, and take a poor man's baby as a pledge before they will loan him any money or grain. <sup>10</sup> That is why they must go about naked, without clothing, and are forced to carry food while they are starving. <sup>11</sup> They are forced to press out the olive oil without tasting it, and to tread out the grape juice as they suffer from thirst. <sup>12</sup> The bones of the dying cry from the city; the wounded cry for help; yet God does not respond to their moaning.

<sup>13</sup> "The wicked rebel against the light and are not acquainted with the right and the good. <sup>14,15</sup> They are murderers who rise in the early dawn to kill the poor and needy; at night they are thieves and adulterers, waiting for the twilight 'when no one will see me,' they say. They mask their faces so no one will know them. <sup>16</sup> They break into houses at night and sleep in the daytime—they are not acquainted with the light. <sup>17</sup> The black night is their morning; they ally themselves with the terrors of the darkness.

<sup>18</sup> "But how quickly they disappear from the face of the earth. Everything they own is cursed. They leave no property for their children. <sup>19</sup> Death consumes sinners—as drought and heat consume snow. <sup>20</sup> Even the sinner's own mother shall forget him. Worms shall feed sweetly on him. No one will remember him any more. For wicked men are broken like a tree in the storm. <sup>21</sup> For they have taken advantage of the childless who have no protecting sons. They refuse to help the needy widows.

<sup>22,23</sup> "Yet sometimes<sup>a</sup> it seems as though God preserves the rich by his power, and restores them to life when anyone else would die. God gives them confidence and strength, and helps them in many ways. <sup>24</sup> But though they are very great now, yet in a moment they shall be gone like all others, cut off like heads of grain. <sup>25</sup> Can anyone claim otherwise? Who can prove me a liar and claim that I am wrong?"

25 THE FURTHER REPLY of Bil- dad the Shuhite:

<sup>2</sup> "God is powerful and dreadful. He enforces peace in heaven. <sup>3</sup> Who is able to number his hosts of angels? And his light shines down on all the earth. <sup>4</sup> How can mere man stand before God and claim to be righteous? Who in all the earth can boast that he is clean? <sup>3</sup> God is so glorious that even the moon and stars are less than nothing as compared to him. <sup>4</sup> How much less is man, who is but a worm in his sight?"

26 JOB'S REPLY:

<sup>2</sup> "What wonderful helpers you all are! And how you have encouraged me in my great need! <sup>3</sup> How you have enlightened my stupidity! What wise things you have said! <sup>4</sup> How did you ever think of all these brilliant comments?

<sup>14</sup> "These are some of the minor things he does, merely a whisper of his power. Who then can withstand his thunder?"

27 JOB'S FINAL DEFENSE:

<sup>2</sup> "I vow by the living God, who has taken away my rights, even the Almighty God who has embittered my soul, <sup>3</sup> that as long as I live, while I have breath from God, <sup>4</sup> my lips shall speak no evil, my tongue shall speak no lies. <sup>5</sup> I will never, never agree that you are right; until I die I will vow my innocence. <sup>6</sup> I am not a sinner—I repeat it again and again. My conscience is clear for as long as I live. <sup>7</sup> Those who declare otherwise are my wicked enemies. They are evil men.

<sup>8</sup> "But what hope has the godless when God cuts him off and takes away his life? <sup>9</sup> Will God listen to his cry when trouble comes upon him? <sup>10</sup> For he does not delight himself in the Almighty or pay any attention to God except in times of crisis.

<sup>11</sup> "I will teach you about God—<sup>12</sup> but really, I don't need to, for you yourselves know as much about him as I do; yet you are saying all these useless things to me.

<sup>13</sup> "This is the fate awaiting the wicked from the hand of the Almighty: <sup>14</sup> If he has a multitude of children, it is so that they will die in war, or starve to death. <sup>15</sup> Those who survive shall be brought down to the grave by disease and plague, with no one to mourn them, not even their wives.

<sup>19</sup> "He goes to bed rich, but wakes up to find that all his wealth is gone. <sup>20</sup> Terror overwhelms him, and he is blown away in the storms of the night. <sup>21</sup> The east wind carries him away, and he is gone. It sweeps him into eternity. <sup>22</sup> For God shall hurl at him unsparingly. He longs to flee from God. <sup>23</sup> Everyone will cheer at his death, and boo him into eternity.

28 "MEN KNOW HOW to mine silver and refine gold, <sup>2</sup> to dig iron from the earth and melt copper from stone. <sup>3</sup> Men know how to put light into darkness so that a mine shaft can be sunk into the earth, and the earth searched and its deep secrets explored. Into the black rock, shadowed by death, men descend on ropes, swinging back and forth.

<sup>4</sup> "Men know how to obtain food from the surface of the earth, while underneath there is fire.

<sup>13</sup> They not only don't know how to get it, but, in fact, it is not to be found among the living.

<sup>15</sup> "It cannot be bought for gold or silver, <sup>16</sup> nor for all the gold of Ophir or precious onyx stones or sapphires. <sup>17</sup> Wisdom is far more valuable than gold and glass. It cannot be bought for jewels mounted in fine gold. <sup>18</sup> Coral or crystal is worthless in trying to get it; its price is far above rubies. <sup>19</sup> Topaz from Ethiopia cannot purchase it, nor even the purest gold.

<sup>20</sup> "Then where can we get it? Where can it be found? <sup>21</sup> For it is hid from the eyes of all mankind; even the sharp-eyed birds in the sky cannot discover it.

<sup>22</sup> "But Destruction and Death speak of knowing something about it! <sup>23,24</sup> And God surely knows where it is to be found, for he looks throughout the whole earth, under all the heavens. <sup>25</sup> He makes the winds blow and sets the boundaries of the oceans. <sup>26</sup> He makes the laws of the rain and a path for the lightning. <sup>27</sup> He knows where wisdom is and declares it to all who will listen. He established it and examined it thoroughly. <sup>28</sup> And this is what he says to all mankind: 'Look, to fear the Lord is true wisdom; to forsake evil is real understanding.'

29 JOB CONTINUED:

<sup>2</sup> "Oh, for the years gone by when God took care of me, <sup>3</sup> when he lighted the way before me and I walked safely through the darkness; <sup>4</sup> yes, in my early years, when the friendship of God was felt in my home; <sup>5</sup> when the Almighty was still with me and my children were around me; <sup>6</sup> when my projects prospered, and even the rock poured out streams of olive oil to me!

<sup>7</sup> "Those were the days when I went out to the city gate and took my place among the honored elders. <sup>8</sup> The young saw me and stepped aside, and even the aged rose and stood up in respect at my coming. <sup>9</sup> The princes stood in silence and laid their hands upon their mouths. <sup>10</sup> The highest officials of the city stood in quietness. <sup>11</sup> All rejoiced in what I said. All who saw me spoke well of me.

<sup>12</sup> "For I, as an honest judge,<sup>a</sup> helped the poor in their need, and the fatherless who had no one to help them. <sup>13</sup> I helped those who were ready to perish and they blessed me. And I caused the widows' hearts to sing for joy. <sup>14</sup> All I did was just and honest, for righteousness was my clothing! <sup>15</sup> I served as eyes for the blind and feet for the lame. <sup>16</sup> I was as a father to the poor, and saw to it that even strangers received a fair trial. <sup>17</sup> I knocked out the fangs of the godless oppressors and made them drop their victims.

<sup>18</sup> "I thought, 'Surely I shall die quietly in my nest after a long, good life.' <sup>19</sup> For everything I did prospered; the dew lay all night upon my fields and watered them. <sup>20</sup> Fresh honors were constantly given me, and my abilities were constantly refreshed and renewed. <sup>21</sup> Everyone listened to me and valued my advice, and were silent until I spoke. <sup>22</sup> And after I spoke, they spoke no more, for my counsel satisfied them. <sup>23</sup> They longed for me to speak as those in drought-time long for rain. They waited eagerly with open mouths. <sup>24</sup> When they were discouraged, I smiled and that encouraged them, and lightened their spirits. <sup>25</sup> I told them what they should do, and corrected them as their chief, or as a king instructs his army, and as one who comforts those who mourn.

30 "BUT NOW THOSE younger than I deride me—young men whose fathers are less than my dogs. <sup>2</sup> Oh, they have strong backs all right, but they are useless, stupid fools. <sup>3</sup> They are gaunt with famine and have been cast out into deserts and the wastelands, desolate and gloomy. <sup>4</sup> They eat roots and leaves, <sup>5</sup> having been driven from civilization. Men shouted after them as after thieves. <sup>6</sup> So now they live in frightening ravines, and in caves, and among the rocks. <sup>7</sup> They sound like animals among the bushes, huddling together for shelter beneath the nettles. <sup>8</sup> These sons of theirs have also turned out to be fools, yes, children of no name, outcasts of civilization.

<sup>9</sup> "And now I have become the subject of their ribald song! I am a joke among them! <sup>10</sup> They despise me and won't come near me, and don't mind spitting in my face. <sup>11</sup> For God has placed my life in jeopardy. These young men, having humbled me, now cast off all restraint before me. <sup>12</sup> This rabble trip me and lay traps in my path. <sup>13</sup> They block my road and do everything they can to hasten my calamity, knowing full well that I have no one to help me. <sup>14</sup> They come at me from all directions. They rush upon me when I am down.

<sup>15</sup> "I live in terror now. They hold me in contempt and my prosperity has vanished as a cloud before a strong wind. <sup>16</sup> My heart is broken. Depression haunts my days. <sup>17</sup> My weary nights are filled with pain as though something were relentlessly gnawing at my bones. <sup>18</sup> All night long I toss and turn, and my garments bind about me. <sup>19</sup> God has thrown me into the mud. I have become as dust and ashes.

<sup>20</sup> "I cry to you, O God, but you don't answer me. I stand before you and you don't bother to look. <sup>21</sup> You have become cruel toward me, and persecute me with great power and effect. <sup>22</sup> You throw me into the whirlwind and dissolve me in the storm. <sup>23</sup> And I know that your purpose for me is death. <sup>24</sup> I expected my fall to be broken, just as one who falls stretches out his hand or cries for help in his calamity.

<sup>25</sup> "And did I not weep for those in trouble? Wasn't I deeply grieved for the needy? <sup>26</sup> I therefore looked for good to come. Evil came instead. I waited for the light. Darkness came. <sup>27</sup> My heart is troubled and restless. Waves of affliction have come upon me.

<sup>28,29</sup> "I am black, but not from sunburn. I stand up and cry to the assembly for help. [But I might as well save my breath,<sup>a</sup>] for I am considered a brother to jackals and a companion to ostriches. <sup>30</sup> My skin is black and peeling. My bones burn with fever. <sup>31</sup> The voice of joy and gladness has turned to mourning.

31 "I MADE A covenant with my eyes not to look with lust upon a girl. <sup>23</sup> I know full well that Almighty God above sends calamity on those who do. <sup>4</sup> He sees everything I do, and every step I take.

<sup>5</sup> "If I have lied and deceived—<sup>6</sup> but God knows that I am innocent—<sup>7,8</sup> or if I have stepped off God's pathway, or if my heart has lusted for what my eyes have seen, or if I am guilty of any other sin, then let someone else reap the crops I have sown and let all that I have planted be rooted out.

<sup>9</sup> "Or if I have longed for another man's wife, <sup>10</sup> then may I die, and may my wife be in another man's home, and someone else become her husband. <sup>11</sup> For lust is a shameful sin, a crime that should be punished. <sup>12</sup> It is a devastating fire that destroys to hell, and would root out all I have planted.

<sup>13</sup> "If I have been unfair to my servants, <sup>14</sup> how could I face God? What could I say when he questioned me about it? <sup>15</sup> For God made me, and made my servant too. He created us both.

<sup>16</sup> "If I have hurt the poor or caused widows to weep, <sup>17</sup> or refused food to hungry orphans—<sup>18</sup> (but we have always cared for orphans in our home, treating them as our own children)—<sup>19,20</sup> or if I have seen anyone freezing and not given him clothing, or fleece from my sheep to keep him warm, <sup>21</sup> or if I have taken advantage of an orphan because I thought I could get away with it—<sup>22</sup> if I have done any of these things, then let my arm be torn from its socket! Let my shoulder be wrenched out of place!<sup>23</sup> Rather than face the judgment sent by God; that I dread more than anything else. For if the majesty of God opposes me, what hope is there?

<sup>24</sup> "If I have put my trust in money, <sup>25</sup> if my happiness depends on wealth, <sup>26</sup> or if I have looked at the sun shining in the skies, or the moon walking down her silver pathway, <sup>27</sup> and my heart has been secretly enticed, and I have worshiped them by kissing my hand to them, <sup>28</sup> this, too, must be punished by the judges. For if I had done such things, it would mean that I denied the God of heaven.

<sup>29</sup> "If I have rejoiced at harm to an enemy—<sup>30</sup> (but actually I have never cursed anyone nor asked for revenge)—<sup>31</sup> or if any of my servants have ever gone hungry—<sup>32</sup> (actually I have never turned away even a stranger but have opened my doors to all)—<sup>33</sup> or if, like Adam, I have tried to hide my sins, <sup>34</sup> fearing the crowd and its contempt, so that I refused to acknowledge my sin and do not go out of my way to help others—<sup>35</sup> (oh, that there were someone who would listen to me and try to see my side of this argument. Look, I will sign my signature to my defense; now let the Almighty show me that I am wrong; let him approve the indictments made against me by my enemies. <sup>36</sup> I would treasure it like a crown. <sup>37</sup> Then I would tell him exactly what I have done and why, presenting my defense as one he listens to).

<sup>38</sup> "Or if my land accuses me because I stole the fruit it bears, or if I have murdered its owners to get their land for myself, <sup>40</sup> then let thistles grow on that land instead of wheat, and weeds instead of barley."

Job's words are ended.

32 THE THREE MEN refused to reply further to Job because he kept insisting on his innocence.

<sup>2</sup> Then Elihu (son of Barachel, the Buzite, of the Clan of Ram) became angry because Job refused to admit he had sinned and to acknowledge that God had just cause for punishing him. <sup>3</sup> But he was also angry with Job's three friends because they had been unable to answer Job's arguments and yet had condemned him. <sup>4</sup> Elihu had waited until now to speak because the others were older than he.

<sup>5</sup> But when he saw that they had no further reply, he spoke out angrily, <sup>6</sup> and said, "I am young and you are old, so I held back and did not dare to tell you what I think, <sup>7</sup> for those who are older are said to be wiser; <sup>8,9</sup> but it is not mere age that makes men wise. Rather, it is the spirit in a man, the breath of the Almighty which makes him intelligent. <sup>10</sup> So listen to me awhile and let me express my opinion.

<sup>11,12</sup> "I have waited all this time, listening very carefully to your arguments, but not one of them has convinced Job that he is a sinner, or has proved that he is. <sup>13</sup> And don't give me that line about 'only God can convince the sinner of his sin.' <sup>14</sup> If Job had been arguing with me, I would not answer with that kind of logic!

<sup>13</sup> "You sit there baffled, with no further replies. <sup>14</sup> Shall I then continue to wait when you are silent? <sup>15</sup> No, I will give my answer too. <sup>16</sup> For I am pent up and full of words, and the spirit within me urges me on. <sup>17</sup> I am like a wine cask without a vent! My words are ready to burst out! <sup>18</sup> I must speak to find relief, so let me give my answers. <sup>19,20</sup> Don't insist that I be cautious lest I insult someone, and don't make me flatter anyone. Let me be frank, lest God should strike me dead.

33 "PLEASE LISTEN, JOB, to what I have to say. <sup>2</sup> I have begun to speak; now let me continue. <sup>3</sup> I will speak the truth with all sincerity. <sup>4</sup> For the Spirit of God has made me, and the breath of the Almighty gives me life. <sup>5</sup> Don't hesitate to answer me if you can.

<sup>6</sup> "Look, I am the one you were wishing for, someone to stand between you and God and to be both his representative and yours. <sup>7</sup> You need not be frightened of me. I am not some person of renown to make you nervous and afraid. I, too, am made of common clay.

<sup>8</sup> "You have said it in my hearing, yes, you've said it again and again—<sup>9</sup> 'I am pure, I am innocent; I have not sinned.'<sup>10</sup> You say God is using a fine-toothed comb to try to find a single fault, and so to count you as his enemy. <sup>11</sup> 'And he puts my feet in the stocks,' you say, 'and watches every move I make.'

<sup>12</sup> "All right, here is my reply: In this very thing, you have sinned by speaking of God that way. For God is greater than man. <sup>13</sup> Why should you fight against him just because he does not give account to you of what he does?

<sup>14</sup> "For God speaks again and again, <sup>15</sup> in dreams, in visions of the night when deep sleep falls on men as they lie on their beds. <sup>16</sup> He opens their ears in times like that, and gives them wisdom and instruction, <sup>17,18</sup> causing them to change their minds, and keeping them from pride, and warning them of the penalties of sin, and keeping them from falling into some trap.

<sup>19</sup> "Or, God sends sickness and pain, even though no bone is broken, <sup>20</sup> so that a man loses all taste and appetite for food and doesn't care for even the daintiest dessert. <sup>21</sup> He becomes thin, mere skin and bones, <sup>22</sup> and draws near to death.

<sup>23,24</sup> "But if a messenger from heaven is there to intercede for him as a friend, to show him what is right, then God pities him and says,<sup>a</sup> 'Set him free. Do not make him die, for I have found a substitute.'<sup>25</sup> Then his body will become as healthy as a child's, firm and youthful again. <sup>26</sup> And when he prays to God, God will hear and answer and receive him with joy, and return him to his duties. <sup>27</sup> And he will declare to his friends, 'I sinned, but God let me go. <sup>28</sup> He did not let me die. I will go on living in the realm of light.'

<sup>29</sup> "Yes, God often does these things for man—<sup>30</sup> brings back his soul from the pit, so that he may live in the light of the living. <sup>31</sup> Mark this well, O Job. Listen to me, and let me say more. <sup>32</sup> But if you have anything to say at this point, go ahead. I want to hear it, for I am anxious to justify you.

<sup>11</sup> "But if not, then listen to me. Keep silence and I will teach you wisdom!"

<sup>1</sup> "Listen to me, you wise men. <sup>2</sup> We can choose the sounds we want to listen to; we can choose the taste we want in food, <sup>4</sup> and we should choose to follow what is right.

"But first of all we must define among ourselves what is good. <sup>3</sup> For Job has said, 'I am innocent, but God says I'm not. <sup>4</sup> I am called a liar, even though I am innocent. I am horribly punished, even though I have not sinned.'

<sup>7</sup> "Who else is as arrogant as Job? He must have spent much time with evil men, <sup>9</sup> for he said, 'Why waste time trying to please God?'

<sup>10</sup> "Listen to me, you with understanding. Surely everyone knows that God doesn't sin!

<sup>13</sup> He alone has authority over the earth and dispenses justice for the world. <sup>14</sup> If God were to withdraw his Spirit, <sup>15</sup> all life would disappear and mankind would turn again to dust.

<sup>16</sup> "Listen now and try to understand. <sup>17</sup> Could God govern if he hated justice? Are you going to condemn the Almighty Judge? <sup>18</sup> Are you going to condemn this God who says to kings and nobles, 'You are wicked and unjust'? <sup>19</sup> For he doesn't care how great a man may be, and doesn't pay any more attention to the rich than to the poor. He made them all. <sup>20</sup> In a moment they die, and at midnight great and small shall suddenly pass away, removed by no human hand.

<sup>21</sup> "For God carefully watches the goings on of all mankind; he sees them all. <sup>22</sup> No darkness is thick enough to hide evil men from his eyes, <sup>23</sup> so there is no need to wait for some great crime before a man is called before God in judgment. <sup>24</sup> Without making a federal case of it, God simply shatters the greatest of men, and puts others in their place. <sup>25</sup> He watches what they do and in a single night he overturns them, destroying them, <sup>26</sup> or openly strikes them down as wicked men. <sup>27</sup> For they turned aside from following him, <sup>28</sup> causing the cry of the poor to come to the attention of God. Yes, he hears the cries of those being oppressed. <sup>29,30</sup> Yet when he chooses not to speak, who can criticize? Again, he may prevent a vile man from ruling, thus saving a nation from ruin, and he can depose an entire nation just as easily.

<sup>31</sup> "Why don't people exclaim to their God, 'We have sinned, but we will stop'? <sup>32</sup> Or, 'We know not what evil we have done; only tell us, and we will cease at once.'

<sup>33</sup> "Must God tailor his justice to your demands? Must he change the order of the universe to suit your whims? The answer must be obvious even to you! <sup>34,35</sup> Anyone even half bright will agree with me that you, Job, are speaking like a fool. <sup>36</sup> You should be given the maximum penalty for the wicked way you have talked about God. <sup>37</sup> For now you have added rebellion, arrogance and blasphemy to your other sins."

35 ELIHU CONTINUED:

<sup>13</sup> "Do you think it is right for you to claim, 'I haven't sinned, but I'm no better off before God than if I had'?"

<sup>4</sup> "I will answer you, and all your friends too. <sup>5</sup> Look up there into the sky, high above you. <sup>6</sup> If you sin, does that shake the heavens and knock God from his throne? Even if you sin again and again, what effect will it have upon him? <sup>7</sup> Or if you are good, is this some great gift to him? <sup>8</sup> Your sins may hurt another man, or your good deeds may profit him. <sup>9,10</sup> The oppressed may shriek beneath their wrongs and groan beneath the power of the rich; yet none of them cry to God, asking, 'Where is God my Maker who gives songs in the night, <sup>11</sup> and makes us a little wiser than the animals and birds?'"

<sup>12</sup> "But when anyone does cry out this question to him, he never replies by instant punishment of the tyrants. <sup>13</sup> But it is false to say he doesn't hear those cries; <sup>14,15</sup> and it is even more false to say that he doesn't see what is going on. He does bring about justice at last, if you will only wait. But do you cry out against him because he does not instantly respond in anger? <sup>16</sup> Job, you have spoken like a fool."

36 ELIHU CONTINUED:

<sup>2</sup> "Let me go on and I will show you the truth of what I am saying. For I have not finished defending God! <sup>3</sup> I will give you many illustrations of the righteousness of my Maker. <sup>4</sup> I am telling you the honest truth, for I am a man of well-rounded knowledge.

<sup>5</sup> "God is almighty and yet does not despise anyone! And he is perfect in his understanding. <sup>6</sup> He does not reward the wicked with his blessings, but gives them their full share of punishment. <sup>7</sup> He does not ignore the good men but honors them by placing them upon eternal, kingly thrones. <sup>8</sup> If troubles come upon them, and they are enslaved and afflicted, <sup>9</sup> then he takes the trouble to point out to them the reason, what they have done that is wrong, or how they have behaved proudly. <sup>10</sup> He helps them hear his instruction to turn away from their sin.

<sup>11</sup> "If they listen and obey him, then they will be blessed with prosperity throughout their lives. <sup>12</sup> If they won't listen to him, they shall perish in battle and die because of their lack of good sense. <sup>13</sup> But the godless reap his anger. They do not even return to him when he punishes them. <sup>14</sup> They die young after lives of dissipation and depravity. <sup>15</sup> He delivers by distress! This makes them listen to him!

<sup>16</sup> "How he wanted to lure you away from danger into a wide and pleasant valley and to prosper you there. <sup>17</sup> But you are too preoccupied with your imagined grievances against others. <sup>18</sup> Watch out! Don't let your anger at others lead you into scoffing at God! Don't let your suffering embitter you at the only one who can deliver you. <sup>19</sup> Do you really think that if you shout loudly enough against God, he will be ashamed and repent? Will this put an end to your chastisement?

<sup>26</sup> "God is so great that we cannot begin to know him. No one can begin to understand eternity. <sup>27</sup> He draws up the water vapor and then distills it into rain, <sup>28</sup> which the skies pour down. <sup>29</sup> Can anyone really understand the spreading of the clouds, and the thunders within? <sup>30</sup> See how he spreads the lightning around him, and blankets the tops of the mountains. <sup>31</sup> By his fantastic powers in nature he punishes or blesses the people, giving them food in abundance. <sup>32</sup> He fills his hands with lightning bolts. He hurls each at its target. <sup>33</sup> We feel his presence in the thunder. May all sinners be warned.<sup>a</sup>

<sup>6</sup> For he directs the snow, the showers, and storm to fall upon the earth. <sup>7</sup> Man's work stops at such a time, so that all men everywhere may recognize his power. <sup>8</sup> The wild animals hide in the rocks or in their dens.

<sup>9</sup> "From the south comes the rain; from the north, the cold. <sup>10</sup> God blows upon the rivers, and even the widest torrents freeze. <sup>11</sup> He loads the clouds with moisture and they send forth his lightning. <sup>12</sup> The lightning bolts are directed by his hand, and do whatever he commands throughout the earth. <sup>13</sup> He sends the storms<sup>a</sup> as punishment, or, in his lovingkindness, to encourage.

<sup>14</sup> "Listen, O Job, stop and consider the wonderful miracles of God. <sup>15</sup> Do you know how God controls all nature, and causes the lightning to flash forth from the clouds? <sup>16,17</sup> Do you understand the balancing of the clouds with wonderful perfection and skill? Do you know why you become warm when the south wind is blowing and everything is still? <sup>18</sup> Can you spread out the gigantic mirror of the skies as he does?

<sup>19,20</sup> "You who think you know so much,<sup>a</sup> teach the rest of us how we should approach God. For we are too dull to know! With your wisdom, would we then dare to approach him? Well, does a man wish to be swallowed alive? <sup>21</sup> For as we cannot look at the sun for its brightness when the winds have cleared away the clouds, <sup>22</sup> neither can we gaze at the terrible majesty of God breaking forth upon us from heaven, clothed in dazzling splendor. <sup>23</sup> We cannot imagine the power of the Almighty, and yet he is so just and merciful that he does not destroy us. <sup>24</sup> No wonder men everywhere fear him! For he is not impressed by the world's wisest men!"

38 THEN THE LORD answered Job from the whirlwind:

<sup>2</sup> "Why are you using your ignorance to deny my providence? <sup>3</sup> Now get ready to fight, for I am going to demand some answers from you, and you must reply.

<sup>4</sup> "Where were you when I laid the foundations of the earth? Tell me, if you know so much. <sup>5</sup> Do you know how its dimensions were determined, and who did the surveying? <sup>6,7</sup> What supports its foundations, and who laid its cornerstone, as the morning stars sang together and all the angels shouted for joy?

<sup>8,9</sup> "Who decreed the boundaries of the seas when they gushed from the depths? Who clothed them with clouds and thick darkness, <sup>10</sup> and barred them by limiting their shores, <sup>11</sup> and said, 'Thus far and no farther shall you come, and here shall your proud waves stop!'

<sup>12</sup> "Have you ever once commanded the morning to appear, and caused the dawn to rise in the east?

<sup>13</sup> Have you ever told the daylight to spread to the ends of the earth, to end the night's wickedness?

<sup>14</sup> Have you ever robbed the dawn in red, <sup>15</sup> and disturbed the haunts of wicked men and stopped the arm raised to strike?

<sup>16</sup> "Have you explored the springs from which the seas come, or walked in the sources of their depths? <sup>17,18</sup> Has the location of the gates of Death been revealed to you? Do you realize the extent of the earth? Tell me about it if you know!

<sup>19</sup> "Where does the light come from, and how do you get there? Or tell me about the darkness. Where does it come from? <sup>20</sup> Can you find its boundaries, or go to its source? <sup>21</sup> But of course you know all this! For you were born before it was all created, and you are so very experienced!

<sup>22,23</sup> "Have you visited the treasures of the snow, or seen where hail is made and stored? For I have reserved it for the time when I will need it in war. <sup>24</sup> Where is the path to the distribution point of light? Where is the home of the east wind? <sup>25,26,27</sup> Who dug the valleys for the torrents of rain? Who laid out the path for the lightning, causing the rain to fall upon the barren deserts, so that the parched and barren ground is satisfied with water, and tender grass springs up?

<sup>36</sup> "Who gives intuition and instinct?" <sup>37,38</sup> Who is wise enough to number all the clouds? Who can tilt the water jars of heaven, when everything is dust and clods? <sup>39,40</sup> Can you stalk prey like a lioness, to satisfy the young lions' appetites as they lie in their dens, or lie in wait in the jungle? <sup>41</sup> Who provides for the ravens when their young cry out to God as they try to struggle up from their nest in hunger?

39 "DO YOU KNOW how mountain goats give birth? Have you ever seen them giving birth to their young? <sup>2,3</sup> Do you know how many months of pregnancy they have before they bow themselves to give birth to their young, and carry their burden no longer? <sup>4</sup> Their young grow up in the open field, then leave their parents and return to them no more.

<sup>5</sup> "Who makes the wild donkeys wild? <sup>6</sup> I have placed them in the wilderness and given them salt plains to live in. <sup>7</sup> For they hate the noise of the city and want no drivers shouting at them! <sup>8</sup> The mountain ranges are their pastureland; there they search for every blade of grass.

<sup>9</sup> "Will the wild ox be your happy servant? Will he stay beside your feeding crib? <sup>10</sup> Can you use a wild ox to plow with? Will he pull the harrow for you? <sup>11</sup> Because he is so strong, will you trust him? Will you let him decide where to work? <sup>12</sup> Can you send him out to bring in the grain from the threshing-floor?

the earth, to warm them in the dust. <sup>15</sup> She forgets that someone may step on them and crush them, or the wild animals destroy them. <sup>16</sup> She ignores her young as though they weren't her own, and is unconcerned though they die, <sup>17</sup> for God has deprived her of wisdom. <sup>18</sup> But whenever she jumps up to run, she passes the swiftest horse with its rider.

<sup>19</sup> "Have you given the horse strength, or clothed his neck with a quivering mane? <sup>20</sup> Have you made him able to leap forward like a locust? His majestic snorting is something to hear! <sup>21,22,23</sup> He paws the earth and rejoices in his strength, and when he goes to war, he is unafraid and does not run away though the arrows rattle against him, or the flashing spear and javelin. <sup>24</sup> Fiercely he paws the ground and rushes forward into battle when the trumpet blows. <sup>25</sup> At the sound of the bugle he shouts, 'Aha!' He smells the battle when far away. He rejoices at the shouts of battle and the roar of the captain's commands.

<sup>26</sup> "Do you know how a hawk soars and spreads her wings to the south? <sup>27</sup> Is it at your command that the eagle rises high upon the cliffs to make her nest? <sup>28</sup> She lives upon the cliffs, making her home in her mountain fortress. <sup>29</sup> From there she spies her prey, from a very great distance. <sup>30</sup> Her nestlings gulp down blood, for she goes wherever the slain are."

40 THE LORD WENT ON:

a Or, "Who has put wisdom in the inward parts, and given understanding to the mind?"

with the Almighty? Or will you yield? Do you—God's critic—have the answers?"

Then Job replied to God:

<sup>4</sup> "I am nothing—how could I ever find the answers? I lay my hand upon my mouth in silence. <sup>5</sup> I have said too much already."

<sup>7</sup> "Stand up like a man and brace yourself for battle. Let me ask you a question, and give me the answer. <sup>8</sup> Are you going to discredit my justice and condemn me, so that you can say you are right? <sup>9</sup> Are you as strong as God, and can you shout as loudly as he? <sup>10</sup> All right then, put on your robes of state, your majesty and splendor. <sup>11</sup> Give vent to your anger. Let it overflow against the proud. <sup>12</sup> Humiliate the haughty with a glance; tread down the wicked where they stand. <sup>13</sup> Knock them into the dust, stone-faced in death. <sup>14</sup> If you can do that, then I'll agree with you that your own strength can save you.

<sup>15</sup> "Take a look at the behemoth! I made him, too, just as I made you! He eats grass like an ox. <sup>16</sup> See his powerful loins and the muscles of his belly. <sup>17</sup> His tail is as straight as a cedar. The sinews of his thighs are tightly knit together. <sup>18</sup> His vertebrae lie straight as a tube of brass. His ribs are like iron bars. <sup>19</sup> How ferocious he is among all of God's creation, so let whoever hopes to master him bring a sharp sword! <sup>20</sup> The mountains offer their best food to him—the other wild animals on which he preys. <sup>21</sup> He lies down under the lotus plants, hidden by the reeds, <sup>22</sup> covered by their shade among the willows there beside the stream. <sup>23</sup> He is not disturbed by raging rivers, not even when the swelling Jordan rushes down upon him. <sup>24</sup> No one can catch him off guard or put a ring in his nose and lead him away.

41 "CAN YOU CATCH leviathan with a hook and line? Or put a noose around his tongue? <sup>2</sup> Can you tie him with a rope through the nose, or pierce his jaw with a spike? <sup>3</sup> Will he beg you to desist or try to flatter you from your intentions? <sup>4</sup> Will he agree to let you make him your slave for life? <sup>5</sup> Can you make a pet of him like a bird, or give him to your little girls to play with? <sup>6</sup> Do fishing partners sell him to the fish-mongers? <sup>7</sup> Will his hide be hurt by darts, or his head with a harpoon?

<sup>8</sup> "If you lay your hands upon him, you will long remember the battle that ensues, and you will never try it again! <sup>9</sup> No, it's useless to try to capture him. It is frightening even to think about it! <sup>10</sup> No one dares to stir him up, let alone try to conquer him. And if no one can stand before him, who can stand before me? <sup>11</sup> I owe no one anything. Everything under the heaven is mine.

<sup>31,32</sup> "He makes the water boil with his commotion. He churns the depths. He leaves a shining wake of froth behind him. One would think the sea was made of frost! <sup>33</sup> There is nothing else so fearless anywhere on earth. <sup>34</sup> Of all the beasts, he is the proudest—monarch of all that he sees."

42 THEN JOB REPLIED TO GOD: <sup>1</sup> "I know that you can do anything and that no one can stop you. <sup>2</sup> You ask who it is who has so foolishly denied your providence. It is I. I was talking about things I knew nothing about and did not understand, things far too wonderful for me.

<sup>3</sup> "[You said, <sup>a</sup>] 'Listen and I will speak! Let me put the questions to you! See if you can answer them!'

<sup>4</sup> "[But now I say, <sup>a</sup>] 'I had heard about you before, but now I have seen you, <sup>5</sup> and I loathe myself and repent in dust and ashes.'"

<sup>6</sup> After the Lord had finished speaking with Job, he said to Eliphaz the Temanite:

"I am angry with you and with your two friends, for you have not been right in what you have said about me, as my servant Job was. <sup>7</sup> Now take seven young bulls and seven rams and go to my servant Job and offer a burnt offering for yourselves; and my servant Job will pray for you, and I will accept his prayer on your behalf, and won't destroy you as I should because of your sin, your failure to speak rightly concerning my servant Job."

<sup>8</sup> So Eliphaz the Temanite, and Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite did as the Lord commanded them, and the Lord accepted Job's prayer on their behalf. <sup>9</sup> Then, when Job prayed for his friends, the Lord restored his wealth and happiness! In fact, the Lord gave him twice as much as before!

<sup>10</sup> Then all of his brothers, sisters, and former friends arrived and feasted with him in his home, consoling him for all his sorrow, and comforting him because of all the trials the Lord had brought upon him. And each of them brought him a gift of money, and a gold ring.

<sup>11</sup> So the Lord blessed Job at the end of his life more than at the beginning. For now he had 14,000 sheep, 6,000 camels, 1,000 teams of oxen, and 1,000 female donkeys.

<sup>13,14</sup> God also gave him seven more sons and three more daughters.<sup>b</sup>

These were the names of his daughters:

Jemima, Kezia, Keren.<sup>c</sup>

<sup>15</sup> And in all the land there were no other girls as lovely as the daughters of Job; and their father put them into his will along with their brothers.

PSALMS

1 OH, THE JOYS of those who do not follow evil men's advice, who do not hang around with sinners, scoffing at the things of God: <sup>2</sup> But they delight in doing everything God wants them to, and day and night are always meditating on his laws and thinking about ways to follow him more closely.

<sup>3</sup> They are like trees along a river bank bearing luscious fruit each season without fail. Their leaves shall never wither, and all they do shall prosper.

<sup>6</sup> For the Lord watches over all the plans and paths of godly men, but the paths of the godless lead to doom.

2 WHAT FOOLS<sup>a</sup> THE nations are to rage against the Lord! How strange that men should try to outwit God!<sup>b</sup> <sup>2</sup> For a summit conference of the nations has been called to plot against the Lord and his Messiah, Christ the King.<sup>c</sup> <sup>3</sup> "Come, let us break his chains," they say, "and free ourselves from all this slavery to God."

<sup>7</sup> His chosen one replies,<sup>d</sup> "I will reveal the everlasting purposes of God, for the Lord has said to me, 'You are my Son. This is your Coronation Day.'<sup>f</sup> Today I am giving you your glory."<sup>g</sup> <sup>8</sup> "Only ask, and I will give you all the nations of the world. <sup>9</sup> Rule them with an iron rod; smash them like clay <sup>10</sup> O kings and rulers of the earth, listen while there is time.

<sup>11</sup> Serve the Lord with reverent fear; rejoice with trembling. <sup>12</sup> Fall down before his Son and kiss his feet<sup>a</sup> before his anger is roused and you perish. I am warning you—his wrath will soon begin. But oh, the joys of those who put their trust in him!

A Psalm of David when he fled from his son Absalom

3 O LORD, SO many are against me. So many seek to harm me. I have so many enemies. <sup>2</sup> So many say that God will never help me. <sup>3</sup> But Lord, you are my shield, my glory, and my only hope. You alone can lift my head, now bowed in shame.<sup>a</sup>

<sup>4</sup> I cried out to the Lord, and he heard me from his Temple in Jerusalem.<sup>b</sup> <sup>5</sup> Then I lay down and slept in peace and woke up safely, for the Lord was watching over me. <sup>6</sup> And now, although ten thousand enemies surround me on every side, I am not afraid. <sup>7</sup> I will cry to him, "Arise, O Lord! Save me, O my God!" And he will slap them in the face, insulting<sup>a</sup> them and breaking off their teeth.

<sup>8</sup> For salvation comes from God. What joys he gives to all his people.

4 O GOD, YOU have declared me perfect in your eyes;<sup>a</sup> you have always cared for me in my distress; now hear me as I call again. Have mercy on me. Hear my prayer.

men, will you forever turn my glory into shame by worshipping these silly idols, when every claim that's made for them is false?"

<sup>3</sup> Mark this well: The Lord has set apart the redeemed for himself. Therefore he will listen to me and answer when I call to him. <sup>4</sup> Stand before the Lord in awe,<sup>b</sup> and do not sin against him. Lie quietly upon your bed in silent meditation. <sup>5</sup> Put your trust in the Lord, and offer him pleasing sacrifices.

<sup>6</sup> Many say that God will never help us. Prove them wrong,<sup>c</sup> O Lord, by letting the light of your face shine down upon us. <sup>7</sup> Yes, the gladness you have given me is far greater than their joys at harvest time as they gaze at their bountiful crops. <sup>8</sup> I will lie down in peace and sleep, for though I am alone, O Lord, you will keep me safe.

5 O LORD, HEAR me praying; listen to my plea, O God my King, for I will never pray to anyone but you. <sup>2</sup> Each morning I will look to you in heaven and lay my requests before you, praying earnestly.

<sup>3</sup> I know you get no pleasure from wickedness and cannot tolerate the slightest sin. <sup>4</sup> Therefore proud sinners will not survive your searching gaze, for how you hate their evil deeds. <sup>5</sup> You will destroy them for their lies; how you abhor all murder and deception.

<sup>7</sup> But as for me, I will come into your Temple protected by your mercy and your love; I will worship you with deepest awe.

me you would; otherwise my enemies will conquer me. Tell me clearly what to do, which way to turn. <sup>9</sup> For they cannot speak one truthful word. Their hearts are filled to the brim with wickedness. Their suggestions are full of the stench of sin and death. Their tongues are filled with flatteries to gain their wicked ends. <sup>10</sup> O God, hold them responsible. Catch them in their own traps; let them fall beneath the weight of their own transgressions, for they rebel against you.

<sup>11</sup> But make everyone rejoice who puts his trust in you. Keep them shouting for joy because you are defending them. Fill all who love you with your happiness. <sup>12</sup> For you bless the godly man, O Lord; you protect him with your shield of love.

6 NO, LORD! DON'T punish me in the heat of your anger. <sup>2</sup> Pity me, O Lord, for I am weak. Heal me, for my body is sick, <sup>3</sup> and I am upset and disturbed. My mind is filled with apprehension and with gloom. Oh, restore me soon.

<sup>4</sup> Come, O Lord, and make me well. In your kindness save me. <sup>5</sup> For if I die I cannot give you glory by praising you before my friends.<sup>a</sup> <sup>6</sup> I am worn out with pain; every night my pillow is wet with tears. <sup>7</sup> My eyes are growing old and dim with grief because of all my enemies.

<sup>8</sup> Go, leave me now, you men of evil deeds, for the Lord has heard my weeping <sup>9</sup> and my pleading. He will answer all my prayers. <sup>10</sup> All my enemies shall be suddenly dishonored, terror-stricken, and disgraced. God will turn them back in shame.

7 I AM DEPENDING on you, O Lord my God, to save me from my persecutors. <sup>2</sup> Don't let them pounce upon me as a lion would and maul me and drag me away with no one to rescue me. <sup>3</sup> It would be different, Lord, if I were doing evil things— <sup>4</sup> if I were paying back evil for good or unjustly attacking those I dislike: <sup>5</sup> Then it would be right for you to let my enemies destroy me, crush me to the ground, and trample my life in the dust.

<sup>9</sup> End all wickedness, O Lord, and bless all who truly worship God;<sup>a</sup> for you, the righteous God, look deep within the hearts of men and examine all their motives and their thoughts.

<sup>10</sup> God is my shield; he will defend me. He saves those whose hearts and lives are true and right.<sup>b</sup>

<sup>11</sup> God is a judge who is perfectly fair, and he is angry with the wicked every day. <sup>12</sup> Unless they repent, he will sharpen his sword and slay them.

He has bent and strung his bow<sup>11</sup> and fitted it with deadly arrows made from shafts of fire.

<sup>12</sup> The wicked man conceives an evil plot, labors with its dark details, and brings to birth his treachery and lies; <sup>13</sup> let him fall into his own trap. <sup>14</sup> May the violence he plans for others boomerang upon himself; let him die.

<sup>15</sup> Oh, how grateful and thankful I am to the Lord because he is so good. I will sing praise to the name of the Lord who is above all lords.

8 O LORD OUR God, the majesty and glory of your name fills all the earth and overflows the heavens. <sup>2</sup> You have taught the little children to praise you perfectly. May their example shame and silence your enemies!

<sup>3</sup> When I look up into the night skies and see the work of your fingers—the moon and the stars you have made—<sup>4</sup> I cannot understand how you can bother with mere puny man, to pay any attention to him! <sup>5</sup> And yet you have made him only a little lower than the angels,<sup>a</sup> and placed a crown of glory and honor upon his head.

<sup>9</sup> O Jehovah, our Lord, the majesty and glory of your name fills the earth.

9 O LORD, I will praise you with all my heart, and tell everyone about the marvelous things you do. <sup>2</sup> I will be glad, yes, filled with joy because of you. I will sing your praises, O Lord God above all gods.<sup>a</sup>

<sup>3</sup> My enemies will fall back and perish in your presence; <sup>4</sup> you have vindicated me; you have endorsed my work, declaring from your throne that it is good.<sup>b</sup> <sup>5</sup> You have rebuked the nations and destroyed the wicked, blotting out their names forever and ever. <sup>6</sup> O enemies of mine, you are doomed forever. The Lord will destroy your cities; even the memory of them will disappear.

<sup>7</sup> But the Lord lives on forever; he sits upon his throne to judge justly the nations of the world. <sup>8</sup> All who are oppressed may come to him. He is a refuge for them in their times of trouble. <sup>10</sup> All those who know your mercy, Lord, will count on you for help. For you have never yet forsaken those who trust in you.

<sup>11</sup> Oh, sing out your praises to the God who lives in Jerusalem.<sup>c</sup> Tell the world about his unforgettable deeds. <sup>12</sup> He who avenges murder has an open ear to those who cry to him for justice. He does not ignore the prayers of men in trouble when they call to him for help.

<sup>13</sup> And now, O Lord, have mercy on me; see how I suffer at the hands of those who hate me. Lord, snatch me back from the jaws of death. <sup>14</sup> Save me, so that I can praise you publicly before all the people at Jerusalem's<sup>d</sup> gates and rejoice that you have rescued me.

<sup>15</sup> The nations fall into the pitfalls they have dug for others; the trap they set has snapped on them. <sup>16</sup> The Lord is famous for the way he punishes the wicked in their own snares!<sup>c</sup>

<sup>17</sup> The wicked shall be sent away to hell; this is the fate of all the nations forgetting the Lord. <sup>18</sup> For the needs of the needy shall not be ignored forever; the hopes of the poor shall not always be crushed.

<sup>19</sup> O Lord, arise and judge and punish the nations; don't let them conquer you! <sup>20</sup> Make them tremble in fear; put the nations in their place until at last they know they are but puny men.

10 LORD, WHY ARE you standing aloof and far away? Why do you hide when I need you the most?

<sup>2</sup> Come and deal with all these proud and wicked men who viciously persecute the poor. Pour upon these men the evil they planned for others! <sup>3</sup> For these men brag of all their evil lusts; they revile God and congratulate those the Lord abhors, whose only goal in life is money.

<sup>4</sup> These wicked men, so proud and haughty, seem to think that God is dead.<sup>a</sup> They wouldn't think of looking for him! <sup>5</sup> Yet there is success in everything they do, and their enemies fall before them. They do not see your punishment awaiting them. <sup>6</sup> They boast that neither God nor man can ever keep them down—somehow they'll find a way!

profanity and lies and fraud. They are always boasting of their evil plans. <sup>8</sup> They lurk in dark alleys of the city and murder passersby. <sup>9</sup> Like lions they crouch silently, waiting to pounce upon the poor. Like hunters they catch their victims in their traps. <sup>10</sup> The unfortunate are overwhelmed by their superior strength and fall beneath their blows. <sup>11</sup> "God isn't watching," they say to themselves; "he'll never know!"

<sup>12</sup> O Lord, arise! O God, crush them! Don't forget the poor or anyone else in need. <sup>13</sup> Why do you let the wicked get away with this contempt for God? For they think that God will never call them to account. <sup>14</sup> Lord, you see what they are doing. You have noted each evil act. You know what trouble and grief they have caused. Now punish them. O Lord, the poor man trusts himself to you; you are known as the helper of the helpless. <sup>15</sup> Break the arms of these wicked men. Go after them until the last of them is destroyed.

<sup>16</sup> The Lord is King forever and forever. Those who follow other gods shall be swept from his land.

<sup>17</sup> Lord, you know the hopes of humble people. Surely you will hear their cries and comfort their hearts by helping them. <sup>18</sup> You will be with the orphans and all who are oppressed, so that mere earthly man will terrify them no longer.

Lord?

<sup>2</sup> For the wicked have strung their bows, drawn their arrows tight against the bowstrings, and aimed from ambush at the people of God. <sup>3</sup> "Law and order have collapsed,"<sup>b</sup> we are told. "What can the righteous do but flee?"

<sup>4</sup> But the Lord is still in his holy temple; he still rules from heaven. He closely watches everything that happens here on earth. <sup>5</sup> He puts the righteous and the wicked to the test; he hates those loving violence. <sup>6</sup> He will rain down fire and brimstone on the wicked and scorch them with his burning wind.

<sup>3,4</sup> But the Lord will not deal gently with people who act like that; he will destroy those proud liars who say, "We will lie to our hearts' content. Our lips are our own; who can stop us?" <sup>5</sup> The Lord replies, "I will arise and defend the oppressed, the poor, the needy. I will rescue them as they have longed for me to do." <sup>6</sup> The Lord's promise is sure. He speaks no careless word; all he says is purest truth, like silver seven times refined. <sup>7</sup> O Lord, we know that you will forever preserve your own from the reach of evil men, <sup>8</sup> although they prowl on every side and vileness is praised throughout the land.

13 HOW LONG WILL you forget me, Lord? Forever? How long will you look the other way when I am in need? <sup>2</sup> How long must I be hiding daily anguish in my heart? How long shall my enemy have the upper hand? <sup>3</sup> Answer me, O Lord my God; give me light in my darkness lest I die. <sup>4</sup> Don't let my enemies say, "We have conquered him!" Don't let them gloat that I am down.

<sup>5</sup> But I will always trust in you and in your mercy and shall rejoice in your salvation. <sup>6</sup> I will sing to the Lord because he has blessed me so richly.

14 THAT MAN IS a fool who says to himself, "There is no God!" Anyone who talks like that is warped and evil and cannot really be a good person at all.

<sup>2</sup> The Lord looks down from heaven on all mankind to see if there are any who are wise, who want to please God. <sup>3</sup> But no, all have strayed away; all are rotten with sin. Not one is good, not one! <sup>4</sup> They eat my people like bread and wouldn't think of praying! Don't they really know any better?

<sup>5</sup> Terror shall grip them, for God is with those who love him. <sup>6</sup> He is the refuge of the poor and humble when evildoers are oppressing them. <sup>7</sup> Oh, that the time of their rescue were already here, that God would come from Zion now to save his people. What gladness when the Lord has rescued Israel!

15 LORD, WHO MAY go and find refuge and shelter in your tabernacle up on your holy hill?

<sup>1</sup> Anyone who leads a blameless life and is truly sincere. <sup>2</sup> Anyone who refuses to slander others, does not listen to gossip, never harms his neighbor, <sup>3</sup> speaks out against sin, criticizes those committing it, commends the faithful followers of the Lord, keeps a promise even if it ruins him, <sup>4</sup> does not crush his debtors with high interest rates, and refuses to testify against the innocent despite the bribes offered him—such a man shall stand firm forever.

16 SAVE ME, O God, because I have come to you for refuge. <sup>1</sup> I said to him, "You are my Lord; I have no other help but yours." <sup>2</sup> I want the company of the godly men and women in the land; they are the true nobility. <sup>3</sup> Those choosing other gods shall all be filled with sorrow; I will not offer the sacrifices they do or even speak the names of their gods.

<sup>4</sup> The Lord himself is my inheritance, my prize. He is my food and drink, my highest joy! He guards all that is mine. <sup>5</sup> He sees that I am given pleasant brooks and meadows as my share!<sup>a</sup> What a wonderful inheritance! <sup>6</sup> I will bless the Lord who counsels me; he gives me wisdom in the night. He tells me what to do.

<sup>7</sup> I am always thinking of the Lord; and because he is so near, I never need to stumble or to fall.

<sup>8</sup> Heart, body, and soul are filled with joy. <sup>9</sup> For you will not leave me among the dead; you will not allow your beloved one to rot in the grave. <sup>10</sup> You have let me experience the joys of life and the exquisite pleasures of your own eternal presence.

17 I AM PLEADING for your help, O Lord; for I have been honest and have done what is right, and you must listen to my earnest cry! <sup>2</sup> Publicly acquit me, Lord, for you are always fair. <sup>3</sup> You have tested me and seen that I am good. You have come even in the night and found nothing amiss and know that I have told the truth. <sup>4</sup> I have followed your commands and have not gone along with cruel and evil men. <sup>5</sup> My feet have not slipped from your paths.

<sup>6</sup> Why am I praying like this? Because I know you will answer me, O God! Yes, listen as I pray. <sup>7</sup> Show me your strong love in wonderful ways, O Savior of all those seeking your help against their foes. <sup>8</sup> Protect me as you would the pupil of your eye; hide me in the shadow of your wings as you hover over me.

<sup>13,14</sup> Lord, arise and stand against them. Push them back! Come and save me from these men of the world whose only concern is earthly gain—these men whom you have filled with your treasures so that their children and grandchildren are rich and prosperous.

<sup>13</sup> But as for me, my contentment is not in wealth but in seeing you and knowing all is well between us. And when I awake in heaven, I will be fully satisfied, for I will see you face to face.

This song of David was written at a time when the Lord had delivered him from his many enemies, including Saul.

18 LORD, HOW I love you! For you have done such tremendous things for me.

<sup>2</sup> The Lord is my fort where I can enter and be safe; no one can follow me in and slay me. He is a rugged mountain where I hide; he is my Savior, a rock where none can reach me, and a tower of safety. He is my shield. He is like the strong horn of a mighty fighting bull. <sup>3</sup> All I need to do is cry to him—oh, praise the Lord—and I am saved from all my enemies!

<sup>6</sup> In my distress I screamed to the Lord for his help. And he heard me from heaven;<sup>a</sup> my cry reached his ears. <sup>7</sup> Then the earth rocked and reeled, and mountains shook and trembled. How they quaked! For he was angry. <sup>8</sup> Fierce flames leaped from his mouth, setting fire to the earth;<sup>b</sup> smoke blew from his nostrils. <sup>9</sup> He bent the heavens down and came to my defense;<sup>c</sup> thick darkness was beneath his feet. <sup>10</sup> Mounted on the cherubim,<sup>d</sup> he sped swiftly to my aid with wings of wind. <sup>11</sup> He enshrouded himself with darkness, veiling his approach with dense clouds dark as murky waters. <sup>12</sup> Suddenly the brilliance of his presence broke through the clouds with lightning<sup>e</sup> and a mighty storm of hail.

<sup>13</sup> The Lord thundered in the heavens; the God above all gods has spoken—oh, the hailstones; oh, the fire! <sup>14</sup> He flashed his fearful arrows of lightning and routed all my enemies. See how they run! <sup>15</sup> Then at your command, O Lord, the sea receded from the shore. At the blast of your breath the depths were laid bare.

<sup>16</sup> He reached down from heaven and took me and drew me out of my great trials. He rescued me from deep waters. <sup>17</sup> He delivered me from my strong enemy, from those who hated me—I who was helpless in their hands.

<sup>18</sup> On the day when I was weakest, they attacked. But the Lord held me steady. <sup>19</sup> He led me to a place of safety, for he delights in me. <sup>20</sup> The Lord rewarded me for doing right and being pure. <sup>21</sup> For I have followed his commands and have not sinned by turning back from following him. <sup>22</sup> I kept close watch on all his laws; I did not refuse a single one. <sup>23</sup> I did my best to keep them all, holding myself back from doing wrong. <sup>24</sup> And so the Lord has paid me with his blessings, for I have done what is right, and I am pure of heart. This he knows, for he watches my every step.

<sup>25</sup> Lord, how merciful you are to those who are merciful. And you do not punish those who run from evil.<sup>f</sup> <sup>26</sup> You give blessings to the pure but pain to those who leave your paths. <sup>27</sup> You deliver the humble but condemn the proud and haughty ones. <sup>28</sup> You have turned on my light! The Lord my God has made my darkness turn to light. <sup>29</sup> Now in your strength I can scale any wall, attack any troop.

<sup>30</sup> What a God he is! How perfect in every way! All his promises prove true. He is a shield for everyone who hides behind him. <sup>31</sup> For who is God except our Lord? Who but he is as a rock?

<sup>32</sup> He fills me with strength and protects me wherever I go. <sup>33</sup> He gives me the surefootedness of a mountain goat upon the crags. He leads me safely along the top of the cliffs. <sup>34</sup> He prepares me for battle and gives me strength to draw an iron<sup>g</sup> bow!

<sup>35</sup> You have given me your salvation as my shield. Your right hand, O Lord, supports me; your gentleness has made me great. <sup>36</sup> You have made wide steps beneath my feet so that I need never slip. <sup>37</sup> I chased my enemies; I caught up with them and did not turn back until all were conquered. <sup>38</sup> I pinned them to the ground; all were helpless before me. I placed my feet upon their necks. <sup>39</sup> For you have armed me with strong armor for the battle. My enemies quail before me and fall defeated at my feet. <sup>40</sup> You made them turn and run; I destroyed all who hated me. <sup>41</sup> They shouted for help but no one dared to rescue them; they cried to the Lord, but he refused to answer them. <sup>42</sup> So I crushed them fine as dust and cast them to the wind. I threw them away like sweepings from the floor. <sup>43,44,45</sup> You gave me victory in every battle. The nations came and served me. Even those I didn't know before come now and bow before me. Foreigners who have never seen me submit instantly. They come trembling from their strongholds.

<sup>46</sup> God is alive! Praise him who is the great rock of protection. <sup>47</sup> He is the God who pays back those who harm me and subdues the nations before me.

<sup>48</sup> He rescues me from my enemies; he holds me safely out of their reach and saves me from these powerful opponents. <sup>49</sup> For this, O Lord, I will praise you among the nations. <sup>50</sup> Many times you have miraculously rescued me, the king you appointed. You have been loving and kind to me and will be to my descendants.

19 THE HEAVENS ARE telling the glory of God; they are a marvelous display of his craftsmanship. <sup>2</sup> Day and night they keep on telling about God. <sup>3,4</sup> Without a sound or word, silent in the skies, their message reaches out to all the world. across the skies as radiant<sup>a</sup> as a bridegroom going to his wedding,<sup>b</sup> or as joyous as an athlete looking forward to a race!<sup>c</sup> The sun crosses the heavens from end to end, and nothing can hide from its heat.

<sup>7</sup> God's laws are perfect. They protect us, make us wise, and give us joy and light. <sup>8</sup> God's laws are pure, eternal, just.<sup>c</sup> <sup>10</sup> They are more desirable than gold. They are sweeter than honey dripping from a honeycomb. <sup>11</sup> For they warn us away from harm and give success to those who obey them.

<sup>12</sup> But how can I ever know what sins are lurking in my heart? Cleanse me from these hidden faults. <sup>13</sup> And keep me from deliberate wrongs; help me to stop doing them. Only then can I be free of guilt and innocent of some great crime.

<sup>14</sup> May my spoken words and unspoken thoughts be pleasing even to you, O Lord my Rock and my Redeemer.

20 IN YOUR DAY of trouble, may the Lord be with you! May the God of Jacob keep you from all harm. <sup>1</sup> May he send you aid from his sanctuary in Zion. <sup>2</sup> May he remember with pleasure the gifts you have given him, your sacrifices, and burnt offerings. <sup>4</sup> May he grant you your heart's desire and fulfill all your plans. <sup>5</sup> May there be shouts of joy when we hear the news of your victory, flags flying with praise to God for all that he has done for you. May he answer all your prayers!

<sup>6</sup> "God save the king"—I know he does! He hears me from highest heaven and sends great victories. <sup>7</sup> Some nations boast of armies and of weaponry, but our boast is in the Lord our God. <sup>8</sup> Those nations will collapse and perish; we will arise to stand firm and sure!

21 HOW THE KING rejoices in your strength, O Lord! How he exults in your salvation. <sup>2</sup> For you have given him his heart's desire, everything he asks you for!

<sup>3</sup> You welcomed him to the throne with success and prosperity. You set a kingly crown of purest gold upon his head. <sup>4</sup> He asked for a long, good life, and you have granted his request; the days of his life stretch on and on forever. <sup>5</sup> You have given him fame and honor. You have clothed him with splendor and majesty. <sup>6</sup> You have endowed him with eternal happiness. You have given him the unquenchable joy of your presence. <sup>7</sup> And because the king trusts in the Lord, he will never stumble, never fall; for he depends upon the steadfast love of the God who is above all gods.

<sup>8</sup> Your hand, O Lord, will find your enemies, all who hate you. <sup>9,10</sup> When you appear, they will be destroyed in the fierce fire of your presence. The Lord will destroy them and their children. <sup>11</sup> For these men plot against you, Lord, but they cannot possibly succeed.

The praises of our fathers surrounded your throne; they trusted you and you delivered them. <sup>5</sup> You heard their cries for help and saved them; they were never disappointed when they sought your aid.

<sup>6</sup> But I am a worm, not a man, scorned and despised by my own people and by all mankind. <sup>7</sup> Everyone who sees me mocks and sneers and shrugs. <sup>8</sup> "Is this the one who rolled his burden on the Lord?" they laugh. "Is this the one who claims the Lord delights in him? We'll believe it when we see God rescue him!"

<sup>9,10,11</sup> Lord, how you have helped me before!<sup>a</sup> You took me safely from my mother's womb and brought me through the years of infancy. I have depended upon you since birth; you have always been my God. Don't leave me now, for trouble is near and no one else can possibly help.

<sup>12</sup> I am surrounded by fearsome enemies, strong as the giant bulls from Bashan. <sup>13</sup> They come at me with open jaws, like roaring lions attacking their prey. <sup>14</sup> My strength has drained away like water, and all my bones are out of joint. My heart melts like wax; <sup>15</sup> my strength has dried up like sun-baked clay; my tongue sticks to my mouth, for you have laid me in the dust of death.

<sup>16</sup> The enemy, this gang of evil men, circles me like a pack of dogs; they have pierced my hands and feet. <sup>17</sup> I can count every bone in my body. See these men of evil gloat and stare; <sup>18</sup> they divide my clothes among themselves by a toss of the dice.

<sup>19</sup> O Lord, don't stay away. O God my Strength, hurry to my aid. <sup>20</sup> Rescue me from death; spare my precious life from all these evil men.<sup>b</sup> <sup>21</sup> Save me from these lions' jaws and from the horns of these wild oxen. Yes, God will answer me and rescue me.

<sup>2,3</sup> He lets me rest in the meadow grass and leads me beside the quiet streams. He restores my failing health. He helps me do what honors him the most.

<sup>4</sup> Even when walking through the dark valley of death I will not be afraid, for you are close beside me, guarding, guiding all the way.<sup>a</sup>

<sup>5</sup> You provide delicious food for me in the presence of my enemies. You have welcomed me as your guest;<sup>b</sup> blessings overflow!

<sup>6</sup> Your goodness and unfailing kindness shall be with me all of my life, and afterwards I will live with you forever in your home.

25 TO YOU, O Lord, I pray. <sup>2</sup> Don't fail me, Lord, for I am trusting you. Don't let my enemies succeed. Don't give them victory over me. <sup>3</sup> None who have faith in God will ever be disgraced for trusting him. But all who harm the innocent shall be defeated.

<sup>4</sup> Show me the path where I should go, O Lord; point out the right road for me to walk. <sup>5</sup> Lead me; teach me; for you are the God who gives me salvation. I have no hope except in you. <sup>6,7</sup> Overlook my youthful sins, O Lord! Look at me instead through eyes of mercy and forgiveness, through eyes of everlasting love and kindness.

<sup>11</sup> But Lord, my sins! How many they are. Oh, pardon them for the honor of your name.

<sup>12</sup> Where is the man who fears the Lord? God will teach him how to choose the best.

<sup>13</sup> He shall live within God's circle of blessing, and his children shall inherit the earth.

<sup>14</sup> Friendship with God is reserved for those who reverence him. With them alone he shares the secrets of his promises.

<sup>15</sup> My eyes are ever looking to the Lord for help, for he alone can rescue me. <sup>16</sup> Come, Lord, and show me your mercy, for I am helpless, overwhelmed, in deep distress;

<sup>17</sup> my problems go from bad to worse. Oh, save me from them all!

<sup>18</sup> See my sorrows; feel my pain; forgive my sins. <sup>19</sup> See how many enemies I have and how viciously they hate me! <sup>20</sup> Save me from them! Deliver my life from their power! Oh, let it never be said that I trusted you in vain!

<sup>21</sup> Assign me Godliness and Integrity as my bodyguards, for I expect you to protect me <sup>22</sup> and to ransom Israel from all her troubles.

26 DISMISS ALL THE charges against me, Lord, for I have tried to keep your laws and have trusted you without wavering. <sup>2</sup> Cross-examine me, O Lord, and see that this is so; test my motives and affections too. <sup>3</sup> For I have taken your lovingkindness and your truth as my ideals. <sup>4</sup> I do not have fellowship with tricky, two-faced men; they are false and hypocritical. <sup>5</sup> I hate the sinners' hangouts and refuse to enter them. <sup>6</sup> I wash my hands to prove my innocence and come before your altar, <sup>7</sup> singing a song of thanksgiving and telling about your miracles.

<sup>8</sup> Lord, I love your home, this shrine where the brilliant, dazzling splendor of your presence lives.

<sup>9,10</sup> Don't treat me as a common sinner or murderer who plots against the innocent and demands bribes.

<sup>12</sup> I publicly praise the Lord for keeping me from slipping and falling.

27 THE LORD IS my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear?

<sup>2</sup> When evil men come to destroy me, they will stumble and fall!

<sup>3</sup> Yes, though a mighty army marches against me, my heart shall know no fear! I am confident that God will save me.

<sup>4</sup> The one thing I want from God, the thing I seek most of all, is the privilege of meditating in his Temple, living in his presence every day of my life, delighting in his incomparable perfections and glory.

<sup>5</sup> There I'll be when troubles come. He will hide me. He will set me on a high rock <sup>6</sup> out of reach of all my enemies. Then I will bring him sacrifices and sing his praises with much joy. <sup>7</sup> Listen to my pleading, Lord! Be merciful and send the help I need.

<sup>1</sup> My heart has heard you say, "Come and talk with me, O my people." And my heart responds, "Lord, I am coming."

<sup>2</sup> Oh, do not hide yourself when I am trying to find you. Do not angrily reject your servant. You have been my help in all my trials before; don't leave me now. Don't forsake me, O God of my salvation. <sup>10</sup> For if my father and mother should abandon me, you would welcome and comfort me.

<sup>11</sup> Tell me what to do, O Lord, and make it plain because I am surrounded by waiting enemies. <sup>12</sup> Don't let them get me, Lord! Don't let me fall into their hands! For they accuse me of things I never did, and all the while are plotting cruelty. <sup>13</sup> I am expecting the Lord to rescue me again, so that once again I will see his goodness to me here in the land of the living.

<sup>14</sup> Don't be impatient. Wait for the Lord, and he will come and save you! Be brave, stouthearted and courageous. Yes, wait and he will help you.

28 I PLEAD WITH you to help me, Lord, for you are my Rock of safety. If you refuse to answer me, I might as well give up and die. <sup>2</sup> Lord, I lift my hands to heaven<sup>a</sup> and implore your help. Oh, listen to my cry.

<sup>3</sup> Don't punish me with all the wicked ones who speak so sweetly to their neighbors while planning to murder them. <sup>4</sup> Give them the punishment they so richly deserve! Measure it out to them in proportion to their wickedness; pay them back for all their evil deeds. <sup>5</sup> They care nothing for God or what he has done or what he has made; therefore God will dismantle them like old buildings, never to be rebuilt again.

<sup>6</sup> Oh, praise the Lord, for he has listened to my pleadings! <sup>7</sup> He is my strength, my shield from every danger. I trusted in him, and he helped me. Joy rises in my heart until I burst out in songs of praise to him. <sup>8</sup> The Lord protects his people and gives victory to his anointed king.

<sup>9</sup> Defend your people, Lord; defend and bless your chosen ones. Lead them like a shepherd and carry them forever in your arms.

29 PRAISE THE LORD, you angels of his; praise his glory and his strength. <sup>2</sup> Praise him for his majestic glory, the glory of his name. Come before him clothed in sacred garments.

<sup>3</sup> The voice of the Lord echoes from the clouds. The God of glory thunders through the skies. <sup>4</sup> So powerful is his voice; so full of majesty. <sup>5,6</sup> It breaks down the cedars. It splits the giant trees of Lebanon. It shakes Mount Lebanon and Mount Sirion. They leap and skip before him like young calves! <sup>7</sup> The voice of the Lord thunders through the lightning. <sup>8</sup> It resounds through the deserts and shakes the wilderness of Kadesh. <sup>9</sup> The voice of the Lord spins and topples the mighty oaks.<sup>a</sup> It strips the forests bare. They whirl and sway beneath the blast. But in his temple all are praising, "Glory, glory to the Lord."

<sup>10</sup> At the Flood, the Lord showed his control of all creation. Now he continues to unveil his power. <sup>11</sup> He will give his people strength. He will bless them with peace.

30 I WILL PRAISE you, Lord, for you have saved me from my enemies. You refuse to let them triumph over me. <sup>2</sup> O Lord my God, I pleaded with you, and you gave me my health again. <sup>3</sup> You brought me back from the brink of the grave, from death itself, and here I am alive!

<sup>4</sup> Oh, sing to him you saints of his; give thanks to his holy name. <sup>5</sup> His anger lasts a moment; his favor lasts for life! Weeping may go on all night, but in the morning there is joy.

<sup>6,7</sup> In my prosperity I said, "This is forever; nothing can stop me now! The Lord has shown me his favor. He has made me steady as a mountain." Then, Lord, you turned your face away from me and cut off your river of blessings.<sup>a</sup> Suddenly my courage was gone; I was terrified and panic-stricken. <sup>8</sup> I cried to you, O Lord; oh, how I pled: <sup>9</sup> "What will you gain, O Lord, from killing me? How can I praise you then to all my friends?<sup>a</sup> How can my dust in the grave speak out and tell the world about your faithfulness? <sup>10</sup> Hear me, Lord; oh, have pity and help me." <sup>11</sup> Then he turned my sorrow into joy! He took away my clothes of mourning and gave me gay and festive garments to rejoice in <sup>12</sup> so that I might sing glad praises to the Lord instead of lying in silence in the grave. O Lord my God, I will keep on thanking you forever!

31 LORD, I TRUST in you alone. Don't let my enemies defeat me. Rescue me because you are the God who always does what is right. <sup>2</sup> Answer quickly when I cry to you; bend low and hear my whispered<sup>a</sup> plea. Be for me a great Rock of safety from my foes. <sup>3</sup> Yes, you are my Rock and my fortress; honor your name by leading me out of this peril. <sup>4</sup> Pull me from the trap my enemies have set for me. For you alone are strong enough.<sup>b</sup> <sup>5,6</sup> Into your hand I commit my spirit.

You have rescued me, O God who keeps his promises. I worship only you; how you hate all those who worship idols, those imitation gods. <sup>7</sup> I am radiant with joy because of your mercy, for you have listened to my troubles and have seen the crisis in my soul. <sup>8</sup> You have not handed me over to my enemy, but have given me open ground in which to maneuver.

<sup>9,10</sup> O Lord, have mercy on me in my anguish. My eyes are red from weeping; my health is broken from sorrow. I am pining away with grief; my years are shortened, drained away because of sadness. My sins have sapped my strength; I stoop with sorrow and with shame.<sup>c</sup> <sup>11</sup> I am scorned by all my enemies and even more by my neighbors and friends. when I go by. <sup>12</sup> I am forgotten like a dead man, like a broken and discarded pot. <sup>13</sup> I heard the lies about me, the slanders of my enemies. Everywhere I looked I was afraid, for they were plotting against my life.

<sup>14,15</sup> But I was trusting you, O Lord. I said, "You alone are my God; my times are in your hands. Rescue me from those who hunt me down relentlessly.

<sup>16</sup> Let your favor shine again upon your servant; save me just because you are so kind! <sup>17</sup> Don't disgrace me, Lord, by not replying when I call to you for aid. But let the wicked be shamed by what they trust in; let them lie silently in their graves, <sup>18</sup> their lying lips quieted at last—the lips of these arrogant men who are accusing honest men of evil deeds."

<sup>19</sup> Oh, how great is your goodness to those who publicly declare that you will rescue them. For you have stored up great blessings for those who trust and reverence you.

<sup>20</sup> Hide your loved ones in the shelter of your presence, safe beneath your hand, safe from all conspiring men. <sup>21</sup> Blessed is the Lord, for he has shown me that his never-failing love protects me like the walls of a fort!

<sup>22</sup> I spoke too hastily when I said, "The Lord has deserted me," for you listened to my plea and answered me.

<sup>23</sup> Oh, love the Lord, all of you who are his people; for the Lord protects those who are loyal to him, but harshly punishes all who haughtily reject him. <sup>24</sup> So cheer up! Take courage if you are depending on the Lord.

32 WHAT HAPPINESS FOR those whose guilt has been forgiven! What joys when sins are covered over! What relief for those who have confessed their sins and God has cleared their record.

<sup>1</sup> There was a time when I wouldn't admit what a sinner I was.<sup>a</sup> But my dishonesty made me miserable and filled my days with frustration. "All day and all night your hand was heavy on me. My strength evaporated like water on a sunny day" until I finally admitted all my sins to you and stopped trying to hide them. I said to myself, "I will confess them to the Lord." And you forgave me! All my guilt is gone.

<sup>2</sup> Now I say that each believer should confess his sins to God when he is aware of them, while there is time to be forgiven. Judgment will not touch him<sup>b</sup> if he does.

<sup>3</sup> You are my hiding place from every storm of life; you even keep me from getting into trouble! You surround me with songs of victory. <sup>4</sup> I will instruct you (says the Lord) and guide you along the best pathway for your life; I will advise you and watch your progress. <sup>5</sup> Don't be like a senseless horse or mule that has to have a bit in its mouth to keep it in line!

<sup>6</sup> Many sorrows come to the wicked, but abiding love surrounds those who trust in the Lord. <sup>7</sup> So rejoice in him, all those who are

33 LET ALL THE joys of the godly well up in praise to the Lord, for it is right to praise him.<sup>2</sup> Play joyous melodies of praise upon the lyre and on the harp.<sup>3</sup> Compose new songs of praise to him, accompanied skillfully on the harp; sing joyfully.

<sup>4</sup> For all God's words are right, and everything he does is worthy of our trust.<sup>5</sup> He loves whatever is just and good; the earth is filled with his tender love.<sup>6</sup> He merely spoke, and the heavens were formed, and all the galaxies of stars.<sup>7</sup> He made the oceans, pouring them into his vast reservoirs.

<sup>8</sup> Let everyone in all the world—men, women and children—fear the Lord and stand in awe of him.<sup>9</sup> For when he but spoke, the world began! It appeared at his command!<sup>10</sup> And with a breath he can scatter the plans of all the nations who oppose him,<sup>11</sup> but his own plan stands forever. His intentions are the same for every generation.

<sup>12</sup> Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord, whose people he has chosen as his own.<sup>13,14,15</sup> The Lord gazes down upon mankind from heaven where he lives. He has made their hearts and closely watches everything they do.

<sup>16,17</sup> The best-equipped army cannot save a king—for great strength is not enough to save anyone. A war horse is a poor risk for winning victories—it is strong but it cannot save.

<sup>18,19</sup> But the eyes of the Lord are watching over those who fear him, who rely upon his steady love. He will keep them from death even in times of famine!<sup>20</sup> We depend upon the Lord alone to save us. Only he can help us; he protects us like a shield.<sup>21</sup> No wonder we are happy in the Lord! For we are trusting him. We trust his holy name.<sup>22</sup> Yes, Lord, let your constant love surround us, for our hopes are in you alone.

34 I WILL PRAISE the Lord no matter what happens. I will constantly speak of his glories and grace.<sup>a</sup> <sup>2</sup> I will boast of all his kindness to me. Let all who are discouraged take heart.<sup>3</sup> Let us praise the Lord together, and exalt his name.

<sup>4</sup> For I cried to him and he answered me! He freed me from all my fears.<sup>5</sup> Others too were radiant at what he did for them. Theirs was no downcast look of rejection! <sup>6</sup> This poor man cried to the Lord—and the Lord heard him and saved him out of his troubles.<sup>7</sup> For the Angel of the Lord guards and rescues all who reverence him.

<sup>8</sup> Oh, put God to the test and see how kind he is! See for yourself the way his mercies shower down on all who trust in him.<sup>9</sup> If you belong to the Lord, reverence him; for everyone who does this has everything he needs.<sup>10</sup> Even strong young lions sometimes go hungry, but those of us who reverence the Lord will never lack any good thing.

listen and let me teach you the importance of trusting and fearing the Lord. <sup>12</sup> Do you want a long, good life? <sup>13</sup> Then watch your tongue! Keep your lips from lying. <sup>14</sup> Turn from all known sin and spend your time in doing good. Try to live in peace with everyone; work hard at it.

<sup>15</sup> For the eyes of the Lord are intently watching all who live good lives, and he gives attention when they cry to him. <sup>16</sup> But the Lord has made up his mind to wipe out even the memory of evil men from the earth. <sup>17</sup> Yes, the Lord hears the good man when he calls to him for help, and saves him out of all his troubles.

<sup>18</sup> The Lord is close to those whose hearts are breaking; he rescues those who are humbly sorry for their sins. <sup>19</sup> The good man does not escape all troubles—he has them too. But the Lord helps him in each and every one. <sup>20</sup> God even protects him from accidents.

<sup>21</sup> Calamity will surely overtake the wicked; heavy penalties are meted out to those who hate the good. <sup>22</sup> But as for those who serve the Lord, he will redeem them; everyone who takes refuge in him will be freely pardoned.

35 O LORD, FIGHT those fighting me; declare war on them for their attacks on me. <sup>2</sup> Put on your armor, take your shield and protect me by standing in front. <sup>3</sup> Lift your spear in my defense, for my pursuers are getting very close. Let me hear you say that you will save me from them. <sup>4</sup> Dishonor those who are trying to kill me. Turn them back and confuse them. <sup>5</sup> Blow them away like chaff in the wind—wind sent by the Angel of the Lord. <sup>6</sup> Make their path dark and slippery before them, with the Angel of the Lord pursuing them. <sup>7</sup> For though I did them no wrong, yet they laid a trap for me and dug a pitfall in my path. <sup>8</sup> Let them be overtaken by sudden ruin, caught in their own net, and destroyed.

<sup>9</sup> But I will rejoice in the Lord. He shall rescue me! <sup>10</sup> From the bottom of my heart praise rises to him. Where is his equal in all of heaven and earth? Who else protects the weak and helpless from the strong, and the poor and needy from those who would rob them?

<sup>11</sup> These evil men swear to a lie. They accuse me of things I have never even heard about. <sup>12</sup> I do them good, but they return me harm. I am sinking down to death. <sup>13</sup> When they were ill, I mourned before the Lord in sackcloth, asking him to make them well; I refused to eat; I prayed for them with utmost earnestness, but God did not listen. <sup>14</sup> I went about sadly as though it were my mother, friend or brother who was sick and nearing death. <sup>15</sup> But now that I am in trouble they are glad; they come together in meetings filled with slander against me—I didn't even know some of those who were there. <sup>16</sup> For they gather with the worthless fellows of the town and spend their time cursing me.

<sup>17</sup> Lord, how long will you stand there, doing nothing? Act now and rescue me, for I have but one life and these young lions are out to get it. <sup>18</sup> Save me, and I will thank you publicly before the entire congregation, before the largest crowd I can find.

<sup>19</sup> Don't give victory to those who fight me without any reason! Don't let them rejoice<sup>a</sup> at my fall—let them die. <sup>20</sup> They don't talk of peace and doing good, but of plots against innocent men who are minding their own business. <sup>21</sup> They shout that they have seen me doing wrong! "Aha!" they say. "With our own eyes we saw him do it." <sup>22</sup> Lord, you know all about it. Don't stay silent! Don't desert me now!

<sup>23</sup> Rise up, O Lord my God; vindicate me. <sup>24</sup> Declare me "not guilty," for you are just.<sup>b</sup> Don't let my enemies rejoice over me in my troubles. <sup>25</sup> Don't let them say, "Aha! Our dearest wish against him will soon be fulfilled!" and, "At last we have him!" <sup>26</sup> Shame them; let these who boast against me and who rejoice at my troubles be themselves overcome by misfortune that strips them bare of everything they own. Bare them to dishonor. <sup>27</sup> But give great joy to all who wish me well. Let them shout with delight, "Great is the Lord who enjoys helping his child!"<sup>c</sup> <sup>28</sup> And I will tell everyone how great and good you are; I will praise you all day long.

36 SIN LURKS DEEP in the hearts of the wicked, forever urging them on to evil deeds. They have no fear of God to hold them back. <sup>2</sup> Instead, in their conceit, they think they can hide their evil deeds and not get caught. <sup>3</sup> Everything they say is crooked and deceitful; they are no longer wise and good. <sup>4</sup> They lie awake at night to hatch their evil plots, instead of planning how to keep away from wrong.

<sup>5</sup> Your steadfast love, O Lord, is as great as all the heavens. Your faithfulness reaches beyond the clouds. <sup>6</sup> Your justice is as solid as God's mountains. Your decisions are as full of wisdom as the oceans are with water. You are concerned<sup>a</sup> for men and animals alike. <sup>7</sup> How precious is your constant love, O God! All humanity takes refuge in the shadow of your wings. <sup>8</sup> You feed them with blessings from your own table and let them drink from your rivers of delight.

<sup>9</sup> For you are the Fountain of life; our light is from your Light. <sup>10</sup> Pour out your unfailing love on those who know you! Never stop giving your salvation<sup>b</sup> to those who long to do your will.

<sup>11</sup> Don't let these proud men trample me. Don't let their wicked hands push me around. <sup>12</sup> Look! They have fallen. They are thrown down and will not rise again.

37 NEVER ENVY THE wicked! <sup>2</sup> Soon they fade away like grass and disappear. <sup>3</sup> Trust in the Lord instead. Be kind and good to others; then you will live safely here in the land and prosper, feeding in safety.

<sup>4</sup> Be delighted with the Lord. Then he will give you all your heart's desires. <sup>5</sup> Commit everything you do to the Lord. Trust him to help you do it and he will. <sup>6</sup> Your innocence will be clear to everyone. He will vindicate you with the blazing light of justice shining down as from the noonday sun.

<sup>7</sup> Rest in the Lord; wait patiently for him to act. Don't be envious of evil men who prosper.

<sup>8</sup> Stop your anger! Turn off your wrath. Don't fret and worry—it only leads to harm. <sup>9</sup> For the wicked shall be destroyed, but those who trust the Lord shall be given every blessing. <sup>10</sup> Only a little while and the wicked shall disappear. You will look for them in vain. <sup>11</sup> But all who humble themselves before the Lord shall be given every blessing, and shall have wonderful peace.

<sup>12,13</sup> The Lord is laughing at those who plot against the godly, for he knows their judgment day is coming. <sup>14</sup> Evil men take aim to slay the poor; they are ready to butcher those who do right. <sup>15</sup> But their swords will be plunged into their own hearts and all their weapons will be broken.

<sup>16</sup> It is better to have little and be godly than to own an evil man's wealth; <sup>17</sup> for the strength of evil men shall be broken, but the Lord takes care of those he has forgiven.<sup>a</sup>

<sup>18</sup> Day by day the Lord observes the good deeds done by godly men,<sup>b</sup> and gives them eternal rewards. <sup>19</sup> He cares for them when times are hard; even in famine, they will have enough. <sup>20</sup> But evil men shall perish. These enemies of God will wither like grass, and disappear like smoke. <sup>21</sup> Evil men borrow and "cannot pay it back!"<sup>c</sup> But the good man returns what he owes with some extra besides. <sup>22</sup> Those blessed by the Lord shall inherit the earth, but those cursed by him shall die.

<sup>25</sup> I have been young and now I am old. And in all my years I have never seen the Lord forsake a man who loves him; nor have I seen the children of the godly go hungry. <sup>26</sup> Instead, the godly are able to be generous with their gifts and loans to others, and their children are a blessing.

<sup>27</sup> So if you want an eternal home, leave your evil, low-down ways and live good lives. <sup>28</sup> For the Lord loves justice and fairness; he will never abandon his people. They will be kept safe forever; but all who love wickedness shall perish.

<sup>29</sup> The godly shall be firmly planted in the land, and live there forever. <sup>30,31</sup> The godly man is a good counselor because he is just and fair and knows right from wrong.

<sup>32</sup> Evil men spy on the godly, waiting for an excuse to accuse them and then demanding their death. <sup>33</sup> But the Lord will not let these evil men succeed, nor let the godly be condemned when they are brought before the judge.

<sup>34</sup> Don't be impatient for the Lord to act! Keep traveling steadily along his pathway and in due season he will honor you with every blessing,<sup>c</sup> and you will see the wicked destroyed. <sup>35,36</sup> I myself have seen it happen: a proud and evil man, towering like a cedar of Lebanon, but when I looked again, he was gone! I searched but could not find him! <sup>37</sup> But the good man—what a different story! For the good man—the blameless, the upright, the man of peace—he has a wonderful future ahead of him. For him there is a happy ending. <sup>38</sup> But evil men shall be destroyed, and their posterity shall be cut off.

38 O LORD, DON'T punish me while you are angry! <sup>2</sup> Your arrows have struck deep; your blows are crushing me. <sup>3,4</sup> Because of your anger my body is sick, my health is broken beneath my sins. They are like a flood, higher than my head; they are a burden too heavy to bear. <sup>5,6</sup> My wounds are festering and full of pus. Because of my sins I am bent and racked with pain. My days are filled with anguish. <sup>7</sup> My loins burn with inflammation<sup>a</sup> and my whole body is diseased. <sup>8</sup> I am exhausted and crushed; I groan in despair.<sup>b</sup>

<sup>9</sup> Lord, you know how I long for my health once more. You hear my every sigh. <sup>10</sup> My heart beats wildly, my strength fails, and I am going blind. <sup>11</sup> My loved ones and friends stay away, fearing my disease. Even my own family stands at a distance.

trying to kill me. They plot my ruin and spend all their waking hours planning treachery. <sup>13,14</sup> But I am deaf to all their threats; I am silent before them as a man who cannot speak. I have nothing to say. <sup>15</sup> For I am waiting for you, O Lord my God. Come and protect me. <sup>16</sup> Put an end to their arrogance, these who gloat when I am cast down!

39 I SAID TO myself, I'm going to quit complaining! I'll keep quiet, especially when the ungodly are around me. <sup>2,3</sup> But as I stood there silently the turmoil within me grew to the bursting point. The more I mused, the hotter the fires inside. Then at last I spoke, and pled with God: <sup>4</sup> Lord, help me to realize how brief my time on earth will be. Help me to know that I am here for but a moment more. <sup>5,6</sup> My life is no longer than my hand! My whole lifetime is but a moment to you. Proud man! Frail as breath! A shadow! And all his busy rushing ends in nothing. He heaps up riches for someone else to spend. <sup>7</sup> And so,

Lord, my only hope is in you.

<sup>a</sup> Save me from being overpowered by my sins, for even fools will mock me then.

<sup>b</sup> Lord, I am speechless before you. I will not open my mouth to speak one word of complaint, for my punishment is from you.<sup>a</sup>

<sup>10</sup> Lord, don't hit me anymore—I am exhausted beneath your hand. <sup>11</sup> When you punish a man for his sins, he is destroyed, for he is as fragile as a moth-infested cloth; yes, man is frail as breath.

<sup>12</sup> Hear my prayer, O Lord; listen to my cry! Don't sit back, unmindful of my tears. For I am your guest. I am a traveler passing through the earth, as all my fathers were.

40 I WAITED PATIENTLY for God to help me; then he listened and heard my cry. <sup>2</sup> He lifted me out of the pit of despair, out from the bog and the mire, and set my feet on a hard, firm path and steadied me as I walked along. <sup>3</sup> He has given me a new song to sing, of praises to our God. Now many will hear of the glorious things he did for me, and stand in awe before the Lord, and put their trust in him. <sup>4</sup> Many blessings are given to those who trust the Lord, and have no confidence in those who are proud, or who trust in idols.

<sup>5</sup> O Lord my God, many and many a time you have done great miracles for us, and we are ever in your thoughts. Who else can do such glorious things? No one else can be compared with you. There isn't time to tell of all your wonderful deeds.

<sup>6</sup> It isn't sacrifices and offerings which you really want from your people. Burnt animals bring no special joy to your heart. But you have accepted the offer of my lifelong service.<sup>a</sup> <sup>7</sup> Then I<sup>b</sup> said, "See, I have come, just as all the prophets foretold." <sup>8</sup> And I delight to do your will, my God, for your law is written upon my heart!"

<sup>9</sup> I have told everyone the Good News that you forgive men's sins.<sup>c</sup> I have not been timid about it, as you well know, O Lord. <sup>10</sup> I have not kept this Good News<sup>c</sup> hidden in my heart, but have proclaimed your lovingkindness and truth to all the congregation.

<sup>11</sup> O Lord, don't hold back your tender mercies from me! My only hope is in your love and faithfulness. <sup>12</sup> Otherwise I perish, for problems far too big for me to solve are piled higher than my head. Meanwhile my sins, too many to count, have all caught up with me and I am ashamed to look up. My heart quails within me.

<sup>13</sup> Please, Lord, rescue me! Quick! Come and help me! <sup>14,15</sup> Confuse them! Turn them around and send them sprawling—all these who are trying to destroy me. Disgrace these scoffers with their utter failure!

<sup>16</sup> But may the joy of the Lord be given to everyone who loves him and his salvation. May they constantly exclaim, "How great God is!"

<sup>17</sup> I am poor and needy, yet the Lord is thinking about me right now! O my God, you are my helper. You are my Savior; come quickly, and save me. Please don't delay!

41 GOD BLESSES THOSE who are kind to the poor. He helps them out of their troubles. <sup>2</sup> He protects them and keeps them alive; he publicly honors them and destroys the power of their enemies. <sup>3</sup> He nurses them when they are sick, and soothes their pains and worries.<sup>a</sup>

<sup>4</sup> "O Lord," I prayed, "be kind and heal me, for I have confessed my sins." <sup>5</sup> But my enemies say, "May he soon die and be forgotten!" <sup>6</sup> They act so friendly when they come to visit me while I am sick; but all the time they hate me and are glad that I am lying there upon my bed of pain. And when they leave, they laugh and mock. <sup>7</sup> They whisper together about what they will do when I am dead. <sup>8</sup> "It's fatal, whatever it is," they say. "He'll never get out of that bed!"

<sup>9</sup> Even my best friend has turned against me—a man I completely trusted; how often we ate together. <sup>10</sup> Lord, don't you desert me! Be gracious, Lord, and make me well again so I can pay them back! <sup>11</sup> I know you are pleased with me because you haven't let my enemies triumph over me. <sup>12</sup> You have preserved me because I was honest; you have admitted me forever to your presence.

<sup>13</sup> Bless the Lord, the God of Israel, who exists from everlasting ages past—and on into everlasting eternity ahead. Amen and amen!

42 AS THE DEER pants for water, so I long for you, O God. <sup>2</sup> I thirst for God, the living God. Where can I find him to come and stand before him? <sup>3</sup> Day and night I weep for his help, and all the while my enemies taunt me. "Where is this God of yours?" they scoff.

<sup>4</sup> Take courage, my soul! Do you remember those times (but how could you ever forget them!) when you led a great procession to the Temple on festival days, singing with joy, praising the Lord? Why then be downcast? Why be discouraged and sad? Hope in God! I shall yet praise him again. Yes, I shall again praise him for his help.<sup>a</sup> <sup>6</sup> Yet I am standing here depressed and gloomy, but I will meditate upon your kindness to this lovely land where the Jordan River flows and where Mount Hermon and Mount Mizar stand. <sup>7</sup> All your waves and billows have gone over me, and floods of sorrow pour upon me like a thundering cataract.<sup>b</sup>

<sup>8</sup> Yet day by day the Lord also pours out his steadfast love upon me, and through the night I sing his songs and pray to God who gives me life.

<sup>9</sup> "O God my Rock," I cry, "why have you forsaken me? Why must I suffer these attacks from my enemies?" <sup>10</sup> Their taunts pierce me like a fatal wound; again and again they scoff, "Where is that God of yours?"<sup>11</sup> But O my soul, don't be discouraged. Don't be upset. Expect God to act! For I know that I shall again have plenty of reason to praise him for all that he will do. He is my help! He is my God!

43 O GOD, DEFEND me from the charges of these merciless, deceitful men.<sup>2</sup> For you are God, my only place of refuge. Why have you tossed me aside? Why must I mourn at the oppression of my enemies?

<sup>3</sup> Oh, send out your light and your truth—let them lead me. Let them lead me to your Temple on your holy mountain, Zion.<sup>4</sup> There I will go to the altar of God my exceeding joy, and praise him with my harp. O God—my God!<sup>5</sup> O my soul, why be so gloomy and discouraged? Trust in God! I shall again praise him for his wondrous help; he will make me smile again,<sup>a</sup> for he is my God!

44 O GOD, WE have heard of the glorious miracles you did in the days of long ago. Our forefathers have told us how you drove the heathen nations from this land and gave it all to us, spreading Israel from one end of the country to the other.<sup>1</sup> They did not conquer by their own strength and skill, but by your mighty power and because you smiled upon them and favored them.

<sup>4</sup> You are my King and my God. Decree victories for your people.<sup>5</sup> For it is only by your power and through your name that we tread down our enemies;<sup>6</sup> I do not trust my weapons. They could never save me.<sup>7</sup> Only you can give us the victory over those who hate us.

<sup>8</sup> My constant boast is God. I can never thank you enough!<sup>9</sup> And yet for a time, O Lord, you have tossed us aside in dishonor, and have not helped us in our battles.

<sup>10</sup> You have actually fought against us and defeated us before our foes. Our enemies have invaded our land and pillaged the countryside.<sup>11</sup> You have treated us like sheep in a slaughter pen, and scattered us among the nations.<sup>12</sup> You sold us for a pittance. You valued us at nothing at all.<sup>13</sup> The neighboring nations laugh and mock at us because of all the evil you have sent.

<sup>14</sup> You have made the word "Jew" a byword of contempt and shame among the nations, disliked by all.<sup>15,16</sup> I am constantly despised, mocked, taunted and cursed by my vengeful enemies.

<sup>17</sup> And all this has happened, Lord, despite our loyalty to you. We have not violated your covenant.<sup>18</sup> Our hearts have not deserted you! We have not left your path by a single step.<sup>19</sup> If we had, we could understand your punishing us in the barren wilderness and sending us into darkness and death.

<sup>20</sup> If we had turned away from worshipping our God, and were worshipping idols,<sup>21</sup> would God not know it? Yes, he knows the secrets of every heart.<sup>22</sup> But that is not our case. For we are facing death threats constantly because of serving you! We are like sheep awaiting slaughter.

sleep, O Lord! Are we cast off forever? <sup>24</sup> Why do you look the other way? Why do you ignore our sorrows and oppression? <sup>25</sup> We lie face downward in the dust.

<sup>26</sup> Rise up, O Lord, and come and help us. Save us by your constant love.

45 MY HEART IS overflowing with a beautiful thought! I will write a lovely poem to the King, for I am as full of words as the speediest writer pouring out his story.

<sup>2</sup> You are the fairest of all;
Your words are filled with grace;

God himself is blessing you forever.

<sup>3</sup> Arm yourself, O Mighty One,

So glorious, so majestic!

<sup>4</sup> And in your majesty

Go on to victory,

Defending truth, humility, and justice.

Go forth to awe-inspiring deeds!

<sup>5</sup> Your arrows are sharp

In your enemies' hearts;

They fall before you.

<sup>6</sup> Your throne, O God, endures forever.

Justice is your royal scepter.

<sup>7</sup> You love what is good

And hate what is wrong.

Therefore God, your God,

Has given you more gladness

Than anyone else.

<sup>8</sup> Your robes are perfumed with myrrh, aloes and cassia. In your inlaid palaces of ivory, lovely music is being played for your enjoyment.

<sup>17</sup> "I will cause your name to be honored in all generations; the nations of the earth will praise you forever."

46 GOD IS OUR refuge and strength, a tested help in times of trouble. <sup>2</sup> And so we need not fear even if the world blows up, and the mountains crumble into the sea. <sup>3</sup> Let the oceans roar and foam; let the mountains tremble!

<sup>4</sup> There is a river of joy flowing through the City of our God—the sacred home of the God above all gods. <sup>5</sup> God himself is living in that City; therefore it stands unmoved despite the turmoil everywhere. He will not delay his help. <sup>6</sup> The nations rant and rave in anger—but when God speaks, the earth melts in submission and kingdoms totter into ruin.

<sup>7</sup> The Commander of the armies of heaven is here among us. He, the God of Jacob, has come to rescue us. <sup>8</sup> Come, see the glorious things that our God does, how he brings ruin upon the world, <sup>9</sup> and causes wars to end throughout the earth, breaking and burning every weapon. <sup>10</sup> "Stand silent! Know that I am God! I will be honored by every nation in the world!"

<sup>11</sup> The Commander of the heavenly armies is here among us! He, the God of Jacob, has come to rescue us!

47 COME, EVERYONE, AND clap for joy! Shout triumphant praises to the Lord! <sup>2</sup> For the Lord, the God above all gods, is awesome beyond words; he is the great King of all the earth. <sup>3</sup> He subdues the nations before us, <sup>4</sup> and will personally select his choicest blessings for his Jewish people<sup>a</sup>—the very best for those he loves.

<sup>5</sup> God has ascended with a mighty shout, with trumpets blaring. <sup>6,7</sup> Sing out your praises to our God, our King. Yes, sing your highest praises to our King, the King of all the earth. Sing thoughtful praises! <sup>8</sup> He reigns above the nations, sitting on his holy throne. <sup>9</sup> The Gentile rulers of the world have joined with us in praising<sup>b</sup> him—praising<sup>b</sup> the God of Abraham—for the battle shields of all the armies of the world are his trophies. He is highly honored everywhere.

<sup>3</sup> God himself is the defender of Jerusalem.<sup>b</sup> <sup>4</sup> The kings of the earth have arrived together to inspect the city. <sup>5</sup> They marvel at the sight and hurry home again, <sup>6</sup> afraid of what they have seen; they are filled with panic like a woman in travail! <sup>7</sup> For God destroys the mightiest warships with a breath of wind. <sup>8</sup> We have heard of the city's glory—the city of our God, the Commander of the armies of heaven. And now we see it for ourselves! God has established Jerusalem forever.

<sup>9</sup> Lord, here in your Temple we meditate upon your kindness and your love. <sup>10</sup> Your name is known throughout the earth, O God. You are praised everywhere for the salvation<sup>c</sup> you have scattered throughout the world. <sup>11</sup> O Jerusalem,<sup>d</sup> rejoice! O people of Judah, rejoice! For God will see to it that you are finally treated fairly. <sup>12</sup> Go, inspect the city! Walk around and count her many towers! <sup>13</sup> Note her walls and tour her palaces, so that you can tell your children.

<sup>14</sup> For this great God is our God forever and ever. He will be our
